Typhoid fever, which, because of the present deplorable outbreak at the State hospital for the insane, has become a subject of Statewide discussion, is dealt with at length in the annual report of Dr. Henry Mitchell, secretary of the State Board of Health, for the year ending October 1, 1906, which has just been received from the printer. Relative to this disease, Dr. Mitchell says:

"Three hundred and sixty deaths were caused by typhoid fever, or 168 per 10,000 inhabitants. This is the lowest death rate from this disease which has thus far been recorded in New Jersey, and its most important indications probably relate to improvements throughout the State in both the water and milk supplies.

"The inspection of salaries, which has been actively continued for the past 10 years, has included the collection of samples of water from suspected wells, and in cases where the water has been found to be contaminated notice has been sent to the responsible parties, and many polluted sources of water supply have in this manner been removed.

"The public water supplies are being extended from year to year, and it is estimated that 70 per cent. of the inhabitants of the State are now provided with water from public works. There has been some improvement in the degree of cleanliness with which milk is collected and distributed, but very great advances in this direction may reasonably be expected from the operation of the act approved April 20, 1906, and when the more general exclusion of flies from milk rooms, kitchens and dining rooms shall be practiced, in addition to greater care concerning the consumption of uncooked food, a further reduction in the number of deaths from typhoid fever will doubtless occur.

"The fly as a carrier of disease-producing organism is coming into greater prominence, for in addition to their conveyance of typhoid fever, these insects can doubtless transport the causitive organism of other affections. For sanitary reasons, therefore, excreta and all discharges from the human body should be disposed of in a manner which will prevent contact with flies, and hospitals, kitchens and dining rooms should be screened in a manner which will effectually exclude these insects. The breeding places of flies are found in the filthiest places, and a general and wholesale cleaning up and removal of filthy accumulations, particularly including stable manure, will prevent the local propagation of the fly nuisance.

"To prevent the transmission of typhoid fever by means of celery, lettuce and other vegetables which are consumed without cooking, it is advisable that ordinances shall be made by local boards of health prohibiting the use of liquid human excreta as a fertilizer."

Regarding the vital statistics for the year of the report, Dr. Mitchell shows there were 20,572 marriages in New Jersey, and then adds: "This number exceeds that of any previous year, and probably indicates the influence upon marriage which the general prosperity among all class exerts."

The deaths for the corresponding year were 33,864, population 2,140,143, death rate 15.79 per 1,000 inhabitants. Of this low death rate Dr. Mitchell says: "This is a lower death rate than that of any preceding year, except the year 1898, when the rate was 15.14. The diminution in the annual mortality in New Jersey is shown very clearly by comparing the average death rate for the first 18 years, during which the records were tabulated (1879-7896) with the figures which have been recorded during the nine years ending December 31, 1905. During the first of these periods the average annual death rate was 19.00 per 1,000 inhabitants, while in the latter period the average rate was 16.28."

The doctor hopefully attributes this low death rate to medical science and sanitation, which has reduced materially the number of deaths, particularly to pulmonary tuberculosis, diarrhoeal diseases of children, diphtheria, typhoid fever and scarlet fever.

NEW ONE-CENT INDIAN HEAD DESIGN ON COIN

Numismatists have received with interest the announcement that new designs for United States coins by the artist, Augustus Saint Gaudens, have been accepted by the government. Three denominations will be affected, the double eagle, the eagle and the bronze cent.

A radical change is made in the design of the cent, and though the Indian head will be retained it will bear little resemblance to the old one, and is expected to be more characteristic of the head of the American Indian with real headdress instead of the present design. The present Indian head is really a Caucasian type, the face having been posed for by a little daughter of James M. Longacre, the engraver of the Philadelphia mint, who designed the present penny in 1859.

On the obverse of the eagle and double eagle the head of Liberty is retained in idealized form. On the reverse of the $20 gold piece, which was also designed by Mr. Longacre in 1849, is an erect eagle, but of new design.

More radical changes are noted in the design for the $10 gold coin. While the obverse still shows the idealized head of Liberty, on the reverse is a flying eagle, closely modeled after the pattern of the dollars and half-dollars of 1836 and 1838. Christian Gobright, who designed these coins, used as his model "Peter," the live eagle, known as "mint bird," which having its home at the mint in Philadelphia, flew all over town, returning each night to roost at the mint, and which was afterward killed by being caught in the machinery of the plant.

THE FAIR TO ECLIPSE ALL PREVIOUS EVENTS

PURSES THIS YEAR FOR TROTTING AND PACING TO AGGREGATE FULLY $6,500.

Secretary Margerum and his force of able assistants, are working like beavers in shaping matters for the annual exhibition of the Interstate Fair Association, at Trenton, and to judge from the preparations the "Big Show" will eclipse previous attractions, which is evidence that this year's fair will be a real one, indeed.

Intending exhibitors are writing for space, and this feature of the fair promises to be better than last year. The attractions this year will be of the top-notch order. It is proposed to hang up $6,500 in purses for the trotting and pacing events. Trenton is on the big fair circuit comprising ten of the leading fair associations in Eastern Pennsilvania and New Jersey.

The light harness events will take place on the last four days of the fair. Monday being reserved for special events. Secretary Margerum plans a number of surprising big events for the opening day.

The fence in front of the grandstand is being rebuilt, and in front of it will be a guard rail, which is to prevent the attendants and horse owners from swarming on the track during the progress of a race or exhibition. The grandstand has been repainted in the familiar orange and black colors.

The vaudeville attractions this year bid fair to be of the sensational order. Schreyer, the dare-devil loop-the-gap auto artist, is booked, as is Calvert, performer on the high wire and "Minting, the Marvel," who rides a unicycle up a spiral stairway. M'lle. D'Morak, a daring young Frenchwoman, is to loop-the-gap in an automobile and turn two somersaults in bridging the chasm. Wooster's hippodrome equine exhibition will be one of the real attractions. Four expert young horsewomen, riding astride, will contest in a relay horse race every afternoon. The women will have a fresh horse at the end of each half mile.

M'lle Omega, slack wire artist, and Rae and Benedetto, performers on the revolving ladder, are other acts booked. The balloon and parachute events will be more thrilling than ever. Two aeronauts will make ascensions and in descending via parachute, will make three drops. Roy Knabenshue, the world famous aerial navigator, who made a successful flight last year, will be on hand with a new ship, said to be able to attain great speed at a dizzy height.

LEWIS NIXON HAS SOME NEW PLANS

ARRANGES FOR VESSEL; ARCHITECT'S RETURN TO PERTH AMBOY YARD.

William Nixon, a brother of Lewis Nixon, has been in Perth Amboy for several days, arranging for the return of the latter to that city, to resume shipbuilding at the Ramsay yard, in which he built a fleet of gasoline-propelled scouts for the Russian navy. The yard is held by Willard P. Voorhees, receiver for the Perth Amboy Shipbuilding and Engineering Company, a corporation formed after the death of Hugh Ramsay by members of his family.

The United States Wood Preserving Company has recently vacated a part of the land formerly included in the shipyard and that will give Mr. Nixon much more room than he had when he was there before.

The prospect of activity at the Ramsay plant, equipped as it is for wooden and iron shipbuilding, is hailed with joy by Perth Amboy business men and mechanics. It will also mean a great deal to the creditors of the defunct Middlesex County Bank, the receiver of which has a claim amounting to about $60,000, which is covered by a mortgage on the shipbuilding yard property. There is a cloud upon the title, which has prevented its sale on satisfactory terms, but under a lease to Mr. Nixon the revenue derived will be added to the amount now in ban kawaiting distribution among the depositors and other creditors of the bank.

Presently he came back to me. "Jim, I must have a talk with you. Come over to my office." When we got there he turned the key and stood in front of me. His great eyes looked full into mine. In college days, gazing into their brown depths, by some magic I seemed to see the heroes and heroines of always happy-ending tales, as the child sees enchanted creatures far back in the burning Yule log flames. But there were no joyous beings in the haunted depths of Bob's eyes that day.

"Jim, you gave me an awful scare," he said brokenly. "Don't ever do it again. I have little left to live for. To be sure I have some feeling for mother, Fred, and sisters. But for you I have a love second only to that I should have felt for Beulah had I been allowed to have her. The thought, Jim, that I had wrecked your life, with all you have to live for, would have been the last straw. My life is purgatory. Beulah is only an ever-present curse to me—a ghost that rends my heart and soul, one minute with a blind frenzy to revenge her wrongs, the next with an icy remorse that I have not already done so. If I did not have her, perhaps in time I could forget; perhaps I might lay out some scheme to help poor devils whose poverty makes life unendurable, and with the millions I have taken from the main shaft of hell I might do things that would at least bring quiet to my soul; but it is impossible with the living corpse of Beulah Sands before me every minute and that devil machinery whirling in my brain all the time the song, 'Revenge her and her father, revenge yourself.' It is impossible to give it up, Jim. I must have revenge. I must stop this machinery that is smashing up more American hearts and souls each year than all the rest of earth's grinders combined. Every day I delay I become more fiendish in my desires. Jim, don't think I do not know that I have literally turned into a fiend. Whenever of late I see myself in the mirror, I shudder. When I think of what I was when your father stood us up in his office and started us in this heart-shrivelling, soul-callousing business, and what I am now, I cannot keep the madness down except with rum. You know what it means for me to say this, me who started with all the pride of a Brownley; but it is so, Jim. The other night I went home with my soul frozen with thoughts of the past and with my brain ablaze with rum, intending to end it all. I got out my revolver and woke Beulah, but as I said, 'Bob is going to kill Beulah and himself,' she laughed that sweet child's laugh and clapping her hands said, 'Bob is so good to play with Beulah,' and then I thought of that devil Reinhart and the other fiends of the 'System' being left to continue their work unhindered and I could not do it. I must have revenge; I must smash that heart-crushing machinery. Then I can go, and take Beulah with me. Now, Jim, let us have it clearly understood once and for all."

Remorse and softness were past; he was the Indian again. "I am going to wreck that hell-annex some day, and that some day will be the next time I start in. Don't argue with me, don't misunderstand me. To-day you stopped me. I don't know whether you meant what you threatened; I don't care now. It is just as well that I stopped, for the 'System's' machine will be there whenever I start in again. It loses nothing of its fiendishness, none of its destructive powers by grinding, but on the contrary, as you know, it increases its speed every day it runs. Now, Jim Randolph, I want to tell you that you must get yours and the house's affairs in such shape that you won't be hurt when I go into that human rat-pit the next time, for when I come from it the New York Stock Exchange and the 'System' will have had their spines unjointed. Yes, and I'll have their hearts out, too. Neither will ever be able to take from the American people their savings and their manhood and womanhood and give them in exchange unadulterated torment. I am going to be fair with you, Jim; this is the last time I will discuss the subject. After this you must take your chance with the rest of those who have to do with the cursed business. When I strike again, none will be spared. I will wreck 'the Street,' and the innocent will go down with the guilty, if they have any stocks on hand at that time.

"My power, Jim, is unlimited; nothing can stay it. I am not going to explain any further. You have seen me work. You must know that my power is greater than the 'System's,' and you and I and the Street have always known that the 'System' is more powerful than the government, more powerful than are the courts, legislatures, congress, and the president of the United States combined, that it absolutely controls the foundation on which they rest—the money of the nation. But my power is greater, a thousand, yes, a million times greater than theirs. Jim, they say that I have made more money than any man in the world. They say that I have five hundred millions of dollars, but the fools don't keep track of my movements. They only know that I have pulled five hundred millions from my open whirls, the ones they have had an opportunity to keep tab on. But I tell you that I have made even more in my secret deals than the amount they have seen me take. I have had my agents with my capital in every deal, every steal the 'System' has rigged up. The world has been throwing up its hands in horror because Carnegie, the blacksmith of Pittsburg, pulled off three hundred millions of swag in the Steel hold-up—yes, swag, Jim. Don't scowl as though you wanted to read me a lecture on the coarseness of my language. I have learned to call this game of ours by its right name. It is not business enterprise with earned profits as results, but pulled-off tricks with bags of loot—black-jack swag—for their end.

"I got away with three hundred millions when Steel slumped from 105 to 50 and from 50 to 8, and no one knew I'd made a dollar. You and 'the Street' read every morning last year the 'guesses' as to who could be rounding up hundreds of millions on the slump. The papers and the market letters one morning said it was Standard Oil; the next, that it was Morgan; then it was Frick, Schwab, Gates, and so on down through the list. Of course, none of them denied; it is capital to all these knights of the road to be making millions in the minds of the world, even though they never get any of the money. Dick Turpin and Jonathan Wild never were fonder of having the daring hold-ups that other highwaymen perpetrated laid to their doors, than are these modern bandits of being credited with ruthless deeds, that they did not commit. But Jim, 'twas I who sold Pennsylvania every morning for a year, while the selling was explained by the press as 'Cassatt cutting down Gould's telegraph poles. Gould and old man Rockefeller selling Pennsylvania to get even.' Jim Randolph, I have to-day a billion dollars, not the Rockefeller or Carnegie kind, but a real billion. If I had no other power but the power to call to-morrow for that billion in cash, it would be sufficient to lay in waste the financial world before to-morrow night. You are welcome, Jim, to any part of that billion, and the more you take the happier you will make me, but when I strike in again, don't attempt to stay me, for it will do no good."

Shortly after this talk Bob left for Europe with Beulah. A great German expert on brain disorders had held out hope that a six month's treatment at his sanitarium in Berlin might aid in restoring her mind. They returned the following August. The trip had been fruitless. It was plain to me that Bob was the same hopelessly desperate man as when he left, more hopeless, more desperate if anything than when he warned me of his determination.

When he left for Europe "the Street" breathed more freely, and as time went by and there was no sign of his confidence-disturbing influence in the market, the "System" began to bring out its deferred deals. Times were ripe for setting up the most wildly inflated stock lamb-shearing traps. It had been advertised throughout the world that Tom Reinhart, now a two-hundred-time millionaire, was to consolidate his and many other enterprises into one gigantic trust with twelve billions of capital. His Union and Southern Pacific railroads, his Southern lines, together with his steamship company and lead, iron, and copper mines, were to be merged with the steel, traction, gas, and other enterprises he owned jointly with "Standard Oil." Some of the railroads owned by Rockefeller and his pals, in which Reinhart had no part, were to go in too, and with these was to unite that mother hog of them all, "Standard Oil" itself. The trust was to be an enormous company, the like of which had until then not even been dreamed of by the most daring stock manipulators. The "System's" banks, as well as trust and insurance companies throughout the country, had for a long time been getting into shape by concentrating the money of the country for this monster trust. It was newspaper and news bureau gossip that Reinhart and his crowd had bought millions of shares of the different stocks involved in the deal, and it was common knowledge that upon its successful completion Reinhart's fortune would be in the neighborhood of a billion. On October 1st the certificate of the Anti-People's Trust, $12,000,000,000 capital, 120,000,000 shares, were listed upon the New York, London, and Boston Stock Exchanges, and the German and French Bourses, and trading in them started off fast and furious at 106. The claim that one billion of the twelve billions capital had been set aside to be used in protecting and manipulating the stock in the market, had been so widely advertised that even the most daring plunger did not think of selling it short.

It was evident to all in the stock-gambling world that this was to be the "System's" grand coup, that at its completion the masses would be rudely awakened to a realization that their savings were invested in the combined American industries at vastly inflated values, that the few had all the real money, and that any attempt upon the people's part to regulate and control the new system of robbery, would be fraught with unparalleled disaster—not to the "System," but to the people.

Since Bob's return from Europe I had seen him but a few times. Up to October 1st he had not been near the Stock Exchange or "the Street." Shortly after the listing of the "People Be Damned," as "the Street" had dubbed the new trust, he began to show up at his office regularly. This was the condition of affairs when Fred Brownley called me up on the telephone, as I related at the beginning of my story which I did not realize I had been so long in telling.

My thoughts had been chasing each other with lightning-like rapidity back over the last five years and the 15 before them, and each thought deepened the black mist over my present mental vision. In the midst of my reflections my telephone rang again.

"Mr. Randolph, for Heaven's sake have you done nothing yet?" It was Fred Brownley's voice. "Things are frightful here. Bob's brokers are selling stocks at five and ten thousand-lot clips. Barry Conant is leading Reinhart's forces. It is said he has the pool's protection order in Anti-People's and that it is unlimited, but Bob has the Reinhart crowd pretty badly scared. Swan has just finished giving Conant a hundred thousand off the reel in 10,000 lots, and he told me a moment ago he was going to get Bob himself to face Barry Conant. They're down 20 points on the average, although they haven't let Anti-People's break an eighth yet. They have it pegged at 106, but there is an ugly rumor just in that Bob, under cover of a general attack, is unloading Anti-People's on to the Reinhart wing for Rogers and Rockefeller, and the rumor is getting in its work. Even Barry Conant is growing a bit anxious. The latest talk is that Reinhart is borrowing hundreds of millions on Anti-People's, and that his loans are being called in all directions. Do you know Reinhart is at his place in Virginia and cannot get here before to-morrow night? If Bob breaks through Anti-People's peg, it will be the worst crash yet."

"All right, Fred," I answered. "I will go over to Bob's right now. I hate to do it, but there is no other hope."

I dropped the receiver and started for Bob's office. As I went through his counting-room one of the clerks said, "They have just broken Anti-People's to $0 on a bulletin that Tom Reinhart's wife and only daughter have been killed in an automobile accident at their place in Virginia. They first had it that Reinhart himself was killed. That has been corrected, although the latest word is that he is prostrated."

I rapped on Bob's private-office door. I felt the coming struggle as I heard his hoarse bellow, "Come in." He stood at the ticker, with the tape in one hand, while with the other he held the telephone receiver to his ear. My God, what a picture for a stage! His magnificent form was erect, his feet were as firmly planted as if he were made of bronze, his shoulders thrown back as if he were withstanding the rush of the Stock Exchange hordes, his eyes afire with a sullen, smouldering blaze, his jaw was set in a way that brought into terrible relief the new, hard lines of desperation that had recently come into his face. His great chest was rising and falling as though he were engaged in a physical struggle; his perfect-fitting, heavy black Melton cutaway coat, thrown back from the chest, and a low, turn-down white collar formed the setting for a throat and head that reminded one of a forest monarch at bay on the mountain crag awaiting the coming of the hounds and hunters.

I hesitated at the threshold to catch my breath, as I took in the terrific figure. Had Bob Brownley been an enemy of mine I should have backed out in fear, and I do not confess to more than my fair share of cowardice.

Inwardly I thanked God that Bob was in his office instead of on the floor of the Exchange. His whole appearance was frightful. He showed in every line and lineament that he was a man who would hesitate at nothing, even at killing, if he should find a human obstacle in his road and his mind should suggest murder. He was the personification of the most awful madness. Even when he caught sight of me, he hardly moved, although my coming must have been a surprise.

"So it is you, Jim Randolph, is it? What brings you here?" His voice was hoarse, but it had a metallic ring that went to my marrow. Bob Brownley in all the years of our friendship had never spoken to me except in kind and loving regard. I looked at him, stunned. I must have shown how hurt I was. But if he saw it, he gave no sign. His eyes, looking straight into mine, changed no more than if he had been addressing his deadliest enemy.

Again his voice rang out, "What brings you here? Do you come to plead again for that dastard Reinhart after the warning I gave you?"

I clenched both hands until I felt the nails cut the flesh of my palms. I loved Bob Brownley. I would have done anything to make him happy, would willingly have sacrificed my own life to protect his from himself or others, but this madman, this wild brute, was no more Bob Brownley as I had known him than the howling northeast gale of December is the gentle, welcome zephyr of August; and I felt a resentment at his brutal speech that I could hardly suppress. With a mighty effort I crushed it back, trying to think of nothing but his awful misery and the Bob of our college days.

I said in a firm voice, "Bob, is this the way to talk to me in your own office?" At any time before, my words and tone would have touched his all-generous southern ethics, but now he said harshly—"To hell with sentiment. What—" He did not take his eyes from mine, but they told me that he was listening to a voice in the receiver. Only for a second, then he let loose a wild laugh, which must have penetrated to the outer office.

"Eighty and coming like a spring freshet," he said into the mouthpiece, "and the boys want to know if I won't let up now that Reinhart is down? Go back and smother them with all they will take down to 60. That's my answer. Tell them if Reinhart had ten more wives and daughters and they were all killed, I'd rend his damned trust to help him dull his sorrow. Give the word at every pole that I will have Reinhart where he will curse his luck that he was not in the automobile with the rest of his tribe—

TIME IS THE TEST.

The test of time is what tells the tale. "A new broom sweeps clean," but will it wear well is what interests most. The public soon find out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Plainfield people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? A cure that lasts is the kind that every sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. Anna Holmes, of New Market, N. J., three or four miles from Plainfield, N. J., says: "Some years ago I gave a statement for publication, telling what Doan's Kidney Pills had done for me, and I am now glad to confirm what I said then. I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for sharp pains in my head and dull beating pains in my back and sides. When I attempted to rise quickly after sitting or lying for any length of time, sharp, acute pains would always follow. My kidneys seemed to be weakened in every way, and I became in such a condition that work was impossible. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills curing others of kidney and bladder troubles, so I procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They helped me from the first, and I continued to improve steadily. I am glad to repeat what I said in my former statement for my good opinion of this remedy has in no wise changed."

OBITUARY.

Clifford Long Staats.

Clifford Long Staats, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O. Staats, of West Second street, died suddenly at 9 o'clock, this morning, following an illness which developed on Sunday. The first symptoms resembled tonsilitis, but spinal meningitis developed and this was the cause of death. The young man appeared to be doing well, when at 1 o'clock this morning there was a sudden change for the worse and he failed rapidly. He was popular with all who knew him. He was a member and attendant of the Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Aniela Rosenberger.

Aniela Rosenberger, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rosenberger, died last night after a brief illness at her home, 830 George street. She was sixteen years of age. Death was caused by rheumatism of the heart. The funeral will be from St. Mary's church Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, and the interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

CLOSED PORTALS.

It is expected that there will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tonight.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet Friday night and receive several applications for membership.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Lots selling rapidly—Prices very low—Great investment or speculative opportunities.

Examining Mrs. Eddy.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 14.—The actual proceedings to determine the mental competency of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, of the Christian Science Church, were begun before the three masters appointed by Judge Robert N. Chamberlain, of the Superior Court, yesterday. The masters are Judge Edgar Aldrich, of the United States District Court; Dr. George F. Jelly, of Boston, and Hosea W. Parker, of Claremont. This commission is to decide whether or not Mrs. Eddy was mentally competent to transact business in March, this year, as a preliminary in the suit filed for an accounting of her estate by her son, George C. Glover, of Lead, S. Dak., and others.

Sues Pennsy for $10,000.

G. W. V. Moy, who was retained in the interest of the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac C. Dunn, who were killed at Stelton on the Pennsylvania Railroad in December last, has filed papers in the United States Circuit Court in a suit for $10,000 against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The case will be tried at the Supreme term of court. The action is to recover on the death of Mr. Dunn, the statutes not providing for recovery in the case of a double death under similar circumstances.

Selecting Candidates.

The nominating committee of the local Independent party held a meeting last night to further consider the question of delegates to attend the primaries and city convention and probable candidates for city offices to be filled.

Gives Up Pleasure for Business.

W. de la R. Anderson, manager for Mills Bro. & Co.'s office on Park avenue, was recalled yesterday from his yachting trip with the New York Yacht Club on account of the uncertain condition of the money market.

THINK ANIMAL A PANTHER.

Mount Holly, Aug. 14.—The absence of deer and the numerous strange tracks around Indian Mills, near here, together with other facts, give rise to the statement made by James Wells, who is familiar with the subject, that some animal is killing them off. Some believe the mysterious tracks found in the woods are those of a panther.

Tracks of a strange animal have been seen in that section, but the animal itself has not made its appearance to any of the residents there. Its shrill cries have disturbed the peace of night for several weeks. This has caused general alarm throughout the neighborhood. Farmers now take guns along in wagons as protection in case the strange animal should make its appearance. There is talk of starting a posse hunt.

MAY REMOVE THE CASINO

Plans to Place Structure on the Riding and Driving Club's Grounds.

MUCH NEEDED THERE

Building Would Be Used As a Club House By Two Organizations About to Be Merged.

Plans are under consideration for the removal of the Casino building from its present location at Arlington avenue and West Seventh street to the show grounds of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club at Randolph road and Woodland avenue, where it may be used jointly by the organization and the Watchung Hunt Club, according to the proposed merger. Mayor Charles J. Fisk, as president of the hunt club, it is reported, is interested in the matter, and has consulted an architect, who declares that the plan is a feasible one and can be easily accomplished. The scheme is to take the structure down in sections and in this way transport it to the new location. Owing to the size of the building it would be impossible to move it intact through the streets.

The Casino has for a long time been used as a playhouse and for society affairs, in fact it is the only place in the city which is suitable for the class of functions which have been held there, as well as the numerous meetings of all kinds, including those of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, the Monday Afternoon Club, the City Republican Committee and many other organizations.

An effort was made last winter to form a university club, take over the property and adapt it to the needs of a college club. The proposition to make it strictly a college organization met with some opposition, because it was claimed that there are not a sufficient number of graduates to make the scheme a paying one. Then it was proposed to take in other influential men who were not college graduates, but this did not meet with any better success.

Still another plan to organize a club for men, similar to the old Union County Country Club, failed. A committee was appointed to secure subscriptions and to draft a constitution and bylaws. This was done, several hundred dollars being subscribed. The constitution and bylaws were received and approved, but since then nothing has been done and it is not likely that there will. The latest scheme seems to meet with the approval of all the members of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, as well as the hunt organization and the chances are strongly in favor of it being accomplished.

The structure is suitable in every way for a clubhouse such as is needed at the show grounds and if a new building should be erected, the general arrangement could scarcely be improved upon.

HORACE SHERWIN ENJOINED BY THE VICE CHANCELLOR

Shoe Man Stopped From Selling Stock By Mortgagee Greacan.

Acting for Thomas Grecan, of New York, holder of the mortgage that failed of foreclosure last week, Former Judge W. A. Coddington, yesterday, secured from Vice-Chancellor Howell an injunction restraining Horace Sherwin, the shoe dealer, of West Front street, from doing business with the stock now in his store. The paper was served yesterday afternoon by Louis Olsen Barton, of Judge Coddington's office.

The mortgage covers all goods, chattels and fixtures in the store. The injunction is returnable next Tuesday. V. W. Nash, Jr., represents Mr. Sherwin.

Suffering Horse Shot.

Horace Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported to Chief of Police Kiely this morning that a horse owned by Sam Jones, colored, was lying ill, at a gravel pit. Roundsman Higgins found the horse, which had been overcome by heat, yesterday afternoon in a bad way. He shot it.

ARE THEY ASSESSABLE?

Report that Protest Will be Made Against Custom of Certain Exemptions.

THREE ARE DISPUTED

Orthodox Friends Building, Parochial School and Reform Hall Subject of Reported Contention.

It is reported that before the Union County Board of Taxation completes its task of hearing complaints over assessments, there will be a protest against some of the work inthis city, particularly concerning two or three structures that have been placed on the exempt list as not being subject to taxation. Among the buildings in question are the old Orthodox Friends meeting house in East Front street and St. Mary's Parochial school in Liberty street. It is claimed that neither is by right exempt under the law but that it has been the practice of local assessors not to place them on the list of assessable properties.

The Friends Meeting house in East Front street has not been used for religious purposes for years. There is only one surviving member of the congregation and no services have been held there for a long time. Since the building was abandoned as a religious edifice, it has been used as a Friends school and as such under the law liable to taxation. But the building has not been used for that purpose, either, for some time.

It is reported that St. Mary's school, being a denominal institution and furthermore not a strictly free institution, or charity, in the eyes of the law, is not exempt. It has been the custom, however, to place it on the exempt list for a number of years and no protest has been made. According to report the question will be raised at the present session of the county board.

In like manner, it is stated that Reform Mall, which is on the exempt list, is subject to taxation. Entertainments for profit are constantly held there and under the law, the building, it is said, should be taxed.

PLAINFIELD BAND GIVES CONCERT AT NETHERWOOD

POPULAR PROGRAM PLEASED THE CHILDREN—THE WEEK'S MEETING.

The Plainfield Band gave a concert at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home auditorium last evening for the entertainment of the children at the camp from New York city. A program of twelve selections was well rendered by the musicians, and despite the cool evening, there were a number of visitors at the camp to hear the music. Between the selections of the band, the camp children sang several of the gospel hymns.

At the camp this evening, Paul Loizeaux will be in charge of the meeting. Tomorrow evening, Rev. W. W. Barker, of Bayonne, will be at the camp. He will illustrate his talk by crayon sketches. Mr. Baker was at one time an actor on the English stage. He will be remembered by several in this city, for he has preached at the Park Avenue Baptist church on several occasions just previous to the call given Rev. A. E. Finn. During the summer, he has been conducting a series of evangelistic meetings in a tent in New York city. He is pastor of the First Baptist church at Bayonne.

ANTI-SALOON PLEDGES.

Crusaders Will Seek to Organize Sentiment Among the Voters.

Pledge cards to be circulated among the voters are being prepared by the Plainfield anti-saloon crusaders. The pledge will read as follows:

"I hereby pledge myself not to vote for any assemblyman who will not use his influence and vote to give Union county the right to local option in the sale of intoxicating liquor."

All the voters will be asked to sign the cards, and the names be used for the formation of a Voters' Local Option League. Members of the anti-saloon organization will canvass actively among the citizens to secure signers.

Promoted to First Lieutenant.

Lieut. N. P. Rogers, Jr., who is now spending his vacation at Lake George, has been promoted to first lieutenant in the coast artillery corps of U. S. Army. He is considered most fortunate, having been graduated from West Point in June last. It usually takes about five years to attain a first lieutenancy in the army.

FLUNG TO THEIR DEATH

Speeding Car Hits a Telegraph Pole and Chaffeur and a Girl are Killed.

ANOTHER MAN MAY DIE

Hostess, Sister of Dead Girl, and Two Girl Friends Badly Hurt, But Will Recover.

Traveling at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, an automobile belonging to Grant B. Schley, a Wall street broker, and driven by John Clark, a chauffeur, hit a telegraph pole a mile east of Bernardsville yesterday afternoon. The six occupants were thrown into the road, and two of them killed on the spot. The others were seriously injured.

KUHLEWIND, Miss Margaret, 15, of Bernardsville.

CLARK, John, chauffeur, of Far Hills.

HAZLETON, Ralph, Far Hills; will probably die.

PEPPER, Miss Adelaide, Brooklyn; arm broken.

Of the injured Mr. Hazleton is the most seriously hurt. Besides having numerous bones broken, he is suffering from such internal injuries that his recovery is despaired of. He was removed to All Souls' Hospital at Morristown.

The accident occurred near the estate of Mr. Childs, the restauranteur. The automobile was half-way down a rather steep decline when Mr. Clark seemed to lose control of the car.

Suddenly it skidded to one side of the road, and leaping forward hit the pole with a terrific crash. The occupants were thrown high in the air in all directions, while the car was completely wrecked.

Many persons ran to the aid of the injured persons. Stretchers were improvised and the victims of the accident were carried into the Childs' home. Telephone messages to Bernardsville brought Drs. Jones and Meigh.

The physicians said that Miss Kuhlewind and John Clark had been killed instantly, their skulls having been crushed in, but the other two young women were not in a dangerous condition.

Miss Pepper and Miss Engelike, who are each about 19 years old, were on a visit to the Misses Kuhlewind, and the automobile ride was part of a programme which had been arranged for their entertainment.

JOURNEYMEN BARBERS WANT A REGULAR DAY OFF.

Will Petition Bosses For Extra Time Off Every Two Weeks.

Being encouraged by their success in securing all holidays off, the journeymen barbers of the city now propose to ask the bosses for one day off every two weeks, with pay. The matter has been agitated among the journeymen for several weeks, and a meeting will be held tonight when a petition will be drafted for presentation to the bosses.

One of the barbers in speaking of the matter today, said: "We think that inasmuch as men in nearly every other business get time off with pay, it is no more than right that the barbers should be treated accordingly. We are often obliged to stand on our feet for hours at a time, cutting hair and shaving people, and the job is a most tiresome one. Even when we are not busy, we are compelled to be on duty. There has never been any regular time off for a barber until we succeeded in getting the bosses to close on a holiday. Before that time we were never able to go anywhere. The shops would close at noon on a holiday leaving but a half day's enjoyment."

It is understood that a majority of the boss barbers are willing to grant the one day off every two weeks, and it is thought that when a properly drafted petition is presented to them that all will agree to allow their men the time off. In case of refusal the barbers do not say what will happen.

Outing of Colored Churches.

Making the trip from this city to Bound Brook in special trolleys, parishioners of the Ebenezer Baptist church, Mt. Zion A. M. E. church and the Mount Olive M. E. church left town at 9 o'clock this morning to spend the day at Bellewood Park. This is the annual excursion of the colored people, and nearly two hundred excursionists made the trip. The excursion from this city is a joint one with churches from Elizabeth, Newark and New Brunswick, and will go from Bound Brook by special train to the park. The return trip, late this evening, will be made in the same way.

BOY AT PLAY BADLY HURT

WAS CRUSHED BY DOORS

Fell On Him As He Romped In Storeroom of McCullough's Mill—Skull and Leg Fractured.

Injuries that may prove fatal were sustained by Charles Lewis, Jr., the eleven-year-old son of Charles Lewis, of Steiner place, at McCullough's mill on Steiner place, yesterday afternoon. He is at Muhlenberg Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull and a broken Leg.

The boy was playing about the first floor of the store room of the mill when he ran against a number of doors standing against the side of the room. The doors fell and pinned him to the floor.

He shrieked as the doors crushed him, and the cry was heard by workmen. They hurried to him, and lifted the doors. The boy was unconscious.

The ambulance was called at once, and the unconscious lad was taken to the hospital at full speed. The physicians were unable to restore full consciousness, and he was reported as in a semi-comatose state at noon.

His condition was said to be serious. The fracture of the skull is a grave one, and his recovery is said to be more or less in doubt.

PAYING OPERATORS A DOLLAR AN HOUR

STRIKE CONTINUES BUT CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVED.

As far as local conditions are concerned telegraph conditions remain unchanged today. The Western Union office claims to be doing business, while the Postal office is having its usual amount of troubles. It is impossible to send telegrams to certain points, but the companies appear to be doing their best to get them through.

A report was received at Mills Bro. & Co. office, on Park avenue, this afternoon, that striking telegraphers or their sympathizers were cutting telegraph wires along the route of the Southern Railway and that it was seriously interfering with the movement of trains.

In New York both the Western Union and Postal are offering all kinds of money for operators. In some instances men have been receiving as high as a dollar an hour for seven hours' work, with their meals given to them. The companies still claim that the strige has not handicapped them to any great extent, while the strikers are just as insistent in their claims that the companies are not doing much business.

Has Income, But Steals.

A case of near-kleptomania has just been handled unofficially by the police. The chief figure in it is a young man, who, in spite of the fact that he has an income of $750 a year from property left by his father, has been stealing from his relatives. He has the hobo habit, and frequently takes trips on coalers after an escapade. The police have caught him "right" several times, but the family refused to prosecute. This morning Mrs. Williamson, who became interested in the case, agreed to look after the youth, and endeavor to keep him to the path of rectitude. A long trip on a sailing ship is being talked of.

William H. Conway Dead.

William H. Conway, who spent several months in this city, with his pack of trained mules, died yesterday in West Orange, where he had been since the centennial celebration. He had charge of the carnival show that exhibited with but poor success. He was thirty-one years of age and was a native of Oklahoma. His show property which has been in West Orange since the centennial will be shipped to his relatives.

Druggists Elect Officers.

The Union County Druggists' Association, at its quarterly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building on Tuesday, elected these officers: president, Joseph G. Smith, Rahway; secretary, W. R. Rickard, Elizabeth; treasurer, S. P. Langheim, Elizabeth. T. S. Armstrong, of this city, and Joseph G. Smith, of Rahway, were elected delegates to the National Convention to be held in Chicago, next month.

Miss Anna Ray Martin, of East Sixth street, is spending two weeks at Bath Beach and Brooklyn, the guest of her cousin.

FOR NEW STATION HOUSE

Police Committee Preparing to Move to Home of the Department.

MAY ERECT BUILDING

Structures In Other Cities Being Inspected For Hints—New Headquarters to Have Several Improvements Over Old One.

The Police Committee is getting things in readiness for the removal of the station house and headquarters necessitated by the sale of the property on East Front street, where the department is now housed to Henry Haurand. There is a possibility that the city will build a structure for police purposes, and steps in that direction, of a tentative nature, have been taken.

It is felt that the city might do worse than build its own station house at this juncture. While the money is not exactly available, there is no doubt that sooner or later such a structure will be deemed desirable, and there is no particular reason why it shouldn't be put up now. At its meeting this week the Board ordered plans for a station house drawn by an architect, and these will be used as the basis of the new department home. Mayor Fisk and members of the committee have taken several trips to look over station houses of nearby places of Plainfield's size, in search of hints and estimates.

The new station house, whether it is in a leased structure or one of the city's own, will be an improvement on the present one. Pretty nearly anything would be an improvement, as far as that goes, but the Board will aim to make the new house a model one of its kind. The ventilation and lighting, two features in which the present station house suffer a great lack, will receive particular attention. It is hoped to make a better partition between the cell-room and the court, and other improvements will be incorporated.

The Board at present hasn't the faintest idea of where the new headquarters will be. Available locations in the center of the city are not plentiful. The few sites in view are a bit too expensive for the municipal blood. The Board is optimistic, however, and is hopeful of solving the problem presented by the removal in a most satisfactory way.

TWELVE COACHES FILLED WITH LOCAL EXCURSIONISTS.

Warren Chapel Outing at Asbury Park Today, the Last of the Season.

The twelve coaches, old-fashioned ones at that, were not sufficient to carry the members and friends of Warren chapel on their annual excursion to Asbury Park, this morning. When the train left Plainfield practically every seat was taken and excursionists were standing in the aisles of the cars. Assistant Trainmaster Charles English was on hand and he arranged to have extra coaches put on at Roselle.

The delightful weather brought out an unusually large crowd and for a time it looked as though it would be impossible to get everyone aboard. By extra effort this was done and the excursionists were made as comfortable as possible until Roselle was reached, when the over-crowded condition was relieved. Conductor Samuel Pyatt was in charge of the excursion.

ATTRACTIVE "WIDOW."

George Ade's Comedy Starts Another Season, at New Plainfield.

Henry W. Savage's "College Widow" company opened its road tour at the New Plainfield theatre last night. A good sized house greeted the play, and the audience found Ade's humor as delightful as ever. The company, although scarcely any of last year's players were in it, was excellent in every way. The characters parts—which means practically all the parts—were well interpreted.

The play closed its season here last year. Manager Savage and most of his attaches were at the theatre to see the company start out. The production is finely staged.

Owners Favor Concrete Walks.

The agitation among the merchants and owners of property in the business part of the city in favor of concrete walks is spreading, and it is believed that with the laying of the brick pavement will come the improvement in sidewalks. Already a number of concrete walks are to be found in the business section and there seems to be no doubt but that they will be extended.

Miss Lillian A. Force, of Duer street, and Miss Eva Rappelye, of Westervelt avenue, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Walling, of Philadelphia, at their summer cottage at Seaside Park.

THEIR CHECKERED TRIP

Girls Who Failed to Provide For Fare Finally Get Home.

RAILROAD CAPITULATES

Official Gives Them Transportation After Learning the Company Was Liable to Action For Limiting Tickets.

Because all the West Point excursion tickets were sold out at the station here yesterday morning the Central Railroad was compelled to give four Plainfield girls a free ride home from Jersey City last night. The girls, Miss Mabel Hamilton, Miss Kathryn Teenis, Miss Hilda Toense and Miss Margaret Kennedy, went out with thirty or forty other Plainfielders on the excursion. They had been told that there was no place to spend money at West Point, so they only took their fares for the trip, a dollar each.

The station agent told them all the excursion tickets were sold, but the quartette refused to be feazed, and boarded a regular train for Jersey City. The conductor collected 60 cents for passage from each of them, leaving them 40 cents apiece.

The boat fare was 50 cents for the round trip, but they managed to get that amount together and went on to the military school. They gave no thought to the problem of getting home until the return to Jersey City, and then they found themselves in a quandary. They saw nobody they knew, and wandered about the station until 9 o'clock. Then they applied to the superintendent of the terminal for assistance. The official said he could do anything, because there was no guarantee the company would get its money if transportation was furnished.

The young women were beginning to wonder glumly however in the world they were to get home, when the official learned that the company was liable to action because the girls had been refused excursion tickets at the advertised rate. He promptly arranged for their passage to this city. The young women were late in getting home.

ASSEMBLYMAN PERKINS HELD IN $1,500 BAIL

CHAUFFEUR, A FORMER PLAINFIELDER, ALSO GIVES $500 BAIL.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who ran down Lewis Thompson, a negro boy at Oradell last Friday, has been held responsible for the accident by a coroner's jury and furnished $1,500 before Judge Zabriskie at Hackensack yesterday to await the action of the Grand Jury at the fall term. His chauffeur, Michael O'Keefe, who was driving the car at the time, furnished $500 bail at the same time. He was at one time a resident of this city.

Since the accident, Mr. Perkins has learned from a companion of the dead boy that the latter had remarked that he was going to race the auto. It is reported that the lad told him that Thompson had prepared to race the automobile as soon as he saw it coming down the road. This bears out the Assemblyman's statement at the time of the accident, when he said that the lad had waited by the roadside until the machine was close to him, and then darted into the road. He started so unexpectedly that it was impossible for O'Keefe to swerve the big machine and avoid the accident. Although the coroner's jury held Perkins responsible for Thompson's death, it is said that Prosecutor Emley is convinced that the accident was unavoidable, and the auto was not exceeding the speed limit when it occurred.

Garbage in Fertilizer.

Harry Anderson, 17 years old, of South Plainfield, was arrested yesterday for collecting garbage without a license and by means of a wagon not of proper sort. His father, John Anderson, explained in court this morning that the garbage was collected without fee, for use as fertilizer on his farm. Judge Runyon told him he must conform to the law, no matter why he collected, and suspended sentence.

Y. M. C. A. Classes End.

Today is the last day of the sessions of the Y. M. C. A. summer school. The classes have been conducted for the past six weeks by Miss Edna Burr and Miss Helen Hall. There have been seventeen pupils, most of whom are pupils of the local schools, who are making up work or anticipating certain courses for the fall.

FRELINGHUYSEN DECLINES

Senator's Health Will Not Permit Him to Become a Gubernatorial Candidate.

CHEERS HIS PARTY

Believes Republicans Will Win—Addressing Co. Committee He Urges Better Government and Less Politics.

Much to the disappointment of many leaders throughout the State and particularly to his own constituents in the county, State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan, has declined to allow his name to be used in connection with a gubernatorial boom. His decision is final and has been reached notwithstanding the endorsement already given by Somerset county and strong support given him by influential leaders in other parts of the State.

Ever since the Somerset county committee started the boom for the Senator, the latter has tried in vain to convince his physicians that he would be in shape to put the real ginger in the fight were he allowed to come out after the nomination. The doctors, however, were obdurate in their stand against their patient being drawn into a hard campaign and their word was final, though extremely regretted, by the county chairman-senator.

When a representative of The Daily Press met the Senator at his beautiful country home, a typical English estate, just outside of the prosperous little town of Somerville, yesterday, Mr. Frelinghuysen had just returned from a morning's fishing on the banks of the Raritan.

"Yes, I've been fishing, but not after the governorship," said the Senator.

"Well, what's the verdict, Senator?"

"Not guilty; that's the return made by the doctors and I pay them for their advice. I can't enter a hard campaign without sacrificing my health and that's more important to me than all the honors that I could strive for, you know. My decision is final."

Senator Frelinghuysen's appearance is that of a robust man enjoying the best of health. But appearances are deceiving in his case at least, for though he is the same optimistic and hearty "Uncle Joe"—and "Papa Joe" too now for there's a little one in the household—he is in bad shape since he underwent an operation for appendicitis while in the West some time ago. The Senator got over the fashionable ailment all right, but while on the road to recovery trouble in his leg developed. It was not the kind of trouble in that member that most well-to-do public men suffer from—it hadn't been pulled too hard—but the doctors say that the veins have not been in their right condition. As a result, "Uncle Joe" has had to keep off his feet as much as possible and won't be able to do any walking—much less running for a governorship—for some time. He hopes to be all right by the time the Legislature convenes again and is looking forward to that day to again be of much service to the State.

The father of the auto laws, who, by the by, is also the father of the pure food laws, talked freely of conditions in the party and of New Jersey affairs generally to The Daily Press representative. There's no pessimism in his make-up; on the other hand he takes a rosy view of the future and deprecates the tendency of the times to try to find a dark cloud above the horizon. Far be it from him, however, to decry the current investigations. He believes that they are good things and most necessary things too for the welfare of the State in which he is deeply interested. But he does see no reason why the Democrats can make any capital out of them; in fact he is of the opinion that they should be non-partisan in character and effect.

In his talk yesterday, Senator Frelinghuysen dwelt at length on the ever-increasing number of needless laws and quoting the epigram, "That country is best governed that is least governed," declared himself in favor of less legislation. Then, too, there should be more simplicity in administration of the State's affairs. He is heartily in favor of a business-like administration minus politics which he thinks too often enters into the matter of shaping policies, particularly those of minor importance. As to desirable candidates, the Senator is mum. He hopes that the strongest and best candidate will be picked but he won't take it upon himself to say who that man should be.

Following is the letter the Senator sent in reply to the Somerset county committee's notification of its endorsement of his candidacy:

"Somerset County Republican Executive Committee:

"Dear Sirs—Though some time

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Anything and everything for children's amusement at Hagers, on Park avenue. Headquarters for toys, games and periodicals.

Leaving town? A. E. Hoagland, the Park avenue expressman, will transfer your trunks to the station in plenty of time for the train.

Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, carry a large stock of fine wall papers from which to make a selection. The firm's work in painting and papering is the best.

Seasonable fruits and vegetables in abundance at R. W. Barnes' grocery store on Park avenue. Daily consignments of peaches, beans, tomatoes and green corn. Wagon deliveries for telephone orders.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company offers everything in the hardware line of the best manufacture at lowest prices to be found in the market. This is one of the oldest houses in the city, also the most reliable.

Have you investigated the percentage payments on deposits at the Plainfield Trust Company? It should interest you. Your silverware will be safe there in the safe deposit vaults while you are at the country.

Disease bacteria increase by the thousands in milk during the hot weather if the milk is not carefully kept. Marchant Bros., the Watchung avenue dairymen, deliver the purest milk, carefully sealed in bottles.

In looking over your winter clothes as the fall comes on, you will find that a garment "too good to throw away" can be made "as good as new" by dyeing. Mary A. Brown, of West Second street, is the one to see about it.

Trade with Roth & Co., the East Front street butchers, and you will always get the best cuts of meat, fresh fish of all kinds, including crabs, lobsters, etc., at low prices. You can save considerable money by dealing with this firm.

Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, is offering a fine stock of clothing for men and boys, all of the proper weight, best make and lowest prices. The men's furnishing department is filled with seasonable goods which are being sacrificed at a great reduction in price.

Provide for the future by insurance. The ashes of a burned building don't look half so bad to the owner if he knows that an insurance company is forwarding a check. Elston M. French, the North avenue real estate and insurance broker, controls agencies for reliable companies.

Killed Bear in Kitchen.

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 14.—A black bear, weighing three hundred pounds, had the impudence to walk in Mrs. William Rogers's kitchen yesterday and to disarrange the shining pots and pans on which Mrs. Rogers, good housewift, takes just pride. Mrs. Rogers promptly killed the bear. It chased two men Monday night and had terrorized the entire region around October Mountain, in the Berkshires, but Mrs. Rogers's pots and pans must not be disturbed. Mrs. Rogers was too angry to be frightened. Her husband's shotgun, loaded with buckshot, stood in a corner. She grabbed the gun, aimed, and in her anger let go both barrels at once.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

It is suggested that a series of two or three games between the West Ends, of Somerville, and either Clinton Avenue or Y. M. C. A., would be a drawing card and would arouse the interest of the fans. Now that the amateur league season is nearly concluded these contests could be arranged easily.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, will meet Clinton Avenue at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, and a good contest may be expected. The Laurels are playing better ball than ever, while everyone knows the kind of a game the Clinton Avenues are putting up.

"Christy" Mathewson only lost one of the five games he pitched for the Giants on the Western trip and that was to Chicago, when the score was 5 to 0, against New York.

The National Baseball Commission has decided that "Billy" Gilbert, formerly of the New York Giants, and now playing with the Trenton Tri-State League Club, must repay the New York Nationals $100 advance money, or be prohibited from playing with any club under the national agreement. It is believed that he will pay the money.

Mike Lynch had an easy time defeating Cincinnati on Tuesday, until the latter part of the game, when he was touched for six hits.

Baseball experts argue that the average big league club carries too many players today and that especially the pitchers do not get the chance to work as often as necessary to do good work. A few years ago a club would carry two or three twirlers and by frequent, regular work, always kept in condition and could hold their own with the heaviest batters. Nowadays the average pitcher does well if he pitches once a week or even two weeks, so large is the staff.

Grant, the former Harvard player, signed by the Philadelphia Nationals, has returned to the game again after an enforced absence. He is a valuable man as fielder and with the stick.

The Giants now hold second place by a small margin, having passed Pittsburg, this week. It is to be hoped that the team will give an exhibition of how to play the game as it should be, while at home, and thus improve its standing.

GOLF.

He is indeed a peculiar golfer who does not occasionally get beat, and sometimes by a large score. When "Marty" O'Loughlin met reverses at New Brunswick on Sunday at the hands of Tracy Smith and William Tetson, he was getting just what he gave his opponents a few days ago on the local course. The New Brunswick pair was waiting for a chance to get even and they did. However, this match will not discourage "Marty" and he will play better golf for his defeat.

This is the quiet season of the year on the local golf courses and aside from the stay-at-homes, who visit the links every week, there is practically nothing doing. The interest continues, however, in the weekly competitions.

It is expected that a number of local players will take part in the big tournament to be held at the Deal Golf and Country Club, August 22-24, and as this is one of the most popular courses in this part of the country the field will be a large one.

Assurances of a high class field have already been received for the annual invitation tournament of the Deal Golf and Country Club, August 22 to 24. Prominent among the early entrants are Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the national champion; Walter J. Travis, of Garden City; Gilman P. Tiffany, of Powelton, four times champion of the Hudson River Golf Association, and Harold Wilcox, of Montclair, a former metropolitan champion.

Others who have sent in their names are H. C. Fownes, C. B. Fownes and J. S. Martin, of Oakmont; S. A. Rowbottom and W. R. Smyth, Toronto Golf Club, Canada; T. M. Richardson, Panmure Golf Club, Forfarshire, Scotland; Ralph Peters, Jr., Midland; Bryce S. Evans, Brae Burn; A. T. Dwight, Seabright; B. C. Fuller, Apawamis; Karl Mosser, Brae Burn, and H. V. Seggerman, St. Paul's.

This tournament always attracts a large entry, there having been more than a hundred starters last year. But the chances are that on this occasion there will be quality as well as quantity. A year ago Tiffany won the chief trophy, defeating Robert Abbott, of Yale, in the final. Neither Travers nor Travis competed.

According to the conditions the entire first day will be devoted to an eighteen hole medal play qualifying round, contestants to qualify in four sixteens for the president's, vice president's, treasurer's and captain's cups. First and second match play rounds will be in order on the next day, with the semi-final and final rounds on Saturday. There will also be an eighteen hole medal play handicap on the last day. Entries must be made through club secretaries before 5 p. m., Monday, August 19, to W. R. Delehanty, at the Deal Golf and Country Club.

The many American friends of Harry Vardon, winner of the open championship of Great Britain in 1896, 1898, 1899 and 1903, and of the title in this country in 1900, will be pleased to learn that the man from the Island of Jersey has almost entirely recovered his health. At his best, it is generally agreed among the critics that Vardon is a little bit better than any one else. For that matter, the leading professionals will say the same thing.

Not long since Vardon and James Braid were engaged by the South Shields Golf Club for an exhibition. In the forenoon an eighteen hole match was played in which Vardon fully maintained the form he has been in during the greater part of the summer, and defeated Braid by 2 up and 2 to play. In the afternoon Vardon again won in a stroke competition, beating his man by two shots. The former made 70 and 72, as against 75 and 74 for Braid.

PERSONAL.

Miss Nora B. Schenck, of the Woodhull & Martin Company, is enjoying her two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Jerome Leary and son, of the Hotel Iroquois, are spending the summer in the New England States.

Miss Huff, of Brooklyn, and Miss Huff, of Millville, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dayton, of East Sixth street.

William A. Hubbard, of West Seventh street, has returned to Rhode Island to join his family, after spending a few days in town.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Vanderhoef, of West Front street, will spend the first two weeks in September at the Albion Hotel, Asbury Park.

Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, rector of Grace church, who is spending the summer in Canada and nearby points of interest, is expected to return home September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Stevens, of East Sixth street, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cahoone, of this city, returned yesterday from Asbury Park, where they have been sojourning for several weeks. It was reported in several State papers that Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were injured in an auto accident, but it was another family by that name.

There was such a demand for these Stransky saucepans last time we had a sale of them that we could not supply all who came, large as was the lot. At the time we cabled for more and now they are here, but this will positively be the last lot that we can sell at this price.

Famous Stransky Saucepans—the make that is known the world over as the very best—the kind that is regularly sold at 72c, will be sold in the Basement tomorrow and Saturday at ..... .39

Sale of Refrigerators.

Governor Refrigerators are well known to the people hereabouts as the best of the moderate priced refrigerators. They are splendidly constructed for perfect dry air circulation and will keep things fresh and sweet and with less ice than with any other refrigerator required. All inside parts are removable for cleaning, making the Governor strictly sanitary.

Here is a lot of the Governor Refrigerators which we must sell quickly—a whole carload of them, and we have not doubt they will move rapidly.

Governor No. 1; usually $12.95, at $10.39.
Governor No. 2; usually $15.45, at $12.39.
Governor No. 3; usually $18.25, at $14.60.

From the issue of January 13, 1870:

"Two young scoundrels were caught one day last week, in the act of robbing the Church of the Holy Cross in North Plainfield. They had broken the windows of the church and one of them was inside, when they were arrested by a gentleman who had been watching them. They were lodged in the station house over night and the next day were taken to the Somerville jail by Constable Conover. They gave their names as George Day and Harry Sanders. They had been observed prowling around the city for a day or two previous."

"On Tuesday afternoon last, a horse attached to a carriage was seen coming down Front street at a terrific gait and was finally captured on the corner of Front and Somerset streets. It proved to be the property of Rev. Dr. Fox, who ere long appeared and took charge of the fury steed, and went on his way rejoicing."

Commuters Held Up For Hours By Wreck In Tunnel.

Thousands of residents along the line of the Morris and Essex Division of the Lackawanna Railroad, which takes in Newark and the Oranges, were held up last night by the worst tie-up in the history of the road. A coal train from Scranton, loaded with anthracite, became stalled in the Bergen tunnel when within 600 feet of daylight on the east end. A drawhead pulled out allowing three tail cars and the caboose to break loose from the rest of the train. In attempting to pick up the cars there was a bump and one of the cars jumped the rails, and rested on the edge of the westbound tracks.

At about the same time the Dover accommodation, which left Hoboken at 5:55 and running along at thirty-five miles an hour, plunged through the eastern end of the tunnel.

The engineer did not know anything was wrong until the cylinder on the port side hit the corner of the derailed car. There was a ripping sound and the shock caused the reverse lever to fly back against his left arm and put it out of business. The coal car became wedged against the passenger train. There was an inclination of a panic among the passengers, but wiser heads prevented this. The passengers were taken back to New York and transferred to Newark over the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Lackawanna road was blocked until 9 o'clock last night.

Weakfish.

Weakfish are still plentiful off Boynton Beach, although they are not quite so numerous as a week ago. Anglers will find no difficulty in carrying home a goodly number. Crabbing is also very excellent and the size of the catches that are brought to the boat house would indicate that they are very plentiful in Staten Island Sound. Catches of 50 and more have been reported within a day or two.

FRELINGHUYSEN WITHDRAWS.

It is to be regretted that State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen has been compelled by reason of ill-health to forego a campaign for the gubernatorial nomination. That he had a splendid chance of capturing the nomination—and "capturing" is the right word, for the Raritan man goes after anything he wants hot and heavy—few will deny. As a county chairman and as a State senator he has made a fine record and has done much for the good of his own constituents and for the betterment of the State's welfare. He is a clean, frank and intelligent type of citizen; one who always fight in the open and keeps himself within the rule of "a square deal for every man."

The Senator is but thirty-eight years old despite the fact that the head on his shoulders would give many the impression that he is much older in years as well as in experience. He is conservative to a marked degree but at the same time is a hustler and a live man along progressive and aggressive lines. Probably it is as the father of the auto law and the pure food measures, that he is best known to the people of the State but there are one hundred and one other excellent ideas and enactments that have been benefitted by his able championship.

As he has not yet reached the middle time of life, it is reasonable to expect that he will yet be heard from as a candidate for the highest honor that the people can bestow on a citizen of the State. Surely, if he keeps up his present record, and there is no reason to suspect that he will do otherwise, he will make an equally formidable candidate and an equally desirable nominee three years hence. In the meanwhile, we look for him to be as bright a light in the halls of legislation as he has been in the past.

SOME GOOD IDEAS.

In his letter of declination Senator Frelinghuysen supplies the Republican party with some good campaign material. His advocacy of "better government and less politics" and more simplicity in administration and less legislation are keynotes upon which a successful campaign may be waged. In fact his whole letter to the Somerset county committee is filled with ideas which the State committee should "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" before mapping out its plan of action this fall.

Funny how every man you meet is dead sure that so-and-so is going to get this or that nomination, but then you don't meet the real candidate makers as they are away enjoying themselves. In the fall these big guns will be back and not until then will they make a "guess" as to which will be picked by the dear "pee-pul."

The Newark News mentions the fact that Fitzsimmons' lion was not seen at the Union County Republicans' outing. Probably not, inasmuch as Fitz disposed of that animal a year ago after it had chewed up one of his horses. Since then, it is supposed that Lanky Bob has been training with a kitten.

What's this we hear; some one speaking up for Perkins? Why 'pon our word, has he a political friend down in Elizabeth?

Collins, Fort or Pitney? On with the dark horse!

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A visit to the New Plainfield theatre tonight will give one an idea of life on the S H. and Circle X ranches of Roseud, Montana. Around good cowboys, bad cowboys, full blooded Indians, half breed Indians, Indian maids, sheriffs, cooks, girls, wild steers and broncos, Joseph Byron Totten, the young actor, has woven a story of pathos, comedy and sensation that will suit the taste of the most fastidious. P. H. Sullivan, the producer of the big "Outlaw's Christmas" and money-lender attractions will present Mr. Totten's efforts under the title of "The Cowboy and The Squaw." It is in four acts and nine scenes of rapid action with two tremendous climaxes neither one of which has ever been seen on the melodramatic stage by the present theatre-going public.

"During the action of "Little Johnny Jones," the scene changes from a steamship pier at Southampton, England, to one in San Francisco's Chinatown, six thousand miles away. The stage hands do it in ten minutes. That's migrating some. The play is announced as "a melodrama set to music." So is "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" and "George Washington, Jr." Mr. Cohan was the first American to make this radical departure as an author of musical plays.

Yorke and Adams are coming. This announcement means a night of joyous mirth to all who have heard them before and all to whom the exquisite experience will be new.

In "Playing the Ponies," Yorke & Adams offer a new idea in musical comedy. It tells a real story, is brimful of rollicking humor and embowered with a bevy of pretty girls and clever comedians. The song hits of which there are twenty are of the whistling kind. The pony ballet is still one of the many features as well as Abdulah, the famous comedy elephant. A rattling good time may be anticipated by all who attend the performance at the New Plainfield theatre, August 19.

Ramsay Morris has again achieved success as a playwright; his play, "Under Suspicion," giving all promise of being a greater success than his now famous "The Ninety and Nine." "Under Suspicion" tells a story of the people of the middle West, and while classed as a melodrama it is more of the rural type. The theme of the play brings out forcibly an important subject that is now much discussed in the leading magazines and journals, namely, the treatment of the reformed criminal. The motor-cycle race through a prairie fire, which occurs in the third act, is said to be one of the greatest and most realistic pieces of stage mechanism that has yet been attempted. "Under Suspicion" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on August 20.

Your eyes will be examined by THE DAMMERS SCIENTIFIC METHOD. Positively the only absolutely correct way to fit glasses.

NO DROPS USED. Those who have been examined for GLASSES by men who claim to examine eyes by the old, incorrect way, which is done by everyone who supplies glasses but us, will be agreeably surprised by our scientific and wonderful methods of fitting glasses.

We correct your eye defects by looking in the eyes, taking the exact scientific measurements of the focus and shape of the eyes.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED, no trying glasses on your face, until we have determined your exact optical error.

The old tedious, and tiresome way of trying to fit glasses is either putting drops in the eyes, which often causes BLINDNESS, or by trying on a lot of glasses, and asking you "Can you see these letters?" or "Do these glasses make you see better?"

After your Optician does a lot of guessing, and has your eyes all out of shape, you think you have been examined.

Think this over, and you can readily see that you have been doing your own examining, and that is no doubt the reason you have had trouble to get glasses correct.

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, WATERY EYES, blurry vision, and other troubles caused by EYE STRAIN. We have corrected by the use of glasses cross eyes and Astigmatism by our scientific methods.

OBITUARY.

St. George Kempson.

St. George Kempson, one of the best known editors in New Jersey, died yesterday morning in a hospital in New York city, where he had been operated upon for appendicitis. Mr. Kempson had enjoyed the best of health up to a few days ago, when he became very ill. Dr. Grosse, his physician, ordered him removed to the hospital. The news of his death came as a great shock to Metuchen this morning. Mr. Kempson at one time edited nine newspapers in New Jersey and New York, among them being the Metuchen Inquirer, the Trenton Emporium, the Middlesex County Daily Herald, the Middlesex County Democrat, the New York Insurance Journal, a paper in Woodbridge and others.

has elapsed since you so kindly determined to urge my nomination for Governor, the delay in receiving a response from me has been caused by my strong desire to accede to your wishes, if my health would permit me to do so. It is with great regret that I have to notify you that, although recovering rapidly from my recent illness, my physician advises against my entering the campaign as a candidate or allowing my name to come before the convention.

"During the past twelve years our State, in fact, all the states, have experienced prosperity unparalleled in the annals of the world. Such prosperity, as we all know, has been under the rule of the Republican party. To that party the people have become accustomed to look for progress, and so far they have never looked in vain. Desiring further improvement, the power of the party will, without doubt, be continued by the next election.

"It is true that in the party harmony does not everywhere prevail. The lack of harmony, however, is purely local and in no sense general. A straightforward, honest and open campaign will, I am sure, fully restore it. It is true that charges and counter-charges have been made. It is also true that some minor irregularities have been discovered. All who have the welfare of the party at heart desire and court the most rigid scrutiny of all public matters and welcome an opportunity of exhibiting to the people the workings of the most minute details in the affairs of the State. Such investigations should not be partisan; they should not be conducted for political capital; they should be solely for the purpose of exhibiting to all the bad as well as the good features of the present system.

"Such investigations, I am sure, convince all of what I for years have been fully convinced. It will show to all the necessity of effecting such changes as will make the system of conducting the affairs of the State as simple as possible; so simple, in fact, that not only will irregularities in any quarter at once be discovered, but the persons responsible for same immediately called to account. Coupled to such simplicity, I look forward with confidence to less legislation. While both the population and the wealth of the State are rapidly increasing, we should not forget that that state is best governed which is least governed.

"When I was informed of the determination of the Republican Executive Committee of Somerset county to put me forward as its candidate, I must confess I was gratified at the great honor, and I must also confess that, did my health permit, I would seize the opoprtunity to strive for harmony in the party throughout the State, and, if elected, would work for the greatest simplicity in the conduct of the affairs of the State and for as little legislation as is consistent with the welfare of the public. In short, if elected, would aim to bring about what the people demand —better government and less politics.

"Did my strength permit, I would be most delighted to accept the votes of Somerset in the convention and also the votes of all other counties that would care to follow if lead.

"To me, the future holds forth nothing but victory for the party. I have no sympathy with those pessimists who fear defeat. I only regret that I cannot permit you to enter my name as a candidate for the highest office in the State. If I could, I sincerely assure you, that I would. And I have no hesitation in saying that, if I were tendered the nomination, with your help and the help of all loyal Republicans, we would win a victory surpassing any of the past. I cannot, however, permit you to place my name before the convention. My present condition compels me to refrain from a campaign and to confine my energies to my duties in the Senate, before the next session of which, I will, I believe, be fully restored to my health and strength. In it I will continue to work for the best interests of my constituents and in it I hope to give my warmest support to the next Republican governor.

"Again thanking you and the people of Somerset for your kindness and confidence and assuring you of my hearty support of the next candidate, I am,

"Very truly yours,
"J. S. FRELINGHUYSEN."

Roosevelt Conference.

New York, Aug. 14.—President Roosevelt presided at a series of conferences held at Sagamore Hill yesterday afternoon and last night with three of the members of his Cabinet. Those present were Secretary of State Root, Secretary of War Taft and Postmaster-General Meyer. The deliberations at the President's home were cloaked with dignified secrecy. Those who participated declined later to reveal in other than general terms what had been discussed. Wall Street awaited with much interest some definite statement as to what had taken place, because a persistent report that before presenting himself at the Presidents' home, Secretary of State Root had spent the afternoon in conference with some of the leading bankers of the country.

Have You Tried Our Soda?

There is lots of difference in soda. We use only the best of materials. Our flavors are made from the true fruits, carefully selected oranges, lemons and berries, and have the right taste. We take lots of care to have them right. Our ice cream is right, and we combine them right. Once tried, is the convincing argument. Coco Cola and Moxie served ice cold. We serve Welsh Grape, as made, not diluted—never was intended to be served so. Ice cream sundaes any fruit flavor, 5 cents. Come in. Store always cool and roomy.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 18.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The value of decision.—Eph. iv, 14, 15; Jas. i, 18.

It is impossible for us to have much experience in life without soon learning the great value of decision. The man who is always wavering, who is always doubting, never able to make up his mind as to what he ought to do, never accomplishes very much in life and usually falls behind in the race of life. He spends so much time for deciding that he has little time for performing, and meanwhile another, capable of quickly sizing up the situation, has passed him in the race. There is no question but that the power to decide quickly and with much accuracy may be cultivated. The mind must be taught the power of concentration to quickly grasp all the possibilities of a situation and then to choose what is best without delay and in such a way that there will be no regret of the choice.

Christianity demands decision. It requires decision to become a Christian. We must decide for Christ as against everything else in life. And there is great value in making this decision as quickly as possible after the situation has been placed before us. There are thousands of people who really believe in Christ who make their lives miserable because they will not make a decided choice and end the matter once and for all. Choose and choose now whom you will serve. Decide and decide for Christ.

Christianity requires decision after we have become Christians. There are matters of faith where the value of this quality is very evident. When we have decided, we should stand by our position. The most unhappy man in the world is the one who is tossed about by "every wind and wrong doctrine." Stability in faith should follow decision, and no trifling criticism of our faith should lead us astray. The great orthodox doctrines of Christianity as set forth in the Scriptures and taught by the church throughout the centuries should be the foundation upon which we should take our stand, and, having taken it, we should stand firmly upon it.

In the Christian's daily life the value of decision is also apparent. Many after becoming Christians are frequently disturbed as to what they should do. They have little Christian peace, but are eternally asking, "May I do this?" "Would it be wrong to do that?" Learn to decide. Do what Christ would have you do. If in doubt concerning anything, decide against it and then let the matter rest.

BIBLE READINGS.

Josh. xxiv, 14-17; Ruth i, 16, 17; I Kings xviii, 21; Ezek. xx, 39; Matt. vi, 33; Mark ii, 14; Luke xv, 17-20; John xiv, 1; I Cor. xv, 58.

Looking Ahead.

Christian Endeavor faces the future. It exists less for today than for tomorrow. Its ambitions are all directed toward a coming day. It is to prove itself by its later fruits. The measure of a society's success is less what it is accomplishing in the immediate present than what it is accomplishing for the future fitness of the members. Now it is in the business of training. The test comes afterward. Every Endeavorer should work with this thought in mind. He should never lose sight of the time when he will be graduated from Christian Endeavor and enter the larger work of the church and kingdom. His business in Christian Endeavor is to get an equipment that will enable him to do great service in the fields of the future. The test of the efficiency of a society is very properly this: How is it affecting the future usefulness of its members? Over and over again we should recall this cardinal truth—that the proof of the success or failure of Christian Endeavor is to be found in the next generation of workers.—Forward.

Still Ready to Serve.

We are by no means at the end of the usefulness of the Christian Endeavor society. It has now attained its majority and the dignity of twenty-five years. It has perfected its organization. It is now ready to serve the church in a great variety of ways. It can prepare its millions of young and enthusiastic members for the type of service which the church most needs. It can do anything reasonably required. But underneath this multiplicity of effort, this flexibility of method, there is the firm foundation of loyalty to Jesus Christ, loyalty to His church—confession, service, fellowship, loyalty! From these roots grows the Endeavor tree with its leaves and flowers and diversified fruits.—Rev. W. W. Sleeper.

The Beautiful.

It is a part of a true Endeavor training to be helped to see what surroundings, what actions, what sounds and sights are beautiful and why they are beautiful. Right ideas regarding the beautiful in public worship would be an immense help in all our churches. Beautiful outlines, beautiful proportions, beautiful colors, beautiful music, beautiful conduct, the fitness of things, the influence of harmony upon the spiritual life, all this is a new world to our young people and but partially explored by their elders.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E.

"Mr. and Mrs. Christian Endeavor are staying at the Hotel des Bergues." Such is a translation of an announcement which actually appeared in a Geneva (Switzerland) paper during the recent world's convention. That editor did not know much about the honorable couple, but perhaps he has since gained some idea of the rich in their mighty family.—Irish Endeavorer.

Aug. 18: "God's care for the young." "Which He commanded our fathers that they should make them known to their children."—Ps. lxxviii, 1-8.

Passages for reference—Deut. xi, 19, 21; Ps. ciii, 17, 18; Prov. iii, 1-10; Isa. liv, 13; Matt. xviii, 5, 6; Acts ii, 39.

(Sunday School Interests.)

It may be worth while at some time to call attention to the vast amount of money invested, in the interest of the Sunday schools, in buildings, books, apparatus, publishing plants, assemblies, conventions and the like, but not now and here, for there are more important interests to be considered.

Some time and somewhere it may be worth while to tell of the great number of scholars and teachers and officers and the number of schools and their increase and such matters, but not at this time, for there are more important matters to be considered.

The thing which needs discussion at the present time is the interest of the child rather than of the school. The school is of value only as it helps to educate the child in the knowledge and love and practice of godlike living. This is the most pressing need of our times. Every child ought to be educated. Every one is educated in some way or other—if not in the schools and in useful branches of learning, then on the streets and in ways of vice.

Much is said about training the young in manual and industrial arts so as to give better opportunity for earning a livelihood. All this is good, but it is far from being all that is necessary. Training of the hands is essential, and training of the mind also, but if the training of the higher faculties be neglected we have but produced a deformed creature who may prove to be a curse to himself and to society.

Moral character is the indispensable need of every one. It can be had only by training in the knowledge, love and practice of that which is good and right. The best text book of ethics is the Bible. It should be taught to every child, not so much for its history and literature as for its code of morals and its religious principles. The best place for this teaching is in the home, but there are many homes where the Bible is an unknown book, and there are comparatively few where it is taught in any adequate manner.

The Sunday school is the place where we must look for the best teaching of the word. Something may possibly be done in the day schools to teach good morals, but not enough. That teaching must be supplemented by the best possible efforts of the church. The conspicuous lack at the present time in business life and in society at large is not lack of intelligence and culture, but glaring disregard for right and justice and consideration of others. The greatest evil of the age is not poverty nor even open crime, but the utter lack in all classes of fine moral sense. No age has seen a more heroic struggle for truth and righteousness than is now being waged, nor has any age ever seen greater power in the hands of evil ones than is now to be seen. The moral sense of the world has been shocked by recent revelations of the utter moral rottenness of many men high in the business and social world. Radical reform is needed.

The only hope for our civilization is a return to the faith and practice of the Bible principles. The boys and girls must be brought to know what God says is right and made to love the right and fear to do the wrong. The teaching of the Sunday school must be strengthened. Those who would lead there must have their own lives above reproach. There must be no compromise in this thing. We must have no blind leaders. Our Leaguers must rally to this work with all earnest consecration.

The True Peace.

There is a peace which is not patience because it looks for nothing, longs for nothing, prays for nothing; a peace which is painless because it is numb; which is free from struggle because it is dead.

I would not have that gift, O my Father! I have passed through the autumn wood, and I heard no waving of the leaves, and I knew there was no wind to blow. I have seen there was no sap to nourish, and I would not have that gift. O my God, that is the peace of the grave.

But Thy peace is the peace of the ocean. It is the calm that breathes beneath it. It is not the rest of listlessness, but the rest of balance. Thy patience is the patience not of spentness, but of expectancy. It rests in hope."

Bring me that peace of Thine, O God! Bring me the peace of pulsation, the calm of courage, the endurance that springs from energy! Bring me the fortitude of fervor, the repose through inner radiance, the tenacity that is born of trust! Bring me the silence that comes from serenity, the gentleness that is bred of joy, the quiet that has sprung from quickened faith! When I hear Thee in the whirlwind, there will be a great calm!—George Matheson, D. D.

For Life and Death.

Daily Bible reading keeps us constantly in God's company. We know not when we shall have especial need of Him. Rev. Charles Simeon, when he was dying, woke from what seemed an unconscious state and said: "If you want to know what I am doing, look in the first chapter of Ephesians from the third to the fourteenth verse. There you will see what I am enjoying now." Thus, in life and death—

Christ at our side, His Scripture for our light,

"To hell with sentiment!" He was speaking to me again. "What do you want? If you are here to beg for Re'hart and his pack of yellow curs, you've got your answer. I wouldn't let up on that fiendish hyena, not if his wife and daughter and all the dead wives and daughters of every 'System' man came back in their grave clothes and begged. I wouldn't let up a shade." I gasped in horror.

"When did these robbers of men and despoilers of women and children ever let up because of death? When were they ever known to wait even till the corpse stiffened to pluck out the hearts of the victims? It is my turn now, and if I let up a hair may I, yes, and Beulah, too, be damned, eternally damned."

I could not stand it. If I stayed, I, too, should become mad. I reached for the doorknob, but before I could swing the door open Bob was upon me like a wolf. He grasped me by the shoulders and with the strength of a madman hurled me half across the room. I sank into a chair.

"No, you don't, Jim Randolph, no, you don't. You came here for something and, by heaven, you will tell me what it is! You know me; you are the only human being who does. You know what I was, you see what I am. You know what they did to me to make me what I am. You know, Jim Randolph, you know whether I deserved it. You know whether in all my life up to the day those dollar-frenzied hounds tore my soul, I had done any man, woman, or child a wrong. You know whether I had, and now you are going to sneak off and leave me as though I were a cur dog of the Reinhart-Standard Oil breed gone mad!"

"I Will Buy Until I Have Exhausted My Fortune of a Billion Dollars."

He was standing over me, a terrible yet a magnificent figure. As he hurled these words at me, I was sure he had really lost his mind; that I was in the presence of a man truly mad. But only for an instant; then my horror, my anger turned to a great, crushing, all-consuming agony of pity for Bob, and I dropped my head on my hands and wept. It is hard to admit it, but it is true—I wept uncontrollably. In an instant the room was quiet except for the sound of my own awful grief. I heard it, was ashamed of it, but I could not stop. The telephone rang again and again, wildly, shrilly, but there was no answer. The stillness became so oppressive that even my own sobs quieted. I gasped as the lump in my throat choked me, then I slowly raised my eyes.

Bob's towering figure was in front of me. His head had fallen forward, and his arms were folded across his breast. But that he stood erect I should have thought him dead, so still was he. I jumped to my feet and looked into his face, down which great tears were dropping silently. I touched him on the shoulder.

"Bob, my dear old chum, Bob, forgive me. For God's sake, forgive me for intruding on your misery."

I looked at him. I will never forget his face. No heartbroken woman's could have been sadder. He slowly raised his head, then staggered and grasped the ticker-stand for support.

"Don't, Jim, don't—don't ask me to forgive you. Oh, Jim, Jim, my old friend, forgive me for my madness; forget what I said to you, forget the brute you just saw and think of me as of old, when I would have plucked out my tongue if I had caught it saying a harsh word to the best and truest friend man ever had. Jim, forget it all. I was mad, I am mad, I have been mad for a long time, but it cannot last much longer. I know it can't, and, Jim, by all our past love, by the memories of the dear old days at St. Paul's and at Harvard, the dear old days of hope and happiness, when we planned for the future, try to think of me only as you knew me then, as you know that I should now be, but for the 'System's' curse."

The clerks were pounding on the door; through the glass showed many forms. They had been gathering for minutes while Bob talked in his low, sad tone, a tone that no one could believe came from the same mouth that a few moments before had poured forth a flood of brutal heartlessness.

Bob went to the door. The office was in an uproar. Twenty or 30 of Bob's brokers were there, aghast at not getting a reply to their calls. Many were pouring in through the outer office. Bob looked at them coldly. "Well, what is the trouble? Is it possible we are down to a point where the stock exchange rushes over to a man's office when his wire happens to break down?"

They saw his bluff. You cannot deceive stock exchange men, at least not the kind that Bob Brownley employed on panic days, but his coolness reassured them, and when they saw me it was odds-on that they guessed to a man why Bob had ignored his wires—guessed that I had been pleading for the life of "the street."

"Well, where do you stand?"

Frank Swan answered for the crowd: "The panic is in full swing. She's a cellar-to-ridge-pole ripper. They're down 40 or over on an average. Anti-People's is down to 35, and still coming like sawdust over a broken dam. Barry Conant's house and a dozen other of Reinhart's have gone under. His banks and trust companies are going every minute. The whole street will be overboard before the close. The governing committee has just called a meeting to see whether it will not be best to adjourn the exchange over to-day and to-morrow."

There was no trace now of the scene he had just been through. He was cold, masterful, like the seasoned sea-dog who knows that in spite of the ocean's rage and the wind's howl, the wheel will answer his hand and the craft its rudder. "Jim, come over to the exchange." The crowd followed along. "We have but a minute and I want to have you say you forgive me," he said to me. "I know, Jim, you understand it all, but I must tell you how sorrowful I am that in my madness I should have so forgotten my admiration, respect, and love for you, yes, and my gratitude to you, as to say what I did. I'll do the only thing I can to atone. I will stop this panic and undo as much as possible of my work; and now that I have wrecked Reinhart I am through with this game forever, yes, through forever."

He pressed my hand in his strong, honest one and strode into the exchange ahead of the crowd. All was chaos, although the trading had toned down to a sullen desperation. So many houses, banks, and trust companies had failed that no man knew whether the member he had traded with early in the day would on the morrow be solvent enough to carry out his trades. The man who had been "long" in the morning, and had sold out before the crash, and who thought he now had no interest in the panic, found himself with his stock again on hand, because of the failure the gavel for the resumption of business."

Bob Brownley strode to the place just vacated by the president. The crowd was growing larger every minute. The ticker was already hissing a tape biograph of this extraordinary situation in brokerage shops, hotels, and banks throughout the country, and in a few minutes the news of it would be in the capitals of Europe. Never before in history did man have such an audience—the whole civilized world. Already arose from Wall, Broad and New streets, which surround the exchange, the hoarse bellow of the gathering hordes. Before the ticker should announce the resumption of business these would number hundreds of thousands, for the financial district for more than an hour had been a surging mob.

For once at least the much-abused phrase, "He looked the part," could be used in all truthfulness. As Robert Brownley threw back his head and shoulders and faced that crowd of men, some of whom he had hurt, many of whom he had beggared, and all of whom he had tortured, he presented a picture such as a royal lion recently from the jungles and just freed from his cage might have made. Defiance, deference, contempt, and pity all blended in his mien, but over all was an I-am-the-one-you-are-the-many atmosphere of confidence that turned my spinal column into a mercury tube. He began to speak:

"Men of Wall street:

"You have just witnessed a record-breaking slaughter. I have asked permission to talk to you for the purpose of showing you how any member of a great stock exchange may at any time do what I have done to-day. Weigh well what I am about to say to you. During the last quarter of a century there has grown up in this free and fair land of ours a sys-history of the stock exchange. Already, if what they say on the floor is correct, over 200 banks and trust companies throughout the country have gone under, and new failures are being announced every minute. Half the members of this and the Boston and Philadelphia exchanges are insolvent and have closed their doors, or will close them before three o'clock, and the shrinkage in values so far reported runs over fifteen billions. Unless something is done before the close, there will be a similar panic in every exchange and bourse in Europe to-morrow."

The committee instantly voted to lay the proposition before the full board. In another minute the president's gavel sounded, and the floor was still as a tomb. All eyes were fixed on the president. Every man in that great throng knew that upon the announcement they were about to hear, might depend, at least temporarily, the welfare, not only of Wall street, but of the nation, perhaps even of the civilized world. The president spoke:

"Members of the New York Stock Exchange:

"The governing committee instructs me to say that Mr. Robert Brownley has asked that operations be suspended for 30 minutes, in order that he be allowed to address you. Mr. Brownley has agreed, if this request be granted, he will upon resumption of operations purchase a sufficient amount of stock to raise the average price of all active shares at least one-half their total drop—all of it, if possible. He agrees to buy to the limit of his fortune of a billion dollars. I now put Mr. Brownley's request to a vote. All those in favor of granting it will signify the same by saying 'Yes.'"

"All those opposed, 'No.'"

There was a deathly hush.

"Mr. Brownley will please speak from this platform, and remember, in 30 minutes to the second, I will sound of the one to whom he had sold, and the price cut in two. The man who was "short" and who a few minutes before had been eagerly counting his profits now knew that they had been turned to loss, because the man from whom he had borrowed his short stocks for delivery would be in no condition to repay for them, the next day, when they should be returned to him. The "short" man was himself, therefore, "long" stocks he had bought to cover his "short" sale. In depressing the price he had been working against his own pocket instead of against the bulls he had thought he was opposing. All was confusion and black despair. There is, indeed, no blacker place than the floor of the stock exchange after a panic cyclone has swept it, and is yet lingering in its corners, while the survivors of its fury do not know whether or not it will again gather force.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice that a certified copy of the Assessment of Robert A. Meeker, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald, the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessment to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled 'An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," approved February 9th, 1905, as subsequently modified and confirmed by the Common Council, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections), under and by virtue of said Act of the Legislature, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in Cities of this State," approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said Act of the Legislature, said report and assessments covering the whole of said system of sewerage and appurtenances already completed (not covered by assessments heretofore made) and particularly in and through the following described streets and parts of streets, to wit:

Midway Avenue, between East Third Street and Berckman Street;

including house connections and including appurtenances of said sewerage system in connection therewith; the said streets and parts of streets in which the same were so made and constructed and the location and dimensions of the several lots, tracts and parcels of land and real estate so assessed being delineated on a certain set of maps numbered "1," "2," and "3," and each map marked "Sewer Construction Map, June, 1907," and attested by the signatures of the said Commissioners and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes July 1st, 1907, which said report and assessment were originally filed in the City Clerk's office July 1st, 1907, and ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said city on the fifth day of August, A. D. 1907, has been furnished and delivered to the subscriber by the Common Council of said City, and a certified copy of such assessment has been duly entered in the book kept for that purpose in the office of the subscriber, and payment of the sums assessed as aforesaid, is hereby required to be made within sixty days from and after the eighth day of August, 1907, being the date of the first publication of this notice.

Said assessments are required to be paid at the office of the subscriber, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J. The law provides that in case said assessments shal remain unpaid at the expiration of sixty days from and after such first publication, the said assessments shall draw interest thereon from that time at the rate of one per centum per month; and it shall be the duty of the Collector to proceed forthwith in the collection of said assessments by a sale of the land in respect of which said assessments may have been made.

JOHN W. MURRAY, JR., Collector.

Dated, Plainfield, N. J., August 8th, 1907. 8 8 4th

Office of the Street Commissioner,
City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

To MARIA D. ULRICK, or unknown owner of No. 143 and No. 145 East Fifth Street.

Pursuant to the requirements of Sections 4 and 6 of the ordinance of the City of Plainfield, entitled "An Ordinance concerning the construction, maintenance and repair of sidewalks," approved April 10, 1899, amended by ordinances approved August 4, 1902, June 6, 1905, June 6, 1906.

You are hereby notified and required on or before September 25, 1907, to curb the sidewalk abutting on the premises owned by you, situate number 143 and number 145 East Fifth Street, in the City of Plainfield, Union County, and State of New Jersey, which curbing shall be of bluestone not less than four inches thick in the thinnest part, sixteen inches in depth, all return curbs to have a radius of six feet, no piece to be less than three feet two inches in length, and all curbs to be smooth and even on the surface and laid under the direction of the Street Commissioner.

In default of compliance herewith, the Common Council is authorized by law to order the required work to be done and paid for; to make the amount of the expense and costs a lien upon the said abutting lands in front of which said work is done, to be collected in the manner provided by law and to bear interest at the same rate as other assessments; or payment may be enforced by action any court of competent jurisdiction, as provided by the statute.

ANDREW J. GAVETT,
Street Commissioner of the City of Plainfield.
Dated Plainfield, N. J., July 25, 1907.

AN ORDINANCE

To Vacate a Portion of Prescott Place.

Whereas, The Portion of Prescott Place between West Fifth Street and West Sixth Street, as shown on a map entitled, "Map of Building Lots for sale by the Plainfield Land Improvement Company, City of Plainfield, N. J., June, 1895," filed in the office of the Clerk of Union County, New Jersey, September 23rd, 1895, although never opened or used, was in fact dedicated as a Street; and

Whereas, Mary E. Spangenberg, Emma D. Harrison, John J. Praed, Charles E. Lyles, Alfred Hanai, Jr., and Albert E. Park are the owners of the fee, and of all property abutting anywhere on such portion of said street, and have applied to the Common Council of said City to vacate such portion of said Street, pursuant to Chapter CXGXIII, P. L., 1888, and other laws governing the matter, and it is to the interest of the City that such Street should be vacated;

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the portion of Prescott Place lying between West Fifth and West Sixth Street, as shown on map entitled, "Map of Building Lots for sale by the Plainfield Land Improvement Company, City of Plainfield, N. J., June, 1895," be and the same is hereby vacated, pursuant to the Acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided.

Adopted by the Common Council, August 5, 1907; approved by the Mayor, August 6, 1907.
CHARLES J. FISK, Mayor.

Attest, J. T. MACMURRAY, City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

Concerning the Removal of Buildings Outside of the Fire Limits from One Location to Another on the Same Tract of Land.

Section 1. That the Inspector of Buildings shall have authority to grant a permit for the removal, within the time to be stated in said permit, of any building outside of the fire limits from its location to another location also outside of the fire limits on the same tract or parcel of land; provided that he shall not grant any permit for the removal of a wooden building as aforesaid so as to bring said building within three feet of the inside line of a lot, unless the space between the studs of any and every side of such building within three feet of the inside line of the lot be filled in solidly with not less than two inches of brick or other hard fire proof material; and provided further than in the making of such removal, the said building shall not be moved over any part of any public street, lane or other public property or over any part of the property of any other owner, and that the application for such permit shall specifically state the present and the proposed location of said building.

Sec. 2. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are to the extent of such inconsistency hereby repealed.

Adopted by the Common Council, August 5, 1907; approved by the Mayor, August 6, 1907.
CHAS. J. FISK, Mayor.

Attest: J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend An Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance Relating to the Morals, Peace and Good Order of the City of Plainfield," Approved April 27, 1874, as Amended.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 11 of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Sec. 11. For unnecessarily obstructing the streets or byways of the city with any kind of vehicles, or with boxes, lumber, timber, wood or any other thing, any sum not exceeding ten dollars; and for continuing any of the above obstructions after having been notified to remove them by the Street Commissioner (or any other officer of the city government authorized to give such notice), any sum not exceeding ten dollars for each day of such continuance, not exceeding one hundred dollars on any one conviction; provided that the provisions of this section shall not be construed to prevent persons who are building from occupying one-half the width of the sidewalk and one-third the width of the roadway in front of the place where they are so building, upon their first obtaining from the Street Commissioner or the Common Council written permit so to do.

Adopted by the Common Council, August 5, 1907; approved by the Mayor, August 6, 1907.
CHARLES J. FISK, Mayor.

"LOU" WILTSE SIGNS WITH NEWARK CLUB

REINSTATED BY COMMISSION HE IS AT HOME HERE FOR THE PRESENT.

"Lou" Wiltse, who was recently re-instated by the National Baseball Commission, after repeated attempts to get back into the fold of baseball protection, has signed with the Newark Eastern League Club and will join that organization next week. He has been on the pitching staff of the Reading, Atlantic League, Club, pending the completion of his arrangements to go to Newark. He is now spending a few days in town, having been called here by the illness of his daughter.

"Lou" says that he is in first-class condition and can pitch as good as ever. He declares that while with Johnstown, of the Tri-State League, the manager wanted him to pitch, but he refused because of the fact that the grounds had a "skinned" diamond, and he claims that this interferred with his work greatly. All of the diamonds in the Eastern League have grass diamonds and as Wiltse was formerly used to this he should be able to do good work.

RESIGNATION OF RARITAN NINE ACCEPTED AT INTER-CITY LEAGUE MEET.

At a special meeting of the Inter-City Baseball League, held at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening, the withdrawal of the Raritan team from the league was accepted and it was decided to continue the league for the remainder of the season with just the four other teams. The Raritan team decided to disband about awo weeks ago, and formally presented the resignation from the league last night. Of the five games played by the team, the opposing team has been victorious in each case.

In order to effect an adjustment of team standing, it was decided that the remainder of the games scheduled by the Raritan nine should be forfeited to the opposing team in each case. There was considerable talk at the meeting about taking on another team in the place of the withdrawn club, but no satisfactory arrangement could be mande about the standing such club would have if it should enter the race for the inter-city championship. Manager Robert Bogardus, of the Dunellenites be allowed to enter the league in plac of the Raritan team.

In the absence of President Gavett, of the league, Brit Martin, of the Clinton Avenue team, was appointed to the chair. NEW HAY IS IGNITED BY SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.

Spontaneous combustion in new hay stored in the loft of the barn at the rear of Kasper Sachar's premises, 117 Washington street, caused a lively fire yesterday afternoon. The fire was discovered by George Bowers at shortly before three o'clock. Bowers, who is a deliveryman for a local meat firm, saw the flames bursting from the roof of the barn as he was driving past. He turned in an alarm from box 15, at Second and Washington streets, summoning the department.

Three lines of hose, with a check stream from the chemical, were turned on the flames, and the damage was confined to the upper floor of the building. The roof and upper side walls were destroyed, and the department worked for a long time extinguishing every sign of flame in the smouldering hay. In the barn was a horse and wagons belonging to Sachar, but these were undamaged.

Only a few days ago, two loads of fresh cut hay had been stored in the barn, and Chief Doane believes that this was the cause of the fire. The hay was valued at $75. The loss to the building will come to about $200. The building is insured for $500.

Star Ill; Play Off.

Disappointment is the portion of those who expected to see Richard Golden in the premiere of the new comedy, "The Other House," at the New Plainfield theatre, tomorrow night. Manager Counihan received word by wire, this morning, that the star was too ill to appear, and the date had been cancelled. The holders of the tickets for "The Other House" will have their money refunded on application.

SUSPECT A FARMER OF KIDNAPPING BOY

IF COVICTED HE WILL GET FORTY YEARS IN PRISON.

The police of Trenton are looking for a farmer who stopped at Hill's brewery last Thursday for a load of hops, and hired Clarence E. Williams, eleven years old, of No. 82 Klagg avenue, Trenton, to work on his farm without notifying Williams' family. The farmer will be charged with kidnapping if the facts are proved as now understood.

Kidnapping is punishable today through a law passed by The World in New Jersey with forty years' imprisonment.

Clarence and three other boys, one of whom was his brother Ernest, 7 years old, were invited to ride with the farmer on Olden avenue. When the wagon reached Hill's brewery the farmer said he was going inside for a load of hops for fodder. He told the boys that he needed help packing potatoes, and when he was ready to move on again he hired Clarence for the day at one cent a basket.

The lad told his brother that he was going to earn some money and would be back that night. But he did not return, and a week has about elapsed and there are no tidings of him. Search is being made everywhere, and there is rising resentment against the farmer who took him away. It is believed the lad had been detained against his will.

No one knows who the farmer is. He was not known at the brewery, nor did he talk there about a load of hops.

Priests Quell Disorder.

Belfast, Ireland, Aug. 14.—An experiment was tried last night in the strike of dock laborers and carters to prevent a recurrence of the rioting of Monday night, in which troops fired on the mob and killed three persons. While the city bristled with bayonets all day, it was announced yesterday afternoon that the authorities had decided to keep both the police and troops outside the disturbed area, the priests having agreed to look after the people. The troops and police withdrew at five o'clock. The experiment worked with marked success. Whlue there was much effervescence among the strikers, no actual outbreak took place. Large and excited crowds collected and assumed threatening attitudes, but the exhortations of the priests and other peacemakers prevailed, and at 11.30 o'clock last night the streets of Belfast were practically deserted.

River Steamer Ablaze.

New York, Aug. 14.—Six hundred panic-stricken passengers were taken from the burning Hudson River steamer Adirondack, bound from New York to Albany, at Roseton early today and landed at Poughkeepsie. With her decks ablaze the big Adirondack raced four miles up the Hudson until she was beached. The vessel was sinking and the crew was fighting the passengers to keep them from leaping overboard when the steamers Newburg and Marlborough came alongside and, despite the flames, rescued everybody after many thrilling experiences.

RALLY AROUND MARTINE

Purpose of Union's Special Committee is to Enlist Aid of Distinguished Democrats.

SAUNDERS VOLUNTEERS

It transpires that the real object General D. F. Collins, chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee, had in view in appointing a committee of seven members to arrange for the accommodation of the local delegation to the Gubernatorial convention of the party at Trenton next month was to enlist the interest of prominent Democrats throughout the State in the candidacy of James E. Martine. The "farmer orator" has been endorsed for the nomination by the Union County Committee and the aim is now to boom his candidacy in improved fashion. To this end, distinguished members of the party, not active politically, will be urged to present Martine's claims to the convention. No pains will be spared in putting the real ginger into his campaign.

Already a number of prominent Democrats have volunteered to lend their assistance, among them being former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, who is mentioned as the probable candidate of the party for mayor in that borough. Mr. Saunders is not a Bryan man but is loyal to his party in National and State campaigns, it is said. He is the president of the Ingersoll-Rand Drill Company, of New York, and takes a deep interest in his party's welfare.

"You can say for me," said Mr. Saunders in discussing Martine's boom, "that I would rather be a delegate to the State convention for Martine than even be mayor of North Plainfield. He is a splendid fellow and a loyal Democrat at all times. I like him personally and I have faith in him, sufficient to believe that he would make a most creditable governor. He has a mind of his own and cannot be swayed by selfish or mercenary purposes from the true path of duty. I do not know that I will be named as a delegate but be as it may I will be at Trenton to urge Jim's claims as best I can."

It is said to be the purpose of the Somerset Democrats to name Mr. Saunders as one of its delegates and if he gets on the floor of the convention a ringing speech for the farmer-orator may be expected from him. From what was learned today, it is safe to say a number of equally influential members of the party, not active in State politics, will work with might and main for the Plainfielder.

The special "boom" committee consists of John J. Lane, of Summit, chairman; Owen Farrelly, of Elizabeth; J. V. F. Dills, of Plainfield; Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth; George B. Cladek, of Rahway, and Judge Owen P. Mahon, of Elizabeth.

Excursion a Success.

Colored people to the number of more than three thousand spent the day at Bellewood Park yesterday on the occasion of the united excursions of churches from this city, Rahway, Bound Brook, Elizabeth and Newark. E. B. Maynard, of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, was in charge of the excursion from this city, and the local colored people made the trip in three special trolleys to Bound Brook, where they went the rest of the way by train on the Lehigh Valley. Everybody reports a good time, and there were no mishaps. The excursionists left the park at about 6 o'clock, arriving in this city on the specials at shortly after 8 o'clock. The affair was a financial success, and the local churches made money from the excursion.

Panhandler Caught in the Borough.

Morris Warlovsky, who is an old clothes dealer on Broadway, New York, took a vacation from metropolitan duties yesterday and tried to replenish his stock by panhandling in the borough. By selling linen, trading it, and begging old clothes, he had collected considerable stock in trade when Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough, arrested him on Duer street yesterday noon. Several of the residents of the Park had complained of the man. At police court, Recorder Dolliver told him of the penalty of peddling without a license, and he left town.

Check for J. J. Adams.

The police of Kearney telephoned to the local authorities yesterday afternoon that a certified check for $20 drawn to the order of J. J. Adams, of Plainfield, had been found on the street in Kearney. The payee may have the check by properly identifying himself at police headquarters.

JERSEY TROLLEY TRUST

All Lines to be Consolidated in $38,000,000 Public Service Railway.

MILLIONS IN "WATERED"

Corporation, in Buying the Control Four Years Ago, Pretended to Squeeze It Out—McCarter to Be President.

Plans embracing the formation of a new $38,000,000 corporation, to be known as the Public Service Railway Company, will be voted on by the stock-holders at the meeting to be held next Tuesday noon in the office of the Public Service Corporation in Newark.

The scheme is to consolidate all the trolley lines in Northern New Jersey under the one new head, and the opinion here is that the plan will go through, all the interests concerned favoring it. The Public Services already owns these lines, and the apparent object is to restore the original capital, which, four years ago, was called 'water."

The companies that have agreed to consolidation as ratified by the stockholders at the coming meeting, are the New Jersey Street Railway Company, the Jersey City, Hoboken & Paterson and the United Street Railway Company of Central New Jersey. These companies are now practically owned by the Public Service Corporation, which obtained $37,000,000, or about 95 per cent., of their capital stock for $14,000,000 par value, of perpetual interest bearing certificates, supposedly secured by the stock so exchanged. Under that deal $400 of the perpetual certificates was given for each $1,000 of Jersey City, Hoboken & Paterson stock, $300 in certificates for each $1,000 of Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey stock, the same for each $1,000 of Orange & Passaic Valley stock, and for each $1,000 of United Electric stock. At the time of the deal, which was four years ago, it was said it was made to squeeze the water out of the underlying companies.

Under the proposed deal to be put into effect next week the entire authorized capital of the proposed new corporation is to be issued at once and exchanged for $39,000,000 stock of the merged companies on the following basis: North Jersey, $15,000,000 capital, 150,000 shares of par value of $100 per share, to be converted into a like number of shares of the proposed new company and exchanged share and share alike; Jersey City, Hoboken & Paterson Street Railway Company, $20,000,000 capital, 200,000 shares, par value of $100, to be similarly converted and exchanged on the same basis, and the United Street Railway Company of Central Jersey, capital $4,000,000, consisting of 40,000 shares, par value of $100 each, to be converted into 30,000 shares of the new company and exchanged at the ratio of three shares of the proposed consolidated company stock for every four shares of the Central Jersey. By the deal the face value of the stock is to be brought up to where it was before the water was squeezed out of it, when it was obtained for $14,000,000.

The following, when the plan is ratified, will serve as the first Board of Directors: Thomas O. Barr, Orange; John J. Burleigh, Merchantville; Albert C. Carleton, Elizabeth; Walton Clark, Philadelphia; Mark T. Cox, East Orange; Anthony R. Kuser, Bernardsville; Lewis Lillie, Haverford, Pa.; Randall Morgan, Philadelphia; Thomas N. McCarter, Rumson; U. H. McCarter, Rumson, Charles A. Sterling, East Orange.

The first Board of Directors will be as follows: President, Thomas N. McCarter; vice presidents, Charles A. Sterling (East Orange), Albert E. Carleton (Elizabeth), John J. Burleigh (Merchantville); secretary, Frederick Evans, New York; assistant secretary, Harry C. Stevenson, Newark; treasured, James P. Dusenberry, Newark; assistant treasurer, Robert D. Miller, Jersey City.

Will Meet During "Old Home Week."

The national committee of the Catholic Young Men's National Association, will hold its convention in Elizabeth during "old home week," in October. The convention will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the week. There will be about 250 delegates and 10,000 visitors. The committee decided to send as delegates to Rome next year to attnd the Pope's golden jubilee, Rev. Joseph J. Murphy, of Peabody, Mass., and Michael J. Slattery, of Philadelphia.

RESCUED JUST IN TIME

Railroad Fireman Saves Two Little Girls from Would-Be Despoiler.

SUMMARY PUNISHMENT

Rescued from the grasp of their would-be despoiler just in the nick of time, two little girls had a narrow escape from terrible outrage in the strip of ground in this city between Front street and the railroad track near Jefferson avenue yesterday afternoon. They were saved by Archibald Davis, a fireman on one of the two drill engines at the Dunellen yard.

Davis was looking out from his post at the fire-box, along the track, when he saw a well-dressed young man hold two little girls. One of the girls was about six years old and the other about eight. The man's actions were suspicions, and Davis looked at him sharply. The locomotive was going slowly, and the group was in clear view. The man's intent became plain as Davis watched, and the fireman's blood became hot with anger as he suddenly realized the danger. Davis called to his engineer to stop, and leaped from the engine. He risked his limbs in the jump but he was too much aroused to regard prudence.

He struck the ground without injury, however, and recovering his footing, he went for the man on the run. The engineer lost no time in following him. Davis fell on the young man without warning, and began pounding him without mercy. The engineer came up, and joined in the pounding with the same energy. When the two men began to tire, the little girls' assailant managed to break away and run. Fear lent speed to his legs and he managed to keep ahead of the railroad men for the short distance they felt free to run. He disappeared in the direction of Clinton avenue. Before he got away both his eyes were blackened, his nose was askew and his lips were cut and bleeding.

When the punishment of their assailant began, the little girls appeared to realize for the first time that things were not all right. They broke into tears, and fled. The railroaders were too busy with the young man to stop them. The young man and the girls were not recognized by Davis or the engineer.

TELEGRAPH SERVICE SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

GENERAL STRIKE ORDER CALLS OUT ALL THE OPERATORS.

The local telegraphic service is slightly improved over that of yesterday, although the wires at the Western Union and Postal offices are considerably crippled. Manager Schermerhorn says that he has wires working between here and New York, and when a person attempts to send a telegram there is difficulty in getting it off. Everything is accepted subject to delay and sometimes that proves to be indefinite.

For awhile this morning the Postal operator was in touch with Newark and was able to send some business, but it did not last long. Whether the business at the main offices of the companies in New York is much affected or not, local business moves slowly. As a matter of fact persons who are in the habit of using the telegraph to any extent have adopted other means of sending their messages. Ever since the strike people have been advised at both offices to use the telephone or mail if they want quick transportation.

In Chicago today S. J. Small, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, issued a general strike order, for all members of the union to cease work immediately, except where contracts to pay the scale demanded have been signed. Comparatively few will be affected by this order, as a majority of the members are out. The railroad operators still refuse to strike in sympathy with the other union, declining to tie up business of the country to no purpose, but they will contribute $60,000 to the strike fund and will aid in other ways. On the New Jersey Central, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers is not very strong and no trouble is anticipated.

HORSE OWNER FINED AS WARNING TO OTHERS

DRAKE WASN'T VERY CRUEL BUT SENTENCE WAS IMPOSED FOR EFFECT.

Charles Drake, of West Seventh street, arrested on a charge of cruelty to animals, brought by the S. P. C. A., was fined $10 by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. The magistrate said, however, after listening to the testimony, that he didn t believe Mr. Drake had been guilty of any great cruelty, and imposed the fine merely as a deterrent of needless punishment of horses.

The prosecutor alleged that Drake, in driving his horse from a pasture to his yard, had hit it with five or six "clubs." Counsellor Francis J. Blatz, for the defendant, brought out testimony that reduced the half a dozen clubs to one switch. Dr. F. C. Herbert, a veterinary surgeon, testified that any blow of sufficient force to constitute abuse or cruelty would leave an unmistakable mark for three weeks, and that he could find no mark at all on the horse a few days after the alleged cruelty.

Former Judge W. A. Coddington, counsel for the S. P. C. A., contended that Drake struck the horse needlessly, because Drake himself had testified that the animal had a halter on and he was near enough to it to take hold of the strap and lead the horse away. Judge Coddington said the S. P. C. A. had no desire to be overzealous or ask for heavy punishment in such a case, but he believed a fine should be imposed for deterrent effect. Judge Runyon agreed that a fine would have a deterrent effect on horse owners with cruel tendencies, and imposed the sentence.

Prisoner Is Mum.

A young man who refuses to give his name or tell anything about himself was arrested at 11 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Flynn, on complaint of William Smith, who charges him with stealing a coat and a pair of trousers. Smith alleges that the prisoner, after boarding two days at 130 West Second street, where Smith rooms, disappeared on Thursday, taking the coat and trousers with him. Smith saw his on East Second street this morning, wearing the alleged stolen garments, and the arrest followed.

Pole Extradited.

Steve Brianowski, the Pole arrested here several weeks ago on a warrant charging him with assault in New York, was extradited this week. He was turned over to a New York detective at the county jail, where he had been confined pending the completion of extradition proceedings. He will be tried in New York next week. Counsellor Francis J. Blatz appeared for Brianowski in this State.

Forty Days In Jail.

Catherine Cahill, 55 years old, who is no stranger to the police court, appeared before Judge Runyon on a charge of drunkenness this morning. She fell off a Fourth street car at Monroe avenue yesterday while under the influence of much bad liquor, but the drunk's luck was her's and she escaped injury. She was sent to jail for forty days.

"D. and D." In the Borough.

Roundsman Lemuel Pope, of the borough force, found David Connors, of West Fifth street, and George Green, of Pond place, helplessly drunk and in a disorderly wrangle on his beat yesterday afternoon. He gathered them to hearquarters and at the session of court last night Borough Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence on them with a warning.

Strong Drink Not a Cure.

Mrs. Mary Saed, who lives in Millington, was found in a helpless condition at Mountain and Watchung avenues, last night, by Marshal Pope, and was taken to the borough lockup. She had been drinking, she said, to cure herself of rheumatism and stomach trouble. She will appear before Borough Recorder Dolliver at the session of court this evening.

Postmaster Robbed.

Because he neglected to get his valuables checked while he was in bathing at Ocean Grove one day last week, Postmaster Truman T. Pierson, of Metuchen, was robbed of $7 in change, which he left in his bath house at Assemblyman Lillagore's bathing pavilion, while he was swimming.

Girl Canoeists Upset.

In a canoe upse, near the "white" bridge of New Market pond, this week, the Misses Lucy Clawson and Ethel Garretson were thrown into the water. They sank in the mud up to their knees, and had rather a hard time gaining the shore.

CRAZED WOMAN AT LARGE

WANDERS ALL DAY

Farmers, Shocked By Her Appearance, Finally Effect Her Recapture—Long Mentally Unbalanced.

Leaving her home early yesterday morning clad only in her night clothes, Barbara Wormser, the twenty-year-old daughter of Thomas Wormser, a farmer who lives on the Slater farm, near the planing mill of Fritz Myers, at Watchung, spent the greater part of the day wandering about in the fields of the vicinity. The young woman has been mentally deranged for several years, and has always been kept in the house. The family were unaware that she had left the house until they were informed of the fact by neighbors.

The young woman left the house after the family had finished breakfast, slipping out unnoticed when it was supposed she was still in bed. Scantily clad as she was, she ran down the road to Myers' mill, where she attracted considerable attention among the employes as she stood in the road, with clothing torn and hair deranged. Several of the employes tried to capture her to take her back, but she only ran off through the fields. Through the entire morning, the young woman wandered in the vicinity of her home, for her parents were unable to persuade her to come back, or overtake her. Shocked and surprised by her appearance at their homes, many of the property owners in the vicinity finally formed an expedition and recaptured the girl shortly after noon. She was hysterical and in a highly nervous condition at the time of her capture and had torn off all of her clothing.

Several pedestrians who saw the woman from the street reported the incident to the borough police, but she was captured by the neighbors without the assistance of the boroughites. Wormser said that the woman had been weak minded since she was a child, but had never escaped from the house before. It is believed that she can no longer be controlled at her home, and will be sent to the State asylum.

SEWERS TO BE PLACED THROUGH MANY STREETS

BIG JOB TO BE UNDERTAKEN BY THE CONTRACTOR.

The proposed extension to the sanitary sewers, the contract for which was awarded to T. Foster Callahan, of Elizabeth, for $24,000, will cover a considerable portion of the city, not now sewered. The following named streets are included in the contract:

McKinley place, Edgewood avenue, George street, from Hill street to Leland avenue; Prospect avenue, from Park avenue to Hillside avenue; Kensington avenue, from Watchung avenue to Prospect avenue; Thornton avenue, from Park to Hillside avenues; Union street, from Randolph road to a point 500 feet south of Arlington avenue; Madison avenue, from Stelle avenue, to a point 400 feet south of Randolph road; Central avenue, from Randolph road to a point 1,200 feet south thereof; Randolph road, from Central avenue to a point 280 feet west thereof; Fillmore avenue; Hill street, from North avenue to George street; Johnson avenue, from Front street to North avenue; Jackson avenue, from Front street to North avenue; Netherwood avenue, from Front street to Columbia avenue; East Seventh street, from Leland avenue to a point 940 feet east thereof; in a right of way through property of David Hand from the intersection of Denmark road and Dixie Lane to Berkeley avenue; in right of way through property of David Hand, Sarah Henry, Ira L. LaRue and property now or formely of Edith H. Colby, from Berkeley avenue to East Seventh street.

In addition to the above work there are also to be made house connections in the following streets: Randolph road, from Central avenue to Park avenue; Park avenue, from Ninth street to South End avenue; Arlington avenue, from Union street to Randolph road; Arlington place; Martine avenue, from Park to Hillside avenues; Berkeley avenue, from Park terrace to Leland avenue.

Mr. Callahan is now getting things ready to start the work as soon as his materials arrive. Ten days are given in which to execute all necessary papers and it is expected that this will be completed within a few days.

DELEGATES APPORTIONED

Allot 32 Republicans and 29 Democrats in Somerset to Respective Conventions.

MORE IN UNION CO.

Republicans Will Have 69 Delegates With 67 Votes and Democrats Many Less.

As chairman of the Somerset County Republican executive committee, Senator J. S. Frelinghuysen has announced the apportionment of delegates from the several election districts to the fall State and county conventions. For the State convention, the apportionment shows 32 Republicans to 29 Democrats, while the county convention provides for 49 Republican delegates to 39 Democrats.

The apportionment is made in accordance with the law by which each election district is entitled to one delegate to the State convention for every 200 vots or fraction thereof over 100 cast for the Republican candidate for governor at the last election, and one delegate to the county convention for every 100 votes or fraction thereof over 40 for the Republican candidate for governor at the last election. The apportionment for the various townships and boroughs of the county are announced by Senator Frelinghuysen as follows:

The Republican State committee in connection with arranging for the State convention, has also fixed the number of votes to which each county is entitled at that convention. The power of the State committee to determine this apportionment has been questioned by some, for according to the primary law, the election district is the unit for the selection of delegates, with a representation of one from each district for every 200 votes cast at the last preceding gubernatorial election.

CHECK ON THE SPEEDERS

Senator Frelinghuysen Recommends Revocation of Licenses by Commissioner

BERNARDS IS AROUSED

Fatal Accident of Wednesday the Climax to Unbearable Conditions Brought About By Reckless Chauffeurs.

Aroused by the terrible automobile accident at Bernardsville Wednesday afternoon, which brought to a climax the conditions on the roads about that section created by careless and reckless chauffeurs, the officials of Bernards township have moved to check the carnival of speed that has grown to be a menace to all users of the highways. State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, father of the auto law, has been stirred to action by the conditions in Bernards, and through him State Automobile Commissioner J. B. R. Smith is to be interested in the reform.

Senator Frelinghuysen is so stirred by the increasing number of automobile casualties throughout the State that he suggests the forfeiture of licenses as a punishment for speeders. In a message to Commissioner Smith, he advised that a general notice be sent out to the effect that all licenses will be revoked on second notice of violation of the speed law filed with him.

Such accidents were in mind when the Legislature passed Frelinghuysen's amendment to the auto law providing for the appointment of sixteen inspectors to guard against them. The measure was placed before the Governor for his approval but for some unknown reason he vetoed it while the father of the auto law was on his sick bed. The same amendments will be enacted again, it is promised, next winter.

Acting on an appeal from one of the Bernards township committeemen, Senator Frelinghuysen has asked Commissioner Smith to detail a special automobile policeman to the Bernards district. The following correspondence has passed between the Bernards official, Senator Frelinghuysen and Commissioner Smith:

"Bernardsville, N. J., Aug. 14, 1907.

"Hon. Jos. S. Frelinghuysen, Raritan, N. J.:

"Dear Sir—We had another terrible auto accident here this afternoon, making two in about two weeks. Today there were two killed instantly and probably two more will die. And all from careless driving. They run through our town anywhere from 20 to 40 miles an hour. We want your assistance in having an officer stationed here and specials if necessary. Does not the State have to furnish the officers when necessary? We have posted notices, but of no avail. The people of our town are becoming alarmed. And the way many of these people run it, is not safe for people to walk the road. Let me hear from you at once and what can be done in the matter.

"Respectfully your,
"Frank P. Bowman,
"One of Bernards Township Committee."

"Frank P. Bowman, Bernardsville, N. J.:

"Have requested special officer from Auto Commissioner. Until arrival have local officer stop speeding and report violations to auto commissioner.

"J. S. Frelinghuysen."

"J. B. R. Smith, Automobile Commissioner, Trenton, N. J.:

"Township Committeemen request special officer Bernardsville section. Please send. People aroused. In view terrible casualties in State suggest also general notice that all auto licenses and registrations be revoked on second notice to you of violation of speed laws.

"J. S. Frelinghuysen."

SALOON-KEEPERS GET OFF.

Elizabeth Board Acquits Three Under Screen Act.

The Elizabeth Excise Board resumed the hearing yesterday of cases against some seventy saloon-keepers charged with having violated the screen provision of the Bishops' bill. Three cases were heard. In each instance the saloon-keeper won out, two of the complaints being dismissed because it was proved that the inn and tavern had the necessary ten rooms required to exempt it from the screen law, and in the other the board decided that the word of five witnesses, who swore that the screen was down on the day in question, was of greater weight than that of two detectives who swore that it wasn't.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Union County's Outing.

Over in Union county a vexatious question has arisen. It is, whether "Bob" Fitzsimmons or the Republican county executive committee has the less power to draw a crowd. It's a singular question to come up at the August end of a political campaign, but it arose in this way. The Union County Republican executive committee arranged for its annual outing, with clambake, refreshments, etc., at a grove on Long Island Sound. Hitherto, these outings have been largely attended and very successful, so much so that candidates and other contributors have had to go a second or third time into their inmost pockets to pay for the lobsters. This year the managers invited "Lanky Bob" to go with them and bring his pet lion along. He doesn't belong in Union, for he lives in Middlesex, but they seemed to think he would draw a big crowd and they could get points for the coming political fight. But, strange to say, Fitzsimmons didn't come, the lion didn't come, the crowd didn't come and only small fragments of the county ring came. It was the most unsuccessful outing the Republican county committee ever engineered, and they didn't know whether they or the prize-fighter caused the lack of interest. Codding was there and Perkins was there, but of the faithful but few were present. It seems to indicate a very peculiar condition of political affairs in Union county.—Newark News.

Regular Fiction.

What in former days were known as "campaign lies" now go under the much milder title of regular fiction, with a special emphasis this year, on the word "regular." About the first of these of any importance was the recent announcement, in a regular Republican organ, that City Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, had quit the Colby movement; and the inference was that so far as Union county was concerned Colbyism and reform was dead as factors in the coming campaign.

Judge unyon led the "new idea" wing of the Republican party in this county last year and made some excellent speeches. What he discussed of Plainfield politics and politicians had an effect that was abundantly manifest in several parts of the county. For Judge Runyon to abandon reform after making such a success of it would have been a misfortune indeed.

When the Judge was shown the report that he had abandoned the Colby movement, he declared: "This is a beautiful piece of imaginative writing." But not one of the papers that gleefully published the report of his disaffection has taken the trouble to correct it. The judge has not the time at his disposal, owing to pressure of business, to give the attention to politics he did last fall, but he's a Colbyite and a reformer as much as ever. Indeed, he's a Colbyite candidate for city judge of Plainfield, and will undoubtedly receive the indorsement of the regular Republicans. If that's an indication of the demise of the "new idea" in Plainfield, make the most of it.—Newark News.

Mr. Perkins' Candidacy.

One by one the elements of weakness in Mr. Perkins' candidacy have been brought forward until many of those who recognize the fact that the Assemblyman has qualities which make him a good legislator, and that he was not without honor at Trenton, have begun a doubt whether it is possible for him to secure a renomination. There is also considerable doubt as to whether he ought to seek a renomination, in view of the opposition which he finds himself facing. Naturally, the Republican organization does not want to takes any unnecessary risks with any candidate. They want to win. What are Mr. Perkins' chances of election? This is the question which those in touch with the situation are asking.

Unfortunately the situation in Union county has grown steadily worse for the Assemblyman. The growing feeling that he is no longer more than technically a resident of the county, the persistent criticism of the local option forces, however unjust that may be, the appearance of a strong feeling that three terms are all that he is entitled to, the revolt against him by the "new idea" people, and lastly and intimately connected with the fact that there is so much opposition to down—is the attitude of the regular party organization, which appears to think that Mr. Perkins has become too great a burden to carry. It is only natural, perhaps, under the circumstances, to find the Westfield Assemblyman openly advised in the press of the county to withdraw from the race.—Elizabeth Journal.

Bullet Removed From Shinbone of Policeman Who Was Shot.

Elizabeth, Aug. 16. William Lloyd, the policeman who was shot in the leg while attempting to disarm George Fox, after Fox and threatened to shoot Edward Keating, with whom he had an argument, was successfully operated on at the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, Wednesday afternoon by Dr. J. P. Reilly, who extracted the bullet from Lloyd's shinbone.

After the operation Lloyd was able to be removed to his home, and his complete recovery is anticipated. Owing to the position of the ball in Lloyd's leg, for a long time little hope was expressed by the hospital surgeons for its removal, and it was feared that the policeman might be permanently injured.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Frederick Herresoff, of Garden City, was medallist in the preliminary round of the annual tournament for the first president's cup, which was begun at Manchester, Vermont, Wednesday. He made the rounds in 74 and 75 respectively, giving him a total of 149.

Miss Gladys Mills, of Philadelphia, won the silver cigarette case as a prize in the eighteen hole handicap golf match at the Newport Golf Club, Wednesday. She will probably have it exchanged for some article of use to her.

Play for the Golf committee, Green committee and Scratch cups will hold the attention of the golfers at the Plainfield Country Club, tomorrow. At the Park Golf Club there will be play for the President's and Golf Club cups, while at Westfield, the members of the local golf club will continue play for the Governor's cup.

"Marty" O'Loughlin will go to Dunwoodie on Sunday, where with the veteran, William Duff, he will play a match with Jerome D. Travers and his partner. This is a return match. "Marty" and Duff won the first competition.

Robert Abbott has not been competing at the Plainfield Country Club for any of the cups, since his play in the big western tournament. He will probably return in the fall.

The standings for the various trophies at the local golf courses remain almost stationary these days, owing to the absence of so many members. Of course there are the same number of points to be won each week, but not much improvement in the standing of some players is noted.

Commencing Labor Day the members of the Plainfield Country Club will begin to return from their summer vacations and there will be renewed activity. The program for the fall is an exceptionally attractive one and will no doubt result in sharp competition among the club players. There will also be renewed interest in the weekly competition for the Golf and Green committee cups.

The dinner-dances will be resumed at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow night. There promises to be a large attendance. These weekly social events will be continued throughout September, as well as the rest of this month.

DIAMOND DUST.

Taylor Mehaffey, who is playing third base for a college team at Ampersand, in the Adirondacks, was batting against Heyniger, the famous Princeton twirler, a few days ago, and succeeded in getting two hits off the husky pitcher. Taylor always was noted for his stick work.

The only local game of interest tomorrow will be played at Crescent Oval between the Laurels, of Bound Brook, and the Clinton Avenues. While the home team is expected to win, the Bound Brook aggregation will no doubt put up a good game.

"Cy" Young, the first, has just completed seventeen years as a baseball pitcher, and he is apparently just as strong as ever, as his performances this year show. "Cy" has taken the best of care of himself and so far as anyone has been able to learn he has no bad habits. He can fool the best batters in the same old way.

With "Lou" Wiltse a member of its pitching staff, the Newark Eastern League Club should have no trouble in travelling a little faster. "Lou" says that his arm is as good as ever and he can put them over as of yore, when he was Baltimore's star slabman.

Manager Dahb's Hoboken team has been undergoing a thorough change, and with the exception of Mike Leonard and two or three other players, none of the old aggregation remain. The new combination seems to be working well.

"Jimmy" Bertwhistle, formerly of the Plainfield team, is now playing in the Tri-State League and from all accounts is making good.

It may hurt "Billy" Gilbert to do it, but he will no doubt return that $100 and maintain his standing with the National Baseball Commission.

"Jimmy" Montross will again pitch for the West Ends, of Somerville, tomorrow, and his friends are wishing him luck. The two games pitched recently for the county seat boys were hard ones to lose. There was only a difference of a run or two in the score.

May Start Work in East End.

It is not known exactly where T. Foster Callahan, the contractor, will start the new sewer work, but it is likely to be on George street, in the East End of the city. There will be some delay in securing iron pipe, and in the meantime concrete pipe, where called for, will be used.

E. A. Laing, of East Front street, is spending two weeks at Asbury Park.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

IMPURE BLOOD.

If you could see inside the stomachs of most people who suffer from impure blood you would wonder that they are not suffering worse. The undigested portion of food eaten days ago is still lying there, fermenting, decaying and clogging the intestines.

LITTLE SON OF MRS. HAHN.

From this disgusting mass the blood must derive nourishment to carry to every organ of the body. Think of it. Is it any wonder their complexion is bad, their breath offensive, their bowels inactive and their health impaired in every way? Is it any wonder that they can get no relief from blood purifiers, purgatives when as fast as the blood is cleansed it is tainted again? Try a rational treatment. Take something to help the stomach rid itself of this stagnant mass and to keep it from accumulating. Then see if you don't improve. One bottle of Cooper's New Discovery will prove my words to you. I have seen hundreds of just such cases and here's one of them:

"About a year ago my little son, who is nearly four years of age, suffered an attack of scarlet fever. Soon after he contracted what we thought was some form of eczema. Sores and blotches broke out on him and he became weak and peevish."

"We tried physicians and medicines but nothing seemed to help him until several weeks ago we started to give him Cooper's New Discovery and noticed an improvement almost immediately. After a few doses we noticed his appetite was better and gradually his little face assumed a brighter appearance. His skin is now cleared up and I want to thank you sincerely for what the medicine has done for him." Mrs. Herman Hahn, 823 Johnson St., Nashville, Tenn.

Ask us about Mr. Cooper's famous medicines. We are the agents.

Barn and Three Horses Burned.

Summit, Aug. 16.—The barn belonging to Fred Brenn, on Russell place, was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon. The alarm was sent in at about 5.30 p. m., but in spite of the hard fight made by firemen to check the flames the fire had already made such headway that it was impossible to get it under control. The hay which had been recently stored in the barn took fire in an unaccountable manner, and Robert D. Townsend, Stephen J. Cox several tons of hay were destroyed. Three horses were burned to death. It is estimated that the total loss was about $2,000.

"ALMOST A FIRE. About 5 o'clock Sunday morning, the watchman on duty at the gas house in this city carelessly turned the valve in one of the standpipes while charging two of the retorts. The gas instantly took fire and spread in a vast volume against the roof of the building. The man immediately started for the residence of Mr. Morse, who had charge of the works, and told him the condition of affairs. Mr. Morse immediately ordered him to give the alarm, while he proceeded in all haste to the works, where with the assistance of Mr. John Schenck, the flames were soon extinguished, before even the roof had taken fire. In the meantime, the alarm had been given, and the fire department turned out. It was a fearful tug through the mud, but the boys pulled manfully, assisted by some of our citizens. The 'Gazelle' being the first apparatus to leave the engine house, succeeded in gathering quite a number of the firemen and citizens, who manfully pulled her through the mud to the corner of Front and Peace streets, at which point she was met (steamed up, and ready for action) by Chief Engineer Frazer, and by him ordered back, as there was no need of her services. Steamer 'No. 2' started for the scene of action, but having only a limited number of men, floundered away in the mud, until they reached Cherry and Front streets, where they were also started for home. Zephyr H. and L. Co. also started for the fire, and found plenty of mud. Oh, for horses!"

"A project is on foot to divide the township of Warren, Somerset county, making a new township, to be called 'North Plainfield.' A remonstrance is on foot against it, by parties living within the limits of the new township."

"At a parish meeting of the congregation of the Second Presbyterian church of this city, held on Monday night last, it was decided to purchase the property of Mr. Embury, on the corner of Church and Front streets, running back to Second street, for the purpose of erecting a new church on the grounds. We learn that the property was purchased for $18,000—very cheap, we think. No doubt a handsome edifice will be erected."

Our New Postoffice.

"Plainfield can now boast of as handsome and well regulated Postoffice as there is in the State, in any city of its size. Postmaster Vail has spared neither time nor expense in fixing up the new office to suit the wants of the people. There have been many boxes added, making in all a total of 859. The front row of boxes presents a handsome appearance, the framework surrounding which is the workmanship of friend Dick Davis, a good and ingenious workman, foreman of the establishment of Mr. Wm. C. Ayers, of this city. There are three delivery places; at the front one is suspended a cord attached to an alarm bell, for the purpose of calling attention to the clerks, should they happen to be in the rear of the store when a person wishes his mail matter. We learn Mr. Benj. Magie, of this city, who is engaged in the jewelry business in N. Y. city, proposes to present Mr. Vail with a handsome timer to be placed immediately over the front delivery box. Mr. Vail has a neat little office in the rear to transact his real estate business in. It is his intention to allow no placards of any description to be stuck up on the walls. All advertisements must be framed, and then a certain price will be charged to hang them up. Take the office together, we think that the citizens of Plainfield should be proud of it, and accord Postmaster Vail due credit for his enterprise."

ONE CHROME VICTIM DEAD.

Elizabeth, Aug. 16.—William Moners, one of the two Hungarians who were shot at Chrome, in the borough of Roosevelt, a few days ago, by a fellow-countryman, died Wednesday evening in the Alexian Hospital. Frank Katko, the other man shot, is in a critical condition today, he having suffered a change for the worse Wednesday night. Small hope is now entertained for his recovery.

The dead man was thirty-three years old, and leaves a wife and three children, who are now on their way from Hungary to the United States. They are expected to reach here early next week. The body has been removed to Steiner's morgue.

Plainfield, N. J., August 16, 1907.

Mr. Lawson advises us to buy, but will he please tell us what with?

Didn't know we had so many heroes until we heard from the Governor.

What significance are we to attach to the Somerville Unionist-Gazette's failure to make editorial reference to Senator Frelinghuysen's withdrawal?

Citizen Fixit Freeman must feel the hot weather terribly. "Chan" is a naughty, naughty fellow and as for Justice Gummere he should be spanked and put to bed.

The scenes change and we behold John R. Hardin in the centre of the Democratic arena being hailed as the Only Jim's choice. Judge Francis Child will please not obstruct the limelight's brightness.

The police board has the right idea in attempting to arrange for "Lanky Bob" to teach the Plainfield cops the manly art. He can show them more clever tricks in one day than a parlor physical director can in a month.

What progress the country will make by locating John D.'s father is not revealed by the New York World, but probably we are to be advanced two thousand years by discovering the whereabouts of this much advertised old man.

Had Governor Stokes not vetoed Mr. Frelinghuysen's amendments to the latter's State automobile law providing for the appointment of many inspectors, it is quite probable that so many fatal accidents would not be constantly happening.

Of course, Dave Lane, the boss behind the scenes for two decades in Philadelphia, favors Senator Knox for President. He has every reason to when it is considered that the Pennsylvania railroad wants Philander in the office. Certainly the former Attorney General should be "safe and sane" so far as the monopolies would view it.

There is no justification for alarm over James E. Martine's candidacy. The Democratic bosses will see to it that no such high-principled and admirable citizen will be allowed to have the chance of being their candidate for Governor. The thing that kills James is that he is no tool to any individual or corporation. He possesses that which in legal phraseology is unknown to a corporate body; in short, he has a soul.

Noisy Day in Harbor.

New York, Aug. 16.—At 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the whistle of every steam vessel in the harbor will be blown in celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the first trip of the first steamboat, the Clermont, up the Hudson River. The Association for the Protection of Commerce, of which F. B. Dalzell is head, has sent out requests to all shipping interests in the harbor to observe the day.

ASSEMBLYMAN SUES SMITH FOR $100,000

H. E. WRIGHT, JR. BRINGS SLANDER SUIT AGAINST FORMER SENATOR.

Summons and a declaration in a suit brought in the Essex County Circuit Court by Assemblyman Edward H. Wright, Jr., against former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., to recover punitive damages to the amount of $100,000 for alleged slander, were filed in the sheriff's office yesterday afternoon at Newark.

The action is based on remarks alleged to have been made by Mr. Smith on the occasion of a public reception held by Governor Stokes on the porch of the Governor's cottage at Sea Girt on August 2 last.

The conversation, according to the declaration, was between the Governor and Mr. Smith in the presence of Edward W. Gray, the Governor's private secretary, "and divers other persons of great personal and political importance throughout the State of New Jersey."

The specific words on which the slander suit is based are quoted in the declarations as follows:

"The said malicious lie and statement being made with so much venom and in such a loud tone of voice that his excellency the Governor feared that a number of women who were on the porch of his said cottage would hear the said slanderous lie and statement, the hearing of which slanderous lie and statement by said women on the said porch would annoy and grieve the said Governor, because the remarks of the defendant, James Smith, Jr., concerning and about the said plaintiff, Edward H. Wright, Jr., were of such a vulgar and indecent character that the Governor wished that the said women guests should not hear."

The declaration says of Bell that he is a wine merchant, who has many times during the course of the Legislature of 1907 acted as a "legislative agent of divers persons wishing to procure certain legislation," and, according to the declaration, "the innuendo of the said defendant, James Smith, Jr.," about Wright being that by drunkenness and other dissolute conduct he had made himself incapable of acting freely and for the benefit of the people of the State in the Legislature.

This was so, the declaration asserts, "because he (Wright) had spent his time away from said Legislature with said alleged wine and women, and because of improper and undue influence or by bribery by means of said alleged wine and women, supplied, as alleged, by said Bell, had committed misfeasance and malfeasance in his office as a member of the House of Assembly."

OFFICE AN ELECTION ISSUE.

Appointment of Assistant to Elizabeth City Attorney Interesting.

Elizabeth, Aug. 16.—Since the communication from the Excise Board, requesting that City Attorney Connolly be furnished with an assistant, to take up the special screen cases, was received by the City Council there has been much speculation in official circles as to what action would be taken. There are indications now that the granting of the request under a permanent provision will be an issue at the coming city election.

In conversation yesterday afternoon Mr. Connolly advancer the opinion that the office of assistant city attorney will be established here in the fall, but that no action will be taken by the City Council in regard to an appointment until the office is to be permanently filled.

According to the communication of the Excise Board, the city attorney assistant was simply to handle the seventy-eight screen cases that are now pending, but the need of such an addition to the municipal staff has long been acknowledged and it is the understanding that council has delayed action with a view to filling the breach permanently when the proper time arrives.

LACKAWANNA RAILROAD BRIDGE IS DESTROYED.

Sparks from Engine Set Fire to Span at Pequest Furnace—Line is Held Up for Hours.

Washington, N. J., Aug. 16.—The Lackawanna Railroad was tied up near Pequest Furnace for about two hours Wednesday afternoon, owing to a fire which completely destroyed the overhead wagon bridge. In burning, the bridge fell on the tracks, blocking them until the wrecker and crew and nearly one hundred laborers and carpenters came from Washington and cleared the wreck. The men, under Charles Hull, built a new bridge in two hours.

It is supposed that sparks from the locomotive of No. 2 express set fire to the structure, which is on the road from Oxford to Tonnsbury and the Warren county almshouse. Material for a new bridge was taken from Washington, and when the wagons began to return from the farmers' picnic, at Belvidere, the new bridge was ready for them.

The guard rails were not erected however, and the company stationed men at the bridge to warn all travelers of the danger.

Buys Imported Fleas.

New York, Aug. 16.—"Doc, the flea trainer," as he is known to the stewards of the North German Lloyd steamship line, was ejected from the piers of the company in Hoboken yesterday for retarding the work of the men by his efforts to spur them on to capture fleas for him. "Doc" visits the piers every time a vessel comes in with steerage passengers and he pays the stewards fifty cents each for good healthy fleas. Most of the insects come from the steerage, but "Doc" willingly accepts those captured in the first or second cabins. The trainer teaches the insects to perform in his flea circus and sends troupes of them out on the road with the side shows of circuses, etc. The nimble little creatures have been a source of revenue to "Doc" for several years. As yet the Government has not imposed a tariff on fleas. It is a well-known fact to entomologists that the American flea is not as intelligent or lively as the imported insect.

Mrs. Milton C. Barkalew and daughter, Marguerite, of Duer street, accompanied by Mrs. Barkalew's sister, Mrs. Josephine Kissam, left Monday for Saranac Lake, N. Y., where they will remain for two weeks.

Have You Tried Our Soda?

There is lots of difference in soda. We use only the best of materials. Our flavors are made from the true fruits, carefully selected oranges, lemons and berries, and have the right taste. We take lots of care to have them right. Our ice cream is right, and we combine them right. Once tried, is the convincing argument. Coco Cola and Moxie served ice cold. We serve Welsh Grape, as made, not diluted—never was intended to be served so. Ice cream sundaes any fruit flavor, 5 cents. Come in. Store always cool and roomy.

ASSAILS THE JUDICIARY

Alden Freeman Accuses Justice Gummere, C. W. Riker and Others.

GRAND JURY SECRETS

New Idea Leader, Says Riker, Backed By Gummere, Strove to Stop Indictment of Public Service Officials.

Alden Freeman, chairman of the Essex County Committee of the Independent Party, at a dinner at his home in East Orange, last night, to Frank H. Sommer, sheriff of Essex county and a candidate for the nomination for Governor, bitterly attacked Chandler W. Riker, who is spoken of as a possible candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket; his brother, Supreme Court Clerk William Riker, Chief Justice William S. Gummere, and ex-Senator James Smith, Jr. In doing so he revealed the proceedings of the Grand Jury which investigated the wreck of a trolley car crowded with school children in Newark. He charged Chandler Riker and Justice Gummere with having endeavored at that time to prevent the return of indictments against the officials of the trolley company for criminal negligence.

"I would warn the people of New Jersey against electing to public office, especially to the Governorship, any man who has been appointed to the Judiciary, to a Public Prosecutorship, or to any State Board of Taxation or Assessment," said Mr. Freeman. "The Trail of the Serpent" lies over them all.

Welcomes Riker's Defection.

"So I say that I only rejoice at the apparent defection from the Colby ranks of the 'Boss of Orange,' William Riker. He was not at the earliest meetings in which the Colby movement was started. When Gardner Colby told me that Mr. Riker was coming to a conference at Everett Colby's house in Llewellyn Park, I strongly protested, but was overridden. I said to Gardner Colby that I was sure he would live to regret the day that William Riker was included in our counsels. I told him that I could never see any difference between Boss Riker and Boss Lentz save the one was in power and the other out.

"His brother Chandler W. Riker's connection with the movement has been even less. This spring Everett Colby called me up on the telephone and asked if I could stand for Chandler for Governor. I said I could stand for any man who sincerely stood for the principles we are fighting for. I later saw Mr. Colby at headquarters and told him I should believe Chandler W. Riker was really converted to the new idea if he would stand for two things: The taxation of trolley and other public service franchises on the same terms that you and I pay our taxes, and that he agreed to openly support the Colby Assemblymen.

"Mr. Colby went out to lunch with Mr. Riker, and about 2:30 o'clock I saw him again, when he said that Mr. Riker was unwilling to stand for either proposal. Regarding equal taxation, Mr. Riker said he had a much better plan to fix that matter than the Ford Franchise law, passed and approved when Roosevelt was Governor of New York, and since declared constitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Not a Foe to Special Privileges.

"In connection with my personal knowledge of Mr. Chandler Riker this seemed very significant and conclusive to my mind. The former public prosecutor of Essex county was never either a foe to special privilege nor likely to take the side of the people in any contest with corporations. My earliest knowledge of him was as the chief representative for the trolley companies, while they were fastening their grip upon the highways in the Oranges.

"But I feel that I made the acquaintance of the real Chandler Riker when a member of Sheriff Nicoll's first Grand Jury, the December jury, of 1902. On that terrible 19th day of February, 1903, which Newarkers will never forget, I was still on duty in the Grand Jury. Aside from the horror of it which grew as we examined the crippled victims on crutches in the jury room or in their cots at the hospital, my most vivid recollection was the strenuous effort on the part of both Chandler Riker and Chief Justice Gummere, to prevent the bringing in of an indictment. The jurymen were most unanimous in favor of separate individual indictments for manslaughter against various officers of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, and each member of the Executive Committee of the corporation, and directed the public prosecutor to prepare such indictments.

"For a week we kept asking for the indictments ordered from the prosecutor. Different members of the jury in the meantime told me that they were being approached from the outside. One man told me he was offered fifty one-thousand-dollar bills by the son of one of the officers of the company to use his influence to quash the indictment. The same man told me of loans called by financial institutions of Newark and contracts held up.

"After this week of suspense Mr. Riker finally brought in an indictment of all the men in a bunch instead of the separate, individual indictments ordered. I protested with all the power I possessed, and was ably supported by some of the finest men I have ever met, but the week's delay of the prosecutor had done the work, although the trick of the blanket indictment was fully exposed.

"Mr. Riker was greatly excited. I recall that his hands shook as though with the palsy, although his face remained immobile. He made his final effort when he said the Chief Justice wished us to go before him and let him advise us. I resented the invasion of the rights of the Grand Jury. I said that if Justice Gummere had anything to say to the Grand Jury, let him come before us like any other citizen, that the functions of the Grand Jury and those of the Chief Justice were distinct and separate, and that he had no right to thus encroach upon the rights of the Grand Jury, which was a co-ordinate part of our judicial system, and the only weapon left in the hands of an outraged people with which tyranny can be assailed.

"Chandler Riker's pleadings finally prevailed against me then, and a committee was appointed to wait upon the Chief Justice. It was insisted that I should go along.

Justice Gummere Attacked.

"The Chief Justice received us, and we found Justice Gummere even more agitated than the Public Prosecutor. The Chief Justice made a long argument against indicting. He said we must have reasonable ground to show criminal negligence. We brought up the warning of Mayor Doremus in his message, and various warnings of a similar nature by citizens and particularly the words of the President of the Lackawanna Railroad, Samuel Sloan, who told the trolley people before they laid their rails across the railroad tracks that there would inevitably be an awful slaughter there some day and that as a mere matter of business it would be much cheaper to carry the trolley tracks over the railroad on a bridge than to pay the damages in civil suits which would follow the death of the victims of parsimony.

"I cited the testimony of officers of the trolley company that there were twenty-one other trolley grade crossings equally dangerous in Essex county, and finally asked the Chief Justice if, knowing of the collision of Feb. 9 (I cannot call it an accident) and the butchery of the High School children, would he (the Chief Justice) then consider that these trolley officials had knowledge of the danger sufficient to call it criminal negligence if (while we were disputing) nine other school children were being done to death at any one of the other twenty-one unprotected, unguarded grade crossings over the railroad tracks?

"Justice Gummere made no reply, and we filed out without a word.

"When we returned to the Grand Jury room, the indictments went through as prepared by Mr. Riker, but with a solemn pledge on the part of the Grand Jurors that if a miscarriage of justice resulted from the failure of the Grand Jury, then the Jurymen should unite in a statement. This miscarriage of justice certainly ensued, but the members of the December Grand Jury of 1902 have never kept their solemn pledge.

"I followed the trial with the closest attention, and the Public Prosecutor utterly neglected to bring out the essential point in the testimony. The engineer of the trolley company, Arthur A. Reimer, under oath, told us of the Grand Jury that Clifton avenue, where the disaster occurred, was long considered a place of danger, and that he was directed to prepare plans for a derailing device at Clifton avenue by David Young. He testified that he drew up plans for such a device. It was found that his mechanism cost more than $1,000, and he testified that Mr. Young told him they would not put it in, as the company could not afford the expense.

"This was the essential point in determining the criminal negligence of the officials of the company, and Mr. Riker never brought out a word of the most important testimony in the whole case. At the close of the trial, when Justice Gummere and his associates refused to permit the case to go to the jury, I myself heard Roosevelt Shanley, one of those on trial for manslaughter, in shaking hands heartily with Chandler W. Riker, the Public Prosecutor, say most heartily:

"Thank you, Chan!"

ACCUSED BY EMPLOYER.

Whitehouse, Aug. 16—Frank Lewis was arrested at Whitehouse Station, Wednesday, by Constable John H. Reed, on a charge of stealing a gold watch and chain and a diamond ring from the home of Jacob Gale, a junk dealer, in Flemington.

Lewis had been working for Gale and during his employer's absence, it is alleged, he stole the articles from a bureau drawer and disappeared. Gale learned that Lewis was trying to sell the watch at a hotel at Whitehouse Station and telephoned here to have him arrested. Justice Jacob C. Voorhees committed Lewis to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury. Lewis had the watch in his possession, but the ring was missing.

To Be Opened July 4, 2000.

Harrisburg, Pa. Aug. 16.—Among the papers which were laid before the State Board of Revenue Commissioners at thier meeting yesterday was a sealed envelope, which had been in the possession of the State Treasurer since 1881. This envelope was sent to the Capitol in that year and is marked "Contract of C. F. McKay with the Girard Title and Trust Company." It bears the injunction that it is not to be opened until July 4, 2000, when the proceeds are to be applied to the State debt, and indorsed across the face in the handwriting of ex-Gov. Hoyt is an order that the request shall be honored. It is said that the envelope contains an order to turn over to the State $20,000 worth of State bonds held by that company. The Commissioners ordered that the envelope be kept as directed.

Kills Father In Duel.

New York, Aug. 16.—Exchanging shot for shot at such close range that the blue smoke filling the room made her aim uncertain, Mrs. Madeline Langlotz yesterday morning engaged in a duel with his father, George Wasser, that ending in his falling unconscious with a bullet in his head. The daughter had been nerved to frenzy by seeing her father shoot her mother. Both the wife and husband died later in the Harlem Hospital, and it remained for their children to tell the story of the double tragedy in the Wasser flat, at No. 2058 Third avenue.

Chorus Girl Mashes Rock.

New York, Aug. 16.—A rock stopped the headlong fall of Blanche Sosley, a chorus girl in "The Time, the Place and the Girl," down the iron stairs leading from her dressing room at Wallack's Theatre, last night. The rock was entirely demolished, but Miss Sosley escaped with a badly sprained ankle and contusions about the back and neck. She was removed to her home and is under physician's care. The rock which broke the chorus girl's fall, and in turn was broken, was made of papier mache.

Republican State Convention Call.

The Republican voters of New Jersey are requested to elect delegates at primary elections to be held according to the provisions of the statutes of New Jersey, to a State convention to be held in Taylor Opera House, in the city of Trenton, at twelve o'clock noon, on Thursday, the nineteenth day of September, 1907, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor, to be supported at the ensuing election.

The basis of representation from each county under this call is regulated by Chapter 237, laws of New Jersey, session 1906, page 508. That is to say, one delegate for every two hundred votes cast by the Republican party for its candidate for Governor at the last gubernatorial election, viz., election 1904, and one delegate for each fraction thereof over one hundred, but any election district which cast at the last gubernatorial election less than two hundred Republican votes shall be entitled to cast such fractional portion of a vote in said convention as may be determined by the respective county committees of the State.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Quips from "Little Johnny Jones:"

The Unknown to Johnny Jones, who has just put in an appearance as the American jockey:

"Come on; let's all have a drink."

Johnny Jones: "I can't. I'm too thirsty."

"I just pushed that old skate's nose right up to the barrier, and from the moment the starter said 'Go!'—"

The Irishman: "Yes, yes, yes, yes! Go on! Go on!"

The Unknown to Captain Squirvy, of the St. Hurrah, who sports a particularly luxuriant beard:

"Hello, whiskers."

Capt. Squirvy: "Not whiskers, sir, not whiskers."

The Unknown: "Well, they look like whiskers."

Luna Park with all its splendor and grandeur, its dazzling lights, its famous chutes, its delightful Japanese gardens are reproduced in the second act of "Playing the Ponies," the novel musical comedy that will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre, August 19, with those famous funsters, Yorke and Adams, as stars. Mr. Forrester has engaged a company of superior artists. The famous pony ballet, the Knickerbocker Sextette, and the singing and dancing chorus of twenty are some of the many features. The first act of the comedy takes place at Sheepshead Bay Race Track. Diablo and Lady Love, two famous race horses, will race for supremacy in full view of the audience.

That the Western drama will continue in favor another year at least is evidenced by the plans of the principal theatrical managers. David Belasco will send on tour his "Rose of the Rancho," and Klaw & Erlanger have booked "The Round-Up" in their own "Theatre Beautiful," the New Amsterdam. In the popular price class there are "Through Death Valley" and "Under Suspicion," both melodramas with a strong Western flavor. "Under Suspicion" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on August 20.

The attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday, August 22, will be a production of "Montana." With Harry D. Carey, the author in the leading role, "Montana" has shared equal laudation along with the Virginian and Arizona and by many whose esteem is valued, it has been pronounced the equal if not the superior of both plays mentioned above and others of the Western type. Mr. Carey, the author, will be remembered as one of the leading members of the Sothern-Marlowe combination and one of the most promising young actors of today. "Montana" is true to the Western country, its types are the people of the plains and hills as they are and not the rough boisterous, unkempt, caricatures that do duty in cheap sensationals. "Montana" tells a pretty story of the country and its vigorous, healthful men and women doing and saying things naturally interestingly, and moving in atmosphere of good fellowship clean cut, wholesome comedy.

Congress to Have Ticker.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The "ticker" for Congress is the latest wrinkle devised to lighten the burden of the heavily-laden Congressmen. Instruments noting the market of the New York Stock Exchange will be placed in the committee rooms when the new office buildings are completed. The distance between the office-buildings and the Capitol is several hundred feet, and the ticker will save the Congressman walking this distance many times a day. The idea is to employ a trained newspaper man to watch the proceedings on the floor of the House and Senate and send the reports out on the ticker. The House office building will be ready for use during the next Congress.

Discontinues Case.

The third trial of the action of C. F. Smith to dispossss Eugene B. Farwell, of Berkeley Heights, did not take place on Wednesday before Justice Woodruff, of New Providence, as scheduled. A jury of twelve men had been summoned together, but just as the case was about to be begnn, the plaintiff informed the court that he wished to discontinue the proceedings. The action was originally brought by Smith to dispossess Farwell, claiming that he and not Farwell leased the farm at Berkeley Heights. The latter held the lease, however, which was signed by the owner. The costs of the case are charged up to the plaintiff.

Miss Alice DeMott, of Somerset street, left yesterday for Asbury Park.

CHAPTER IX.

"One word, gentlemen," he called. "I have more trades outstanding, both buys and sells, than any other member or house. Before deciding whether to adjourn in an attempt to save 'the Street,' I ask your consideration of this proposition: If the exchange will suspend operations for 30 minutes, and allow me to address the members on the floor, I will agree to buy stocks all around the room, until they have regained at least half their drop—all of it, if possible. I will buy until I have exhausted to the last hundred my fortune of a billion dollars. This should make an adjournment unnecessary. I know that this is a most extraordinary request, but you are confronted with a most extraordinary situation, the most remarkable in the tem by which the few take from the many the results of their labors. The men who take have no more license from God or man to take than have those from whom they filch. They are not endowed by God with superior wisdom, nor have they performed for their fellow-men any labor or given to them anything of value that entitles them to what they take. Their only license to plunder is their knowledge of the system of trickery and fraud that they themselves have created. No man can gainsay this, for on every side is the evidence. Men come into Wall street at sunrise without dollars, before that same sun sets they depart with millions. So all-powerful has grown the system of oppression that single men take in a single lifetime all the savings of a million of their fellows. To-day the people, 80,000,000 strong, are slaving for the few, and their pay is their board and keep. I saw this robbery. I felt the robbers' scourge. I sought the secret. I found it here, here in this gambling-hell. I found that the stocks we bought and sold were mere gambling chips, that the man who had the biggest stack could beat his opponent off the board; that his opponent was the world, because all men directly or indirectly played the stock-gambling game. To win, it was but necessary to have unlimited chips. If chips were bought and sold, on equal terms, by all, no one could buy more than he could pay for, and the game, although still a gambling one, would be fair. A few master tricksters, dollar magicians, long ago seeing this condition, invented the system by which the people are ruthlessly plundered. The system they invented was simple, so simple that for a quarter of a century it has remained undiscovered by the world at large—and even by you, who profess to be experts. No man thought that a free people who had intended to allow all the equal use of every avenue for the attainment of wealth, and who intended to provide for the safeguarding of wealth after it was secured, could be such dolts as to allow themselves to be robbed of all their accumulated wealth by a device as simple as that by which children play at blindman's buff. The process was no more complex than that employed by the robber of old, who took the pebbles from the beach, marked them money, and with the money bought the labor of his fellows and by the manipulation of that labor and by turning pebbles into money he took away from the laborer the money which he had paid them for the labor until all in the land were slaves of the moneymaker. These few tricksters said: We will arbitrarily manufacture these chips—stocks. After we have manufactured them, we will sell the world what the world can pay for, and then by the use of the unlimited supply we still have we will win away from the world what it has bought, and repeat the operation, until we have all the wealth, and the people are enslaved. To do this there was one thing besides the manufacturing of the chips—stocks—that was absolutely necessary—a gambling-hell, the working of whose machinery would place a selling value upon such chips; a hell where, after selling the chips, they could be won back. I saw that if these tricksters were to be routed and their 'System' was to be destroyed, it must be through the machinery of this stock exchange. I studied the machinery, and presently I marvelled that men could for so long have been asses.

"From the very nature of stock-gambling it is necessary, absolutely necessary, that it be conducted under certain rules, unchangeable, unbreakable rules, to attempt to change or break which would destroy stock-gambling. The foundation rule, the rule absolutely necessary for the existence of stock-gambling is: Any member of the stock exchange can buy or sell, between the opening and closing of the exchange as many shares of stock as he cares to. With this rule in force his buying and selling cannot be restricted to the amount he can take and pay for, or deliver and receive pay for, because there is not money enough in the world to pay for what under this same rule can be bought and sold in a single session. This is because there have been arbitrarily created by these few tricksters many times more stocks than there is money in existence. The amount of stock that any man can sell in one session of the exchange is limited only by the amount that he can offer for sale, and he can offer any amount his tongue can utter; and he is not compelled and cannot be compelled to show his ability to deliver what he has offered for sale until after he has finished selling, which is the following day. You will ask as I did: Can this be possible? you will find the answer I found. It is so, and must continue to be so, or there will be no stock-gambling. Mark me, for this statement is weighted with the greatest import to you all. A member of this exchange can sell as many shares of stock at one session as he cares to offer. If any attempt is made at the session he sells at to compel him either before or after he offers to sell to show his ability to deliver, away goes the stock-gambling structure, because from the very nature of the whole structure of stock-gambling the same shares are sold and resold many times in each session and the seller cannot know, much less show, that he can deliver until he first adjusts with the buyer and the buyer cannot adjust until after he has become such by buying. If a rule were made compelling a seller to show his responsibility before selling, every member would have every other member at his mercy and there could be no stock-gambling. When I had worked this out, I saw that while the few tricksters of the 'System' had a perfect device for taking from the people their wealth, I had discovered as perfect a means of taking away from the few the wealth they had secured from the many. With this knowledge came a conviction that my way was as honest as the 'System's,' in fact, more honest than theirs. They took from the innocent, I took from the guilty what had already been dishonestly secured. I determined to put my discovery into practice.

"I might never have done so but for that Sugar panic in which I was robbed of millions by the 'System' through Barry Conant. In that panic the 'System,' with its unlimited resources, filched from the people by the arbitrary manufacture of stocks, and by their manipulation did to me what I afterward discovered I could do to them, without any resources other than my right to do business on the floor of this exchange. You saw the outcome, in the second Sugar panic, of my first experiment. In a few minutes I cleared a profit of $10,000,000. I could have made it fifty millions, or one hundred and fifty, but I was not then on familiar terms with my new robber-robbing device, and I had yet a heart. To make this ten millions of money, all that was necessary for me to do was to sell more Sugar than Barry Conant could buy. This was easy because Barry Conant, not knowing of my newly invented trick, could buy only what he could pay for on the morrow, or, at least, what he believed his clients could pay for, while I, not intending to deliver what I sold unless by smashing the price to a point where I could compel those who had bought to resell to me at millions less than I sold at, could sell unlimited amounts, literally unlimited amounts. When Barry Conant had bought all that he thought he could pay for, he was obliged to beat a retreat in front of my offerings and I was able to smash, and smash, until I the [illegible] so low that he could not [illegible] what he had bought [illegible] sufficient to pay me for what I had sold him. Then he was compelled to turn about and sell what he had bought from me, and when I had rebought it for ten millions less than I had sold it for, the trick had been turned. I had sold him 100,000 shares say at 220. He had sold them back to me say at 120, and he stood where he had stood at the beginning. He had none of the 100,000 shares. Both of us stood, so far as stock was concerned, where we had stood at the beginning, but as to profits and losses there was this difference: I had ten millions of dollars profits, while Barry Conant's clients, the 'System,' were ten millions losers—and all by a trick. The trick did not differ in principle from the one in constant practice by the 'System.' When the 'System,' after manufacturing Sugar stock, sell 100,000 shares to the people for $10,000,000, they so manipulate the market by the use of the $10,000,000 that they have taken from the people as to scare them into selling the 100,000 shares back to them for $5,000,000. After they have bought they again manipulate the market until the people buy back for $10,000,000 what they sold for $5,000,000. The 'System' commits no legal crime. I committed no legal crime. I had not even infringed any rule of the exchange, any more than had the 'System' when they performed their trick. Since my experimental panic I have repeatedly put the trick in operation, and each time I have taken millions, until to-day I have in my control, as absolutely as though I had honestly earned them, as the laborer earns his week's wages, or the farmer the price of his crops, over $1,000,000,000, or sufficient to keep enslaved the rest of their lives a million people.

RESULT OF MONEY STRINGENCY.

Morris County Banks Raise Discount Rate to Freeholders.

Morristown, Aug. 16.—The stringency in the money market was brought home to the Morris County Board of Chosen Freeholders Wednesday, when County Collector Joseph F. McLean told the members of the Finance Committee that the banks of the county were not willing to discount any more notes at five per cent.

The banks, Mr. McLean said, claimed that they could get six, six and one-half and even seven for their money.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the county collector to make the best terms he could on future loans. Acting on this authority later in the day Mr. McLean succeeded in getting $25,000 divided among three county banks, at five and one-half per cent.

Fire at Old Orchard.

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 16.—Nearly one-half of the summer hotel section along the shore front here was destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at $500,000. So far as is known no lives were lost by fire. The fire was started by the upsetting of a lamp at 8 p. m. in the Hotel Olympia Annex, a four-story building, and was not under control until 11.40 In ten minutes the annex was in ruins and the flames had spread to adjoining structures. All of the buildings were of wooden construction, and were an easy prey to the fire, which was fanned by a southwest breeze.

Opening of Play Postponed.

"The Other House," a new comedy which was to have been produced for the first time tonight, at the New Plainfield theatre, with Richard Golden in the leading part, will not be presented as announced. Mr. Golden is too ill to fill his part, and a telegram, yesterday, apprised Manager Counihan of the cancellation of the date. Ticket holders may receive their money at the box office.

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

HARDIN FOR GOVERNOR MAY BE SMITH'S MAN

SAID TO BE FAVORED BY THE DEMOCRATIC MANAGER.

It is announced that ex-United States Senator Smith had about persuaded John R. Hardin, of Newark, to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey. Hardin has been very loath to get in the field, but it is stated on good authority that his chances of getting into the fight, with the influence of Smith behind him, are very good.

Hardin recently refused the position on the Supreme Court bench made vacant by the death of Jonathan Dixon. Former Judge Francis Childs, of Newark, is one of the men ex-Senator Smith has had in mind for the gubernatorial nomination, but Hardin suits the Essex leader better.

Politicians at Trenton were given a surprise by the report that the East Orange McKinley and Roosevelt Club has voted to indorse the candidacy of Chandler W. Riker for the Republican nomination for Governor. The news set them all to talking about Riker, who was given 72 votes to 2 for Sheriff Frank Sommer, a Colby protege.

FARMERS ON ROLLER SKATES.

About 1,000 people attended the annual outing of the Middlesex and Somerset County Pomona Grange at Riverside Park, near Bound Brook, yesterday afternoon. The farmers brought along their families and well-filled lunch baskets, and spent the day in and along the Raritan and in trying to master the secret of roller skating. It was the first time some of the staid deacons from the country districts had even had a pair of skates on and their antics were entertaining.

Yesterday afternoon ex-Governor C. J. Bell, of Vermont, and G. W. F. Gaunt, lecturer of the National Grange, made addresses.

Held a Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper Waglow, of 220 East Front street, gave a reception and musical at their home, last night, at which time Mr Waglow presented his wife with a new piano. During the evening there were piano and vocal solos by A. E. Willard, Harold Willard and Harold Cook; violin solos by Antonio Gaub. Among thos present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz, William Pfeister, Harold Cook, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Willard, Harold Willard, Antonio Gaub, and Benjamin LaVere.

Arrest Stops a Duel.

Columbus, O., Aug. 16.—Prosecutor W. L. David of Lima, who has given the Standard Oil Company a hard fight has caused the arrest of Oliver E. Hanks for sending a challenge to a duel to Edward E. Wallace. The young men live at Fostoria and are rivals for the affections of a young woman there.

BOROUGH CLERK HAS FORMER MAYOR HELD

GETS SQUARE WITH MR. MORSE BECAUSE LATTER FIRED HIM OUT.

Frank W. Morse, of this city, who enjoys the distinction of being Garwood's first Mayor, and C. D. Costleight, borough clerk at that place, met in the office of the former at Garwood a few days ago and in discussing borough affairs differences arose which resulted in a war of words, culminating in the arrest of Mr. Morse on the charge of assault. The former Mayor gave bonds and was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The trouble which led to the arrest of Mr. Morse came when he ordered the clerk to leave his office. Mr. Costleight refused to go and Mr. Morse started to eject the official from the place. The fact that he is said to have placed his hands on the clerk in carrying out his intention to remove the clerk from the office constituted a technical charge af assault, which Mr. Costleight preferred against Mr. Morse. The incident caused a sensation among the residents of Garwood, and it is expected that when the case comes up the whole borough will be on hand to witness the proceedings, but it is not believed that the case will be taken seriously by the grand jury.

WANT BARBER SHOPS CLOSED ON SUNDAY

MEMBERS OF ORGANIZATION DON'T LIKE "SEVENTH DAY" TONSORIALISM.

Following their meeting last night the boss barbers were not at all communicative as to what was done, taking the stand that aside from the fact that they agreed to close their shops all day Labor Day, the other business does not concern the public. It is known that the bosses received a communication from the journeymen barbers asking for a regular day off every two weeks.

This petition, it was learned, was discussed at some length and it was stated that a number of the bosses have been giving their men a day off every two or three weeks and paying the mfor the time lost. Besides the shops are closed on Sundays, which is not the rule in some towns and cities.

One of the bosses in talking of the matter today, said that it has been the custom in all the better class shops to pay the men for all time lost whether caused by illness or for other reasons and that for five years he had an established rule to give his men one day off every two weeks with pay. He scouted the reputed talk on the part of some journeymen that unless they received the regular day off they would quit their job.

Despite the fact that a majority of the barber shops close on Sunday, there are one or two shops conducted by Italians who keep open on that day and close on Saturday, taking advantage of the rule established by the Seventh-Day denomination. This has caused a feeling among the other barbers, who claim that when the Common Council passed an ordinance closing barber shops on Sunday, it meant all shops. No distinction was made. The ordinance was passed at the request of the barbers.

While it cannot be learned what word was sent to the journeymen barbers as a result of last night's meeting, it is known that a communication was ssent. It is understood that a compromise proposition was offered. The journeymen will meet Tuesday night to receive and take action on the communication.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

100 Guests at Truell Hall Take Part.

More than one hundred guests took part in the progressive euchre party given for the patrons of Truell Hall, last night. There was great rivalry among the contestants for the four handsome prizes offered, and at the conclusion of play it was announced that Mrs. Walter Ashfield had won first prize for the women and J. D. Johnson the first prize for the men. Second prizes were also awarded.

The week's festivities will conclude tomorrow night with the usual hop. A large number of new guests are expected during the day to remain over Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Bond to Preach.

Rev. Lewis Bond, of Kensington avenue, the youngest son of the late Rev. Lewis Bond, D. D., for many years pastor of the First Presbyterian church on East Front street, will occupy Dr. Schenck's pulpit at Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning.

S. A. Meeting.

Staff Captain Thomas Hughes, of New York, will conduct the services in the Salvation Army Hall on East Second street, tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock and on Sunday at 11 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock at night.

Lewis T. Rogers, of Central avenue, has gone to Horsehead, N. Y., to visit his mother.

The apportionment must be made according to the official returns filed with the securetary of State, which for the year 1904 showed the Republican vote for Governor to be 231,363, which, on the basis of one delegate for each 200 votes cast, would make the total number of delegates 1,157, making 579 votes necessary to a choice.

The same returns showed the totale number of districts at that time to have been 1,227, which have been increased to 1,277 by the addition of fifty new districts in this county, which will have 244 delegates and be entitled only to 236 votes, as the total gubernatorial vote in 1904 was only 41,223.

The apportionment among the counties showing the number of votes in the epublican convention to which each is entitled and the number of delegates is as follows:

Counties	Delegates.	Votes.
Atlantic	43	38
Burlington	45	41

Miss Anna A. Martin, of 663 East Sixth street, is spending two weeks at Bath Beach and Brooklyn, as the guest of her cousin.

Miss Fanny Clark, of Providence, R. I., who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. F. H. Smith, of West Fourth street, returned home today.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, are home from their summer outing. Within a short time they will go to Lake Minnewaska, where they will remain until fall.

Arthur Denton, of Washington avenue, who has been spending the summer at Scranton, Pa., has returned home for a few days. Before going back to Brown University for the fall he will sojourn at Asbury Park.

LITERARY

Success Magazine for August contains a very significant article by Frederick Upham Amads upon the unprecedented increase in the world's supply of gold. Mr. Adams points out the causes of this deluge of the precious metal and declares that gold as a standard of values is inevitably doomed. Henry Beach Needham contributes the third and last of his articles on professional baseball. The psychology of the "fan" and the inner workinqs of the baseball trust are the phases dealt with.

Appleton Morgan, President of the Shakespeare Society, one of the most influential literary organizations in the country, speaks of Current Literature as the best magazine published in English and, as far as he knows in the world. On reading the August issue of this wonderfully timely magazine one feels that the editors have succeeded in living up to that reputation. There is no subject that is touched upon in Current Literature without being illuminated. "Dark Horses of Democracy," the comments on the "Yellow Peril," "A Setback for Uncle Sam at The Hague," and the "Overthrow of the German Court Camarilla" will make even the seasoned newspaper reader look up and take notice.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Prof. J. E. Frame, of Union Theological Seminary, who has been preaching at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, during the past few weeks, will preach there on Sunday for the last time this summer.

BRIGGS FOR WORTHY MAN

U. S. Senator Says Gubernatorial Nominee Should be a Conservative.

SITUATION DISCUSSED

United States Senator Frank O. Briggs was the guest at an informal luncheon in the Hotel Marlborough, New York, on Thursday afternoon, of a committee representing the Frank O. Briggs Republican Club of Essex county, the first organization to be named after the new senator. The general political situation was discussed, and Senator Briggs expressed his entire satisfaction with the outlook. The respective merits of some of the candidates for the various State and county offices were discussed, but the Senator refrained from stating any choice. He said he wanted to see a worthy and respectable candidate selected.

Senator Briggs, after telling some humorous political experiences, thanking the gentlemen for their kindness in inviting him to the luncheon with them and said he had stood, and will always stand, as a "regular" in his party.

General interest was centered on the Senator and State chairman when Mr. Beyer inquired from Mr. Briggs who was likely to be the next candidate of the party for governor.

The Senator replied that he regretted he was unable to make any definite prediction as to the individual candidate, but his sole desire was to see the candidate of the party, whoever it might be, elected. To facilitate the election he wanted to see some worthy, respectable and conservative man chosen by the convention.

He said that a large number of names had been mentioned for the candidacy, but he felt that it was the duty of every Republican to endeavor to select the candidate whom he thought best fitted for the place.

POLITICS IN SCHOOLS, SAYS EX-SUPT. SHEARER

ASSERTS HE WILL PROBE HIS SUCCESSOR'S APPOINTMENT.

Asserting that the appointment of Richard E. Clement, until recently principal of School No. 3, to be City Superintendent of Schools in Elizabeth, was the outcome of a political deal, Dr. William J. Shearer, who for years was City Superintendent, announced yesterday he had engaged counsel to take into court the action of the Board of Education in making the appointment. He says also politics had to do with the appointment of Peter J. Campbell to succeed Clement in School No. 3, notwithstanding that Campbell simply was promoted from vice principal.

Shearer said he would apply for a writ of quo warranto requiring his successor to show by what right he got the appointment. That, Dr. Shearer said, put the burden of proof on the Board of Education. He asserted that under the Meeker act his term had not expired, but that it ran to January 1 next.

The board holds the term of the superintendent was not extended by the law in question and that the position became vacant in July last.

His Hat Was Taken.

Fred Crook and Frank Cashin, both youths, were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Benjamin Urquhart, colored. The latter alleged that the young men took his hat from him on a Netherwood car at Fifth and Richmond streets, on August 9. The defendants testified that another youth took the hat, and Urquhart couldn't identify either of them as the one who took the hat. Judge Runyon dismissed the complaint. V. W. Nash, Jr., appeared for the defendants.

Second Prize As Cute Baby.

Charles Ogden Pierson, Jr., the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Pearson, of 826 West Fifth street, took the second prize in the annual baby parade at Atlantic City on Wednesday, as "the cute baby." He received 157 votes.

Gets Service Medal.

John Manley has received a handsome medal from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to mark the completion of 20 years in its service. The medal is very attractive in design, and Mr. Manley is naturally proud of it and what it represents.

PLAINFIELDER DESCRIBES OLD ORCHARD'S FIRE

A. E. HOAGLAND TELLS OF CONFLAGATION AT THE RESORT.

Old Orchard, Maine, the popular summer resort for many Plainfielders, in past seasons, is in ashes and as a result the present season has been abruptly terminated. Two lives were lost and five persons were injured, three seriously, as a result of the fire which swept through the resort Thursday night, causing a loss of $800,000. The insurance is about one-third.

Among the Plainfielders at Old Orchard are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland and son, Elston, of West Front street. In a letter to a friend here, Mr. Hoagland says:

"All burned last night and much more. As much as Park to Central avenues and Front to Second streets, entirely in ashes. Tents and furniture all about. One hundred feet of pier also burned. Many people about in evening dress; all they have left to wear."

Seventeen summer hotels, sixty cottages and a score of buildings occupied by stores were destroyed. The burned buildings were of wood and therefore an easy prey of the flames, which spread with remarkable swiftness, reducing to ashes a section of half a hundred acres within three hours. The Old Orchard Hotel is the only one of the many which remains standing. The people driven from their hotels were obliged to spend the night on the bench and many suffered, especially children. Brush wood fires were kept going all night, around which the refugees sat in shivering groups waiting for the dawn. It is believed that part of the burned district will be rebuilt before next season. One of the killed was Philip Partridge, son of Rev. Dr. Warren C. Partridge, pastor of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, Pittsburg. He was graduated from college last June and was spending the summer at the Partridge cottage.

SMITH THOUGHT SUIT WAS MERELY A JOKE

THAT'S WHAT HE SAID WHEN HE HEARD OF WRIGHT'S ACTION.

A summons was served on former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., in his office in the Federal Trust Company, Newark, yesterday, in the suit brought against him by Assemblyman Edward H. Wright, Jr., to recover $100,000 for an alleged slander. Before Mr. Smith had received the paper he was asked about the suit and expressed himself as being greatly mystified.

"I read in the papers," Mr. Smith said, "that an action for slander had been brought against me, but didn't know what to make of it. It was the first intimation I had received that such a thing was in contemplation in the mind of any one, and I don't know now that the story is true. It sounds to me like a joke."

Assured that a declaration had actually been placed in the hands of the sheriff, Mr. Smith said:

"If that is the case, all that I can say is that Mr. Wright has either been wrongly informed or he is being badly advised. It looks to me as if he is being used by politicians without his knowledge, and I think that if he will only take time to think the matter over he will not continue his action.

"Mr. Wright must know very well that I have always been a very good friend to him and would not be likely to do him any harm intentionally."

To the question whether he cared to say anything about the specific charge in the declaration that on a certain occasion in a conversation with Governor Stokes he had uttered an alleged slanderous statement concerning Mr. Wright, Mr. Smith said: "No, I don't think that I care to say anything more just now than I have already said."

As published, Mr. Smith is alleged to have slandered Wright in the course of a conversation with the Governor on the porch of the latter's cottage at Sea Girt on the occasion of a public reception, August 2 last.

The Plainfield Business College.

The Plainfield Business College, Woodhull & Martin Building, announces that the fall term begins Tuesday, September 3. Prof. Herr cordially invites his patrons and everyone interested in education to call at any time (college and office always open) and to look through the finely lighted, well ventilated rooms, and to examine the English and business courses and other ideal facilities of this school, which is endorsed by the highest public and educational authorities of this city. ***

AGAINST VOTE MACHINES

Borough Democrats Petition Secretary of State to Abolish the Contrivances.

500 VOTERS SIGN PAPER

With the approaching of primary time, borough politicians are again bringing up the question of the use of voting machines, and a petition signed by more than 500 North Plainfield voters has been presented to the Secretary of State, asking for the abolishment of the machines. This petition, with signatures attached, was presented to Samuel D. Dickinson, the Secretary of State, today by Walter Linbarger, who has been instrumental in circulating the petition among the boroughites. Linbarger met the Secretary this morning, and tendered the petition to him.

After the elections in the borough last year, there was considerable talk about the inaccuracies of the machines. The method of voting by machine, though carefully explained in the directions to the voter, is often misinterpreted, not only by the ignorant, but by those who do not find the machine set properly when they come to vote. The machines are better in every way for the voter of the straight ticket, but a voter who wishes to scratch the ticket is often confused by the lever of the machine and in some cases actually votes for men he does not want to see elected.

The instance of James E. Martine's experiences at Rahway at the last election, when the machines got out of order and registered a vote for each of the rival candidates, is taken by the petitioners as an instance which will go a long way toward the desired action by the State. Another point emphasized is that the voting is not strictly private, inasmuch as a person outside the booth may be able to tell when the ticket is being scratched by the click of the levers being moved over. Legal provision is supposed to be made for a voter who wishes to vote by paper ballot, but there is a possibility in some wards that there may be no actual ballots or ballot boxes on the voting day. The signers of the petition feel that the voter has the right to know how he votes, and claim that with the machines such a thing is not invariably the case. Boroughites are not alone in this feeling about the machines, and it is reported that there is similar movement on foot in Bound Brook.

E. M. FRENCH BUYS THE GUION LAND FOR P. S. C.

As Announced Some Days Ago Another Gas Holder Will Be Placed There.

Elston M. French, the real estate broker, has purchased from the Guion estate the tract of land, extending from Church street to Watchung avenue, abutting the New Jersey Central, which was used for many years as a lumber yard. The deal was made for the Public Service Corporation, which will become the owners within a few days. It is the intention to erect a large gas holder on the land for the storage of gas, exclusive announcement of which was made in The Daily Press a few days ago.

The property has a frontage on Watchung avenue, extending from the railroad to the line of property owned by Charles H. Hand. The consideration cannot be learned. As stated in The Daily Press, the P. S. C. made arrangements to secure this property as a means of protection. Its present gas quarters are considerably crowded, and although the plant has been shut down, additional room was needed to erect gas holders for storage purposes.

Will Start Work in Two Weeks.

It is expected that the street paving with brick will be started within the next two weeks. The brick has been ordered and other materials will arrive here by the time Contractor Meeker is prepared to start. In some of the streets a number of underground connections must be made before the brick is laid, so that there will be the least possible chance of tearing up the street afterward. The Pennsylvania Clay Company has assured City Engineer Gavett that he will have no trouble or delay in the shipments of brick, according to the contract and bond furnished by them.

Join Early Closing Movement.

Among the other merchants who have joined the Saturday early closing movement are Woolston & Buckle, Marsh & Worth, Hanson, and in fact all of the painters. These firms will close their places of business at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon during August.

SCARED OFF ASSAILANT

Girl Saves Herself from the Brute Who Attacked Her.

SCREAMS UNNERVE HIM

A brutal assault on a young girl was attempted shortly after noon today in North Plainfield. The object of the assault was twelve-year-old Ella Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee, of Catalpa avenue. The girl's screams when attacked frightened the man off. He took flight toward the mountain.

The little girl had been down town and was returning to her home for dinner shortly after noon. She was walking alone. When she reached the corner of Willow avenue and West End avenue, she was suddenly seized by a man who had been following her, dragged into the vacant lot there, and thrown to the ground under an apple tree near the road. Terror-stricken at the attack, the girl screamed fantically for help. The assailant became alarmed at her screams, which he was unable to stifle, and took to his heels. No one appeared to give pursuit.

Left by her assailant, the girl struggled to her feet and ran home, shaking with fear. On her way she met George Osborne, a bookkeeper at the Potter Press Works. She told him hysterically of what had happened, and he started after the assailant. According to a description furnished later by the girl at her home, the man is short and stockily built. He was neatly dressed, wearing a quiet suit, flannel shirt and straw hat. Mr. Lee, the girl's father, is employed in the Central Railroad shops at Elizabeth.

WESTFIELDERS DECLARE FOR RANDOLPH PERKINS

The Union County Standard feels that Westfield is much wrought up over the stand taken by the Republican leaders that three terms is enough for Assemblyman Randolph Perkins and that the latter should let some other worthy party man have a chance to represent the county at Trenton. That Mr. Perkins is due to "walk the plank" there can be no mistake for excepting a handful of men there does not appear to be any strength being his ambition to be a perpetual representative in the Lower House. The men who are "barking" for him are said to be Charles H. Angleman, of Rahway; Dennis Burke, of Elizabeth; Charles Codding, of Westfield, and it is alleged City Clerk James T. MacMurray, although the leaders declare that MacMurray is not committed to Perkins by a long shot.

Angleman, himself, is said to have ambitions to go to the Legislature provided Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway, does not want another term and he is quoted as saying that he will not run. Another Rahway man who would like to go to Trenton is G. M. Howard and still another is T. H. Roberts.

The Westfield Republican committee has endorsed Mr. Perkins for a fourth term. According to the Standard the committee on Monday night "took up the question of assembly candidates, and it was the consensus of opinion that the local organization ought to do all in its power to secure the nomination of Randolph Perkins. It was pointed out that if Mr. Perkins were not nominated, the town would lose the right to nominate a local man for the lower house, he being the most available local man for the place. Mr. Perkins record in the assembly was carefully reviewed, and the committee, it is said, were of one mind in agreeing it was worthy of the unqualified endorsement of his constituents in this town. Mr. Perkins had, it was declared, showed himself an able and independent representative. It was pointed out that the sentiment throughout the county was not adverse to Perkins. His enemies, it was said, were opposing him for personal reasons. The fact that he had already served two full terms in the assembly would not, it was thought, injure his chances for re-election. On the other hand, it was held, his experience and familiarity with legislative matters better qualified him for service."

ARMED WITH A SANDBAG

PLEADS FOR LENIENCY

None of the admiring consideration that sometimes meets those who are "from New York" in interior towns was accorded Harry Hadley, a young man with an alias, in the city court this morning. As a matter of fact, his acknowledgment that he came to this city from the metropolis was a factor in deciding Judge Runyon to sentence him to the county jail for forty days.

Hadley, who has also gone by the name of Crawford, was arrested yesterday morning on complaint of William J. Smith, assistant to Bobby Leach in the latter's lunch wagon, who charged him with stealing a coat and a pair of trousers from his room at a boarding house on West Second street, last week. Hadley, who acknowledged the charge this morning, went into Smith's room while the latter was at work, and exchanged his own frayed coat and trousers for Smith's natty garments. Hadley had never seen Smith, having been at the boarding house but two days when he made the exchange, so he didn't know the lunch wagon represented the lion's den for him. He walked into the wagon unsuspectingly yesterday, just before noon, with Smith's coat and trousers on him. Smith hustled out for a cop as soon as he recovered from his astonishment, and the arrest followed.

The prisoner at first refused all information about himself, and he was regarded as a mystery until Chief Kiely took him in hand in the afternoon. He was searched and a sandbag was found in his hip pocket. The chief put him through grilling cross examination, and he finally consented to give his name, and make a statement.

He repeated the statement before Judge Runyon this morning. He said he took Smith's clothes to make himself more presentable in searching for work. The sandbag, he said, was made for protection. The accounts of holdups and assaults in the papers had made him afraid to travel about a strange place without means of resisting assailants. He got the sand from a building in course of erection in New York, he said, and made it on the night he remained in the metropolis. He said he was a workingman, and not a professional thief. He made a plea for leniency.

"I will hold you in $200 bail for the grand jury on the charge of theft," said the magistrate, "and as for the sandbag, I cannot but regard that as a serious matter. A man who acknowledges coming here from New York, where there is so much sandbagging and lawlessness of the strong-arm character going on at present, with a sandbag in his pocket can only be looked upon with grave suspicion. I cannot treat that with leniency. I will sentence you with sixty days in the county jail for carrying a concealed weapon."

The police will seek to learn something of the prisoner's record. They suspect him to be more than an occasional offender.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF CLIFFORD LONG STAATS.

Young Man's Many Friends Gathered at His Late Home To Pay Their Final Tribute.

Touchingly impressive in its simplicity was the funedal of Clifford Long Staats, of West Second street, held yesterday afternoon at his home. Rev. Lewis Bond conducted the service, reading and commenting upon portions of Scripture and speaking tendering of the character of the lad to the many friends who were present. Miss Ethel Moore, of Cranford, sang "When We Shall See Him Face to Face," and Mrs. Harry Crouch, daughter of former Surrogate William Long, of Somerville, sang "Sometime We'll Understand" with much feeling. Miss Edna Long acted as accompanist. There were masses of flowers, tributes from those who had known the deceased. Among the floral offerings was a handsome wreath from the Plainfield theatre, with which the lad had been associated for some time. It was the shape of a pillow, and was inscribed: "Our Little Friend." The pall bearers were Raymond and Alfred Manley, Ralph Martin, Russell Huston, Robert Geldersleeve and Chas. Kregar. The interment was at Hillside cemetery.

Will Re-open September 9.

St. Gabriel's Academy, at Jackson and Watchung avenues, will re-open on September 9, for the fall and winter term.

BENEVOLENT COUNCIL CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

S. S. SWACKHAMER GIVES A PATRIOTIC TALK TO REJOICING JUNIORS.

The sixth anniversary of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., was celebrated last night with an informal program of speeches and music, and a short sketch of the council. Harry C. Runyon was master of ceremonies and had charge of the program.

Benevolent Council was the third lodge of that order organized here, following Franklin Council, No. 41, and Somerset Council, No. 104. While some of the members came from Franklin and Somerset, a majority were new members.

Today the council numbers about 160 and it is in a strong and flourishing condition.

One of the principal features of the evening was a patriotic address by S. S. Swackhamer. After congratulating the council upon the completion of its sixth year under such favorable conditions and wishing the members continued success, Mr. Swackhamer gave a stirring address on the principles upon which the order is founded. He recalled countless deeds of heroism which had helped to make this country glorious and which had brought freedom to every son who subscribed to the cardinal principles. Mr. Swackhamer's address was listened to with interest and at the close he was given a hearty round of applause.

Other features of the program were the musical selections by the Minion brothers, of Newark, who have appeared here several times. They gave a pleasing entertainment and were well received. After the program cigars were passed and a social time enjoyed.

PHAETON RUNS INTO PAINTERS' SCAFFOLD

ACCIDENT UNDER RAILROAD BRIDGE; DRIVER HURT; PAINTER ESCAPES.

Failing to notice the high wooden horses placed under the Park avenue bridge, used as a scaffold for the men employed in painting the new iron bridge, Thomas Hyland and Patrick Moran, of Dog Corners, allowed the rig in which they were riding to collide with one of them, while driving beneath the bridge yesterday afternoon. The collision upset the one seated phaeton, throwing the two men out. The wooden horse was turned over, but the painters escaped injury to themselves by catching hold of the iron girders and then dropping into the roadway on their feet.

Hyland, the owner of the rig, complained of being injured considerably. His hand was slightly cut, but notwithstanding this he was able to walk about. He had a very hazy idea of how the accident occurred when Patrolman George Dobson questioned him. In reply to every question, he said: "I think so." His phaeton was slightly damaged, but the horse was uninjured.

RAPID SKETCH ARTIST DRAWS FOR CHILDREN.

Rev. W. W. Barker In Charge of Meeting at Netherwood Fresh Air Home Last Evening.

With crayon and paper, Rev. William W. Barker, of Bayonne, entertained the children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp last evening with a series of drawings and sketches, from which he drew lessons from the Scripture. Mr. Barker is an expert rapid sketch artist; he works on a large hanging pad, with crayon. The first of his pictures were comic, and there were changed pictures by adding lines to a picture already drawn. Later in the talk, Mr. Barker illustrated religious subjects. He spoke briefly about each picture, developing a lesson for the children in some way from each of the drawings.

Because of the cold evening, the meeting was held in the dining-room of the main camp building. Previous to the drawing, there was a service of song and scripture, led by Mr Barker, in which the children at the camp took part.

The meeting in the auditorium tomorrow afternoon will be in charge of John D. Loizeaux, who will be the leader. Paul Loizeaux will address the children.

Still Doing Business.

Horace Sherwin, the West Front street shoe merchant, has secured a new stock of goods and is now doing business as before. The restraining order issued by Vice Chancellor Howell, it is alleged by V. W. Nash, Jr., only covered the goods actually mortgaged or intended to be mortgaged at that tihem and does not prevent him from doing business.

RIDE STEALER INJURED

Newark Heras a Remarkably Narrow Escape from Sudden Death.

AT NORTH AVE. STATION

Simot and Three Cqmpanions Out For Day's Pleasure—All of Them Had Money Enough For Tickets.

Attempting to board a fast westboard freight in front of the North Avenue station at 11:30 o'clock this morning, Louis Simot, of Newark, was thrown against the train and received a severe scalp wound. That he was not thrown under the train and grounds to pieces seemed a miracle.

The crowd standing about the station was horrified by the sight, expecting to see the man killed instantly.

Simot was accompanied by three companions, and when the accident occurred they jumped off the train and ran to the rescue of their friend. The injured man was carried unconscious to the baggage room at the station and Dr. J. T. Fritts was summoned. He found the man suffering from a deep cut in the scalp. After dressing the injury he brought Simot back to consciousness.

Simot was advised to go to the hospital, but he refused, preferring to return home. The party all purchased tickets for Newark and left for that city on the first train eastward. Simot seemed hardly able to stand the journey. He may be suffering from internal injuries.

It was learned that the four men left Newark early this morning and were out for a day's pleasure trip, intending to return home tonight. All were well dressed and did not have the appearance of the tramps who frequently are found "beating" their way on the railroad. They all seemed to be well supplied with money. The other three members of the party refused to give their names.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

BROKER ABSOLUTELY DECLINES MEDICAL TREATMENT,

Hanging to a bed post by the cord of his bathrobe, the body of Ezra Lincoln, a New York broker, with offices in No. 18 Wall street, New York, was found in the home of his father in Locust Point, near Red Bank, Thursday night, the police learned yesterday. Lincoln had been suffering from melancholia for a year, but because of his faith in Christian Science he would not take medical treatment. He repeatedly was urged to consult competent medical authorities to get relief, but each time refused on the ground that it was contrary to his belief.

Lincoln sought and obtained the treatment that is prescribed in such cases by the Christian Scientists, but, his friends say, did not improve. Finally his condition became such that his family was alarmed. He persisted in going to New York to attend to his business each day, however.

Lincoln was a graduate of Harvard University in the class of 1892. He had a great many business and social acquaintances. After his periods of depression began, however, he sought seclusion, except when attending to business. He was 36 years old. The police say Lincoln's death was suicide.

Engine Spark Fires Freight Car.

A spark from a passing locomotive set fire to the roof of a freight car on a siding near Scott's Press Works last night. The crew of the shunting engine discovered the flames and worked with buckets and water from the boiler until the fire had been extinguished. A passer-by reported at headquarters at about 9 o'clock, and the chemical was sent out. There was no need for the department, however, for the engine crew had no difficulty in extinguishing the flames. The roof of the car was burned through, but the contents were uninjured.

Colic Kills Truck Horse.

A valuable black horse belonging to Theodore Martin, the truckman, died yesterday as a result of an attack of colic. The animal was one of a valuable pair of truck horses which had been purchased but a short time ago.

Broke Handbill Ordinance.

Charles Parello, arrested yesterday for distributing handbills contrary to law, was arraigned before Judge Runyon, this morning. He is a newcomer in town and sentence was suspended.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

COIN DESIGN UNSUITED.

Saint Gaudens' Eagle Specimen Does Not Fit Machinery.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—Designs for coins submitted by Augustus Saint Gaudens, the distinguished sculptur, shortly before his death, have been found unsuitable in their present shape for the machinery in use at the Mint. Hence, contrary to a current report, the Government has not accepted any of them. The general approval, which was expressed by the President, is not conclusive in an official sense.

The projection upon the coin was a bas relief. Coin cannot be well stacked unless one will lie perfectly flat upon another. This is impossible where the bas relief in the middle is higher than at the rim. A pile of the Saint Gaudens coins will tilt one way and another and be in constant danger of topping over.

Dr. Albert A. Norris, Acting Superintendent of the Mint, said that specimens of the eagle only had been made for submission to the authorities. The metal press at the Mint was used for this purpose, because owing to the excessive relief it would be impossible to employ a regular coin process. The patterns for the eagle and double eagle were sent back to New York, and it is understood that Mr. Herring, who was Saint Gaudens' principal assistant in his studio, is now altering them to suit the requirements of the Government. The model for a new cent piece has not been approved at the Mint.

Boynton Beach.

The attractiveness of Boynton Beach at this season of the year is noted by the large increase in excursionists from this part of the State. The "Children's Days" have proved a brilliant success, the attendance on those days reaching as high as 5,000 people, of which 2,000 are children. The big feature of these days is the free tickets for the attractions, the free shows and the fact that every child is given a free package of candy as a souvenir. The excellent music for dancing has been very popular this season.

The splendid bathing facilities are also a great attraction, while those who like fishing will be kept busy pulling in seafood. Weak fishing is better than ever before and for the first time in five years crabs are being caught in as large numbers as the patience of the one who is crabbing will permit. The Beach is very easy of access either by trolley, New Jersey Central, automobile or carriage.

Miss Kathryne Kelly, of New street, and Miss Ethel Reynolds, of Roselle, are spending their vacation with Mrs. Brown, of Watchung avenue, who is camping at Midland Beach.

QUITE A CHANGE.

Halibut only a few years ago was despised except by the poorest. It was used principally as a fertilizer. Halibut steaks today are 25 cents a pound.

The planters of the south when hiring out their slaves stipulated they should not be fed on diamond back terrapin oftener than three times a week. Terrapin is now $100 a dozen.

Hudson river steamboat crews refused to eat "Albany beef" (sturgeon) more than four times a week. At that time a fish weighing 100 pounds, if a female with roe, would sell for $2 or 3. Today such a specimen would bring $125.

Shad! To be called a shad eater, especially in Connecticut, was equivalent to being proposed as a candidate for the poorhouse. A large roe snad was worth at the highest 3 cents. Today the price is $1, and they are scarce at that.—New York Journal.

William T. Law, of Truell Court, left town yesterday for the coast of Maine, where he will spend his vacation.

Miss Stiver, of Dayton, Ohio, has returned to her home, after spending a part of the summer with her sister, Mrs. Frederick Harrington, of Rockview terrace.

Miss H. Crocker, of 126 West Fourth street, has returned after an absence of five weeks from Haverhill, N. H., and Boston, where she has been visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, have returned from Bay Shore, L. I., where they attended the horse show at which Mr. Waring was one of the judges.

ANSWERS EVERY CALL.

Plainfield Peoples Have Found That This Is True.

A cold, a strain, a sudden wrench,
A little cause may hurt the kidneys.
Spells of backache often follow.
A certain remedy for such attacks,
A medicine that answers every call,
Is Doan's Kidney Pills, a true specific.
Many Plainfield people rely on it.

Mrs. J. C. Manchester, of 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles for a long time, and doctored with physicians for same, each time without being cured. In July, 1905, I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and made up my mind to get a bax at Randolph's drug store and give them a trial. I did so, and with good results, as the treatment regulated the kidneys and got the bladder into a proper condition. If this cure proves to be a permanent one, as I have every reason to believe it will, I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Wallace Wormsley, leading man with "Under Suspicion," Ramsay Morris' latest melodrama that will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, on Tuesday, has played the role nearly 2,000 times. The part in question is the leading role in "Checkers." Mr. Wormsley was in the original cast, and continued with the piece until the close of last season. "Under Suspicion" is a comedy-melodrama which Ramsay Morris calls "A heart-to-heart talk with my audiences."

A tangible story, which the audience can follow, is what B. E Forrester claims for the musical comedy "Playing the Ponies," in which Yorke and Adams will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, Monday night. This may be a new way of stating that the musical play has a plot, but nevertheless, Mr. Forrester is quite anxious for those who did not credit this statement to witness the performance and prove it otherwise.

Yorke and Adams are too well-known here as stars to need any introduction to the average theatregoer and their clever work as comedians is conceded by all. Aaron Hoffman is responsible for the book and lyrics of this play, which should in itself be a guarantee of the quality of the work. Bernard Kelley designed the costumes and the scenery has been painted by Albert's, the famous artist, and the electrical effects were produced by Kliegl Brothers, of New York. A number of novelties are promised and the management guarantees that there will be something doing all the time.

"Little Johnny Jones," the musical play by George M. Cohan, which has scored such a phenomenal success, will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre tonight by a company of seventy-five people and with the entire original scenic production. So many people have praised and endorsed "Little Johnny Jones" as one of the brightest, most original and liveliest of musical plays that there is a tremendous curiosity in this city to witness the performance.

"The play is the thing." This line one often hears, and it has been fully demonstrated that there is a great deal of meaning in it, for "Montana" has enjoyed a success that has been phenomenal after a season of forty-two weeks on the road and a continuous run of one hundred nights in New York with every night a box office winning. "Montana" can certainly be said to be the "thing." But after all the "play" must have the proper actors to deliver to the audience the truth of the "thing" and in engaging his company for "Montana" Harry D. Garey, the author and star, has been most careful to select actors and actresses that are artists of recognized ability. The cast is a large one numbering over twenty with a score of supernumeries. The production is a lavish one while the horses alone are a big feature. A corps of six carpenters and four property men beside two expert electricians and two hostlers are required to handle the mammoth production. "Montana" is to be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre, on August 22.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Content with ups and downs of the season, the Inter-City Amateur League has declined to make any further changes by admitting the rejuvenated Dunellen team. Quite right. Clinton Avenue has the pennant cinched, the Y. M. C. A. aggregation is crippled and probably will not finish the season and Scotch Plains is playing the part of indifference, while the Laurels, of Bound Brook, are too far away to show any intest.

The fans will have an opportunity to see a good game at Crescent Oval this afternoon when the Clinton Avenues, the coming champions of the amateur league, will meet the Laurels, of Bound Brook. Both teams are in good condition.

Walter Nelson, the crack catcher of the Y. M. C. A., will cast his lot with New Brunswick, it is said. Local fans will be sorry to learn this news. He is very popular here.

In Clifford Randolph, the star twirler for the Clinton Avenues, Plainfield has a player of exceptional ability. He will undoubtedly be found in one of the minor leagues within a few years.

Making a desperate effort to prevent a further slump, President Dovey, of the Boston Nationals, is building up his team with young blood. He has purchased Hoffman, an outfielder from the Holyoke team, and has concluded a deal whereby Sline and Knotts, the star battery of the Worcester Club, which won the New England championship last season, become his property after the close of the New England season.

Eddie Fertsch, the Reading twirler, formerly with the Newark Eastern League Club, is in the last stages of his baseball career. This week he appeared with the Reading team for the first in several years, but was in poor form and was defeated by a score of 7 to 1. It is doubtful whether he will continue in the game.

Jack Thoney, the champion slugger of the Eastern League, may not play again this sason, and not for several weeks, at least, so serious is the injury he received in Monday's game with Jersey City. In attempting to slide back to first base to prevent being caught, he dislocated his shoulder. Thoney has been adjudged by the National Baseball Commission as the property of the Bostons after this season.

GOLF.

Jerome D. Travers, who has been playing in the big tournament of the Ekwanok Golf Club at Manchester, Vt., failed to make a good showing in the opening day's play, finishing fourth. He was off in his aprpoaching and putting.

New York and New Jersey golfers are now preparing for the golf tournament to be held on the Deal Golf Club course the latter part of the month. The present indications are that the field will be the largest in the history of the club. Plainfield will be represented by a few players.

Within the next two weeks a great many local players will be back on the Plainfield Country Club and Park Golf Club courses. During their absence they have continued to play the game and thereby kept in good condition. The local clubs have their share of good players, the quota comparing favorably with any club in the metropolitan district according to the membership. There is scarcely a tournament of any size but what Plainfield is represented by one or more players and their work will compare favorably with that of other crack players.

Latest advices from abroad state that the redoubtable Harry Vardon has regained much of his former health. In fact, the brilliant form he has displayed in recent matches is proof in itself that the four-times open champion of Great Britain must have come into possession of much of his old-time vigor. It was at the South Shields Golf Club not long since that Vardon defeated James Braid two matches, returning rounds of 70 and 72.

Judging by the scores made in practise, the chances are that Mrs. Charles L. Dering will have trouble in successfully defending her title as champion of the Women's Western Golf Association in the coming tournament to be held over the links of the Midlothian Country Club. Mrs. Derling won the title twice in succession.

The Hinsdale Club, where the Western open championship was decided recently, must relinquish part of its property in 1909. There is additional land available, however, and when the new course is laid out it will cover a playing length of 6,309 yards.

Those interested in the millionaire's course out on Long Island, near Shinnecock Hills, claim that everything is progressing favorably, and that when completed the new eighteen-hole circuit will be the greatest in the world from a true golfing standpoint. Water hazards are to be a feature.

Although John Ball, who recently won the amateur title of Great Britain, is forty-four years of age, he is said to be playing better golf than at any time in his career. Ball is a rare performer with the mashie, and frequently makes remarkable recoveries out of trouble with this club, instead of resorting to the niblick.

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT TEPPERS

This store has never held so many bargains in all the 36 years of its existence—every counter you turn to offers something attractive that is a real bargain. Our Allied Buyers' Association gives us the benefit of a tremendous purchasing power—instead of placing orders for the outlet of this one house, our representatives buy for six large department stores, which means a saving in many instances of from 15 per cent to 25 per cent by buying direct from the mills. Think what that means to us and to you—it means that you can shop as economically here as in New York and save the time and expense of the trip. Therefore we say, IT PAYS TO SHOP AT TEPPER'S.

Carpenter's Tangled Tumble.

G. W. Taylor, a carpenter employed on the work of remodeling the old engine house at Somerville, fell from a ladder and in his descent grabbed an old steam pipe, which broke with him. He then dropped between two boards of a scaffold, where one leg became wedged as his body inclined outward, causing a sharp fracture just below the knee. William Brokaw rescued him from his perilous position. Taylor was taken to the Somerset Hospital for treatment and subsequently removed to his home in Flemington.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. G. Larson, of Fairview avenue, are registered this week at Pittsfield, Mass., among the automobile tourists en route to Saratoga.

From the issue of March 10, 1870:

"The public reception on Tuesday afternoon last was like all its predecessors, well attended by a highly pleased and instructive audience. The whole performance was excellent. Master Platt elicited loud applause in his declamation, "Pyramus and Thisbe," which was rendered in fine style. The audience was very much amused with Miss Lucille Scribner's "Streets of Plainfield." There was more truth than poetry in the composition. The exercises in grammar and arithmetic were alike highly creditable to the teachers and scholars concerned. The gymnastic exercises were fine. Altogether it was a pleasant and instructive affair."

"On Sunday afternoon last, about 5 o'clock, while the family of Mr. George Angleman were quietly seated by a pleasant fire, one of the legs of the stove suddenly came out, upsetting and breaking the same, and scattering the live coals on the floor, causing great consternation among the members of the family, but by strenuous efforts the fire was quenched. Mr. Ephraim Hedden and Mr. A. W. Chapin, who live opposite, hearing the cries of the family, rushed into the house, and seizing the stove carried it out-doors, severely injuring the hands of Mr. H. in the effort. No alarm was raised outside."

"Gold closed on Tuesday at 111."

"We learn that some six months ago our fellow citizen, Dr. J. C. Sutphen, was appointed and commissioned as an examining surgeon to the U. S. Pension office for this State. Pensioners will please take notice."

"The following is the apportionment of taxes in the several counties of New Jersey. The ratables in the State are $533,261,261 and the rate is ten cents for every $100 of valuations taxable: Atlantic county, $4,352; Bergen, $23,211; Burlington, $29,089; Camden, $16,915; Cape May, $3,950; Cumberland, $11,170; Essex, $94,173; Gloucester, $12,500; Hudson, $85,133; Hunterdon, $27,312; Mercer, $28,803; Middlesex, $22,053; Monmouth, $27,780; Morris, $23,760; Ocean, $4,348; Passaic, $24,205; Salem, $17,150; Somerset, $15,571; Sussex, $16,435; Union, $23,552; Warren, $22,092."

"THE DOG LAW.—In answer to many queries concerning the new dog law passed at the last session of the Legislature, we publish the following points: The tax provides that two dollars shall be levied on the owner of every dog to be collected in the same way as other taxes. Every dog is to be provided with a collar, with the owner's name and address thereon. No damages can be collected by the owner of any dog killed in the act of destroying sheep, cattle or poultry. The taxes collected by each county for dogs are to be used for the award and protection of owners of sheep killed by dogs, and the surplus to be used anually for public school purposes, under the direction of the county school superintendent. Any person may kill and bury any dog found running at large without a collar or known to be unregistered, for which service he shall receive the sum of fifty cents per head, to be paid by the collector of every town, township or ward where the killing took place, upon the presentation of a proper affidavit to that effect."

"STITES-CLARK.—On Thursday, March 30, by Rev. William Day, Mr. Hezekiah Stites to Miss Sarah M. Clark, all of this city.

GILBERT S. COLLINS.

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen having declined to allow his name to go before the gubernatorial convention, the Jersey City Journal, which in common with a number of other influential papers throughout the State urged his claims, has announced the name of Justice Gilbert Collins as Hudson county's choice. Every word of praise it has for this distinguished citizen of New Jersey will receive the approbation of fair-minded men wherever found. Mr. Collins' splendid record is so well known that it hardly seems necessary to refer to his many good qualities.

As United States Senator Frank O. Briggs says, the nominee should be a respectable, worthy and conservative man. But the Hudson county favorite is a good deal more than that. He is a conscientious, clean and brilliant character, possessing the much needed independence and back-bone which are necessary, although generally absent, requirements. With him as the chief executive, it is quite certain that there would be "better government and less politics," to quote the letter of Mr. Frelinghuysen and what is more there would be less legislation for the Hudson man could be depended upon to use his prerogative in defeating the many senseless and even absurd measures which emanate from our Legislature.

In advancing Gilbert Collins' claims, the Jersey City Journal says:

"Judge Collins has refarined from politics for many years and has been looked up to by the people generally on account of his ability and his fairness. His law practice has probably been the largest in the State and certainly in Hudson county, and he is known to everybody in the county and as well and generally known as any man in the State.

"That Gilbert Collins would make a good Governor goes without saying and he would be as popular as any man who is spoken of as a possible candidate. When the State Committee met in Trenton a few days ago there was a general talk about candidates and Judge Collins was very favorably considered and no one had a word to say either against the proposition to make him the party's candidate or against his availability at this time as a candidate. There would be no question about the election if he was selected to head the ticket and he would add several thousand votes to the ticket in Hudson county, which no other candidates would get, for Judge Collins is popular here without regard to politics. The people here know him and like him and believe in him."

Hurt in Elevator Fall.

New York, Aug. 17.—Five persons were injured yesterday afternoon when an elevator fell six stories to the basement of the Bellefonte apartment house, Nos. 516 and 518 West 143d street. All of them except the elevator operator were tenants of the building. The accident was caused by the smashing of a brake rod.

PEDDIE INSTITUTE TREAS. FURNISHES $10,000 BAIL.

Lawyer Is Accused of Embezzling $5,500 of the Institution's Funds.

After a night in a cell Samuel V. Hulse, the veteran lawyer, of Newark, who was arrested yesterday with having embezzled $5,500 of the endowment fund of the Peddie Institute, in Hightstown, was released on bail yesterday. At the request of counsel the bond was set at $10,000, and former Senator M. T. Barrett and Charles Feick became surety in the aomunt. After Hulse had been released yesterday that he could account for every penny and that he had done nothing wrong. His counsel expressed a belief that what Hulse said was true.

Hightstown, Aug. 17.—The Rev. R. W. Swetland, president of the Peddie Institute, said yesterday that the school would not be closed or impaired because of the trouble over the accounts of Samuel V. Hulse, treasurer of the endowment fund. Dr. Swetland said the endowment fund had been used for improvements and that the school was maintained by tuition fees.

ACCUSED OF PASSING CHECKS.

Hotel Man's Son Must Explain Alleged Forgery.

Willie Applegate, a son of William Applegate, proprietor of the Monmouth Hotel in Asbury Park, was held at Trenton yesterday morning for trial today on the charge of passing a check for $10 forged with his father's name, on a local cafe proprietor.

Six weeks ago, it is alleged, he passed a similar check for $50 on the same man, and when it reached the bank in Asbury Park his father made it good. This time the father has not made the amount good, and the accused man will be required to explain why he has made such alleged misuse of his father's signature.

Father's Killing Justified.

New York, Aug. 17.—Mrs. Madeline Langlotz was discharged yesterday by a coroner's jury, before whom she appeared on a charge of having killed her father, George Wasser, after he had murdered her mother on Thursday in their home in No. 2,058 Third avenue. After Coroner Harburger announced the verdict the jurors crowded around the weeping young woman and pressed money into her hands as they congratulated her. Coroner Harburger and several members of the jury wept when Mrs. Langlotz enacted on the witness stand the tragedy that deprived her of mother and father. Although she had to be supported when she walked to the stand, she sprang to her feet at the dramatic moment of her recital and showed the jury how, with her dying mother in her arms, she had fired a revolver with her right hand and clung to a telephone receiver with her left, while she shouted into the transmitter to call the police.

Capitol Thieves Scored.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 17.—The report of the State Capitol Investigating Commission was presented to Governer Stuart yesterday afternoon. The Commissioners recommended that their findings to be sent to M. Hampton Todd, Attorney General of the State, and that all concerned in the looting of the State be prosecuted criminally. No names are mentioned in this connection, but those referred to in the report as being involved in transactions whereby the State lost money are:—John H. Sanderson, Joseph M. Huston, James N. Shumaker, William P. Snyder, William L. Mathues, E. E. Hardenbergh, Frank G. Harris, H. Burd Cassel, George F. Payne, Charles G. Wetter, Charles F. Kingsman, Wallis Bioleau, John G. Neiderer, George E. Storm, Frank Irvine, Stanford E. Lewis, George C. Keim and the International Manufacturing and Supply Company.

Travelling In Bath Robe.

New York, Aug. 17.—Clad only in a bath robe and a bathing suit, Edward Hugo Colell, who is well known in musical circles in Brooklyn, left his home Wednesday morning to take a dip in the ocean. He hasn't been home since, and yesterday, just when his wife and family were giving up hope that he had not been drowned, a wireles message was received to the effect that he had been pickd up at sea and was aboard a coastwise steamer bound for South Carolina. As he took no baggage with him when he went into the ocean, the presumption is that he is making the journey with only the bathing suit for attire, but there is much mystery about the affair, and the police, to whom Mrs. Colell made a report of the message, are as deeply perplexed as she is.

Kills High Bred Cows.

Highland Falls, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Tuberculosis has been discovered in the fine dairy herd owned by J. Pierpont Morgan and one-third of the cows have been killed, on orders cabled by Mr. Morgan. Composed entirely of cows of notable pedigree, the herd was kept with the greatest care in stables of the most modern sort, the utmost attention being paid to proper ventilation and to all the sanitary conditions that are supposed to protect cows from tuberculosis.

—Dr. E. B. Stowe, chiropodist, will be on her summer vacation from August 24 to September 4.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be: Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U., 7:15 p. m.; no evening service will be held.

The local team and Perth Amboys are playing this afternoon on the home grounds. Frentz and Allen will be the battery.

Miss Hannah Hayes, who has been spending two weeks along the New England coast, has returned home.

Michael Gillotte, who has been spending a week with friends at Yonkers, N. Y., has returned.

"Little Johnny Jones" is Manager Counihan's attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

A meeting of the Township Committee was held last night in the town rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Many people who have summer homes here complain of the poor train service, the last train out being 6:30 and no train during the day from 9:57 until 3:47. Evidently the Lehigh Valley does not want to improve the towns along its line.

The Good Government Club is booking entries for the various sports on Labor Day. All who wish to enter the races should send in their names early. Prizes will be given.

Milton Mendal has widened the road entrance to his farm and removed the cottage occupied by his farmer, which is a marked improvement to his place.

Jesse Terril, recently working on the farm of Mr. Mundy, has quit there. He will probably be a member of the South Plainfield fire department.

Miss Mack, who is living with Mrs. M. O'Day, was taken seriously ill with cramps, but is much improved today.

Mrs. William Hamilton is slowly regaining her strength in the mountains, where she has gone for her health.

A meeting was held last evening by the fire department, in Temperance Hall.

Dancing will be the order of the day at the Catholic picnic this evening.

Rev. A. C. T. Attlee is confined to his home by illness.

Miss FitzGerald has returned from a visit to New York.

Bulldog Whips Young Bear.

New York, Aug. 17.—Teddy, a nine-month-old bear, stuffed, will will adorn the window of the saloon of James J. Clare, at No. 17 Ely avenue, Long Island city, instead of a shed in the yard in the rear, which had been his domicile until yesterday, when he got lose and tried to hug everything in sight. He tried to embrace a bulldog and that finished him. While a servant at Clare's was feeding the bear he chased her screaming into the house. The bulldog was resting quietly in the front of the saloon, and when he heard the screams he ran into the hall and met the bear. There was a lively fight for awhile, but the dog proved to be the master of the bear. Teddy was bitten so severely that he had to be shot.

TROLLEY STOCK IS NOT OFFERED FOR SALE

VICE-PRESIDENT CARLTON SAYS NEW ISSUE WILL BE HELD.

Public Service officials and President Uzal H. McCarter, of the Fidelity Trust Company, which holds, as trustee, all the trolley and United Electric stock acquired by the Public Service in exchange for the latter's perpetual inter-bearing certificates, said yesterday there is no intention of attempting to retire the $14,200,000 of the certificates issued to acquire the trolley stock by a bond issue or to place a single share of the new issue of $38,000,000 Public Service stock on the market.

Every share of the latter stock will, if the merger of the North Jersey, Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson and United Railway Company of Central Jersey is ratified by the stockholders of the three systems next Tuesday, be transferred to the Fidelity Trust Company in exchange for the stock of the merged companies now held in trust to guarantee the perpetual interest-bearing certificates issued by Public Service to acquire the property.

President Thomas M. McCarter, of the Public Service, is taking a brief vacation and could not be interviewed in connection with the formatioin of the new trolley company or the rumored attempt to retire the perpetual interest-bearing certificates.

Vice President A. B. Carleton said the merger had long been contemplated, in order to get the entire trolley system in this end of the State under one head in name, as it is in fact, inasmuch as practically all of the stock of the three systems are owned or controlled by the same persons.

The merger will, Mr. Carleton said, affect some saving in operating expenses inasmuch as it costs less to keep the accounts of one company than twenty, and all the property owned will be operated as one, thus resulting in a division of profits over the entire system irrespective of which part may show the greatest net earnings.

This, in Mr. Carleton's judgment, will make the stock which it is proposed to issue in exchange for the stock of the three systems now held by the Fidelity Company, as trustee, more valuable as collateral security than the original stock. Incidentally, he said, it should increase the value of the perpetual certificates now outstanding which the Public Service cannot, of its own volition, and in his judgment, has no intention of retiring.

Finds Sister After Fifty Years.

New York, August 17.—To attend the golden wedding of his sister, whom he has not seen for more than half a century and of whom he had lost all trace until recently, Max Newstead, sixty-four years old, of No. 384 Grand street, will leave for Leeds, England, this morning on the steamship Etruria, of the Cunard line, a large party of Civil War veterans and other friends escorting him to the pier in automobiles. Mr. Newstead left his sister in London in 1855 and came to this country. He enlisted and fought in the war under Generals Meade and Hancock, and was wounded in the battle of Gettysburg. Meantime he lost knowledge of the whereabouts of his sister until friends told him not long ago that she is Mrs. Mathilda Meyers, wife of Jacob Meyers. The golden wedding anniversary will be celebrated on August 28.

Cars Plunge Into Niagara.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 17.—A Grand Trunk freight train from the Canadian side jumped the track yesterday on the steel arch bridge over the Niagara gorge. Four loaded meat cars plunged over the side of the bridge. Two of the cars went into the river, while two landed on the shore a short distance from the Canadian pier. Two cars were wrecked on the bridge. The trucks were torn from the cars and dropped through from the railroad to the passenger deck, being embedded in the planking. The train crew was not aware of the wreck until it had reached the American side and found that the cars were missing. The wreck is the second of its kind since the bridge was opened.

Gold Medal For Orphan Boy.

New York, August 17.—In recognition of the heroism of Lewis Willing, an orphan, ten years old, in the Sheltering Guardian Home, who saved from drowning Rose McGowan, of No. 219 West 135th street, William J. Wright, democratic leader of the Thirty-first Assembly district, announced last night that he had ordered a $100 gold medal to be made. This will be presented to the lad. Steps will be taken by the executive board of the Cayuga Club, of which Mr. Wright is a member, to bring the brave act of the boy to the attention of the Carnegie Hero Medal commission. Many letters commending his bravery have been received at the Guardian Home, and he has been showered with attentions and praise.

WEEDS OF VALUE.

New Zealand flax is one of a number of wild weeds that yield their gatherers great wealth, says the Scientific American. This flax, the strongest known, grows wild in marshes. When it is cultivated it dwindles and its fibres become brittle and valueless.

Indian hemp grows wild and out of it hasheesh, or keef, is made. Keef looks like flakes of chopped straw. It is smoked in a pipe; it is eaten on liver; it is drunk in water. It produces an intense, a delirious happiness, and among Orientals it is almost as highly prized as beer and whiskey with us.

The best nutmegs are the wild ones. They grow throughout the Malay Archipelago.

But the most valuable weed of all these wild growths is the seaweed. The nitrate beds of South America, which yield something like $65,000,000 a year, are nothing but beds of seaweed decomposed.

The Kind to Nominate.

Notwithstanding the evident agreement of the Democratic bosses to name Judge Child for Governor, there is an ever present sentiment in that party for the nomination of an independent Democrat like James Martine, or a Democrat of National reputation like Woodrow Wilson.—New Brunswick Home News.

Have You Tried Our Soda?

There is lots of difference in soda. We use only the best of materials. Our flavors are made from the true fruits, carefully selected oranges, lemons and berries, and have the right taste. We take lots of care to have them right. Our ice cream is right, and we combine them right. Once tried, is the convincing argument. Coco Cola and Moxie served ice cold. We serve Welsh Grape, as made, not diluted—never was intended to be served so. Ice cream sundaes any fruit flavor, 5 cents. Come in. Store always cool and roomy.

LITERARY

The August American Magazine is a story number from beginning to end. Even the leading article by Lincoln Steffens is a story. It is an account of the early life of Francis J. Heney, the man who has prosecuted "Abe" Ruei and Mayor Schmitz in San Francisco and the land thieves in Oregon and elsewhere. Mr. Steffens describes Heney as "a fighter who has fought, not only for his life but for his principles." In this first article of his new series, Mr. Steffens takes up Heney as a fighter for his own life in the wild west. The stories he tells are exciting, and, in some instances, blood-curdling.

The August fiction number of McClure's is an excellent illustration of the development which has taken place in this magazine during the past year. The fiction number of 1906 was remarkably good. The fiction number of 1907 shows a marked growth in the distinctive quality of its stories, the power and authoritative value of its articles, and the general broadening and deepening of its editorial policy. The Orchard Confession, which appears in its second instalment, increases in interest, not only as a remarkable contribution to the literature of criminology, but as a human document which throws light upon one of the most intricate economic situations which has ever existed in this country.

Mr. George Wharton James has contributed an article to the August number of The Circle concerning "A Little Visit to the Home of Luther Burbank" which for several reasons is of peculiar interest. Mr. James is a fellow Californian and an intimate friend of Mr. Burbank, and this "little visit" is but one of many which have made him thoroughly conversant with Burbank, the man, as well as with Burbank, the horticulturist. . . . In his story, "Jim," Mr. D. L. Pierson tells of the splendid work which the George Junior Republic is doing in the lives of those boys brought up under unfortunate influences, who yet have had the good fortune to come at last under the sway of "Daddy's Government."

The August issue of the Red Book Magazine comes to hand with an unusually brilliant collection of short tales, just the sort best designed to beguile the idle hours of midsummer in the hammock. The variety of the stories is such, moreover, that it is safe to assume every taste in short fiction may discover something within the brilliant covers to satisfy it. Among the more famous authors who are represented in the issue by their latest work, are Maarten Maartens, the celebrated Dutch author who, living in France, writes stories in English

The August Everybody's is a midsummer number, bright with color and offering an inviting spread of short stories for vacation days. However, those who look to a magazine for something besides entertainment, even in hot weather, have not been forgottn, the preponderance of fiction being happily balanced by the first instalment of a new series by Charles Edward Russell. Under the title, "Where Did You Get It Gentlemen?" the author prepares to investigate the sources of some of our "swollen fortunes," beginning in this number with an account of the rise of Thomas F. Ryan.

The fiction number of Scribner's Magazine has been an institution for twenty years. In it have appeared some of the most notable short stories, stories that have made the reputation of their authors. The present fiction number (August) preserves this worthy tradftion, and each story in it is of unusual interest as a story and of remarkable skill in execution. James B. Connolly writes one of his most amusing comedies of Gloucester fishermen, "The Commandeering of the Lucy Foster," which tells, in the picturesque language of Captain Wesley Marrs, how a British revenue officer was outwitted by that astute sailor.

The Popular Science Monthly for August contains the following articles: "The Problem of Age, Growth and Death," by Prof. Charles S. Minot; "The Place of Linnaeus in the Unfolding of Science, His Views of the Class Mammalia," by William K. Gregory; "Recent Legislation on the Mississippi River," by Robert Marshall Brown; "Notes on the Development of Telephone Service," by Fred DeLand; "The Re-awakening of the Physical Conscience," by Dr. Richard Cole Newton; "Probability—The Foundation of Eugenics," by Dr. Francis Galton; "Some Little-known Mexican Volcanoes," by Prof. Herdman F. Cleland.

In the August issue of the National Magazine appears a notable effort in contemporaneous literary work. The editor, Joe Mitchell Chapple, publishes a series of timely articles on "The Triumphs of the Canadian West," giving in one number a complete encyclopedia, up-to-date, terse, forceful and sketchily written, of the great Western Empire. It has a tremendous power of Today about it.

THE DUTCH.

The number of Netherlanders in the Dutch East Indies is barely 12,000.

In the United States, at the time of the last census, there were only 105,000 persons of Dutch birth.

SUMMER REFRESHMENT.

It must be a dainty morsel to tempt us in the hot summer afternoons and evenings, and yet an appropriate little spread is just the thing to refrsh one on an oppressive day.

It is impossible to buy fresh biscuit or wafers in bulk. To be good they must be newly-baked and perfectly protected.

The National Biscuit Company comes to the rescue with biscuit and wafers of all kinds in moisture and dust-proof packages that so preserve their oven freshnes, that their real age dates only from the time the package is opened.

Perhaps the most popular for the summer season are Social Tea Biscuit. For porch or lawn, picnic or party, luncheon, supper, tea or dessert, they are equally good and always appropriate.

Social Tea Biscuit should be served from the original package if you wish to enjoy them to the fullest extent, because when the box is opened and the crisp little biscuit eaten at once, it is just like taking them from the oven. All their goodness and flavor is there for you to enjoy. The package itself is so artistically designed that its attractive appearance alone would prompt you to serve Social Tea Biscuit in this way. The first trial will suggest to you at once the various uses and occasions for which they would be just the thing.

GLEANINGS.

Iron horseshoes have been found dated back to the year 481.

Booker T. Washington says the 10,000,000 negroes in the United States are the most unadvanced Africans in the world, especially in religion and industrial education.

The natives in the Burghersdorp district of Cape Colony purchased a thoroughly euuipped hearse for the conveyance of their dead to the burial ground and fixed on it a brass plate with the inscription, "Queen Victoria Memorial Hearse."

The biograph has just shown in Melbourne the ruins of Rome, followed by the ruins of San Francisco, and it is remarkable what a likeness there is between nature's work of 1,500 years and that of a day or two, remarks the Imperial Review.

There is a little barber shop in a small town in Carbon county, Colo., which has some odd signs on its walls. One of them reads: "Those wanting baths take notice. Ten cents extra will be charged if water is splashed over the partition. Don't get too enthusiastic."

THE ROYAL BOX.

The German emperor and empress are expected to visit London in November.

Muffins form the staple dish at tea parties in Kensington palace. The king, like his mother before him, has a special weakness for muffins.

Princess Fedora of Sieswick-Holstein, the youngest sister of the German empress, has published her first novel. It is the story of a poacher and his daughter and is entitled "Hahn Berta."

The czarina is a talented musician. She sings well and is a very gifted pianist. Indeed, he majesty plays the pianoforte so well that if she were in another sphere of life and became a professional she would win great fame.

Prince William, of Sweden, who will visit America shortly, although he speaks excellent English, is anxious to get the right American accent and to be conversant with American expressions. He has secured the services of M. Michias, a well-known teacher of languages in Copenhagen, to instruct him.

TALES OF CITIES.

One thousand wedding and engagement rings are pawned every year in Chicago.

Policemen in Bridgeport, Conn., have been fitted out with light steel canes with which to punish unruly boys who create disturbances at the evening band concerts.

Mayor Reyburn, of Philadelphia, is planning to submit a bill to the councils next September providing for a further permanent loan of probably $10,000,000. This amount represents the full borrowing capacity of the city at this time.

WOMAN'S REALM.

There are over 7,000 women in charge of American postoffices.

The Worcester (Mass.) board of trade declares that there are too many girls in town in proportion to men and wants no more manufactories employing only female help.

There are 180 per cent more young women employed in business offices in New York city tha nthere were three years ago. They are gradually filling all positions between office boys and heads of departments.

STATE LINES.

The State flower of New York is the rose, adopted by the public school pupils of the State.

Pennsylvania is the greatest building and loan association State in this country. It has 1,257 organizations at last reports and over 329,852 members. Ohio comes second with 674 associations and over 290,904 members.

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

BY CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL.

STORY No. 2

The Bothamley Murder Mystery

Being an Account of the Efforts Made by This Government to Bring to Justice the Murderer of Clement L. Bothamley, an Englishman Killed in Kansas.

By CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL

(Copyright, 1905, by Marion G. Scheitlin.)

There is an old country proverb to the effect that "Tombstones never lie." In an obscure spot in an old cemetery at Newton, Kan., is a grave at the head of which stands a small marble slab bearing these words:

In memory of
BERTHA L. BOTHAMLEY,
Beloved wife of
Clement L. Bothamley.

Contrary to the old saying, this tombstone lies, but it is a lie that will be forgiven its author because it was engraven in marble to cover the sin of a woman. The rearing of this modest marble slab marked the close of one chapter in a tragedy that had its scenes laid in two continents, ran the whole scale of human emotions and ended in murder.

It is seldom that an operative in the secret service of the United States is selected to unravel crimes other than those against the currency of the country. My connection with the Bothamley case came about through a request made by James J. Brooks, at that time chief of the secret service for the federal department of justice. John W. Carr, secretary of the British Association of Kansas, had written to the British ambassador at Washington, asking that he solicit the aid of this government in clearing up the murder of a countryman and securing the conviction of the murderer or murderers. Chief Brooks assigned me to the work because the crime had been committed in territory with which I had become familiar in the constant search for counterfeiters.

It often happens that the man who makes the unraveling of crimes a profession is called upon to take a case long after the commission of the crime he is detailed to solve. Such tasks are the most difficult in the detective's calling. Time is the criminal's strongest protector. This is illustrated almost daily in our criminal courts, in prosecutions which fail to result in convictions at the first trial. Before a second trial can be held some witnesses die or disappear, the recollection of others loses its clearness and various considerations in favor of the accused appear. These same considerations work to the advantage of a criminal before the case gets into the courts. This digression applies aptly to the strange case I am about to relate. Had the same efforts been made in the early part of a certain October as were started the latter part of the following January I am convinced that the closing scene of this story would have been laid at the scaffold. Had certain significant incidents in the domestic history of a man and his wife in a small Dakota hamlet been carefully investigated several months before I was called upon to go over them, I am certain they would have led to startling revelations that would have proved one murder and prevented another.

Briefly stated, the mystery before me was the murder of Clement L. Bothamley, a good-looking, middle-aged Englishman, wealthy as riches were computed in the west at that time, and while on his way over the Arbuckle trail from Kansas to Texas, with 2,300 sheep. The Arbuckle trail was one of those great highways of the plains that then served the nomadic cowboy, sheepherder and immigrant as wagon road and railroad combined. Its winding course from Caldwell, Kan., to Fort Reno, Indian Territory, was dotted on either side with lonely graves, unmarked, and in most instances spelling "finis" to one of life's tragedies. In such a grave the body of Bothamley had been buried the same day he was found dead, his final resting place being near a small post known by the grewsome appellation of "Skeleton ranch."

This border country was plagued by murderous Indians and white desperadoes, one as much to be feared by the peaceful settlers as the other, and each willing to cut a throat or use the deadly six-shooter at the slightest prospect of gain.

Three months or more had elapsed between the murder of the Englishman and the time I was assigned to the clearing up of the case, and this made it necessary for me to secure all the data concerning the finding of the body and the incidents attending it at second hand. Fortunately, a 17-year-old boy, Wesley Vetter by name, who had been in the employ of the murdered man, was in Wichita and disposed to tell an unvarnished tale of the circumstances surrounding the death of his employer. With this lad I visited the scene of the murder 70 miles from Caldwell. This visit resulted in nothing except the fixing in my mind of the events as related by Vetter.

To reduce the statements of his Kansas friends to a connected history, Clement L. Bothamley had arrived in Florence, Kan., some months before the murder in company with a stately, handsome woman, whom he introduced as his wife. While the appearance of two personages of such evident distinction and wealth at the frontier town would naturally excite unusual interest at any time, the advent of the Bothamleys was an uncommonly memorable event, owing to the fact that their luggage consisted of 31 trunks, to say nothing of innumerable boxes and portmanteaux. Bothamley's manner was that of a lord, and his companion indicated plainly by her hauteur of manner that her new environment was far different from that to which she had been accustomed. In his talks with Florence people Bothamley was a native of London, who, with his wife, was seeking a home in frontier America. He talked of cattle and sheep raising as his intended vocation. Attempts to learn more of him than he told in a business had written to England concerning the death of her brother, preparations were made to continue the journey to Texas.

Meanwhile, however, news of the finding of Bothamley's body had traveled over the thinly settled country and reached the ears of the Indian police, the regularly constituted constabulary of the Indian Territory. Just as the outfit was about to move on the woman and the two men were taken into custody by the Indian police and sent to the Wichita jail pending an investigation of the murder. All three stoutly protested innocence. There was no general belief that either of the men had any guilty knowledge of the crime, but many thought the woman had committed the murder. This remained to be proved or disproved.

Eliminating the possible guilt of the murdered man's supposed sister, the most tenable theory of the affair was suicide. This was the belief held by those who did not think the little, mild-mannered woman guilty. Steps were immediately taken to learn Bothamley's history, and this investigation was not without results. Through different agencies it was found first that Bothamley had deserted his wife and two children in London, and, second, that the woman with whom he first came to Kansas was not his wife, but a Mrs. Harriet Miller, an English woman of wealth and position, who had deserted her husband in London in order to flee with Bothamley to a country where they could continue their guilty love affair without the ostracism and punishment with which they would have met in their native land. They burned all their bridges behind them, and started their new life in a spot where it was not customary to pry too deeply into the affairs of one's neighbors. Then death took a hand. Thousands of miles from the home she had deserted for love of another woman's husband Mrs. Miller died and was buried under the name of the man for whom she had sacrificed all.

Her death was followed by a season wagon had been used by an itinerant daguerreotyper. The house part was seven feet high and wide and ten feet long. It was supposed to furnish shelter for Bothamley's sister and to protect the owner of the outfit from wet weather, as he suffered from rheumatism. The start was made the latter part of August, with Vetter and another man, William Dodson, to help care for the sheep. Little progress was made at first, as Bothamley was attacked with rheumatism and had to be taken back for treatment. October found the outfit at Hackberry creek, on the Arbuckle trail, the scene of the murder.

Vetter and Dodson seldom slept more than 125 feet from the car, the woman sleeping on a raised couch in the car and Bothamley on a "shakedown" on the floor, or in the covered buggy close by. Early in the morning of October 7 Dodson and Vetter, who, contrary to their custom, had gone to sleep some distance from the car, were aroused by cries from the woman, who was rushing toward them.

"Something awful has happened at the car," she cried.

She was much excited and dazed, complaining that "something ailed her head." Vetter immediately went back to the car, found the door shut and returned to the others wihtout attempting to investigate. The woman urged Dodson to go to the car. He opened the door and saw Bothamley lying on the blankets on the floor, dead. A bullet hole under the right eye told the manner of his death.

When Dodson informed the woman that Bothamley was dead she became hysterical and wept violently. Dodson saddled a horse and rode several miles to the camp of a man named Collins. Bothamley's body was prepared for burial, the funeral taking place the same day at Skeleton ranch, with the woman, Dodson, Vetter and Collins in attendance. The next morning Dodson and the woman washed the blood stains from the bedclothes. After three days, during which Bothamley's supposed sister said she way were futile. After two weeks he moved from Florence to Newton, soon after moving to a ranch of 640 acres several miles from the town.

Two months after his arrival at Newton his companion died in childbirth and was buried there. As there was no reason to doubt the truth of his claim that the woman was his wife, she was buried as such, and he assumed custody of her personal effects, including a $3,000 pair of diamond bracelets and other jewelry and wearing apparel, amounting to much more in value. Despite the distance at which Bothamley had always kept his neighbors and the reticence he practiced in regard to his personal affairs, there was a wave of sympathy for him at the death of his wife. He retired to his ranch, went in for the raising of sheep, and, in a measure, dropped from view. Throughout that section of Kansas there were several of Bothamley's countrymen engaged in the same occupation he had taken up. One of these was William H. Phillips, who was made the administrator of Bothamley's estate after the murder, and who told me that Bothamley's connections in his native country were high. Later, among his effects we found a uniform of an officer in the yeoman cavalry, which had been his, together with other evidences of his former prominent position in England.

According to the story of Vetter, who was employed at the Bothamley ranch, his master announced one day in the summer that he was going to Newton to meet his sister, who was coming out from England. On his return he was accompanied by a petite, brown-haired, blue-eyed young woman of about 25, whom he introduced to the men at the ranch as his sister, Bertha Bothamley. The pair lived at the ranchhouse as brother and sister, and the current of affairs ran smoothly until Bothamley decided to move to Texas, where, he claimed, he had a brother. Arrangements were quickly made for the trip. The "outfit" consisted of 2,300 head of sheep, four yoke of oxen, some horses, a buggy and a wagon boxed in with ceiling. This of physical and mental suffering on the part of Bothamley, and this fact was one of the strongest arguments produced by the advocates of the suicide theory. It was entirely reasonable to suppose that a man of Bothamley's evident refinement, after deserting his family under stress of a mad infatuation for the wife of another man, should suffer a mental wrench at the death of his inamorata that might unbalance his mind and drive him to suicide in the solitude of a frontier trail. This was an easily spun theory, and one that appealed strongly to the sentimentalists.

Personally, I did not believe that the Englishman had sent a bullet through his own brain. I believe the records of crime will bear me out in this general conclusion—that the man who flings moral, legal and social obligations to the winds, as Bothamley had done when he eloped with Mrs. Miller, is seldom molded of such delicate clay as to blow out his brains when his companion in sin dies. To follow the course that Bothamley had followed in England a man must be essentially selfish; and selfishness of this kind does not beget self-destruction. To my mind it was more probable that Bothamley had formed another liaison than that he had destroyed himself on account of the tragic ending of the first. Suicide under these circumstances would have been the natural refuge of a woman—not of a man.

In additional support of my belief that Bothamley had been murdered, there were several corroborative physical circumstances. One of the most convincing of these was the fact, well established by science, that the human animal instinctively shuns the pointing of a pistol to the eye when about to take its own life. The bullet had entered Bothamley's face just under the right eye. Scientists assert that there is not a single record of suicide by shooting in which the weapon has been aimed at the eye, and they go so far as to claim that such a course would be impossible. To press the muzzle of the weapon against the forehead or the temple, thus hiding it from the vision, in common; to point the weapon at the eye is unheard of.

Another circumstance going to disprove the suicide theory was the finding of the pistol, a self-acting Colt's of 45 caliber, by the side of the body in such a position that it seemed impossible for it to have fallen there had the shot been fired by Bothamley himself. And, further, there were no powder marks, according to Vetter and Dodson, on the man's face when found.

But the murder, if it was such, could never be established, and the guilt of the murderer proved, with theories. The case was under the general supervision of United States District Attorney J. R. Hallowell, but the local authorities had done about all that lay in their power. Col. Hallowell left me to my own devices in the work that followed, merely saying that the department of justice very much desired to have the murderer punished.

Truth compels me to say that I saw but one promising path to travel, and that was an investigation of the career of the woman whom Bothamley had introduced as his sister, and with whom he was making the journey to Texas when he met his death. From all I was able to learn of the dead Englishman he was a man who was more likely to meet his death through entanglement with a woman than at the hands of Indians or desperadoes. I had studied the probabilities of murder at the hands of the last two agencies and found them weak. There was no evidence that an averaging hand had reached across the Atlantic to punish Bothamley for the ruin of two homes. In a liaison in force at the time of his death therefore, I expected to find the evidence desired.

At Skeleton ranch there was a post office presided over by a woman. From this source it was learned that some little time before the death of Bothamley his companion had mailed two letters. The post is not overburdened at an office like Skeleton ranch, and the postmistress had plenty of time to inspect addresses of incoming and outgoing mail. In this case she was also garrulous and of retentive memory. From her I learned that one of the letters mailed by the supposed sister of Bothamley was a bulky one in a legal envelope, and addressed to the clerk of Harvey county. This proved on investigation to have been a deed made by Sarah A. Laws, spinster, of Sedgwick county, Kansas, to Bertha L. Bothamley, of Harvey county, covering 640 acres of land in the latter county. The consideration in the deed was given at $12,800. The description of the land in the deed coincided with the legal description of the ranch on which Bothamley had lived.

This discovery raised the question of the identity of Sarah A. Laws. Diligent inquiry failed to reveal such a woman, and, had she lived in the county claimed, it was unlikely that she could not be located. The identity of the Laws woman, therefore, became a problem. The fact that a deed to the Bothamley ranch, however had been forwarded for record by Bothamley's woman companion invested that person with even greater interest.

The discovery of her real identity was not a matter calling for any great effort. While at the Bothamley ranch, where she had passed as his sister, she had been identified as Mrs. Nellie Bailey, the daughter of a Kansas rancher and carpenter named G. F. Benthuson. The whereabouts of her husband was unknown for the remarkable reason that will appear later.

Important chapters in her life were not known to her acquaintances in Kansas. At this time the circumstantial case against her seemed to be growing stronger. In fiction the shrewd detective would have gathered a number of incriminating circumstances, grouped them into a narrative which he would have recited to the suspect, who, thereupon, as a tribute to the skill of the detective, would have broken down and tearfully confessed the crime. Had intelligent work been done immediately after the finding of Bothamley's body some such method might have been used with the results desired. But I doubt the effect of the "deduction and accusation" method on Nellie Bailey. At every intimation of her guilt she looked at you squarely with the bluest of blue eyes and protested innocence in a way that left the man who was firmly convinced of her guilt in doubt. Innocent or guilty, nature had given her a nervous system on which threats, insinuations or other attempts to pierce her composure had not the faintest effect. I believe she would have gone to the gallows, had fate so decreed, with the same air of injured innocence that she had maintained since the Indian police had taken her into custody because she was the logical person to have guilty knowledge of the crime.

She was shrewd enough to know that the drear plains had furnished no witness to what had transpired in the little house on wheels on October 7. She knew that any case made against her must be purely circumstantial. And she also knew that which I did not realize at the time—that in a country where women are few, a pretty woman—even if she be bad—is practically immune for the dangers of circumstantial evidence in a criminal trial. Therefore she "stood pat" in her innocence or guilt, placing it squarely up to the government to make its case.

Inquiry in the county in which she had lived developed several interesting and suggestive facts concerning her. She was an expert markswoman with a revolver and a daring equestrienne. She rode astride, shooting with accuracy at wolves and other game from the saddle. She usually carried a revolver slung to a cartridge belt buckled around her waist. Small of stature, exuberant of health, daring in spirit, clad in short skirts and sombrero, she was a figure not soon forgotten by those who had seen her. Despite her mannishness in the saddle and with the pistol, she had played a part in numerous love affairs, for it must be remembered that on the frontier a woman in a sombrero is not a rarity, and one that can rope a pony or shoot straight is not classed as masculine. These were traits of the plains, desirable rather than otherwise, even in a pretty woman.

From the time Nellie Benthuson had gone into long skirts she had associated principally with men, among whom she was a favorite; and neighborhood gossip recorded numerous love affairs of more or less earnestness. In all she had earned the reputation of being fickle, quick in forming attachments and equally quick in dismissing them. These love affairs had culminated in her marriage to Shannon Bailey, a young lawyer, good looking, of some means, giving promise of rapid advancement in his profession and intensely in love with the high-spirited, boydenish Nellie.

During the courtship, Bailey had been the victim of at least one of that numerous class of individuals who delight in carrying gossip to the person most interested. In this case one of these officious chatter-boxes whispered things to Bailey about his fiancee that adoring lovers do not like to hear. These whisperings had the usual effect. Instead of breaking the attachment it strengthened it; but at the same time it planted seeds of distrust that later bore their fruit in a most grewsome way.

Bailey promptly married the girl, but decided that they could be happier were she taken away from the scene of her girlish attachments. The Pacific coast was decided upon, and to the coast they went. They spent two months in California, Oregon and Washington. Over this trail I did not follow them. They returned to Kansas, settling temporarily at Clinton. Here the fickle bride almost immediately on their arrival fell in love with a telegraph operator and Bailey noted the attachment. There was a scene, Bailey shot at his wife's new admirer, missed him and then whisked his bride away to Dakota.

They first went to Huron, intending to settle there, and took rooms at the Wright house. In a few days Mrs. Bailey plunged into another flirtation, as furious as the first. Another scene resulted, ending in separation. Bailey took quarters away from the hotel and his bride remained at the Wright house. Several days later Bailey and his wife again became reconciled. She evidently had the power to throw him into the most violent fits of jealous rage, and then, by pretense of repentance and other woman's wiles, to bring him to her feet again. Right after this second reconciliation the pair moved to De Smet, a mere hamlet at that time, containing only 16 families. The country was new and was being developed by the railroad that had just built a line through it.

Bailey believed that the village had a promising future and announced his intention to settle there and go into the real estate and loan business. In his travels he had carried with him several thousand dollars, and soon after arriving at De Smet he deposited this money in the Bank of Kingsbury County, conducted by A. and Thomas H. Ruth. The Baileys rented a two-story building that had been used as a shoe store, with living rooms above, bought furniture and soon were, to all appearances, comfortably settled.

UNION COUNTY ORPHANS' COURT.

In Matter of the Application of James Ryan, Executor of the will of Thomas O'Gorman, Deceased, For Sale of Land to Pay Debts } Order to Show Cause.

James Ryan, Executor of the will of Thomas O'Gorman, deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises: It is, on this thirty-first day of July, nineteen hundred and seven, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Thomas O'Gorman, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the second day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Thomas O'Gorman, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require. And it is further ordered, that this order be set up and published in one of the newspapers of this State, as by the statute directed.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was — Is — Will Be

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

BROKE COURSE RECORD.

"Marty" O'Loughlin Takes Starch Out of New Brunswick Golfers.

"Marty" O'Loughlin broke the record at the New Brunswick golf course yesterday. With "Mimi" Rogers, he defeated "Nick" Williams and N. Leston, of the New Brunswick club, 11 down in eighteen holes.

He made a 70 easy. The previous record was 72. Marty's card was as follows: Out 3, 3, 5, 5, 5, 4, 4, 4, 3; in 3, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4, 4, 4, 4. With fours in places of the fives going out, the previous record would have looked like very small change.

PERSONAL.

Miss Leahy and Mrs. Ford, of East Fifth street, have returned from Asbury, where they spent the past week as the guests of Miss Davis, of Rahway.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Koons, of Sandford avenue, returned home today from Lake Hopatcong, where they have been camping for several weeks.

Dr. G. W. Endicott, of Park avenue, who is stopping at Atlantic City, has purchased a Stoddard-Dayton car, which he will use as "his best" in and about Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Smith and daughter, of Front street, Dunellen, are visiting at the home of her parents for a few weeks, at Mountain View Farm, Greenbrook road.

LeRoy Adams, of Netherwood avenue; Fred Viebrock, of East Second street and Edward Baker, of Duer street, are home from Ram's Horn Camp, Lake Hopatcong, after a couple of weeks' sojourn.

Mrs. Charles Runk and daughter, Mis Edith Runk, of East Front street, together with Mrs. Irene Irving, Mrs. Cook and daughter, Miss Mabel Cook also of this city, have gone to Pocono Mountains, Pa. They are registered at "Paradise Inn."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Paul J. Loizeaux will preach in the hall at 209 East Front street, tomorrow night at 7.30 o'clock.

Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton, will preach at the First Baptist church, tomorrow, morning and night.

Rev. Dr. R. R. Sutherland, of Knoxville, Tenn., will preach tomorrow morning and night at the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Mr. Cubberly, formerly pastor of the Baptist church at South Plainfield, will have charge of the services at Faith chapel, tomorrow. W. C. Leek will sing.

Rev. E. L. Curtis, general manager of the Anti-saloon League, will speak at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, tomorrow morning, telling something of the work of the league. In the evening the pastor, Rev. E. E. Robertson, will preach on "The Story of the Pink Rose."

NEW HOSPITAL WARDEN.

The board of managers of the New Jersey State Hospital for the Insane yesterday elected former Sheriff Samuel T. Atchley as warden of the institution, to take effect September 1, on which date Warden William P. Hayes retires. The selection was made on the basis of the best man adapted for the position.

Warden Atchley commenced his political career in Ewing township, where he has always been an ardent Republican. He was first appointed sergeant-at-arms of the senate, serving three years. Then he was named and elected the Republican sheriff of Mercer and became the Republican county committee chairman. Warden Atchley has the respect of every man in the county of Mercer, and his selection is calculated to do the institution much credit.

Mother Wins Suits Against Son.

Mrs. Mary Johnson won a suit brought against her son, Leslie Johnson; over the possession of some property at Smalleytown in a session of court before Justice Snape, at the borough court yesterday morning. The property comprises a house in which the son has been living, but which is in his mothe's title. The case was dragged out for two hours, the lawyers in the case threshing each point carefully, but at the end mutually commending the judge for his decision. S. Howell Jones, of Newark, represented Mrs. Johnson, and William Kearns, of Newark, was the attorney for the son.

Championship Skating Contest.

James Stryker, of this city, who is considered the champion roller skater in Union county, will skate a distance of two miles against Lou Grimes, the champion of Middlesex and Essex counties, at Riverside Park, Tuesday night. The distance has been covered by Mr. Stryker in seven minutes in the Newark rink, but that is larger than the one at Riverside Park and it is not expected that as good time will be made. However, the contestants believe that the two miles can be made within eight minutes. There are twenty-two laps to the mile at Riverside.

Lieut. Bull Wins Gold Medal.

Lieut. E. L. Bull, of this city, who is connected with the 22nd U. S. Infantry, stationed at Fort McDowell, California, won the Government gold medal in the revolver contest of the Department of California, a few days ago. He is now at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, as a member of the army pistol team which shoots at Camp Perry, Ohio, in competition with the navy, national guard and naval militia teams.

Birthday Party.

Celebrating her eighteenth birthday, Miss Ethel Entwistle, of Grant avenue, entertained a number of friends last night. Music and refreshments were the features.

—The Somerset Board of Freeholders met yesterday at Whitlock's bridge, near Somerville, to accept the same.

SURFACE MAP OF STATES

More progress than ever will be made this year on the great map of the country which shows all the surface forms of the land, every hamlet, and every house excepting where they stand closely together in towns and cities. New sheets will be made this season in thirty-one States and four Territories. The summer field work is all outlined except in New York and Pennsylvania. Survey parties are in the field and the work is being vigorously pushed.

No country has ever made such rapid progress with its topographical surveys, area for area, as the United States. Only a little more than a third of our territory is yet surveyed for the purpose of the big map, but this is merely because our land surface, including Alaska, is nearly as large as the whole of Europe. To make as good a map of our domain as that which we can now buy of nearly the whole of Europe we shall have to do nearly as much surveying as all the European powers have done together. Only four of our States—Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey—have so far been completely mapped, but the maps of several other States will soon be finished.

The maps of these States in which the national survey is being carried on with the largest amount of State co-operation will make the most rapid progress. Thus in Ohio, which contributes very liberally in trained men and money to the topographic work in the State, it is expected that thirteen more map sheets will be completed or far advanced by the end of the present season.

The Fairbanks region along the middle Tanana River, Alaska, where many hundreds of miners are working in the placer fields, is being surveyed in detail and a map of it on a scale of a mile to an inch will be published next winter. The survey for a map on the same large scale of the Kasaan Peninsula, on Prince of Wales Island, in southeast Alaska, is also being made. A large region spreading east and west between the Yukon and Tanana Rivers, from the international boundary near Dawson to Fairbanks, will also be surveyed for a map on half that scale. Less than half of Alaska is as yet covered even by preliminary reconnaissance surveys, and it is gratifying that such considerable additions are to be made this year to the detailed surveys for maps on a scale large enough to give us a clear geographical picture of these areas.

The United States Geological Survey for several years past has annually averaged about 35,000 miles of completed topographic surveying. The Bulletin of the American Geographical Society recently said that this is eual to the annual mapping of a State nearly the size of Indiana and greater than Maine or South Carolina. It is an area nearly equal to that of Portugal and as great as that of Switzerland and Denmark combined, and yet is is scarcely one-hundredth of the total area of the United States inclusive of Alaska. The average appropriation for thes topographic surveys is about $350,000, and the cost for several years has averaged about $10 a square mile, except in States where more detailed work is done.

When a State contributes to the carrying out of the survey its contribution is devoted to giving the State larger scale maps in which more detailed work is done. Thus the maps of those States which show their interest by helping to defray the cost of the survey contain more information than those of States in which the national survey is working alone.—New York Sun.

HINTS FOR THE HOME.

To make lemon extract grate the rind of three lemons into half a pint of alcohol. After allowing it to stand four days, pour off into another bottle and add an ounce of oil of lemon. Orange extract may be prepared in the same manner.

When ants are troublesome sprinkle sugar through a small piece of sponge and leave these about the pantry shelves. In a short time the ants will be holding a high carnival. Plunge the sponge in boiling water and set again.

Wash new glasses for the first time in cold water; this will give them a brighter look than if hot water is used. Glasses that have been used for milk should also first be washed in cold water, or they are apt to look cloudy when dried.

Prompt Payment of Claim.

Harvey R. Thorn, recorder of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., has received a check from the Grand Lodge for $1,000 in payment of the beneficiary certificate of James Fosbre, who died August 2. Just two weeks elapsed between the time of death and payment of claim.

—It is likely that President W. C. Kinney, of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, will call a meeting soon to dispose of some of the monthly business, including the payment of bills.

LIEUT. ROGERS' RECORD

Makes the 18th Hole, 125 Yards, in One Stroke on Country Club Course.

F. O. REINHART'S WORK

He Captured First Honors For Golf Committee Cup—D. H. Barrows Was Second.

Lieut. N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., who has just returned from Lake George, where he has been on a furlough pending his return to the Coast Artillery Corps, to which he was recently assigned, accomplished a most remarkable feat in golf on Saturday at the Plainfield Country Club. On the homeward journey playing the eighteenth hole, a distance of 125 yards, he took but one stroke. The play is all the more remarkable because of the fact that it is the second time that Lieut. Rogers has made this hole in one. He did not post his score in the weekly competition.

There were a number of fine scores made on Saturday. Frank O. Reinhart again captured first honors for the Golf committee cup, posting a 74 from scratch. This is a decided improvement in his work of late. Dudley H. Barrows took second honors with a 76 from scratch, while Howard G. Lapsley made a 76 with a handicap of 9. Lester Glenney was next, returning a gross of 79 to which was added one stroke, making his net 80. Altogether it was a strong field considering the time of year.

These scores were posted for the Golf committee cup:

Frank O. Reinhart, 74, 0—74; Dudley H. Barrows, 76, 0—76; Howard G. Lapsley, 85, 9—76; W. Lester Glenney, 79, plus 1—80; Roger F. Murray, 86, 5—81; H. E. Butler, 91, 6—85.

In the weekly competition for the Green committee cup, C. C. Burke, Sr., and Harry Williams were tied for first honors with a net score of 80, while W. F. Merrill finished next with a net of 81. These scores were posted for the trophy:

C. C. Burke, Sr., 90, 10—80; Harry Williams, 107, 27—80; W. F. Merrill, 101, 20—81; C. P. Hamilton, 102, 20—82; Hugh F. Fox, 98, 15—83; W. L. C. Glenney, 105, 19—86. Roger F. Murray won a leg on the Scratch cup with a score of 86.

There was a good sized field out at the Park Golf Club on Saturday to compete for the President's and Golf Club cups and some excellent scores were returned for the trophies. W. V. Bard won first honors for the President's cup with a net score of 85. Charles B. Morse finished second with an 88, while E. A. Lyon came in third with an 89.

For the club cup, scratch competition, Mr. Morse won first honors with a 98 and E. A. Lyons and Leon R. Thurlow were tied for the remaining points. These scores were posted for the two cups:

W. V. Byard, 103, 18—85; Charles B. Morse, 98, 10—88; E. A. Lyons, 111, 22—89; R. V. Carpenter, 117, 26—91; W. E. Lough, 116, 20—96; Leon R. Thurlow, 111, 11—100.

Boys Raise Money for Church.

In charge of the members of the Boys' Club of St. Stephen's church, a very successful cake and ice cream sale was held Saturday afternoon and evening on the lawns of the parish house. A neat sum was realized, which will be devoted to maintaining the running expenses of the parish house during the winter. Such sales are being held Saturday afternoons and evenings during this month by the various guilds and societies of the church. Saturday will be St. Bartholomew's Day and there will be a special service in observance of the day at 10 o'clock. Rev. Arthur Searing Peck, the rector, will officiate. The regular weekly service will be held in the church Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Arrested for panhandling on a trolley car yesterday, Norman Linbarger, of the borough, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Chief Kiely arrested him. Linbarger pleaded for a chance to reform and Judge Runyon suspended the sixty days he intended to impose. He told Linbarger that the next time he appeared before him the sentence would fall.

Sailing at Lake Placid.

Last week the Lake Placid Yacht Club began their contests. The first of the series of special sailing races for the Stevens trophy was won by the yacht of Commodore Charles N. Morgan; the yacht of W. J. Buttfield, sailed by Miss Buttfield, finished a close second.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mary Helene Bruchmann, of Scotch Plains, to George M. A. Cain, of Cranberry Lake.

COP BREAKS UP CRAP GAME ON THE SIDEWALK

TWO OF THE GAMESTERS ARRESTED—REGULAR GATHERING FOR PLAY.

Covering his beat in the East End yesterday morning, Policeman George Dobson saw a score or more of young men gathered about a crap game on the sidewalk above Leland avenue on Second street. They caught sight of him as he approached, and ran. Dobson recognized Clarence Sharkey and "Gus" Sutterlein among the fugitives.

Sharkey had a bicycle and started off on that. Dobson was mounted on a wheel, and gave chase. Sharkey rode on the sidewalk and should have out-distanced the policeman, who road on the unfinished roadway, but the cop is an ex-professional racer, and he cut down the fugitive's lead. Sharkey jumped off his wheel after a quarter-mile sprint, abandoned it on the sidewalk, and started across a field on foot. Dobson says he ran faster than he rode. The policeman confiscated the wheel and allowed Sharkey to run.

Dobson arrested Sharkey and Sutterlein this morning, and brought them before Judge Runyon. According to their testimony a crowd of crap shooters have been in the habit of shooting in the East End on Sundays. The woods near where the policeman discovered them yesterday had been the favorite scene of their gatherings.

Sutterlein was fined $10. Sharkey who had never been arrested before and made a frank statement of his part in the game, was released with a warning. He paid Sutterlein's fine. The police heard yesterday that he had won $70 from Sutterlein.

In passing sentence, Judge Runyon said that the crap shooters touched the pinnacle of boldness when they took to playing on a public street, in sight of the passengers on the trolley cars, on Sunday morning. Chief Kiely has detailed men to break up the gatherings, and to round up the players.

CHURCH INFLUENCE IS DEFEATING PERKINS

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUER TELLS OF MORALITY'S POWER AT LOCAL CHURCH.

Speaking on the anti-saloon movement at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church yesterday morning, Prof. W. M. Burke, of Newark, brother of the Anti-Saloon League superintendent, said that the politicians of New Jersey were beginning to realize the power of the church. He intimated that Assemblyman Perkins was feeling the effect of that influence.

Especially in Union county, the speaker said, was the power felt. The chief opponent of local option in the legislature last winter, he continued, came from Union county. He was not and would not be the candidate of his party for re-election to the legislature.

Prof. Burke gave a history of the anti-saloon movement. He said in part:

"The work of the Anti-Saloon League could not have been done had it not been for the W. C. T. U., the Prohibitionists and kindred societies, which were the pioneers in temperance reform. Anti-Saloon League work is done in three ways, by agitation, by law enforcement and by legislation.

The church as the conservator of the morals of the community should not be interested in partisan politics, but should endeavor to secure the officers who stand for moral reform. The saloon-keeper is non-partisan, and works merely to advance his business. The Christian should not be more loyal to his party than to his Saviour.

"New Jersey has the poorest liquor legislation of any State in the Union. The Christian people of New Jersey will never allow the Bishops' law, which is merely a law-enforcement measure, to be repealed."

Prof. Burke spoke in the place of Rev. E. H. Curtis, who was unable to come. He occupied the pulpit of the New Market Baptist church, last night.

General Alarm for Chimney Fire.

The entire farm department was called out by a still alarm at shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning for a chimney fire in the West End. The chimney at 126 West Third street, began to smoke and flame shortly after midnight, and the colored occupants, believing the building was doomed, had many of their household effects moved out when the department arrived. A few hand extinuishers did the business; there was no damage.

Miss Justina Smith, of Duer street, leaves next week for a two weeks' vacation.

BOUND BROOK DEFEATED

SCORE WAS 9 TO 1

Manager Dorflinger Has Arranged Three Games With Somerville For Next Month.

The coming champions—the Clinton Avenues—had everything their own way at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, when they played the Laurels, of Bound Brook, in one of the amateur league contests. The visitors were simply outclassed from the start. They could not possibly hope to win against the effective pitching of Randolph. He allowed them but four hits and there never was a time when there was any danger of the Laurels getting away with him. The final score was 9 to 1 in favor of Clinton Avenue.

On the other hand, the home team touched Harney up for sixteen hits, including a couple of three sackers and a couple of two baggers. They scored three runs in the first inning, one in the second, four in the sixth and one in the eighth. Bound Brook's only tally was in the fifth inning and that was more of a mistake than anything.

On Saturday Clinton Avenue will play the first of a series of three games with Westfield, at the latter place. At the same time the Y. M. C. A. will play Scotch Plains on Crescent Oval. Manager Dorflinger has arranged three games with Somerville, to be played in September.

The detailed score of Saturday's contest follows:

GOOD TIMES AT NETHERWOOD IN CLOSING DAYS OF CAMP.

Services of song and praise will be conducted at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp every night this week. Tonight the meeting will be in charge of S. H. Atkinson, of New York city. Mr. Atkinson has become very much interested in the work Miss Curry is doing among the New York poor, and has come out from the city where he lives to spend the week at the camp. Tomorrow evening Clarence Titus, of Roselle, will lead the meeting. On Thursday evening, Andrew Wilson, of Grace M. E. church will be at the camp with the Epworth League Society of that church. They will conduct a meeting and entertainment for the children. The Sunday-school and Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will give an ice cream spread for the chidren at the camp on Saturday evening, and there will be games and special entertainment.

Miss May Shrieve, of the First Baptist church was at the camp Saturday afternoon and entertained the children. There was a peanut hunt, with prizes awarded to the children. Games for the younger children concluded the evening, when refreshments were served.

—The Union County Board of Election and Registry will meet at Elizabeth on August 22, when the complete list of election officers will be presented for approval.

UNKNOWN MAN KILLED ON JERSEY CENTRAL TRACKS

REMAINS FOUND NEAR GARWOOD STATION THIS MORNING.

The remains of an unknown man, who had evidently been killed by a train during the night, were found on the New Jersey Central tracks just beyond the Garwood station at 5 o'clock this morning. The body was badly mangled and from appearances had been passed over by a long train. It was brought to Cole's undertaking rooms in this city.

The man was apparently about thirty years of age and had a heavy black moustache, but beyond this no description could be obtained. The clothing worn was of a good material and a fancy straw hat, size 7½, bore Wanamaker's trade mark.

The county authorities and the railroad detectives are making an effort to learn the man's identity and the body will be held for a few days.

CAMP RAM'S HORN WELL ENTERTAINED

PHI SIGMA BOYS TENDER FAREWELL RECEPTION.

The Phi Sigma "boys," of Easton, Pa., and Phillipsburg, who have camped at Lake Hopatcong for many years and who are well known to Plainfielders, ended their annual season at the lake last week. In honor of the departure they tendered a "Seitz" reception to the members of Camp Ram's Horn, of Halsey Island, made up of young men from this city, nearby cottagers and other friends.

During the affair an informal program was rendered that comprised a monologue, "How to Reach Raccoon Island Without a Compass," by Mahlon Decker, the popular Hopatcong guide and steamboat magnate; vocal selections, "Down in Jersey" and "Phillipsburg's the Place for Me," by Hoyt Teats, of Phi Sigma; an address by Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, whose cottage adjoins the Phi Sigma site, and quartette selections by Tom De-Meza, Tom Muir, Edward Baker and Jack Hall, of Camp Ram's Horn.

The affair was arranged by a committee from Phi Sigma composed of President William Wamsley, Hoyt Teats, Edward Nixon and Bogardus Reimer.

LOU WILTSE BACK IN EASTERN LEAGUE FOLD

REINSTATED AND SIGNED BY THE NEWARKS—PITCHERS STRONG GAME.

Lou Wiltse reappeared in the Eastern League yesterday. He has signed with the Newark Club. The deal with Johnstown, of the Tri-State League, was completed Saturday, and Lou promptly reported to Manager Burnham, prepared for anything in the way of batsmen.

He was given an early chance. La Belle, who was sent in against the Rochesters, was hammered hard, and sank in an ocean of runs before the end of the third inning. With the score 9 to 0, Low went in and checked the mad car of the Broncoes. They got four hits off him.

The ex-outlaw feels fine, and is ready for the hardest kind of a campaign. His arm, he says, was never better, and he intends to keep himself in the pink of condition. The Johnstown management and fans are sore over his going. The manager who was generous enough to consent to his return to the Eastern league was released yesterday for having done it. Wiltse has been hitting well, and as he was playing first for the Johnstowns, in every game, the stick practice he has had ought to make him valuable to Burnham.

Mrs. Matthews' Condition the Same.

The condition of Mrs. Charles Matthews, of Grove street, who is seriously ill at Mt. Pocono, Pa., as the result of a second stroke of paralysis, remains unchanged. She is not yet strong enough to be brought home. The members of the family have been with her constantly and the family physician, Dr. T. S. Davis, makes frequent trips to Pocono.

At Catholic Summer School.

Rev. B. M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, who is spending his vacation at the Catholic Summer School in New York State, will return home the latter part of August.

Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, and Mrs. Margaret Wilson, of Grove street, left today for Asbury Park for a week's stay.

FITZ AS RACING JUDGE

"Lanky Bob" Again Officiates at the Fair Acre Club Meet.

AWARD EIGHT TROPHIES

Four Mixed Classes—"Jack," Owned By H. W. Evans, Won the Best Go of the Day.

The matinee races at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Club, attracted the biggest crowd of the season. The card was an especially attractive one, there being a full list of entries in each race. The club offered eight handsome silver cups and all were closely contested for.

The Class C race was the banner event of the afternoon, there being eight entries and all the horses were pretty evenly matched. "Jack," owned by H. W. Evans, won the race, coming in second in the first heat and finishing first in the remaining two. His time was 2:36, 2:34 and 2:30½.

"Bob" Fitzsimmons was called upon again to assist in judging the races and his decisions met with general approval on the part of the owners and the crowd. There was no appeal.

The summaries are as follows:

LENIENT ON THE LAST DAY.

Recorder Dolliver Leaves for His Vacation Today.

Leaving today for a two weeks' vacation to be spent with his wife and family in Green county, near Coxsackie, N. Y., Borough Recorder Dolliver, wore that genial, lenient air of anticipation this morning when he was faced by C. W. Johnson, who was haled before him on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct in the borough Saturday night. The Recorder dismissed the man with a warning for good behaviour in future. Johnson was arrested by Marshal Lemuel Pope at Somerset and Pearl street late Saturday night. He was helplessly drunk and inclined to be scrappy. A day in the cooler made him sufficiently contrite to climb up on the water wagon again when released.

Police Hunt for Child's Assailant.

Complaint of the assault on his daughter by an unknown young man at Willow avenue and West End avenue, Saturday, as told exclusively in The Daily Press, was made by Mr. Lee, of Catalpa avenue, Saturday afternoon, to Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the North Plainfield force. The twelve-year-old girl herself, accompanied by her elder sister, gave a description of the man to the police. A description of the fellow has been furnished the county police, but no trace of him has yet been reported. Little Miss Lee is still suffering from nervous shock, and refuses to leave her home alone.

A Sermon on Reputation.

Rev. Lewis Bond, of Kensington avenue, who preached from Dr. Schenck's pulpit in Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning, delivered a plain, practical sermon on "The Value of a Good Name." His text was taken from the twenty sixth verse of the eleventh chapter of The Acts: "The Disciples were called Christians first in Antioch."

Mrs. M. C. Van Arsdale, of Grove street, left today for Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias H. Bird leave tomorrow for Camp Mohawk, Fulton Chain, New York.

"BEEBE" WAS VICTIM OF ALCOHOL AND FATE

TALE OF YOUNG MAN, UNDILUTED SPIRITS AND EVIL FORTUNE.

A young man full of uncorked joy attracted Judge Runyon's attention in an Arlington avenue trolley car last night. He announced himself as Kid Beebe, the prizefighter, and told the passengers what a good man he was in the ring. He asked a young man next to him to hive a drink and tried to give his transfer to the magistrate.

When Max Calehuff, 31 years old, of Piscataway township, arrested on Somerset street by Policeman Con McCarthy last night, for helpless drunkenness, was arraigned before him this morning, the judge recognized him as "Kid Beebe."

"Are you Kid Beebe?" asked the magistrate.

The prisoner grinned.

"Nit," he said. "Beebe is a fancy kid. He's the lover of the prize ring. Me, I'm just a good drinker. What put me under yesterday was alcohol, plain alcohol. I drank nearly two bottles of it. I can suck up twenty or thirty beers without going under, and my gait on whiskey is just as good. But I aint got my guage on alcohol yet."

Calehuff's alcohol drunk was not attended by any disorder, and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

Calehuff discovered the real reason for his arrest in gathering up the things that were taken from his pockets when he was searched. He showed it to a reporter.

"There's what did me," he said with conviction. It was a blue card from a "fortune telling" machine, with a "fortune" printed on it. The second sentence read: "Go ahead carefully; law is unfavorable to you."

"There was no beating that," said Calehuff. He regarded the card with silent respect, then put it carefully in his pocket.

PAUL LOIZEAUX TALKS AT NETHERWOOD CAMP

STRONG ADDRESS IN MEETING LED BY J. D. LOIZEAUX—SPECIAL MUSIC.

Paul Loizeaux was the speaker at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon, at the regular Sunday afternoon meeting lead by John D. Loizeaux. In his address to the children at the camp, Mr. Loizeaux took for his text the opening verses of the sixth chapter of Second Kings. He spoke of the personality of God to the Christian as a power to draw man to heaven, in the same way that the action of the prophet in throwing a stick of wood into the water brought the iron axe head, which had been lost, to the surface. Developing his thought from the Old Testament parable, which he alluded to as one of a collection of pictures found in that early writing, Mr. Loizeaux dwelt at some length upon the irresistability of such a call to the Christian, and its power as the voice of God.

As is usual with the meetings at the camp, singing was a feature. Aside from the singing of Gospel hymns by the camp children, Mrs. W. H. Sebring sang "Face to Face," and a duet with Miss Florence G. Hawkins, "My Fathers Knows." The offertory was a quartette selection, "The Homeland," rendered by Miss Florence G. Hawkins, Mrs. W. H. Sebring, Benjamin Hadley, and D. M. Runyon. Miss May Seaman, of Omaha, Nebraska, was at the organ.

There are now 350 children and mothers from New York at the camp. Part of the children will be taken back early this week and more will be brouht out at that time. The camp will be kept open surely until after Labor Day, and possibly a week after, for the public schools in New York city do not open until September 10.

Doings at Camp Ram's Horn.

New arrivals at "Jack" Hall's Ram's Horn Camp, at Lake Hopatcong, today, were Francis J. Blatz, Joseph F. Blatz, Jr., Eugene McLaughlin, Clinton Firstbrook, James Kenney and Arthur Caleen, of Plainfield, and Bernard Graham, of Tottenville, S. I. All will remain one week with the exception of Mr. Caleen who has planned to stay until September 1. Guests for dinner at the camp yesterday were Harry Blimm, Harry Roberts and John Duckworth, of this city, and Maury Fairhurst, of Paterson. Tom Muir left the camp for home yesterday after a two weeks' stay.

Scott Was Drunk.

Arthur Scott, arrested for drunkenness at East Fifth and Washington streets, yesterday, was released under suspended sentence by Judge Runyon this morning.

BANK ON RAILROAD TAXES

Both Stokes and Briggs are Elated Over Recent Court Decisions.

SEE A VICTORY IN FALL

Increase In Revenues In Which Every One of the Taxing Districts of State Will Participate, Removes Bugaboo.

Governor Stokes and United States Senator Briggs, chairman of the Republican State Committee, are especially elated over the court decisions sustaining the constitutionality of the railroad tax acts passed by the Republican Legislature of 1906. These acts increase the taxes on the railroad property of the State from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000, and every taxing district in the commonwealth profits thereby. This eliminates the threatened bugaboo of "State tax" and benefits the public school system of the commonwealth by the great increase in revenue.

The new laws give to the local taxing districts the taxes from all railroad property outside of the main stem. The main stem, that is the highway of the railroad, is reserved to be taxed by the State at an average tax rate of all the municipalities. The proceeds of the latter are, with only a small percentage, deducted for State purposes and devoted directly to the public schools. This will permit the reduction of the school tax from $2.75 on $1,000 valuation to, perhaps, $2.

Because of this increased revenue the State will this year apportion, in addition to the $1,079,519.42 already appropriated, the following sums for school purposes in the various counties: Atlantic, $97,255.24; Bergen, gen, $97,723.74; Burlington, $46,583.25; Camden, $100,034.64; Cape May, $32,460.98; Cumberland, $32,903.05; Essex, $670,115.65; Gloucester, $20,026.47; Hudson, $481,442.24; Hunterdon, $31,479.38; Mercer, $127,885.73; Middlesex, $75,041.74; Monmouth, $123,352.82; Morris, 062,389.62; Ocean, $22,131.26; Passaic, $211,994.43; Sussex, 021,224.03; Salem, $20,098.23; Somerset, $22,079.87; Union, $171,269.15; Warren, $21,311.98. The total amount use for school purposes for the year will be $7,048,945.05.

The amounts to be collected by the different counties from second-class railroad property, to be used for local purposes, will be about as follows: Atlantic, $6,314; Bergen, $19,035.87; Burlington, $2,910.94; Camden, $32,336.79; Cape May, $3,610,67; Cumberland, $4,162.82; Essex, $33,926.38; Gloucester, $1,774.32; Hudson, $868,164.56; Hunterdon, $5,566.34; Mercer, $13,518.88; Middlesex, $46,960.24; Monmouth, $9,079.13; Morris, $10,626.08; Ocean, $2,719.50; Passaic, $13,489.27; Salem, $562.67; Somerset, $3,043.24; Sussex, $2,138,24; Union, $46,908.16; Warren, $10,078.19.

With this fine record for catering to the interests of the people, the Republican leaders enter into the prsent campaign with confidence that they will be continued in charge of the affairs of the State, particularly in view of the additional reforms now pending before the Legislature and sure to be enacted next Winter, if not before the adjournment of the present session.

Another thin in favor of the Republicans is the fact that the investigation now being conducted by members of the select committee of the Democratic House has failed to disclose anything radically wrong, excepting at the State Hospital for the Insane, this city, which has been for years under Democratic domination.

"MARTY" BESTS BOGEY BY FIVE.

Local "Pro." Wins Match Against Mackie and Adams, With Duff.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the Country Club "pro" went to New York yesterday, with J. Duff, of Yonkers, and played J. Mackey and Henry Adams, in a foursome, at the Dunwoodie course. The Plainfielder and his mate were victorious, beating the other team two up in eighteen holes. When the match was arranged, Adams was to play with George Tiffany but Tiffany did not show up and Mackie, the professional, who was at the club house, went in with Adams to make up the foursome.

The local "pro" was in fine form and finished with a net five strokes under the bogey for the course. "Marty" got three fours on 435, 480 and 385-yard holes near the end of the match, and his mate, Duff, made a 230 and a 260-yard hole in three strokes apiece.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

BULL FATALLY GORES AN ELDERLY WOMAN.

Physicians said Saturday that Mrs. Robert Teel, 70 years old, of Oxford township, near Belvidere, who was gored by a young bull as she sat milking a cow in the barnyard at her home Thursday, was so terribly hurt that she is not likely to live.

Mrs. Teel did not know that the bull was in the yard or that she was in danger. The animal charged suddenly on her and knocked her from the milking stool pinned her with its horns to the ground. Her screams brought her husband to her aid. Teel, armed with a club, seeing him approach, turned from the woman and charged on the man.

Teel jumped nimbly to one side as the bull approached him and dealt the animal a staggering blow on the side of the head. A second time the bull charged and again Teel eluded the animal, and succeeded in landing a blow with the club. This was repeated several times, until at last the bull retreated.

Mrs. Teel was carried into the house and a physician summoned. An examination showed that the bull's horns had penetrated her side and that several ribs had been broken.

A Paradox in Age.

At an entertainment provided by the Woman's philharmonic society the most widely advertised attraction was a dancer, who, ho it was whispered, "had become too old to teach in the public schools and had taken to dancing for a living." That remarkable announcement drew a crowd of curious persons who were anxious to see what a woman looked like who was too old to teach but young enough to practice the terpsichorean art in public. Also, everybody wanted to know what the topsyturvy age might be, but of course, no one found out.

The Uses of Worry.

Worry of one sort and another is necessary to the complete health of the spirit; forry is as surely related to content on one side as it is to misery on the other. It is as wholesome an exercise for th espirit, and as refreshing, as the physican exercise which the man finds so necessary to his well-being. The spirit must have its peculiar gymnastics; the soul cannot afford to become stagnant; its waters, if one may say so, must be stirred occasionally if they would be kept fresh and sweet.—Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus' Magazine.

A Job in Prospect.

New York was in sight. The ship was entering the harbor. "Ah, free America," exclaimed a foreigner on the deck. "Free America, ze land where everybody has an equal chance!" "Going to locate there?" inquired a friendly American. "Ah, yes, I haf come over to engage in ze oil business."

Mrs. Harrison is slowly recovering from her illness.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

One of our local residents had a disagreeable experience Saturday afternoon, owing to the over-zealousness of a member of the Plainfield police force. The resident stopped to see the end of an argument on Front street; just as the police arrived the young man's car came along. He started on a run for the car. Seeing his haste to get away led the officer to believe he was one of the interested parties in the scrap. Man and officer reached the car at the same time. Much to the former's surprise he was placed under arrest and taken to the station house. After an unpleasant fifteen minutes he was able to convince Chief Kiely that he was not the party wanted, he returned to town vowing vengeance. Moral: Don't run; if you want to see the fun, stay and see it out.

Mrs. Edward L. Hand, Miss Minnie Hosinger and Miss Mattie Hull left today for a stay of several weeks at the Gilbert House, Brimfield, Mass. This picturesque spot, situated among the foothills of the Berkshires, has become a popular resort for a number of the residents here.

Notwithstanding the rain Saturday morning the roads were again dusty yesterday, every passing automobile leaving in its wake a cloud of dust for the residents to digest.

The local hotel men are observing the bishops' law to the letter notwithstanding the report that the 'Plains is again enjoying the open Sunday.

Frentz and Allen worked well as a battery, Saturday. Albert covered first bag in good shape. The change seemed to help the locals in its field work.

Rev. Mr. Arthur and family, who are spending the summer with Mrs. Charles N. Flanders, entertained friends from Jersey City over Sunday.

Louis and Walter Hyam, of New York, spent Sunday with their mother, Mrs. Elias Hyam, who is spending August in town.

It is nearly time for the fall political bees to begin buzzing as the primaries are to be held early in September.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Joe Carrona and Willie Stanberry, who have been spending a week in Boston, returned home Saturday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Those who commute to New York from this town undoubtedly noticed the display of flags and the toot of whistles from ferryboats and tugs in New York harbor Friday, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of Robert Fulton's first steamboat, the "Claremont," which plied its way up the Hudson, much to the consternation and fear of the red men, who fled from the smoking monster.

May it be known that we have no savages here or rather red ones, nor a Robert Fulton, but we have a David Bigley, who made and launched the first successful steamboat on Spring Lake, amid the cheers of the spectators on shore and when the first anniversary of that memorable event rolls around, we'll see the stars and stripes unfurled to the winds, on the school house and hear the toot of the whistle on the water station.

The picnic given in town Saturday night for the benefit of the proposed Catholic church was a great success, socially and financially. The affair drew crowds from Piscataway, New Market and Plainfield, which enjoyed the various attractions of which dancing was the main feature. Judge Smith, William Hamilton and William Colter were "on the job" booming the great Labor Day Harvest Home.

The structure known as "white bridge" at the upper end of Spring Lake, is in a most dilapidated condition. The iron railings have rusted away and partly fallen into the creek. The proper authorities should take this matter in hand before a serious mishap occurs.

It is the intention of several young men to chop away some of the trees that have fallen across the stream at the inlet of the lake so that canoeing will be made easier.

TOILET HINTS.

If you want to possess a buoyant walk treat your feet admirably. Give them careful attention and keep them good-natured.

A good hair tonic is 16 grains of bi-sulphate of quinine, four ounces of alcohol, one-half ounce of bay rum, one-half ounce of glycerine, water sufficient to make one pint. Friction the scalp with this every night.

Very long nails are no longer fashionable; neither are stubby nails. The style is a betwixt-and-between one. Nails that are bleached pink with dyes are quite the style again, and to this must be added a very high gloss, for the day of the polished nail has returned.

"Getting Even."

In savings banks it is customary to require a new depositor to sign an identification blank. In a certain savings bank recently a woman was somewhat unwilling to comply with this request. "What is your husband's name?" asked the clerk. "My husband's name is Peter Jones. What is your wife's name?" snapped the fair depositor.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Grant, the former Harvard player, who is now making a sensation with the Philadelphia Nationals, sustained an injury to his hand last week against Chicago, and will be unable to play for the next ten days. He recently recovered from a similar injury.

Next Saturday has been left open by the Inter-City Amateur League officials for the playing of postponed games. As to the remainder of the schedule there will have to be some changes owing to the dropping out of Raritan.

Willetts, the promising pitcher with Detroit, has been purchased by the Newark Eastern League Club, and is expected to join the Sailors this week.

Frank Farrell, owner of the New York Americans, and also the Montreal franchise, declares that he will put a winning team in the Canadian city next season.

George Wiltse continues to be one of the favorite pitchers with the Giants. The metropolitan press is always loud in its praise of his work as a fielding twirler, claiming that he cannot be excelled.

The fifteen-inning game between Newark and Elizabeth, played in Newark last week, was the longest Atlantic League contest played in Newark. There was only one contest in the league of longer duration and Newark figured in that. It took place at Chester early in the season, when the home team won from Newark in seventeen innings.

The Lackawanna League does not appear to have been a great success this year. In fact the new Atlantic League seems to have done better in many ways, although the attendance at the games has not been what it should be considering the kind of ball being played.

GOLF.

Beginning on Monday, Labor Day, September 2, and continuing through the month the monthly competitions will be resumed at the Park Golf Club. These competitions were popular during the early part of the season. The September cup is offered by the club. It will be a handicap competition, eighteen holes, medal play, except for the finals, which will be match play; open to all members. The points to be scored as for the Hydewood cup. The two contestants who score the greatest number of points to qualify for the finals to be played the first Saturday in October. The winner of the finals will become permanent holder of the cup.

In addition to the weekly dinner-dances being held at the Plainfield Country Club now, there will be many other attractive features during the fall months by the way of entertainment.

It is a source of disappointment to many that the women's golf competitions at the Plainfield Country Club have not been more popular this year. But the condition seems to be the same in a majority of the clubs in the metropolitan district. It is not because the women do not like the game, but for the reason that the game is a bit too strenuous for some of the fair sex.

GOOD TO KNOW.

A pinch of salt added to the coffee will improve its aroma.

Boil lamp burners in a solution of soda and water or weak lye. Then polish.

A salt ham should be soaked in cold water for twelve hours before being cooked.

Oil of sassafras will drive insects from shelves and its odor is very distasteful to flies.

Olive oil is superior to lard or butter as a frying medium. Meats, potatoes, in fact everything to be fried in a skillet, taste better for being cooked in oil.

Chemists claim that it takes more than twice as much sugar to sweeten preserves, sauces, etc., if put in when they begin to cook as it does to sweeten after the fruit is cooked.

Washing in the Philippines.

"I am glad to get back home," said the bronzed young soldier, "because I'll be able to get some washing done now. They don't understand washing in the Philippines. They don't pretend to get the dirt out of your clothes. They take them down to the river—the water is salty—souse them in, lift them out, lay them on a board, and pound them full of holes and break all the buttons with big stones that they hold in each hand. To conclude, they smooth them out with a stick."

Despondent Dog a Suicide.

A valuable bulldog belonging to John C. Reed, of Binghampton, N. Y., committed suicide by jumping up against a picket fence until he hooked his collar over one of the pickets. He then swung himself around until the weight of his body on the leather strap shut off his wind and he strangled. The dog had made a previous attempt to hang himself, but was found in tame and taken from the fence, although he fought savagely while his owned unhooked his collar from the picket.

Plainfield, N. J., August 19, 1907.

It is rumored that if Assemblyman Perkins gets a renomination—a very remote possibility—Charles Angleman, of Rahway, will be slated for secretary to the speaker of the House. Such are political rainbows.

Dr. William J. Shearer, of Elizabeth, intends to carry the appointment of his successor as superintendent of schools in that place into the courts, alleging that politics was responsible for the change. "Billy" is somewhat of a politician himself but it should be added that he is also an excellent schoolmaster.

There is no room for argument against the stand taken by Senator Frelinghuysen that licenses should be revoked on second report to the State Automobile Commissioner that the speed laws have been violated. Some such drastic action is sorely needed to hold in check the undesirable automobilists who have no respect for the laws of New Jersey.

Coming to the defense of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who is much perturbed over his inevitable defeat for a fourth term, the Westfield Standard gives Union county a poor rating so far as Assembly material is concerned by asking "who is the man in Union county who can satisfy the local optionists, the regulars, the new idealists, and the rest of us?"

Mentioning Senator Ackerman as one, the New Jersey political writer for the New York Herald states that "there will be considerable curiosity this year to see whether the members of the present Legislature who "bolted the caucus" nominee for United States Senator are renominated."

As Mr. Ackerman does not come up this fall for re-election, Union county will have to forego the privilege of endorsing the record of its admirable representative for one year, but when the time arrives he will certainly gt the "A1" stamp from the county convention and from the people.

Won Championship Game.

In the contest for the championship, between six-a-side fast ball teams, at Sulzer's Weschester Park, New Yrok., in which twenty of the class clubs of the Metropolitan district are entered, the Plainfield Club beat the strong Paterson team, 7 points to 2. Two rounds of the contest were played, leaving eight clubs in. The final round will be played next Saturday. The Plainfield-Paterson game was the closest of the afternoon.

A. E. Kenney, of Watchung avenue, leave tomorrow for the Surf House, Asbury Park.

The Misses Elizabeth and Nellie Case, of West Third street; the Misses Katherine and Clara Flynn, and Miss May Day, of West Fourth street, left this morning for the Adirondacks, where they will spend two weeks.

From the issue of March 24, 1870:

"CONSECRATION OF GRACE CHURCH, PLAINFIELD.

"On Monday, the 21st, the Episcopal church in Plainfield, was, according to notice previously given, set apart to the sole service of Almight, God, by the Right Rev. W. H. Odenheimer, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese. This church has been lately enlarged and beautified, and, though built some eighteen years since, had never been consecrated, in consequence of a debt upon the building, which, with the cost of the present enlargement, has now been paid off.

"The event consequently was looked forward to with much interest not only by the Episcopalians in Plainfield, but by many of their friends, who, though belonging to other religious denominations have generously assisted in the construction of the church. The enlargement and changes, which have been recently made, have so improved the church, that it is now a little gem in church neatness and taste, and will compare favorably with any church of its size in the improving Diocese of New Jersey. The chancel, which displays particularly good taste, representing as chancels should as much as possible the ideas of the heavenly world, was painted by Messrs. Lamb & Bro., of New York, and is without any gaudiness of apppearance particularly church like. The furniture and wainscoting are of black walnut, the former in the inner chancel, consists of an altar, in front of which, in the panels, are the Alpha and Omega, the Crown, the I. H. S., whilst on the Super Altar the Ter Sanctus is beautifully illuminated in blue and gold, also the bishop's and rector's chairs with their mitre and cross. Two double Sedilias and Credence Tables. The outer chancel has a double Sedilia and prayer desk with Lectern.

"The chancel window is a triplet over which in very neatly executed work, is the text, 'I am the Light of the World.' Over the outside of the chancel are appropriate words, 'One Lord, one faith, one baptism,' and over the vestry room door the text, 'Le thy Priests be clothed with Righteousness.'

"The service on the occasion which was choral was extremely interesting, and was conducted strictly in accordance with the Ritual of the Episcopal Church in America. Everything seemed to impress the worshipper with the appropriateness of the text over the entrance door, 'This is none other but the House of God.' At half-past ten the procession, composed of the clergy in full sacerdotal vestments, and a surpliced choir of boys, moved from the adjoining house which had been kindly lent to them for the occasion, singing as a professional hymn five verses composed by a lady member of the congregation, who little thought that the few lines, hurriedly put together on the previous Sunday, and without the slightest intention of publication, would form the procession hymn for the consecration of her church.

"The procession was met at the front door by the bishop and vestry, who, proceeding up the aisle, read alternately with the clergy, the 24th Psalm. After the bishop was seated in his chair within the chancel, the Instrument of Donation was read by Rev. Dr. Fox, and after the address and prayer prescribed in the Book of Common Prayer, the Sentence of Consecration was read by th eRev. Dr. Abercrombie, of Rahway.

"The morning prayer then followed intoned by the Rev. W. H. Cooke, assistant minister of Trinity, New York. The Psaltar was also sung. The 1st lesson read by Rev. Dr. Abercrombie. The 2nd lesson by Rev. W. Farrington. The remaining part of the morning prayer intoned by Rev. Dr. Cooke.

"The anti-communion service with the exception of the Epistle and Gospel was read by the Bishop, the former being by the Rev. W. Wardlaw, the Gospel by the Rev. C. Little.

"After the singing of the hundredth Psalm, the Bishop approached the Lectern and having made some preliminary appropriate remarks expressing his gratification at the improved condition of the parish, the beauty and neatness of the building, the work of the rector, took for his text the last four verses of the 12th Chap. of the first Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians. The sermon, which was listened to with the greatest attention, was a discourse evidencing deep research, pithy, charitable and deeply interesting, and worthy of the man.

"The Holy Rite of Confirmation was then administered. This is the third confirmation held in this parish since the present rector's appointment, a period of only one year and ten months. During the offertory Mendelssohn's beautiful solo, "If With All Your Hearts," was sung by the Rev. W. H. Cooke, whose popularity as a singer of sacred music is second to none in the Church in America. The prayer for the church militant was read by the Bishop, the Rev. Dr. Fox taking the exhortation address and confession. The Bishop pronounced the absolution and after the consecration of the elements adminisited to the clergy the Holy Eucharist.

"The post communion was read by Rev. W. Farrington, and after the singing of the 'Gloria in Excelsis,' the Bishop pronounced the benediction. The procession then formed in the chancel, and led by the rector, moved slowly down the aisle, and thence to the house to unrobe, singing as the procession hymn from hymns Ancient and Modern, 'Forty Days and Forty Nights.'"

"Dr. Peck, of St. John's, New York, presided at the organ with his usual ability, and the choristers acquitted themselves to the delight of all, every person in the church seemed deeply impressed with the solemnity of the services as well as delighted with the order and regularity.

"The bishop, clergy and all the parishioners as well as many more friends, were invited to a dejeuner at the rector's, where, after a few hours pleasantly spent, they took leave of their friend, congratulating him sincerely on the success of the whole proceeding."

OBITUARY.

Bretemante Carmela Marrow.

Bretemante Carmela Marrow, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antone Marrow, of East Front street, died Saturday. The funeral was held this morning and interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Charles E. Lewis.

Chales E. Lewis, the nine-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H Lewis, colored, of South Second street, died Saturday afternoon. The funeral was held at the parents' home yesterday afternoon and interment was in the Methodist cemetery.

Evelyn Richmond.

Miss Evelyn Richmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richmond, of West Front street, died yesterday morning at Muhlenberg Hospital. She was taken to the institution one week ago Friday and was operated upon for appendicitis. She rallied quickly and was in a fair way to recover when complications set in that caused her death. Miss Richmond was in her twenty-first year and came to this city with her parents from Trenton three years ago. She was a member of Trinity Reformed church and had many local friends. She leaves two brothers, Leon and William Richmond, both of Plainfield. The funeral will be held at the parents' home tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and burial will be at Trenton Wednesday morning.

Miss May Hughes, of the A. E. Force & Co. store, leaves next week for her two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Huff and son, Herbert, of Codington avenue, have returned from Centreville.

THE WOODHULL & MARTIN STORE

THOSE GOLDEN LOCKS.

Theirs had been a love-match pure and simple—in fact, they had eloped, and flinty-hearted parents had proved obdurate. Therefore they had nothing to live on but love, and they grew thin on it. At last starvation stared them in the face.

"Oh, George," wailed the young wife, "what shall we do? I am so hungry!"

"Alas! I know not, darling!" he sighed, fondly but sadly toying with her luxuriant tresses.

"But I know, George," she suddenly exclaimed, after a pause. "I will sell my hair!"

"What!" he almost shouted. "Barter those golden locks for base dross? Have them cut off by a soulless barber! Never—never! I will starve first!"

"But George," she assured him, "they do not requiring cutting off. See!" And she detached the glistening three-guinea switch from her haid and laid it in his hand.

That night the young couple supped luxuriously; but still he was not happy.

Microphone as Fire Damp Detecter.

The fire damp detecter of M. Hardy, a Frenchman, is an ingenious application of the microphone. Two pipes of equal pitch, one in the mine and the other above ground, are sounded simultaneously, and the sound waves impinge on microphones connected in series with a telephone. If both pipes are in pure air a clear note is heard in the telephone. If the pipes are in air of different density beats are heard, and these give warning of the presence of fire damp in the mine.

TORE OUT TONGUE AS A SACRIFICE

MANIAC PLACED IN STEEL JACKET AFTER FIGHTING POLICE AND DOCTORS.

MAIMS HIMSELF FOR THE CZAR

Unfortunate Man Thought He Would Get High Position in Russian Government as Result of Deed.

New York.—Laboring under the delusion that if he made some great personal sacrifice in the name of the czar and czarina of Russia they would reward him with high political honors, William M. McLaughlin, 38 years old, of Huron street, almost tore his tongue from its roots, shortly before noon the other day, became violently insane and had to be strapped into a strait-jacket and removed to the Kings county hospital. Before he was finally brought into submission, however, McLaughlin gave the doctor, the ambulance driver, a policeman, and several neighbors the tussle of their lives.

Just what drove McLaughlin to such sudden violent insanity the doctors have not yet been able to discover. Except for the small shred of flesh McLaughlin's tongue is severed, but the doctors hope to patch it up so that it will grow on again. The insane man is unmarried and made his home with friends at the Huron street address. He has been out of work for a long time, but it was not noticed that he had serious faults with his mentality.

Early in the morning, however, his friends were surprised to hear him talk queerly about the sacrifice he had been called on to make in behalf of the czar of Russia. What that sacrifice was he would not tell those who asked him questions in the effort to pacify him, but he raved considerably about the high ministerial position with which the czar would repay him for the doubtful tribute of agony. After awhile the folks with whom he lived got tired of his nonsensical talk, and, thinking that he had been temporarily deranged by the heat, left him to himself.

Shortly before noon, however, the tenants on the floor below heard him scream and stamp around the floor at a great rate. When several of the neighbors had summoned enough courage to investigate they found McLaughlin pounding his head against the wall, clawing the furniture and screaming lustily. Apparently he was in great agony, for his tongue hung far out of his mouth and seemed to

The neighbors rushed to the Greenpoint police station, from which a hurry call was sent to the eastern district hospital. When Dr. Snyder arrived with the ambulance McLaughlin pushed his tongue back into his mouth, snapped his jaws, and refused to let the doctors examine it or treat him. It required the combined strength of about six men to hold him still, but their task was by no means an easy one, for McLaughlin displayed great strength and raised ructions with everybody and everything in the room. When they finally floored him a strait-jacket was clamped around him, and Dr. Snyder had to pry open his jaws to stuff his mouth with gauze so that the few shreds that still held the tongue to its roots would be left intact.

Then they carried him down to the ambulance and removed him to the Kings county hospital in Flatbush. There it was said that McLaughlin's condition was serfous.

Weird Wild Woman.

Erie, Pa.—Her every act resembling that of a beast, Mrs. Jennie Lanigan, known as the "Wild Woman of Glenwood Park," is a captive at police headquarters after a two-year hunt by the authorities. She has made her abode in the woods adjoining the park and made the vicinity shunned at night. With a sheet about her, hair unraveled, toothless and creeping like a wild animal, she has been seen by several persons. Patrolman Sandusky found her the other night in the hollow of a tree. Two years ago Mrs. Lanigan became insane over domestic troubles.

Establishing a Fact

By W. CRAWFORD SHERLOCK.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"I'm an utter failure, Margaret."

"Don't talk that way, Tom," urged Margaret, soothingly. "You are not a failure, and you're not worthless nor incompetent, either. You are just the best boy that ever lived."

Tom Carlton stretched his great length on the grass by Margaret's side and for a few minutes contented himself with fervent, admiring glances into her dark blue eyes.

"It's nice to have some one who believes in you," he said at last, "but I'm afraid your confidence is misplaced. I've been discharged from the office."

"That was through no fault of yours," she declared confidently. "You always try to do your duty."

"The chief wasn't in a very good humor, so he began to squint over my work and found two mistakes, each of the same amount, on opposite sides of the book. It balanced all right, but it was dead wrong, all the same. Well, the chief ripped off a yard or two of choice but rather inelegant English and wound up by declaring that there wasn't another man in the world who would have made such mistakes, egregious blunders he called them."

"Everybody makes mistakes," affirmed Margaret spiritedly. "You should have told him that."

"Poor boy," whispered Margaret, tenderly stroking his curly brown hair. "Don't worry about it; you will get another and perhaps a better place."

"Margaret, I'll never be a clerk if I live to be a hundred," declared Carlton with conviction. "I have tried my best and made more mistakes than any man in the office. You'd better cut loose from me, Margaret, before I ruin your chances in life."

"I'll do nothing of the kind, Tom," asserted the girl emphatically. "I'm not afraid to trust my future to you. You have brains and will make a name for yourself yet. That invention of yours would bring you a fortune if you could only get it started."

"That's is, Margaret, but I can't get it started without money, and money I have not, nor any prospects of any."

"Are you sure your Aunt Sarah did not leave you some?" inquired Margaret earnestly. "She promised to, you know."

"I believe she intended to leave me some money," returned Carlton bitterly, "but I can't prove that she did. Aunt Sarah was under some deep obligations to my father in her early life, and always said she intended to do something liberal for me, but old Arnold, her husband, kept a tight string on the family purse during his life and at his death left his money in trust for his wife during her lifetime and then to his four children. Aunt Sarah told me over and over again that she was saving every cent of the income for me, but when she died my cousins knew nothing of such a plan, nor was any will found. Consequently, I get nothing."

For fifteen minutes neither spoke. Carlton was gloomily reflecting upon the possibilities of providing a home and caring for the girl to whom he had been engaged for the past three years. Margaret, meanwhile, was debating within herself the advisability of giving up her trip to Europe as companion to Mrs. Harper.

"Tom, I'm going to stay at home. I will not go to Europe with Mrs. Harper."

"You're a good girl, lassie," declared Carlton, rising on his elbow and slipping his arm around her waist, "but I want you to go. You would lose your position and it would be a case of two of a kind then. I have a plan that may make our fortunes and I want you to go."

"What is your plan?"

"I can't tell you, Margaret. I want to find out whether my aunt really did intend to leave me any money and I am going to try a ruse on my beloved cousins."

The following week Margaret sailed for Geneva in company with Mrs. Harper. Carlton was at the wharf to see them off and watched the big steamer until it was out of sight.

For several days after Margaret's departure Carlton remained at home, and every evening a soft-voiced, soft-treading man, dressed in black, called to see him.

It soon became rumored in the neighborhood that Mr. Carlton was quite ill, and this news was sent to his cousins, who called to see him. His condition seemed to grow worse, however, and one morning the neighbors noticed a black crepe on the door of the little cottage.

In the parlor was a plain coffin in which Carlton lay. His face was pale and dark circles were beneath his eyes, as if he had suffered greatly during his illness. By the side of the coffin stood Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Hopkins and Thomas and John Arnold, the four cousins of Carlton and the children of Aunt Sarah.

"What a pity poor Tom died so young," said Mrs. Porter, wiping her eyes with a dainty handkerchief. "He was such a handsome man, so like his father."

"I feel just dreadful, Mary," sniffled Mrs. Hopkins, hysterically, "when I think what we did to him when mother died. It was just awful."

"It was our mother's money, Clara," observed John Arnold, coldly. "We had more right to it than Tom Carlton had."

"There wasn't any will," interposed Thomas Arnold. "All mother left was a scrap of paper saying she wanted the twenty thousand she had saved to go to Cousin Tom."

"It was signed by her," argued Mrs. Hopkins, "and even if it wasn't witnessed, we ought to have carried out her wishes. I am going to take my share and build a handsome monument over this poor boy's grave."

"There'll be no need of that, Cousin Clara," observed a voice in no degree sepulchral. Tom Carlton had risen in his coffin and was surveying the group with a bland smile. "Just give me the money in cold cash. It will do me more good."

At this unexpected announcement Mrs. Hopkins sank back in a chair speechless with fright, while Mrs. Porter uttered a series of screams that would have aroused the neighborhood if Carlton's home had not been somewhat isolated. John and Thomas Arnold stared in blank amazement at the supposed dead cousin.

"What does this mean, Carlton?" demanded John Arnold, sternly. "What kind of a trick have you been playing upon us?"

"I wished to find out if Aunt Sarah had left me any money," returned Carlton affably, "and I have succeeded. I shall expect each of my beloved cousins to hand me over five thousand dollars."

"You'll never get it," retorted Thomas Arnold savagely. "What you have learned to-day will not do you any good."

"Mr. Tyndall!" called Carlton, and the soft-voiced, soft-treading man in black stepped from behind the portieres. "You have heard what these people said about my aunt's intentions regarding me?" Mr. Tyndall bowed affirmatively. "Now, my cousins," continued Carlton quietly, "I'm going to give you a chance to settle this matter quietly or take the consequences. The courts have decided that a bequest, duly signed by the testatrix, even if not witnessed, is a will and the law provides a fitting punishment for those destroying or withholding a will. I may lose the case, but it will produce some publicity that will be decidedly unpleasant for you."

A lengthy consultation ensued between the brothers and sisters, during which Carlton washed the dark circles from beneath his eyes and the powder from his face, while Mr. Tyndall removed the crepe from the front door and carried the coffin to the attic.

When the result of his cousins' deliberations was made known to Carlton he rushed out and sent the following cablegram to Margaret:

"Aunt Sarah's legacy received. Come home."

"What was your plan?" asked Margaret, when Carlton had finished reading the cablegram.

"I'll tell you when I see you," he answered. "I'm going to Geneva to-morrow."

POLITE LANGUAGE FAILED HIM.

Comment on Soup Was Worth Forfeiture of Nickel.

There are two little brothers, now living in New York, who came here not long ago from a Western army post. Their father, an officer, had been stationed there for several years and the boys were born there. The free outdoor life threw them much with the cavalry troopers of the post, and their vocabulary is picturesquely sprinkled with vigorous expressions. This fact, somehow, was not so noticeable in the west, but after the youngsters came here to live the family began a determined effort to break them of profanity.

"I will give each of you two boys five cents for every day on which you don't swear," said the father, "but, mind you, you lose it if you forget yourself even once."

Since then the two have earned considerable money, and, though there have been many days when the sum had to be forfeited, there has been a steady improvement. There are times, however, as the boys can bear witness, which pass beyond all endurance. For instance, the other evening when the brothers were dining with their parents at their grandfather's, a soup, which was a distinct failure, was placed upon the table. The grown people, after tasting it, were too polite to make any comments, but contented themselves with leaving it unfinished. Not so the boys. Disappointment and disapproval were evident on their faces. At last in the case of the younger his feelings had to find expression.

"Papa," he asked, "will you surely make me lose my five cents if I swear?"

"Certainly, son; you know that," was the answer.

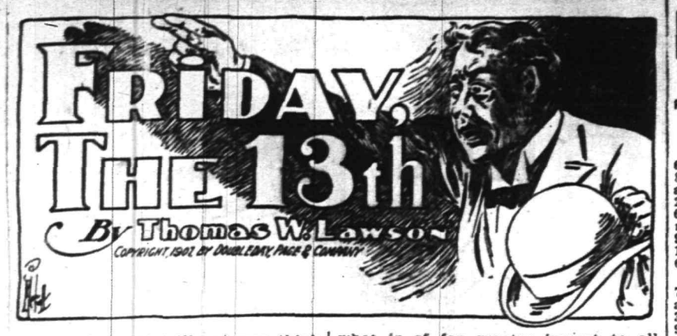
"Well, then," remarked the five-year-old, "you can keep your money to-day, for this is d—— bad soup!"—New York Times.

Literary Arts and Crafts.

There is an explanation of the dearth of poetry offered by the Youth's Companion that deserves consideration. It is that the poets have been drawn into the maelstrom of commercialism and have established riming factories, when they used to devote as much time to producing a single sonnet as it now takes to turn out a volume. Perhaps some literary arts and crafts society will start a revival of hand-made poetry.

Even Nature Needs Advertising.

It is worth while to note the stern fact that even the wonders of creation do not actually attract any special attention unless some advertising man gets busy. The railroads really make Niagara falls go, the Philistine truly says. They are advertising it continually as a continuous performance and filling people with a desire to go there, then transporting them for a consideration.



"What do you intelligent men think of this situation? You know, because you know the stock-gambling game, that the American people, with their boasted brains and courage, come year after year with their bags of gold, the result of their prosperous labors, and dump them, hundreds of millions, into this gambling inferno of yours. You know that they are fools, these silly millions of people whom you term lambs and suckers. You chuckle as, year after year, having been sent away shorn, they return for new shearing. You marvel that the merchants, manufacturers, miners, lawyers, farmers, who have sufficient intelligence to gather such surplus legitimately, would bring it to our gambling hell, where, upon all sides is plain proof that we who conduct the gambling, and who produce nothing, are obliged to take from those who do produce, hundreds of millions each year for expenses, and hundreds of millions each year for profits—for you know that we have nothing to give them in return for what they bring to us. You know that every dollar of the billions lost in Wall street means higher prices for steel rails, for lumber and cars, and that this means higher passenger and freight rates to the people. You know that when the manufacturer brings his wealth to Wall street and is robbed of it, he will add something to the price of boots and shoes, cotton and woolen clothes, and other necessities that he makes and that he sells to the people. You know that when the copper, lead, tin, and iron miners part with their surplus to the 'System,' it means higher prices to the people for their copper pots and gutters, for the water that comes through lead pipes, for their tin dippers and wash boilers, and for their rents, and all those necessities into which machinery, lumber, and other raw and finished material enters. You know that every hundred millions dropped by real producers to the brigands of our world means lower wages or less of the necessities and luxuries for all the people, and especially for the farmer. You know that it is habit with us of Wall street to gloat over the doctrine of the 'System,' which the people parrot among themselves—the doctrine that the people at large are not affected by our gambling, because they, the people, having no surplus to gamble with, never come into Wall street. And yet, knowing all this, you never thought, with all your wisdom and cynicism, that right here in this institution, which you own and control, was the open sesame for each or all of you, to those great chests of gold that your clients, the 'System,' have filled to bursting from the stores of the people. What, I ask, do you wise men think of the situation as you now see it?"

There was an oppressive stillness on the floor. The great crowd, which now contained nearly all the members of the exchange, listened with bulging eyes and open mouths to the revelations of their fellow member. From time to time, as Bob Brownley poured forth his shot and shell of deadly logic, from the vast mob that now surrounded the exchange rose a hoarse bellow of impatience, for few in that dense throng outside could understand the silence of the gigantic human crusher, which between the hours of ten and three was never before known to miss a revolution except while its victims' hearts and souls were being removed from its gears and meshes.

Bob Brownley paused and looked down into the faces of the breathless gamblers with a contempt that was superb. He went on:

"Men of Wall street, it is writ in the books of the ancients that every evil contains within itself a cure or a destroyer. I do not pretend that what I am revealing to you is to you a cure for this hideous evil, but I do say that what I am giving you is a destroyer for it, and that while it will be to the world a cure, it may leave you in a more fiery hell than the one of which you now feel the flames. I do not care if it does. When I am through, any member of the New York stock exchange who feels the iron in his soul can get instant revenge and unlimited wealth. You who are turning over in your minds the consideration that your great body can make new rules to render my discovery inoperative, are dealing with a shadow. There is no rule or device that can prevent its working. There are 1,000 seats in the New York stock exchange. They are worth to-day $95,000 apiece, or $95,000,000 in all. Their value is due to the fact that this exchange deals in between one and three million shares a day. Were any attempt made to prevent the operation of my invention, transactions would because of such attempt drop to five or ten thousand shares per day, or to such transactions as represented stock that will be actually delivered and actually paid for. To make my invention useless it must be made impossible to buy or sell the same share of stock more than once at one session, and short selling, which is now, as you know, the foundation of the modern stock-gambling structure, must likewise be made impossible. If this could be done the $95,000,000 worth of seats in the exchange would be worth less than five millions, and what is of far greater import to all the people, the financial world would be revolutionized. Men of Wall street, do not fool yourselves. My invention is a sure destroyer of the greatest curse in the world, stock-gambling."

"Let me show you the impossibility of preventing in the future anyone's doing what I have done to you so many times during the past five years. All the capital required to work my invention is nerve and desperation, or nerve without desperation. It is well known to you that there are at all times exchange members who will commit any crime, barring, perhaps, murder, to gain millions. Your members have from time to time shown nerve or desperation enough to embezzle, raise certificates, give bogus checks, counterfeit stocks and bonds, and this for gain of less than millions, and when detection was probable. All these are criminal offenses and their detection is sure to bring disgrace and state prison. Yet members of this exchange desperate enough to take the chance, when confronted with loss of fortune and open bankruptcy, have always been found with nerve enough to attempt the crimes. I repeat that there are at all times exchange members who will commit any crime, barring, perhaps, murder, to gain millions. That you may see that my successors will surely come from your midst from time to time during the future existence of the exchange, I will enumerate the different classes of members who will follow in my footsteps:

"First, the 'In God We Trust' schemer who is of the 'System' type, but who is outside the magic circle. A man of this class will reason: I know scores of men, who stand high on the Street and in the social world, who have tens of millions that they have filched by 'System' tricks, if not by legal crimes. If I perform this trick of Brownley's, the trick of selling short until a panic is produced, I shall make millions and none will be the wiser. For all I know, many of the multi-millionaires whom I have seen produce panics and who were applauded by the Street and the press for their ability and daring, and whose standing, business and social, is now the highest, were only doing this same thing, and having been successful, they have never been detected or suspected. But even suppose I fail, which can only be through some extraordinary accident happening while I am engaged in selling, I shall have committed no crime, and, in fact, shall have done no one any great moral wrong, for if I fail to carry out my contract to deliver the stock I have sold in trying to produce a panic, the men to whom I have sold will be no worse off for not receiving what they bought; in fact, they will stand just where they stood before I attempted to bring on a panic.

"Second, if an exchange member for any reason should find himself overboard and should realize that he must publicly become bankrupt and lose all, he surely would be a fool not to attempt to produce a panic, when its production would enable him to recoup his losses and prevent his failure, and when if by accident he should fail in his attempt to produce a panic, the penalty would simply be his bankruptcy, which would have taken place in any event.

"The third class is that large one that always will exist while there is stock-gambling, a class of honest, square-dealing-play-the-game-fair exchange men who would take no unfair advantage of their fellow-members until they become awakened to the knowledge that they are about to be ruined by their fellow-members' trickery.

"Next, let us consider further whether it is possible for our exchange to prevent my device from being worked, now that it is known to all. Suppose the governing committee was informed in advance that the attempt to work the trick was to be made. If, at any session, after gong-strike, the governing committee, or any exchange authority, could for any reason compel a member to cease operating, even for the purpose of showing that his transactions were legitimate, the entire structure of stock-gambling would fall. Think it through: Suppose a man like Barry Conant or myself, or any active commission broker, begins the execution of a large order for a client, one, say, who has advance information of a receivership, a fire at a mine, the death of a president, a declaration of war, or any of the hundred and one items of information that must be acted upon instantly, where a delay of a minute would ruin the broker, or his house, or its clients. If the governing committee could thus call the broker to account, the professional bear or the schemer, who desired to prevent him from selling, would have but to pass the word to the president of the exchange that the broker in question was about to work Brownley's discovery and he could be taken from the crowd and before he returned his place could be taken by others and he could be ruined.

"Men of Wall street, it is impossible to prevent the repetition of those acts by which in five years I have accumulated a billion dollars, impossible so long as a short sale or a repurchase and resale, is allowed. When short sales, and repurchases and resales, are made impossible, stock speculation will be dead. When stock speculation is dead, the people can no longer be robbed by the 'System.' In leaving you, the exchange, and stock-gambling forever, as I shall when I leave this platform, I will say from the depth of a heart that has been broken, from the profoundity of a soul that has been withered by the 'System's' poison, with a full sense of my responsibility to my fellow-man and to my God, that I advise every one of you to do what I have done and to do it quickly, before the doing of it by others shall have made it impossible, before the doing of it by others shall have blown up the whole stock-gambling structure. In accepting my advice you can quiet your conscience, those of you who have any, with this argument: 'If I start, I am sure of success. If I succeed, no one will be the wiser. The millions I secure I will take from men who took them from others, and who would take mine. The more I and others take, the sooner will come the day when the stock-gambling structure will fall.'

"The day on which the stock-gambling structure falls is the day for which all honest men and women should pray."

Bob Brownley paused and let his eyes sweep his dumfounded audience. There was not a murmur. The crowd was speechless.

Again his eyes swept the room. Then he slowly raised his right hand with fist clenched, as though about to deal a blow.

"Men of Wall street"—his voice was now deep and solemn—"to show that Robert Brownley knew what was fitting for the last day of his career, he has revealed to you the trick—and more.

"Many of you are desperate. Many of you by to-morrow will be ruined. The time of all times for such to put my trick in practice is now. The victim of victims is ready for the experiment. I am he. I have a billion dollars. With this billion dollars I am able to buy 10,000,000 shares of the leading stocks and to pay for them, even though after I have bought they fall a hundred dollars a share. Here is your chance to prevent your ruin, your chance to retrieve your fortune, your chance to secure revenge upon me, the one who has robbed you."

He paused only long enough for his astounding advice to connect with his listeners' now keenly sensitive nerve centers; then deep and clear rang out, "Barry Conant." The wiry form of Bob's old antagonist leaped to the rostrum.

"I authorize you to buy any part of 10,000,000 shares of the leading stocks at any price up to 50 points above the present market. There is my check-book signed in blank, and I authorize you to use it up to a billion dollars, and I agree to have in bank to-morrow sufficient funds to meet any checks you draw. You have failed to-day for seven millions, and, therefore, cannot trade, but I herewith announce that I will pay all the indebtedness of Barry Conant and his house. Therefore he is now in good standing." Bob had kept his eye on the great clock; as the last word passed his lips, the president's gavel descended.

With a mighty rush the gamblers leaped for the different poles. Barry Conant with lightning rapidity gave his orders to 20 of his assistants, who, when Bob Brownley called for Conant, had gathered around their chief. In less than a minute the dollar-battle of the age was on, a battle such as no man had ever seen before. It required no supernatural wisdom for any man on the floor to see that Bob Brownley's seed had fallen in superheated soil, that his until now secret hellite was about to be tested. It needed no expert in the mystic art of deciphering the wall hieroglyphics of Old Hag Fate to see that the hands on the clock of the "System" were approaching 12. It needed no ear trained to hear human heart and soul beats to detect the approaching sound of onrushing doom to the stock-gambling structure. The deafening roar of the brokers that had broken the stillness following Robert Brownley's fateful speech had awakened echoes that threatened to shake down the exchange walls. The surging mob on the outside was roaring like a million hungry lions in an Arbestan run at slaughter time.

CHAPTER X.

The instant after the gong sounded Bob Brownley was alone on the floor at the foot of the president's desk. His form was swaying like a reed on the edge of the cyclone's path. I jumped to his side. His brother, who had during Bob's harangue been vainly endeavoring to beat his way through the crowd, was there first. "For God's sake, Bob, hear me. Word came from your house half an hour ago of the miracle: Beulah has awakened to her past. Her mind is clear; the nurses are frantic for you to come to her."

He got no further. With a mad bellow and a bound, like a tortured bull that sees the arena walls go down, Bob rushed out through the nearest door, which, I thanked God, was a side one leading to the street where the crowd was thinnest. He cast a wild look around. His eyes lighted on an empty automobile whose chauffeur had deserted to the crowd. It was the work of a second to crank it; of another to jump into the front seat. Quick as had been his movement, I was behind him in the rear seat. With a bound the great machine leaped through the crowd.

"In the name of Christ, Bob, be careful," I yelled, as he hurled the iron monster through the throng, scattering it to the right and left as the mower scatters the sheaves in the wheat fields. Some were crushed beneath its wheels. Bob Brownley heard not their screams, heard not the curses of those who escaped. He was on his feet, his body crouched low over the steering wheel, which he grasped in his vice-like hands. His hatless head was thrust far out, as though it strove to get to Beulah Sands ahead of his body. His teeth were set, and as I had jumped into the machine I had noted that his eyes were those of a maniac, who saw sanity just ahead if he could but get to it in time. His ears were deaf not only to the howl of the terrified throng and the curses of the teamsters who frantically pulled their horses to the curb, but to my warnings as well. He swung the machine around the corner at New street and into Wall as though it had been the broadest boulevard in the park. He took Wall street at a bound I was sure would land us through the fence into Trinity's churchyard. But no. Again he turned the corner, throwing the Juggernaut on its outside wheels from Wall street into Broadway as the crowds on the sidewalk held their breath in horror. I, too, was on my feet, but crouching as I hung to the sides. Thank God, that usually crowded thoroughfare was free from vehicles as far up as I could see, on beyond the Astor house. What could it mean? Was that divinity which 'tis said protects the drunkard and the idiot about to aid the mad rush of this love-frenzied creature to his long-lost but newly returned dear one? I heard the frantic clang of gongs, and as we shot by the World building, I saw ahead of us two plunging automobiles filled with men. 'Twas from them the gong clamor sounded. As we drew nearer I saw that these were the cars of the fire chiefs answering a call. I thanked God again and again as I yelled into Bob's ear, "For Beulah's sake, Bob, don't pass; if you do, we'll run into a blockade. If we keep in the rear they'll clear our way, and we may get to her alive." I do not know whether he heard, but he held the machine in the rear of the other cars and did not try to pass. Away we went on our mad rush through crowded Broadway. At Union Square we lost our way-clearers. As our automobile jumped across Fourteenth street into Fourth avenue, Bob must have opened her up to the last notch, for she seemed to leap through the air. We sent two wagons crashing across the sidewalks into the buildings. Cries of rage arose above the din of the machine, and seemed to follow in our wake. Bob was dead to all we passed. His entire being seemed set on what was ahead. I knew he was an expert in the handling of the automobile, for since his misfortune, automobiling with Beulah Sands had been his favorite pastime, but who could expect to carry that 'plunging, swaying car to Forty-second street' Bob seemed to be performing the wondrous task. We shot from curb to curb and around and in front of vehicles and foot passengers as though the driver's eyes and hands were inspired.

Across the square at last and on up Fourth avenue to Twenty-sixth street. Then a dizzying whirl into Madison. Was he going to keep to it until he got to Forty-second street and try to make Fifth avenue along that congested block with its crush of Grand Central passengers and lines upon lines of hacks and teams? No. His head must be clear. Again he threw the great machine around the corner and into Fortieth street. For a part of the block our wheels rode the sidewalk and I awaited the crash. It did not come. Surely the new world Bob was speeding to must be a kind one, else why should Hag Fate, who had been at the steering wheel of his life-car during the last five years, carry him safely through what looked a dozen sure deaths? Without slacking speed a jot we swung around the corner of Fortieth into Fifth avenue. The road was clear to Forty-second; there a dense jam of cars, teams and carriages blocked the crossing. Bob must have seen the solid wall for I heard his low muttered curse. Nothing else to indicate that we were blocked with his goal in sight. He never touched the speed controller, but took the two blocks as though shot from a catapult. The two? No, one, and three-quarters of the next, for when within a score of yards of the black wall he jammed down the brakes, and the iron mass ground and shook as though it would rend itself to atoms, but it stopped with its dasher and front wheels wedged in between a car and a dray. It had not stopped when Bob was off and up the avenue like a hound on the end-in-sight trail. I was after him while the astonished bystanders stared in wonder. As we neared Bob's house I could see people on the stoop. I heard Bob's secretary shout, "Thank God, Mr. Brownley, you have come. She is in the office. I found her there, quiet and recovered. She did not ask a question. She said, 'Tell Mr. Brownley when he comes that I should like to see him.' Then she ordered me to get the afternoon paper. I handed it to her an hour ago. I think she believes herself in her old office. I shut off the floor as you instructed. I did not dare go to her for fear she would ask questions. I have"—but Bob was up the stairs two and three steps at a time.

THE ROSE IN HER HAIR

By H. FORREST.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Carita strummed her guitar with studied carelessness, watching, under drooping lids, the fair-haired Americano, who in turn, was watching her.

It was night, and late. In the warm moonlight the girl's witching face looked still more fair. Under the spell of the moment, the Americano forgot himself, his honor and another important factor in his life.

"Give me the rose in your hair," he pleaded; but Carita shook her head.

Just back of her ear, and fastened loosely in the meshes of her silky black hair, was the rose he desired. It was a beautiful thing, full-grown and blood-red, almost too perfect.

Carita's eyes looked love, and the Americano felt the fire leap through his veins.

"If you will not give me the rose, Most Beautiful, then give me your heart," he whispered.

"You will go away and leave it broken," she said, her eyes wild with longing.

"I will stay forever," he answered. "Give me your heart, Carita."

And because she thought he meant it, he took her heart—and her soul.

Carita stood in the doorway of the old mission. In the shadow of the wide porch her face looked deadly pale, but her eyes burned hot and her lips were crimson.

Out in the bay, a white-winged yacht rocked gently against its mooring. On it was the Americano's wife, a pretty, pink little thing with yellow hair, who had come all the way from New York for her naughty husband!'

"I hate her," he said, "but I must go, Carita mia. I will return soon. I love you. I will return soon. Give me the rose in your hair. It is like the one I sought that night—so long ago—when you gave me your dear heart instead. Give me the rose, Sweet. I will wear it on my heart and kiss it good-night—thinking it is your lips."

Carita hesitated, her face growing whiter, then she tore it from her hair, kissed it, and gave it to him.

"Go!" she said. "Go before I hate you!"

"Good-by!" he cried. "I will return soon." But she saw the lie in his eyes.

"Adios!" she whispered, brokenly. "Adios!"

He crushed the rose to his lips where hers had touched it, and walked quickly away.

Silently she watched him, and presently saw him glance furtively about, then drop it among the flowers that hedged the path.

"Mother of God!" she cried, miserably; then anger, hot and terrible, sprang into her eyes.

Before the yacht left its mooring, the Americano received a little package and a note. In the package was the rose. He tossed it overboard.

The letter he read twice. Then he clutched the railing and stared madly over the water back to the village.

Then he read it again:

"The rose you kissed so passionately and cast aside, as you cast me aside, has been in the family for generations. It is a beautiful device for concealing an incurable poison. Before the sun rises again, we will both be dead. We are the devil's own, you and I, our souls will meet and suffer together. Adios. I love you. I will die happy. May your last thoughts be of me—as mine will be of you. Adios—until we meet again.

CARITA.

Carita strummed her guitar carelessly as she watched the yacht spread its white wings and sail away. "Oh, la!" she breathed, and closed her eyes.

WHEN DEBTORS WERE JAILED.

Evil Practice Existed Until Comparatively Recent Times.

In nearly every country until comparatively recent times, debtors have been subject to imprisonment. After the panic of 1825, 101,000 writs for debt were issued in England. In 1830, 7,000 persons were sent to London prisons for debt, and on January 1, 1840, 1,700 persons were held for debt in England and Wales, 1,000 in Ireland and less than 100 in Scotland. From time to time modifications in the laws governing the imprisonment of debtors have been made, so that fewer debtors are imprisoned for this crime each year. In 1829 there were 3,000 debtors in prison in Massachusetts, 10,000 in New York, 7,000 in Pennsylvania, 3,000 in Maryland, and a like proportion in other states. Many of these persons were jailed for debts of one dollar. The law providing for the imprisonment of men who could not pay their debts was shown to be impracticable by statistics taken from Philadelphia, where in 1828 there were 1,085 debtors imprisoned for debts amounting to $25,000. The expense of keeping these persons in confinement was $362,000, which was paid by the city, and the amount recovered by this method was $295. Imprisonment for debt was abolished by congress in the United States in 1833, though this measure was not fully enforced until 1839.—Montreal Herald.

DUNELLEN TAKES GAME FROM RUSHMORE A. C.

Great pitching by Russell, catching as brilliant by Moffatt, and timely hitting made the Dunellen A. C. easy victors over the fast Rushmore A. C., of this city, at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon. The score was 9 to 3.

Moffatt nailed five men stealing. Colwell pitched well for the Rushmores, but his support was not exactly the feature of the game. Conway's base-running was noteworthy. Manager Bogardus was pleased more than a little bit by the victory. It was the first game after the turndown of his application for a place in the Inter-City League, and he told his men to go in and demonstrate what they could do when the spurs were at work. Their performance made him look like Junny Jim's pet pupil. He is ready to demonstrate that his men are as good as the Bound Brooks or the Y. M. C. A. nine whenever those teams want to give him a date.

Score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.

Scotch Plains Defeats Perth Amboy.

Scotch Plains defeated the Perth Amboys, Saturday afternoon, at the Plains, by the score of 4 to 1. The game was interesting, the home team winning by brilliant fielding. Score by innings:

POSTMASTERS' EXHIBIT OF HISTORIC JERSEY

COLLECTION OF 1,000 VIEWS, PRINCIPALLY POSTAL CARDS, AT JAMESTOWN.

A novel and interesting feature of the New Jersey historical exhibit at the Jamestown Tercentenial Exposition is the "Postmaster's Collection." The exhibit was installed in the New Jersey State building on the fair grounds until only recently, when Mr. Francis B. Lee, of Trenton, who has charge of the historical group, went to Jamestown for that purpose.

The "Postmasters' Collection" consists of post cards and photographs relating to historic New Jersey.

The subjects embraced in the "Postmasters' Collection" are scenes classified as follows: Jersey City; State Camp of the National Guard, at Sea Girt; historic lighthouses; iron industry at Boonton; the sea coast and the pines; typical scenery, old mills, transportation, historic houses and street scenes; Revolutionary and civil war monuments and views of educational institutions; historic waterways; costumes of Revolutionary soldiers and views of Trenton, showing points of Colonial and Revolutionary interest; views of Tom's River; Washington's reception in New Jersey, 1789; historic taverns and residences; historic churches and meeting houses; old county court houses; historic points along State waterways and a complete set of all views and descriptions to be found in Barber and Howe's "Historical Collections," edition of 1844.

Another interesting feature of the collection is a series of six outline maps and three charts, all prepared by Mr. Lee, with the exception of one map prepared by Dr. C. B. Godfrey, of the Adjutant General's office.

The maps embrace the following subjects: Location of the Indian tribes in New Jersey, locations of settlements before 1710, influence of race and creed before the French and Indian War, two maps showing county development, 1684-1824; fifty-three principal engagements in the American Revolution; two charts showing the New Jersey towns in which General Washington was located during exactly one-quarter of the American Revolution, and a chart showing the "First Things" of New Jersey.

Quietly Wedded.

Miss Laura P. VanCampen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. VanCampen, of East Second street, and Frank Rempsen Smith, of this city, were quietly married last night. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. E. Roberson at the parsonage of the Monroe Avenue church at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Roberson was the only attending witness. The young people will make their home in this city, the groom being in the employ of D. S. Dunavan.

Veteran Actor Dead.

New York, August 19.—George Hoey, a veteran actor, died in Kings County Hospital, Brooklyn, yesterday after a short illness. Hoey was well known to the old timers. His mother was at one time a member of the old Wallack's theatre stock company. He had played with Booth, Barrett, Jefferson, and other famous players.

Plainfielder's Son Killed.

Philip Partridge, the young man who was burned to death in the Old Orchard fire, last week, was the son of Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge, who lived in this city in his early years. Dr. Partridge graduated from the Plainfield High School. He is now pastor of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Catholic School.

A DEMENTED MAN GUARDED $40,000

REMOVED TO STATE ASYLUM MADE FIGHT TO PROTECT VALUABLES.

The extremes of old age and youth each showing odd dementia, have been received at the Somerset county jail at Somerville during the twenty-four hours expiring Saturday noon, Philip W. Brown, eighty-two years old, was brought to the jail on Friday hugging an old tin box which contained cash, bonds and securities valued at $40,000, and Frank Sutter, thirteen years old, was turned in last night with an odd delusion in his youthful brain.

The old man with the money was picked up in the Central Railroad Station here he had spent many hours in guarding the treasure, and pleading for a passage to Philadelphia, that he might escape thieves whom he imagined pursued him.

He finally became violent and standing on his treasure box, told a crowd of the value of its contents and defied any one to come near him. He was subdued after a stiff fight and even then it was possible to move him only by allowing him to retain the box. The twe were inseparable in the county jail, and every attempt to take it from him was met with violent resistance. He was removed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Trenton still hugging the box, and it was not until he reached the asylum door that Policeman Koch was able to wrest it from him. The policeman carefully guarded the box and handed it over to the authorities.

Brown, who is said to be a resident of Philadelphia, was visiting relatives in East Somerville. He recently showed signs of insanity and had been closely watched. He escaped from his friends in the night.

Young Sutter is said to be a victim of nickel novels. He is the son of Mrs. William Sutter, a widow, who owns a small farm on the Watchung mountain, north of Somerville. The boy spent his days poring over the yellow-covered books until the lurid scenes became as facts to his youthful mind. The blood-curdling dramas were more than his youthful brain could stand.

Two weeks ago he disappeared from his home. He was later picked up in one of the parks of New York city and taken to Bellevue Hospital. He wast urned over to his mother, who took him home, but the youth fled, and was locked up here late last night by Superintendent of Police Durling after he had annoyed people on the streets.

FOGARTY GETS REWARD.

By means of the picture of Miss Helen Kuenlen, missing from her hobe in West Front street, which appeared in this paper in May, 1906, Patrolman John J. Fogarty, of the Central Office, New York, was able to establish the identity of "an unknown" at the New York morgue. As the result of the identification of the body in the river, Gen. Bingham has granted permission to Fogarty to receive a reward of $500 from Patrick S. Kiely, chief of police of this city, for aiding in the recovery of Miss Kuenlen's body. She was suffering from melancholia when she wandered away from her home April 21, 1906, and was last seen alive at Westfield.

Runyon No Trimmer.

Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, characterizes the report that he has deserted the ranks of the "New Idea" Republicans as "a beautiful piece of imaginative writing." The Judge isn't the sort of man that trims to meet every changing breeze.—Trenton True American.

Little Cooney Burned.

Little Coney Island, a resort on the Hudson and Bergen county lines, near North Bergen, N. J., was destroyed by fire this morning and it is estimated that the loss will amount to about $25,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

William Dandride, of East Third street, has returned from Virginia, where he has been visiting his parents.

SURGEON'S ERROR LEADS TO ALTAR

SPONGE WAS LEFT IN BODY

Boston.—A surgeon's sponge left in the body of Miss Flora M. Pard, a pretty French girl, after an operation in a Boston hospital has been the source of all kinds of trouble to that young lady, but has finally resulted in her marriage to Louis Roderrique in Lynn. The case is one of the most unusual ever brought to the attention of doctors, and that it didn't result in her death instead of bringing about her marriage, is regarded as a miracle.

Miss Pard, as she was before her marriage, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Pard, of Bass Point, Nahant, and is well known among the French families of that town and Lynn. She is 21 years old, of good figure and very prepossessing. Some months ago her health began to fail and it was decided that she had a tumor and that an operation would be necessary to save her life. She went to a Boston hospital, where she was operated on by one of the best surgeons connected with that institution.

After she returned to her home, however, her condition became worse instead of better, and in a short time she was removed to the Lynn hospital. Here Drs. W. E. Little and I. H. Chicoine performed four operations on the girl in hopes of getting at the cause of her trouble. The first three seemed to do no good, and the doctors decided that they had not gone deep enough. During the fourth they made a very exhaustive examination, probing deep, and the result was the discovery of the surgeon's sponge sewed up at the bottom of the original incision.

When the doctors found this their astonishment knew no bounds, and at first they could hardly believe their eyes. They decided that it should be kept secret, but Miss Pard was coming out of the effects of the ether, and before the doctors supposed she had recovered consciousness she heard them talking about it. Finally the doctors admitted to the young lady's mother, it is said, that they had actually found the sponge within her. There is little doubt that this was the cause of her illness and her intensely feverish condition directly after the first operation.

When finally the sponge had been removed the girl's condition began to improve, but the many operations left her in very weak condition and she was sent to stay with relatives in Berlin, N. H., in order that she might recuperate. It was during her sojourn there that she met Louis Roderique of that town. Roderique greatly sympathized with the girl and devoted much of his time to taking her on carriage drives and long walks so that she could regain her health. As her condition rapidly improved he continued his attentions and finally became her accepted suitor.

On the day set for Miss Pard to return to her mother's home in Nahant, Rodderique decided to return with her. They were married by Friar Parent of the French church in Lynn. They will live for a time in Nahant.

Miss Pard had at one time contemplated a lawsuit against the Boston surgeon because of the trouble caused her, but everything has now turned out so well she has decided to drop it. She consulted a lawyer some time ago, but her sister has stated that she would do no more about it. The doctors in the Boston hospital had treated her kindly during her stay there, the sister said, and leaving the sponge in the wound had been due probably to their overanxiety to perform the operation as quickly as possible. They had done their best to save her life, and now that all had ended well she would do nothing about the matter.

She that stints her heart to feed her brain will sooner or later die of soul starvation.

WAITE STILL ESCAPING

Fake Clairvoyant Proves Himself as Hard to Catch as Ever.

SLIPS NET IN CHICAGO

The kindly fate or something else in the way of a pull that has stood between Harry Waite, a fake clairvoyant and swindler of women whom the police of this city have been seeking to arrest since 1900, and Chief Kiely operated as effectively as usual in Chicago, last week. Chief Kiely learned this morning, from the Chicago police, that he must give up the hope, awakened last Friday, of Waite's capture in that city. The much-sought quarry escaped the Windy City police trop, and the local authorities are left to nurse back into activity another prostrate hope.

Waite, who is rated the cleverest man in the game he follows, is wanted in so many places that no police department has yet succeeded in compiling a complete list of them. He is always well supplied with money, and makes it serve his purpose, when it comes time to dodge jail, in one way or another. He has never hesitate to jump his baif, and various counties and municipalities must have acquired a total of many thousands of his stolen money. When such methods seem favorable he doesn't hestitate to use primitive methods in escaping. He called a revolver into play in getting away from officers at Lancaster, Pa., two or three years ago. That was one of the times Chief Kiely thought he was going to get Waite.

The "Professor" worked in this city in the early part of 1900. He got $650 from one woman, and she was induced to make a complaint. He slipped away from the police with his usual facility, and Chief Kiely started on the chase that was to become the hunt of his life. The chief had only an ordinary amount of interest in the chase when it started, but as Waite slipped from his grasp time after time, and the man's record swelled, his capture became the pet bit of police business for the chief. He has made up his mind to get Waite or bust something in the attempt.

For seven years the chief has held to the hunt after Waite with bulldog tenacity, and the repeated slips and disappointments, always particularly aggravating because they came as the result of foolishness or carelessness on the part of other departments, have not lessened his energy in the chase. The disappointments were climaxed about three years ago, when the chief, after locating the slithery grafer and having him arrested, travelled to Chicago with Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, to arrange for extradition. Arrived there, the chief was upset to discover that the hearing before the Governor was not being hurried a bit, and that the officials there were complacently preparing to admit Waite to bail. The chief, almost with tears in his eyes, begged them not to do it. They wouldn't listen, and the usual result followed. The chief and his man were at the State House when the application for extradition came up and so were the Illinois officials, but not "Professor" Waite. "I told you so," said the chief, not without bitterness; and took the next train home.

When the sting of that experience subsided the chief took up the stil' hunt again, and struck the trail once more. Last week he learned that Waite was again operating in Chicago, and he wired the police of that place to get busy.

"There is nothing to it," their wired, or words to that effect. "We've got Waite where he can't slip. It's a sure thing. Have you an indictment or just a warrant?"

The message breathed certainty, and the chief chortled to himself as he got out all the papers in the "Professor's" case, and laid them in a neat bundle, ready for a trip to Chicago. He stopped chortling and put the bundle back when he received a message from Chicago this morning.

The Windy City cops went after Waite on Thursday. A young man met them at the door of his house. He said he was the "professor" and held them in conversation for a while. They discovered after a bit that he wasn't the "professor," but by that time Waite had decamped. He left no directions as to pursuit, so the Chicago police marked him "missing," and set themselves to composing a message of condolence to their friend Kiely.

"I'll get Watie yet," said the chief this morning. He is a hopeful man, is the chief.

J. J. Gaffney, of Park avenue, is confined to his home by illness, today.

SHERWIN INJUNCTION IS MADE PERMANENT

SHOE MAN MUSTN'T DISPOSE OF THE STOCK ON HIS SHELVES.

Newark, Aug. 20.—The temporary injunction granted last week to Thomas E. Greacan, forbidding Horace Sherwin, on whose snoe store and stock Greacan holds a mortgage, from disposing of the shoes and fixtures in the store at the time, was made permanent this morning by Vice Chancellor Howell. The granting of the injunction was opposed by V. W. Nash, Jr., and W. S. Angleman. W. A. Coddington appeared for Greacan.

Sherwin claimed that he did not owe the $5,000 called for by the mortgage. He contended that Greacan had agreed to cancel the mortgage, which was originally for about $9,000, when $4,000 was paid. He contended that he owed nothing at this time.

After listening to the arguments, Vice Chancellor Howell said he could see nothing to do but continue the injunction. He ruled accordingly. It is understood that the injunction forbids Sherwin to sell or dispose of any of the stock in his store. The mortgage is said to cover all goods brought in to replace stock taken from the shelves in course of trade.

DOG CATCHER SPURTS ON WIND-UP OF HUNT

HIS ACTIVITIES WILL END ON SEPTEMBER 1—EFFECTS OF HIS WORK.

In a sort of last spurt, Dog Catcher James Babbitt is rounding up unmuzzled canines with the activity that characterized the first few days of his work. The dog-catching will end on this side of the line on September 1, and Babbitt and his assistant are hustling to clear all the strays and worthless dogs from the center of town before the closed season on bow-wows comes in.

The strays have been pretty well cleared from the heart of the city, and the most thickly populated residence districts, and most of the dog-owners have got the muzzle habit, but Babbitt got seven dogs yesterday and six this morning. He and his assistant will hustle every day from now until the first of the month, and it is expected that by then practically every dog without a permaent home will have been cleared out of the city. The effect of the dog catcher's work has been apparent ever since it started. The difference in the number of unmuzzled dogs, and of dogs of ill-kempt and worthless appearance, compared with last year, has been more than noticeable.

Yorke and Adams, the inimitable portrayers of the stage Hebrew, paid their annual visit to Plainfield last night and presented a new musical comedy," Playing the Ponies." It was witnessed by a crowded house at the New Plainfield theatre and despite the fact that it continued until a few minutes after midnight the audience was too busy laughing to notice the flight of time.

The play is from the pen of Aaron Hoffman, a prolific writer of this style of musical hodge-podge, and is built on the same lines as "Bankers and Brokers," which served as the vehicle for Yorke and Adams the past two seasons. It has a plot, three of them, in fact, and all get mixed up before the final fall of the curtain. The two co-stars furnish seventy-five per cent. of the fun and, unlike most comedians, do it without wearying the seat holders. There are two acts, the scenes representing a race track paddock and Luna Park at night, the latter affording the company electrician a chance to play a trump card. The costumes were elaborate and the girls would dance some.

Individual successes were made by J. Aldrich Libbey and Katherine Trayer, the well known vaudeville team; and Bobby Harrington, who was seen in Plainfield last season in the title role of "Little Johnny Jones."

Well Wisher Sends $2.

The Daily Press has received $2 for Miss Curry's camp from a well wisher at the Crawford House, White Mountains, N. H., who signs himself "I. H. N." The amount has been turned over to the treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Spratt, of this city, is occupying the house of Robert W. Barnes on Mountain avenue while he, with his wife, is taking a trip West.

CO.'S CONVENTION DATE

Three Assemblymen to Be Selected By Union Sept. 12 at Elizabeth.

COMMITTEE'S MEETING

Parrot Slated For Renomination As Surrogate—Little Talk of Candidacy.

The apportionment of delegates for the county and State convention was the main business at the meeting of the county Republican committee at their rooms in Elizabeth, last night. There are to be sixty-seven delegates to the State convention from the district, and thirteen of them will be from this city. The apportionment for the county convention will be the same as last year from this city. It is expected that the call will be issued this week.

The date of the Republican county convention has been set as Thursday, September 12, and arrangements are practically completed. Contrary to expectation, there was little discussion of candidates. The committeemen seemed solid in their support of Parrott for surrogate, but in a discussion involving other officers, there was no consensus of opinion for any one man. As the candidates for each office were informally suggested by various committeemen, name after name was brought up, but there was little united opinion, and no stand taken by those present which could be construed as a consensus of opinion. The chances of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins at the coming elections were discussed at some length, but none of the members present came out strongly in his support.

There was a good sized quorum of the members present when the meeting was called to order in the committee rooms. Among those present were Frank Smith, Andrew McCardell, Herbert Buxton, Duncan Taylor and Robert E. Hall, all of this city.

STATE SANCTIONS THE WARRENVILLE ROAD

ROAD WILL BE RECONSTRUCTED FROM WATCHUNG TO WARRENVILLE.

The North Plainfield township officials were notified yesterday that State Road Commissioner Hutchinson had sanctioned the construction of two miles of macadam road from Watchung to Warrenville. The improvement is one that the residents in that section have sought for a long time and its completion will bring increased traffic that way. The Somerset Board of Freeholders has advocated the construction of the road and Freeholder William Demler, of Watchung, has been particularly active in the agitation.

Under the New Jersey statute, the State will pay half the cost of construction, Somerset county will pay a quarter and North Plainfield township stands for the remainder. The property owners along the way are not assessed directly. The roads runs from Watchung past Pedeflous' hotel and the township authorities had agreed to have it properly lighted the entire distance. It will be sixty feet wide all the way and the macadam will be of the heaviest construction.

Should Have Seen 'Em!

Two young women of the "Playing the Pones" company added a little excitement to the humdrum at the North Avenue station, this morning, by climbing over the track fence to board a train for New York. They reached the platform too late to go through the tunnel and despite warnings from bystanders, threw their grips to the car platform and sprang after them with the agility of a boy hunting squirrels. They laughingly waved farewell to the astonished onlookers as the train pulled out.

Gives Up Bridge Contract.

Because of the fact that Contractor Arthur E. Smith, of this city, cannot carry out the contract for the erection of the new Church street bridge at Rahway, the county bridge committee decided at a meeting yesterday at Elizabeth to advertise the contract anew and to receive another set of bids for the job Wednesday, September 4.

Complainant Didn't Appear.

Hugh B. Todd, a photographer, was arrested yesterday by Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, on a charge of insulting a woman in an East Front street stsore. The complainant failed to appear in the city court this morning, and Judge Runyon adjourned the case to Saturday morning to enable the police to serve a subpoena.

"I WILL STICK"-PERKINS

New Idea Opposes his Candidacy for Renomination to Assembly.

HE MEETS MACMURRAY

Assemblyman, City Clerk and Elizabeth Leader Hold a Conference—Claim 75 Delegates.

Assemblyman Perkins, against whom war has been declared by regular leaders and the local option people as well as by the New Idea, came to Plainfield last night to hold a conference with City Clerk James T. MacMurray. Dennis Burke, an Elizabeth liquor dealer, who is said to be managing Perkins' campaign at the county seat for a fourth term for the Republican leader of the House, also joined the party and after a dinner at Truell Hall they went over the situation thoroughly. Perkins was very optimistic though he admitted that County Chairman Frank H. Smith and others were up against him. The Perkins boomers claim seventy-five delegates to the county convention but the rgulars will concede them but a few in Elizabeth and none elsewhere.

When Mr. Perkins was seen today by a representative of The Daily Press he discussed the situation frankly and freely. He declared that he had heard no sane reason for his being "turned down" and as far as he has been able to ascertain there is no real sentiment against him in Union county.

"You may depend upon it that I will stick to the end for I see no reason for my withdrawal. It has been my constant endeavor to serve the people's interests as their representative at Trenton and the records of the Legislature will show whether I always did what was best for my constituents, and it will also show just how and why I voted on every measure. I do not claim all the credit for the passage of the so-called Perkins equal tax law but it was my aim to bring about that law and I am glad to say that it is on the statute books.

"I only know of one leader who is opposed to me and I don't know his reason but you may depend upon it that I will learn it. Today I have been trying to find some opposition to me here so that I might have a chance to be heard but I have failed for no one I have seen appears to be opposed to my renomination. As for my being 'pig-headed,' there is no foundation for such a report. I have always tried to learn the wishes of my constituents, and to carry them out. I voted against John F. Dryden because the people of Union county did not want him sent back to the United States Senate. In fact I have worked hard for the people's interests and I don't think they will go back on me now."

George W. V. Moy, chairman of the Third ward New Idea committee and reputed leader of the Colbyite faction here, said today that Mr. Perkins could expect no support from that wing of the party. He said that in his opinion the New Idea would be solidly against his renomination. As the Colbyites received the majority of votes at the municipal primaries last fall, his statement is taken as significant of the situation so far as Perkins is concerned.

After the Union county committee meeting in Elizabeth, last night, there was a prolonged discussion on the candidacy of Assemblyman Perkins and although there were large representation from Plainfield, Summit, Cranford, Rahway and Elizabeth it is declared that there was no one to say a word in favor of the Westfielder.

Reception to Their Pastor.

Arrangements have been completed by the parishioners of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church for a reception to be given at the parsonage Thursday evening, September 5, in honor of Rev. J. Thomas Diggs, pastor of the church, and his wife. The affair is to celebrate the recent wedding of the pastor as well as his entering upon his duties at the church. The guests will be entertained from 2 to 5 o'clock, and in the evening. Local colored pastors will join the committee in receiving the guests.

Will Reside in Philadelphia.

W. C. Leek and family, of the New Madison building, will remove to Philadelphia September 1, Mr. Leek having made arrangements to assume the management of a business conducted by his brother-in-law. He has been an active work in local church and Sunday-school work and he will be greatly missed.

John F. O'Keefe, formerly of Grant avenue, this city, but now of Buffalo, N. Y., has been spending several days at Lake Hopatcong. He has had as his guests at the resort, James Whitcomb Riley, political editor of the Buffalo Times, and Fred Dunn, of Hartford, Conn.

NEW IDEA'S CANDIDATES

Colbyites Will Support Mellick, Ryder, Ginna, Taylor and Daniel.

AGAINST SEVERAL

Will Oppose Montgomery, Buxton and Gloak—Announce Runyon's Candidacy.

Local leaders of the New Idea ask that the candidacy of Judge William N. Runyon for renomination to the city judgeship be announced. He said that the New Idea was heartily in favor of him and that he had understood that there would be no opposition from the regulars.

The New Idea has come out in favor of the renomination of George P. Mellick, the councilman-at-large from the Second, notwithstanding that Mr. Mellick took them severely to task previous to the last primaries when they opposed his candidacy. The reformers also favor the renomination of Councilman Daniel Ginna, of the Second, but as he will not run they will support one whose name is not announced now. Because of his friendship for MacMurray, Councilman William L. Gloak in the First ward will be opposed by them. Councilman Leslie Daniel will be supported if he will accept a renomination from the Third ward.

The New Idea opposes Councilman Montgomery in the Second ward and Councilman Buxton in the Fourth. They favor the nomination of Duncan W. Taylor in the Third.

The aim of the New Idea is to drive both City Clerk James T. MacMurray and Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell out of politics and with this in view with endeavor to obtain control of the Common Council. Mr. MacMurray's term expires in 1909 and the councilmen to be elected this fall will have a vote on his successor.

CO. K. MEN ARRANGE TO SHOOT AT SEA GIRT

MEMBERS WHO HAVE NOT HAD CHANCE TO SHOOT WILL MAKE SPECIAL TRIP.

Arrangements were completed at a special meeting of Co. K held at the armory last evening to finish the shooting at Sea Girt within the next few weeks. During the week that the local military were in camp at the shore, there was not opportunity for all of the men to finish the shooting in the qualification for standing at the various distances. The local company has an enviable record when it comes to shooting, and ranks high in numbers of men to qualify for the titles. About thirty of the men were able to finish up the shooting and qualify as marksmen.

At the meeting last night, it was the general sentiment that the shooting be finished up as quickly as possible. There are about a dozen men who are eligible to compete on the range for expertships and probably more than twenty who have a chance to qualify as marksmen. It was decided that those eligible to shoot at the 800 and 1000-yard range for the title of expert should go to the Sea Girt range this week, Friday and Saturday, to finish up their shooting. It will not be possible for all those who are eligible to compete for marksmen's medals to go to the range at any one time, so it has been arranged that they will go in two delegations, part next Saturday, and part the following week. This is shooting at the 200, 300 and 500-yard ranges.

There was a full attendance of the members at last night's meeting, and the majority of those who still had mes kits and knapsacks belonging to the organization, returned them at the meeting.

Pond Filled Again.

The New Market pond, which was emptied last week for the purpose of making repairs to the mill gates, is being filled again and will be at its normal level this afternoon. While the water was out, an opportunity was taken to clear obstructions from the main channel and the boating is now better than it has been in years.

Plugged Keyholes With Putty.

Many of the merchants on the north side of West Front street, between Somerset street and Madison avenue, found the keyholes of their store doors plugged with putty yesterday. It was evidently done by boys in a spirit of fun during the night but it made a lot of trouble for the victims.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Dolan, of East Sixth street, have returned from a stay of several weeks at Northampton, Mass.

D. C. IVINS COMES OUT IN FAVOR OF MARTINE

HE IS ANXIOUS TO GO TO CONVENTION AS A "SHOUTER."

In support of the candidacy of James E. Martine for the Democratic nomination for Governor, DeWitt C. Ivins has written a strong letter from his country place at Big Moose, in the Adirondacks. He comes out for the Plainfield leader, as strongly as did former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, who spoke enthusiastically in favor of Mr. Martine's nomination.

The letter from Mr. Ivins is addressed to Mr. Martine himself. He offers to go to the Democratic convention as a Martine delegate, and assures the Farmer Orator of his eagerness to figure— the words are his own—as a "Martine shouter."

The support accorded Mr. Martine by Mr. Saunders and Mr. Ivins is significant. The former is head of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, and the latter is a contractor doing a big business in New York. Both are more widely known as prominent business men than as politicians, and this lends to their support unusual strength at this stage of the Martine boom. The endorsement of men of that character compels attention from the Democrats who are purely politicians.

WEST END GROCERY WIPED OUT BY FIRE

PREVALENCE OF YOUNGSTERS LENDS COMEDY TO THE EXCITEMENT.

Mrs. Joseph Handelman, whose husband conducts a grocery at Third street and Spooner avenue, undertook to do some sewing on a machine in the rear of the store shortly before 8 o'clock, last night. She placed a lamp near by and in shifting about knocked it over. The oil tank from which Proprietor Handelman drew his supply for West End customers was just a short distance away and it got the benefit of an explosion that followed. The result was a fire that wiped out the grocery and the building and caused a loss of $1,000.

The store structure was attached to a residence which houses four families, those of Handelman, Simon Klarfeld, Wolf Ox and Antone Aloni. At the first cry of "fire," everybody turned out pell-mell and when flames were seen shooting from the grocery, a frantic effort was made to save household goods. One of the families is made up of eleven children beside the parents and as the others are plentifully supplied with offspring the scene can be better imagined than described. The youngsters attempted to help in the saving process but only got in the way of their elders and volunteers and every twenty seconds one of them would get stepped on. The mothers finally stopped carting furniture to grab up little Simons, Sam, Rosies and cachaels and corral them in the backyard.

An alarm was turned in from box 45 and the firemen quickly had the blaze under control, keeping it from getting into the residence proper. The only damage it incurred was due to water. Handelman places his loss at $700 with an insurance of $600. Jacob Sachar, the owner of the building, says he is out $300 by the blaze, and Klarfeld figures that $50 will put his furniture back in shape. The department worked forty-five minutes before the recall was sounded.

Fishing Party's Big Haul.

A fishing party composed of Elvin Van Name, Dr. Luckey, James R. Blair, George Feiring and "Pop" Thorn raised havoc among the finny denizens of Princess bay yesterday. Inside of four hours they landed 180 weak fish, the majority of them weighing between one and and a half and two pounds. This is only one of the big catches the same anglers have made this year.

Lost In Plainfield.

Arthur Tomlinson, a New York young man who has been visiting relatives in the Netherwood section, lost his bearings down in town last night, and applied at police headquarters for aid in getting home. A patrolman saw him as far as the Watchung avenue terminus and a trolley conductor made sure he landed at his destination.

Case Postponed.

The case of the city against Thomas Muldowney and Andrew McConnell, in which jury trials were demanded, will not be tried Thursday. The case has been adjourned four weeks. W. G. D'Meza is lawyer for the defendants.

—Fruit lovers will find just what they crave at Neuman Brothers. There assortment is selected especially for the Plainfield trade.

WELCOME MR. ACKERMAN

While Gathering Data Abroad for State, Senator Receives Marked Honors.

IN LONDON ESPECIALLY

Admitted to Floor of House of Commons During an Important Debate—Home Office Helps Him.

Signal honors have been paid to the State of New Jersey by foreign countries where State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman has visited during the last two months on his mission to gather information for the Senate's committee entrusted to investigate the subject of death penalty as a determent to crime. Particularly was this is the case during his stay in London.

By means of the esteemed attention and marked kindness of a member of Parliament from Ireland, a personal friend of Mr. Ackerman, particular considerations were given by the Home office over which Herbert Gladstone, a son of the late prime minister, presides, to the inquiries propounded by Mr. Ackerman and much valuable data was secured in connection with the mission abroad.

Senator E. R. Ackerman.

Mr. Ackerman also had the privilege of practically enjoying the courtesy of the floor of the House of Commons while in session and at a time of important public debate. The Prime Minister of England and the Chancellor of the Exechequer were present—the latter making extended remarks upon the finances of the British Empire, that subject being under discussion.

Among the other countries where Mr. Ackerman received marked consideration was Belgium. He visited its capital, Brussells, about two weeks ago and gathered some valuable data there. It is understood that the Senator is now at The Hague.

ARRANGED FOR PARADE.

At a special meeting of the North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association held in Sangerbund Hall last evening, plans were discussed for the part the local boys are to take in the Perth Amboy firemen's parade, October 18. The boroughites are to have a drill company in line, but will take no apparatus with them. Arrangements are well under way for th trip and accommodations of the men for the day, and it is expected that there will be a large percentage of the Warren boys in the line.

President Anderson, of the association, was in charge of the meeting, and in the absence of the secretary, Theodore Smith, David Bodine was appointed to keep the records.

Screen Cases Are Weak.

It is now generally admitted that there is no hope of the city of Elizabeth winning any considerable number of the cases brought against saloon-keepers for alleged violation of the screen law, which grew ou tof the Grand Jury crusade. The ease with which Lawyer Edward Nugent has secured the dismissal of the charges against the clients in the four trials which have been held has convinced all that the city's chances of winning are very meagre. Sixty cases are yet to be heard.

Landlord Secures Possession.

As a result of Justice Snape's decision in the borough court two weeks ago, William P. Jeroloman has vacated his pool parlor on Somerset street. He moved out yesterday.

Dr. A. H. Dundon, of Somerset street, has gone to Atlantic City for a short vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Young and family, of Netherwood avenue, are spending the remainder of the month at Gladstone and other places in Somerset county.

We are the only store in Plainfield that close at 5.30 daily except Saturday, to shorten the hours of labor for our employes during the heated term.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

SOUTH BOUND BROOK.

Archie Housel, twelve years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Housel, fell from a tree near his home in Franklin street, Saturday afternoon, and received injuries that may cripple him for life. The boy was picking wild cherries from the tree when a decayed limb broke under him, throwing him to the ground about fifteen feet below. He was rendered unconscious by the fall. Dr. Wild, of Bound Brook, was summoned, but it was several hours before the boy was revived. It is feared that his spine may have been injured.

James Thompson, of Main street, this place, was arrested Saturday night by Constable William Connors and taken before Justice of the Peace Robert T. Brampton, of Bound Brook, charged with kicking his wife. Justice Brampton committed him to the county jail at Somerville for ten days.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

From the Issue of April 14, 1870:

The M. E. Church On Fire.

"About 6½ o'clock on Sunday morning last, flames were discovered issuing from the south-west side of the M. E. church of this city by Mr. Elmore D. Moffett, who speedily gave the alarm.

"The flames, when discovered, had gained considerable headway, and by the time the Fire Department arrived on the ground, the flames were rushing rapidly up the steeple of the church, and threatened the destruction of the entire edifice. But the 'boys' merely said to the anxious inquiries and orders of the by-standers, 'Hold on, leave us alone, and we will put the fire out.' And they did, but it required more than ordinary efforts to do it. 'Gazelle Steamer No. 1,' which was first on the ground, took water from the fire-well, corner of Second and Mechanic streets, arriving there steamed up, and 'Alert Hose Co., No. 1,' speedily stretched their hose for her use, and in less than ten minutes from the time that the steamer left the house, she was throwing water on the fire through 850 feet of hose. 'Steamer No. 2,' with hand engine, 'Warren, No. 3,' took water from the bridge on Grove street, and in a very short space of time were throwing water on the flames. 'No. 2,' to facilitate making steam, threw kerosene on her fires, which caused her to make steam rapid. To little 'Warren' is due the honor of getting the first stream through her hose to the fire, before, however, the water reached the flames a length of hose bursted. Nothing, disheartened, they sprang to the breach and in a few seconds had a lively stream on the building. They deserve the honor, and it is unanimously awarded them. Her members were determined to sustain the prestige won by the little 'Honeybee' in times of old—and they did. Every member did his best. Her company is composed of the right sort of men and will yet show a good record. Some of the 'Gazelle' boys, with others, after their steamers got to work, repaired to the brakes of 'Warren,' and as they expressed it, 'felt like old times.' 'Zephyr Hook and Ladder Co., No. 1,' exerted every influence to assist in extinguishing the flames. No sooner was a ladder or hook called for than a score of blue shirts sprang to obey the order. The necessity of such a well organized hook and ladder company as 'Zephyr, No. 1,' was well demonstrated on Sunday last. Under the excellent management of Chief Frazer (whose person when the fire was over, resembled a charcoal burner) and assistants, together with the untiring efforts of our brave 'fire laddies' it was soon evident that the flames had a master. 'No. 1' took their hose through the front door of the church, up over the gallery, and into the belfry, where the fire was. 'No. 2' steamer took their hose through the rear window, and directed their stream to the same locality. 'Warren, No. 3,' had their hose up a ladder on top of the roof into which a hole was cut and their stream delivered on the flames, while the 'Zephyr' and 'Alert' boys were tearing holes through the ceiling to admit of a stream and assisting in removing what moveable articles they could. All did well, and certainly deserve the thanks of the community at large. A passer-by would scarcely think there had been much of a fire from the looks of the church outside, but let him go up into the belfry where the firemen were that day, and he will say that he would not run the risk they did for considerable. Several times during the fire it was reported that the bell was on the point of falling, and great consternation was experienced among the bystanders thereby, but the brave lads in the building paid no heed to them but worked to subdue the flames. One benefit derived from those reports were that it kept the building free from lookers-on and gave the firemen a chance to work. The fire, it is supposed, originated as follows: For some months past the church has been undergoing a thorough renovation, the walls have been newly frescoed, the galleries lowered and the seats handsomely cushioned throughout. New carpets had been laid and new book-racks attached to the seats. In fact weeks of labor had been expended upon the interior, and it was the intention to open the church for worship on that eventful morning. The sexton had been ordered to start a light fire in the stove to take off the dampness. About 5 o'clock he started the fire and went home to his breakfast. It is supposed that the stove became too hot, or a spark fell out on the floor and communicating to the newly painted woodwork, caught the lathes between the walls and rushed upward to the belfry. The most of the fire was confined to that locality. The loss is estimated at fully $8,000. Insured in the Plainfield Mutual for $3,000 and in the American Mutual, of this city, for $3,000. The handsome organ was safely carried out, as was also most of the cushions, but the ceilings in the church and basement will have to be taken off, as they are damaged by water.

"The thanks of the firemen are tendered Messrs. John W. Laing, W. M. Jennings, J. Frank Hubbard, John Williams and others, who so kindly furnished refreshments to them after the fire.

"At one time Steamer No. 1 was in rather a precarious situation. The motion of the steamer caused her to settle the walls of the well from which she was taking water, some twelve inches. The apparatus was three times moved farther off from the mouth of the well."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

One of the most pronounced farce comedy hits of the season is "The Mayor of Laughland," in which Tom Waters is starring under the management of Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, general manager for the Nixon & Zimmerman attractions. Waters, who is well-known in this locality, is still seen in his favorite character of O'Flynn, the good natured political boss of the town. He has a large supporting company and as pretty a bevy of girls as one might wish to see. Special scenery is carried for all three acts, and some elaborate costuming is shown during the many musical numbers that go so far toward making "Laughland" an enjoyable performance. The engagement at the New Plainfield theatre in this city is announced for Friday night, August 30.

Charles Dillingham's production of "The Red Mill" will be given at the New Plainfield theatre, on Wednesday night, August 28. This, the latest of the Blossom & Herbert musical plays which scored for an entire year at the Knickerbocker theatre, New York city, will be presented here in as complete a manner as given during its unparallelled run. The company numbers some sixty people including the sextette of Dutch Kiddies which the Metropolis raved over and in no small way was one of the special features of this musical success. All of the song, numbers, the quaint costumes and the dashing girls, including the marvellous escape from the mill, will be reproduced faithfully.

Hudspeth sees victory, eh? Well, for that matter so does "Jim" Martine.

The opening gun of the campaign has been fired, the Reformers having made a bitter attack on the gubernatorial Fort.

Sees Suicide In Mirror.

New York, Aug. 20.—Reflected in a mirror, before which she stood arranging her hair, Mrs. Marie Haberstrohe, a widow, daughter of John Raichle, of No. 304 West 116th street, last night, saw her father attempt to commit suicide. He placed a revolver to his temple and pulled the trigger. There was no report. "Oh, papa, don't do that again," the terrified woman shouted, as she rushed into the adjoining room, where her father stood with the pistol in his hand. Just as she reached his side he pulled the trigger a second time and fell dead at his daughter's feet. Fearing to have the stigma of suicide on her father's name, Mrs. Haberstrohe hid the pistol in a bureau drawer and then called the police. It was only after close questioning that she told how the aged man died. Raichle is believed to have killed himself to escape going to a home for the aged to which his daughter proposed to send him.

Tired of Studying Mars.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 20.—Professor Pickering, Harvard's leading astronomer, said yesterday that he has for months been cognizant of Flammarion's so-called discovery of the polarization and climatic changes on Mars. "Mars teases me," declared Professor Pickergin. "It approaches hopefully and then departs, not coming quite close enough to earth for me to learn anything new about it. For that reason I am now abandoning investigations regarding Mars. Other astronomers all over this country have the same complaint to offer against the planet. Unless some miraculous instruments are invented I doubt if we ever shall know positively whether terrestrial life obtains on Mars. We know much more about it than about some other planets, but little of that additional knowledge is exceptionally instructive."

500 Get Grand Lodge Degree.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 20.—At its session last night the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows had before it more than five hundred candidates for Grand Lodge degrees, which were conferred by William H. Friday, grand warden, with John W. Coburn, grand master, presiding. This was the eighty-fourth annual session of the Grand Lodge of the State, and the delegates filled Odd Fellows' Temple to overflowing. Mayor Gaus will welcome the delegates today and they will be received by Governor Hughes at the executive chamber at noon, and in the afternoon all lodges will parade and be reviewed by the Grand Lodge officers at the Ten Eyck. Meetings of the Grand Lodge will continue tomorrow and Thursday.

REFORMERS ATTACK FORT

HUSH BRIDGE SCANDAL

Another bombshell was thrown into the camp of the machine Republicans of Essex county at the meeting of the Independent Voters' Party in Oraton Hall, Newark, last night. The hall was packed and rang with cheers for the reformers. Demands were made for an investigation into the official conduct of Supreme Court Justice J. Franklin Fort, who is now mentioned as the leading machine possibility for Governor.

At the same time it was announced that a little body of men in the State had been busy for a long time looking up the records of several men who hold big appointive positions, and a hint was thrown out that such men who sought elective honors had better look out for their records before consenting to run for office.

Previous to the meeting a dinner was given in the Continental Hotel to the members of the County Committee of the Independents headed by Alden Freeman, the county chairman. The meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. William Hayes Ward, and addresses were made by Mr. Freeman, Judge Elwood C. Harris, Francis L. Chrisman, Fillmore Condit, John R. McLean, the labor leader; Herman B. Walker, G. L. Tomkins, H. D. Dawson, and E. R. Munroe.

The sensation of the evening was contained in an address at the Oraton Hall meeting by Charles A. Bloomfield, of Metuchen, who attacked Justice Fort on the ground that he was responsible for the failure to prosecute the Middlesex County Freeholders for the illegal acts in connection with the Amboy bridge over the Raritan River. Mr. Bloomfield spoke of the charges of extravagance and fraud in the building of the bridge. One Grand Jury, he asserted, was told to pay no attention to the bridge matter. The next Grand Jury was instructed to investigate and made a presentment against the Freeholders. When Mr. Bloomfield some time later asked the Prosecutor why he did not take up the presentment and act upon it, he was told that Justice Fort had directed that nothing be done about it.

When the Legislature passed the Jackson bill validating the bridge bonds and all the acts of the Freeholders and shielding them from prosecution, Mr. Bloomfield said he had gone to Gov. Stokes to oppose the signing of the measure, and that the Governor had approved the bill on the advice of Justice Fort. Continuing, Mr. Bloomfield said:

"Justice Fort has taken refuge behind the judicial ermine and claims that to defend his judicial acts would not be becoming. In an interview in The Newark Sunday Call he is quoted as saying: 'My acts in connection with the matter involved, as well as all other matters in which I sit, are of public record. I cannot become involved in any public controversy over any of them.'

"This statement has recently been followed by the letter cited at a recent political meeting in East Orange, written by Justice Fort to one of his sons stating that he was actively in the field as a candidate for the Governorship and his name is being strenuously boomed by party bosses and machine politicians in several counties.

"I have come from my home in Middlesex county tonight to sound a note of warning to the voters of Essex county. If disloyal to public interests while a judge, how much more dangerous may such a man become in the larger field of the Governorship?

"The Call article states that the bridge troubles had been thoroughly investigated for months and that Justice Fort had been particularly active in the matter. The same paper says that private detectives were brought into the case at Justice Fort's direction and that with his knowledge and aid they worked unceasingly for weeks in an effort to obtain proof of illegal acts in connection with the Amboy bridge, which would be sufficient to cause indictments and bring about convictions. Time, energy, and money were spent without stint, declares The Call article, to get at the bottom of the matter and to unearth anything of a criminal nature which might have existed, but it was all in vain.

"In reply to this I would state that I know of no investigation as to the acts of the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county, so far as the Amboy bridge is concerned, no money expended in any such investigation except that carried on by the manufacturers and shippers above the said Amboy bridge over the Raritan River under the direction of the chairman of the committee, who is now addressing you. All the expenses connected with that investigation were met by that association and not by the county. Any experts or detectives that were hired were paid by said association.

"In reply to the statements in The Call, I wish to state that I had requested the Prosecutor of Middlesex county to obtain from Justice Fort an examiner to investigate books and papers, and he came back with the word that the Judge had said:

"'—— the bridge!'"

Chairman Freeman, in the course of his remarks, made an attack on Chandler Riker, who is also a candidate. He also attacked Justice Fort.

Swedish Prince Arrives.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 20.—With Prince Wilhelm, second son of Crown Prince Gustave and Grandson of King Oscar, of Sweden, on board, the Swedish cruiser Fylgia steamed into Hampton Roads yesterday afternoon twenty-five minutes after one o'clock and anchored at the head of a column of American warships which are here to receive the royal visitor. Although on board the Fylgia Prince Wilhelm is merely a junior naval officer, he is on shore a royal prince. His landing marked the beginning of the elaborate festivities arranged for Swedish Week at the Jamestown Exposition. Fylgia arrived twenty-four hours later than expected because of the strong headwinds encountered in the voyage across the Atlantic and of the necessity which arose of coaling at Mamilton, Bermuda.

Testing the Boycott.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—Suit to enjoin the American Federation of Labor, its officers and its two million members from maintaining a boycott to prevent the sale of the products of the Buck Stove and Range Company, of St. Louis, was filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia here yesterday by James M. Beck, former Assistant Attorney General; J. J. Darlington, of Washington, and Daniel Davenport, of Bridgeport, Conn. The action marks the beginning of what will probably be a decisive legal struggle to determine whether the American Federation of Labor has the right to bring the ill will of the members of the unions affiliated with it to bear upon any employer against whom a boycott has been declared as a result of labor difficulties.

Daughter For Hughes.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The first baby born in the Executive Mansion of this State, the home of every Governor beginning with Samuel J. Tilden, is a little girl who weighs nine pounds. She has not been named yet. She was born at twenty-five minutes after four o'clock yesterday morning and is the fourth child born to Governor and Mrs. Charles E. Hughes. Dr. Goorham, the family physician, says the mother and children are doing well.

REFORMATORY ROTTENESS

Probers Find Shocking Condition, an Official Being Accused By Inmate.

FACTS ARE IMPRINTABLE

More Revolting Complaints Made By Boys to the Hahn Investigating Committee.

The Hahn Assembly Investigating Committee was diverted yesterday for its purpose of uncovering political and administrative conditions at the Rahway Reformatory which might call for action by the Legislature, to certain immoral conditions in the institution which call for the action of the Prosecutor of the Pleas of Union county.

The full committee composed of Assemblyman Hahn, Sullivan, Van Blarcom, Perkins and Jess, were on hand this morning, but it was after 1 p. m. before the members got into session. John H. Backes, counsel to the committee, arrived early and began at once to interview the inmates. While he was doing this the members of the committee held an informal conference and then sat around and, while waiting for him, saw the parade of the inmates to dinner. On returning from the meal to the workshop several of the inmates left the line and handed letters to the committeemen, giving the names of the writers, stating that they had been beaten, and asking to be called before the committee to testify. These letter were handed to Mr. Backes later.

When Mr. Backes finally arrived in the chapel, which had been set apart for the meeting of the committee, he asked the committee to hold a private session from which the reporters and all outsiders were to be excluded. At this session he had the stenographer, who accompanied him on his tour and took down what he had been told by the inmates, read his notes. The character of the disclosures were such that the committee decided that the examination of the inmates should be conducted behind closed doors. The reason for this was that the testimony involved one of the officials of the institution in revolting and immoral practises. The evidence is unprintable, the newspaper men were given to understand.

The witnesses called included Charles Kerris and Anthony Byrnes, paroled inmates, and Henry Ryan, Charles Brower and Albert Coogan, who are still in the reformatory. Kerris is from Newark, and Byrnes is now working on the new wing of the reformatory for the Roebling Construction Company, which is putting up the iron work.

The committee adjourned until today, when the hearing was continued. The testimony taken yesterday was not made public. One of the Assemblyman said it was too "shocking" to print.

Dying From Cat's Bite.

Meriden, Conn., Aug. 20.—Bitten by a pet cat several weeks ago, Miss Ella Ward, has developed the usual symptoms of rabies. Despite the treatment of eminent physicians the dread disease is progressing and her recovery is not expected. When the cat ran wild in her home Miss Ward thought that the animal had been seized with only a fit, and while brushing it into the cellar with her foot, under the impression that darkness would cure the malady, she was bitten. The cat died and hydrophobia was not suspected until its mistress became ill.

Nearly Killed By Iron Beam.

Elizabeth, Aug. 20.—Robert McAdams, a structural iron and steel worker, was severely hurt Saturday while employed on a building on Elizabeth avenue, which is being erected. McAdams had a narrow escape from death, as the huge iron beam that hit him almost grazed his skull. The fingers on one hand were badly mashed, while his foot was crushed. He refused to go to the hospital and was assisted to his home.

HASSAM PAVEMENT NOT PROPERLY CLEANED

SOMERSET STREET PROPERTY OWNERS WANT "WHITE WINGS" TO WORK THERE

Now that Somerset street has its Hassam pavement, there is a movement on foot among the property owners to secure a street sweeper to keep that pavement clean. The borough boasts no street sweepers, though some of the men are sent out with hoes to clean up mud on the principal streets after heavy storms and to keep the storm sewers clean. The only cleaning given the stretch of Hassam pavement is a daily flushing down by the water wagon. This is unsatisfactory because the refuse matter is not satisfactorily disposed of by this method The inadequacy of the nearby storm sewer to wash off solid waste matter causes such refuse to be washed to the gutter by the flushing process, and it remains heaped there after the water has run off. In this way the roadway is cleaned, but the refuse is left in the gutters.

In the interest of maintaining a sanitarily clean street, the property owners feel that the borough council should at once consider the advisability of having a street sweeper to keep the block where the pavement is laid clean, and its gutters clear. A single "white wing," it is felt, could improve conditions there, and add to the appearance of the stretch of roadway.

Because of the inefficiency of the storm sewer at Lincoln place, on Somerset street, the water wagon flushing and the pump at the curb line there result in the presence of a pool of standing water there, which is both unsanitary and unsightly. It is maintained that the pavement people should have completed better connections and grading, so that such water could pass by the cross walk to the storm sewer conduit at the corner. Among the property owners, there is talk of a petition to be submitted to the council at the next meeting.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Mr. Hardin's Withdrawel.

In view of the fact that Essex county will undoubtedly be the battle-ground of the coming Gubernatorial campaign, the positive withdrawal of John R. Hardin from the list of candidates is of much significance. He declares that he has never been approached by any one in connection with the nomination, has never been a candidate, never thought of being one and will not be one. If he had wanted to stop practicing law he would have taken the Supreme Court judgeship recently offered to him.

It has been claimed that Mr. Hardin was the choice of the Hon. James Smith, Jr., or, as it was more bluntly put, that he was "Jim Smith's man," and that his nomination was a part of the scheme whereby Robert S. Hudspeth, a "Bob" Davis man, was made chairman of the Democratic State Committee. The two antagonistic bosses of the party had thus, according to current report, apportioned out the spoils agreeably to the terms of the alleged peace pact. But if no one even approached Mr. Hardin in connection with this subject he was certainly not cognizant of any such compact; and if he was Mr. Smith's choice the latter never told his political love, but let concealment gnaw the bud till Mr. Hardin himself dashed the opening flower to earth.

The importance of Mr. Hardin's withdrawal at this time lies in the fact that it leaves but one eminent Democrat in Essex county as a candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination. Former Judge Child now has this field to himself, and the strategic value which an Essex man must have in the coming campaign makes him a very strong possibility. On the surface he is the strongest by far of any that are now in the race, but the "trail of the serpent" may be just underneath.

Katzenbach, of Trenton, has not the entire Mercer backing, to begin with, and is not remarkably strong in Essex—that is, with the voters. Martine, of Union, will undoubtedly have his county's full and enthusiastic support, but Union has only sixty or seventy delegates at most. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon, has withdrawn—if he was ever in the race enough to withdraw—and any others of those named seem to be practically distanced.

On the surface, therefore, former Judge Child seems to have a mortgage on the Democratic nomination, likely to be foreclosed on September 17, unless he files a quit claim, as Mr. Hardin has done. But surface indications are not always to be relied on in politics. There are very strong financial interests in Essex which would much rather have Katzenbach than Child, and Mr. Smith is deeply involved in these interests. If the Democratic platform were to denounce corporation influences in politics, and meant what it said, then Mr. Child would be the logical candidate; but if such a declaration were merely a blind, the corporation Democrats of Essex might once more lend their aid to the Republican ticket.—Newark News.

Pocketbook's Lost Caused Rumpus.

Califon, Aug. 20.—Casper Covert, a character of Mountainville, came here Saturday, loaded up on whisky and at the Union House a pocketbook said to contain $50, belonging to John Beam, of Vernoy, was taken from Beam's pocket while in the barroom, Covert being accused of the theft. He denied the assertion and a rough-and-tumble encounter ensued in which several persons took part. He was finally overpowered and taken by Township Committeeman Levi Hoffman, of Farmersville, and Lewis Apgar, of Mountainville, to the office of Justice of the Peace C. Watson Apgar, at Farmersville, who issued a warrant for his arrest. The pocketbook was found in Covert's pocket minus the $50. Covert was held to await the action of the Hunterdon County Grand Jury.

EARLY WOMAN AERONAUTS.

Ballooning is a sport which has always attracted women. Between 1783 and 1849 forty-nine women made balloon ascents, half of whom were Englishwomen. A quaint writer has accounted for this by noting in most ungallant language the likeness between women and balloons.

Mme. Phible, the first woman aeronaut of the world, ascended from Lyons, says the Woman at Home. Mme. Blanchard was, however, the first female professional ballonist, and she ascended from Parish with her husband, the famous aeronaut, in 1783. DeFonvielle writes of her this not very reassuring epitaph: "She was born an aeronaut and died in a balloon." The Comtesse Henri was another Frenchwoman who made balloon ascents about this period. She accompanied DeGernerin on his second voyage in 1798.

The lovely Mrs. Sage was the first Englishwoman to make a balloon ascent. She went up with Vincento Lunardi in 1784, a cat, a dog and a pigeon also being of the party. Mrs. Sage was young and graceful. She wore a plumed hat and feathers and a gossamer scarf lightly drawn about her shoulders. After a few hours aloft Mrs. Sage and her costume descended at Harrow unharmed.

WORTH KNOWING.

The number of deaths that occur on the globe amounts to sixty-seven a minute, and the births from about sixty to seventy a minute.

The machine for perforating postage stamps was invented in 1847 by an Englishman named Archer, who had great trouble in getting pay for his invention.

Nearly $20,000,000 were the receipts of the Marshall Field estate during the last year, as shown by the first annual report of the executors, filed in the Probate Court at Chicago.

It is estimated that last year Paris ate altogether 40,000 horses, or more than 20,000,000 pounds of horseflesh In 1899 the consumption was less than 10,000,000 pounds.

Magnifying Choir Leader's Voice.

In the old village of Braybrook in Northamptonshire, England, is a monster trumpet, five six inches in length, and having a bell-shaped end two feet one inch in diameter. The trumpet is made up of ten rings, which in turn are made of smaller parts. The use of this trumpet—only four of the kind are known to exist at the present day—was to magnify the voice of the leader in the choir and summon the people to the church service. At the present time neither the choir nor the service is in need of this xtraordinary "musical instrument," but the vicar of the church takes care of the ancient relic and is fond of showin it to all visitors.

Snap for Amateurs.

Amateur photographers who wish to turn their art to a commercial account by selling snapshots to their human victims have discovered a new field of endeavor. They haunt riding academies and the equestrian paths in the parks and photograph the riders. Men on horseback have a weakness for being photographed. Many a rider who could not be persuaded to pose for a photograph in conventional attitude or garb is quite willing to be taken astride a fine horse and any photographer who can snap him successfully is sure of a market for his picture.

No Two Mouths Alike.

Dr. Paul Prager, an Austrian army surgeon, who has made a special study of methods of identification, recommends that prisoners should be identified by the shape of their palates. Dr. Prager declares that the method would be much more relitble than any at present used, for amowg the thousands of moulds he has taken of the interior of the human mouth he has failed to find two which even slightly resemble each other. Although the teeth alter greatly with time, the markings of the palate remain unchanged throughout life.

One Way Round It.

A minister says that one Saturday he was strolling along the shaded bank of a pretty stream when, unobserved, he approached a group of small boys, who were comfortably clad in jacket and trousers only. One freckled face little fellow stepped to the edge of the bank, turned his back to his companions and said: "Say, one of you fellers push me in, will yer?" "What for?" his chums demanded in chorus. "Aw, me mudder made me promise I wouldn't go in swimmin'; go on an' push!" the conscientious youth replied.

Perkins' Opportunity.

In going after a re-election in Union county, Assemblyman Perkins is going to have an opportunity to show us what kind of a fighter he is under pressure.—Trenton State Gazette.

No Politics In It.

The fact that a Democrat is at the head of the board of managers of the state asylum moves the Plainfield Press to remark that it is hard to figure what campaign capital the minority will be able to make of the abuses at that institution. To which the Perth Amboy News responds that it is pretty good evidence of the non-political nature of the investigation.—New Brunswick Times.

LITERARY

"With the August number of "the most beautiful magazine in the world" the Burr McIntosh Monthly appears in a new size. The pages are a trifle wider than heretofore, which enables the publishers to present their wonderfully attractive photographic reproductions in a more perfect form than was possible in the former shape. The color work in this August issue is very attractive and suitable to the season. In the Department of Painting and Sculpture the life and work of Auguste Rodin, the celebrated French sculptor, is presented in most interesting detail. Among the people of the stage photographed are Lillian Russell, Anna Held, Helen Ware, Florence Reed and Adele Ritchie.

Recreation for August. The remarkably striking cover design of this magazines' midsummer number will stir the blood of every one who has tasted of the joys of "goin' swimmin'." It makes you want to hustle into a bathing suit or "a state of nature," if conditions will permit—and dive in for a swim. The caemra has caught three swimmers in mid-air, as they are diving off a pier, and instinctively you listen for the splash that never comes.

The Phi Beta Kappa address delivered in Sanders theatre by the Rt. Hon. James Bryce on June 26 appears as the leading article in the August Atlantic. It will be recalled that our distinguished American ambassador, James Russell Lowell, delivered an oration before the same society and in the same hall twenty-one years ago, and that this also was printed in the Atlantic. Mr. Lowell spoke on the Harvard University; Mr. Bryce on "What is Progress?" His speech is a series of inquiries, in themselves half answers, into the universal human problems of intellectual, moral and physical improvement, of happiness and of its relation to pleasure.

The September Woman's Home Companion is remarkable principally for two things—the exquisite cover, by Earl Stetson Crawford, which won the $1,500 prize recently offered by the Companion, and for an excellent article on "The Influence of Business Life on Women," by Anna Steese Richardson. This September cover represents the highest achievement in magazine-cover work yet produced, and the article mentioned above will make a profound impression on all people interested in the subject of women in business life, as it is the candid expression of a woman who has made a pronounced business success herself.

The Speaker's Mace.

At the right of the Speaker's desk in the hall of the House of Representatives in the Capitol at Washington stands a large cylindrical pedestal made of highly polished green marble.

When the House is called to order each day, the sergeant-at-arms or one of his deputies, places upon the pedestal the mace, which is the symbol of authority in the House. When the body adjourns he removes it and keeps it in safety until the House meets again.

This mace is of very ancient and honorable origin. Under the old Roman republic the magistrates passed on foot from one place to another administering justice, trying public offenders and imposing penalties.

Each of these magistrates was attended by a small body of men known as lictors, whose duty it was to make way for the officers of the law, preserve order, make arrests and inflict punishment on condemned citizens.

Each of these lictors carried with him a bunch of rods tied together with thongs and having an ax bound to the outside of it. The thongs were used for scourging and the ax for beheading. Sentences imposed by the magistrates were at once carried out. Those bundles of rods were known as fasces. When the Romans conquered Britain the use of the fasces as a symbol was brought with them, and many other Ronian customs remained with the British people.

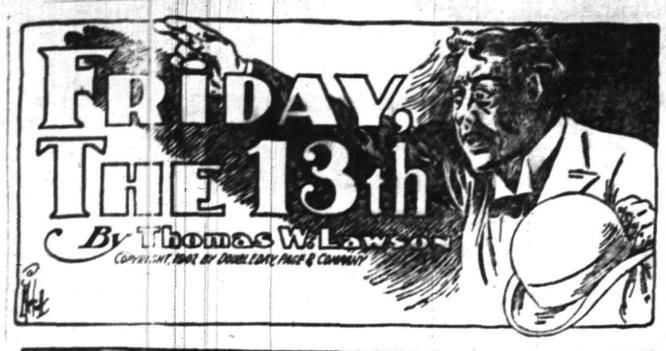
While it was no longer used for inflicting punishment, it continued to be used as a symbol by the early English magistrates, and when an officer appeared carrying the fasces his authority was immediately accepted by all. It was, in effect, his badge of office.

The English form of these fasces was slightly changed in that the ax was placed inside of the bundle of rods, with the blade protruding from the top.

The great councils of the early Saxons gradually developed into one general body, which in the fourteenth century became known as the House of Commons. In all these earlier councils the use of the fasces was continued, but it then came to be known as the mace, which has remained as the emblem of legislative authority in that body down to the present day.

The House of Representatives of the United States was modeled closely after the House of Commons by the framers of our Constitution, and the usage of the mace was borrowed from the English custom.

The first mace adopted by the House was destroyed by the fire when the British burned the Capitol in 1814. From 1814 until 1842 a mace of painted wood did service, but in the latter year the present mace was made after the model of the original one.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.



Beulah Sands Was Dead.

My breath was almost gone and it took me minutes to get to the second floor. My feet touched the top stair, when, O God! that sound! For five long years I had been trying to get it out of my ears, but now more guttural, more agonized than before, it broke upon my tortured senses. I did not need to seek its direction. With a bound I was at the threshold of Beulah Sands-Brownley's office. In that brief time the groans had stilled. For one instant I closed my eyes, for the very atmosphere of that hall moaned and groaned death. I opened them. Yes, I knew it. There at the desk was the beautiful gray-clad figure of five years ago. There the two arms resting on the desk. There the two beautiful hands holding the open paper, but the eyes, those marvellous gray-blue doors to an immortal soul—they were closed forever. The exquisitely beautiful face was cold and white and peaceful. Beulah Sands was dead. The hell-hounds of the "System" had overtaken its maimed and hunted victim; it had added her beautiful heart to the bags and barrels and hogsheads stored away in its big "business-is-business" safe-deposit vaults. My eyes in sick pity sought the form of my old schoolmate, my college chum, my partner, my friend, the man I loved. He was on his knees. His agonized face was turned to his wife. His clasped hands had been raised in an awful, heart-crushing prayer as his Maker touched the bell. Bob Brownley's great brown eyes were closed, his clasped hands had dropped against his wife's head, and in dropping had unloosed the glorious golden-brown waves until in fond abandon they had coiled around his arms and brow as though she for whom he had sacrificed all was shielding his beloved head from the chills and dark mists of the black river that laps the brink of the eternal rest. The "System" had skewered Robert Brownley's heart, too. I staggered to his side. As I touched his now fast-icing brow my eyes fell upon the great black headlines spread across the top of the paper that Beulah Sands had been reading when the all-kind God had cut her bonds:

FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH.

And beneath in one column:

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY IN VIRGINIA.

The Richest Man in the State, Thomas Reinhart, Multi-millionaire, while Temporarily Insane from the Loss of His Wife and Daughter, and of His Enormous Fortune, Which Was Shattered in To-day's Awful Panic, Cut His Throat. His death was Instantaneous.

In another column:

Robert Brownley Creates the Most Awful Panic in History and Spreads Wreck and Ruin Throughout the Civilized World.

THE END.

Not Much of a Place.

"Did you enjoy your trip to California?"

"No, not much. They didn't post any labels on my satchel out there."—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Armistice.

"Your son says he never lets his work worry him."

BE IT RESOLVED (the House of Assembly concurring), That the following amendment to the constitution of this State be and the same is hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendment shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays thereon, and referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published for three months prior to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next in at least one newspaper of each county, to be designated by the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Assembly and the Secretary of State:

Strike out the proviso in section three of article four, and insert in place thereof the following:

The Legislature shall, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine, and at its first session after each United States decennial census thereafter, and not oftener, divide and arrange the counties of this State into districts for the election therein of members of the General Assembly. Each assembly district so constituted shall contain, as nearly as practicable, an equal number of inhabitants, and shall consist of convenient and contiguous territory, in a compact form; provided, that each county shall, at all times, be entitled to at least one member, and the whole number of members to be chosen shall never exceed sixty.

The Court of Errors and Appeals is hereby invested with exclusive original jurisdiction, and with full power under such procedure as it may by rules prescribe to review any division and arrangement made by the Legislature into assembly districts of the counties of this State, for the purpose of determining whether such arrangement and division or any part thereof is in accordance or in conflict with this section, and if in conflict herewith, to adjudge the same, or such part thereof as may be in conflict herewith, null and void. In case said court shall determine such arrangement and division, or any part thereof, to be null and void, the Legislature shall proceed to make a new arrangement and division, entire or partial, as the action of the court may require.

OLDEST BANK IN THE WORLD.

One at Nineveh Seems to Be Entitled to the Distinction.

There was a kind of public record office attached to the palace and temple at Nineveh, in which it was customary to deposit important legal and other documents, such as contracts and agreements for the purchase and sale of property, marriage settlements, wills, etc. Among these there were discovered official statements as to the history and transactions of the eminent banking house of Egidu at Nineveh. Assyrian chronology proves that these refer to a date about 2,300 years before the Christian era, when Abraham dwelt at Ur of the Chaldees, as is stated in Genesis. We may, therefore, claim for this firm the reputation of being the oldest bank in the world, at least, of which we have any record, or are likely to have. The accounts are very voluminous, and cover the transactions of five generations of the house from father to son. The firm grew rapidly in importance during this period, during which they attained great wealth; for they had succeeded in securing from the king the appointment of collectors of taxes, a position which in the east always leads to fortune. They afterwards framed the revenue for several of the Assyrian provinces, with very great gain to the firm.

HAND GRENADES OF 1812.

Old Time Ordnance Found at Fort McHenry—How They Were Used.

While examining the contents of the ordnance storehouse at Fort McHenry Lieut. J. L. Holcombe, of the One Hundred and Twenty-eighth coast artillery discovered several boxes of old hand grenades which are supposed to be more than a hundred years old, says the Baltimore American. The missiles are of the earliest make used by the United States government, and were probably placed at the historic old fort when it was first erected in 1812. Owing to the way in which they were packed the grenades had only the slightest trace of rust upon them. The discovery of the weapons recalls a bit of the ancient history of the country. In explaining their use Lieut. Holcombe said that the grenades were handled only by the grenadiers of the ship, who, walking out upon the yard-arms of the old fashioned fighting vessels threw them into the ranks of the enemy. An explosion followed which created havoc. They weigh about four pounds and are shaped after the fashion of the bombs used by anarchists, and are iron and loaded with gunpowder.

A Great City Is a Great Solitude.

But little do men perceive what solitude is, and how far it extendeth; for a crowd is not company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tinkling cymbal, where there is no love. The Latin adage meeteth it a little: magna civitas, magna solitude; because in a great town friends are scattered, so that there is not that fellowship for the most part which is in less neighborhoods; but we may go further and affirm most truly that it is a mere and miserable solitude to want true friends, without which the world is but a wilderness; and even in this sense also of solitude, whosoever in the frame of his nature and affections is unfit for friendship, he taketh it of the beast and not from humanity.—From Bacon's "Essay on Seeing Wise."

A Hopping Match.

A match, 20 hops for ten guineas, took place at Loughborough, Leicestershire, between James Shipley, of Nottingham, and a person named Moore, of Leicester. It was very closely contested, so much so that bets of four to one were laid and taken on each side. The match, however, was won by Shipley. On measuring the distance it appeared that Shipley had hopped 75 yards nine or ten inches and Moore something more than 75 yards. The latter was to have run against Shipley on the same day, 140 yards for 40 guineas, but declined, and in consequence forfeited his deposit.—From an English Sporting Magazine of 1807.

Stanley's Cat.

It is a good story of Henry M. Stanley, after his return from Africa, when writing his "Dark Continent." He used to spread his reference maps on the floor of his room, and one day, after searching for a map which he much needed, he spoke to his assistant, who found it near the fireside, with Stanley's cat on it asleep. He started to turn the cat off, when Stanley said: "Never mind—don't disturb the cat. I'll get along without the map until the cat wakes up." The cat slumbered on, and not until she rose did the famous explorer reach for his map.

Wit.

A witty man is a dramatic performer; in process of time he can no more exist without applause than he can exist without air; if his audience be small, or if they are inattentive, or if a new wit defrauds him of any portion of his admiration, it is all over with him—he sickens and is extinguished. The applause of the theater on which he performs is so essential to him that he must obtain it at the expense of decency, friendship and good feeling.—Sydney Smith.

Effect and Cause.

"He has an apprehensive look about the eyes." "Yes, his wife has just entered the room."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Chinese Coin

By MAXWELL ALEY.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The shop where the Chinese coin came into my possession was in that part of Shanghai where foreigners seldom go. I went there to get some rare porcelain.

A wizened-up Chinaman came forward salaaming to me. I was motioned to a silken cushion and after I had seated myself the shop keeper disappeared. I glanced about the bazar. I gave a long-drawn "Ah!" as I saw a matchless tea service of the ware I sought. That indeed was Keangsee porcelain, but finer than any I had ever seen before. Alacia would be pleased with that!

The shop-keeper returned. On a tray he bore a pot of tea and two small cups. He placed the tray on the teak-wood stand by my side and after gravely pouring me a cup, did the same for himself. Nothing was said of buying or selling; that is against eastern etiquette. We drank in silence. When the tea was finished the old man arose.

"Chang-ho he speak Englaish. Me no," he said, by way of explanation, and then vanished.

In the course of time Chang-ho appeared. He was a fat Celestial with a face as innocent in expression as a baby's. He was young, little more than a boy. He hoped my most glorious excellency was well, after having salaamed gravely for just five minutes. We exchanged a few more formalities, and then I began by asking to see everything in the shop, but the Keang-see tea service. After I had looked at a quantity of things I did not want, I asked to see the thing I so much desired.

Chang-ho brought the tea service over to the teak-wood stand. It came into my possession for so low a sum that I was ashamed of my bargain.

I had nothing but a rather large piece of silver to give in payment, so it was necessary for me to have change. Chang-hoo went to the back of the shop and returned with a handful of coins. He placed them in my outstretched had and just as I was withdrawing it an evil gleam shot over his angelic countenance and with his eye on the old shop-keeper, who had reentered the room and was busily arranging some of his wares, he placed the Chinese coin in my hand.

I emerged from the incense-laden air of the bazar into the foulness of the alley and made my way to my rooms. I did not think of the coin till I was retiring late in the evening. Then I took it from my inner pocket and examined it by the light. It was indeed peculiar. It was nearly a quarter of an inch thick and about the size of a half dollar. The more I looked at it the more the mystery of what it could be grew upon me. I studied its cabalistic characters till far into the night.

It must have been a week after the Chinese coin came into my possession that a peculiar thing happened. I had left Shanghai and was in Canton. One day while walking along the street I heard something hit the pavement with a clink. I looked down. It was the Chinese coin. It bounded along over the rough pavement with a most remarkable velocity, and I gave chase. Just ahead of me was a crowd of coolies. "Good-by, coin" I said to myself, and sure enough it had vanished. I spoke with what little Chinese I knew, offering the coolies any price to restore my coin. But they protested that they knew nothing of it. I really felt grieved over the loss for I had intended to keep it for a pocketpiece and curio.

From China I went to Japan, spending several months there. From Japan I went to the Philippines, where my stay was somewhat shorter. Just before I left for India another strange thing happened. I was walking along the beach when my foot hit upon a small piece of wreckage, and I stooped to examine it. It seemed to have been lately washed up, for the wood was well preserved, though much water-soaked. Idly turning the piece of wreckage over I was astonished to see a coin securely embedded in its under side. By an effort I managed to extract the piece of money. What was my surprise when I found it to be the Chinese coin. I looked at it in astonishment. "The coin, the coin, THE coin!" I kept murmuring over and over again to myself.

I left Manila on a large Chinese junk instead of a steamer. We were four days out from land when a sudden storm seemed to drop from nowhere. In these regions the typhoon comes with little warning. It is a whirlwind of enormous velocity and a diameter of from 200 to 500 miles. The center of it is the most dangerous part and a ship cannot possibly live there. A large steamer can often escape a typhoon by proper manipulation, but with a sailing vessel there is little hope. I knew from the first that the ship was doomed and that we on board might be thankful if we escaped with our lives.

From my luggage I took what I could carry on my person, putting several valuables, strange to say, the Chinese coin among them, in a leathern pouch which I hung around my neck. When the storm did come the junk weathered it bravely for a time, but at length we saw that it was going to pieces and the captain, myself and the crew embarked in the only boat.

I shall pass quickly over the horrors that ensued, though they are impressed indelibly upon my memory.

One by one the men died off till I alone remained, a mere ghost and skeleton of a man. I grew frenzied and I remember little of what happened. I remember last of taking the Chinese coin from the pouch around my neck and tossing it to see if rescue would come. I remember that it fell in my hand with the smooth side up—which meant, as I had distinguished between the two sides, rescue. I remember that I laughed insanely and kissed the coin with my dry parched lips and then replaced it in the pouch. After that I remember nothing for a long time.

They tell me that I was picked up by a steamer and gradually brought back to life, but that I lingered in a hospital in London, whither the steamer took me, and nearly died of a disease brought on by my exposure and privation.

The first thing I remember is of, hearing a clink on a stone pavement and glancing down and seeing the Chinese coin laying before me. It seemed the connecting link and memory returned.

An attendant of the hospital approached me. "Come," she said in the persuasive tone one uses to a child. "You must go in now."

"Where am I?" I gasped, bewildered. "What has become of the boat? Where—" But a doctor approached and stopped me and refused to let me talk until after I had had time to collect myself and get my thoughts adjusted.

As soon as possible I sent a cablegram to America. I received the answer:

"Father dead; fortune left to charity."

What was I to do? I was a stranger in a strange land and penniless. They promised to keep me longer at the hospital and I hoped to be able to make some plans in that time.

A few days later I was sitting on the pavement where I had sat when memory first returned to me. I took the coin from the pouch and idly tossed it idly in the air. "Rough for luck," I said. It lit in my hand rough up.

"You have been a friend to me before, old coin," I said. "I hope you are right.

I sat turning it over and over again, pressing it between my thumb and fore-finger. Of a sudden a circular part that formed the center flew open. "How strange!" I exclaimed. "There must be a spring that my finger pressed." I examined the opening. It was filled with gold dust. I poured this carefully out in my hand. With it came something else. I gazed in astonishment. A magnificent, flat, pigeon-blood ruby lay glowing, burning in my hand.

"Luck, old coin!" I murmured softly. "Luck! You were right!"

* * * * * *

It brought me over £5,000, which was an ample amount to get home on and have something to live on after I got there. I did not contest my father's will, but went to work to earn a fortune of my own. I have it now and I have Alacia too—though she hasn't the Keang-see tea service—and sometimes people wonder why I wear a heavy brass coin for a watch charm.

HONORS RESTED WITH BAKER.

Humble Individual Scored Heavily on Pompous Namesake.

Maxim Gorky during his stormy American visit told a quaint little story at a luncheon given by the young novelist, R. W. Kauffman, at the Franklin Inn in Philadelphia.

"I believe in class distinction," M. Gorky said. "I am a thoroughgoing aristocrat. If I had my way the world's idlers would not be admitted into polite society.

"Alas, I cannot have my way. The idlers are on top; they ride us. Now and then we kick up our heels, though. I'll tell you about the two Nikolais.

"In Moscow a certain Nikolai inserted this notice in the newspapers:

"'Nikolai Nikolaievitch, landed proprietor, in consequence of many annoying errors, begs to announce that he is not the same person as Nikolai Nikolaievitch, the baker, and that he has no connection whatever with the latter.'

"'Nikolai Nikolaievitch, the baker, who was stated yesterday to be a different person from and to be in no way connected with Nikolai the landed proprietor, wishes, for purposes of identification, to be known in future as Lucky Nikolai.'"

Are Your Eyelashes on Straight?

"Lost, a set of eyelashes." This is the astounding advertisement which may soon come to pass, since artificial eyelashes at $20 a set have been put on the beauty market! Talk no more of the innocent "makeup" and transformations. They are but primitive accessories to the toilet of lovely woman compared with these inventions to enhance her physical charms, and warranted to deceive even her dearest friend. Ladies who wear these eyelashes can never weep and wipe their eyes, but with kind usage they will last an entire season, and are therefore cheap for the price.

Beehives in Mourning.

A striking illustration of the superstitious beliefs of Cornish country folk may be seen in one of the villages of the Duchy. A death recently occurred in the family of a bee keeper, who thereupon—believing that if he failed to do so the whole of his bees would also die—draped each of his five hives with a piece of black crepe.—London Standard.

Doctor Saves Others, Dies Himself.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Dr. Samuel Beyea, for fifty years a leading physician in New Rochelle, died last night in the Roosevelt Hospital, in New York, just as surgeons were preparing to operate for gall stones. For several months there has been much illness in this city and Dr. Beyea was kept busy day and night. Hard work was telling on him, yet he felt that he could not take a vacation until a few days ago, when most of his serious cases were out of danger. He had arranged to go to Henderson Harbor to camp with a party of friends, among them District Attorney Young, of Westchester county, when he was stricken.

FRANK O. BRIGGS TO GIVE THE TROPHY

FOR NEW TEAM MATCH NEXT MONTH AT SEA GIRT.

After the National Rifle Matches and those of the National Rifle Association, which will be shot at Camp Perry, Ohio, the attention of the rifle world will be turned toward Sea Girt, where the matches of the New Jersey State Rifle Association will be shot from September 2 to 7 inclusive. Probably a majority of the teams from Camp Perry, certainly a large number, will proceed to Sea Girt for these matches. Sea Girt has long been famous for its rifle matches and possesses one of the best ranges in the country.

The principal match will be that for the Dryden Trophy, presented by former Senator Dryden, of this State, one of the handsomest trophies in the country. It is open to the same teams as are eligible for the National Match, except that the teams shall be composed of eight instead of twelve men. The distances are 200, 600 and 1,000 yards.

The Dryden Trophy carries with it $150 in cash, with $100 to the second team and $50 to the third team. There is also the Interstate Regimental Team Match, open to battalions and separate organizations of the United States service and to the regiments of the National Guard This is a new match, the trophy for which was presented by Hon. Frank O. Briggs, United States Senator from New Jersey, and carries with it a number of cash prizes.

There will also be the Company Team Match, Company Tyro Match, Columbia Trophy Match, Carbine Team Match, Veteran Organization Team Match, Gould Rapid-fire Team Match, Individual Rapid-fire Match, All-Comers Military Match, Hayes Match, Gen. E. P. Meany Match, New Jersey State Rifle Association Trophy Match, Spencer Match, Reading Match, Hale Match and Press and Inspectors' Matches.

There will also be a number of revolver matches. A new match will be the one for the Sea Girt championship of 1907, for a medal given by the Governor of New Jersey, and a number of cash prizes.

Altogether there will be several thousand dollars in cash distributed as well as the prizes and a large number of medals. The railroads have made a special rate of one and one-third fare for the round-trip to this match.

Burned and Badly Hurt.

Elizabeth, Aug. 20.—Thomas Dillon, one of the oldest and best known residents of Elizabethport and father of Rev. John A. Dillon, vice president of Seton Hall College, had a narrow escape from being killed on Saturday. Mr. Dillon, who is an expert blacksmith, was running a big trip hammer in the Singer Sewing Machine Works, where he has been employed many years, when a large fragment of the hot metal flew off and struck him in the face, badly burning his nose and nearly runing one of his eyes. He was knocked senseless by the blow, but after he revived was able to go to a physician and have his injuries attended to. A few weeks ago Mr. Dillon's oldest daughter, Mrs. J. Kervic, died suddenly.

FROM SHERWIN'S SIDE

Counsellor Angleman Makes a Statement on Injunction Proceedings.

SLIPPERS ARE AT STAKE

Mortgage Only Covers a Few Dollars Worth of Unsaleable Stock, the Shoe Man's Lawyer Says.

The legal difference between Horace Sherwin, the shoe man, and Thomas E. Greacen, who claims to hold a mortgage on Mr. Sherwin's stock, to cover a debt alleged to amount to $5,000, is being contended with as much spirit outside the court as in it. Both sides have been making statements to the newspapers ever since the first attempt, two weeks ago, to forclose on Mr. Sherwin's stock. The latest of them was given out by Counsellor Winfield S. Angleman, associated with V. W. Nash, Jr., in Mr. Sherwin's interest, this morning. Mr. Angleman intimates that Mr. Coddington authorized a statement yesterday that does Mr. Sherwin a gross injustice, and he sets out to correct it, and to present the result of the legal battle, so far, from the standpoint of his client. Sherwin, he says in effect, is ahead in the battle. The statement is as follows:

"Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 21, 1907

"Editor The Daily Press:

"An article in your issue of yesterday in regard to the case in chancery of Thomas E. Greacen vs. Horace M. Sherwin contains statements made, I understand, on the authority of William A. Coddington, the attorney for Mr. Greacen, which do not conform to the facts. I ask, therefore, that you kindly correct what is a gross injustice to one of Plainfield's oldest business men.

"In the first place, the Sherwin store is not closed and will not be closed. It is doing business today and will continue to do business. There has not be any injunction granted which will close the store or which will prevent Mr. Sherwin from doing business. As Vice Chancellor Howell stated yesterday, in open court, to Mr. Coddington, in reply to his appeals, "I can not give you the premises, and I can not give you the goods." The Vice Chancellor then said that he would continue the usual temporary injunction until the final hearing on the merits of the case. This temporary injunction, or restraining order, is the ordinary order given in such cases to preserve intact the goods covered by a chattel mortgage. The only portion of the Sherwin stock affected by the injunction is stock which is not saleable and is stored away in one corner of the store, and consists only of eighty-six pairs of shoes and slippers. The balance of the stock which is up-to-date and of full variety is not affected by the injunction and is on sale as usual. I offered in open court to turn these eighty-six pairs of shoes and slippers over to Mr. Greacen, if Mr. Coddington would assure me that, if he lost the case on the merits, he would pay Mr. Sherwin the inventory value for them. This he refused to do.

"There was another order made yesterday, and which was the last one made, which in the light of the statements made in your article is interesting reading. It is now on file in the Chancery Clerk's office in Trenton, and is as follows:

"'It is, on motion of W. S. Angleman, of counsel with defendant, and in the presence of William A. Coddington, of counsel with complainant, do within ten days give security for costs in this cause, according to law, and that if such security be not filed, or the deposit in lieu therefore made within the time above limited, the defendant may apply to dismiss the bill of complaint.

"'And it is further ordered that until this order be complied with all further proceedings in the cause be stayed.'

"The security mentioned in the above order amounts to one hundred and fifty ($150) dollars, and is more than the value of the eighty-six pairs of shoes and slippers. If Sherwin's eighty-six pairs of shoes are tied up, so also is Greacen's one hundred and fifty dollars. Moreover, the shoes are not saleable, while the cash is useable.

"As to the merits of the controversy, it is sufficient at this time to say that the original debt was one of Mr. Sherwin's father, which, on his death in June, 1905, Mr. Sherwin assumed and of which he has since paid thirty-eight hundred and forty-nine dollars and thirteen cents ($3,849.13). Mr. Sherwin's sworn statement on file in the case claims that by an agreement with Mr. Greacen made in consideration of the giving of this chattel mortgage, and by which Mr. Greacen agreed that when the mortgage had been reduced to four thousand ($4,000) dollars, or,

DEMANDED CHANGE AT POINT OF PISTOL

ITALIAN COMPELLED TROLLEY CONDUCTOR TO PRODUCE TWENTY CENTS.

Passengers on a West bound Dunellen car that left the Watchung avenue terminus at 7:45 last night, were witnesses to a wordy encounter between the conductor, James Selfridge, and an unknown Italian, that eventually resulted in gun display on the part of the latter. There was a terrific scrambling from all hands to get out of reach but nothing serious occurred.

The Italian boarded the car on West Front street and soon after paying his fare, demanded twenty cents change from the conductor, asserting that he had passed up a quarter. Selfridge insisted that a nickel was all that he had received and refused to comply. The unknown continued his demands and finally became so abusive that other passengers called for his ejectment from the car. When the vehicle stopped at Dunellen's main crossin, the Italian got off but before the conductor could signal the motorman to go ahead, he pulled a revolver from his pocket. Levelling it at Selfridge, he exclaimed:

"Drop twenty cents or I shoota."

The ordeal of looking down the barrel of a pistol is not a pleasing one under any circumstance and Selfridge complied in order to avoid further trouble. The weapon was lowered as soon as the Italian secured the change and he quickly retreated before anyone could stop him.

The matter was reported to the police but no trace of the fellow could be found. Passengers who sat near the Italian say he only handed out a nickel and that Selfridge was in the right.

SEVENTH DAY BAPTIST GENERAL CONFERENCE

PLAINFIELD WELL REPRESENTED AT IT—NO MORNING SERVICE HERE.

The Seventh-Day Baptist General Conference opens its six-day annual session at Alfred, N. Y., today. The Plainfield church will be largely represented at the gathering.

About thirty members of the local congregation have gone to Alfred. Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the church here, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, are among the Plainfielders who will take part in the deliberations of the assembly.

There will be no Sabbath morning service in the local church. The Young People's Societies will meet in the afternoon, however, and the Friday evening devotional service will be held as usual. It is thought that quite a number from the local church will attend service at New Market, where Rev. H. N. Jordan's pulpit will be occuped by Rev. Mr. Dorward, of Stelton.

Trolley Lines Merged.

Of the 150,000 shares of stock of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, holders of 142,651 voted in favor of consolidation at a meeting held in the main offices of the company in Newark, yesterday, for the consolidation of all the properties and franchises controlled by the North Jersey Street Railway Company, Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson Street Railway Company, and the United Street Railway Company of New Jersey. The new corporation will be known as the Public Service Railway Company. The sapital stock will be $38,000,000.

Stryker Defeats Grimes.

James Stryker, Plainfield's undefeated roller skating artist, bested Harry Grimes, of Somerville, in a two mile race at Riverside Park, last night. It was a hot contest from start to finish and the winner crossed the line only half a lap ahead. The time was eight minutes and twenty seconds. John Radel, of New Brunswick, was the time-keeper and C. H. Snyder, of this city, acted as the winner's trainer. Stryker now claims the title of champion of Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties.

Elks' Outing Date Fixed.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E. has finally decided to hold the fourth annual outing and clambake on the grounds of the Watchung Spring Water Company, off Mountain avenue, on Saturday, September 14. The committee in charge of the arrangements comprises B. Frank Boos, chairman; John A. Conway, Walter Apgar, Erwin Y. Neighbor and William de LaR. Anderson.

Uncle Dan's Two-foot Fall.

Daniel G. Hetfield, familiarly known as "Uncle Danny," was able to be out Saturday for the first time since his fall from a bench, a distance of two feet, fracturing several ribs.

"JIM" WITH THE FARMERS

Martine Gets a Great Ovation at the Hunterdon County Grange.

BIG CROWD HEARS HIM

Haled from all parts of the crowd as "Governor Jim," and greeted with cheers and the waving of hats as he mounted the speakers' stand, James E. Martine addressed 2,000 Hunterdon county farmers at Hawke's Grove, near Locktown, this afternoon, on the occasion of the ninth annual picnic of the Hunterdon County Grangers. "Farmer Jim" made a characteristic address to the tillers of the soil, who bunched around him, interrupting him with applause from time to time.

Avoiding the subject of politics and the part he plans to take in the coming Gubernatorial campaign, Mr. Martine spoke at length of the agricultural conditions in the country at this time. He said that the farmer was gaining his true position in politics by his control of the balance of power. The farmer has thus secured a position of power in political affairs, and conditions have improved within the past year so that this control is becoming more and more a prime factor in county, State and national politics.

The farmers will be together at the picnic grounds for two days, and the annual outing has been patronized by practically every "man with a hoe" of the district. They came with their wives, families and friends for a care-free outing.

GOVERNOR WANTS THE INVESTIGATORS TO ACT

STOKES URGES THAT THE SENATE COMMITTEE GET TO WORK.

Governor Stokes and Chairman Bradley of the State investigating committe held a conference yesterday afternoon at Trenton with a view to taking action that would result in the committee getting down to work. Governor Stokes is said to have received complaints from Republican leaders over the inactivity of the Upper House investigators and has promised to do what he can to hasten the inquisition to counteract that being conducted by Democratic Assemblymen. It has been prevented from getting down to work by inability to obtain counsel. Governor Stokes telephoned to Presecutor Emley, of Passaic, and asked him to reconsider his determination not to serve as counsel. Mr. Emley replied that he could not do so.

Edwin Robert Walker, of Trenton, was suggested and it is probable that he will be asked to serve. Senator Bradley said that he had given up his vacation in order to try to start the committee at work. He added that it would go ahead as soon as counsel could be procured.

It is the present intention of the committee to take up first the subject of legislative lobbying, which seems to offer a rather fruitful field of research. The disclosures made by the Assembly Investigating Committee in its tour of the State departments and institutions have caused a feeling among the Republicans that that party should put a counter attraction in the field as soon as possible.

Former Plainfielder Killed.

"Jack" McGilvray, who was formerly employed in Bobby Leach's lunch wagon and who had many friends in this city, was killed last week at Watervliet, N. Y. He was employed in the construction of a water works plant and was caught with several other men in the premature discharge of a stick of dynamite. The body was brought to his former home in Westfield and the funeral was held there yesterday.

Large Dividends.

With the dividends due and payable September 1st original stockholders of the National Mining and Leasing Company will have received twenty-four per cent. on their investment, which is at the rate of forty-eight per cent. per annum. The twenty-four per cent. mentioned has been paid since April 1st this year. Plainfield office, 211 North avenue.

MARTINE GETS SUPPORT

South Jersey Counties Urge Union's Democrats to Hustle for Him.

ATLANTIC IS IN LINE

Members of County Committee to Be Elected At a Special Primary to Be Set.

Flattering communications from Atlantic and other South Jersey counties, urging that no stone be left unturned in nominating James E. Martine as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, were received by the Union County Democratic committee meeting at the rooms on Broad street, Elizabeth, last night. Support of the Plainfielder was pledged by the committees in writing and it was declared that everything possible is being done to have him head the State ticket in November. The communications were received with enthusiasm and the secretary was instructed to reply that "Union is on the job."

The meeting last night was called by Chairman D. F. Collins for the purpose of considering the advisability of changing the time of electing members to the county committee. It has been the custom to elect them at a special primary and not at the regular primaries, which are to be held this year on September 10. After a full discussion, a resolution was unanimously passed not to depart from the usual way of electing the members at a special primary to be held at the call of the chairman of the county committee.

The committee of seven appointed by the chairman to make suitable arrangements for the delegates who will be elected to represent the party at the State convention in Trenton, reported through their chairman, John Lane, of Summit, that suitable rooms had been procured at the Trenton House. An additional member to the county committee from the new borough of Kenilworth was formally seated.

Harmony was the keynote through the entire meeting and every member announced himself as being in line for active duty. Plainfield was represented by a full delegation.

SUPPOSED IT A MIRACLE

Polish Catholics Disturbed by What Seemed a Veritable Weeping Crucifix.

PRIEST'S EXPLANATION

Rain Filled Hollow Statue and Water Dropped Through the Eyes Softening Paint.

What several hundred people in Perth Amboy regarded as a miracle was explained on Sunday from the altar of St. Stephen's Polish Catholic church at that place. Some days ago members of the parish thought they made a discovery that the crucifix in St. Stephen's cemetery was weeping tears and later it was declared that blood was exuding from the wounds in the body of the Saviour.

This was differently interpreted, according to the person who viewed it. Probably the most of them took it, says the Perth Amboy Chronicle, that Christ was weeping because of their sins and they became conscious stricken. They knelt before the crucifix and prayed and at night they burned candles before it.

Some held, says the paper, that the strange occurrence, miracle, they believed it, presaged the return of Christ to the world and they feared that the final day of judgment was near at hand.

The explanation came when an examination of the statue was made. It was found that the figure was partly hollow and recent rains had filled it, almost to overflowing. Water trickled through the eyes and the continued moisture softened the red paint and caused it to stain the statue, so that, high above the ground as it is, the impression was easily made that blood was actually flowing from the wounds.

Returned From Sweden.

After a trip abroad lasting for six months, Harold Hansen, of West Front street, returned home yesterday, making the trip on the Scandanavian-American liner, "United States." During his absence, Mr. Hansen visited his family in Sweden, and friends and relatives in Norway and Denmark. He says that conditions where he was show a high state of prosperity.

FIGHT STRIKE BREAKERS

Local Delegates Talks of Controlling "Scabs" Before State Labor Federation.

A CHILD LABOR TALK

Want 18 Year Night Work Limit—Elect Officers As Convention Closes in Trenton Yesterday.

Because of the recent disturbances throughout the State by men employed as strike-breakers, there was a lengthy discussion on the subject of "scab" labor at the 29th annual convention of the State Federation of Labor concluded at Trenton yesterday. William McConnell, a delegate from this city, was especially active during the discussion, which lasted for a considerable part of the afternoon session. After a discussion by the meeting, he offered a resolution instructing the legislative committee to seek the enactment of a law making it mandatory upon chiefs of police in first and second class cities to inquire into the records and character of men employed by firms as strike-breakers. His idea was to have such "scabs" ordered from a city by the police, if their record could be proved bad. Delegate Thomas McHugh, of Newark, while recognizing the value of such a measure, spoke against it as being unconstitutional, and the motion was lost.

At the morning session, the question of child labor was the main subject of discussion at the meeting. As a result, a resolution was passed urging the officers to request the United States Senators and representatives of the State to support the proposed Beveridge act, bringing child labor within the scope of the interstate commerce act, and requesting that the minimum age for night work be raised to eighteen years.

JEWISH NEW YEAR'S ON MONDAY, SEPT. 9

ROSH HOSHANA BEGINS 5,668TH HEBREW YEAR.

Jewish New Year, or Rosh Hashana, will occur on September 9. The calendar for the year—5668—according to the Hebrew reckoning, will begin on that day. The day is one of great celebration among the Jews of all lands. The feature will be the blowing of the shofar, or ram's horn. The blowing of the shofar requires considerable skill, so as to sound the proper notes.

In the Pentateuch the shofar is prescribed for the announcement of the new moon and solemn feasts. The first day of the seventh month—Tishri, or New Year's Day—is especially termed a "memorial of blowing," or "a day of blowing the shofar," and the modern use of the instrument survives especially in this connection. In earlier days it was employed also in other religious ceremonials. In the temple at Jerusalem the shofar was usually associated with the trumpet and both instruments were used together on various occasions. On New Year's Day, the principal ceremony was conducted with the shofar, made of the horn of a wild goat and straight in shape, being ornamented with gold at the mouthpiece. Many reasons are assigned for the ceremony of shofar blowing. The object of certain notes is to bewilder and stagger Satan, who at first, imagining that the Jews are merely complying with the law, is surprised by the second blowing, thinking, perhaps, that the Messiah is coming, and, finally, is dumfounded, expecting the resurrection, with which his power will finally cease.

The beginning of the year, it is probable, was always celebrated from ancient times in some special way like the new moon festival. The passage in Psalms 41; 5, referring to the solemn feast which is held on new moon day, when the shofar is sounded, as a day of judgment of the "God of Jacob," is taken to indicate the character of Rosh Hashana.

A festival meal is an important feature of the home celebration of the day. In modern times the table is supplied with grapes, other fruit and honey. After the benediction of Ha Mozeh bread is dipped in the honey, when the following benediction is recited: "May it please the Lord our God and God of our fathers to renew for us a good and sweet year." The Jews greet one another on New Year's Eve with "Mayest thou be inscribed for a good year."

COLLISION AND RUNAWAY WITH LUCKY RESULTS

CAUSED LOTS OF EXCITEMENT BUT NO ONE WAS HURT.

Good luck and excitement were plentifully mixed in a collision and runaway that occurred at Park avenue and Front street, shortly after 6 o'clock last night. The participating rigs were a runabout, driven by Miss Claire Toense and accompanied by her mother, of Fairview avenue, and a wagon driven by William Nelson, a well driver.

Miss Toense made a wide swing from Front street into the avenue and her rig struck the other vehicle while the animal was on a fast trot. The runabout stopped short but Miss Toense and her mother kept going and fell to the ground over the dashboard just as the horse pulled itself free of the shafts and started off at full speed.

Something in the animal's path caused it to dart from the road to the sidewalk and with a terrific clatter of hoofs it tore along the flags all he way from the City National Bank to the Iroquois Hotel. A lot of pedestrians were in its way but everyone scrambled into stores or the gutter and escaped getting knocked down. William Stranzenbach was seated on the Iroquois porch when he heard the racket and jumped to the sidewalk just in time to block the animal's path. He caught it by the remains of the bridle and though dragged for twenty feet or more brought it to a standstill.

Miss Toense and her mother were picked up by Patrolman Charles Flynn and were found to be practically unhurt. Mrs. Toense was in a nervous state and suffered from several severe bruises but was able to proceed to her home. The run about, the property of the Plainfield Cab Company, of which Mr. Toense is proprietor, was badly damaged.

LOCAL RED MEN TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

MIANTONOMO TRIBE WILL BE 19 YEARS OLD OCTOBER 9.

When October 8 rolls around, there will be big doings among the local Red Men. On that day, nineteen years ago, Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., of this city, organized their lodge here and held their first meeting. The growth of the organization has been a rapid one, and well known Plainfielders have increased its membership rolls from time to time since its organization.

The warriors and braves discussed plans for their anniversary celebration at their regular meeting held last night, and it was decided to have the occasion fittingly observed by the lodgemen. A committee, consisting of Chief of Records Charles L. Holstein, and Past Sachems J. T. Green, Andrew J. Stiglitz, Peter Sheridan, Thomas Connors, Samuel Montross and John Ludgate, was appointed to take charge of the anniversary and to plan suitable entertainment and observance of the occasion.

It is planned to have prominent Red Men from the various lodges of the State present with the local braves on that occasion and the organization history of the lodge will be reviewed. The board of Great Chiefs of the State will be invited to attend the anniversary ceremonies.

At the meeting last night, one pale face was admitted to the tribe, and two propositions for membership were received.

Funeral of Miss Richmond.

The funeral of Miss Evelyn Richmond, who died in Muhlenberg Hospital Sunday following an operation for appendicitis, was held at the home of her parents, on West Front street, last night. It was conducted by Rev. Lewis Bond and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The body was sent to Trenton this morning for burial.

McCardell Overcome.

Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, head of the foundry department of Pond Tool Works, was found unconscious at the works yesterday afternoon by one of the employees. Two physicians were summoned and he was removed to his home for the remainder of the day. The cause was stomach trouble. He was able to be back at his desk to day.

New Crosswalk In Borough.

The borough street gang laid a cross-walk yesterday on Somerset street, between Chatham and Pearl streets. The block is a long one, and the necessity for the crossing has long been felt by tradesmen.

DEARTH OF MINISTERS

That is of Protestant Ministers, Who Like August Vacations.

VIRTUALLY NONE HERE

Undertaker Had to Use Missionary for Three Funerals and Get a Layman For Another.

"WANTED—Minister of the Gospel to fight the devil during August and to make himself generally useful in a Christian community. No questions asked as to dogma; good wages and every inducement to any energetic sky pilot. Address, Suffering Plainfield."

About the scarcest thing in Plainfield at the present time is a Protestant minister. All or practically all, the pastors of the evangelical churches have been in the habit of going on their vacations in August, and the church people in town awoke to the fact last week that the city was virtually without a Protestant pastor. Complaints have been made over the condition, and it is likely that the conregational officers will be moved to take such action as will, in future years, prevent so complete a dearth of pastors in vacation time.

It was noticed in other years that virtually all the Protestant churches were without pastoral attention in August, but until this summer the complaints of the church fold did not reach noteworthy proportions. Conditions arose last week, however, that brought the matter to a pass that aroused comment too caustic to be overlooked. On account of the lack of pastors in the city, Rev. Lewis Bond, a returned missionary, has been overworked in responding to sudden calls for ministration. One undertaker was compelled to call on him for three funeral services last week. On Friday two funerals occurred, and with Mr. Bond in charge of one, the undertaker handling the other had difficulty in securing some one to conduct the service. He finally obtained the services of a layman, Former City Clerk O. B. Leonard, who is an elder of the First Baptist church.

It is said that the majority of the churches make no provision for ministerial services while the pastors are away, and that the congregations and "worldly" folk with evangelical sympathies find it hard to secure ministration when a death in the family occurs or there is a baby to be baptized or a couple to be married. To avoid such a condition the late Rev. Dr. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, could not go on his vacation in August.

"It is time this condition of affairs was changed," said a prominent church member, deacon of one of the most active congregations in the city, this morning. "It leads not only to criticism among the church members but furnishes those not in sympathy with the churches to say caustic and sneering things of the Christian body. Steps should be taken to prevent the recurrence of such a state of affairs. I would suggest that four of the ministers agree to stay in the city during August, taking their vacations in July. These four could take the August vacation the next year, another quartette going away in July."

WOMAN'S NOSE BROKEN,

Thrown From Wheel By Collision With Another Bicyclist.

While riding by bicycle on New Brunswick avenue, at Perth Amboy, last night, Mrs. Nels Lindeberg, Jr., of 46 New Brunswick avenue, collided with Joseph Mergurio, of 2 Ogden place, who was riding a wheel in the opposite direction. Mrs. Lindeberg was thrown to the pavement, falling upon her face. Her nose was broken and she has a light concussion of the brain.

After remaining unconscious until this morning, she rallied and it is thought she will recover, although her injuries are considered serious.

Carriage Wrecks Wheel.

A depot wagon owned by Adam Blair, a liveryman, ran into a bicycle ridden by Philip Kirch, 14 years old at Park avenue and Fourth street, shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. The boy was thrown clear of the wheels and escaped injury, but his bicycle was badly smashed.

Dog Catcher Nipped.

"Conjunction" Jones, one of Dog-Catcher Jim Babbitt's assistants, was bitten by a dog he captured this morning. He had the wound cauterized.

PRAISE STATE EXHIBIT

Jersey's Showing at Jamestown Awakens Favorable Comment.

MANY VIEWS SHOWN

Exhibit To Be Moved to Capitol Museum After the Exposition—Belongs Mostly to the State.

Trenton, Aug. 21.—Since his return to Trenton, Francis B. Lee, who is in charge of the New Jersey Historical Exhibit at the Jamestown Tercentennial, has been in receipt of much favorable comment from exposition officers and the Virginia newspaper press concerning the exhibit. While Mr. Lee was among the late arrivals, and had to confront the problems of inefficient local labor and intense humidity, he reported the exhibit as being ready before the History Building was open to the public.

In accomplishing this end, he was assisted by the curator, Miss Cornelia Lewis White, of Eastontown, Monmouth county, and two prominent local visitors, Assistant Attorney General Nelson Burr Gaskill and Assistant Prosecutor of the Pleas William R. Piper, who arranged manuscripts undid boxes, tacked burlap and wielded varnish brushes with the skill of veterans.

The New Jersey exhibit is free from overcrowding. Every object is fully described. The trouble involved may be seen by an examination of the twelve hundred pictures contained in the "Postmaster's Collection" of historic post cards and views. The post cards alone were collected, sorted, classified, mounted and described under Mr. Lee's direction, during the past spring and summer.

In the centre of the room are the cases containing firearms and pistols from the collection of the State arsenal and James E. Coombes, of Newark. These guns embrace a period from 1755 to date, and illustrate, by type-development the growth from the flint lock to the latest machine gun.

Wall maps were painted by Captain William E. Pedrick, of this city, and illustrate the location of Indian tribes, the growth of counties, first settlement, revolutionary battle-fields, the appearances of General Washington in New Jersey (1775-1783) and some "first things."

Through the courtesy of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company Mr. Lee obtained a set of photographs illustrating the development of transportation in New Jersey from the days of the Indian pack carrier to the latest type of locomotive and from the Algonkin dug-out canoe to the modern ferryboat. There are views of old Elizabethtown, Jersey City, Trenton, Newark, Camden and many rare maps and in the manuscript department, the original town book of Burlington, loaned by the courtesy of the township authorities.

Mr. Lee having completed his work, has left the collection in the care of the curator, Miss White, who will have charge of the exhibit, until the exposition closes on the first of December. The exhibit will then be removed to the museum of the State Capitol, according to present plans, as, with a few exceptions, the collection belongs to the State.

Reliable Money Lenders

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How

Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

MORAL:—Do likewise and avoid worry. Come in and we will talk it over with you, or drop a postal and a confidential representative will call on you.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of May 26, 1870.

"While some workmen, were engaged in digging for the foundation of the M. E. church, of this city, now undergoing repairs, they came upon the bones of two human beings, both females. In former times the burial ground of the church was in the vicinity where the bones were found, but it becoming necessary, some years hence to remove the remains to a different locality, they were all taken up, it was supposed. The bones found are in all probability those of some parties buried there, and who could not be found at the time of removal. Old residents aver that the remains found are those of a Mrs. Musharoe, a colored woman, and a Mrs. Harrington, whom they say could not be found at the time of the removal of the rest of the bodies."

"DECORATION DAY.—On this sacred day it is earnestly requested that all places of business close at 3 p. m. The line will form on Front street, right resting opposite rooms of Y. M. C. A., on Thursday, 30th inst., at 2:30 p. m., as follows:

"1, band; 2, soldiers; 3, clergy; 4, ladies of decorating committee; 5, crippled soldiers and veterans of 1812; 6, relatives of deceased soldiers whose graves are to be visited; 7, mayor and Common Council; 8, fire department board; 9, firemen; 10, citizens on foot; 11, citizens in carriages.

"Returned soldiers, relatives and friends of deceased soldiers and the clergy are especially invited. And all loyal citizens without regard to political creed or opinion, are cordially requested to participate in the solemn ceremonies.

"Marshall—General N. G. Williams. Aides—William Hand, E. C. Mulford, William Raymond, Colonel Armstrong, Captain Hubbard, Dr. Wells, T. O. Doane. General committee of arrangements—W. E. Langley, T. L. Reed, E. P. Thorn, Col. Case, T. J. Gillies, J. N. Jenkins, J. B. Martin, A. C. Harris, Peter Hoagland. Decorating committee—Captain Hubbard, Col. Armstrong, Dr. Wells, A. F. Campbell. Committee to raise funds—T. J. Gillies, Edward Brown, Colonel McMahon, Wallace Vail, Alfred Berry, Elias Pope, John Roselle, J. F. Layton.

"At eight o'clock in the evening an address will be delivered by the Hon. John Davidson at the Second Presbyterian church. Subject, 'Our Fallen Heroes.' Admission free."

"We learn that on Friday night last, the 'Young Ladies' College' on Seventh street was entered by burglars and robbed of silverware to a considerable amount. A servant girl was aroused from her sleep by noise made in opening her trunk, and upon asking 'who is there,' a pistol was presented at her by the burglar; and she was told that if she made any noise he would shoot her. The girl screamed, however, which awakened the inmates of the house, the burglar making himself scarce with his booty. We also understand that an attempt was made to enter the residence of Mr. Smith, living opposite the college, the same night, but the parties were, by some cause, frightened away."

"A match game of baseball was played May 30, at Scotch Plains, between the 1st nine of Excelsior B. B. C., of Scotch Plains, and 2nd nine of Central B. B. C., of Plainfield. The following is the score:

Store News.

Perhaps you think that since we advertise so generously that we tell you in the papers of all the good things we have to sell; but this is far from true. For instance—think of our Bargain Tables and Booths! Would you believe it? There are twenty special booths in the store and no less than fifty-one aisle tables, not counting our counter squares on which regular goods are sold, and almost all of these booths and tables are devoted to special priced goods, only a few of which are ever advertised.

Don't imagine that you learn of all the good things thru the papers. You must come to the store—and the oftener you come the more you profit.

New Dress Stuffs

We are already making a generous show of foreign and domestic dress fabrics in both black and colors, for autumn and fall wear.

Many of the things we show will be found here only, the makers preferring to confine their product to a house such as this to which people look for exclusive things.

Among the leading fabrics this season are Plain and Fancy Broadcloths, in immensely pleasing stripe and plaid effects.

All Wool Plaids and Checks are much in evidence.

English Worsted Suitings, Panamas and Fancy Serges, in Self-stripe and Checked Effects, as well as Cheviots, Serges and Prunellas, in most fashionable shades, are here in abundance.

This season's colorings are truly delightful as you will agree when you take a look at the stock. We invite you to see the new beauties at your earlist convenience.

Plainfield, N. J., August 21, 1907.

NO SURRENDER.

While the Standard Oil company is keeping its press agent busy circulating a bitter attack on the President of the United States—the best one that ever occupied the office,—and while pirates of finance are doing their level best to brand him as a demagogue, the fearless, strenuous and square-deal Chief Magistrate of the Nation is serving notice on criminal plutocrats that he will pursue them to the bitter end during the remaining eighteen months of his term of office.

Mr. Roosevelt's stirring speech at Provincetown, yesterday, contained these nuggets:

"I want to say as to desirable and undesirable citizens that the same remains true as when the words were spoken. I stand pat."

"Certain socialistic leaders propose to redistribute the world's goods by refusing to thrift and energy and industry their proper supeirority over folly and idleness and sullen envy."

"The rich man who with hard arrogance declines to consider the rights and the needs of those who are less well off, and the poor man who excites or indulges in envy and hatred of those who are better off, are alike alien to the spirit of our national life."

"No individual, no corporation, obeying the law, has anything to fear from this Administration."

"In the last six years we have shown that there is no individual and no corporation so powerful that he or it stands above the possibility of punishment under the law."

"There is, unfortunately, a certain number of our fellow countrymen who seem to accept the view that unless a man can be proved guilty of some particular crime he shall be counted a good citizen, no matter how infamous the life he has led, no matter how pernicious his doctrines of his practices."

"But there is a growing determination that no man shall amass a great fortune by special privilege, by chicanery and wrongdoing, so far as it is in the power of legislation to prevent, and that the fortune when amassed shall not have a business use that is anti-social."

"There is no objection in the minds of this people to any man's earning any amount of money if he does it honestly and fairly, if he gets is as the result of social skill and enterprise as a reward of ample servfee actually rendered."

"Our aim is to help every honest man, every honest corporation, and our policy means in its ultimate analysis a healthy and prosperous expansion of business activities of honest business men and honest corporations."

"I very earnestly hope that the legislation which deals with the regulation of corporations engaged in interstate business will also deal with the rights and interests of the wageworkers employed by those corporations."

"In any great movement, such as that in which we are engaged, nothing is more necessary than sanity, than the refusal to be led into extremes by the advocates of the ultra course on either side."

"There exists no more sordid and unlovely type of social development than a plutocracy, for there is a peculiar unwholesomeness in a social and governmental ideal where wealth by and of itself is held up as the greatest good."

"One of the favorite devices of those who are really striving to prevent the enforcement of these laws is to clamor for action of such severity that it cannot be undertaken because it will be certain to fail if tried."

"We should certainly not adopt any new scheme for grappling with them (new conditions) merely because it is new and untried; but we cannot afford to shrink from grappling with them because they can only be grappled with by some new scheme."

ADMINISTRATION'S POLICIES.

Speaking for the President, the Secretary of War, on Monday night, at Columbus Ohio, outlined the policies of the Administration in this fashion:

"It is not true that the President is engaged in a raid against all corporations. It is not true that he proposes to rip up past transactions when by reason of the injury to innocent purchasers such a course would do more injustice than good."

"His only policy, and sworn duty, is to prosecute, with the fullest vigor, the corporations and individuals whose flagrant violations of the laws make it necessary to do so in order that complete reform may be effected in our business methods with respect to the evils which I have described."

The slump in Wall street prices is not due to the President's policy but if it were, if we must be charged to "violators of the law, whose pursuit of criminal methods has been so successful and so far-reaching as to make their prosecution a serious threat against the stability of the market."

Railroads, through "flagrant violations of law and unjust administration of a "public trust"—not Roosevelt—responsible for restrictive State legislation.

Restraint of unlawful trusts "with all the efficiency of injunctive process" and punishment "with all severity of criminal prosecution."

New amendments to rate bill needed to provide uniform classification; to prevent over-capitalization, holding of stock in competing lines and common directors.

Rate bill and proposed amendments not socialistic, but antidote and preventive of socialism and government ownership.

Opposition to government ownership of railways, based on results where plan prevails, colossal cost of acquirement and danger from reckless executive control.

Approval of revision of certain schedules of present protective tariff law after next Presidential election.

Significance of attitude of National Association of Manufacturers favoring revision of the tariff at earliest possible date; reasons for delay for eighteen months—Prosperity no argument against revision of excessive duties—Relation of tariff to trusts—The principle of relative cost of production at home and abroad.

State legislation to remedy dangers of "swollen fortunes;" federal graduated inheritance tax and similar income tax when government revenues need increase or readjustment.

North Plainfield's township committee owes a debt of gratitude to State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen for his successful efforts in obtaining favorable action on the part of State Road Commissioner Hutchinson on the proposition to macadamize the thoroughfare between Watchung and Warrenville. When Somerset's representative learned that the freeholders wanted the improvement made he lost no time in getting the necessary sanction from Mr. Hutchinson.

Frank Bergen says there is no "water" in the trolley merger. Probably the P. S. C. drained the pond dry long ago.

JOKE NETS STATE $10.37.

Governor Stokes received yesterday a letter from Captain Kimball, of the battleship New Jersey, accompanied by a check for $10.37, with a request that the amount be devoted to some institution or fund in which it would be applied to the care of widows and orphans.

When the State recently presented a silver service to the battleship an inquisitive visitor asked one of the officers for what purpose a small box with a slit on the top was used. He was told lightly that it was for contributions for the widows and orphans' fund. The result was that when the box was opened to take out the wine cards of the officers it was found to contain $10.37, which some of the visitors thought they had been contributing toward a charitable fund.

Not knowing what disposition to make of the money, it was sent to the Governor, that he might devote it to the purpose for which it was supposedly contributed.

in effect, when fifty per cent of the indebtedness had been paid, he would cancel the mortgage, that the debt is now fully paid and that the chattel mortgage should be cancelled. Mr. Greacen has not yet denied this agreement under oath. This may account for the strenuous and unusual efforts being made to make the public think that Mr. Sherwin has been forced out of business. The usual place of ascertaining the truth of a fact is in the courts and not by coercive measures to silence and injure one on the outside.

DISCUSS ANTI-GRADE CROSSING.

State Railroad Commission May Recommend Legislation.

The State Railroad Commission considered yesterday at Trenton plans looking toward the ultimate abolishment of grade crossings throughout the State. The discussion was informal, it having been agreed that final action should be deferred until next week, after all the members had been given an opportunity to express their individual views.

It is the purpose of the commission to recommend the passage of such legislation as will be necessary to carry the anti-grade crossing schemes into effect.

Randolph Perkins' Method.

One of the features of the attempt of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins to secure the nomination for a fourth time may be the rallying to his support of the labor union men. The last issue of the Union Labor Advocate, which is published in this city, refers in a disparaging way to J. Frank Burke, the anti-saloon advocate, and calls attention to the work done by Asemblyman Perkins for the child labor bill, adding, "and don't forget to mention the fact that Assemblyman Perkins was on the job, as he was on other labor measures this and previous years." This may or may not mean, however, that the trade unionists purpose to work for the Union county Assemblyman. So far, anyway, they have shown little interest in the contest.—Elizabeth Journal.

STANDARD OIL'S ATTACK

Trust Issues Statement Declaring President's Action is for Political Effect.

BLOW AT INDUSTRY?

Alleges That Famous Trial Was Gross Injustice—Preface "A Word In Advance."

The directors of the Standard Oil Company have issued a pamphlet of 32 closely printed pages "to its employers and stockholders" as a result of the $29,420,000 fine assessed against the corporation by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, of Chicago, after its conviction on a charge of accepting rebates. While the pamphlet is largely made up of newspaper comments, criticising the great fine, the directors write "A Word in Advance," in which they say:

"The directors of the Standard Oil Company, in printing this pamphlet, desire to emphasize for the half million of people directly interested in its welfare the assurance of the company's absolute innocence of wrongdoing in any of the prosecutions lately instituted against it in the federal courts. Particularly is this so in the recent Chicago and Alton railroad case, made notorious by the sensational fine of $29,240,000 imposed on the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

"It should be known as widely as possible that this is no case of rebate or discrimination, but simply of the legality of a freight rate. It should be known that the verdict was obtained by the government upon the most hair-splitting technicality, aided by the rigorous exclusion of evidence that would have removed all presumption of guilt.

Analysis of Fine.

"If the judgment in question be allowed to stand, the company will be forced to pay $20,000 (that is, fifty times the value of the oil) for every carload carried over the Alton road during two years at an open 6-cent rate—a rate used over three competing railroads for from ten to fourteen years! The trial judge refused to allow proof that the 6 per cent. rate had been filed by the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and was, therefore, a legal rate. He refused to allow proof that linseed oil, for instance, was carried at eight cents, and other bulk commodities as low as five cents. He insisted that eighteen cents was the only legal rate for oil when no one had paid it, and when it was authoritatively sworn that it did not apply to oil.

"The case has been taken on appeal to the higher courts, to which we must look for the calm judgment which will rescue the rights of the citizens from the field of public clamor and from the domain of vindictive politics.

"So persistent and adroit has been the warfare waged with all the overpowering authority of the federal administration against the Standard Oil Company that it has been manifestedly difficult to get a fair hearing before the public or in a large portion of the press, the latter, to its great harm, swayed alike by socialistic outcry from below and political pressure from above.

Attack On the President.

"As proof of the latter it may be noted that in the president's message of May 4, 1906, attack was made on the Standard Oil Company for the purpose of forcing the passage of the bill remitting the duty on denatured alcohol—a measure in which the company was not interested. May 17, 1906, the issue of Commissioner Garfield's report on petroleum transportation, a tissue of old misrepresentations, was timed to influence the Hepburn rate bill then before Congress. May 20, 1907, while Judge Landis had still under consideration the judgment in the Chicago and Alton case, Commissioner Smith' illogical and partisan report on pipe lines was made public. The commissioner's second report on petroleum prices and profits—a wholly false deduction from incomplete facts—was sent in advance to press for publication August 5 in the knowledge that Judge Landis would pronounce judgment August 3. Here surely is evidence of a combination influencing all sources of public opinion, disturbing the orderly dispensation of justice, sanctioning in advance and supporting when made, the most sensational opinions and judgments hostile to the company.

"What motive underlies the campaign of defamation need not here be discussed, but, for all, friends and foes, it is reiterated that the Standard Oil Company is carrying on a widespread business of great moment to the prosperity of the American people in absolute obedience to the soundest principles of business and to the spirit and letter of the law. Attacks upon it of th kind described are aimed at the nation's industrial and mercantile life."

BEGINS MOSQUITO WAR

RED TAPE IN VILLAGES

But Much Has Been Accomplished—More Labor Is Needed—Outlines His Plans.

New Brunswick is the home of the State Entomologist, and most people there had thought that he would look after ridding his own town of the pest before giving relief to the rest of the State, and has was asked to explain. And his reply was promptly made.

"I have never had any very active assistance in Middlesex county in the mosquito work that I have attempted to do," said Professor Smith. "New Brunswick breeds few locals and suffers mostly from specimens that come from the Raritan marshes on the lower reaches of the river. Neither Perth Amboy nor South Amboy have manifested the slightest interest in the subject and the officials have practically ignored all of the communications that I have addressed to them.

"The city of Newark expended a considerable sum of money in working within its own limits; Jersey City paid for all the drainage work done within its borders; the city of Elizabeth paid almost half of the amount required to drain its meadows. I owed it to these municipalities to use the State funds as far as possible to supplement the work done by these cities and to protect them from breeding territory which they did not control and from which they received each summer great swarms of mosquitoes. For that reason work was continued until the Elizabeth marshes were completed, and we have taken up in succession Linden, Carteret, and are getting ready for Woodbridge.

"But I was not unmindful that a good many people live within the range of the Raritan meadows, and I started, as soon as I was certain what funds would be available this year, to get up an interest along this river. Sayreville responded promptly, and all of the salt marsh within that township has been drained. There will be no more mosquitoes from that territory. Raritan has a much larger territory, and by the time that all the red tape was unwound the marshes were full of mosquitoes and mosquito wrigglers. We are now working in Raritan township and expect to get through soon after the beginning of September.

"There will be little relief this year from the work on the Raritan River. The red tape in Woodbridge township has not yet been unwound. It is nearly at an end, but we will not be able to get to work until the last week of the present month at least, and meantime the biggest brood of the season has developed on the meadow, and for the next week or ten days we can expect invasions in New Brunswick, Metuchen and the surrounding country extending up a considerable distance along the Raritan River.

"Very few persons seem to realize the amount of work that has already been accomplished and the amount of work that is required in order to produce a notable impression. If it were merely a question of destroying home breeding the matter would be simple, but these swarms that breed in the salt marshes will fly many miles and infest territories that are absolutely incapable of doing anything to control them.

"It is not generally understood, either, that while there is a nominal appropriation of $350,000 for mosquito work, the actual amount that was made available during the current season is only $23,000. When the amount of work to be done is contemplated and the small amount of money available to do it is considered, I think that the work that we have accomplished during the present season must be accounted very satisfactory.

"Please remember that the mosquitoes have been with us for hundreds of years, and that the mosquito campaign, in its practical form, is less than one year old."

BODY HUNG ON BEDPOST.

Police Hunt for Missing Man Who Knew Woman.

The body of a woman known as Bella Goeber, twenty-five years old, was found hanging from a bedpost on the second floor of No. 27 South Broadway, at Long Branch, yesterday. The police say that all they have so far been able to learn about the woman was that she lived with a man who called himself Paul Goeber. She had made a rope of a bed sheet and with it hanged herself to the bedpost.

A search is now being made for Goeber, who, it is expected, will be able to throw some light on the affair.

Beauty Barrier to Death.

New York, Aug. 21.—Policeman Smith and two men from the dumping scow, Admiral, who dragged Crad Evans, of Scranton, Pa., out of the water off the Battery yesterday, are certain that the man would have drowned himself if he had not seen a pretty girl a moment before he leaped into the bay. They say her beauty changed his idea about ending his life, and that instead of permitting himself to sink he determined to battle again with life.

PASTOR SLEPT ON HATS AT WEDDING, 'TIS SAID

RESIGNS, BUT PROSPECTIVE DEPARTURE DOES NOT DAMPEN HIS ENTHUSIASM.

New York.—Rev. Dr. Albert P. Krause, pastor of the German Lutheran church of Stapleton, S. I., sat in the center of a bevy of stout matrons in the basement of the Sunday school building the other afternoon eating ice cream and cake and drinking lemonade.

Rev. Dr. Krause has tendered his resignation under pressure, and it has been accepted, and the men and the severer sisters only await the acceptance by another pastor of a call to the church.

Rev. Dr. Krause looks like the pictures one sees of German abbots. Fourteen years ago Dr. Krause took charge of the church in Stapleton. He was professor of theology, Latin and

Greek in Wagner Institute, Rochester, N. Y., at the time he accepted the call, and was accounted a man of superior attainments. He was educated in the University of Leipsic, and had a ministerial charge before he came to this country.

By and by the townspeople whispered that the good pastor was a trifle too convivial. When they spoke with him about it he pointed out St. Paul's dictum about the small drop for the stomach's sake.

Then there came the Uhl-Ullman marriage in Stapleton a little over two years ago. Uhl, a millionaire London hotel keeper, married the daughter of a wealthy Staten Island family. The festivities following the wedding were participated in by a large company of German singers from near and far, and wine and beer flowed freely.

Early in the morning, when the guests thought of departing, they found that 16 of their silk hats had been converted into crush hats by the simple process of using them as a bed.

Krause admitted that he had been aweary and laid him down, but not on the hats. Some more things were said, and Rev. Dr. Krause departed feeling hurt.

That started it. The resignation ended it.

LATEST NATURE STUDY.

Cat Fondles a Rattlesnake Until Endearments Cause a Fight.

Tulsa, I. T.—The following story is not told by Rev. Long, Jack London, Mr. Roosevelt or others who have written nature studies, but by Dr. McConnell, of Tulsa, who knows snakes and cats when he sees them.

Dr. McConnell was sitting on his porch when he saw a cat coming up the lawn dragging a rattlesnake about three feet long.

The cat had the snake by the nape of the neck, if it had such a thing, and apparently was experiencing no trouble in "toting" its load.

The feline carried his snakeship under the porch, and there for 15 minutes she lovingly fondled it with her paws. Dr. McConnell called the members of Dr. Harrison's family to watch the performance.

Finally a disagreement arose, and the serpent was seen to strike wickedly at the cat. Tabby liked this phase of the situation fully as well as the amorous stunts, and fought back with zest.

The snake and the cat kept the duel up for probably five minutes, when the spectators thought it was time to interfere, and the snake was killed.

The cat was bitten in a dozen places, but the bites had no effect other than to ruffle her fur.

The snake had a number of deep scratches on its body. Fourteen rattles and a button were taken from its tail.

Victims.

The inflow of new shades suddenly rose to the proportion of a crash. Such a jam was there at the entrance that a panic was narrowly averted by reason of souls getting the notion that it was Brooklyn they were going to instead of Hades.

Indeed, this colloquy was to be heard on every hand:

"Glad to know you. What sent you here?"

"The auto da fe. And you?"

"The auto mo bile."—N. Y. World.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

But One of the Mourners for Great Man Had Solace.

The great man lay dead. The newspapers rang with his praises and men passed them from mouth to mouth; a gloom hung over the community, and the child, his friend, wept bitterly. The busy man said, "I saw him on the street not long ago, and he looked ill and downhearted. I wish I'd crossed over to speak to him, but I was just hurrying for my train. He was a good friend of mine, and I might have cheered him up a bit and told him how we missed him everywhere. It's too bad, too bad!" The thoughtless man said, "I can never forgive myself. I knew he was sick for a week, but I had this great meeting to arrange for, and it just slipped my mind. He stood by me nobly when I was in trouble years ago. I can never forgive myself." The child pressed a tear-stained face against the window. "Why did you want so much to take him that flower last Sunday?" asked her mother. "Because I loved him," said the child, simply. She was watching the wonderful array of flowers, which men had sent, as they were carried into the church. "O, mother, see how beautiful they are! I wish I could go with you to the church; but I suppose I might disturb people by crying. And anyway," she added, "I don't mind so much, you see; for I've given him my flower. He had that to enjoy."—Youth's Companion.

THE DIET OF CONSUMPTIVES.

Overfeeding Recommended, But Proper Digestion Must Be Assured.

Herbert C. Clapp, of Boston, writing in the Medical Record, says that diet is a most important factor in the treatment of tuberculosis. A consumptive is much more likely to eat too little than too much. Systematic overfeeding with proper digestion of the food are the accepted remedies. The food must be palatable and well served and the amount must vary with the patient and his circumstances. The outdoor air will enable him to assimilate large amounts. Milk and eggs are the best foods to produce fats, which are most necessary to the patient. The author advocates three solid meals a day, with lunches between of milk and eggs, about three quarts of milk and six eggs a day being taken. Fresh meats are especially necessary for these patients, but a mixed diet is undobtedly the best borne. Meat juice is valuable. Pastry, candy, fried foods and cabbage should be let alone. Alcohol is not advisable, but coffee, tea and chocolate may be taken moderately.

Value of the Thumb.

"Solomon says thumbs up," because the thumb is said to be worth fully one-third the entire value of the hand. The different fingers are far from having all the same value before the eyes of the law. Much the most important among them is the thumb, for without it the hand no longer is a pincers, but merely a claw. The French court allows in damages 15 to 35 per cent. value for the right thumb and 10 to 15 per cent. for the left thumb. The Austrian schedule gives from 15 per cent. for the left to 35 per cent. for the right. In Germany 20 to 28 per cent., and even as high as 33.3 per cent. has been awarded. The percentage is based on 100 as the total value of the hand, industriously speaking, before the accident.

Worship of Snakes.

Snakes, the objects of terror to most Europeans in eastern lands, are worshiped in many parts of India. In some districts there are from 15,000 to 20,000 shrines dedicated exclusively to the worship of snakes. These shrines, which are invariably in honor of one of the minor divinities of the country, possess, in some instances valuable properties for their maintenance and for the cost of the numerous ceremonies which their keepers have to perform. In these shrines the Hindus set up fantastic idols of serpents. The devotees of this strange religion make periodical offerings of dough and milk and cooked rice to the serpents living in the shrine in order to receive their favor.—Detroit News-Tribune.

A "Too Fat" Hint.

If you have afternoon tea with a friend and she serves only one lump of sugar to a cup pretend it's all the same to you; that is, unless you want her to know that you see she is hinting that you are taking on that arch enemy of womankind—flesh. King Edward took that way of showing the duchess of Roxburghe, the once stylish-like Miss Goelett, that she was guilty of acquiring too many pounds, and that the libelous term "fat" soon might be applied to her if she did not accept advice concerning her diet.

Winded.

"Good morning, Mrs. Miggins, I was just coming to see you. We want an organ blower at the church and I thought the post might suit your son, John." "Lord bless yer, sir, 'e wouldn't do for it, I know, 'cos his lungs ain't strong enough. He ain't got no more puff than a broken bellows."—Ally Sloper.

A Hopeful Future.

"Our boy Josh don't seem to be satisfied with anything around the place," said Mrs. Corntossel regretfully. "Let him alone," answered her husband. "Mebbe it's a good sign. You can't tell but what he'll grow up to be one o' these reformers that cause a sensation in politics."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Announcement is made by Manager Counihan that Tom Waters will appear at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday, August 30, in "The Mayor of Laughland." This season, under the direction of Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman, Mr. Waters finds himself at the head of a large and talented company, and with an equipment of scenery and costumes that any star might be proud of. As may easily be guessed "Laughland" is constructed solely for comedy purposes. It hasn't a dull moment from start to finish, and if the newspaper notices from nearby cities may be believed, is one of the brightest, snappiest shows now before the public. There is a numerous chorus of pretty girls who find ample opportunity to display a great array of handsome costumes.

With a record of nearly twenty musical plays to his credit, Victor Herbert stands today as not only the most successful but the most prolific composer in America, whose every effort has developed not only an artistic but a financial success and who has done more to elevate musical plays to a scale of refinement, than any living writer and whose compositions can be found in the music rooms of the civilized world.

The latest of Mr. Herbert's comic operas, "The Red Mill," which is to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre, on Wednesday, Aug. 28, by Charles Dillingham's Company, has been considered his greatest popular hit. It was produced at the Knickerbocker theatre, New York city, last season where it remained the entire yeart and so great was the demand to see it that seats were placed on sale for the entire season, so as to try and stop the traffic of the speculators. The book and lyrics of "The Red Mill" are by Henry Blossom, who will be readily recalled as the author of "Mlle. Modiste," "The Yankee Consul," "Checkers," and other famous hits.

The screaming farce, "McFadden's Flats," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday afternoon and night. It will be presented by a big company of singers, dancers and comedians, while a carload of scenic and musical effects will set off the acts.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Many shoe repairers make shoes smaller when you take them to be tapped. George Stagaard, the Church street shoemaker, keeps the shoe the same size in repairing it. Try him.

There are some choice properties and houses to be disposed of in this city by M. F. Gano, whose real estate office is on North avenue. The house you want may be for sale through him.

Before you award your contract, let Titus H. Laury, the East Front street mason, look over the plans of your building. He will give a figure for the job that will be cheapest, because it will be best work.

A. H. Throne, of East Fifth street, has gone to York, Pa., to spend a two weeks' vacation with his parents.

Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur returned yesterday afternoon to Lake Hopatcong after spending several days in town on business.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Plainfield.

No woman can be eaithy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Plainfield woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, of 63 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "My kidneys were diseased for years and I also had trouble with my heart. I have endured the severe torture of a backache that comes from diseased conditions of the kidneys and likewise that heavy dull aches in the head. Many nights I have been unable to rest at all, and when I awoke in the morning my limbs would be so stiff and sore that I would be obliged to slide out of bed. When I caught cold it always settled on the kidneys and any little strain or over-exertion that involved the muscles of my back would cause intense pains. I have doctored with physicians at Washington, D. C., and here at Plainfield, but none of their medicines ever did me the good that I got from Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's pharmacy. This remedy went right to the seat of the trouble, dispelled the pains and aches, corrected the kidney derangement and made me feel like a different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Ned Wentworth's Likeness

By HELEN DICKENSON.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

He was waiting patiently. The expression on his face was anxious, rather than careless. His eyes were fixed on the girl near him, as though trying to read the thoughts that were framing in her mind.

"Well, Alice, aren't you ever going to tell me what you think of it? Is it good,—or bad; or, is it both? Suspense is wearing you know, and man's patience limited."

"The photo sets my thoughts to wandering, Ned, but I will reward your patience and suspense. That picture is as near perfect as anything of its nature I have ever seen. It really could not be more life-like, and be inanimate."

She spoke the words slowly and deliberately, as though thinking as she went. The words were all he could have expected, yet something in their tone suggested a vague feeling of disappointment. There was in them, as though unconscious of its presence, a smothered note of sadness, and it was this that made the man ask—

"Does that quite cover it?"

"No, not quite, Ned. It is the picture of a real man, alive, fearless, honorable. The jaw is strong and firm; mouth, tender and human; the nose has the clear-cut lines of an Apollo, and the eyes—they are beautiful. Their depths are deep, deep, down, and their ring is true. The high, broad forehead stands out boldly in its might of fulness and intellect. There is forcefullness, daring, and withal, a gleam of kindness about the face, to which one would never appeal in vain. It is the face of a man from whom we should expect big things, high ideals and a character above reproach. I have been reading the face in the picture, Ned, and it is all I have said. Is it enough?"

A glance at the man's face, looking into hers, must have shown her that it was indeed enough. With her description of each feature, the expression on the face had brightened, and when she finished, none could deny, least of all herself, that she had said one word too much. It was the face in the picture, with the additional coloring and beauty of life.

The words set his heart to pounding. The warm blood mounted to his brow, and the joy of living and breathing brought a radiant sparkle to his serious gray eyes. Yes, indeed, it was the face in the picture.

"Alice Hamilton," he said playfully, "I would never have accused you of flattery. Is this your first offense? Tell me, Alice, do you really think I am the embodiment of what you read in that face?"

The quiet seconds hurried onward. At last, raising her eyes, until they looked straight into his, she said:

"No, Ned, I not only don't think you are what that picture says you are, but I know you are not."

"How can I be so different from my own likeness, Alice? Be serious, won't you?"

"Do you want me to be honest, Ned? I am afraid if I am it will hurt, and you can't stand hurts very well. Don't ask me to play the surgeon, unless you are prepared for the keen edge of the knife."

"I am afraid I shall have to ask you to perform it just the same. What is there about me that makes my photograph so much a counterfeit?"

"Well, I will tell you, Ned. It is another instance where all that glitters is not gold. Instead of the strength one expects to find, they find, not a weakness, but only a strength for that which is wrong. A stubborn, obstinate resistance to any condition or influence that shows you are wrong. I have sometimes wondered if there was ever another, who could manipulate his conscience so skillfully as you do. You can always reason yourself into making it approve, when if you would only stop, and listen, you could hear the inner voice trying to reason you into recognizing the right from the wrong. You admire lofty ideals, especially when personified in men, but that is not the type of man you seek. No, rather the reverse, and oh, it is so easy for you to pat yourself on the back and say, 'Well, anyone would have done it. I can't make conditions, and after all, it is just as people look at things.' You are a giant in intellect. You could think great things, but you could not accomplish them. Before your thought grew cold you would decide it would entail too much bother. You are kind enough, but even that resolves itself into unkindness. If anyone appealed to your sympathies, a woman especially, there is nothing you would refrain from doing for her, and there, again you would lose sight of that delicate dividing line, between chivalry and honor. I know you so well, Ned. Forgive me for saying these things. They do hurt; I knew they would, but you wanted the truth. I have tried to be fair, but I can't help seeing you as you are, can I?"

The gladsome curves, the radiance and sparkle were all gone now, and the little straight lines were but the outward semblance of the inner hurt.

"Are there no offsets to these detestable things, Alice? Is there nothing in me that counts?"

"There are hosts of things that count, Ned. You may be as good as the majority, but you could be away ahead of them if you would only be honest with yourself. If you would stop trying to make things that are wrong, seem right. If you would only use a little of your granite will and determination in pursuance of things worth while, instead of following some phantom success that can't do otherwise than ultimately accomplish your ruin. And the greater the talent a man has, the harder it is to forgive his abuse of it."

Ned laughed a hard little laugh.

"Thank heaven, I have some brains. There doesn't seem much else to congratulate myself over."

In her keen desire to awaken this man to a realization of the pitiful waste he was making of the great gifts with which nature had endowed him Alice Hamilton had arraigned him with all the severity she could muster, and she had lost sight of the fact, notwithstanding it might all be true, that Ned Wentworth had a sense of feeling equally as susceptible as her own, and the hardest part of the hurt was the knowledge that she had given him her own estimate of his character.

She was not slow to realize this, as she caught the expression on his face, and knew that her words had brought it there. Then she did—just what a generous-hearted, impulsive, flesh and blood girl would want to do, try to take back the words her earnestness had led her into saying.

"Don't pay any attention to me, Ned. I did not think it would matter quite so much, and what right have I to pass judgment on you, anyway. Just forget all those abominable things, will you, and remember I said you were good and kind, and that you had ten times as many brains as half the men with whom we associate. I do know that, and so does anyone else who knows you."

In her endeavor to impress upon him her sincerity, she came close to him, and let her hand fall upon his shoulder. It was the one action that his equilibrium could not coolly withstand just then. He drew the girl to him, almost roughly, and with an expression she had never before seen on his face, he said:

"It would not matter so much, Alice, if the things you have told me were not all true. But they are. You know it, and so do I."

"But, Ned, you don't need to keep on letting them be true, do you?"

"Well, it is a mighty hard task for a man to mould himself all over again, and you are the only person on this earth for whom I would care to try. Alice, Girl, if I undertake it, will you help me?" And the answer was:

"Ned, that is why I told you,—because I wanted to help you."

MEAN TRICK OF COLLECTOR.

Unfortunate Debtor Not Even Safe In Sacred Edifice.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the noted explorer, was talking in New York about his idea of trying to reach the South Pole with automobiles.

"Polar exploring in automobiles seems a very radical innovation, almost a shocking innovation, doesn't it?" he said. "It seems almost as shocking as the innovation that was employed one Sunday night upon a Brooklyn doctor. The doctor was in church. He occupied a front pew. The church was crowded, the preacher preaching eloquently; a perfect silence reigned. But suddenly a man dashed in at the door. He held up his hand for the preacher to pause. Then he cried:

"'Is Dr. Henry Smith here?'

"With all eyes centered upon him, Dr. Henry Smith rose slowly in his front seat and turned round.

"'What is wanted?' he said. He had the grave, weary air of a man who is almost overburdened with the responsibilities heaped upon him.

"'Are you Dr. Henry Smith?'

"'I am.'

"'Well, doctor, I am Cache & Co.'s new collector. When will it be convenient for you to settle that little account of theirs?'"

TOO ALL-FIRED GENEROUS.

Traveler Unable to Appreciate Alkali Ike's Generosity.

A railroad reporter declared in Upton Sinclair's hearing that freight rebates were sometimes granted purely out of generosity.

Mr. Sinclair, laughing, exclaimed:

"Admit that to be true, and then your generosity is no better timed than Alkali Ike's. A traveler arrived late one night at the Palace hotel in Tin Can, and, being very tired, he ordered his dinner to be served in his room. As he was peacefully eating his bear steak, he heard a loud noise downstairs, a bang, an oath, two quick crashes, and then a bullet shot up through the floor and wounded the traveler in the leg. Putting down his knife and fork, he rose and began to hop about the room with loud groans. Suddenly the landlord burst in on him.

"'Whar did that thar bullet go to?' the landlord exclaimed, laughing. 'Oh, air ye hurt, stranger? Well, now, that's too bad! Ye see, Alkali Ike and Redface Leary had an argyment over their liquor down in the bar, and fit it out fair and square. Redface fired fust and missed, and Ike—the all-fired generous cuss!—he fired in the air.'"

Standardized Sausages.

There is nothing to be said against a well-made sausage which is prepared with sound meat. On the contrary, it affords a valuable, convenient and appetizing food, and that being so, the sausage should be standardized so as to prevent its being loaded with a cheap substitute which is nearly always bread or broken and waste biscuits.—London Lancet.

THE LOVER AND THE HUSBAND

By WINIFRED GRAHAM.

Behold a man and a woman. A pathway white with the milky pallor of the moon. Shadows lurking on every side, emblematical of their two lives.

Lovers. Oh, yes—or why was her cheek stained red as the roses sleeping within reach of her fingers, which were locked in the man's palm? He tried to speak, but his voice was choked by emotion. This was their good-by.

The woman raised her eyes, her lips and the anguish of parting was forgotten in the ecstasy of a long embrace.

"I shall remember," she whispered; "always! You and I have been more than all the world to each other—you and I!"

These three words were repeated in lingering accents that faltered and ended in a sigh.

"Stay," he answered, passionately. "Life is only an hour; take all that it can give while love is in your soul. To-morrow the summer may be over, the flowers will shrivel up and we shall be old."

Yet, good or evil, he loved her, and the fragrance of the summer night was creeping into his very being; everything spoke of hitherto undreamed possibilities.

"Why must you go?" he asked, fiercely. "You have no tie in New York! Your home? Bah! What is a woman's home before she marries? Stay and be my wife."

The woman withdrew her fingers and passed them over her brow.

The grass was wet with dew, and there were drops of agony upon her forehead.

One word broke hoarsely from her lips: "No!"

"If you love me, why in the name of—"

But she clasped her hands, entreating silence.

"Ask no explanations. Would that I had never come here to lose my soul in yours. I return to-morrow; it is inevitable—I have two things to seek. Heaven only knows if I shall find them."

"What?" he questioned.

"Rest and repentance!"

As she spoke she broke away, rushed wildly on till the shadows hid her white-gowned figure and she was lost in mystery.

He only treasured a few parched rose leaves and her address in New York city.

But the fire of love burned still in his soul, and at last he wrote to the woman who had said "No."

"I must follow you"—he penned the lines feverishly—"to your home, dearest, and plead again for the love you once gave and afterward denied. Remember your own words: 'We have been all the world to each other—you and I.' Telegraph me the single syllable, 'Come,' and as fast as the cars will bring me I will come to kneel at your feet."

A woman was lying dead, with roses white and yellow in her hands. She was beautiful in death as in life. She had found what she sought—rest and repentance!

Beside her still image sat her husband, his head bent and one hand stretched across his face, hiding the awful expression thereon. But the veins on that sinewy hand seemed bursting through the flesh, while his parted lips were dry and bloodless.

Between his trembling fingers he held a letter, addressed to his dead wife in her maiden name. He had only just opened it.

The morning's mail made the cold form of marble beauty horrible in his eyes. Vengeance was turning his soul to gall, mingled with the intense jealousy of the bereaved.

"He shall follow her to her home," he muttered, crumpling her lover's letter with suppressed passion.

Then he wrote the telegram: "Come."

Two men stood face to face. A lover and a husband.

One with hope in his heart, the other maddened by his wrongs.

"You have come for my wife," he said slowly. "She is not here, but you shall go to her."

The lover staggered back and fell heavily with a groan to the earth.

Only a cloud of smoke rose between his body and the woman's husband.

No horror crept through the murderer's veins.

"They are together now," he said, "in the land of falsehood and treachery. Let them love there if they can."

Two days later the police received a detailed account of the crime, written by the slayer's hand, telling them where to find the murdered man.

"You need not seek for me," he wrote, in conclusion. "I have gone where no one will discover me. Justice has been done, and that is enough—"

Here the writing ceased abruptly, and the two men the woman had deceived were buried in oblivion.

By No Means.

Because beauty is only skin deep it is not necessary to believe that every pretty woman is shallow.

DIVER'S DAUGHTER FOLLOWS CALLING

DETROIT GIRL IS LAYING UP WEALTH THROUGH HAZARDOUS PROFESSION.

MISS BAKER'S FIRST DESCENT

Recovered Diamond Ring from Wrecked Steamer and Was Later Presented with It as Reward—Undaunted by Pain.

Detroit.—Detroit's girl diver, Miss Frances Baker, is regarded as a protege by all the sailors of the great lakes. She is 21 years of age, and has laid up a comfortable bank account by following her hazardous calling. Her first professional work was when she raised $20,000 worth of copper from the ship of W. H. Stevens, which sank in 80 feet of water in Lake Erie several years ago.

Miss Baker's father, Capt. W. H. Baker, was a captain of divers, and from the first time she was allowed to go down to the river alone, she used to watch her father's wrecking ship leave the dock and long to go with him. The ambition to become a diver matured in her as she grew older, and she deplored the fate which had condemned her to be a girl.

At last her desire to become a diver overcame the objections of her friends and she began making wrecking trips with her father, and soon became his inseparable companion. She made a study of every part of the machinery connected in any way with diving, and in time learned to command the wrecking boat with great skill and assurance.

Her first descent was in Lake Huron, where a big wooden barge had gone down, and before the wrecking steamer had reached the spot where the barge had sunk, the owner spoke to Miss Baker, regretting the loss of a diamond ring which was in the cabin.

In describing the sensations of the initial trip she said that the feeling at the outset was as if some great creature with a thousand arms was pressing her gently but firmly on all sides, and as if in a few minutes her breath would be cut off entirely, but she was far from frightened and continued her descent until the shadow of the sunken barge loomed up before her. She had a strange feeling of buoyancy, and the 20 pounds of lead attached to her feet seemed no heavier than leather soles as she followed her companion to the walls of the sunken ship and with his aid climbed over them.

At this point she experienced severe pains in her head and felt as if her nose were going to bleed, but, still undaunted, she reached the cabin of the barge, where she entered and with the aid of the electric light at her belt sought out the corner of the cabin which contained a small stand, upon which was a tiny box containing the much desired diamond ring.

In her haste to reach it she stumbled and fell, and for the moment was consumed by a terrible fear, as the pressure of the water, together with breathing the compressed air, had now become almost overpowering; but she quickly gained her self control, and with the box in her hand returned to the deck of the wrecker.

As a reward for this exploit Miss Baker was presented with the diamond ring she had recovered, and it is now in her possession.

The ring marked the beginning of her fortune, as she had proved that she could live under the water, and to be able to do this means that a person is worth anywhere from $50 to $200 a day to a wrecking company. As 99 out of every 100 men who descend into the waters of the lakes will in a few minutes begin to suffer from bleeding at the nose, head-splitting pains and suffocation, that is why all good divers from one end of the great lakes to the other may be counted on one's fingers and toes.

Miss Baker now began following up her adventure with practical work, and she early discovered the fact that she was fitted for a captain of divers instead of a diver alone, as the location of the lost copper ship which has been searched for for years has proven.

Moors Routed.

Casablanca, Aug. 21.—The Arabs have made another attack upon the French force under General Drude encamped outside this town, but they were routed with very heavy losses. A general uprising of the natives is expected. The European residents of the coast towns as well as those who live at Fez, Morocco City and other places in the interior are leaving their homes and seeking safety in flight. Undeterred by their great losses Monday, estimated by Hebrew couriers at two thousand dead, the Moors again advanced yesterday morning in a great semi-circle with the evident intention of trying to envelop the city. The guns of the warships began bombarding the advancing tribesmen.

"CENTRAL PARK"

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

FALL DOWN STAIRS MAY PROVE FATAL

MRS. MURRAY SEVERELY HURT AT DAUGHTER'S HOME.

Mrs. Bridget Murray, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. William Smith, of Spooner avenue and Essex street, received severe and perhaps fatal injuries by a fall down stairs at her home yesterday. She went down the entire flight and was picked up in an unconscious condition. Dr. Cregar, who was called, found her suffering from concussion of the brain and a severe scalp wound. Seventeen stitches were required to close the latter.

Mrs. Murray was resting easily this morning but owing to her advanced age the outcome of her injuries is still in doubt.

Deals Blow to Ice Man.

Rhinelander, Wis., Aug. 21.—J. M. Darrow, connected with the paper mills here, declares he has discovered in a waste product of the mills a preparation which will preserve ice indefinitely. The compound, it is said, can be manufactured at a cost of 47 cents for 1,000 gallons. Housekeepers with this preparation in hand can buy a cake of ice, coat it and have no need to trouble the ice man again all summer.

Essex Executive Committee Postpones Further Action.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Essex County Committee of the League for Equal Taxation and Limited Franchises, held in Newark last night, Alden Freeman and the speech he made last week were alike repudiated by the league. Further action was postponed until next week, when Senator Colby, who arrives in New York today on the Oceanic, will be present.

The league contemplates taking such action as will prevent the further spread of the opinion that Mr. Freeman and the Independent Republican party of Essex is now identified with the New Idea Republicans as the Colby followers are called. They are separate movements, with widely different purposes.

CHILDS WOULD ACCEPT

Former Senator from Somerset Wants the Nomination for Governor.

PREPARING A LETTER

Would Become Democratic Standard Bearer If He Is Asked Unconditionally.

In response to requests from Independent Democrats of his own and other counties, Samuel Shannon Childs, former State Senator from Somerset county, and head of the Childs' restaurant system, has announced that he would permit the use of his name as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and would accept the nomination if it was offered to him by the State convention under certain conditions.

These conditions provide that the extension of the nomination is to leave him free from any and all boss rule and corporation entanglements, that the platform adopted by the convention must be one yhich fairly and frankly meets current live issues, and that he will not make any pledges concerning appointments, or his official conduct that will prevent him, in case of his nomination and election, from giving the State an honest, square, business administration.

Mr. Childs is now preparing a letter that will be sent in a day or two to the chairman of the Somerset county Democratic committee, which recently endorsed him for the nomination. In this letter he will formally announce his attitude concerning the nomination along the lines above stated.

In his country home at Bernardsville, last night, Mr. Childs frankly discussed his candidacy and the political situation and issues of the day.

"I am not a politician," he said, "and politics of the sort we have had in New Jersey for many years is not attractive to me. The Republican party, in New Jersey and elsewhere, has, I believe, been delivered almost bodily into the care, custody and control of a small clique of financial interests and financiers, who are using it for their own advantage. To a somewhat lesser extent, possibly, the Democratic party has fallen into the same rut. At least, many of its leaders have gone far astray from the old ideas of Democracy, in which I am a firm believer, and have used the party organization too much in the interests of the same men and combinations which are given solace, comfort and support by the Republican machine.

"My candidacy has not been suggested by any of the so-called bosses, but I have been urged by many honest, independent Democrats opposed to past and some of the present methods to enter the field as the representative of the policies and ideas for which they are ready to contend. I cannot agree to go into the 'game' of manipulating primaries and buying delegates, but if the voters of the Democratic party want a plain business man, who believes in the good old-fashioned Democratic ideas of getting down close to the people and consulting the public good to represent them as their candidate, I am ready to take the nomination and do what I can to be elected. And if the people of New Jersey want such a man for governor and choose to elect me, I will promise to do my conscientious best to give them an honest, straightforward business administration—an administration that will attempt to do the business of the State in the most careful manner, and will give everybody, rich and poor, great and small alike, the same impartial consideration and the same fair dealing."

Fireman Emmons Resigns.

Another name was added to the list of borough firemen who have resigned from the department when Fireman Fred Emmons, who has been acting as driver for the company, quit the job Tuesday. Emmons has been on duty as regular at headquarters for about a year, but suddenly decided to leave the job this week, without proposing his resignation to the borough council. Mayor N. B. Smalley has assigned Callman Patrick McDonough to the duties at headquarters, pending the appointment of Emmons' successor.

Wooden Estate Corner Sold.

Daley Brothers, the West Front street grocers, have purchased through George F. Brown, agent, the corner lot of the Peter Wooden estate at Somerset street and Somerset place. They will probably erect a large building in the spring, containing a store on the first floor and flats above.

—Frank W. Weed and family have moved from 954 West Sixth street to 320 Somerset street.

WASHBOILER UPSETS; WAS TERRIBLY SCALDED

MRS. JAMES CANUZZI VICTIM OF PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

While at work at her home yesterday afternoon, Mrs. James Canuzzi, of Watchung avenue, was horribly scalded by boiling water, as a result of upsetting of a washboiler she was carrying. The accident happened shortly after noon. Mrs. Canuzzi had lifted the washboiler from the stove and was carrying it across to a tub, when she slipped on the wet floor in the kitchen, and the boiling contents of the vessel were thrown over her as she fell. Her screams of pain brought assistance and she was helped to an adjoining room, where Dr. Hughes was summoned.

An examination showed that the woman had been badly scalded about the chest and arms, when the boiling water spilled over her. Cooling lotions were applied, and she was made as comfortable as possible. The burns are not of a serious nature, but she suffers intense pain. She is still under the care of a physician.

FIREMEN FORBIDDEN TO PLAY BALL GAMES

HEADQUARTERS ORDER PUTS A STOP TO ATHELIC ACTIVITIES.

Orders forbidding ball games back of fire headquarters, where the men of the companies stationed at the East Second street house have been in the habit of playing every afternoon, were issued by Chief T. O Doane on Tuesday. The men are grumbling over the order, and one or two of them take a decidedly pessimistic view of the department's future as a result of what they call a curtailment of harmless amusement.

The announced reason for the order is that the games drew too many undesirable outsiders to the premises, and gave the yard and the engine house a rowdy appearance. It is said, however, that windows of places about the yard have been broken, and complaints of that and of the noisy disputes and rooting had a good bit to do with the order. The men maintain that the games were orderly, that only one or two windows have been broken and that the broken panes have been promptly replaced. They say the order was unnecessary, and that discipline and their work are more apt to suffer as a result of it than from a continuance of the games. They feel particularly sore, because they spent a lot of time and some money early in the season clearing out the yard, levelling it and putting high nets over the fences.

ATTEND BANTA FUNERAL.

Plainfielders Who Knew Paterson Doctor Attending the Obsequies.

Dr. John H. Banta, of Paterson, who died at his home in Paterson Tuesday of pleurisy that resulted from the breaking of two ribs last June, was a schoolmate of Robert M. Meeker, State supervisor of roads. Mrs. Meeker and Mrs. A. L. Force, who knew Dr. Banta well, are attending the funeral today.

Dr. Banta was injured in an altercation with a boarding house keeper, who complained that his terrier dog had attacked her niece. In the dispute Dr. Banta was pushed from his porch.

Highwayman Foiled.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 22.—William H. Hicks, twenty-six years old, was held up, shot and robbed yesterday afternoon by three highwaymen, one of whom fled with his grip containing $6,000. The man with the grip was arrested after a desperate fight and the money was recovered. Mr. Hicks was taken to the Episcopal Hospital, suffering from a bullet wound in the arm. The injury is not serious. Mr. Hicks, accompanied by Walter T. McDonald, a purchasing agent for a mill, was on his way to pay off employes.

Driving Trip to Whitehouse.

Fire Chief Howard Woolston, of the borough department, his wife and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. George Bird have returned from a driving trip to Whitehouse, where they have been spending the past three days. They report crops excellent and the chances for peaches about even.

Former Plainfielders Abroad.

Harry J. McCormick, formerly of this city, is travelling in southern Ireland. His wife, formerly Miss Nellie Van Winkle, has gone abroad to join him. The two will make their home in Cheltenham, where Mr. McCormick has been living for some time.

DELEGATES APPORTIONED

Strength of Plainfield's Representation at Republican Convention.

ELIZABETH'S BIG STRIDE

County Seat Has Sixty Delegates With a Say In Union Nominations—State Delegations Much Smaller.

Apportionment of the delegates from the different voting districts of the county, to the State and county conventions has been arranged by the Republican County Committee. The county convention will be held at Elizabeth, Thursday, September 12. It will take place in Turn Hall, opening at 3 o'clock. The nominations to be made are for surrogate, three assemblymen and a coroner.

First ward—First district, 4; second district, 2. Second ward—First district, 4; Second district, 2; Third ward—First district, 4; Second district, 2. Fourth ward—First district, 3; Second district, 3; Third district, 3.

Elizabeth will have 62 delegates; Rahway 16; Summit, 8; Cranford township, 5; Westfield, 8; Union township, 3; Clark township, 1; Fanwood township, 2; Linden township, 1; New Providence township, 1; Springfield township, 1; Fanwood borough, 1; Garwood borough, 1; Linden borough, 1; Mountainside borough, 1; New Providence borough, 1; Roselle borough, 3; Roselle Park borough, 2; Kenilworth borough, 1.

The representation at the State convention will naturally be considerably less than at the county convention. Plainfield's votes at the State convention will be as follows: First ward—First district, 2; Second district, 12. Second ward—First district, 2; Second district, ½. Third ward—First district, 2; Second district, 1. Fourth ward—First district, 1; Second district, 2; Third district, 2.

Elizabeth will have 30 votes; Rahway, 5; Summit, 4; Cranford township, 2; Westfield, 3½; Union township, 2; Clark township, ¼; Fanwood township, 1; Linden township, ½; New Providence township, ¼; Springfield township, 1; Fanwood borough, ¼; Garwood borough, ¼; Linden borough, ¼; Mountainside borough, ¼; New Providence borough, ¼; Roselle borough, 2; Roselle Park borough, 1; Kenilworth borough, 1.

The primaries will be held on September 10. The polls will be open from 1 to 9 p. m.

STOPPED RUNAWAY HORSE; RECEIVED MILK AS REWARD.

Given Bottles of Milk As He Halts Marchant Bros.' Wagon.

Prompt action on the part of Edward McCarthy, a rivetter employed on the Park avenue railroad bridge, prevented damage by a runaway on Park avenue this morning. While one of Marchant Bros.' drivers was delivering milk on Park avenue, near North avenue, at shortly after 9 o'clock, the horse attached to the firm's delivery wagon took fright at the noise of the rivetting and started off on the run toward the railroad bridge.

McCarthy was at work on the scaffolding, but hearing the animal come galloping along, swung down from his position and seized the bridle, bringing the horse to a standstill before any damage had been done. The driver was frightened when he saw the horse start off, and rewarded McCarthy with the gift of several bottles of milk from the wagon.

Nursed Parents Far Apart.

Homestead, Pa., Aug. 22.—Frank Piper, Jr., twenty-one years old, has made a record for long distance nursing, but it will cost him his life. Three weeks ago his father fell ill of typhoid fever in Johnstown, Pa. Two days afterward his mother was stricken with the same disease in Homestead, ninety miles away. Young Piper began a series of journeys between Homestead and Johnstown, nursing his parents alternately. He is now ill in his home in Homestead and his life is despaired of.

Conference Addresses.

The opening address at the Seventh-day Baptist Conference at Alfred, N. Y., which opened yesterday, was delivered by Dr. Platts, president of the convocation. Rev. Arthur E. Main, formerly pastor of the church in this city, delivered an address on "Church and Denominational Polity as Related to Denominational Life, Growth and Power." Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city, will deliver a sermon on denominational personality at the conference Saturday morning.

LOCAL BROKERS ASSIGN

Mills Bros. & Co's Failure Announced by Manager W. de La R. Anderson.

HE MAKES STATEMENT

Some Plainfield Customers Hit—Richard Canfield Said to Be Responsible For Failure.

On the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, this morning, it was announced that Mills Brothers & Co., the stock brokerage firm which operates a branch in this city, had made an assignment. The news came as a great surprise to the financial world and speculation was rife as to the paramount cause but no details were given.

When W. de La R. Anderson, manager of the Plainfield branch, was seen by a Daily Press reporter at noon today, he confirmed the report of the failure. He made the fact known to local customers will deep regret. In speaking the matter he declared that when he became connected with the firm last December in order to start the Plainfield office, he took pains to have the firm looked up in every possible way. He learned that the members were well thought of in banking circles, both as to financial responsibility and also as to reputation for excellent judgment marketwise, and having good connections and financial backing, the Mills brothers being nephews of John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil Company, and Mr. Mason, the third partner, a wealthy man and a member of the Union Club, of New York.

As far as Mr. Anderson has been able to learn, the outcome of the assignment was brought on by a wealthy customer of the firm giving orders for large amounts of stock, of course, putting up sufficient margin at the time. When the stock had declined so far against him as to necessitate his account being closed he repudiated his order of purchase and demanded the amount of money originally put up. This action meant a suit at law and pending this suit the firm decided it would be for the best interests of the customers to assign.

Continuing, Mr. Anderson said that fortunately, owing to the unsettled condition of the market, he had as few people as possible interested in it, and there will be a comparatively small number of Plainfielders who will suffer should the firm not pay its debts in full.

It was declared by people in a position to know both in New York and Plainfield to day, that the customer who had repudiated his order of purchase is Richard Canfield, of gambling fame. It was stated that he had instructed the firm to buy $200,000 worth of Missouri Pacific at 47. It began dropping shortly afterward and when it reached 20, Canfield, it is said, made the repudiation and called for the money put up.

MAYOR SMALLEY APPOINTS BOROUGH STREET CLEANER

"WHITE WINGS" WILL KEEP HASSAM PAVEMENT SANITARY IN FUTURE.

Because of the complaints made by property owners of the unsanitary condition of the stretch of Hassam pavement on Somerset street as a result of improper cleaning, Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, has appointed a street cleaner to keep the stretch of new pavement cleaned. The roadway will be kept in condition by a street sweeper who will be on the job daily on the roadway between Lincoln place and Park place. The street will be washed off by the water wagon and the refuse will be swept up and collected.

Firemen Eldon Smalley and Patrick McDonough, of borough headquarters, got after the new pave with the fire hose this morning and washed down the whole street, forcing the refuse along the pavement to Park place, where it was collected. The men worked with two hundred feet of horse, attaching it to the hydrants at Lincoln place and later at Manning avenue. All the refuse was removed and the street washed clean, ready for the borough "white wing" tomorrow. Mayor Smalley superintended the work of the firemen

Shirtwaist Dance.

A shirtwaist dance under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H., Division No. 1, St. Mary's parish, will be held at T. A. B. Hall tomorrow night.

—Fifty baskets of Hunterdon county peaches, Mountain Rose and Reeves' varfety, were received by Neuman Brothers today. The quality of the fruit is splendid.

$4,000 DAIRY DESTROYED

WHOLE HERD IS LOST

18 Cows, 3 Horses, Farm Machinery and Hay Lost When Roesel's Barns Go Up in Flames.

The third of a series of unexplained fires at Willow Grove, near Dog Corners, destroyed the barns and cattle sheds of Peter Roesel, of the Willow Grove dairy at midnight last night. Eighteen cows, and three farm horses were burned, and the three buildings, together with farm machinery and hay, were a total loss. The illumination was plainly visible from this city. When the flames were discovered, the main barn was blazing fiercely, and the efforts of the neighbors, who formed a bucket brigade, were insufficient to check the flames, which destroyed the other barn and a cow shed.

Roesel, who had retired early in the evening, can in no way account for the origin of the fire. He was awakened by the shouts to find his barns in flames. It is believed that the fire was of incendiary origin, and last night's blaze is connected with the unexplained fire two weeks ago which destroyed the barns at John Lambert's place, and the recent fire at the farm of Mrs. William Steele.

The fire must have started near the cattle in the main barn, for this part of the building was a mass of flames when the fire was discovered, and it was impossible to save any of the cattle, so that the entire dairy herd was burned. About thirty tons of hay, which had just been put in the barn, were destroyed. Seeing that the building could not be saved, the neighbors, attracted by the bright illumination, devoted their efforts to saving the contents of the adjoining barn and shed. The men formed a bucket brigade and fought hard to prevent the spread of the flames. The Westfield fire department was summoned, but the flames had gained too much headway by the time they arrived. The clanging of the chapel bell, rung when the fire was discovered, brought the neighbors to the scene, and a bucket brigade was organized to fight the flames. Two wagons and some farm machinery were saved, but harness, farm machinery and tools, which were in the other barn and the cow shed, were destroyed.

The loss will amount to nearly $4,000, as the buildings are entirely destroyed. Roesel carries about $1,500 insurance.

POLICE SURE THEY HAVE HORNER MURDERERS.

Movements of Suspects Traced, and Valuable Information for the Prosecution Is Found.

The authorities are satisfied that in Charles Gibson they have the man who murdered Mrs. Frances Horner and Victoria Natali at Collingwood Tuesday, and they think that Stephen Dorsey, another negro under arrest, was an accomplice of Gibson, and that it was Dorsey who set fire to the Horner barn.

Detectives are looking for Walter Scott, a negro who is alleged to have made a threat two weeks ago that he would kill Edward Horner, the husband of Mrs. Horner, and burn down his barn.

SALOON LICENSE REVOKED.

Elizabeth Excise Board Finds the Owner Guilty of Selling on Sunday.

The saloon license of Thomas Fitzgibbons, of 67 Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth, was revoked yesterday afternoon by the Elizabeth Excise Board, which found Fitzgibbons guilty of selling liquor on a Sunday. Fitzgibbons, when placed on the stand, refused to answer any questions "by advice of counsel."

Two more complaints against saloonkeepers charged with violating the screen law were dismissed. In not one case brought on this ground has the saloonkeeper been found guilty. Those acquitted yesterday afternoon were James Cunningham and Albert Szemneri.

Tars Welcomed By Japs.

Yokohama, Aug. 22.—After six days at Yokohama the first division of the Pacific fleet of cruisers, the Pennsylvania, the West Virginia, the Maryland and the Colorado, Rear Admiral Dayton commanding, leaves today under orders to proceed to the west coast of the United States via Honolulu, at which port it is anticipated it will remain ten or fifteen days. The stay of the fleet in Japan was without an untoward incident of any character, as was the case upon the previous visit of the vessels to Japanese ports, two months ago. The men were given the usual shore leave, devoting their time to sightseeing in Kokohama and Tokio.

HOBO GOES TO JAIL FOR TELLING LIES TO JUDGE

HOWARD SMITH RUNS UP AGAINST CITY MAGISTRATE'S DISLIKE FOR UNTRUTH.

Lying, of a bold and undecorated character undeserving of a longer and prettier term, brought swift retribution on Howard Smith, a wayfarer arraigned before Judge Runyon, in the city court, this morning. Two mis-statements, over which he was promptly tripped, got him a twenty day sentence in jail.

Policeman Dennis O'Keefe arrested Smith last night for vagrancy. He told Judge Runyon that he was from Easton, and the magistrate questioned him as to the streets there. He didn't know any of them.

"I didn't tell the truth," acknowledged Smith finally; "I'm from Phillipsburg. I drove a butcher wagon there."

The magistrate asked him about the streets in Phillipsburg. He didn't know any more about the streets in Phillipsburg than he did of Easton.

"Twenty days in jail,' said the Judge, curtly. "Next time you find yourself in court tell the truth."

UNCONGENIAL COUPLE LECTURED IN COURT

CHAS. SUECKER AND WIFE THRESH OUT TROUBLES BEFORE JUDGE MUNDY.

Bringing serious charges of misconduct against his wife, Charles Suecker, who has been living near Watchung, but now boards in this city, caused her arrest on a warrant Tuesday and had her haled before Justice of the Peace Clark Mundy at the borough court last night. The arrest was made Tuesday evening by Constable Clemens, of the township, who, accompanied by Justice Mundy and Edward Terry located the woman. The three found Mr. Suecker Terry. The three found Mr. Suecker in the cabin of John Van Fleet, who lives some three miles back in the country in the Watchung mountains. She resented their visit bitterly, but when shown the warrant had no alternative but to go with the men. She spent yesterday in the borough lock-up.

At the hearing last night in the borough court, Mrs. Suecker was represented by S. S. Swackhamer, Esq. Her husband appeared against her with a long list of instances to support his charge, but had no witnesses to corroborate his statements. Judging the evidence as merely heresay, Justice Mundy dismissed the case. In speaking to the couple before they left the court room, he said: "I charge you two to keep the peace in future. If you are ever brought before me again, I shall not be so lenient with you. I shall send one to Somerville and the other to Elizabeth for a vacation in jail."

At the request of the Judge, Swackhamer lectured the couple on behaviour in the future and gave some good advice as to how to adjust their trouble. Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, who was present, also made a few remarks to Suecker. There was the usual large turnout of boroughites for the hearing.

SAVED FROM CANAL, BURNED.

Infant of Two Months Victim of Playing With Matches.

After being saved from drowning in the Morris Canal only two months ago, Albert Langdon, three years old, son of Augustus Langdon, of No. 242 First street, Newark, came to a more painful death Tuesday night. He died in the City Hospital from burns received about the chest, neck and hands.

He lighted last Friday a match with which he was playing and it set his dress ablaze. His injuries were treated with home remedies until Monday morning, when as he grew worse his mother sent for a physician The baby's condition was then critical and he was sent to the hospital.

Plain $50,000 City Hall.

Burlington, Aug. 22.—Prospects of a new city hall has been revived again by the action of Common Council, which, in special session Tuesday night, instructed the committee on city property to prepare plans for a new building, to be submitted to the people for a vote at an early date.

Temporary repairs are to be made to the old City Hall out of $950.75 which has been received from the insurance companies for damage done by the recent fire. It is the plan of the promoters of the new City Hall to erect a building costing from $30,000 to $50,000, to be covered by the issuing of long term bonds.

H. F. KEAN MADE NO THREAT TO PERKINS

Leader Never Told Him He Could Not Go Back to Trenton.

THREE TERMS ENOUGH

United States Senator John Kean's Views On the Subject—What County Chairman Frank Smith Says.

Argument used by Assemblyman Randolph Perkins to gain support from the New Idea, which at the present time is arrayed against his renomination, have met with a flat denial from former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean, so far as they relate to utterances attributed to him. Wide circulation has been given a report emanating from the Perkins' sympathizers that Senator Kean's brother, the reputed leader of Union county and member of the State Republican Committee, had declared last winter that Mr. Perkins would not go back to the Assembly again from Union and that he was to be punished for his course in the Legislature which was alleged to be distasteful to the organization.

When H. F. Kean was asked by a representative of The Daily Press the direct question whether he made such a threat, the banker-politician replied: "That is not true; I never made such a statement." He was very emphatic in his denial of the report, and coupled it with an explanation of his position in the Perkins matter.

"My position is that Mr. Perkins has had three terms and the sentiment of the county seems to be opposed to indefinite terms in the Legislature. I personally believe that it would be a bad precedent to make. If Mr. Perkins is sent back to Trenton for a fourth term any man who has made a good record in such capacity can use that precedent as a sound argument for a third, a fourth or a fifth term. When the present members of the Assembly were first sent to Trenton, the matter was all thoroughly discussed in the county committee and it was then deemed wise to accord them two terms."

"How do you stand then, as to Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway?" The Daily Press representative asked.

"I am opposed to him for the same reason. I wish to say that I have no favors to ask and no axes to grind. My position is taken simply as a member of the party who wants to see the Republicans triumph this fall. Naturally I want to see good men nominated who could win in a campaign. It's going to be very close this fall in Union and therefore I am anxious to see the party put up the best possible fight."

Assemblyman Perkins' argument that the Keans' position is illogical regarding a fourth term cry inasmuch as Surrogate Parrot has had an indefinite lease on his office and is to be renamed was cited to Mr. Kean, who replied:

"That is a very different matter. If I am correctly informed the surrogate of Monmouth county has had six terms and Surrogate Cornell, of Mercer, has had as many as Mr. Parrot. When a surrogate gets three terms, it practically becomes an indefinite lease with him so long as the people desire him to remain in office. The rule or custom regarding terms in the Legislature has not been applied to such county offices as surrogate."

County Chairman Frank H. Smith, who is looked upon in Union county politics as a spokesman for the Keans, told The Daily Press man this morning that United States Senator John Kean had said in his presence that he had no interest one way or the other whether the people nominated Mr. Perkins again. "All I want to see," John Kean is reported to have said, "is the best men nominated; men who can win the fight for the Republican party."

Assemblyman Perkins held a conference with Smith yesterday at the latter's office in Elizabeth, and left him to see Hamilton Kean. Smith is alleged to have told him that the opposition was due to the sentiment of the party against indefinite lease on the office.

Mr. Smith said today that it would not effect John Kean's chances of re-election one way or the other if Mr. Perkins were sent back to Trenton. He stated that the Senator's term does not expire until 1911 notwithstanding the popular impression that it will end in 1909.

Mistook Iodine for Medicine.

Califon, Aug. 22. Peter B. Hoffman, a well-known farmer, about fifty years old, of Woodglen, narrowly escaped serious injury from poison Tuesday. Through a mistake he took a dose of iodine. For some time Mr. Hoffman has suffered from nervous prostration. He was seated on the plazza talking to a visitor, when he remembered he had neglected to to take his medicine. He hastily went to the medicine closet and swallowed a dose from a bottle containing iodine, which had been placed there by another member of the family. He discovered his mistake as soon as he had swallowed part of the contents, and alarmed the family. Antidotes were administered and Mr. Hoffman was taken to the office of Dr. S. H. Johnson, who prevented serious consequences arising.

Long Peace Dinner

New York, Aug. 22. Peace had her victories no less renowned than war when the rival tongs of Chinatown dined last night together to celebrate a treaty of amity made between them a year ago through the meditation of Judge Warren W. Foster, of the Court of General Sessions. It is recorded that the strifes between the two associations which dominate Chinatown have caused forty deaths, but there was nothing to indicate in the feast that there ever had been the slightest misunderstanding. Speaking began with the dish numbered seventy-three on the menu, and early this morning the courses had passed the century mark and concord rested over all.

New Yorker to Speak.

S. H. Atkinson, of New York city, who is spending the week at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, will address the children at the camp at the regular meeting in the auditorium Sunday afternoon. Clarence Titus, of Roselle, will lead the meeting, and there will be special music, including selections by a male quartette from St. James' church, Elizabeth.

Mrs. Harry Moore, of Grove street, has gone to Franklin, N. Y., to spend a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrine, of East Fourth street, are happy over the arrival of a daughter.

Mrs. Ida M. Tier and niece, Miss Dorothy Ross, are sojourning at Ashbrook for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Collins and her son, Paul Collins, with the Misses Hackett, of Salem, N. Y., are visiting their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Knox, of Rockview avenue.

From the issue of June 30, 1870:

"Lo, the Poor Dog.—The 28th being the day designated by the Common Council, when all dogs found running at large without a muzzle are liable to be sent to the pound, and there redeemed by the owner by the payment of one dollar after the same shall have been impounded, considerable excitement was manifested among the juveniles as to who should make the most money for the 'Fourth' by capturing the most dogs, as they receive 50 cents for every one taken to the pound. Woe betide the hapless cur who is caught without a muzzle? Small urchins were seen stealing along the streets with a long lasso in their hands which they would destrously throw over the head of a luckless canine and start for the pound. Nobody's dog was respected; even the poor, lameless 'hound' of the 'Senior Editor' was remembered, and several small urchins were seen stealthily approaching him while he was in quest of a stray bone, which he couldn't get home, 'cause the delinquents haven't all paid up yet. 'Brandy,' however, 'smelt a mice' and started for home on the 'double quick,' where he has remained ever since, but we won't be surprised if that 'purp' gets in the clutches of 'Phil' yet.

"P. S.—The reason we don't muzzle him is because we can't raise money enough to buy one. If anyone who deals in muzzles wants to ——."

"The regular annual examination of the academic department of the Plainfield Public School takes place Wednesday, beginning at 8½ a. m. and closing at 4½ p. m.

"On Friday at 2½ p. m. will begin the exercises of the graduating class, consisting of essays and declamations.

"The young ladies and gentlemen who have completed the course of study prescribed, will then receive diplomas from the Board of Education."

"The Central Baseball Club, of this city, appeared for the first time in their new uniform on Thursday night, when they engaged in a match with the Athletics, of Newark. The game was very exciting and close, the Athletics had the lead for the first five innings, but the Centrals warming up to their work, whitewashed their opponents in the seventh inning and had the lead of four runs. At this critical part of the game, one of the members of the Centrals was obliged to leave, and the Athletics would not allow another man to take his place, and the Centrals were beaten as the following score will show. The decisions of the umpire were very poor, almost every one was the opposite from right.

Innings.
"Centrals	4 3 3 3 2 7 6 5 1—33
"Athletics	2 4 6 7 2 2 0 8 5—38

"Umpire, T. Tallman. Scorers, Dunham and Freeman. Time of game, 3 hours and 50 minutes."

"On Tuesday evening last, a goodly crowd assembled at the residence of our young townsman, J. B. Coward, Esq., the occasion being his 'tin wedding.' We learn that the array of tinware left by the guests was prodigious.

"The trot on the Plainfield Driving Park Monday was well attended, some 600 persons (the ladies predominant) witnessing the race. Three horses, 'Mount Holly,' 'Ned Forest' and 'Colt.' 'Mount Holly' winning the race in three straight heats, 'Ned Forest' coming in next. The best time made was 2:58."

Marriages.

"CLARK—COMPTON—June 23, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. E. C. Young, Mr. J. Andrew Clark, and Miss Carrie Compton, all of this city.

"MARTIN—BARENGER — June 24, by the Rev. J. Smythe, Oliver R. Martin, to May Barenger, both of this city."

COSTLY STABLES BURNED.

Fire on Mrs. Stephen Whitney's Estate at Morris Plains Does $12,000 Damage.

Morris Plains, Aug. 22.—The stables and barns on Mrs. Stephen S. Whitney's place, "Fair Lawn," were destroyed by fire Tuesday, involving a loss of $12,000, only partly insured. There was a brisk breeze, and the farmhouse was saved by hard work on the part of the local fire department, assisted by firemen from the State Hospital and the chemical engine and Humane hose carriage from Morristown.

The live stock, including horses and cattle, were all saved, as were the carriages and much of the harness. The barns had just been filled with a fine crop of hay and some grain, all of which was lost. The stables were built by the late Stephen Whitney, who was an admirer of trotting stock, and were fitted with box stalls and every equipment for the care of valuable horses, and their destruction is keenly regretted by his family, a son, Stephen Whitney, Jr., being a member of the Whippany River Club polo team.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Henry D. Carey's thrilling play of Western life, "Montana," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre, tonight.

The score of "The Red Mill," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night, is by Victor Herbert, who has long been accepted as the foremost American composer. He has written nineteen light operas among them "Mlle. Modiste," "Babes in Toyland," "It Happened in Nordland," "The Tattooed Man," "The Serenade," "The Fortune Teller," "Babette," "The Wizard of the Nile," "Idol's Eye," "Wonderland," "Dream City," "The Magic Knight," "The Singing Girl," "Dolly Dollars," etc., all of which have been big successes any many of which are still being played both in America and Europe. He is equally well-known as a writer of serious music and is himself a virtuoso of the highest type. His symphonic poems are included in the program of symphony orchestras all over the world. His concerts for the 'cello are the accepted standards of musicianship. When Oscar Hammerstein decided to have the grand opera written upon an American subject for production at his Manhattan opera house, Mr. Herbert was the one musician in this country worthy of this commission and he was unhesitatingly chosen. The score of "The Red Mill" is in Mr. Herbert's happiest vein and is replete with brilliant ensembles, tuneful numbers, every one of which has a different and distinct charm and appeal to the ear.

Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman have this season added to their long list of stars the well-known Irish comedian, Tom Waters, who will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, next Friday night in his newest divertisement, "The Mayor of Laughland." This piece, constructed for laughing purposes only, is by all odds the best vehicle Waters has ever had. It not only gives his varied talents ample scope, but brings into view a large and talented company, whose efforts are all directed to the one end—banish the blues and create a new record for "endurance" laughter. There are two hours and a half chock full of mirth-provoking situations. And at no time does Mr. Waters or his associates depart from the rule of good, clean, wholesome fun. There are numerous catchy musical numbers, and a host of pretty girls to lend color and action to every song.

Mrs. Frank W. Miles, who has been in town for several days, has returned to Grahamsville, N. Y., where she has spent the summer. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Edith Miles.

EAGLES FLY TO VIRGINIA

THE WEEK'S PROGRAM

New Jersey Members to Accompany New Yorkers Under "Big Tim," of Tammany Hall.

The Norfolk Aerie of Eagles has completed the entertainment program for the national convention, which will be held there the week of September 2. Every hotel in Norfolk has been engaged by advance representatives of the numerous aeries which will attend the convention, and many will be forced to seek accommodations at Newport News and Portsmouth. The program will be as follows:

Monday, September 2—The Grand Aerie will hold its first session in Convention Hall. This will be followed by an excursion to the Jamestown Exposition and other points of interest as guests of the Norfolk Aerie.

Tuesday, September 3—The Grand body will devote its time to business, followed by sightseeing and other amusements, which have been arranged for the entertainment of the guests.

Wednesday, September 4—All the visiting Eagles and their families will attend a crab feast as guests of the Newport News Aerie of Eagles. Excursion steamers have been chartered to take the visitors to and from the feast and an elaborate program has been arranged.

Thursday, September 5—The grand parade will take place, when thousands of Eagles from all parts of the country will march. Stands will be erected for the accommodation of the families of the marching Eagles. After the parade the day will be devoted to sightseeing at the Jamestown Exposition. Special arrangements have been made to carry the members to and from the Exposition grounds.

The Maryland delegation, composed of over 400 members of the various aeries of the State, will leave Baltimore Tuesday, September 3.

Nearly a dozen Plainfield Eagles who are members of the Grand Aerie will attend the national convention under the leadership of "Big Tim" Sullivan, of New York, who will head a personally-conducted tour of 400 Eagles from Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Timothy D. Sullivan and Senator William Sulzer, past worthy president of the New York Eagles, will lead their delegation which will leave New York Friday night for Norfolk. The trip down to the Chesapeake will be made enjoyable, an elaborate entertainment having been provided by a special committee.

The New Jersey delegates will make an attempt to re-elect Thomas F. Hayes, of Newark, as grand worthy trustee. Grand Worthy President Edward Krouse, of Wilmington, will probably be re-elected.

Past Worthy President Frederick C. Schamberger is a candidate for the office of grand worthy chaplain, and a determined effort will be made by the Maryland delegation to land this prize. There are three other candidates for this office. The delegation will return on the evening boat Thursday, September 5. Many will remain for the grand ball Friday night, which will end the convention. A large party has been formed which will take a trip to Boston by boat, returning by way of New York and Atlantic City. Handsome badges have been ordered. One will be of red, white and blue silk with gold tassel and the New Jersey coat-of-arms and the words in gold, "New Jersey-Norfolk." Another will be of bronze with a medallion, on which is engraved the Battle Monument.

Probing Engineer's Death.

Belvidere, Aug. 22.—Coroner Sharps, of Oxford, commenced his inquiry yesterday into the cause of the death of John Carl, engineer of a Lehigh and Hudson freight train, who was killed by the collision of two freight trains at Foul Rift, August 14 last. The jury called a number of witnesses for the purpose of ascertaining who was responsible. Although the evidence seemed to show that W. H. Harbourt, the special operator, had failed to hold one train at the junction until the other had passed, the coroner did not conclude the inquiry and adjourned the matter until tomorrow morning. Harbourt, the operator, is represented by former Judge Morrow. During the inquiry Judge Morrow, the coroner and W. H. Wilmot, a division operator, of Lambertville, had a warm discussion.

Drought a Menace at Mendham.

Mendham, Aug. 22.—The drought has reached serious proportions here, and unless copious rains fall within a few days the corn crop will be a failure. Many of the gardens about the town are dried up, fresh vegetables being at a premium. One of the local truckers declares he has not had such a small crop in years. The fact that this town lies on a high ridge in a valley surrounded by hills may have something to do with the unusual dryness here, which exceeds that of the surrounding towns and villages.

Plainfield, N. J., August 22, 1907.

THAT $29,240,000.

Should John D. order the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to pay the fine imposed by Judge Landis it would require 177 flat cars with a capacity of 33,000 pounds to haul the total sum, $29,240,000, to the United States Treasury provided payment was made in silver dollars. What this vast sum represents has been figured out by the Memphis, Tenn., News-Scimatar, which says:

It would make 914 tons of silver dollars, requiring 304 teams to transport it.

It would build 2,924 homes at $10,000 each.

It is the income for one year at 4 per cent on $731,000,000.

It is about 2 per cent of the national debt of 1906.

It is 35 cents for every man, woman and child in the whole country.

It would take 48,730 street laborers one year to work out the amount.

It is the annual revenue of Mexico.

It is nearly one-half the capital of the Bank of England.

It is nearly one-half the number of silver dollars in circulation.

It is twenty-nine time the capital stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the corporation fined.

It is 4,783 times the annual salary of Judge Landis, who imposed the fine.

WHY PERKINS IS OPPOSED.

Sifting it all out the only real opposition to the renomination of former Assemblyman Randolph Perkins is because he has already had three terms and the Republican party is opposed to life tenure in office. There is no question about his fitness for the place or his political probity. Mr. Perkins has done good service as a public servant, but rotation in office is an established theory of our form of government. The bitter attacks made on him by Mr. Burke and his co-workers in the anti-saloon movement, will cut little figure in deciding upon his political future, that matter rests entirely with the party he represents. So far as the average voter is able to form an opinion, there is no ground for complaint against the bright young lawyer's work at Trenton, but at the same time there is no just argument for him holding a perpetual tenure of the office.

JOLLYING AN INNOCENT ONE.

Some one ought to tell former State Senator Childs, of Somerset county, that the Democratic leaders are only getting him in humor to make a fat contribution to the gubernatorial campaign. The action of the Somerset county committee in endorsing him for the nomination is merely intended for that purpose, he being trotted out as a "favorite son" in order that his wallet may be in reach of the bosses when the campaign is underway. Were the rural county of Somerset to express its wishes for a Democratic nominee, it is safe to say that there would be a big majority in favor of James E. Martine. At any rate it is hardily likely that a man with as little political experience and with such narrow acquaintanceship in the party councils would be picked for such high honors. If Mr. Childs has any due proportion of gumption he should be able to see through the bosses' scheme.

PARTY MADE TO SUFFER.

It is unfortunate that the Governor's procrastination in the Dickinson case has furnished the Democrats in Hudson county and for that matter through the State with good campaign material. The right time to have eliminated the Secretary of State was when his term was about to expire but the Governor thought that he would let him continue in office and wait developments. In so doing he has brought the party into unenviable notority for Dickinson is so thick-skinned that he will not retire although he knows that he imperils the future of the party in which he professes to be so deeply interested.

Every time that the President gets "knocked" we have fresh evidence of the fact that he is unrelenting in his pursuit of criminal trust barons.

KEEP UP THE FIGHT TO OUST DICKINSON

HUDSON WILL CALL ON STATE COMMITTEE TO EXPEL HIM.

Only the elimination of Secretary of State Samuel D. Dickinson from Republican politics in Hudson county will restore harmony, so it was declared at the meeting of the Fagan central committee last night. In addition, a committee was appointed to confer with the Republican State Committee and demand that Colonel Dickinson be dropped from that body. Until this is accomplished there will be a continuance of the present war between the factions.

This practically means a renest for the State committee to step in and reoranize the party in Hudson. The Fagan committee also declared for the elimination of political bosses, direct primaries, popular vote for United States Senator, the taxation of railroad property at local rate, a local franchise tax, the appointment of a public utilities commission and jury reform.

Both Mayor Fagan and Corporation Counsel Record spoke. The latter arraigned political bosses and declared a stiff fight must be put up at the primaries on September 10. He also scored Colonel Dickinson for refusin to resign as Secretary of State when requested so to do by Governor Stoker.

"The Republicans in Hudson cannoo become united while Dickinson remains in the party," said Mr. Record

NOW BELIEVE THAT NEGRESS WAS SLAIN.

Police, Lacking Identification of Body, Seek Driver of Wagon.

Th police of Newark have little doubt that the negress, whose body was found Tuesday on the city dump on Vanderpool street, was murdered. County Physician Elliott and his assistant, Dr. Muta, have found what they consider almost positive proof that it was by strangulation the woman was killed.

One arrest has been made, that of George Robert, thirty-seven years old of No. 21 Scott street. He is a negro who until last Friday was employed in a factory close to the dump. It was learned by the police he had been seen in the neihborhood with a negress. Robert asserts it was his wife he was seen with.

The authorities believe the body was carted to the dump and covered in the hope of concealing the crime. That is was taken there at night is likely, as John Feiz, the foreman, who is there all day, is positive the body was not on the dump Sunday afternoon.

Lewis Bansback, watchman at the Jaenecke Ink works, a short distance away, says he saw a wagon drive to the dump between 9 and 10 p. m., Sunday. He says the wagon was a dark covered one and was drawn by a black horse. He could not see the driver, who kept himself well shaded under the cover of the wagon. Andrew Volk, who was talking with Bansback at the time the wagon was at the dump, corroborates his story.

INTO PAST FOR CAMPAIGN DATA.

Disbarment Proceedings Against J. F. Fort and J. A. Beecher To Be Investigated.

Alden Freeman, chairman of the county committee of the Independent Citizens' part, of Essex county, yesterday afternoon directed his counsel, Thomas A. Davis, of Orange, to apply to Supreme Court Clerk William Riker for copies of the affidavits in the disbarment proceedings brought against J. Franklin Fort, now Supreme Court justice and candidate for Governor of New Jersey, and Joseph A. Beecher, a Newark lawyer.

These proceedings were instituted in 1886 by Judge Ludlow McCarter, and though it is said that no formal action was ever taken against either of the two lawyers, yet it is asserted the circumstances were never fully explained.

Mr. Freeman also yesterday afternoon issued a formal call for a meeting of the Independent county committee for Saturday afternoon next at 4 o'clock, at No. 185 Market street, Newark, at which time the place and date of the county convention will be fixed.

LEAVES CASH TO SERVANTS.

By the will of Mrs. Jane E. Nessle, widow of John P. Nessle, who died at her home, No. 23 Frelinghuysen avenue, Newark, on August 10, which was admitted to probate in Newark yesterday afternoon, two servants will receive the sum of $1,500. They are Mary J. Marten, who receives $1,000, and Lillian M. Tegen, who gets $500, as a token of appreciation of faithful service. Albert O. Headley was named as executor in the document, which is dated May 15, 1905.

The remainder of the estate is to be divided among eight nieces, who are Miss Emma Barnard and Miss Annie R. Barnard, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Saran C. Cooper, of Camden; Mrs. Margaret M. Lindale, of Wyoming, Del.; Mrs. Esther Watson of Baltimore; Mrs. Sarah Thompson, of Pittsburg; Mrs. Isabella Kelshaw, of East Orange, and Miss Jennie F. Taylor, of Brooklyn.

Lovely Tammany Outing.

New York, Aug. 22.—More than fifty men were injured, two perhaps fatally, in a riot in Witzel's Grove, College Point, L. I., yesterday afternoon, during the sixth annual outing of the Jefferson Tammany Club, of which Louis F. Haffen, Borough President of the Bronx, the president, and who was among those who attended. One of the most seriously injured is Joseph Witzel, proprietor of the place, who is possibly suffering from a fractured skull. Another man was stabbed in the back and may not recover, and others were cut, bruised and wounded in various wawys. Originating from a request for an extra dish of ice cream the disturbance assumed such proportions that in a few minutes fully one thousand persons were involved, and plates, knives, pots and pans and even chairs were flying about the big dining room. Several pistol shots were fired, and a policeman received a bullet wound in the wrist.

Charged With Murder Plot.

New York, Aug. 22.—George T. Carnie and his sister, Marion, both of No. 21 Hatfield place, Port Richmond, L. I., were arrested yesterday afternoon and held without bail on the charge of conspiring with others to murder Frederick Hulz, of the same address. As a motive for the alleged plot it was said that there was a likelihood that Hulz would soon marry and transfer to his wife a life insurance policy for $1,000 which is payable to Marion Carnie.

UNION DEMOCRATS AFLOAT

1,000 of the County Faithful Sailed Away from Elizabeth this Morning.

ON ANNUAL OUTING

Favored by an ideal day and with every prospect of a successful affair, nearly 1,000 Democrats sailed away from Elizabeth this morning on the annual outing of the Democratic City Executive Committee of Elizabeth. The attendance is the largest noted in years and when the big steamer pulled out from the dock, hardly a member of the party of any prominence in Union county was missing. James E. Martine, of this city, loomed up prominently on the after deck despite an arduous day at Flemington, yesterday, while former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton, and State Senator George S. Silzer, of Middlesex, were extending the glad hand in all directions. All three of these men are mentioned for the gubernatorial nomination and their presence added importance to the occasion.

It was declared by members of the outing committee that scores of tickets had been sold to heretofore pronounced Republicans, which in itself is regarded as significant and as indicating that the forthcoming campaign in Union will be the hottest and most interesting that this county has witnessed in many moons. There will be lots of political talk all the way up the East River as the boat steams along and when Witzel's Grove at College Point is reached, the various confabs will be mixed in with a shore dinner and athletic games. Handsome prizes will be awarded the winners in the various events.

On the return trip late this afternoon the Sirius will sail down the Narrows as far as Coney Island, where for half an hour the people on board will be given a chance to view the illuminations. The boat will dock in at about 10 o'clock tonight.

Rahway's time-honored Peanut Club, which boasts of being able to eat more peanuts and tell more cheerful yarns than any other social organization in the county, was a conspicuous feature of the outing. All its members are over sixty while Captain Si Leonard, the dean of the club, is eighty years young. Beside the "Farmer Orator," the Plainfielders noted in the crowd that started were Joseph Harrigan, J. V. F. Dilts, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., Aleck Kane and Meyer Leichtentritt.

The officers of the Elizabeth Executive Committee are: President, Owen Farrelly; vice presidents, John J. Sheenan, Anthony Sattler; secretary, Frederick Zior; treasurer, John F. Kenah; sergeant-at-arms, John H. R. Corbet. The members of the outing committee are: Chairmani Alderman George H. Schlotterer; Frederick Zior, James L. Butler, John J. Sheenan, John H. R. Corbet, James Norton, Charles Callman, Edward A. Brennan, Hugh F. Boyle, James Flood, M. J. Carroll and C. M. B. Keimig.

Traction Men Quarrel.

New York, Aug. 22—Associates of August Belmont and Thomas F. Ryan practically admitted yesterday that there was a grave breach between those two dominant factors in the Inter-borough-Metropolitan traction combination. These differences have originated in the fact that while the subway and elevated systems are prosperous, the surface lines are failing to earn enough to meet their obligations. As a result, the Belmont interests are making a determined effort to free the company from the incubus of the Metropolitan Street Railway system by throing it back on the hands of Mr. Ryan and his associates.

REFORMATORY SCANDAL

Unspeakable and Revolting Testimony Revealed by Assembly Probers.

INSTITUTION ROTTEN

Terrible Punishments Meted Out to Inmates—Prosecutor To Take Action.

The Assembly Investigating Committee which has been inquiring into the affairs of the State Reformatory at Rahway requested Prosecutor George Berdine, of Middlesex county, in which this place is situated, to attend upon it yesterday. An outline of the testimony taken before the committee was given him. It relates to unspeakable and revolting conditions of which witness after witness has told the committee. It is expected the matter will be laid before the Grand Jury and indictments result. It is stated by members of the committee that the worst possible conditions are being brought to light in the institution.

Testimony was taken yesterday showing that in October, 1904, an inmate named Fordham drank wood alcohol which an inmate of the institution was using in his work as a painter, and for doing so he was strung up in the centre by a keeper named Fordham and kept so strung while suffering the fearful agonies of wood alcohol poisoning; that he kept groaning, that he was dying, and that he did die after being let down.

It was at first testified by the guards concerned that Fordham had been examined by Dr. Hough, of the institution, but when the doctor was called he testified he had not seen Fordham, but had been called on the 'phone, and as he recalled it was told Fordham was suffering from alcohol. He prescribed aromatic spirits of ammonia.

He did not know the trouble was from wood alcohol. If he had he would have gone at once to the sick man. The keeper who was in charge at the time said he did not know wood alcohol was poisonous.

Tales of Cruelty Many.

The first witness of the day was William M. Walters, of Madison. He is not in the institution now. He sent word to the committee that he would like to tell some things that occurred while he was there in 1903 and 1904. He was in the reformatory about eighteen months. He stated that inmates were repeatedly struck by the guards with their fists and with canes for some trifling incidents. He said it was the common practice for the guards to strike and beat the prisoners and convicts. He (Walters) had once been given twenty-five bad marks because some inmate brought one of the guards a plate of ice cream from the officers' quarters. Walters' said he did not bring the cream, but because they could not find the culprit, they marked as punished all the men on one of the floors.

Dr. Hough told about the cases of men in solitary confinement. He visited them every day. Backus asked him about a man named Ham, who is now in solitary confinement, and wanted to know if he was not mentally deranged and ought to be released. Hough said the man was very "devilish." Such men always told every kind of a story in order to get more to eat. He would not believe any of them under oath, but there was plenty of inmates whom he would believe. He did not think the men in solitary confinement suffered much. They dd not even lose so very much flesh in the six days they were shut up in absolute darkness but with plenty of ventilation. They had two slices of bread twice a day and water. Counsel Backus suddenly ordered Ham to be brought before the committee, but after several of the guards and Sergeant-at-Arms Hague of the committee had started, the committee concluded they did not want to see him.

This afternoon Superintendent Martin was brought before the committee and asked whether he had suspended his son, Harry, as he agreed to do last night. He said he had. Mr. Backus said the committee thought that, under the circumstances, Harry ought to be deprived of all the privileges of the institution and, in fact, should be excluded from the building. As the young man is one of the officials, the superintendent did not think he could exclude his son without consulting the commissioner. He presumed the committee's wishes would be carried out, however.

After asking the superintendent some questions about the way in which the records of the conduct of the inmates was kept and after Dr. Hough said there had been a dozen cases of typhoid fever and two deaths a year ago, the committee adjourned until next Monday morning at the reformatory.

Held For Child's Death.

Ney York, Aug. 22.—John and Anna Peterson, of Tottenville, Staten Island, who on Monday night were held responsible by a Coroner's jury for the death of their infant child, Ruth, through failure to provide her with medicine, were held in $2,000 by Magistrate Marsh, in Stapleton, yesterday for a hearing tomorrow, on a charge of manslaughter. District Attorney Kenney suggested that the case be put over until the prisoners had opportunity to retain council, bu this they declined as unnecessary. "The Lord is our counsel," Peterson told the court, "and we will not want. He will see us through safely." Peterson's friends furnished bail.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Aug. 25: "Bearing false reproach." "Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you and persecute you and say all manner of evil against you falsely for My sake."—Matt. v, 11, 12.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Acts v, 41; vii, 52; I Thess. ii, 13-15; Heb. x, 34-35; I Pet. iii, 14-18.

This word "blessed" is a great word. It is as peculiar as it is great. It does not mean the same as the word pleasure nor the same as the word happy. It is above both of these, in a different realm. When one has been hungry and thirsty and then has had a fine dinner, there is a feeling of satisfaction that is pleasant, but that feeling is in no sense like blessedness. When one has been perplexed and after a long and hard thought has found a solution of the difficulty or has made a valuable discovery, there is an exhilaration of spirit that makes him happy, but that is not blessedness. There is in each of us capacity for higher enjoyment. When one has come to know that a certain course of action is right and against all inclination to go some other way has decided to go the right way, there has come a sense of self approval which is high above all the other enjoyments he has known from either the satisfaction of bodily appetites or mental needs.

When to follow this right course has cost hard struggle and opposition from others, the feeling of approval has been heightened. When to do the true thing has taken all the manhood and womanhood in us, and we have stood firm amid all opposition, conscious that we have been worthy and have made no compromise with evil and wrong, then we have come to know something of the feeling of blessedness. It has cost, and we have paid the cost. No recognition by others can ever equal in value the approval of one's own soul.

When we have chosen our course knowing that it has the approval of God and we have done it because of our regard for God and love to Jesus Christ, we have begun to tread the high places of personality. Opposition will now only make us more firm for the right and good.

There are many things in this world we would like to have, but which we can do without and not suffer great harm. There are some things which we cannot do without and be free from great loss. It will not much signify by and by how many dinners we have enjoyed or lacked. Nor will our knowledge of things, however extensive and accurate, be a source of special gratification. All these things pass. But it will make much difference whether at any time we have been false in thought, heart or act. These do not pass. They stay and make us what we are to be everlastingly.

These oppositions and persecutions are like the hammer strokes on the iron laid on the anvil—they are not to test the nature of the metal, but are to actually form it into proper shape. We are in a great part made by the things we suffer. Hardships mold us and beat us into shape. To be sure there is danger that you may go to pieces under the hammer of ridicule and strife, but that only demonstrates that you did not have the right stuff in you to make anything worthy. If you are good for anything you will only toughen up in fiber as the blows fall, and will shout under the fierce heat of the furnace as the dross fuses out and you know yourself coming into purity and value.

Best of all, He who sits as our refiner and purifier knows the heat of the furnace, for He has been through the fires Himself and He watches us and rejoices with us as He sees the work in process.

"Rejoice and be exceeding glad!"

God's Diamonds.

There is always a way in which a lapidary tells whether a diamond is genuine or not. He breathes on it, and if the breath lingers there it is a false diamond. If the breath immediately vanishes, it is a real diamond. Then he has a grinding process after. So you can tell God's jewel. If the breath of temptation comes on it and soon vanishes it is a real diamond. If the breath lingers and continues to blur it, it is a false diamond. But better test than all is the grinding machine of affliction. If a soul can go through that and keep bright it is one of God's jewels.—T. De Witt Talmage.

A Refuge When We Blunder.

We cannot only take our hopes and our needs to God, but we also can take Him our mistakes. "God is thy refuge even from the wrong of thy own judgment," as George Macdonald expresses it. We are so often and so unconsciously our own worst enemies that we continually need such a refuge in God's mercy and wisdom from our disastrous blunders. Even when we cannot forgive ourselves, He forgives and restores us.

How to Save Others.

Because He loved He gave Himself for love of us!
Who would another save
Must give his heart's love thus;
The worthiest gifts must always wait
Till love unlock the golden gate.

Some gifts are only alms
That have no love behind;
In them there are no balms
To heal the troubled mind.
Who gives them has nor joy nor pain,
Who takes them has but little gain.

But he gives more than gold
Who gives, because he must,
Riches of worth untold,
Treasures of love and trust.
Giving himself, he cannot live
Unless his heart and hands may give.

So learn thou to bestow
From the great Giver, Christ.
Love's gifts will freely flow
When the heart keeps its tryst.
And no one stops to count the cost
Whose whole glad life in love is lost.
—Marianne Farningham in London Sunday School Times.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Foreign missions—Christ in Mexico and South America.—Ex. xx, 1-6.

The topical reference in that which it forbids sets forth the true religious conditions in Mexico and South America. Since the earliest settlements of these great lands they have been largely dominated by Roman Catholicism. This fact, taken together with the natural conditions of the inhabitants of Latin America, has made the vast majority of them idolaters and image worshipers. They have seen Christ represented in images and symbols and have not been able to get far beyond the images. Their conceptions of the real Christ have fallen far short of what a true Christian's conception of Him ought to be.

But a brighter day is dawning in Mexico and South America. Vast progress has been made, especially in South America, in the last twenty-five years, industrially and politically. The great wealth of the various countries is being realized, and they are coming more and more in touch with the life of other nations. The character of the people is being gradually raised to a higher standard.

Moreover, Protestant missions were introduced about the same time as the industrial awakening took place, and good results have followed. The difficulties in the way have been very great, but they are gradually being overcome. The persecutions that once stained the soil of these countries with the blood of martyrs has entirely passed away. Though Mexico is so close to the United States, yet in the days of early Christian work no less than sixty or seventy missionaries suffered martyrdom in that land. The American Bible society, the Christian Endeavor society and the prominent religious denominations of our country are earnestly at work in both Mexico and South America. Almost every country in South America is now opened to the gospel, with the result that thousands have been led to Christ. In Brazil especially good results are being produced, and as Brazil goes so go largely the other countries of the continent. But there is still a vast amount of work to be done, and every Endeavorer should do his part. Mexico, and South America need, above all, our prayers and our sympathy. Consecrated workers are also needed. As our country, under the Monroe doctrine, protects them from foreign invasion, the Christian church, under Christ's commission, should protect them from sin and superstition. What will you do in this great work?

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. lii, 12; Nah. i, 15; Ps. cxxxv, 15-21; Prov. ii, 25-31; II Cor. viii, 1-5; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Luke xv, 1-10; Rom. x, 14, 15.

The Importance of the Prayer Meeting.

The prayer meeting has fallen upon evil days in many of our churches. The materialism, the rush, the hurry, the unspiritual trend of the time, are against us in some quarters. It needs some reviving influence. The church will always need the unabashed testimony of outspoken believers. "Wanted—A testifying church," might well be printed in every church paper and inscribed on every church wall. The church can never flourish while one man, however eloquent and gifted, does all the preaching and all the praying. It is undemocratic, unscriptural, suicidal. The community of the disciples in the upper room, we may infer from the narrative, did not listen to a sermon, but did engage in a prayer and testimony meeting. Wherever the pentecostal spirit has flourished the prayer meeting or something like it has also flourished. Wherever souls are saved and men are brought near to Christ there is some provision for united prayer and open confession of the Master.—Francis E. Clark, D. D., in Pine Tree Endeavorer.

Near Antioch.

A new Christian Endeavor society has been organized at Kassab, at the foot of Mount Casius, a day's journey from Antioch, in Asia. This society consists entirely of girls and has nearly fifty members. Nearly 200 girls go to the meetings, but many are not ready to join as active members. So many younger children are interested in the work that they will soon start a Junior society for both girls and boys.

A Brightener of Faith.

Many a rusty anchor of our faith has been scoured and polished by the young servants of the church, enlisted under the banner of Christian Endeavor.—Rev. W. W. Sleeper.

Junior Endeavor Song.

My Juniors for Jesus! Saviour mine
Accept this now; my Juniors make Thine.
Not one, but all who round me meet
Bring in contrition to Thy feet.
The Spirit's power in love impart
And captivate each youthful heart.

My Juniors for Jesus! To my care
These dear ones committed are.
While on my heart there oft remains
The charge which oft my faith sustains,
"Go, train these precious souls for Me,
And I will thy rewarder be."

My Juniors for Jesus! One and all
Shall hear through me the Saviour's call.
For souls I toil, nor will I rest
While one remains unsaved, unblest.
If Christ could give His life to save,
Sure I can disappointment brave.

My Juniors for Jesus! He who gave
His all for me should surely have
All I possess. My Juniors I bring
And on His sovereign mercy fling.
Each loving soul, that He may bless
And fit for endless happiness.

My Juniors for Jesus! Oh, the bliss
Of feeling all my charge is His
And when the recompense shall come,
The large reward for little done,
How sweet to meet around the throne
The Juniors on earth I called my own.
—Herbert Whitney in the Australian Christian Endeavor Link.

LITERARY

Lippincott's for August shows a sumptuous feast of fiction, seasoned to suit critical readers who may be loafing by sea or mountain, or under their own roof-tree. Entertainment is the key-note of the contents; every line of it complete, with no tantalizing breaking off just when interest is at fever heat— and a thirty-day wait recommended before finding out what happens next! There is the always popular novelette. This month it is by Marie Van Vorst and its title "When Spring Comes Late," seems singularly appropriate to 1907.

War in modern times presupposes some fundamental dispute or antagonism that cannot be dealt with by diplomacy or arbitration. Furthermore, war is unusually attended by deep feeling on both sides. But it so happens that there does not now exist, nor has there ever existed, any cause of war whatsoever between Japan and the United States. Nor is there any war-like feeling in this country against Japan. On the part of the public men and influential people of Japan, furthermore, there is no warlike feeling toward the United States. Neither is there any question of interest involved, such as leads nations sometimes to find pretext for war because of some conquest or acquisition they desire to make.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for August.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

The finest ice cream soda to be enjoyed anywehre may be had at P. B. Hodge's pharmacy, East Front street.

You can't go wrong when you buy shoes at Van Arsdale's shop, and the goods will be worth every cent of their cost.

John Johnson, South avenue, is the coal dealer you should deal with. You will be sure of the best coal and the promptest deliveries.

At Koch's market, Watchung avenue, you can find choice cuts of meat, slap up against the ice, these hot days. Place your next order there.

Nothing is more refreshing after a day's work than an electric massage. Invigorating and healthful. At Maynard's North avenue barber shop.

There is no better meat market in Plainfield than that of Fred Endress, West Front street. Only the finest of meat and poultry sold there. Prompt service.

AS TO NUMBER SEVEN.

Hippocrates declared that the number seven, by its occult virtues, "lends to the accomplishments of all things, and is the dispenser of life and foundations of all its changes."

That the ancients considered uneven numbers to have special force and efficacy there is abundant proof. Shepherds of ancient Greece were especially enjoined to see that the number of their sheep "be not even."

That there were seven ages of ancient Greece and just seven wonders of the ancient world savors very much of chance or coincidence.

Even in this twentieth century the luck in odd numbers—13 alone excepted—is largely believed in.

That folks were in olden times occasionally "scared out of their seven senses" clearly indicates the number supposedly under the influence of the seven planets. On this and other theories and ancient Hebrews, Egyptians, Persians and Greeks founded their respect and reverence for the number seven.

One of the most prominent proofs of the original significance of seven in use at the present day is the "seven years' lease," instituted because life was supposed to be in danger and to undergo a change every seven years.

Dumas, in his "Isabel of Bavaria," refers to an ancient privilege which authorized the deputies of the six merchant bodies to accompany the kings and queens of France upon their entry into Paris from the gate of St. Denis to the palace, followed on this occasion by the representatives of the different manufacturing bodies clothed to represent the "seven capital sins," and, by way of contrast, the "seven Christian virtues."

To be in the "seventh heaven of delight," is a quantitative term still in use for superlative expression, and may be traced to the cabalistic belief in seven heavens, although Ptolemy recognized only five, the Hebrews three and other systems nine of these states.

At the destruction of Jericho seven is curiously emphasized. Seven priests bore seven trumpets seven days, and on the seventh surrounded the walls seven times. Balaam when sacrificing prepared seven altars.

Turning to Job, we see his friends sitting with him seven days and seven nights, and offering seven bullocks and seven rams as atonement.

Continually as we contemplate the moon seldom do we heed the fact that she has seven phrases, and even sometimes forget that the rainbow, too, is septenary in character.—Philadelphia Ledger.

RISKS HIS LIFE FOR A PICTURE OF DENVER

Denver, Col.—Clinging to a slender rope, fighting his way up the dangerous curve of the bell of the capitol dome over sheet iron roof, blistering hot in the sun, George W. Speer, the celebrated irrigation expert of New York, the other morning climbed to the dizzy topmost pinnacle of the capitol.

"I'm going as high as I can go," announced Mr. Speer to A. C. Montgomery, the governor's private secretary, when asked how high he wished to go in order that permission might be given. "I am going to take a picture of Denver." Permission was given him to go as far as he liked. The guide who accompanied him did not believe that Mr. Speer would go any farther than the end of the beaten tourist route which terminates at the balcony just above the main roof of the capitol. But the adventurous easterner insisted he wanted to go higher and still higher. He did not stop even when he reached the end of the spiral iron staircase inside the capitol dome to which only the privileged few are admitted.

There only remained the topmost part of the dome on which a statue is some day to be placed. This looks like a tiny knob from below, but is twice the height of an ordinary man, with a dangerous outward curve on the lower half.

"I'm going as far as I can go," Mr. Speer informed the terrified guide who begged him to halt there. A guy rope fastened on the topmost part of the dome swung within reach. He leaned far out, grasped the rope, and before the guide could stop him swung his camera over his shoulder, and went up the rope hand over hand like a sailor. The iron sheathed roof scorched his palms. Several times he came near losing his grip on that thin rope, all that stood between him and a horrible death of the pavement far below. At last dizzy and exhausted he reached the topmost part of the capitol building, and from there took the most unique picture of the city, and probably the only one that will ever be taken from that spot.

Singing Hen Amazes.

Liberty, Pa.—Miss Mary Frick's Rhode Island hen, "Queen Ann," known for miles around as the singing chicken, burst into song the other day in front of the Methodist church and so amazed the worshippers that the services were suspended temporarily.

"Queen Ann" is probably the most extraordinary fowl that ever came from an eggshell. She was one of a brood of 11 hatched under a tree in which a colony of thrushes had made their home, and filled the air with their melody at early dawn.

The theory is that some pre-natal influence was exerted on the chick before she broke through the shell and that her unhenlike voice is the result.

"Queen Ann" does not "cluck" like other hens. Tempted with a few grains of rye, which she seems to prefer to corn, she will trill like a canary. The volume of sound is deeper and not so shrill as that of the yellow-feathered songster, but the graduations from the sharp staccato to the long legato are perfect.

Cop Hales a Cow Into Court.

Denver, Col.—There was a panic in the police court when Officer Lenhartz, who has worn a star but three days, led a cow in, and the animal charged toward the judge's desk. An hour before this the case of Mary Ann Rogers, charged with disturbance, was called. Lenhartz said he had served a warrant on the woman. The court ordered him to produce the Rogers woman, and he returned with the cow. He explained that when he went back he was told by a neighbor that the only Mary Ann Rogers was a cow which bothered the neighbors, and he had brought her in. As he was leaving with the cow Mrs. Charles Rogers appeared, claimed the cow, and was fined in its stead.

WORK OF ELECTRIC CRANE.

Immense Weights and Red-Hot Metal Are Easily Handled.

The picture shows a steam crane, traveling upon rails, that is working a large electro-magnet. A pile of iron "pigs" has been unloaded from a ship on to a quay, and the electro-magnet, with the electric current switched on, is let down upon the pile. The "pigs" of iron then, six to ten at a time, adhere to the electro-magnet, just like a needle does to a child's toy horseshoe magnet. Away goes the crane with them, lowers them into railway trucks, and, the current being switched off, the "pigs" remain where deposited.

Weights of, say, 10,000 lbs. are thus easily carried, and a great advantage of the electro-magnet crane is that it will readily pick up and carry red-hot metal, such as castings, etc., thereby avoiding much inconvenience and danger to workmen.

FLOWERS THAT CHANGE COLOR.

Some Go Through as Many as Three Variations in a Day.

"This bed of flowers was blue this morning, and now it is pink. That one was white, and it is now rose. The one by the hedge was yellow yesterday, and to-day it is purple."

The gardener chuckled delightedly. "I call 'em my fairy flower beds, ma'am," he said. "You see, they change color. It's a grand idea, isn't it? It gives a garden such variety."

"Oh, yes. That bed you first mentioned is the mutuable phlox. At sunrise it is blue, and in the afternoon it is pink.

"The one to the right is hibiscus—hibiscus mutabilis. It goes through three changes in the day, from white in the morning to rose at noon and to red at sunset.

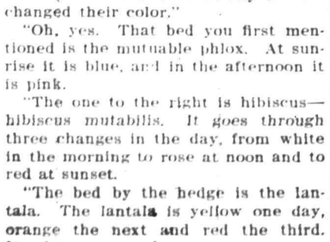
"The bed by the hedge is the lantala. The lantala is yellow one day, orange the next and red the third. Its changes are slow.

"There's other flowers, too, that change. There's the cheiranthus chameleo, that shifts from white to yellow and from yellow to red. There's the gladiolus versicolor, that's brown in the morning and blue in the evening. There's the colaea scandens, that moves slowly from greenish white to a deep violet."

Outrage Due to Superstition.

One of the cemeteries near Naples has been the scene of a crime that shows a curious recrudescence of mediaeval superstition. A little girl was buried there in July, 1905, and 12 months later it was arranged to transfer the remains to a niche in the little mortuary chapel. At the exhumation suspicion was aroused by the extraordinary light weight of the coffin, which, on being opened, was found to contain only the child's skull wrapped in straw. Profs. Antonelli and Fimiani, who examined the head, declared that it had been ruthlessly torn from the trunk soon after death. The police investigations have resulted in the discovery that the girl's body was disinterred and the bones pulverized to serve for the rites of necromancy and witchcraft which are still so much in vogue among superstitious peasantry of that region.

FIRE DRILL.



The chark or fire drill consisted merely of a piece of soft, dry wood with a hole drilled in its center, into which a rod of hardwood, ash or oak, was placed, and caused to revolve with rapidity, either by the hands or by a cord passed round it and pulled or slackened at each end alternately.

Dog Calls Workers to Dinner.

Our collie dog shows a great deal of intelligence. He sits in the kitchen and watches me prepare the dinner for the farm hands. When I take the fork and try the potatoes and see if they are done, he knows that it is time that the men were called, and he immediately gets up, goes to the back porch, takes the rope in his mouth, and rings the bell for them to come in.—Chicago Tribune.

Jackdaw's Thefts.

Following the loss of numerous wooden labels attached to the plants in the city park the Turro Corporation issued numerous solemn warnings to children, says the London Daily News.

At a chapel near at hand, however, a large pile of the missing labels has just been found under a hole in the roof, having been carried there by a jackdaw.

REGISTRY AND ELECTION NOTICE!

PRIMARY ELECTION, SEPT. 10th, 1907.
CHARTER, MUNICIPAL AND GENERAL ELECTION, NOVEMBER 5th, 1907.
COUNTY OF UNION.

Pursuant to an act entitled, "An Act to regulate Elections" (Revision of 1898), approved April 4th, 1898, with the amendments thereof, and other acts, concerning elections and the constitutional provisions concerning the right of suffrage, notice is hereby given that the District Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in the City of Elizabeth, will meet on the second Tuesday in September, 1907, (10th) at one o'clock in the afternoon at the places in their respective Election Districts where the City Clerk shall designate, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

The District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for purposes of registration at their respective places, on October 8th and 22nd, 1907, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

And the Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in said County of Union, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will meet on Tuesday, September 3rd, 1907, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in their respective Election Districts where the next election will be held and having first organized, shall proceed to ascertain and truly and accurately enter in canvassing books, to be provided for that purpose, the names and residences and street numbers, if any, of all legal voters within their respective election districts entitled to vote therein, by making actual inquiry at every dwelling house etc. and the manner prescribed by law, and shall continue such enumeration until the same is completed; provided, that such enumeration shall terminate on or before the Friday next succeeding.

The District Boards of Registry and Election, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for the purpose of registration, at their respective places on Tuesday, September 10th, 1907, and Tuesday, October 29th, 1907, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

Notice is further given that a Primary Election will be held on Tuesday, September 10th, 1907, between the hours of o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m., in the various election districts, wards, boroughs and townships in the County of Union, for the election of delegates to conventions of political parties, or for making nominations or for both, as the case may be.

MONEY ISSUED WHEN GEORGE III WAS KING.

Newark, Aug. 22—Richard Berkefeldt, messenger for the Merchants' National Bank, who is a collector of curios in the shape of odd coins and bills, added to his collection yesterday a bill issued by this State under the authority of King George III. of England, just before the Revolutionary War. The bill was taken to the bank by Edward J. Stocker, of South Seventh street. He inherited it with some other property from his grandfather, J. R. Reimer, of Belvidere, whose estate is being settled. The bill is about three by two inches in size and the paper is now yellow and aged-stained. The printing, though crude as is the general workmanship, is legible. On the top margin of the face are the words: "One Shilling and Six Pence." In the centre of the bill appears this: "This bill of one shilling and six pence proclamation is emitted by a law of the colony of New Jersey passed in the fourteenth year of the reign of his majesty, King George III. March 25, 1776." The bill is signed, as nearly as can be read, by J. O. Johnston, Robert Smith and John Smith, though their titles are not given. On the back of the bill is engraved a large leaf, while at one end appears the words "Eighteen Pence. To Counterfeit is Death," and on the other end "Burlington in New Jersey.. Printed by Isaac Collins, 1776." On the face is also a red seal, an engraving of the lion and unicorn rampant on either side of the English coat-of-arms.

"CORPSE" RISES IN BED; STARES AT UNDERTAKER

EMBALMER AND CORONER FLEE IN HASTE WHEN SUPPOSED DEAD MAN SITS UP.

Mishawaka, Ind.—A pale form lay on a bed at the home of Joseph Weinberg. Members of the family spoke in whispers, and all moved with noiseless tread.

The pale form was that of Joseph Weinberg himself and his relatives mourned him as dead. Weinberg had made several attempts to kill his wife and daughter, but had failed. The other night he choked his daughter severely and then took a dose of laudanum and fell to the bed apparently dead.

Within a short time the coroner came, accompanied by an embalmer. They entered the room and slowly approached the bed where the "dead" man lay. The embalmer was just preparing to begin work when the pale form raised itself and sat erect in bed with staring eyes.

The embalmer did not take time to gather up his instruments. He ran out at the door, followed at close range by the coroner. When they stopped they were some distance from the house.

Next morning Weinberg died. Members of his family called the coroner, but he hesitated. They called the same embalmer, and he hesitated. Finally after considerable persuasion on the part of the family and many assurances that Weinberg was really for sure dead, both men came to the house and performed their duties without interruption.

INDIAN TEARS UP $1,000.

Millionaire Osage Chief Enraged When Denied Whisky.

St. Louis.—Disappointed because he could not buy "fire water" and enraged because his monthly income had not increased in proportion to the advance in the price of crude oil, former chief of the Osages, Pushme-ta-ha, tore up and scattered to the winds more than $1,000 in new banknotes the other day on the streets of Tusla, I. T.

The Croesus of the Osage tribe, who is rated at $2,000,000 in his own right, is believed to be the richest Indian in the world to-day. His monthly income from oil and gas royalties alone exceeds $30,000. He handles the estate of his entire family, consisting of three wives and 17 children, whose combined wealth, at the present price of crude oil, is said to be at least $10,000,000.

The old chief lives in a miserable log hut, about 18 miles from here, in the rock ribbed hills of the Osage nation, and those who know him intimately say that his house resembles a barn, rather than a place of human habitation.

He rarely visits a white settlement, and when bootleggers cannot be found he becomes enraged and threatens dire vengeance against the white race. His threats, however, mean nothing, for he is too lazy to make trouble for white persons. His own sons declare him harmless, and say that since oil and gas have been discovered on their lands and great riches have come to the family the chief is growing cross, except when whisky is to be had.

Every member of the Osage tribe, consisting of about 2,000, is worth $15,000. Those who were fortunate in selecting their lands along the 96 meridian, in the midcontinent oil field, are immensely wealthy.

Walked All Day Asleep.

Boston.—Eleven-year-old Vasal Lashus wandered for more than nine hours in daylight about Savin Hill clad in a blue nightshirt. He escaped all observation as far as is known, and finally returned home in a badly dazed condition, without being able to give the least account of his wanderings.

All this time his frantic parents, several policemen and scores had been hunting the Savin Hill district for him.

Finally the parents gave it up and were wondering what more they could do, when there was a sound from the yard as of a door closing. Vasal walked in through the doorway of the flat, clad in his blue nightshirt. He said he had no idea where he had gone.

Alas and alas, but the pinks of propriety too often get bunched with the wall flowers.

OBITUARY.

John J. Schneider.

John J. Schneider, aged thirty-two years, died yesterday in Muhlenberg Hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment. He was a native of Yonkers, N. Y., and came to this city about eight years ago to become gardener for a West Eighth street family. He was a member of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men and was well known in the city and borough. The funeral will be held at Moore's undertaking parlors tomorrow morning at 8.30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be at Yonkers where he leaves a brother and three sisters.

Annie Wotorym.

Annie Wotorym, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wotorym, of South Second street, died yesterday. She was two months and eight days old. The funeral will be held this afternoon at the parents' home and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Louisa R. Reick.

Mrs. Louisa R. Reick, widow of Godfried Reick, died at her home on Watchung avenue, yesterday. She was in her eightieth year. The funeral will be held at the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

John C. Morris.

John C. Morris, for many years a prominent resident of Piscataway township, between New Market and Stelton, died at his home at 1:45 yesterday afternoon, less than three weeks after the demise of his wife. He had been ailing a long time but had really been ill about ten days. Death was due to a complication of troubles.

Mr. Morris was in his seventieth year and had lived in Piscataway township nearly all his life. He was a farmer by occupation and at one time was overseer of the poor of the township. Mrs. Morris died on August 3 after an illness of three months with locomotor ataxia. There are surviving, two daughters, Mrs. George Howe, of Perth Amboy, and Mrs. Irving Bown, of Asbury Park; and three sons, John, of Piscataway, and George and Parker Morris, of this city, proprietors of the Morris Brothers' auto garage.

The funeral will be held at the late home Saturday afternoon at 12:30 and at the South Plainfield Baptist church, of which he was a member, at 2 o'clock.

Miss Cele Engle.

Miss Cele Engle, daughter of William H. and Mattie Engle, died Tuesday at her parents' home, 47 Jefferson avenue, Elizabeth. She was a granddaughter of the late Philip Breen, former chief of police in this city. She was twenty-two years of age. The funeral will be from her late residence in Elizabeth tomorrow afternoon.

"Kilties" Are Coming.

The Fifty-first Annual Scottish Games of the New York Caledonian Club, on Labor Day, Monday, September 2, at Washington Park and Casino, Grand street, Maspeth, L. I., will be a banner day in the annals of the club on account of the large number of visiting organizations that have signified their intention of being present to take part in the parade and games, as well as by the very large number of entries that have been received from prominent atheletes in all parts of the country, including Canada, for the different games and competitions. The members of the club will be accompanied in the parade by delegations from the following organizations, in full Highland dress: Scottish Highlanders (who are scheduled to give an exhibition drill at the grounds), New York; Caledonian Club, Independent Scotch Guards and Highland Dress Association, of Boston, Mass.; Caledonian Club, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Fraser Highlanders, of Pawtucket, R. I.; Caledonian Club, of Paterson, N. J.; Caledonian Club, of Newark, and various other representative Scottish societies and clans.

Incendiary Caused Big Fire.

Portland, Me., Aug. 22.—As investigation proceeds, Chief of Police Mewer and Fire Chief Fowler, of Old Orchard, are more firmly convinced that the big fire which nearly wiped out Old Orchard, was of incendiary origin. A man who is said to have had a grievance aainst the management, and who was one of the highest salaried employes, is under police surveillance. He will not be allowed town. The police are seeking evidence strong enough to justify his arrest.

Little Child Seriously Ill.

COLBY BACK; FOR SOMMER

Senator Still Favors Him for Governor and Will Get Into Fight.

HE DECLINES TO TALK

He Will Be the Central Figure at Meetings of Colbyites to Be Held Today—Wants to See Papers.

Senator Everett Colby is home. The leader of the reform wing of the Republican party in Essex stepped from the Oceanic at her New York pier yesterday afternoon, after an absence from the United States of six weeks. He looked well and happy and ready to carry out his immediately expressed intention of getting down to work. With Mrs. Colby, the Senator has spent most of the time that he has been abroad in an automobile tour of France and England, although he made a special trip to Switzerland to study the practical workings of the initiative and referendum and recall permitted under the laws of the Alpine republic.

On the pier to meet the Colbys were the Senator's secretary, Ernest L. Quackenbush, and William M. Bailey, a New Idea Republican. There was a running fire of question and answer that gave the reporters but a slim chance. Mr. Colby remarked that there was "the deuce of a mixup," but declined to comment on any of the recent political developments until he had a chance to go over the situation and read the newspapers.

Mr. Colby would not comment on the Governorship, other than to say that his candidate and the candidate of the New Idea for the Republican nomination was Sheriff Frank H Sommer. He took occasion to express hope that the Sheriff would win out and confidence that such would be the case.

The Senator will be at headquarters in the Scheuer building, in Broad street, Newark, early today, and will be the central figure at this afternoon's meeting of the Essex County executive committee of the Republican League for Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation, one of the names for the Colbyite wing of the party. He will appear, too, at the session of the county advisory committee in the New Auditorium tonight.

Rumor has been diligently spreading to the effect that there would be some interesting developments this afternoon. Since Senator Colby went away, the Hudson County reform wing has expressed a desire for his nomination in opposition to the Sheriff. It is understood that Mr. Sommer has been seriously considering a possible change of course, and that there will be some things said behind the closed doors of the secret session of the executive committee that will have a hearing on the whole campaign.

It is understood that Sheriff Sommer has suggested to some of his intimate friends that it might be wise for him to withdraw, but that they have refused to listen to the militant county official, and assert that he must stay in to the finish of the race. On the eve of his departure for Europe, Senator Colby launched the Sommer boom.

Without being recognized, the Senator cleverly extracted some information as to political affairs from New York newspaperment at Quarantine. Everybody was shaken from the Senator's trail a half hour after the steamer docked. It was understood in New York that he and Mrs. Colby had hastened to the beautiful Llewellyn Park home, in West Orange, but another report had it that he had remained in New York. Certain it is that he successfully denied himself to the world and carried out his plan to make up for lost time and get in complete touch with the situation.

When asked, just after leaving the steamer, what he thought of the candidacy of Justice J. Franklin Fort, of the Supreme Court, and Chandler W. Riker for Governor, Mr. Colby replied:

"I do not wish to speak of a man's candidacy until I know what his principles are."

The Senator said that he was feeling in fine fettle and that Mrs. Colby had improved in health wonderfully abroad.

CANFIELD MAKES REPLY

Through Counsel, Denies that He "Welched" on Mills Bros' Brokerage Firm.

HAD LARGE ACCOUNT

But Alleges That Concern Conducted Many Unauthorized Dealings With His Stock.

The news of Mills Brother & Co.'s failure yesterday, had practically no effect on the stock market, as the suspension of the firm was regarded as unimportant from a Wall street standpoint, but it caused a flurry of interest in another way. This was utodue to the statement that Richard Canfield was the chief customer of the firm and admittedly a heavy loser through the failure and that steps taken by him to recover his claims had precipitated. These facts were published in yesterday's Daily Press.

When seen in Saratoga yesterday Mr. Canfield refused to discuss the matter, referring inquiries to Battle & Marshall, of New York. H.Snowden Marshall, of the firm, who is Mr. Canfield's personal counsel, said that it was true that the brokerage firm had carried a rather a heavy account for Mr. Canfield.

Mr. Marshall said that without notifying his client the firm had closed out the account while Mr. Canfield was absent from the city. On his return to New York Mr. Canfield demanded delivery of the stocks he had bought, and also made demands for a balance, but no satisfactory arrangement could be made. It was stated that Mr. Canfield had on deposit margins far above the legal banking requirements.

"In a statement made to us," said Mr. Marshall, "there are transactions amounting to $138,000 which Mr. Canfield says he did not authorize, and he knew nothing about them until he received the statement from the firm. It shows that after all the stocks had been disposed of there was owing him about $91,000.

"Mr. Canfield insisted that Mills Brothers turn over his account with the balance to some other broker. Until we are further informed with regard to the transaction it will be impossible for us to decide what action to take."

It was stated that Mr. Canfield maintains that several hundred thousand dollars is due him. From other sources it was learned that Mr. Canfield had on deposit with Mills Brothers a large sum of money to cover purchases made by him of 20,000 to 30,000 shares of Pennsylvania, Illinois Central and Delaware and Hudson.

It is evident that some misunderstanding arose of the account. The stocks were sold and for the last six weeks efforts have been made to adjust the difficulty. Counsel for Mr. Canfield on Wednesday made a final demand for the stock. Members of the firm had a conference with Battle & Marshall yesterday, and the result was that the brokerage house decided to announce its suspension.

Edward Harding, of No. 43 Exchange place, New York, was appointed the assignee. He stated later in the afternoon that to all appearances the firm might adjust its affairs and continue in business, but he was not then prepared to state the amounts of assets or liabilities. The caused of the failure he ascribed to the firm's inability to collect outstanding obligations.

Members of the brokerage house, while admitting that Mr. Canfield had been one of their customers, refused to comment on their transactions with him. The members of the firm are S. Frederick Mills, J. Harry Masson, Jr., and Philip O. Mills, the latter being the Board member. He was admitted to the Stock Exchange May 18, 1905. The firm was organized on September 29, 1905. Philip O. Mills was formerly well known in athletic circles, and in 1904 and 1905 was a member of the Harvard football team.

It was reported that the failure of the firm was to a large degree an aftermath of the recent suspension of James W. Henning. Friends of Mr. Henning, however, said that he had paid in full all of his obligations to Mills Brothers & Co.

Boy Shot As Camera Clicks.

While dressed in Indian war togs and posing for his photograph with two of his playmates, Kenneth Wilcox, twelve years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wilcox, of Westfield, was seriously wounded by the accidental discharge of a hammerless revolver which he carried in a belt at his side. The bullet lodged in the abdomen near the groin. Efforts to locate the bullet have so far been futile. The boy's condition is said to be critica.

—Seventy-five baskets of Jersey peaches, Mountain Rose and Reeves, were received at Neuman Bros. store today. Shoppers have been quick to buy them up and they are going fast.

EDITOR RUNYON'S VIVID RECOLLECTION OF A FIRE

VETERAN NEWSPAPERMAN OBJECTS TO PAINFUL REMINDER.

Frank W. Runyon, formerly editor and proprietor of another local paper is responsible for the following letter which will interest the old residents of the city:

Editor, The Daily Press:

There has been no department of your excellent paper which I have read with greater interest this summer, than the articles reprinted from the Constitutionalist of the early seventies. They bring back vividly the days of long ago, their pleasures and their pains. For instance, the article regarding the fire in the belfry of the First M. E. church one Sunday in May, 1870. How well I remembered that fire. I enjoyed its thrilling beauties from a reserved seat on Manning Jenning's back fence. I was there early, I stayed late. I saw the first water put on the flames, and cheered with other kids when the last reel of muddy hose was taken up. It was a glorious sight and I revelled in it.

An animated interview later in the neighborhood of the woodshed when I failed to explain why I had forgotten that I had a church of my own to attend that Sunday morning furnishes the memories which I would fain you had not recalled.

Keep up your pleasant task of repainting the past, but "edit out," if you can, these painful scenes.

Reminiscently yours,
F. W. RUNYON.

DEMOCRATIC EXCURSION BIGGEST OF ITS KIND

AND J. E. MARTINE WAS THE BIGGEST FIGURE IN THE CROWD.

The Democratic County Committee's excursion to Witzel's Point Grove, College Point, L. I., yesterday, was the biggest thing of its kind ever held by a political party in this county. Fifteen hundred of the faithful went on it, among them James E. Martine, of this city, who was the chief celebrity. The affair was a big success in every way. Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., and the half a dozen other local leaders who accompanied Mr. Martine on the trip, got home with him at 11:28 o'clock last night. They said it was a lovely trip.

All sorts of booms were discussed, but as far as the nomination for the Governorship was concerned, it being a Union county crowd, "Jim" Martine was the whole show, and Frank Katzenbach, of Trenton, who is generally believed to have a better chance than any other Democrat of getting the nomination, looked a bit lonely in one corner of the boat. He did more than his share of handshaking. It may have helped some, for quite a few declared in his favor and all said that if the convention favored him he would have no more ardent supporters than those from Union county.

Mr. Martine, Mr. Katzenbach and State Senator George Silzer, of New Brunswick, made speeches at the grove, after dinner. They lauded one another with compliments. Enthusiasm was not very noticeable for anyone.

Higgins Gets Twenty Days.

Borough justice took a big brace last night when Mayor N. B. Smalley, who is acting borough judge in the absence from town of Borough Recorder Dolliver, handed out a sentence of twenty days in the borough lockup to John Higgins, of Stone street. Higgins was arrested on the complaint of his wife by Marshal Pope. Mrs. Higgins told the Mayor of her husband's irregular habits and cruelty to her when intoxicated. Thirty days is the limit for local imprisonment, longer terms than that being served at Somerville.

Baptist Church Directory.

An attractive booklet, containing annual statements of the various departments of the First Baptist church, with a list of the officers and a directory of the present members of the church, has just been issued. The cover design includes excellent reproductions of photographs of the church and of Faith chapel.

Improving Storm Sewer.

The street department is improving the storm sewer on Somerset street. New inlets are being built. The sidewalks are being improved also. The work at the bridge is of a rather difficult character on account of the lowness of the buildings.

HEPTASOPHS TO CONVENE

TO ELECT A DEPUTY

J. V. E. Vanderhoef's Election to Higher Office Leaves No District Deputy.

Heptasophs from all parts of the State will send representatives to this city early in September to convene in this city on the occasion of the election of a district deputy to take the place of J. V. E. Vanderhoef, whose recent election to a higher office has necessitated his resignation as deputy.

At a meeting of the lodgemen held Monday evening, V. W. Nash, Sr., was appointed delegate to attend the meeting here and to cast the local organization's vote for Mr. Vanderhoef's successor. Delegates from District No. 50, of which Conclave No. 505, the local order, is a member, will come to this city from Trenton, Perth Amboy, Atlantic City, the Oranges, Newark, Morristown, and nearby cities. There will be about twenty-five out of town lodgemen present to ballot. The leading candidate for the office is a Trenton physican.

As was the case at the last visit of State Heptasophs to this city about four years ago, the local lodgemen will provide for their entertainment in the best of style. In connection with the business meeting, the visiting delegates will be entertained at the lodge rooms and given opportunity to meet the members, and there will also be a banquet given at the Hotel Kensington in honor of the visitors. V. W. Nash is in charge of the arrangements for the guests' entertainment.

Mr. Vanderhoef has held the office of district deputy for nearly three years. He was elected to a higher office in the lodge in January and shortly afterwards tendered his resignation as district deputy. It was his duty in this office to visit the various conclaves throughout this part of the State and conduct the rite of installing the officers.

NUPTIAL SERENADERS BECOME INDIGNANT

BECAUSE BRIDEGROOM TREATS CALITHUMPIAN CHORUS WITH COOLNESS.

About fifty young people of Piscataway who went to Mahlon Mundy's house Wednesday night to serenade Mr. Mundy and his bride, Miss Sarah Martin, who were married last Saturday and had just returned from their wedding trip, were very much put out when the objects of their serenade turned a deaf ear to the metallic importunities.

The serenaders had made elaborate preparations for their calithumpian chorus, including the annexing of a big wash boiler and many tin pans. The serenading custom has always been followed in the far corners of Piscataway and it is an unheard of thing there for bride and groom to fail to recognize the delicate attention.

The reception was so entirely icy that one of the serenaders was moved to toss a lemon through the window of the Mundy house. At length, they declare, they heard Mr. Mundy tell his wife to get him a revolver.

That riled the serenaders even more and finally they invigiled the bridegroom outside. When he came, they assert, he threatened to shoot. In the meantime, however, the serenaders had armed themselves with a lot of fly-paper and they let some of this drive at the bride-groom, and afterwards declared, proudly that some of it took personal effect.

Subsequent to the fly-paper episode the serenaders retired and held an indignation meeting. Among the serenaders were James Hanson, William Barlow, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Clapp, the Misses Bowers, Miss Stout.

MACHINIST INJURED AT DYNAMO WORKS

Ernest Jones, a machinist, was injured at the Rushmore Dynamo Works, this morning, as a result of an accident to an engine. A heavy piece of wood was driven against his leg, while he was engaged in repairing the break, and the flesh was badly torn.

The ambulance was summoned, but Jones decided that a trip to the hospital was not necessary. It was rumored about the street that the gas engine involved in the accident had exploded, but Mr. Rushmore, speaking over the telephone through his stenographer, said that there was no explosion. The reports had a cylinder head blowing out, tearing a gap in one of the walls.

SLIGHT FIRE CAUSED IN AN UNUSUAL WAY

BROUGHT ABOUT BY WIRE ATTACHED TO ELECTRIC IRONER.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters, last night, for a slight blaze at the home of A. M. Parker, of 965 West Seventh street. The flames had practically been extinguished before the apparatus arrived by Philip Macintyre, a next-door neighbor, who had noticed the reflection through a window.

The fire was caused in an unusual way. Mr. and Mrs. Parker went out for a ride and no one was at home. A servant had left the current turned on in an electric ironer and the connecting wire came in contact with a radiator. Through a break in the insulation, a cross was brought about and the wire covering was ignited. Sparks dropped to the floor and set fire to some clothes in a basket. When Mr. Macintyre entered the room it was filled with flame and smoke and the radiator was so hot a hand could not be placed upon it. The damage will reach about $75.

Another still alarm was received at 6 o'clock last night for a chimney blaze at the Baker residence on East Fifth street, near Watchung avenue.

PHYSICIANS DISAGREE On SIMILAR CASES.

One Says Scarlet Fever, the Other Hives—Houses Quarantined.

The medical skill of two borough phyiscians is pitted one against the other in the diagnosis of a couple of cases of illness on Lincoln place. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smalley, of Lincoln place, and Mildred Coley, a neighbor and a playmate, are the sick ones, and dissimilar diagnosis are given by the family physicians in each case.

The little Smalley girl was taken ill about nine days ago, and the physician summoned diagnosed the case as hives. The child was prescribed for, but not confined to the house by the ailment. This week Mildred Coley was taken ill, and her case diagnosed as a light form of scarlet fever by the other physician. Health Officer Frank Dencklau, of the borough, was notified, and the house quarantined. When Dencklau went to put up the card, Mrs. Coley said that it seemed queer that her daughter's case should be so strictly quarantined, while the little neighbor was not even confined to the house. They did not reveal the name of the Smalley girl, and the health officer conducted a house to house investigation for the case, examining all the children in the neighborhood yesterday. When he found the case, he recognized it as scarlet fever and went to look up the physician. The medical man scorned the idea of scarlet fever, asserting that the case was hives. When Dencklau told him that the health ordinance would require a more carfeul examination in this case and arranged for a consultation between three other physicians, but the Smalley family physician finally acknowledged that the case might be a light attack of scarlet fever, and the house was accordingly placarded.

Both children are able to be about the house, and the parents in each case are mystified because of the strictness of the letter of the law. The neighbors claim that neither case is scarlet fever, for both children have practically recovered in less than a week.

Plainfield Legion Delegates.

At the regular monthly meeting of Plainfield Legion, No. 1495, N. P. L., last night, James E. Church and Horace J. Martin, Sr., were elected as delegate and alternate to the National convention of the order which meets at Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 17-20.

HURT IN AUTO UPSET

Mrs. George Cruse, of Fanwood, Severely Injured Near Chambersburg, Pa.

MACHINE TURNED OVER

Was Riding With Her Husband and Little Son When the Accident Occurred.

While driving with a party of relatives in a big automobile yesterday afternoon, Mrs. George Cruse, of Fanwood, was seriously injured by the overturning of the car, which ran off the roadway. The accident happened at Chambersburg, N. Y., where Mrs. Cruse, with her husband and son, Donald, are sojourning for the summer. Mrs. Cruse, who lives on Tillotsen road, in the township, is well known here; he is counsel for the Union Signal and Swich Co., of New York city.

The party of automobilists, which included Mr. and Mrs. Cruse, started early in the afternoon to take a spin through the Shenandoah Valley. As they left the boundaries of Chambersburg, something went wrong with the steering gear, and the big machine, which was moving at a fast clip, suddenly swerved to the side of the road, striking the bank, and overturned. The only member of the party injured was Mrs. Cruse, who was unconscious when picked up. An examination showed contusions and bruises, and for a time it was feared that there was internal injuries.

Harry E. Knight, of North avenue, Fanwood, a brother-in-law of Mr. Cruse, was notified of the accident by telegraph this morning. The message stated that Mrs. Cruse's injuries were not serious, but failed to give any particulars. The machine was badly damaged. Mr. and Mrs. Cruse left home with their son several weeks ago to spend the summer touring New York State, where they have many relatives. The machine belonged to the people in Chambersburg, whom they had been visiting for the past week.

PROBABLE CANDIDATES IN SOMERSET COUNTY

SHERIFF AND SURROGATE TO BE PICKED AT NOVEMBER ELECTION.

The offices of sheriff and surrogate will be filled in Somerset county this fall. The two leading candidates for sheriff at present are David Buist and Robert Kay, both of Bernards township. Bernards has not had a county office in some years and there seems to be a disposition to give it the right of way. For surrogate the Republicans have no stated candidate. George F. Brown and Dr. J. H. Cooley, both of the borough, have been talked about. A Democratic candidate for sheriff is Frank T. Ross, of Bridgewater, who was defeated by Edward E. Cooper three years ago. For surrogate William J. DeMond may be a candidate for re-election.

Freeholders will be elected this fall in Bedminster, to succeed David Philhower; Branchburg, to succeed Henry W. Baird; Hillsborough, to succeed Richard W. Hoagland, and North Plainfield, to succeed John Emmons. It is expected that Mr. Philhower will not be returned from Bedminster. W. C. Powelson and Zachariah Smith are candidates for the place. Ie seems likely that Henry W. Baird and Richard W. Hoagland will be returned for another term. There is some opposition to Mr. Emmons in North Plainfield.

Auto Party's Narrow Escape.

An automobile party, consisting of Nicholas N. Hines, of 10 Vincent place, Montclair, his two daughters, Mrs. Mary Conly and Mrs. John Smith, of Pittsburg, his son, John Hines and Mrs. Smith's three children, narrowly escaped serious injury at the Bellevue avenue grade crossing of the Greenwood Lake Branch of the Erie Railroad Wednesday night. The presence of mind and quick action of Mr. Hines, who drove the car, undoubtedly save the entire party from being mangled or killed by the train.

Dies After Fight With Knife.

New York, Aug. 23.—As the result of the first quarrel with his wife which he had had in the five years since his marriage, Albert M. Timpson, of No. 543 West 156th street, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas. Until four months ago Mr. Timpson worked for the New York Life Insurance Company as an auditor. Run down and ill through overwork, he was unable to continue his duties and the thought preyed upon his mind and rendered him irritable.

THREE NEW BRIDGES PRACTICALLY COMPLETE

CENTRAL WILL NOT BEGIN ANY MORE WORK UNTIL OCTOBER.

The three new railroad bridges over Washington street, Watchung and Park avenues, are receiving their finishing touches today and the Central officials have planned to formally declare them completed on Monday. Trains will then be sent over all four tracks and the switches which have been in operation for several months will be removed. The structures are models of their kind and were put in position in record time.

The road has now built seven bridges in the city and six more have been arranged for but all work is to be suspended until October. It was hoped to rush the construction along without cessation but the company has been notified that the steel spans and columns are not ready. The old bridges still to be removed are at Madison and Central avenues, New street, Liberty street, Plainfield and Grant avenues. The thirteen structures will cost the Jersey Central in all about $250,000.

While the three over Washington street, Watchung and Park avenues were being built span by span, all trains were operated on two tracks between the points. Temporary telegraph offices in charge of Fritz Harding and J. W. Smith furnished orders for switching and the task was carried through without the slightest mishap or any serious delays. This is considered remarkable from the fact that over 100 passenger and more than that number of freights pass through the city every twenty-four hours.

FORMER PLAINFIELD GIRL A "LEADING" ACTRESS

MISS VIRGINIA ANDERSON HEADED CAST IN "MONTANA".

Though the fact was known to few in the audience, the leading actress in the production of "Montana," at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, is a former Plainfield young woman. She is Miss Virginia Anderson, daughter of the late Mrs. J. B. Anderson, who at one time conducted a needlework store in the Codington building on Park avenue. The family resided on Madison avenue until a few years ago when they removed to Brooklyn, in which city Mrs. Anderson died.

Miss Anderson is but nineteen years old but has been on the stage since she was sixteen and has made rapid progress in the profession. She was at first in musical comedy but abandoned it for the dramatic field and was selected by Henry D. Cary to head the "Montana" cast after he had witnessed her work in another production. The young woman has a charming personality and her acting last night in the role of "Flo Harper" received the stamp of approval from people unaware of her identity. She was especially strong in the emotional parts.

Root At Muldoon's Farm.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 23.—It became known yesterday that Elihu Root, Secretary of State, is taking exercise on the large farm and training quarters of William Muldoon, formerly champion wrestler of the United States. Mr. Root arrived at the farm several days ago. It is said that the Secretary of State is suffering from overwork and fatigue, and was on the verge of a serious breakdown. He is accompanied by his secretary, who attends to his correspondence.

Horse Scared to Death.

Death from heart disease was the fate of a horse at Long Branch on Tuesday. On that day there was what is known as a "grand street pageant" of a visiting circus. In the procession were dogs, ponies, and four elephants. W. H. Campbell tried to go by the elephants with a sorrel horse. As the animal came opposite the elephants it dropped dead. Veterinaries say that the horse was frightened to death by the elephants.

Boom a Hughes for Governor.

At a meeting of the Bergen County Democratic Executive Committee, held in Hackensack Thursday night, a resolution was unanimously adopted calling for the nomination of William Hughes, the present Congressman from the Sixth New Jersey District for Governor. The resolution says Mr. Hughes has demonstrated that he is superior to the blandishments and allurements of high official position.

H. F. KEAN PESSIMISTIC

Former County Chairman Believes Union County Fight Will Be a Hard One.

GIVES HIS REASONS

Suggests That Assembly Candidates Should Come From Westfield, Rahway and Cranford.

In an interview with a correspondent for The Daily Press last night, former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean, a brother of United States Senator John Kean, reiterated his reasons, published exclusively in this paper, yesterday, why he is personally opposed to the renomination of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, and he told where in his opinion the candidates should come from. Cranford, Rahway and Westfield are picked by the banker-politician as deserving of representation on the Assembly ticket.

Mr. Kean declares that the election in November so far as Union county, at least, is concerned, is going to be very close. He enters a dissenting opinion to the report current in the party councils that a sweeping victory is in store for the G. O. P., and he tells why he takes a decidedly pessimistic view of the outlook.

The former county chairman in his talk last night did not say what effect the Bishops' law, the exposure of rottenness in the various State institutions, and kindred matters would have on the party. But he did speak plainly concerning the probable attitude of the commuter vote. According to him, there are more Wall street men residing in Union than in any other county in the State. Conditions in the stock market have not only been very unsettled, but really panicky for some time and the brokers are known to place a large amount of responsibility for this undesirable situation on the Republican administration. The commuter vote, he argues, will likely cut a large figure in the impending campaign. Therefore, he expresses the belief that the party in Union must nominate the very strongest ticket possible.

During his conversation, Mr. Kean boomed no particular candidate and neither did he mention any possibilities, confining himself to the idea that Rahway, Westfield and Cranford should be given a chance to name the Assembly ticket. It is not known that there is any one in Cranford who has a hankering after a nomination and the same condition is said to prevail at Westfield, which it is claimed strongly favors a fourth term for Mr. Perkins.

Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway, yesterday confirmed the statement made some days ago in these columns that he does not desire another term. In reference to Mr. Tillman's attitude, the Rahway Democrat said today: "He says he has gone through four campaigns in that connection, three times successful, and he does not feel that he can undertake another one, with the strain, time and expense required before election, to say nothing of the same requirements when entering upon the duties of the office, if elected. It will be remembered that Mr. Tillman passed through a critical illness early in the spring, and though feeling well at present, care for his health doubtless is a large factor in making his decision—though he did not say positively he would decline the nomination if it was insisted upon by the convention. According to the local Republican organ, however, the nomination will not 'go begging,' as it gives the names of three present city officholders who would be willing to fill the breach—city treasurer, Charles H. Angleman, Thomas H. Roberts and Guy M. Howard, both members of the finance board."

Explosion Kills Seven.

Seven men were killed at eleven o'clock this morning by a boiler explosion on the coal barge "Paterson" which runs between Hoboken and Boston. The Paterson was in drydock at the foot of Seventeenth street, Hoboken. The engineer, Hopkins, went below this morning and started a fire under the boiler. The explosion occurred a few minutes later. The vessel was wrecked, and the engineer and six others were instantly killed.

Successful Crabbers.

William Neumann, of Spooner avenue, and Frank Day, of West Fourth street, spent Thursday in a crabbing expendition along Woodbrige creek, near Boynton Beach. They landed over a hundred of the crustaceans and in addition Day hauled in a dozen tomcods. Friends of the fishermen enjoyed a crab supper last night.

Joseph Sweeney, of Liberty street, leaves tomorrow for Niagara Falls, where he will join Bud Strader, of the New Madison and spend a week at the resort.

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How

Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

WESTFIELD.

Rahway City Council has ordered the city attorney to use all legal means possible to prevent the town of Westfield emptying the overflow from its sewage disposal beds in Robinson's Branch Brook below the water company's dam in Clark Township. As the Middlesex Water Company has given Westfield $10,000 toward the cost of the work and Westfield has agreed to take care of its sewage disposal, the matter is now a fight between Westfield and Rahway.

James T. Pierson, of Westfield, was thrown from a trolley car in Elizabeth Tuesday as it was turning the corner of West Jersey and Broad streets. He was not seriously injured. Mr. Pierson nearly lost his life in a steam road accident several years ago.

Funeral services of Mrs. Alice Ashforth were held at her late home, 35 First street, Westfield, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Lillian Wickenhaver visited Miss Ella Lane at Pluckemin a few days ago.

Mrs. John Hall, of Neshanic, is spending some time with relatives in Plainfield.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Another automobile accident was narrowly averted at the Front street corner late Tuesday night, when a big touring car containing five people tried to make the turn while proceeding at a high speed from Mountain avenue. The chauffeur, who was apparently a stranger on local roads, realized that he should make the turn down Front street just as he was passing the roadway. Without changing his speed, he twisted the wheel, and the big car slewed around into Front street, narrowly missing the sign post and flag pole. One of the women of the party screamed, thinking the car would strike the pole.

GROUND TO DEATH IN BIG CEMENT MACHINE.

Workman at Washington Horribly Mangled After Being Drawn Down By Pile of Material.

Washington, Aug. 23. The horribly mangled body of Frontino Angelo, an Italian employe of the Edison Cement Company, is at the morgue of D. B. Laubach here. It will be buried at the expense of the company.

Angelo was employed with four other Italians in a stockhouse at New Village. It was his duty to keep the finished cement directed toward a large screw conveyor, which made about forty revolutions a minute. The men had full warning of the dangers of getting near the conveyor, but, it is said, the dead man became careless and got on top of the heap under which the conveyor was at work. He was drawn into the screw and his agonizing cries completely unnerved the other men, who were helpless.

Angelo's body clogged the machinery so that it stopped, owing to the burning out of the fuse, the machinery being operated by electricity. That part of the plant was shut down for the day after the body was removed.

Coroner Edward Sharp, of Oxford, was called and after an investigation gave permit to remove the body to the undertaking establishment. Several other Italians have met an almost similar fate at the plant. Angelo was about thirty years old and leaves a widow and child in Italy. He resided at New Village.

CHORUS GIRLS ARRESTED FOR ALLEGED HOTEL FROLIC

Six Damsels Gave Bonds at Red Bank For Appearance Before Grand Jury.

Six chorus girls of the "Playing the Ponies" theatrical company, which appeared in this city Monday night, were arrested Wednesday night, after a performance at Red Bank, to answer in a damage suit brought by the proprietor of an Asbury Park hotel. According to the complaint the girls cut up "high jinks" in the hotel Tuesday night, and tore up the sheets of their beds. The hotel man said the damage amounted to $50.

When arrested some of the girls had hysterics, and protested that their arrest was an outrage. Justice of the Peace Edward Wise was roused from bed to hold court. The girls were required to furnish $50 bail each to await the action of the October Grand Jury. The bail was provided by the manager of the company.

Scott Foster, president of the People's Bank, New York, is stopping at the home of Plainfield relatives, D. N. Groendyke and Dr. M. Van Vliet.

FOUGHT A PILOT SNAKE.

Reptile Descended Rope from Which Blaster Was at Work.

While John Hutchinson, a blaster at the quarries of the County Workhouse, twelve miles above Trenton, was at work yesterday, he was attacked by a pilot snake. At the time he was on a rope lader 150 feet from the top of the quarries. Nearly a hundred of the prisoner's and Hutchinson's fellow-workmen watched his fight with the snake, unable to offer any help.

Hutchinson had been lowered about half way to the bottom of the chasm, and was dangling on a rope seventy-five feet from the bottom, preparing to put a blast of dynamite in the rocks, when his attention was attracted to a peculiar gliding motion on the rope above his head. Looking up, he beheld a large pilot snake gliding toward him. He was unarmed except for the little drill which he carried to pry open the fissures of the rocks.

Hutchinson slipped the stick of dynamite into one of his pockets. Then, as the snake came within reach, he struck at it with the drill. The swaying of the rope deflected the blow, and the snake was not dislodged. Hutchinson struck again, more quickly than before, and the snake paused in its descent. Finally the reptile uncoiled from the rope and dropped to the pit below.

MET ON BOARDWALK AND WED.

Girl Who Says She's Carnegie's Niece Had Once Refused Lover.

Harry d'Arcy Lentz and Miss Annie B. Rowley, who says she is a niece of Andrew Carnegie, met on the boardwalk at Atlantic City yesterday and were married soon afterward. The couple used to be sweethearts, but had not met for some time, and neither knew of the presence of the other there until they came face to face on the boardwalk.

Lentz had once asked Miss Rowley to marry him, but had been refused, and yesterday, after their meeting he renewed his proposal. The girl not only accepted him, but consented to be married at once.

The ceremony was performed in a hotel parlor, and after the news of the marriage and requests for forgiveness and approval to Pittsburg, where both lived, they left on their wedding journey.

APPROPRIATION TOO SMALL.

Piscataway School Board Must Secure More Transportation Money

The Piscataway Board of Education has called a special election to be held at the New Market School building, Friday afternoon, August 30, to ask for an additional appropriation of $1,500 for transportation of pupils. The Board learned, when all the bids for transportation were opened, that the original appropriation of $1,750 was little less than half of what would be needed.

There are three established routes, and a new one is being considered. In addition to the expense of the routes, the Board will have to pay $900 for trolley car fare. The entire sum required will be over $2,500. The new route will not be established until after the election.

Conference on Pacific Cruise.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—President Roosevelt will hold an important Conference in Oyster Bay today on the subject of the cruise of the Atlantic battle ship fleet to the Pacific. He has summoned Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry, Rear Admiral Robley D Evans, commander in Chief of the Atlantic fleet, and Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson, chief of the Bureau of Navigation. The President has been supplied with memoranda regarding details of the cruise, including an itinerary showing how the fleet of sixteen or more battle ships can make a cruise entirely around the globe.

The Tunnel Committee.

Robert L. Pierce, a real estate agent, of Dunellen, who is well known in this city, has been appointed a member of the committee to represent the New York & New Jersey Real Estate Exchange in connection with the formal opening of the McAdoo tunnel. Mr. Pierce was one of the organizers of the Exchange.

Mrs. Combs, of York, Pa., is visiting with her daughter, Miss Combs, of Linden avenue.

IN THE WRONG FLOCK.

No Wonder Mrs. Philpots' Blue Ribbon Caused Smiles.

The temperance society was to meet that afternoon. Mrs. Philpots dressed in a hurry and came panting downstairs. She was a short plump woman. "Addie, run up to my room and get my blue ribbon rosette, the temperance badge," she directed her maid. "I have forgotten it. You will know it, Addie—blue ribbon and gold lettering." "Yas'm, I knows it right well." Addie could not read, but she knew a blue ribbon with gold lettering when she saw it and therefore had no trouble in finding it and fastening it properly on the dress of her mistress. Mrs. Philpots was too busy greeting her friends or giving close attention to the speakers at the meeting to note that they smiled when they shook hands with her. When she reached home supper was served, so she went directly to the dining room, where the other members of the family were seated. "Gracious me, mother!" exclaimed her son, "that blue ribbon—have you been wearing that at the temperance meeting?" A loud laugh went up on all sides. "Why, what is it, Harry?" asked the good woman, clutching at the ribbon in surprise. "Why, mother dear, didn't you know that was the ribbon I wore at the show?" The gold lettering on the ribbon read:

THE LENGTH OF ETERNITY.

This Man Had His Own and Peculiar Ideas on the Subject.

Mrs. C. W. McCulloch, of Chicago, on taking up her new office of justice of the peace, told a Chicago reporter that in the performance of marriage ceremonies she proposed to omit the word "obey." "In these enlightened days," said Mrs. McCulloch, "the word 'obey' has lost its meaning in the marriage contract. The best wife does not propose to 'obey' her husband, any more than the best husband proposes to 'obey' his wife. Obedience is for dogs, horses—creatures without reason. So I think that we should drop this meaningless word. For it is meaningless. As meaningless as a certain other word was to a certain boorish husband. The husband had been particularly nasty one rainy Sunday at home, and his wife finally began to cry. 'Eight years ago,' she sobbed, 'you swore eternal love, and now—' 'Oh,' growled the man, 'how long do you expect eternal love to last, any way?'"

A Countess' Schedule.

The following division of the day made by the countess of Sheffield after she was the mother of four children may be profitably accepted by untitled mothers: Eight hours for bed and sleep, no more, no less; one hour for communion with myself; four hours to all necessary household duties, for if they cannot be finished in that time they may wait a day; four hours to the comfort and companionship of my children; four hours with my husband, music and books and the fresh air; three hours to friends and pleasures in which all may participate. So I have lived for 20 years, and so I hope to live until the end.

Japanese Flower Decoration.

In the Japanese method of flower decoration—to become a master in which a man must study for at least 14 years, seven years of hard work making him only fairly proficient—only few flowers are used. One beautiful bough is considered ample esthetic food for a day. The Japanese know that only one beautiful object at a time can be appreciated, and they aim at placing that object in perfect relation to its surroundings. A vase of flowers in a Japanese house is the principal thing in the room, near which the chief guest of the evening is seated.

The Lightning Rod.

The lightning rod was invented by Benjamin Franklin in 1752, to arrest the electricity of the thunder. When the information of the discovery reached Rabbi Saul Katzenellenbogen, of Wilna, he said that the theory was not new, because it was already known in Talmudic times, and he showed a passage in the Tosefta (third century) where it says that "On Sabbath it is permitted to place an iron near the hennery to safeguard the fowls from thunder and lightning strikes." The Talmud vouches that "there is nothing superstitious about this belief."

Busybodies.

"I never saw such a rubber-neck," sneered Mrs. Gabble. "Just because the doctor stopped at our house yesterday she immediately wanted to know what was the matter." "Yes," replied Mrs. Naybor; "I wonder how she'd like the rest of us to be that curious about her. You know the doctor stopped at her house to-day, too." "You don't say? I wonder what's the matter there?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Getting His Salary.

A colored preacher who had only a small share of this world's goods, and whose salary was not forthcoming on several occasions became exasperated. At his morning service he spoke to his church members in this way: "Bredern and sistern, things is not as they should be. You must not 'spect I can preach on with you an' boa'd in Heben."

as all the ingredients, carefully prepared, are in the package ready for immediate use. Each package, enough for two large pies, 10 vents. Order a dozen today from your grocer. Excellent also as a pudding sauce, cake filling, etc.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

With "McFadden's Row of Flats" this season are such well known artists as Jerry Sullivan, Tom Hearn, Everett T. Scott, Charles Johnson, Ford West, Harry Crandell, William Durwood, George Buchanan, F. R. Stephenson, Thomas Dwyer, Annie Hart, Annette Dorgan, Estelle Gilmore, Daisy Dickson, Pansy Allen, Toma Henry, Pansy Walden, Belle Donahue, Ella Eagen, Dixie Beaumont, and a bevy of beautiful blushing chorus ladies complete the list. The specialties and musical numbers are scattered throughout the action of the comedy and are said to be pleasing to the eye and ear alike. The comedy which is well known, is an excellent one, full of rich but harmless fun, and freely interspersed with all the latest hits of the day. The scenery is on the spectacular order and is carried complete for the production which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

At New Plainfield Theatre, Saturday, Matinee and Night, Aug. 24.

Mines and stocks are not a comparison to the profits as derived in successful musical plays. It is said that Charles Dillingham's takings for "The Red Mill," during its New York engagement, total almost three quarters of a million dollars, which was an average of nearly twenty thousand dollars a week for the season and must have been witnessed by nearly one half of the poplation of New York city. "The Red Mill" will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night.

Every year adds to the worthily attained popularity of the golden voiced singer, Al. H. (Metz) Wilson, who has come to be known among theatre goers as the ambassador of German dialect. Supported by a splendid company, all the stage accessories that go with a successful production, and his "New Metz In the Alps," the strongest production in which he has ever appeared, the present season's tour is amounting to an ovation. He will be seen at the New Plainfield Theatre, next Thursday night.

Mr. Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, who directs the affairs of the numerous Nixon & Zimmerman attractions, claims a peculiar distinction for "The Mayor of Laughland," in which Tom Waters is starring this year. He avers that no other show that he ever handled has been offered so many cash guarantees for return dates nor has received so many newspaper reviews that were absolutely free from all criticism. "The Mayor of Laughland" is yet to receive its first bad notice from the press. This is a record of which Mr. Waters, the star, and Mr. Nirdlinger, the manager, feel justly proud. The more so perhaps because "Laughland" is a brand new comedy. This attraction will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, next Friday night. The company is a large and complete one, with more than one well known name in the cast, and a chorus that is more than ordinarily attractive. Mr. Waters is the author of several popular songs that are sung in the show, and call for elaborate costuming and electrical effects.

Mabel Montgomery, who is making her second annual tour in "Zira" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, Labor Day, Sept. 2, matinee and night. The play was written by J. Hartley Manners and Henry Miller, and is based on incidents in Wilkie Collins' "The New Magdalen." Miss Montgomery will appear as Hester Trent, a Red Cross nurse in the Boer war, who has a past and who tries to begin life anew by passing herself off as another woman, whom she supposes dead. Of course the other woman is not dead, and around it is woven the story. Much of the play concerns the battle for supremacy between the two women, and Hester's victory over herself. The supporting company is an exceptionally capable one, and the piece has been handsomely and adequately mounted.

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of July 7, 1870:

"COMMENCEMENT. On Friday last, Assembly Hall was crowded by our citizens, to witness the closing exercises of the graduating class. It was the first 'Commencement' that has ever taken place in Plainfield, and all were anxious for the creditable appearance of our own pro-Collegiate Institution. Precisely at 2 p. m. the exercises commenced.

"First. Music by Misses Addie and Laura Smith, 'Les Belles Castillanes,' a fine piece of music, admirably adapted to display the skill of the young musicians and tastefully was it performed. Some objections were offered to its length, but it seemed to quiet the fluttering nerves of the class, a point always proper to be considered.

"Second. Prayer by Rev. Dr. Smith, of the Reformed Dutch church; a touching appeal to heaven for blessings upon all educational efforts, and especially upon our Plainfield school and the first graduating class.

"Third. Salutatory, 'Prehistoric Man,' by Master Charles F. Stillman, a subject completely in the dark, but leaving room for imaginative handling with no data but the monuments of marble darkness. Charles speculated a good thought, and pictured all the supposed history of the prehistoric. Much older persons have drawn conclusions too absurd to repeat—young Stillman gave a natural picture and deserves credit for omitting the nonsensical extravagances as popular as they are gross.

"Fourth. 'Literature of the Age,' by Miss Carrie Mitchell. A judicious, well conceived and feeling essay; and the amiable author did not hesitate to be quite emphatic in pointed delivery. We cannot agree with her, that Longfellow is 'peerless,' while Whittier lives, or that Mayme Reide is much better than the Dime Novelists; with all the rest of her admirable essay we fully agree. Carrie was very happy in her assertion that the Egyptian plagues lasted only for a season; while some novels appear endless. We are glad that Mrs. Southworth was not forgotten. 'Our local press' was a compliment—perhaps considered necessary.

"Fifth. Recitation, 'The Convict Ship,' by Master Robert A. Meeker. Robert's enunciation is clear and distinct, and his appreciation of the sentiment of the author quite correct.

"Sixth. Music, 'The Larboard Watch,' A Class. This was executed with much taste.

"Seventh. 'Der Handshuh,' by Master Arthur L. Titsworth. As was remarked by a German on another occasion: 'Des'er speech was goot as never was, on der pointing mit der finger was schust dare every dimes.' Though not understood by half the audience, the points were well made by the author's gesticulation, and well conveyed the author's interest.

"Eighth. 'Fault-Finding,' Miss Maggie Ball. Maggie went well back in history, and commenced with the discontent in Paradise, and feared that fault-finding might be hereditary. Fault-finding increased or ran into that lower grade of discontent shown in scolding. Parents and teachers may easily discourage pupils by finding fault, as some do, as a sort of system of teaching. We are pleased to know that this system does not prevail in One Public School.

"Ninth. 'Antiquities of Egypt,' Master Samuel P. Burr. The subject was somewhat of the character of the first composition, furnishing but few facts, on which to base a treatise. The Shepherd Kings who subjugated and ruled the land, have left nothing but a few disjointed fables in which to speculate. Herodotus gives us something, but in a measure so extravagant that we fail to select truth from fiction. The picture of the painted illustrations of conflict and triumph was well drawn and delivered with good effect.

"Tenth. 'Music, 'The Captive Maidens,' Misses Libbie and Laura Smith. A good selection executed with becoming taste.

"Eleventh. 'Progress,' Master Perley H. Mason. Excellently conceived and energetically delivered. The action was good and the emphasis well placed. The various forces, mechanical and scientific, were well portrayed, and the improvements of the nineteenth century set forth in bold contact with the tedious rolling of the past ages.

"Twelfth. Valedictory, 'Class of 1870,' Miss Eva Hart. A tender, loving address, plainly written and feelingly delivered. For the whole essay the reader is referred to another column where it will be found at length. Her references to President Stillman, to the Prinpical and Teachers, and lastly to the class, were exceedingly appropriate; and eulogistic as they may appear, we fully endorse every word.

"Thirteenth. Was the presentation of the diplomas—a part of engrossing intent to the graduates,—not one was given that had not been well earned.

"Fourteenth. Music, 'Joy! Joy! Freedom Delay!' A Class. A joyful termination to the Class.

"The benediction was pronounced with much feeling by Elder Williams, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and the audience dispersed."

Plainfield, N. J., August 23, 1907.

Former Senator Childs, the restaurant man, is out for the Democratic nomination for governor. Quite naturally, he hopes to take the cake.—Trenton State Gazette.

But he'll have to be satisfied with a dish of crow.

It having been announced in some of the newspapers that Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of this city, was not a candidate for another nomination this year, we learn from him that such is the fact.—Rahway Democrat.

After exclusive publication of this fact about ten days ago in The Daily Press, the Rahway paper stated that such information had come "by way of Plainfield" and without consulting its own townsman questioned the correctness of the announcement. Brother Barnes, we freely forgive you, but don't do it again.

Noting that on his return from Europe State Senator Colby declared his allegiance to Sheriff Sommer for the gubernatorial nomination, an exchange appears to believe that his position is inconsistent inasmuch as the Essex man announced some time ago that the New Idea would have no candidate for governor. The fact is that long before he went abroad, Mr. Colby stated that Mr. Sommer was his own personal preference, but whatever decision he may make as an individual voter does not commit the New Idea one way or the other. Although it has suddenly "flopped" back to the regulars, after trying to help wreck the party in Union county, there is no reason why the paper in question should not be fair with those to whom it lent aid and comfort in the last campaign.

Former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean wears a downcast look when discussing the probable result of the November election and the banker is not alone in his prediction that the impending campaign will be one of the hardest fought battles Union county has seen in years. No internal dissession in the ranks of the G. O. P. is responsible for his fears; something far deeper and more disastrous than that is the cause of all his worries. Union county has a large percentage of New Jersey's Wall street vote and that element is far from being in sympathy with the policy of the National Administration. That the vote of the small army of commuters who dabble in stocks will cut a big figure is very evident and should the antagonistic feeling against the President be as strong ten weeks from now as it is today among the "bulls and bears," there is every likelihood to suspect that there will be some queer results at the polls.

WELL-KNOWN CIRCUS WOMAN PASSES AWAY

TWO OF HER HUSBANDS WERE VICTIMS OF MURDERERS.

Mrs. Agnes Lake, a retired circus performer, died yesterday at the home of her son-in-law, Gilbert Robinson, No. 791 Montgomery street, Jersey City, at the age of eighty-one year. Her maiden name was Mersman, and she was born in the town of Doehm, Alsace, Aug. 23, 1826. With her parents she came to this country and at the age of sixteen years, in Cincinnati, she became acquainted with William Lake, a well known circus clown. An elopement and marriage followed. Mrs. Lake joined the circus, performing as a tight-rope walker.

Lake afterward became the owner of a circus. In 1869, while the circus was at Grantz, Mo., Lake ejected a desperado named Jake Killen. That night Killen returned to the circus and shot Lake through the heart. Mrs. Lake continued the circus until 1872, when she retired, investing all her money in a printing business in Cincinnati. In the panic of 1872 Mrs Lake lost all her money, and she was forced to return to the circus.

That same year she met and married James W. Kickok, known as Wild Bill, who at the time was Marshal of Cheyenne. Hickok, in 1876, was shot and killed in a row, and the famous circus performer was again a widow. Once more she returned to the sawdust ring. This time she became an equestrienne, producing a circus version of Mazeppa. She was quite successful. In 1880 she retired, assuming the name of Lake. Since then she made her home with her son-in-law, who also was a circus performer.

SPRINGFIELD VALUATIONS BEFORE TAX BOARD.

Investigating Grounds of Citizens' Protest Against Rate.

Members of the Union County Board of Taxation and Assessor Lewis Terry visited Springfield township on Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of determining whether the assessments which have been made by Terry are equitable. A protest has been made by several citizens of the township and the board will determine whether any change should be made. Another visit to the township will be made by the board. Chairman Pollard said yesterday morning there was no truth in a printed report to the effect that the valuations would be raised 50 per cent.

Held As Pickpocket At 63.

New York, Aug. 23.—John M. Bishop, Deputy Surveyor of Customs, was robbed yesterday of a pocketbook containing $80 and valuable papers while riding in a Twenty-third street crosstown car. When he felt his pockethook being removed he caught a man who later gave his name as Joseph Walker, sixty-three years old, of No. 98 Centre street, and turned him over to a policeman. Walker was locked up at the East Twenty-third street police station on a charge of larceny from the person. Great commotion was created in the crowded car when Mr. Bishop caught Walker and accused him of being a pickpocket. Walker was well dressed and carried a silk lined overcoat over his arm. He protested against the accusation and tried to walk away.

Finds Lost Wife In Morgue.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 23.—James Mason, a business man of Allegheny, prevented the body of his wife from being buried in the Potter's Field yesterday. Some time ago Mason began suit against his wife, Kate Mason, for divorce. They had not been living together for years. Almost immediately after the suit was entered Mrs. Mason disappeared. Mason was passing through the morgue yesterday when he saw the face of his wife under the glass. The woman's body had been taken from the river and she was to have been buried yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Mason, whose name was unknown by the officials until yesterday afternoon, was drowned while rowing.

Murphy Helps Strikers.

New York, August 23.—Among several others liberal contributions made by outsiders to the fund of the striking telegraphers, it was announced at the Astor House headquarters last night that Charles F. Murphy, Tammany Hall leader, had donated $5,000 in cash. It was stated that Mr. Murphy had sent the cash by his brother John to the Astor House and that several other large contributions were expected. Today the strikers will receive their first assistance from the strike fund, and last night it was officially stated the financial resources were sufficient to sustain a siege of three months.

CANDY FLIRTATION ENDS IN ARRESTS

NEW HAVEN GIRLS LOCKED UP IN NEWARK AFTER CORRESPONDENCE.

A romance that had its beginning in a box of candy had a sad ending in Newark, yesterday, when three young girls, ranging in age from 14 to 17, were arrested by the police. They are being held pending advices from their parents.

The girls are Mildred Richardson, 17; here fourteen-year-old sister, Pearl, of 215 Ferry street, New Haven, Conn., and Jennie Kinney, 14 years old, of 19 Summer place, New Haven. The girls were employed in the confectionery store of Bradley & Smith. They conceived the idea of inclosing their names and addresses in boxes of candy, which were made up by them and shipped to various parts of the country.

When one day Mildred Richardson received a letter from Frederick Kraft, a pretzel baker, of 899 Fairmount avenue, Newark, she answered, telling the writer that she would be glad to meet him. The correspondence continued, and one day last week Kraft wrote to the girl that he would like to see her, but could not get away. The girl decided to make the meeting possible, and left her home on Monday, accompanied by the two other girls.

As the trio were leaving New Haven they were seen by Frank Dowd, of 39 Lawrence street, New Haven, a youth who was interested in the Kinney girl. Dowd began to do a little amateur detective work, with the result that he boarded the same boat and continued on to Newark.

On the way one of the girls told him that they were running away from home. He followed the girls to Kraft's home, which was reached late on Wednesday afternoon. Kraft seemed to be surprised by the girls' visit. They were received by Mrs. Kraft, the baker's mother, and were invited to spend the night there.

Dowd was persistent, and without food or sleep continued to guard the Kraft home until yesterday, when, becoming weary of his self-appointed task, he notified the police. The arrest of the girls followed.

Kraft went to the police station and told Sergt. McGovern all about the affair. The girls will be held by the police until called for by their relatives. Dowd said that his interest in the Kinney girl was due to the fact that he was a friend of her aunt.

BOND JAILED AGAIN ON EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

FOLLOWS BREACH OF PROMISE ACCUSATION WITH ANOTHER.

James F. Bond, the Pennsylvania Railroad brakeman, arrested at Jersey City and yesterday brought to Elizabeth on a warrant charging him with breach of promise, the complainant being a young woman residing in Elizabeth, was committed to jail yesterday on the charge of embezzlement brought against him by Detective George F. Spencer, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

When brought from Jersey City to answer to the charge of breach of promise, a number of New York-Long Branch Railroad tickets were found in his pockets, several of them not having been punched. These tickets, the railroad company insists Bond could have obtained honestly, and they are believed to represent only a small part of his stealings. Bond has a wife and six children residing in Philadelphia. Before Bond can secure his release he must furnish $700 bail, $500 on the charge of breach of promise and $200 for the alleged embezzlement.

J. H. Crow, who was one of the foreman on the south side sewer job, is now at Ossining, N. Y., superintending the construction of a macadam road. Peter J. Cusick, who was in charge of the local contract, is now in the New York office of a contracting firm.

IT WAS THE BEST HE COULD DO.

Hotel Man Made Up in Charges for Poor Accommodations.

The colonel had put up for the night at a wretched hotel in a village in the southwest, and when ready to leave in the morning he was handed a bill of three dollars. He was no kicker, but that thing seemed so much like robbery that he said: "Landlord, the meals I have eaten have been poor—very poor." "I don't dispute it," was the reply. "And the room was simply a rat hole." "Mighty pore room, sah." "And yet you have charged me just the same as if I had stopped at a first-class hotel." "Yes, I had to do it." "And will you kindly explain?" persisted the colonel. "Well, it's like this, sah. I traded a sawmill for this tavern a month ago. I don't know nothing about the business and everybody says I'll fail and I know I will, but meantime I'm going to do the best I can. I can't better the rooms nor the fodder, but I can charge at the rate of three dollars a day and make every traveler think he's been putting in time at Waldorf-Astoria. Three dollars, please. No mistake about your bill, sah."

LETTERS WIPED OUT DEBT.

Tender Missives Certainly for Once Answered Good Purpose.

There was great rejoicing in the New Brooklyn church in Sicklerville, N. J., when the last dollar of the debt against the parsonage was paid. The money was raised in a popular manner. Every female member of the church wrote a letter to all the boys that were her schoolmates in bygone days, no matter where they now lived, soliciting contributions. The men members likewise wrote to their schoolgirl sweethearts of long ago. Many a pleasant correspondence developed, and it is said some of the letters were calculated to revive the spark of affection that was kindled when the writers were youngsters, but as husbands and wives were allowed to read one another's letters not a case of jealousy is recorded. The money came in so fast that in a short time the entire debt was paid off, and as the contributions are still coming in the parsonage will be brightened by a new coat of paint.

Only Two in the Secret.

From his farm Judge Blank was in the habit of supplying the preachers of all the churches with flour, corn, hay and vegetables free of cost. He also kept the country supplied with venison from the herd of deer which he kept for many years. He built a big smokehouse in the rear of his grounds. One night, unseen himself, he saw a man emerge from the smokehouse with a side of pork on his shoulder. He recognized the intruder, but said nothing. A week afterward the fellow approached him, saying: "Judge, I understand you had some meat stolen from your smokehouse?" The old judge raised his hand deprecatingly and said: "Sh! No one on earth knows anything about that but you and me."

Mysterious Fire In Tree.

New York had a mysterious fire the other day, which attracted the attention of a multitude of people, and for a short time blocked travel and traffic on Broadway. An old linden tree near the Rector street side of Trinity churchyard began to emit volumes of smoke, and in a minute more a tongue of flame shot up out of the hollow trunk and ignited the scant foliage and old twigs. What started the tree to blaze up is a matter of guesswork, but no doubt it was caused by spontaneous combustion. The old tree, or what is left of the original trunk, is only 12 feet high, and long ago all else but the trunk and what remains of the old roots under the ground have disappeared.

Lightning Splits Big Tree.

The peculiar pranks played by a bolt of lightning on an oak tree attracked hundreds of people yesterday to Wissahickon avenue near Lincoln lake, says the Philadelphia Record. The tree, which was fully 125 feet tall, was struck during the electric storm recently and was split down a distance of 75 feet, the halves falling in opposite directions. Fifty feet of the upper part was stripped of bark, and a most peculiar thing was that the roots were torn completely out of the ground and hurled a considerable distance, while a circle of bark four feet high was left standing.

Enthusiastic.

A five-year-old boy recently commenced attending Sunday school, and became deeply interested in the teachings he received. After one or two lessons had been given him he expressed a strong wish for a "sling-shot." His fond mother was rather astonished at the request, and asked the young hopeful why he wanted such a thing. His reply was prompt and to the point. "At Sunday school," said he, "they told a story of a little boy, that killed a big giant with a sling-shot, and I want one."

Answered.

The would-be suffragette was having the usual dinner-table argument with her alleged lord and master, relates Harper's Weekly, when that unhappy individual, finding himself in a close corner, ventured the unfortunate query: "How on earth would you earn a living if it wasn't for me?" "I don't know, John," the lady replied. "If I lost you I don't know where I'd get another job."

HIS PLACE ON THE BRIDGE.

Marine Captain Tells How to Avoid Sea Accidents.

Capt. W. E. Nye, marine superintendent of the United States army transport service, who has spent 27 years on the water, registered at the Raleigh yesterday, and for several hours was doing laps in the lobby in an effort to get his land legs back, says the Washington Post.

"I have sailed on almost every body of water in the world," said Capt. Nye, "and have never been in an accident. Seven times I have rounded Cape Horn and I have been as far north as 75. It is trite for me to say that one is safer on the water than on land, but anyone who has been sea going as long as I have cannot believe otherwise. Some accidents on the water, of course, are unavoidable, as are some on land, but a large percentage of the disasters, in my opinion, are due to the employment of incompetent men. It is not to be expected that first-class men will long work for the meager wages that are paid by the big steamboat companies and railroad corporations. They can make more money elsewhere, and the consequence is there is a continual shifting of the working forces.

"I have made it a rule ever since I was first placed in command of a ship in times of danger never to trust any one but myself. If an accident happens then, I alone am to blame. Of course, I place trust in my officers, but it is a captain's duty in times of peril to be on the bridge until all danger is past. There have been times when I have spent 72 hours on the bridge without food or sleep. It is to this watchfulness that I attribute in a large measure my success in avoiding accidents. In my opinion a captain who, through cowardice or neglect, jeopardizes the lives of the passengers on a steamboat is as much of a criminal as is a murderer."

Adverse to Improving Rahway River.

Rahway, Aug. 23.—A communication has been received by H. S. Barnes, secretary of the Board of Trade, from the United States Engineer's office, stating that a preliminary examination has been made of Rahway River, and the project to straighten the stream sufficient to admit navigation to this place has been disapproved by the government engineers.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, August 1, 1907, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed the following members present:

The minutes of previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communication was presented and read:

Elizabeth, N. J., July 23, 1907.

Hon. Benjamin King, Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, Elizabeth, N. J.:

Dear Sir—I enclose a copy of a letter dated July 17, 1907, received from Mrs. Emily E. Williamson in relation to presenting to the county a ortrait of Governor Isaac H. Williamson and a portrait of the late Chancellor Williamson. Mrs. Williamson desires to have these portraits hung in the Common Pleas Court room. It will be necessary for the Board of Freeholders to take some action in regard to the matter, and I respectfully suggest that if the Board sees fit to accede to the request, that a committee be appointed for the purpose of designating a place in the court room where the portraits shall be hung and for making arrangement incident to the presentation. Governor Williamson and Chancellor Williamson were very honored men, and both residents of this county, and it seems to me in the highest degree proper that these portraits should be kept in the Court House. I shall be glad to confer with and co-operate with any committee that may be appointed in the matter. Yours respectfully,

EDWARD S. ATWATER.

The following communication was also attached to the letter of Judge Atwater:

Elizabeth, N. J., July 17, 1907.

Hon. Edward S. Atwater, Elizabeth, N. J.:

My Dear Judge Atwater—I have in my possession a very fine portrait of Governor Isaac H. Williamson, who was, as you know, Governor and Chancellor of this State for thirteen years in succession; a very noted lawyer, and who was always venerated and respected by the citizens of Union county. This portrait is by the celebrated artist Peale, and is a very fine work of art. I am anxious to give it to the Union County Court House to be hung in the room in which you preside. I should like to make the presentation through you, at such time as you may suggest.

I also have a very fine portrait of my father-in-law, the late Chancellor Williamson, which I would like to present in the same way and for the same place. This portrait is a work of art and has been done by the very celebrated Belgium artist, Mr. Frederick M. Vormorcken. I feel that I want these portraits identified with the court over which you now preside and that they would be for all time in the court room in which you now hold court. Might I ask you to make the necessary arrangements in connection with the gift? With kindest regards I am cordially yours,

EMILY E. WILLIAMSON.

On motion of Freeholder Cady the foregoing communications were received and accepted with the thanks of the Board, and it was ordered that the Committee on Public Grounds and Buildings be authorized to arrange for a date for the presentation of said portraits as requested.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the Committee to secure estimates on printing of report of Mrs. Williamson as Probation Officer.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your Committee appointed to secure estimates on printing Mrs. Williamson's report would respectfully report that they have received bids from various parties, the lowest satisfactory bid being $45.50 for two hundred copies, from the Courier-News, Plainfield.

John Robison, J. Hervey Doane, Bradford Jones, Committee.

Freeholder Pierson moved that the report be received and the Committee authorized to have two hundred copies of said report printed at the sum as stated, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on certain line bridges of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen — Your Committee, which was appointed to investigate the bridges between the city of Plainfield and Somerset county, would respectfully submit the following:

We find that fourteen bridges need painting, and that also four of the bridges need the ironwork repaired on same. The cost of the work will be about $1,400, and we advise that an amount not exceeding $700 should be appropriated for same.

S. P. T. Wilbur, chairman; Charles A. Smith, J. Hervey Doane, Committee.

Freeholder Robison moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Elkwood Avenue Bridge, New Providence.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on the Elkwood Avenue Bridge, New Providence, would respectfully report that they have examined the above-named bridge, and found it in dangerous condition and needing repairing, and would recommend that it be repaired, at an expense not to exceed $200.

Bradford Jones, Peter H. Meisel, W. H. Swain, Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Smith the report was received and recommendation adopted by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Repairs to Monroe Street Bridge, Rahway, N. J.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—The undersigned committee, to whom was referred the matter of repairing the roadway and railing to bridge over Rahway River, on Monroe street, would report that they have inspected said bridge, and would recommend the erection of a new iron railing, at a cost not exceeding $300, and your committee would request further time to report as to the roadway of said bridge, and that they be continued for that purpose.

Adolph H. Gruener, Thomas J. Pierson, Henry Krouse, Committee.

Freeholder Pierson moved that the report be received and recommendation be adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on five bridges or culverts in Roselle Park.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your committee on five bridges or culverts in the Borough of Roselle Park would respectfully report that they have examined three of said bridges or culverts and find the bed of the stream about twenty inches below the foundation of the bridges or culverts. We would recommend that new walls be built or underpinned, at a cost not to exceed $650 for the three.

Noah Woodruff, John Robison, Joseph Perry, J. Logan Fay, John J. Donahue, Committee.

Freeholder Wilbur moved that the report be received and recommendation be adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on application of Consumers' Aqueduct Co.

Gentlemen—Your Committee, to whom was referred the application of Consumers' Aqueduct Co., beg leave to report a contract and bond submitted for the approval of this Board, as to form, and this Committee further report that said contract and bond have been submitted to the County Attorney, and that the same are approved by him as to form, and would recommend the acceptance of the same when duly executed, said bond to be in the penal sum of $15,000, and to be approved by the Director of this Board as to the sufficiency of said bond.

S. P. T. Wilbur, Charles A. Smith, Henry Krouse, George B. Cladek, Thomas J. Pierson, Committee.

A copy of the said contract and bond in blank was attached to the foregoing report.

Freeholder Cady moved that the report be received and the recommendation contained therein be adopted, which was duly seconded.

Freeholder Wilbur moved to amend, that the time for the completion of the work, as originally petitioned for by the said Company, be extended from August 1, 1907, to October 1, 1907.

Freeholder Cady accepted the amendment, and the motion as amended was then adopted on roll call by an unanimous vote.

The Committee on Rules, through Freeholder Robison, reported that the same had been printed and were now on the members' desks, which report was received.

The Director then declared a recess of ten minutes.

On roll call after recess nineteen members were present, Freeholder Swain being temporarily absent.

Freeholder Cladek stated that as the work on St. George's avenue, Rahway, had been taken in charge by the Committee on County Roads, he would ask that the committee be appointed on the repairs or widening of two bridges on said avenue, be discharged from a further consideration of said matter, which was so ordered.

Freeholder Woodruff, for the Committee of the Whole, in the matter of adopting a portion of North Broad street, Elizabeth, etc., as a State Aid Road, reported progress, which report was received.

By the Committee on County Roads:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J.:

Gentlemen—The undersigned committee, to whom was referred the advertising for bids for the building and macadamizing of the road known as St. George's avenue and Leesville avenue, in the city of Rahway, as per specifications prepared by the County Engineer, and approved by the State Road Commissioner, would respectfully report that in pursuance of an advertisement duly made for said work, your committee at a meeting held August 1, at 12 o'clock, had before them two bids, which in the aggregate were respectively as follows:

Bid No. 1, N. J. Contracting and Engineering Co., $14,166.24.

Bid No. 2, William H. Weldon, $13,000.45, and that your committee would further report that said committee were unanimous in awarding said contract to William H. Weldon for the sum of $13,000.45, and would recommend the approval of said action by this Board, and that the Director and Clerk be authorized to execute a proper contract with said Weldon for said work.

E. K. Adams, Henry Krouse, Thomas J. Pierson, George B. Cladek, S. P. T. Wilbur, County Road Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Doane:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to confer with the Somerset County Board of Freeholders in regard to laying permanent pavement on Somerset street bridge over Green brook, Plainfield, N. J., the sum to be expended not to exceed $240, one-half by Union county.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, which on roll call was so ordered, receiving 18 ayes, 1 nay and 1 temporary absent.

The Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Doane, Jones and Donahue.

By Freeholder Adams:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the advisability of replanking the bridge over the Rahway River on Springfield avenue, and adjoining the property of Mr. Beadle, of Cranford, N. J., and report the probable cost of the same to the Board at the next meeting.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

SLEEPLESSNESS.

Do you know what makes people lay awake and toss and roll about at night?

MRS. GEO. WEISEL.

Doctors tell you there are various causes. I tell you it's stomach trouble. I know it because I've seen thousands of cases and watched them. A stomach that is over-crowded with undigested, decaying food matter effects every organ of the human body. It causes nervousness, headaches, constipation, impure blood, poor circulation and dulls the mind. It makes one restless and uneasy. When your stomach is working right you feel right. You sleep well and you eat well.

People come to me day after day and tell me they can't rest after eating. They have a dull headache. At night they go to bed simply because they are exhausted. They catch a few cat naps and get up in the morning feeling as worn out as they did before.

I have recommended Cooper's New Discovery, a regular diet, regular habits and invariably these same people come to me afterwards and tell me they feel much better because they eat well and sleep well.

Herewith is a sample.

A letter I received from Mrs. Geo. Weisel, 1121 Providence Road, Scranton, Pa., says:

"I suffered for three years from stomach trouble, inactive liver and rheumatism. Everything I ate disagreed with me and I lay awake night after night. I had no pleasure in life and could scarcely do my work about the house. I heard from a neighbor of Cooper's New Discovery and I bought two bottles of it. It helped me right away. Now I have a good appetite and never suffer from indigestion. I sleep well and awake refreshed. I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for what this medicine has done for me."

The Cooper medicines have a larger sale than any medicine on the market.—Our customers speak highly of them.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener the resolution was adopted without dissent. The Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Adams, Gruener and Pierson.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That the County Engineer Bauer be authorized to make a survey and may of the State Aid Board, petitioned for by the citizens of Lyons Farms; beginning at King street, Elizabeth, and running along North avenue to Elizabeth avenue, thence along Elizabeth avenue to the Essex county line.

On motion of Freeholder Cladek the resolution, on roll call, was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to confer with the Public Service Corporation for the purpose of ascertaining the nature of their franchise for a trolley road along North avenue, from King street to private right of way, and thence to Essex county line, in the township of Union and to further ascertain what proportion of the expense said corporation will pay toward the cost of macadamizing said road under the State Road Act, should this Board deem it advisable to have said work done under said act, and that said committee report back to this Board.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Woodruff, Smith and Krouse.

By Freeholder Robison:

Resolved, Hhat the Clerk is hereby directed to mail to each member of this Board a newspaper copy of the minutes of each meeting, at least three days before each succeedin meeting.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Robison:

Resolved, That the County Collector is hereby authorized to pay to Elston Darby the sum of $140, to pay a check issued to him April, 1906, which was lost.

On motion of Freeholders Swain the resolution was adopted without dissent.

Marion Story a Suicide.

New York, Aug. 23—Marion Story, a brother of Julian Story, a well known artist, and himself a miniature painter of considerable fame, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in the head in his home in Brook Farm, near Port Chester, N. Y. Except for the servants he was alone in the house, and by the time they had summoned physicians he was dead. On the application of a person whose name was not made known Mr. Story was committed to Bloomingdale Asylum for the Insane in April of last year by Judge Platt, of Westchester county. A year later he was released as cured

Marion Story a Suicide.

New York, Aug. 23—Marion Story, a brother of Julian Story, a well known artist, and himself a miniature painter of considerable fame, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in the head in his home in Brook Farm, near Port Chester, N. Y. Except for the servants he was alone in the house, and by the time they had summoned physicians he was dead. On the application of a person whose name was not made known Mr. Story was committed to Bloomingdale Asylum for the Insane in April of last year by Judge Platt, of Westchester county. A year later he was released as cured

WERE WANTED FOR SPORT.

Story of the Introduction of Rabbits Into Australia.

Australia wants population, but it wants men and women, not rabbits. The British Australian tells the story of the coming of the rabbit, in response to certain sporting men of Victoria, who wanted something fresh to kill. Manning Thatcher made three attempts to bring rabbits from England. When he succeeded at last the sportsmen had forgotten their want. They were probably shooting the moon. Mr. Thatcher could not dispose of his wares. So on one hot afternoon he and his companions, "left with a considerable burden of unsold wares on their hands, suddenly decided to rid themselves once and for all of the creatures, which had by this time reached the dimensions of white elephants." The rabbits were turned loose. They remembered the injunction to be fruitful and multiply. They did it. And they devastated Australia. Mr. Thatcher was given a medal to commemorate the gratitude of Victorians for his introduction of rabbits. And now Australia is excited over a French poison that will kill nothing but rabbits!

THE TRAGEDIES OF PARIS.

From 1,000 to 1,500 bodies are received in the morgue in Paris every year. These represent suicides and murders, and not the deaths that occur in the ordinary course of events. And of these self-slaughterers nearly half are drownings, which means that every day at least two persons jump into the Seine; two poor wretches who have failed to find life worth living. In the months of October and November suicides by drowning in Paris are double what they are the remainder of the year. The prospect of having to suffer the hardships of another winter, begging about in the cold and sleeping out in the snow, is too much for many a fate-cursed wanderer. An interesting fact revealed by the suicide statistics of Paris is that women show a decided dislike to drowning as a means of violent death. Four times as many men as women are fished out of the Seine. The records show that asphyxiation is the favorite way with the weaker sex "for shuffling off this mortal coil," when it has ceased to be bearable.

Yes, if That Had Been the Case.

Dinny had hurriedly summoned a doctor to administer to an acquaintance who had accidentally taken poison. After the physician had given the sick man a dose of medicine he remarked that the medicine was an antidote for the poison and that he hoped the patient would pull through all right. In spite of the antidote, however, the sick man grew rapidly worse and died. That night at the wake Dinny was loud in his denunciation of the doctor. "Poor John 'd 've been alive this noight," he exclaimed bitterly, "if thot docther hadn't hastened his death wid one iv his anecdotes!"—Harper's Weekly.

Rescue Chamber In Mines.

The "rescue chamber" is a safety provision of some of the large Austrian mines. It is a strongly timbered retreat, and its single entrance has a door that can be made tight against air and water by means of rubber fittings. It has three cylinders of oxygen, sufficient to enable 30 men to breathe three days. Inhalation gear is at hand for parties leaving the chamber for reconnaissance or signaling, and canned food, medicine and first-aid appliances are also kept in the place. The standard room will accommodate 24 men for a reasonable time for rescue.

Dug Up Chest of Gold.

A workman named Leznaert, employed by M. Defrancq, a builder at Menin, France, has made for his employer a stroke of luck which will probably contribute also to his own advantage. He was making a trench in the courtyard of an empty house recently bought by M. Defrancq, when at a depth of about three feet his pick struck something hard. Working around the obstruction, he at last laid bare a metal chest of considerable size, and this, on being forced open, was found to contain gold coins still negotiable to the value of $3,000.

The Greatest Man.

The greatest man is he who chooses the right with invincible resolution; who resists the sorest temptations from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is calmest in storms and most fearless under menace and frowns; whose reliance on truth, on virtue, on God, is most unfaltering. I believe this greatness to be most common among the multitude, whose names are never heard.—William C. Channing.

The Dignity of Youth.

The woman in the adjoining flat said to her youthful neighbor: "Virginia, I thought I heard you crying this morning." "N-e-v-e-r, n-o-t me! I'm too old to cry. I'm five years old; that was Dot." "And how old is Dot?" "Oh, she's most 18; she's old enough to be foolish."

His Promise Fulfilled.

"You told me," she said with a pout, three months after their marriage, "that you intended to die a bachelor." "To all intents and purposes," he sadly replied, "I have lived up to my declaration. I am known now merely as my wife's husband."—Judge.

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

PLAINFIELDERS QUALIFY IN DEAL GOLF TOURNEY

ABBOTT, BARROWS AND MORGAN IN LINE FOR CUPS—TO PLAY TODAY.

Robert Abbott, H. Dudley Barrows and C. B. Morgan all qualified in the preliminary round at the annual invitation tournament begun at Deal yesterday. All records were broken for amateur affairs in this section when 202 players started in the eighteen hole qualification round yesterday morning. The low score for the day was turned in on J. B. Turner's card, of the Deal Club. He got a 77, 44 out and 36 in. Of the local players Bob Abbott had the best card, an 84, 46 out and 36 in. Barrows made a 47 and a 43 for a 90, and C. B. Morgan got a 91, with a 48 and a 43.

Conditions as far as weather was concerned were ideal for the golfers. The greens were in fine shape at first, but the continual tramping of the players made them heavy for the later players. The best scores were by the men who had the advantage of starting early. The course is 6,162 yards, 3,378 yards out and 2,784 in.

It had originally been intended to have four sixteens for the president's vice-president's, treasurer's and captain's cups, respectively, but when the committee found that there were so many who barely missed qualifying for the fourth division, cups were provided for two extra sixteens. Abbott's 84 put him in the first sixteen for the president's cup, Dudley Barrows' 90 puts him in the second sixteen, for the vice-president's cup, and Morgan's 91 gives him a chance at the treasurer's cup. Prizes have been announced for the defeated eights in the first two divisions.

The match play will begin this morning and as the local players are showing good form, golfers in this city are looking to the Plainfielders to turn in good cards

MONTCLAIR HORSE SHOW ON WEDNESDAY SEPT. 25

ENTRIES FROM ALL TOWNS IN ESSEX COUNTY.

An event whwich is looked forward to with much pleasure and anticipation is the coming show of the Montclair Riding, Driving and Automobile Club, which will take place on the grounds of the Athletic Club at that place on Wednesday, September 25. Although yet a month off, the several committees are busy arranging the details. Last year, which was the first exhibition, the entries were confined to four towns, but this season the affair is planned on a larger scale and will include all the owners of Essex county outside of the city of Newark.

The club is composed of the leading men of the town, many of whom are prominent in New York's professional and business world. There are about three hundred members.

The president of the organization is Oliver Wren, and the secretary is L. Leroy Chinn, to both of whom the success of the undertaking is largely due. The board of directors is composed of Messrs. Oliver Wren, Andrew Morrison, L. Leroy Chinn, Paul Wilcox, R. H. Adams, William T. Evans, V. S. Mulford, Captain William A. Bryant, Benjamin Graham, James N. Jarnie and L. O. Ivey. The headquarters of the club is at Montclair.

On the evening following the horse show a ball will be given in the Montclair, which will be participated in by many influential society people of Essex county.

Harold J. Van Horn.

Harold J. Van Horn, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Van Horn, of Duer street, died last night after a brief illness with spinal meningitis. He was four months old. The funeral will be held at the parents' home tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

BOY WINS NOVEL SUIT.

Members of Court Maybe Harked Back to Their Own Youth.

According to a recent decision in the Mississippi courts, electric light companies must insulate trees as well as poles, particularly those trees which invite the small boy climber. In a Mississippi town recently a small boy climbed a tree and coming in contact with the uninsulated wires of a lighting company, which passed through the branches, received a shock which caused him to fall. As a result the young climber was badly injured and his father brought suit against the lighting company. The tree in question was a small oak, having numerous branches which came close to the ground. The court handed down the novel decision that as the lighting company had knowledge of the tree and what kind of tree it was, it also ought to have seen that it was just the kind of tree into which children were likely to climb. Therefore, said the court, the immemorial habit of small boys to climb trees filled with abundant branches is one of which corporations stretching wires through such trees must take notice. It was held that small boys had a right to climb such trees and a verdict was given in favor of the father.

WHEN TO WIND A WATCH.

The Morning, Not the Evening, the Best Time, the Watchmaker Says.

"Most people," said the watchmaker, "wind their watches at night; but it would be better to wind them in the morning. You see, we are liable to go to bed at different hours, and so wind our watch at irregular intervals; and it is better to wind it regularly. Then we are more liable to forget to wind our watch at night than in the morning and so may let it run down. But we are pretty sure to get up in the morning at our regular hour, whatever the hour at which we went to bed, and so by winding it then we may insure regularity of winding; and the watch is brought to mind then, when we put it on for use, and we are less likely to forget to wind it. So morning is the best time to wind a watch, if you can get yourself into the habit of winding it then."

Men Shun Gew-Gaws.

"There is one thing that no real man will stand for," said the tall girl. "He positively will not carry an umbrella all trimmed up with knots of ribbon. Several times I have been obliged to lend an umbrella to men who got caught in the rain. Each of those umbrellas was ornamented with tufts of ribbon when the man left the house; when he brought it back the ribbon was gone. He had been ashamed to be seen walking along the street carrying an umbrella whose handle was trimmed with ribbon rosettes and had taken them off as soon as he left the house and had forgot to put them on again. Nowadays in order to save trouble for both of us, I take the ribbon off myself before offering a man an umbrella."

Meat Famine in New York.

Not one of the 400 delivery wagons that carry meat for the big packing companies throughout the city left the abbatoirs this morning, as a result of the strike of the drivers, and it is declared New York will be in the grip of a meat famine before night. Strenuous efforts were made by the packing houses to get strike-breakers, but their efforts were not as successful as they had expected.

Rev. C. L. Zorbaugh, of Cleveland, Ohio, will preach at Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning. There will be no evening service. An offering for the American Bible Society will be taken.

—A. M. Vogel and family, of Westfield, have removed to this city and are making their home at 917 Putnam avenue.

M'CUTCHEN AND SAUNDERS DECLINE MAYORALTY

IN FAVOR OF TOWNSEND AS BEST FITTED MAN

Former Disapproving Government by Telephone Bars Himself from Borough Nomination.

PICK LOGICAL NOMINEE

Both Give Their Views On Local Questions — Saunders Would Rather Fight in the Ranks For Consolidation.

That he places the municipality's interests above party and that he believes that one who is not tied up by needless attention to business interests elsewhere should be the next mayor of North Plainfield are ideal expressions made by Charles W. McCutchen, of North Plainfield. Besides being the largest property owner in the borough, Mr. McCutchen possesses civic interest far greater than is to be found in the general run. He has given much time to the borough's welfare, only recently playing an important part in the work devolving upon the borough sewage commission as well as the bi-municipal consolidation commission.

Republican leaders have been urging Mr. McCutchen for two weeks or more to become their standard bearer for the mayoralty. His answer together with the salient reasons are to be found in an appended letter in response to some questions asked by The Daily Press. Mr. McCutchen recommends that Samuel W. Townsend, a member of the Board of Education, who has been working hard for the borough's interests for years, be made the next mayor. The fact that Mr. Townsend is a Democrat does not carry any weight with Mr. McCutchen, who tells the whys and wherefores in the following letter:

Editor, The Daily Press:

"Replying to your letter, addressed to me at Lake Placid, asking if I would accept the mayoralty nomination of the borough, and requesting a statement of my views about sewers, consolidation, etc., I beg to say that I have no intention of allowing my name to be presented as a candidate for the office in question. If I had no other reason, the fact that my business and other personal interests necessitate my daily absence from the borough would be a sufficient one. Along with other citizens whose vocations are likewise in New York, I am practically a non-resident. I consider it of prime importance that the mayor of North Plainfield should be a day resident, not merely a night dweller in the borough.

"Past experience has clearly demonstrated that the public affairs of the borough can be more satisfactorily and efficiently administered by a mayor who actually lives in the community, and who comes in close touch each day with its citizens. The mayoralty administrations of Col. John F. Wilson, and of the present incumbent, Mr. Smalley, are conspicuous examples of the advantage of this policy. Mr. Fisk, the honored mayor of the city, recognizes this in his distinctly wise and unselfish arrangement of practically withdrawing from his large business affairs during the term of his office. The borough cannot be governed by 'absent treatment,' nor satisfactorily administered by long distance telephone.

"It would therefore, in my judgment, be most desirable that a citizen be selected, if possible, to serve as mayor of the borough who does not belong to the commuter class. This naturally restricts voters in choosing a suitable candidate, and eliminates a class of citizens among whom mayoralty timber and talent could no doubt be easily obtained. Undoubtedly, however, there are excellent men outside of the New York contingent who would be in this, and all other respects, qualified. There occurs to me at the moment the name of one citizen who would, in my opinion, admirably fill and meet all the qualifications of the position; I refer to Samuel Townsend, at present a member of the Borough Board of Education, who has rendered excellent service in that department. He is a retired New York merchant, has unusual executive ability, and enjoys the confidence of the whole community. If he could be persuaded to allow his name to be presented for the mayoralty, I am satisfied that he would receive the votes of the majority of his fellow citizens.

"In regard to the question of sewers;—I thing my opinion is perhaps quite well known, as I am connected with the commission which recently filed its report with the Borough Council recommending the immediate installation of a thoroughly modern sewer system under a contract with the authorities of the City of Plainfield for the disposal of the North Plainfield outfall. I am strongly in favor of the borough authorities promptly acting upon the recommendations of the commission.

"As to consolidation, in like manner my views are covered by the recent report of the Consolidation Commission, of which I am a member. The practical conclusion reached by that commission was that consolidation without annexation is not feasible.

"I am, dear sir,
"Yours very truly,
"C. W. McCUTCHEN.

Former Mayor W. L. Saunders, who has been slated as the probable Democratic candidate, has decided not to allow his name to be connected with the nomination and in a letter has made an urgent appeal to Samuel R. Townsend to run for the office. Mr. Saunders is the father of the annexation and consolidation movement and is one of the best citizens a municipality could possess. His endorsement of Mr. Townsend can not fail to do the latter's candidacy great good.

Mr. Saunders' letter follows:

"North Plainfield,
"August 23, 1907.

"Mr. Samuel Townsend,
"North Plainfield, N. J.

"I have seriously considered the question of running for mayor, and have decided not to run. You know that I would make great sacrifices for the cause of consolidation, and I would run for mayor and make the sacrifice did I not feel that the situation, so far as consolidation is concerned, might not be improved, and that I could be of more use on the outside. Furthermore, I still think that we had better keep the issue of consolidation out of the present campaign and make the issue sewers

"Since we met the other day, I have talked with Mr. J. O. Osgood and others, and since I have given my definite decision to the Democrats, there is a unanimity of sentiment that you are the man to run for mayor. I believe that Mr. Osgood will make his sacrifice and go into the council in the interests of sewers and consolidation if you will stand for mayor. Such a ticket cannot be beaten.

"I believe it to be a fundamental condition to the success of consolidation in the Legislature that both mayors, of Plainfield and North Plainfield, go to Trenton to urge the passage of the bill in accordance with the report of the bi-municipal consolidation commission. If one of these mayors is a Republican, as Mr. Fisk is, and the other a Democrat, meaning you, it will be very difficult to prevent the Legislature from giving us a referendum consolidation bill, as recommended by the commission

"If I should run for mayor, the question of consolidation would surely come up at the election. There are all sorts of ways by which this issue might be complicated, and I still feel that it might hurt us in the Legislature to have consolidation stand as a Democratic measure. With you running for mayor, there would be no special issue of consolidation at the election, but I know you to be a strong consolidationist. You would cement all factions; you would carry more Republican votes than I could hope to get, and you would have the solid support of the Democrats.

"I can quite understand that we are asking a good deal of you in this matter, but it seems to me the only logical outcome of the situation. You are the man, and with Osgood to help you, you can do this community a great service.

"Very truly yours,
"W. L. SAUNDERS."

Speakers at B. of T. Meeting.

Arrangements have been practically completed for the public meeting to be held by the Board of Trade, at the Plainfield Business College, September 5, to carry on the movement for sanitary garbage and ash removal. The speakers will include Col. W. F. Morse, of the Universal Destruction Co., New York; Charles S. Wheelwright, secretary of the American Extraction Company, of Providence, R. I., and, probably, F. R. Rhines, of the Dickson Engineering Construction Company, of Toledo, O.

COLBYITES ISSUE CALL

New Idea to Place Local Candidates in the Field on Monday Night.

A COMPLETE TICKET

Assemblyman Perkins Candidacy May Be Discussed—Chairman Tracy To Preside.

Encouraged by their success last fall and in fighting shape for the impending campaign, the New Idea cohorts will gather at Reform Hall on Monday night to place a full local ticket in the field. Chairman Howard Tracy of the Central committee, will preside, and the feature of the mass meeting will be a ringing speech expected from City Judge William N. Runyon, the leader of the Colbyites in Union county. It is not unlikely that the candidacy of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, the Republican leader of the House in the last Legislature, will be discussed although the active men in the movement declare that his cause will be talked over thoroughly by the Plainfield Central Committee before the following of New Idea men here are committed one way or the other. If Mr. Perkins' candidacy does come up there will be some lively arguments for many of the Colbyites hold that the Westfielder should not be turned down because, as they allege, only Hamilton F. Kean opposes him.

This is what the Colbyites will likely do at the meeting. They will nominate F. W. Butler as a councilman from the Second ward in place of Councilman Daniel Ginna, who declined renomination. Mr. Ginna could get their support would he make the running. Councilman-at-large George P. Mellick, who fired hot shot into the Colbyites' ranks last fall, will be unanimously endorsed by them.

Councilman-at-large Montgomery, of the Second, will get the "rinkydink" and for his place the New Idea will nominate Duncan W. Taylor, of the Third ward. As Councilman Leslie Daniel declines to run again, they will bring out Fred'k E. Mygatt, who is also a Third warder. In the Fourth and First wards no candidates have been settled upon although several are under consideration.

Assemblyman Perkins will not be present at the meeting but he will be in town on Monday to tell the people why he is entitled to a renomination.

In speaking of Mr. Perkins' candidacy today, N. Mansfield Smith, a Fourth ward member of the Central committee, had something to say. In discussing his candidacy, Mr. Smith declared: "If the argument Mr. Hamilton F. Kean uses that Perkins is barred because he has already had three terms, the same opposition might be made to United States Senator John F. Kean when he comes up in 1911 for election. Even this fall the same reason would bar out Surrogate George T. Parrott, who is slated by the organization to have another term. I cannot speak for the Central committee but so far as our ward is concerned there seems to be a strong feeling in favor of the renomination of Mr. Perkins, who appears to have made a fine record although he offended the bosses in not voting for John F. Dryden when they lashed the whip."

The meeting on Monday night will be called to order at 8 o'clock.

MARTINE ON COMMITTEE.

Sewer Committee Appointed by Judge Swayze Will Meet Westfielders Monday.

James E. Martine, Judge J., Williams Crane, of Elizabeth, and ex-County Clerk William H. Howard, of Rahway, who we recently appointed a committee by Judge Swayzy, of Elizabeth, for the purpose of assessing the benefits and damages for the construction of a sewer in Westfield have arranged to meet the citizens of Westfield concerned in the matter at the Westfield Town Hall Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Troubles over assessment and territory covered by the sewer, which was of large extent, have led to the retention of Reed & Coddington, of this city, as attorneys in the matter by several of those interested in Westfield.

Nurse a Suicide.

Miss Ida M. Wilson, of Woodbridge, a trained nurse at the Perth Amboy Hospital, New Dorp, S. I., committed suicide by taking carbolic acid last night. Miss Wilson was graduated from the Perth Amboy City Hospital two years ago, being the first to receive a diploma there. She was to come next week to take charge of the local institution while the matron, Miss Beatrice M. Bamber, is away on her vacation.

Miss Mary Graves and Miss Mary Stevenson spent yesterday at Coney Island.

MRS. RACHEL R. BOICE DIES AT RIPE OLD AGE

PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY AT HER PARK AVENUE HOME.

Mrs. Rachel R. Boice, widow of David P. Boice, died at her home on Park avenue at Fifth street, shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The infirmities of old age were the primary cause as she had been ailing more or less since last June.

Mrs. Boice was in her eighty-ninth year and had lived in Plainfield all her life. She was the daughter of Jonathan and Nancy Fitz-Randolph, themselves pioneer Plainfield residents and of the Fitz-Randolph family prominent throughout Middlesex county. Mrs. Boice's husband was the founder of the present lumber firm of Boice, Runyon & Co., for many years having a yard on Park avenue, adjoining the railroad and running through to Arlington avenue. When it was destroyed by fire about fifteen years ago, the estate bought out A. D. Cook & Bro., and began the big business now conducted on Park avenue, opposite North. With the death of John D. Runyon a few years since, Mrs. Boice has been the senior member of the firm.

Mrs. Boice was a character of decided integrity and a generous giver to philanthropic organizations. She was greatly interested in the local Y. M. C. A. and for many years had made numerous contributions for the advancement of its work. She was a member of the First Baptist church and attended faithfully until about two years ago, when her physical condition made it impossible to continue. Her life as a whole was spent very quietly but it was one of religious zeal and her passing has removed a faithful servant of the Master.

There are surviving Mrs. Boice, two daughters, Mrs. Sarah Runyon, widow of John D. Runyon, and Miss Anna Boice, both of whom live at the Park avenue residence. The funeral will be held at the late home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SMALLEY FIRE LIEUTENANT.

Council Committee Advances Borough Firemen.

At a special meeting of the fire, water and light committee of the borough council held in the council chamber last evening, Fireman Eldon Smalley was appointed Lieutenant and driver in place of Fred Emmons, who resigned from the company several days ago. Callman Patrick MDonough, who has been assigned to headquarters since Emmons' resignation, will return to his duties with the Central Railroad Monday.

Chairman Smith, of the committee, with Councilman Krewson and Waldron, of the committee, were present, also Chief Howard Woolston, of the borough department and Captains Edward Terry and Walter Kettenring.

STEENGRAAFE WOULD RUN.

South Plainfield Is After Assembly Nomination In Middlesex.

Archibald Steengraafe, of South Plainfield, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Assembly. He is well known and popular among the people of the district, and his canvass will be energetic.

The Good Government Club, in which he has been prominent, will probably support Steengraafe, and work for his nomination. He will make the incorporation of the village as a borough the chief plank of his platform. If he is named and elected, he will press the campaign for the creation of a borough energetically.

Birthday Party at Truell Hall.

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent, Wednesday, at Truell Hall by a dozen little maidens when Miss Violet Johnston celebrated her eighth birthday. They enjoyed themselves by playing games on the lawn until 5 o'clock, when a dainty luncheon was served in the Japanese room. The room was decorated with wistaria and lighted with Japanese lanterns, and the same effect was carried out in table decorations and favors. Among those present were Ruth Johnston, Eleanor Johnston, Violet Johnston, Elizabeth Johnston, Margaret Bates, Margaret Alling, Miriam Alling, Marjory Douglas, Margaret Evans, Beatrice Smith and Hannah Shaw.

Drunken Scrappers Out On Bail.

Harry Smith and John Dilts were arrested late last night on Somerset street by Borough Marshals Pope and Kiernan, who interrupted the pair in a drunken wrangle and hauled them both to the lock-up. They each furnished $10 this morning to appear before Mayor Smalley at the session of court tonight.

Miss Clyde Burnet, of Madison avenue, is at the White Mountains, New Hampshire.

FORTY DAYS OVER TODD

Business Man With Jail Sentence Dangling Above His Head.

INSULTED A MILLINER

Woman Partner Had Him Ejected From Their Place of Business—Now Finds She Needs Him.

Hugh J. Todd, the photographer arrested Monday afternoon on complaint of Miss Kipp, a milliner, who charged him with insulting her, was arraigned at an adjourned hearing before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. When Todd was arraigned Tuesday the complainant failed to appear, and Chief Kiely asked for a subpoena. She sent word later that she would appear without a summons.

Todd has figured several times in police activities since his arrival in town early this year. He was arrested several months ago on complaint of Mrs. Northrup, with whom he is engaged in business, who charged him with breaking office fixtures and threatening her. Todd's trouble seems to be drink. Wednesday morning Mrs. Northrup sent for a policeman, and asked Policeman Charles Flynn, who answered the call, to eject Todd from the establishment. She wouldn't make a complaint, but she said, according to Flynn, that she wanted Todd kept from the place. She told Judge Runyon yesterday, however, that her contract with him made his assistance in the business necessary, and she asked for a disposition of his case that would not involve his leaving town.

Miss Kipp testified that Todd made insulting remarks to her. Todd said he had no recollection of it, and laid the unpleasantness to drink.

"I don't know anything about you, Todd," said Judge Runyon, "but you don't look like a man who should be in a place like this. You are too old a man to be so completely in the grip of liquor as to lose all fear of what it will lead you to. I will suspend sentence, and give you a chance, but I will hang forty days over your head, and you just remember the next time you feel inclined to drink that forty days in jail will become a reality if you appear before me again."

CHILDREN SAW VIEWS OF EUROPEAN CITIES.

George E. Hall Gave Stereopticon Entertainment at Netherwood Home Last Night.

George E. Hall, of the camp committee, entertained the children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home last evening by a stereopticon lantern, showing more than a hundred slides of American and European cities, with pictures of various animals and birds. The pictures were shown in the auditorium, where a screen had been rigged up for the occasion. Tonight the entertainment at the camp will be in charge of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school and Christian Endeavor societies. A delegation of the church people will be at the camp, and the 300 New York children will be treated to ice cream and cake for their supper.

Tomorrow's services at the camp will be in charge of Clarence Titus, of Roselle, who will lead the afternoon meeting in the auditorium at 4 o'clock. The speaker will be S. H. Atkinson, a New Yorker, who is much interested in Miss Curry's work. There will be special music by a male quartette from St. James' church, Elizabeth. Monday evening a church society from Westminster chapel, Elizabeth, will be at the camp, and will present a three act farce entitled "The Obstinate Family." The play will be given in the auditorium, if the evening is a pleasant one.

Mrs. Mary Sharkey.

Mrs. Mary Sharkey, widow of Patrick Sharkey, died suddenly last night at the home of John Paoli on North avenue, at which place she had been making her home. Heart disease was the cause. Mrs. Sharkey was forty-six years old and had lived in Plainfield a long time. She had been working as cook since the death of her husband and was last employed at the Hotel Belmont on North avenue. A daughter, living on West Fourth street, survives her. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church Monday morning at 8.30.

Farewell To Their Teacher.

Members of his Sunday-school class tendered W. C. Leek, of Madison avenue, a surprise party last night. Mr. Leek is to move to Philadelphia on September 10, and the party was a farewell affair. On behal of the class Mrs. Neil presented Mr. Leek with a handsome umbrella. Refreshments were enjoyed at Reynolds' ice cream parlor, which was prettily decorated with the class colors.

ELECTION OFFICERS ANNOUNCED TODAY

COUNTY BOARD NAMES THEM FOR BOTH PARTIES IN PLAINFIELD.

The Union county election board announced the names of the election officers for the county today. Most of the officers named have been notified of their appointment, but William Hardin and M. D. The officers for the Third ward, First district and Fourth ward, First District, will be named next week.

FAST TRAIN KILLS AN ITALIAN LABORER.

Met His Death at Cranford Grade Crossing This Morning.

An unidentified Italian laborer, aged about 60 years, was killed instantly by a Philadelphia flier at Union avenue, crossing of the Central railroad, in Cranford, at 9.45 o'clock this morning.

His body was badly mangled.

The man is known only as No. 13, the number he bore in F. W. Park's gang of diggers and road builders. He got inside the closed gates at the crossing and became confused when the gateman shouted at him. He ran from behind an eastbound local into the path of No. 3 express, westbound. He saw the train bearing down on him and tried to escape. He was struck as he fled forward with his arms outstretched.

MIDDLESEX BOOMS.

Mundy, Carman and Crowther Are Mentioned For Surrogate.

A. L. Mundy, of New Brunswick, and Dr. Frank Crowther, of Perth Amboy, are the latest candidates to be mentioned by Republicans of Middlesex for the office of Surrogate, which is to be filled this fall. Dr. Crowther has been suggested by Republicans of the Third and Second wards of Perth Amboy.

Heretofore the only name mentioned was that of former Sheriff William Carman, of Metuchen. Ira B. Tice, of Perth Amboy, is quoted at Perth Amboy, as saying that Mr. Carman would undoubtedly be the Republicans' choice for the office.

Former Sheriff Carman, when asked if he was a candidate for the office, said that he was aware that his friends were speaking of him, but declared that he is making no effort to get the nomination. Sheriff Carman's friends claim that his candidacy would be agreeable to both factions of the Republican party.

Jeppe Sorensen Very Low.

Christian Sorensen, of Webster place, received a telegram from Saranac Lake, late yesterday afternoon, informing him that his son, Jeppe Sorensen, who has been at the resoft for the benefit of his health, was dying. The message came from a physician and stated that the young man could live but a few hours. Miss Christine Sorensen, a sister, left for Saranac Lake last night but up to noon today nothing had been heard from her. Mr. Sorensen is widely known in this city and previous to the time his health failed him, conducted a meat market at Watchung avenue and East Fourth street.

PLAINFIELDER'S SHIP IS WRECKED OFF CHILI

Captain Winn and His Crew Picked Up at Sea After Abandoning Vessel.

NO LIVES WERE LOST

The "Tillie E. Starbuck" Destroyed —Meagre News From Coquimbo Yesterday.

In a meagre report received at the New York office of Lloyds, yesterday afternoon, news of a shipping disaster in which Captain William Winn, of the Jackson building, was a prominent figure, was conveyed. It stated that the "Tillie E. Starbuck," a splendid steel vessel of which the Plainfielder was commander, had been totally wrecked and abandoned off the coast of Chili. Captain Winn and his crew were picked up last Thursday morning by the British Barkentine, "Cambuskenneth," and conveyed to Coquimbo from which place the report was forwarded.

Although attempts have been made by the owners of the vessel and Mrs. Winn direct, no further news of the disaster has been obtained. It is not known whether the mishap was occasioned by a storm or by fire in the cargo, whether the men had been adrift for days or were picked up immediately. The owners look for a full report from Captain Winn within a few days.

The "Tillie E. Starbuck" was an iron ship of 2,026 tons gross and was built at Roaches' yards, Chester, Pa., in 1882. She was one of the finest vessels of the kind afloat and had safely weathered gales in every part of the globe. She arrived in New York last March after a year's trip and sailed on April 10 for Honolulu with a general cargo. A good part of it was coal and it is possible that fire may have started in it and defied all attempts to put it out. The crew comprised in all twenty-four men besides the commander.

Captain Winn has followed the sea practically all his life and has been captain of various vessels for more than thirty years. Although he was afloat almost continually, he had never lost a ship by storm and only one by fire. He had been in charge of the "Starbuck" for several years and her loss marks another depletion in the ranks of a once famous class of American shipping.

RESCUED HIS DOG.

Ivamy Called to Turn on Overzealous Canine Snarer.

Fred Ivamy rescued his valuable brindle bulldog from the dog-catcher this morning. "Conjunction" Jones, who is the most energetic of the three canine snarers, picked up the dog from in front of Ivamy's fish market on East Second street. In corraling the dog Conjunction failed to observe that the bull was standing within Ivamy's stoop line, and therefore in a sanctuary not to be invaded by dog-catchers on business bent.

Ivamy lost no time in making complaint at police headquarters, and Chief Kiely, in turn, lost no time in ordering Chief Dog Catcher Jim Babbitt to take the dog back. The dog returned home in triumph, Babbitt leading it back for a formal and apologetic restoration to loving and indignant friends.

Invite Old Exempts.

The Somerville Fire Department has invited members of the Exempt Firemen's Association, of New York, to participate in the parade in that place on October 10. The Sixty-ninth Regiment Band will accompany them. Job C. Kenyon, W. J. Keyes and W. J. Logan, members of the old New York volunteer fire department, and A. B. Rohm,, Jr., and Joshua Doughty, Jr., ex-Chiefs of the Somerville department, have been appointed a committee to entertain the old exempts.

Brokaw Not to Run Again.

In a letter to the Bound Brook Chronicle, Mayor R. H. Brokaw, of Bound Brook, states positively that he will not accept a re-nomination to the mayoralty office. He states that a mayor should have plenty of time to give to the duties of the office and says that business engagements will make it impossible for him to accept re-nomination.

Among automobile tourists who have this week patronized the Montclair, a new and attractive hotel on the top of Orange mountain, are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Truell and daughter, and H. F. Woolston, of this city.

William Disbrow has been spending some time with relatives at Perth Amboy.

WESTFIELD.

The farmers of Willow Grove, near Westfield, are very much alarmed by the frequency of fires in the locality. Three large barns, well filled, have been burned in the last three weeks. Peter Rossel's barn was burned Wednesday, and eighteen cows and three horses, together with fifty tons of hay and all his farming tools. The loss to Mr. Rossel was about $6,000 and of this he has $3,000 insurance.

The African Methodist church of Westfield has purchased a lot on Downer street, and on it will build a concrete church edifice to cost $3,000.

The committee in charge of the Westfield Park fund reports that only $500 more is needed to purchase the lake grounds.

RARITAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thurston are spending their vacation with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Thurston, at Portersville.

W. P. Amerman has gone to Neshanic to spend the remainder of the summer at the home of Henry C. S. Sebring.

Mrs. Halfpenny and children, of Elizabeth, are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Applegate.

Miss Ethel Lynch, of New York, has been spending part of this week with Mr. and Mrs. George Wortman.

Thomas Hickey expects to enter Lehigh University Preparatory School at Bethlehem next month.

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How

Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly, rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $4 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

The players of the Fifth Avenue Theatre stock company will undergo a quick change next week, for after appearing in a rural play in which nearly every member of the cast was called uponto personate a country character, they will be transported back to the city, for in "Hearts Aflame" there is every act the atmosphere of society, with all the formality and lack of sincerity and all that goes to make the man and woman from the country so different from those found in the society and artistic circles of a large city. "Hearts Aflame," which was written by Genevieve Haines, was first produced at the Bijou, where it met with instant success and has since proved one of the best paying society plays on the road. In it Miss Josephine Fox, as La Caprice of the Imperial Music Hall, will have an opportunity to appear to special advantage. The action of the play hinges on the relations existing between some of the leading characters and the music hall girl, and Miss Fox as the dashing, devil-may-care, enchantress will have one of the best parts she has had since she became a member of the company. Augustus Phillips will play Paul Charteris; Harold Kennedy will appear as Reggie Brown, one of those characters for which he is particularly suited; Ben. F. Wilson as Courteney Bryce; Arthur Evers as Harry Harmony; Edwin H. Curtis as Jonathan Leigh; Miss Olive Grove as Mrs. Leigh; Miss Jessie McAllister as Allison Deyo and Miss Eleanor Wisdom as Mrs. Alec Dunbar, a widow who marries the second time.

The Sutcliffe Troupe of Scotch athletes and acrobates will make their first American appearance at Keith & Proctor's 23rd Street theatre next week. The Sutcliffes are entirely different from any other acrobatic act now on the stage. They make their appearance wearing kilts, and it is said they wear the plaids of a different Scottish clan at every performance. As they play bagpipes, the impression is gained that it is a musical act, but the bagpipes are soon discarded, also the kilts, and in tights the members of the troupe do some astonishing feats. The return to vaudeville of Patrice in her famous sketch, "A New Year's Dream," will also be an event of importance. Patrice was one of the first lefitimate actresses to enter vaudeville, and when she left the Hoyt company to appear at the Union Square it created a sensation. In recent years she has been starring at the head of her own company. La Belle Blanche, whose imitations have been making a tremendous hit, is also on the bill at this house. Also Paul Conchas, the dashing hussar, whose development and feats of strength are unexcelled. Jack Norworth, the college boy, monologuist and song writer, is another strong attraction. Dorothy Newton and a number of others make up a bill of exceptional merit.

ELIZABETH'S CARNIVAL.

The most extensive collection of midway carnival attractions ever gathered together in the State of New Jersey will be the feature of the Old Home Week at Elizabeth, Oct. 6th to 12th of this year. Every dealer in concessions within one hundred miles has made application to the corresponding secretary, Charles A. Trimble, of the Old Home Week Committee, for carnival privileges, and from this list of attractions the best that can possibly be secured will be selected.

Contracts are already out for many of the leading shows at prominent summer amusement places, which will come to Elizabeth as soon as their season closes in September. The midway grounds will be located in a part of the city easily reached by trolley or railroad.

Another prominent feature of the Old Home Week will be the industrial exposition, in which manufacturers and others interested in industrial products will find a most elaborate display showing the remarkable progress which Elizabeth has made along manufacturing lines.

Realizing the fact that many, if not the majority, of those who will visit Elizabeth during Old Home Week will be from outside towns, some from other States, the committee in charge has made special arrangements with all railroads providing for a material reduction in transportation rates.

Members of the executive committee have recently visited New England cities, where Old Home Weeks have been in progress, and from the information gained from their observations in these places are able to promise to make Elizabeth's celebration a great success.

Options on Farms Near Rahway.

Rahway, Aug. 24.—Options have been taken and money paid on the Levi Darby farm, near the Ash Brook Swamp, by the Middlesex Water Company, that is building the big dam near here. It is supposed that the object of the purchase is to protect the watershed. The price of the farm is $25,000 for 100 acres. It is thought that the Goodman and the Ganswick or Little farms will be purchased, also.

FATAL FALL FROM HORSE DUE TO MADDENED BULL.

Phillipsburg Farmer, After Wild Race to Escape, Meets Death in a Field.

Phillipsburg, Aug. 24.—John Vancamp, a wealthy farmer, residing near Blairstown, this county, was killed in one of his fields yesterday morning. He had gone out on horse back after the cows. A monster bull that had never been known to attack any person before charged the horse Vancamp was riding.

There was a wild race to get out of the field. Near the entrance the bull caught the horse and turned it suddenly, so that the farmer was thrown to the ground with great force, and the shock killed him.

The bull chased the horse, and before it got back a farm hand had carried Mr. Vancamp's body beyond the mad animal's reach. The horse ran down a lane to the house, where members of the family drove off the bull with pitchforks.

The Longer You Know Them the Better You Like Them.

Doan's Kidney Pills never fall you.

Plainfield people know this.

Read this Plainfield case.

Read how Doan's stood the test

For many years.

It's local testimony and can be investigated:

Richard Day, of 208 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have given a statement which has appeared in our papers for several years. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills because I know there is no reason why they will not do for others what they did for me. I had a miserable dull pain across my back and a sort of lameness across my kidneys. Standing any length of time or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much and did not like to take medicine, but these attacks grew worse instead of better, and reading frequently about Doan's Kidney Pills I bought a box and used it. After taking two boxes I was cured."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

That dry, unctious fun that insinuates itself through the whole being of the hearer, and makes him glad from his epidemus to his marrows, and from his caput to his pedal extremities, is the character of fun that permeates "McFadden's Row of Flats," and starting at the rise of the curtain, creates storms of laughter until the final word of the play is spoken. It is fun that, while of a brisk, lively and pungent flavor, is still clean and wholesome and agrees with the most fastidious taste. It will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre, this afternoon and night.

Those who see the new Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert comic opera, "The Red Mill," will easily understand its great vogue at the Knickerbocker theatre, New York city, all last season. The absence of any suggestive situations, modest dressing, the pretty love story and the exquisite music, together with the picturesque and dainty costumes, the quaint scenery and the good wholesome humor and thoroughly exploited by a perfect organization of some sixty people are the basis of its solid foundation of success. The production will be at the New Plainfield theatre, next Wednesday night.

No announcement could be more welcome to local patrons than to learn that the Ambassador of German dialect, Al. H. (Metz) Wilson, will be at the New Plainfield theatre, next Thursday night, and that he will present for their enjoyment "The New Metz In the Alps"—the play of picturesque Switzerland in which this popular comedian is scoring such a great success this season, and which will doubtless create as much public interest in this city as it has elsewhere. Like good wine, Mr. Wilson's reputation improves with age—as does also his wonderful singing voice, which is heard to great advantage in the rendition of several new songs that have been especially written and composed by Mr. Wilson for the "New Metz In the Alps," among the most notably of which is probably "Fairest Flower of All." This song promises to rival in popularity all his past successes, even "The Winding of the Yarn." Of the play itself much interest can be said for it cantains so nice a blending of humor, pathos and sentiment that it touches the heart very closely. The scenes are laid in far-famed Switzerland, and the story is so cleverly told that anyone with the slightest imagination can for the time being dwell among these interesting people who call the land of snow and ice home, and partake with them of their joys and sorrows. In the presentation of the play special attention is given to all the details—especially the smaller details, which have so much to do in the aggregate in building up a great and successful play.

Among the attractions soon to be at the New Plainfield theatre, none is arousing more interest than Tom Waters in "The Mayor of Laughland," due here next Friday night. Irish comedy of the better sort, free from all suggestion and distasteful makeup, is always a pleasing style of entertainment. Waters, as is well known, is a character comedian of great attainments, and this year, surrounded by a large and competent company, is scoring the hit of his life. He is now under the management of Nixon & Zimmerman, who have given "Laughland" a lavish scenic and satorial equipment.

Mabel Montgomery in "Zira" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre, Labor Day, afternoon and night. This piece is the work of Henry Miller and J. Hartley Manners and is said to be one of the finest, truest, and mose moving dramas that has been seen on the American stage for many a day. In it Miss Stone enacts the role of Hester Trent, which made Margaret Anglin famous. For the purpose of the play Hester becomes a "Magdalen." The crisis comes when the woman whose name and place she has stepped into returns and claims her own. At this point a scene of consummate power is played between the two. It is a heart-rending duel of emotion that stirs and thrills the audience, as no other play has done. In addition the piece abounds in strong situations—lines penned with a masterly hand—and a dialogue both brilliant and interesting.

In order that Miss Montgomery and this dramatic masterpiece might be seen to every advantage, a strong cast of exceptional ability has been provided. The scenic settings are identical with those used during the long successful run of the play at the Princess Theatre in New York.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Alice Johnson has a vaudeville playlet entitled "The Nightingale."

"The Earl of Pawtucket," is reported to have made a hit in London.

Nora O'Brien has recently been engaged for May Robson's company.

Rosabel Marrison is to produce in vaudeville a sketch of Mexican life called "Juniata."

W. J. Ferguson will play the comedy part in "The Movers," one of the pieces of the coming season.

Richard F. Carroll has a new comic opera in which he will play the title role, called "The Irish Cavalier."

ZELAYA'S TROUBLES REACH A HAPPY END

SON OF NICARAGUA'S PRESIDENT FORGIVEN FOR MARRYING AMERICAN GIRL.

Forgiven by his distinguished father for his marriage to an American girl without a fortune, Alfonso Zelaya, a graduate of the Cedarcroft School, and son of President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, is about to start for his native land with his bride.

The trouble which began with the young couple's romance nearly two years ago is ended. With it have passed days of poverty and discouragement, when young Zelaya was forced to play the piano in Washington music halls for his living. Upon his return to Nicaragua he will enter the army, which his father is strengthening to support his well-known policy of a confederation of all the Central American States.

Alfonso Zelaya came to the United States six years ago, and under a special arrangement with the United States government entered the Military Academy at West Point. He prepared for the Academy at Cedarcroft. He went to Washington two years ago and met Miss Margaret Baker, daughter of Dr. W. W. Baker, an employe in one of the government departments. The young Nicaraguan fell deeply in love with Miss Baker, but his father considered the romance detrimental to other plans he had made for his son.

The couple planned to marry, but on the eve of the ceremony detectives took charge of the young man and hurried him to a train bound south, his father having instructed the Nicaragua Legation here to prevent the marriage.

From New Orleans Alfonso sent a letter bidding Miss Baker to be of good cheer and declaring he would return. This promise he made good, despite the displeasure of his father, and the marriage took place eighteen months ago. President Zelaya practically disowned his son.

Mr. and Mrs. Zelaya were penniless, except for the little the husband earned by playing the piano, and the bride became seriously ill and had to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Although he received word yesterday that he was forgiven and was asked to return home, young Zelaya finished his duties in a music hall.

"My father didn't even know my address," said Alfonso, "and I received word of his forgiveness through the legation here. I had a long conference with an attache of the legation and it is all arranged that I shall sail from New York next Tuesday. Until then I will remain at the consulate in New York.

"Ah, that woman—how she has stuck to me! Very few women would stick to a man as she has to me, and their is no power that could make me forsake her."

COLBY WANTS RIKER TO GET IN THE OPEN

NEW IDEA SENATOR URGES HIM TO DECLARE HIS CANDIDACY.

Since the return of Senator Everett Colby from abroad, on Wednesday, the interest in the gubernatorial situation has notably increased, and it is more than probably that those interested will be rewarded with developments in the course of a few days. The Senator declared late last night that he was more than pleased with the position vbgkqvcD qoYnsa with the situation. He expressed his approval of many candidates being in the field for one office. It meant a healthy state of affairs, he said.

It became known yesterday that Senator Colby was in conference for several hours with William Riker, of Orange, immediately after his return to his West Orange home Wednesday evening. William Riker is Supreme Court clerk and a brother of former Prosecutor Chandler W. Riker, one of the men mentioned for the Republican nomination for Governor.

The Supreme Court clerk is said to have his brother's gubernatorial boom in charge and that was the subject of the conference at the Essex County Country Club Wednesday night. Yesterday it is understood that Mr. Colby called on Chandler W. Riker.

It is the desire of Senator Colby that Chandler W. Riker either declare his candidacy for the Governorship, in order that the men in the Colby wing of the Republican party who favor him may know what course to pursue, or that he declare for Sheriff Frank H. Sommer for the place

Senator Colby said last night that the situation in Hudson county, where some of the Colbyites had declared for Justice J. Franklin Fort, of the Supreme Court, for Governor, was by no means hard to understand or displeasing.

The friendship of Judge Fort for some of the reform members of the party in Hudson was mentione dand cited as one reason for the kindly expressions that had been heard from Jersey City on his candidacy.

"The result of having several acnor," said the Senator, "will be apparent when the day of the convention arrives. Insteda of a single man occupying room 100 in a Trenton hotel and making up a slate for ever single single office in the convention—chairman, secretaries and even doorkeepers—there will be independence of action and contest for preference that is buond to do a lot of good."

Senator Colby reiterated his allegiance to Seheriff Sommer and his confidence in New Jersey Republicans to nominate him. He spoke optimistically, too, of the Assembly ticket of the Colbyites that will be submitted at the primaries.

Aid For Money Market.

New York, Aug. 24.—Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou announced here last night a plan of depositing government funds in New York, Boston and other cities to afford relief to the money market in the approaching crop moving period. Mr. Cortelyou, commencing next week, will place each week, at such points in the country as he shall designate, government funds to such amount as he deems sufficient to prevent an acute monetary stringency and possible panic when the demand for money is greatest at the height of the crop moving period.

Saved From Water Party.

New York, Aug. 24.—Judge Dickey yesterday granted a peremptory writ commanding the Board of Elections to make a change in the ballots cast at the last election so as to make George M. Nivins, a Republican in good standing in the Twenty-third Election district of the Twelfth Assembly district. Nivins by mistake marked his ballot by putting a cross in the circle in the prohibition column instead of the Republican column. He says he is not a Prohibitionist, and the court ruled that the necessary changes be made so that he would be given his proper standing.

From the issue of Nov. 8, 1870:

"Tuesday, Nov. 7, was Election Day, and this issue of the Constitutionalist contains the following 'election story' under the headlines 'The Elections,' 'Didn't I Told You So?' 'Democratic Victory!' 'Second Assembly District Redeemed,' 'Two Congressmen Elected!' 'Yates' Majority 116,' 'The Colored Troops Fought Nobly,' with the wood-cut of a crowing rooster:

"The election in this city on Tuesday passed off quietly and resulted in the election of Joseph W. Yates, Democratic candidate for Assembly and the reduction of the Republican majority of last year for Assemblyman. The total vote polled was 92%, the largest ever before polled in the city. No disturbances were created, each party earnestly working for their respective candidates. Below we give the majorities of the various townships for Assembly:

FORMER JUDGE STRONG DIES FROM DYSENTERY

OLDEST LAWYER IN STATE EXCEPT VICE-CHANCELLOR PITNEY.

Woodbridge Strong, who served three terms as judge of the Middlesex County Courts, and who was the oldest member of the New Jersey bar excepting former Vice Chancellor Pitney, died late yesterday afternoon at New Brunswick after an attack of bronchitis and dysentery. His sons, Allen H. and former Senator Theodore Strong, and his daughter, Elizabeth, were at his bedside.

Mr. Strong was born in Clinton, N. Y., February 21, 1827; was graduated from Rutgers College in 1848, went to California during the gold fever in 1849, returned in a few years and was admitted to the bar in 1852. In 1874 he was appointed law judge of Middlesex, Governor Joel Parker signing his commission. He served five years and retired to practise. In 1896 Governor John W. Griggs appointed him law judge for another term. Governor Foster M. Voorhees reappointed him for a third term in 1901, at the expiration of which he retired from the bench and was succeeded by Judge Theodore B. Booraem.

After his retirement from the bench Mr. Strong devoted his time to horticulture and originated several new and valuable varieties of pears. He was married August 4, 1852, to Harriet A. Hartwell, daughter of Jonathan Hartwell, a prominent farmer, Democratic politician and State legislator of Littleton, Mass. They had five children, Edward Woodbridge, a lawyer, of Cincinnati, O.; Allan H., of New Brunswick, counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad; Elizabeth B., residing at home; former Senator Theodore Strong, of New Brunswick, and Joseph M., who died in infancy.

Chapter In Railroad War.

New York, Aug. 24.—Railroad and financial circles were electrified yesterday by the announcement that the Toledo, St. Louis and Western Railroad Company had taken over the Chicago and Alton system, which for years has been the bone of contention between the Rock Island and Union Pacific interests. Theodore P. Shonts is president of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western, which is popularly known as the Clover Leaf. When the details of the transaction became known, they assumed a deeper and wider scope and showed plans were under way for the formation of a new trunk line that may prove to become a disturbing factor in the Western railroad situation. At the same time a new chapter was added to the history of the feud between the Harriman and Rock Island interests, the latter having transferred control of the disputed Alton property to a group of capitalists, the members of which cherish by no means the warmest feelings of friendship for Mr. Harriman.

VAST RICHES OF TURKEY.

Country Has Great Future, According to American.

"Turkey, I believe, is the richest country on the globe for its size," said Ernest A. Magnifico, American vice consul at Smyrna, Turkey.

"There are copper mines, zinc mines, lead mines, and gold and silver mines to be found in abundance in Turkey, but they remain undeveloped because no one can get a concession from the government to work them," continued Mr. Magnifico. "Foreign capital is afraid to enter Turkey, and the industry of the country and the population, I believe, are decreasing yearly. But this cannot last forever. The people, for centuries under the yoke of restraint, are beginning to throw off their burden and are awaking to the possibilities of the future.

"Ten years ago 90 per cent. of the people were ignorant of the utility of public schools, and parents were content to allow their children to grow up without education, as they had done before them. Now schools are springing up everywhere, even in the rural districts, and the people are becoming alive to their true interests. They are taking an interest in politics and governmental affairs, and it is not a far step from education and zeal in politics to active participation in the running of the government.

"Agriculturally Turkey is the most fertile spot in the world. Anything can be grown there. The principal products are wheat and barley, nearly all of which is shipped to England. Smyrna is a city of 400,000 population, and is the largest export city on the Mediterranean, which is saying a great deal when one remembers that Genoa and Naples are on that sea. There are few manufacturing establishments there and no machinery is used. What manufacturing is done is by hand. Smyrna rugs, of course, are famous the world over, and many of the people are engaged in making them."

HELPS TRAVELER ON WAY.

Praise for the Milestone That Gladdens the Tourist.

In a walking trip a milestone along the way is the most companionable fellow in the world; your spirits rise as you near him as though you were about to greet a human friend, and they keep almost consistently on this high level till his brother a mile distant advances to meet you. And when you overlook one of this friendly company because of an encroaching bank or screening boughs, his neighbor further on comes to you doubly welcome. At the latter end of the passage in the journey your spirits flag a trifle, as though oppressed by a sense of desertion. You may even scowl at the overhanging bank which is more than a party to this concealment. Those worthy persons who attend to the roads should see to it that every milestone within their province stands out frankly from its leafy background. Observance of this, however, would rob the wayfarer of that leap of the heart which is his when the stone tells the story of two miles done rather than one. For however much the landscape and the minute world at his feet may claim the footfarer's admiration, he is still keenly alive to the virtue of decent distances covered in his day's journey.—The Travel Magazine.

Her Boston Training.

Last summer Mr. Byram of Monarch, Col., entertained a lot of people, most of them relatives of his, up at the mills. Among them was a young lady from Boston. This summer he expects most of them back again. He again invited the young woman from the Hub, and several days ago he received a letter from her accepting the invitation.

"Dear Mr. Byram," the letter said, "I shall be delighted to journey westward and join the party which is to sojourn at your mills again this summer. I have a queer ambition, Mr. Byram. It is to kill a Robert cat. I am going to bring a fine little 22-calibre revolver, and if you find it possible to let me shoot a Robert cat I shall be deeply indebted to you. Yours, etc."

"She evidently means that she wants to kill a bob-cat," said Mr. Byram, "and her Boston training makes her say 'Robert.' She'll find it pretty hard to kill a Robert cat with a .22 pistol."—Denver Post.

"Work" in Scotland.

A New Yorker who crosses the Atlantic several times a year says that he was in Dundee, Scotland, when he found himself in need of shoes.

On entering the first shop he came to, he was surprised to find that patrons were expected to sit in an ordinary, stiff, high-backed chair, and that there was no rest for the feet, nothing, in fact, in the way of accommodation.

After making his purchase, and as he was about to leave the shop, he said to the clerk:

"In American shoestores there is a rest placed on the floor in front of each customer, and on this rest he places his foot. Just back of this rest is a seat on which sits the clerk as he fits the customer."

The clerk listened respectfully to all this. Then, leaning confidentially toward the American, he said:

"That's all very well in America, sair; but here our employers do not like to see us sitting down when we work."

DR. OSLER OBJECTS TO SOUP.

According to Him Most Harmful Article of Diet.

Dr. William Osler, to whom is accredited the oft repeated and oft denied assertion that people should be chloroformed after becoming 60 years old, is bitterly opposed to the drinking of soup, according to the statements of a New York merchant.

"My wife was a wreck from nervous dyspepsia," said the merchant. "Several prominent physicians in New York had treated her without success, and finally I was advised to take her to Baltimore to see Dr. Osler. He inquired carefully about her habits, and particularly her diet. We described it without going into details, but this did not satisfy the great physician.

"'Tell me what you had for dinner, describing the nature of the courses, their number, and so on,' he insisted.

"'Well, we usually start with some good, nourishing soup,' I began.

"'Stop right there,' interruptetd Dr. Osler. 'Soup must go. There is a popular fallacy that soup is nourishing. That is a mistake. It is one of the most harmful things one can eat. It is worse than lobster. Of course there are times when a simple beef or mutton broth is not to be condemned, but as a rule soup is positively dangerous. It dilutes the gastric juices and it ferments too rapidly to permit it to be easily digested. It is the greatest cause of dyspepsia and nervous disorders. Vegetable soup should be thrown into the garbage pail, where it belongs, instead of being poured into a delicate stomach. Half the nervous wrecks among society folk who live well are caused by eating soup.'"

TRANSFERS AS WEDDING FEE.

Peculiar Emolument Offered to City Pastor.

The pastor of a little Lutheran church up town was called upon the other day to perform a hurried wedding ceremony, says the New York Press. As the couple left the bridegroom thrust a fat envelope into the clergyman's hands. The grateful smile that immediately overspread the clergyman's face gave place to a look of chagrin when later the envelope was found to contain a roll of green street car transfers.

"'Why don't you have a regular fee, say two or three dollars, and collect it in advance?" asked a friend to whom he indignantly told the story.

"Because," explained the minister, "even though a mean trick like this is sometimes played on me, I come out better in the long run by leaving it to the other's generosity. My people being mostly poor, they generally give me one or two dollars; but an occasional $10 or $20 pulls up the average. And once, the year of the Pan-American fair, an actor who came in here to be married, said he could give me nothing but a pass to Buffalo and the fair. I gladly accepted, and that is the only outing my wife and I have had for years."

Shook Hands With Lafayette.

One of Springfield's oldest and best known citizens is Nathan P. Humphrey, who has just passed his 97th milestone, says the Hampshire Gazette. He has had the honor of shaking hands with Lafayette, an event in his life that he relates with pleasure.

When a boy of 15 he and another lad rowed across the Connecticut river from South Hadley to Northampton to the old Warner hotel to see the great Frenchman, who was a guest of the townspeople. Arriving at the hotel the two boys found the place filled with people, all eager to see the distinguished man.

The boys stationed themselves at the foot of a flight of stairs, on which it was expected the distinguished Lafayette would appear. When he came down the stairs Humphrey grabbed one hand and his chum caught hold of the other.

Lafayette laughed and said to them: "How are you boys?"

Caught a Man.

In the mountains of Tennessee deer are often caught in a noose attached to a small tree bent over, and which flies back when the victim has been caught and holds him suspended in the air.

Such a trap was set by two boys last winter, and a hunter stepped into it and was left hanging for two days before being found. He said he was very fond of swinging in a hammock for an hour or two, but to swing by one leg for two days was rather too much of a good thing.

Observatory at Greenwich.

In the year 1675 King Charles II. of England founded the Royal observatory at Greenwich, in order that astronomical observations might be made for the assistance of sailors. The history of the observatory has been the history of chronology and of the practical side of astronomy. Its work and its standards have become distinctly international. The meridian of Greenwich now determines the longitude of the world.

New Motor Gas.

"Alkoethine," the new motor gas, is a mixture of air, alcohol vapor and acetylene, resulting from the spraying of diluted alcohol over calcium carbide. It proves to be a cheaper fuel than gasoline, and the necessary apparatus for producing it can be adapted to any high-speed gasoline motor.

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

BY CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL.

STORY No. 2

The Bothamley Murder Mystery

Being an Account of the Efforts Made by This Government to Bring to Justice the Murderer of Clement L. Bothamley, an Englishman Killed in Kansas.

By CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL

(Copyright, 1906, by Marion G. Schetlin.)

The ground covered by the Baileys from the time they returned from the Pacific coast until they settled in De Smet was all carefully gone over by me. It must be remembered that in there, and that she intended to leave. The newly bought furniture was sold at a sacrifice and other preliminaries to her departure quickly arranged. Elgin, Ill., was given as her destination, and later this was found to be the place to which she went. Thus the Baileys faded out of Dakota.

On my arrival at De Smet I went to the bank of Kingsbury. I had sent in an assumed name, and while waiting to be admitted a voice called out:

"Hello, Tyrrell, is that you?"

I found the speaker to be Mr. Ruth, who had served on a jury before which I had had a counterfeiting case in St. Paul. There was no further chance for me to conceal my identity or my mission. The Ruth brothers placed their services at my disposal. From them I ascertained that Bailey had deposited several thousand dollars in the bank when he first came to De Smet and that he had withdrawn it soon afterward. From the same source I learned of the arrival and departure of the baileys and of the gossip that attended the disappearance of the lawyer.

SAW BOTHAMLEY LYING ON THE FLOOR DEAD

these wanderings they had been nearly a year in advance of me, and I necessarily depended to a great extent on the gossip they had left in their wake. From this I sifted as carefully as I could the statements that I deemed worthy of credence. At each place they had stopped there were plenty of tales of jealous quarrels, always due, as nearly as I could judge, to the fickleness of the bride and her seeming wanton pleasure in keeping her husband in the throes of jealous rage. The conclusion I drew was this: That here was a case of a woman who had married, not from love, but because her suitor had been a desirable "catch." I was satisfied that she had had no genuine affection for Bailey; but to the daughter of an obscure carpenter, an offer of marriage from a rising, agreeable young lawyer of ample means was not to be treated lightly.

Thus I judged the woman on the facts as I had gathered them and without prejudice or desire to work any injustice. And here I wish to say that in my many years of work in hunting down and securing evidence against criminals of all kinds—a career begun in 1856—I have never been dishonest in trying to manufacture evidence against any person suspected or accused, and I have never formed premature notions of the guilt or innocence of a suspect, always reserving conclusions on this point until the facts gleaned forced such conclusions. I am fully aware that many detectives of my personal acquaintance first assume the guilt of a suspect and then make the evidence fit their preconceived idea. Even-handed justice is due the worst criminal. If they are guilty intelligent, honest and persevering work on the part of the officers of the law will develop that fact if the evidence is in any way obtainable. If not—well, I have always believed in the adage that it is better for nine guilty men to escape than for one innocent man to be punished. So in the case of Nellie Bailey I took the stories of her flirtatious wanderings for just what they were worth as shedding light on the character of the woman—and for nothing more.

On April 24 the Baileys moved into their De Smet home. For three days Bailey was seen about town in good health and spirits, engaged in the petty affairs connected with the furnishing of his home. So far as I could learn on my arrival at De Smet several months later, he had not been seen by any of the neighbors after the 27th of the same month. He had bade no one good-by and none of the townspeople had seen him leave. Mrs. Bailey went blithely about her daily household duties, and when questioned concerning the absence of her husband, explained he had business interests in California and had been summoned thither by telegraph. Of course, there was some gossip over the hasty and unseen departure of the lawyer, but it turned more on his having deserted his wife on account of her frivolity and freedom of action with other men than on anything more serious.

For two months Mrs. Bailey lived in De Smet, and then she announced that her husband did not intend to return

The facts gathered up to that time touching the career of Nellie Bailey were such as to strengthen my rapidly forming opinion that the woman was capable of deeds more desperate than flirting, although nothing in itself more serious had been unearthed. It was not difficult to imagine, however, the lengths to which such a woman might go to free herself from the thralldom of marriage to a jealous husband for whom I was convinced, she bore no real affection. Her husband's possession of several thousand dollars in cash, coupled with her inordinate love of feminine finery, rendered stronger any other motive she might have had for wishing her husband out of the way.

The withdrawal of his funds from the bank and his sudden disappearance from De Smet presented themselves to me as additional grounds for harboring the theory that had been forcing itself on me—that Shannon Bailey had been murdered by his wife.

From the depths of his infatuation for his wayward wife I found it difficult to believe that he would voluntarily absent himself from her for two months. While she claimed to have been in communication with him I could find no trace of any exchange of letters between them, a fact that still further strengthened my belief that if the facts could be obtained they would tell a story of a peculiarly deliberate and atrocious crime.

At this juncture a bit of information—startling to me in view of the theory I held—was introduced into the investigation by Mr. Ruth. A few days before my arrival in De Smet it seems there had been found in an unfrequented place on the prairie, 3½ miles from De Smet, the bones of a man. All the parts had been heaped together without even pretense at burial. The skeleton had been dismembered and the flesh scraped from the bones. But there was nothing in the heap of bones which might establish the identity of the victim. By measurement it was found that they had been the bones of a man about the height of Shannon Bailey. There all clews were lost.

It seemed to me that the most promising channel for investigation from this point was a search of the premises formerly occupied by the Baileys. Ruth accompanied me in this search and, that no unjust suspicions should be given circulation concerning the former mistress of the house, we went about the task quietly. The house had, of course, been dismantled of the furnishings used by the lawyer and his wife. On the first and second floors nothing whatever was found that might, by any stretch of imagination, lend color to my suspicions.

Armed with spades we then descended to the cellar. Carefully testing the condition of the dirt floor, we again met with failure. But one spot remained unexplored, the small area under the wooden stairway that formed the cellar entrance. As a last resort I thrust a spade into the floor under the stairs. It sank deep into loose dirt. Quickly we removed the top soil, and as we did so the awful, sickening odor of decomposed flesh became almost overpowering.

At a depth of a little more than two feet the spade struck a mass of flesh. Although almost overcome we completed the excavation, to find a mass of flesh buried in quicklime. Not a bone was there to be found in this sorry grave! There was not the slightest doubt of the flesh being that of a human being, and the quantity indicated clearly that it had been stripped from the bones of a full-grown man. The action of the lime and decomposition had done their work well enough to obliterate opportunity for identification.

In the meantime a woman in De Smet had been found who had had a letter from Mrs. Bailey in which the latter said her husband had just spent some time with her in Elgin. This indicated two things: First, that Mrs. Bailey had really gone to Elgin; and, second, that she believed it expedient to keep alive in De Smet the belief that her husband was living. Therefore I went to Elgin.

No difficulty was experienced in finding that Mrs. Bailey had stopped with one aunt for two days, leaving to go to another aunt, with whom she had spent six weeks. It required some cautious inquiry, however, to develop the fact that Nellie Bailey had brought with her to Elgin her husband's jewelry, among it the watch formerly carried by him and bearing his name. I reasoned that if Shannon Bailey had been alive it was altogether improbable that his wife would be in possession of the watch, especially as she had a reliable timepiece of her own. Her possession of other trinkets formerly used by her husband gave additional color to the theory that Bailey was dead.

Then this fact was learned: The aunt with whom she was visiting had a daughter about Mrs. Bailey's age, and one day the two had gone fishing. When Mrs. Bailey left the house she took a package from the bosom of her dress and gave it to her aunt with strict instructions to take good care of it. Curiosity on the part of the aunt prompted her to examined the packet, which contained several thousand dollars in bills of large denomination. In Elgin Mrs. Bailey said her husband was in California, and I could find no trace of his having been in Elgin, as his wife claimed in her letter to her friend in De Smet.

In the course of Mrs. Bailey's visit to Elgin there were many minor events, all pointing in the same direction, but with which I shall not encumber this narrative. Ever restless, the woman went from Elgin to Waukesha, Wis., where she at once became acquainted with Robert Reise, the 28-year-old son of the proprietor of the leading hotel of that place. The young man apparently fell prey to the woman's wiles without even a pretense of resistance, and in a few days was securely chained to the wheel of her chariot. The sudden and ardent attachment between the two became a matter of general knowledge and comment, and the parents of the young man evinced the bitterest opposition to it, but without avail.

Young Reise announced that he was going to stage a play in which the fair Nellie was to assume the star role. After leaving Dakota Mrs. Bailey had traveled under her right name, declaring in both Elgin and Waukesha that her husband was alive. Her infatuation for young Reise, however, seemed to be as sincere an affair as it was in her nature to harbor, enough so, at least, to prompt her to take the initiative and entice her lover into marriage. Reise, who was much the weaker character of the two, feebly protested against being made the instrument through which the crime of bigamy, as he supposed, was to be committed by his inamorata, but his protests were silenced by her vehement and oft-repeated assurances that "Shannon would never appear to bother them." On this point she was very positive.

It is not likely that Reise had any conception of the full significance of these words. Mrs. Bailey insisted on the marriage being kept secret until "legal separation" from Bailey could be brought about. Reise finally agreed and the marriage took place without further delay. At Waukesha, as at Elgin, Mrs. Bailey exhibited the watch formerly worn by her husband, Reise, among others, having seen it.

The marriage at Waukesha had placed the woman in this position: If Bailey were alive she was a bigamist, and if he were dead she was undoubtedly his murderess. Her vigorous assurances to Reise that there was no danger of Bailey ever bothering them had for me, of course, a grewsome meaning. Strange as it may seem to those uninitiated in the ways of such as Nellie Bailey, I finally believed her to be a woman who would commit the greater crime of murder rather than place herself in her husband's power by committing the lesser crime of bigamy. At any rate, her positive statements to Reise that Bailey would never bother them was in my opinion an important link in a long chain of circumstantial evidence.

Almost immediately after her marriage—real or mock—to Reise, Mrs. Bailey said she had to make a trip to Kansas to sell a farm she owned there and would then come back to Reise with $18,000; and, in connection with this pretense, I succeeded in establishing a fact of the utmost importance—that she had been receiving letters from Clement L. Bothamley during her stay in Wisconsin. It was not my good fortune to secure any of these letters, but the fact that such a correspondence had been carried on was well established. Her statement to Reise that she was going to Kansas to sell a farm was clearly a subterfuge to escape unsuspected from the man whom she professed to love so deeply to go to another admirer.

She left Waukesha still protesting the liveliest affection for Reise and went to Newton, Kan., sending to her Wisconsin lover from several points en route messages of undying love. Bothamley had evidently been advised as to the exact time of her arrival, for he met her at the train and later took her to his ranch under the name of Bertha Bothamley, his sister.

From her journeyings of thousands of miles subsequent to her marriage with Shannon Bailey there seemed to be nothing more obtainable in the form of evidence against Nellie Bailey, or Nellie Reise, than I have related. Any additional evidence must be obtained in Kansas near the scene of the Bothamley crime. The sending by her from Skeleton ranch of the "Sarah A. Laws" deed to the Bothamley ranch should prove a valuable bit of information if the mystery of the identity of "Sarah Laws" could be solved. The key to this puzzle finally was found in Wichita.

Two days before Bothamley and the woman had started to Texas they appeared at the office of a lawyer in that city and solicited his services in the drawing of a deed to the 640 acres of land in question. To this lawyer the woman was introduced by Bothamley as his wife Bertha L. Bothamley, and they desired to convey the ranch property known as "Sarah A. Laws." The instrument was drawn, the fee paid and the couple departed, leaving no [illegible] other than as represented. In the transaction the grantee did not put in an appearance, but there was nothing in this circumstance to arouse suspicion.

Knowledge of this visit to the lawyer enabled me to see what the plan might have been. Further investigation revealed the fact that within an hour from the time Bothamley and the woman had left the office where the deed was drawn in favor of "Sarah Laws" they had visited the office of another lawyer, and asked him to draw a deed to the same land, "Sarah A. Laws" being the name given as the grantor, and Bertha L. Bothamley as the name of the grantee. In the office of this lawyer, Bothamley introduced the woman as Sarah A. Laws. This was the deed that was afterward sent by the woman from Skeleton ranch to the clerk of Harvey county for record, the character of "Sarah A. Laws" having been purely fictitious.

This was the most convincing circumstantial evidence developed, going to show that the flight to Texas had been planned weeks, and possibly months prior to the start, and that Bothamley had fallen so completely under the spell of the woman that he had been induced by her to convey his ranch to her, the roundabout method described being used for the purpose of forestalling the comment a direct conveyance undoubtedly would have caused.

With the facts as here related in my possession I conferred with Col. Hallowell, and we took an inventory of the evidence in our possession. Of its circumstantial character there was, of course no doubt. The outline of the facts I have related was strengthened by a search of the personal effects belonging to Bothamley at the time of his death, and of the contents of the car in which he died. In a box in the car, besides a large quantity of jewelry which had belonged to the woman with whom Bothamley had come to America, was found a bottle of morphine. I tried to establish the identity of the purchaser of the drug, but was unsuccessful, for, after locating the druggist who sold it, I found him unable to recollect the person who had bought it. The facilities for the exhumation and examination of bodies on the frontier were not such as to make an analysis of the Bothamley stomach feasible, and the part played by the drug in the death of the Englishman, if any, was left in doubt.

When we had finished taking stock of our evidence Col. Hallowell, known throughout Kansas as "Prince Hal," and I decided that we could go into court with a circumstantial case of great strength. Personally I was confident of being able to present such evidence as would convince any unprejudiced juror of the guilt of Nellie Bailey or Reise.

The physical circumstances surrounding the death of Bothamley, had the accused been a man, would have gone far of themselves toward convicting. These circumstances, considered in connection with the history of Nellie Bailey from the time of her marriage, the disappearance of her husband, the finding of the human bones and flesh, her possession of his jewelry and money, her marriage to Reise and her confidence that Bailey would never bother them, the evident attempt on her part to secure title to Bothamley's ranch—all these things and many minor circumsatnces seemed to me to constitute a case of much merit from the legal viewpoint. In this view Col. Hallowell agreed with me. The genial United States district attorney and I differed, however, on one material point—the chance of securing a conviction.

"Remember, Tyrrell," he said, "that it's a woman on trial, and a pretty woman."

The trial of this remarkable woman was one of the most memorable in the history of Kansas. She had ample means and had retained able counsel. Col. Hallowell, in his capacity as United States attorney, represented the prosecution, as the crime had been committed in the Indian territory, where there were no local courts. The government's array of circumstantial evidence was marshaled before the jury with much skill and force by Col. Hallowell, and a display of correlated facts produced that would have caused an ordinary defendant to weaken. But the little blue-eyed woman remained as calm, as the incriminating circumstances were piled up against her, as she had been from the first. Counsel for the defense made the best of the somewhat meager case they had, but when the evidence was all in there was a wide margin in favor of the prosecution. After the summing up by the lawyers Col. Hallowell said to me:

"We are up against it. Every man on that jury knows she is guilty, and not one of them will vote for conviction."

BAILEY SHOT AT HIS WIFE'S NEW ADMIRER.

His knowledge of western juries in cases where women were the defendants was accurate. After due deliberation the jury filed into the room and submitted to the court its verdict: "Not guilty." Judge Foster, who heard the case, said after the trial that there was not the slightest doubt in his mind of the woman's guilt. But she was free. Robert Reise had come to Kansas to attend the trial, and immediately after the verdict disappeared with the woman I believed to be his wife, and who was his lawful wife, if the bones and flesh found in Dakota had been those of Shannon Bailey.

I found afterward that while the jurors almost unanimously expressed themselves as believing the prisoner guilty, they had applied to the case their sense of rough frontier justice, reasoning that Bothamley had been a man whose early advantages and intelligence should have led him into a different life, and that if he met death at the hands of one woman, after he had led another to desert her home for him, besides deserting his own wife and children, he was meeting with no more punishment than he deserved. As a man I have no quarrel with this reasoning. As an officer of the law at that time I felt much disappointment at seeing the hard work of months go for naught, especially as that hard work had developed what to my mind was a sound case.

So far as I have been able to learn, Shannon Bailey has never been heard of since the day he disappeared. I have recently written to his brother, who formerly lived in Ohio, but received no answer. I will stake my reputation that we found all that was mortal of him on the Dakota plain and in the cellar of his former home in De Smet.

STORY No. 3 WILL BE "THE MISSOURI LAND LEAGUERS."

UNION COUNTY ORPHANS' COURT.

In Matter of the Application of James Ryan, Executor of the will of Thomas O'Gorman, Deceased. For Sale of Land to Pay Debts.) Order to Show Cause.

James Ryan, Executor of the will of Thomas O'Gorman, deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises; It is, on this thirty-first day of July, nineteen hundred and seven, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Thomas O'Gorman, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the second day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why so much of the said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Thomas O'Gorman, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require. And it is further ordered, that this order be set up and published in one of the newspapers of this State, as by the statute directed.

By the Court.

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

Ball Game Cancelled.

The Scotch Plains management sent word to the Y. M. C. A. this morning that the game between the Plains nine and the association, scheduled for this afternoon at Crescent Oval, was off. No reason was given. The field would probably have been unfit for play, anyhow.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nixon, of West Front street, are entertaining relatives from Bay Shore, L. I.

Mrs. John Gray Foster, of Mercer avenue, has been spending a few weeks at Mouse Island, Maine.

BOB ABBOTT'S FINE GOLF

Plainfield Collegian Wins Match Against West, of Princeton, at Deal.

PLAINFIELDERS WIN

D. H. Barrows and Lieut. Rogers Also Win Matches in First Two Rounds of Big Tourney.

Local golfers were victorious in their matches at Deal yesterday and Robert Abbott, Dudley H. Barrows, and Lieutenant N. P. Rogers, Jr., defeated their opponents in the day's play and won places in the semi-finals by taking their matches in the first and second rounds for President's and Vice-President's cups. C. B. Morgan was the only local man who had bad luck, and he went down in the first round of play for the Vice-President's cup. Tracy Harris, the Deal Club man, won his match against the local man, 1 up in eighteen holes.

The best play of the day was by Robert Abbott, who beat W. T. West, the Princeton player, 3 up and 2 to play. Abbott was in fine form and won by his short game, in which department of the play he excelled the Princeton player. His 84 in the qualifying round yesterday, made him eligible in play for the President's cup, of the lowest score players. In his match in the first round, he had no trouble in disposing of F. F. Briggs, of the Wilmington Club, 4 up and 2 to play. Winning his match in the second round against West, he will play today in the semi-final rond for the silver President's cup, offered by the club.

In the second bunch of players, determined by scores handed in yesterday for the preliminary round, Dudley H. Barrows, Lieutenant N. P. Rogers, Jr., and C. B. Morgan were eligible to compete for the Vice-President's cup. Morgan's defeat in the first round was the only lost match of the local players. Dudley Barrows took his match with F. C. Humphreys, of Camden, by 1 up, after some good golf on the trip in. Lieutenant Rogers beat H. V. Seggerman, of St. Paul, 1 up. In the second round, Barrows met J. F. Shanley, Jr., of the Deal Club, and won his match 3 up and 1 to play. Lieutenant Rogers found an easy opponent in C. H. Bowles, of Spring Lake, coming off victorious 4 up and 2 to play.

The local players are still at Deal and will compete today in the semi-final rounds of the big amateur tournament. About 200 players took part in yesterday's matches, and the feature of the day was the match between Walter J. Travis, the Garden City veteran, and George T. Brokaw of the Deal Club. The old vet was off his game, and played around in 81, to the Deal man's 78. A big gallery followed the match.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

At the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight at eight o'clock there will be a Gospel service.

Rev. Dr. Henry R. Robinson, of Salem, N. J., will preach in the First M. E. church tomorrow morning. No evening service. The Rev. W. C. Nelson, of Nutley, N. J., will occupy the pulpit of the Grace M. E. church tomorrow, morning and evening. Rev. J. A. Cubberley will preach again tomorrow in the Faith chapel, morning and evening. Rev. C. L. Zorbaugh, of Cleveland, Ohio, will preach in the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow morning. Rev. H. E. Porter, of Beverly, Ohio, will preach morning and evening in the Warren chapel. Trinity Reformed church will be closed tomorrow for repairs. Rev. Mr. Cubberley will preach at Faith chapel tomorrow morning. W. C. Leek will lead the singing.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Giddes and A. G. Stevens, of Manning avenue, will leave for Boston tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gow, of Lee place, are registered at "The Arctic," Surf avenue, Ocean Grove.

Mrs. O. F. Pearson, of East Front street, and daughter, Miss Florence, will leave next week for Pennsylvania where they will visit the former's home. They will also stop at Niagara Falls. They expect to be gone two months.

A Roundabout Report.

In a roundabout way, a report reached the city this morning that Ignatz H. Boehm, who recently went to Europe with his wife and daughter, had died suddenly in Germany. Investigation showed that the story first came from a wholesale house in New York, with which Mr. Boehm dealt while in business, and that it was reported there by a returning European drummer who said that he had heard it while abroad. A Daily Press reporter was in communication at noon with Rudolph Bleyer, of New Brunswick, Mr. Boehm's only relative in this country, and he said that he had heard nothing of his demise.

13 HURT, 5 SERIOUSLY BY AN EXPLOSION

FIREWORKS STORED IN KITCHEN IS RESPONSIBLE.

Thirteen persons were injured, five of them seriously, at Madison, last night, at 9.45 o'clock, when the home and fireworks factory of Salvatore Monde, an Italian, was wrecked by an explosion. The seriously hurt are:

John Monde, 8 years old; fatally.
Frank Monde, 6 years old; fatally.
——— Monde, infant; seriously.
Josephine Monde, 39 years old; leg blown off.
John Rillo, 45 years old; both eyes blown out and badly burned.

Maceo Rillo, 41 years old; badly crushed.

Others were burned, cut and bruised, but only six were so badly injured that they had to be sent to the hospital. They were carried to the Memorial and All Saints' institutions at Morristown.

The accident was due to storing explosives in the house. Monde's business was that of manufacturing fireworks and his family and all his help lived in the house. They had been making extra efforts to provide for a celebration to be held by their countrymen in Newark in September, and had about $250 worth of completed and unfinished product. Much of this was stored in the kitchen, where two of the children were sleeping, and where the force of the blast was felt.

The house is located on the Green Village road, about a half mile south of the centre of the town. All the occupants had retired and were sleeping when it happened. The explosion shook the entire town, and all persons who were awake at the time hurried to the scene.

The fire department was there in a few minutes, and gave first relief to the injured after rescuing them from the flames.

A crowd of probably 1,000 people soon gathered. Four physicians, Drs. Snyder, Stewart, Scarborough and Coultas, looked after the injured and accompanied them to the hospital.

It is believed that a vagrant spark from the kitchen range caused the disaster, but this is not positive. The house was badly damaged, some of the lower rooms being blown out entirely. The fire did not cause much loss

ENFORCE OR MODIFY BISHOPS' LAW--COLBY

SENATOR DECLARES ACT IS NOT UNIFORMLY ENFORCED.

Senator Everett Colby told 200 citizens of East Orange, who gathered about the corner of Dodd and Prospect streets, in that city, last night, that the Bishops excise law should either be enforced or modified. He decided that he was not prepared to stand for a law that was not uniformly enforced. Incidentally the Senator reiterated statements to the effect that he had voted for the bill when it was before the 1906 Legislature. There was nothing for recommendation in his address on the excise question.

In entering into a discussion of the Bishops law, Senator Colby, at the open air meeting, drew attention to the enforcement in Essex county. There are sections of the State where the law is not enforced, it was pointed out. There the investment of capital was so involved by excise legislation that the people did not insist on enforcement of Sunday closing provisions.

Reference was made to the fact that a Sunday closing law had been on the statute books for a hundred years, and that the screen section was the only part of the Bishops law bearing on the subject.

Senator Colby was received with enthusiasm when James E. Ellor, as chairman of the reform G. O. P. meeting, introduced him. Sheriff Frank H. Sommer, candidate of the Colby League for Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination, was to have spoken, but he did not arrive in time, owing in other engagements. The Senator took occasion to eulogize the sheriff, however, fulfilling the purpose of those who had arranged the gathering with the idea of furthering his candidacy.

Senator Colby averred that they would not hedge or go through a campaign without looking facts in the face. The adjustment of the present excise situation was said to be a point for the consideration of the people.

"BOB" ABBOTT CHAMPION

Plainfielder Wins Title in Big Amateur Golf Tourney at Deal.

BEATS SCOTCHMAN

Dudley Barrows and Lieut. Rogers Meet In Semi-Finals—Barrows Beaten In Finals.

"Rob" Abbott, intercollegiate golf champion for 1905, gathered in new honors for himself among amateur golfers Saturday when he defeated E. M. Richardson, the young Scotchman, who is in this country for the season, in the finals at the Deal Golf and Country Club tournament, and as winner of the three days' tournament, brought away the big silver President's cup and the title of champion. The Yale man's victory was especially laudable because his defeat of the Scotchman kept the big trophy in this country. Abbott proved the "dark horse" of the tournament, for George T. Brokaw, who trimmed Walter J. Travis, the Garden City vet, in a second round match Friday, was picked to win the title.

Despite the fact that rain in the morning made the greens heavy and slow for the finals in the afternoon, Abbott played steady, consistent golf in his match against the Scotchman, who beat Harold Wilcox, of Montclair, 3 and 2 in the semi-final round. The Plainfielder made a 42 out, for the first nine holes, and was 1 up on Richardson. After the turn, Abbott had no mercy on his opponent, and was one up on the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth holes each, and two up on the fifteenth, the two splitting even on the tenth and fourteenth. This good play gave the Yale boy the match and title, 5 up and 3 to play. The bye holes were not played.

Abbott's match in the semi-finals with Brokaw was an eventful one. The Plainfielder finally won by 1 up after an uphill fight. The two were square at the sixth, but Abbott was 2 to the bad at the turn, was a 46. He braced right there, however, and came back with a 36, winning the tenth, twelfth, fourteenth and sixteenth and breaking even on all but the fifteenth. Brokaw's 39 on the trip in gave the Plainfielder the match, 1 up for the eighteen holes. Abbott's card in this match, showing an 82, was the best golf of the day. It was:

Abbott	5	6	5	5	5	4	7	4	5	—46
Brokaw	5	7	6	5	4	3	6	3	5	—44
Abbott	4	4	4	2	4	6	4	4	4	—36—82
Brokaw	5	4	5	2	5	5	5	4	4	—39—83

Two Plainfielders, Dudley H. Barrows and Lieutenant N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., were pitted against each other in the semi-finals for the Vice President's cup yesterday. Barrows had it over Rogers, who had hard luck on several holes because of the sloppy turf, and took the match 8 up and 6 to play. He was beaten by F. R. Upton, Jr., a Baltusrol, player, 2 up and 1 to play in the finals.

There were 154 starters in the handicap, and the gross score medal was won by W. J. Travis, playing scratch, who had a card of 77. Dudley Barrows' 82, 5—77 gave him a place among the leaders in this play

DIVORCES IN NEW JERSEY.

1,004 Petitions Filed Last Year—Point for Prohibitionists.

Trenton, Aug. 26.—There were 1,004 petitions for divorce filed in New Jersey last year, most of which was alleged in three cases; desertion alleged cruelty. Extreme cruelty in 405, and infidelity in 152.

Those who have been in the divorce courts say that the hardest thing in the world to get in New Jersey is a divorce on the ground of cruelty. The Vice Chancellors and Special Masters do not look with eager eyes on domestic spats.

There have been filed 605 petitions for divorce since Jan. 1, 1907. This is an increase in the numbre of petitions. Regarding the new uniform divorce law, some commen is beinng made relative to the decree nisi, which is given at the end of the hearing or jury trial, and which does not become operative as a final decree until six months after, in order that the losing party may hove an opportunity to appeal to the Court of Errors.

Regarding the decrees granted last year, intemperance caused about 87 per cent of them, and these figures have been taken by the Prohibitionists and will be used in the next Legislature in support of another local option measure.

Discharged From Hospital.

Charles Lewis, Jr., the son of Charles Lewis, of Steiner place, who was injured at McCullough's mills about a week ago, by a pile of doors toppling over on him, was discharged from the hospital Saturday and will soon be able to be about again.

SISTER'S LONG JOURNEY HAS A SAD ENDING

ARRIVES AT SARANAC LAKE TO FIND HER BROTHER DEAD.

Jeppe Sorenson, who has been at Saranac Lake for the benefit of his health and whose relatives were summoned by physicians Friday, died at the resort late Friday night. His sister, Miss Christine Sorensen, hurried to the lake immediately after receiving the message, but did not reach there until late Saturday morning. The body was immediately prepared for shipment to Plainfield and reached here yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held at the home of his father on Webster place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Sorensen was the son of Christian and the late Maren Sorensen and was thirty years old. In the bicycle days of the middle '90's he was well known as a fast rider and won many events in amateur races. Previous to the time his health failed him he conducted the Crescent Market, at Fourth street and Watchung avenue. He leaves a little daughter, his wife having died about a year ago. He is also survived in addition to his father by one sister, Miss Christine Sorensen, and two brothers, Morris and Chris. Sorensen, Jr. The last named is the business representative of Arthur Pryor's Band, at present located at Asbury Park.

JACK MARTIN AND O'LOUGHLIN HEROES IN WESTFIELD CONTEST.

Without Jack Martin and Billy O'Loughlin in the game, there is no telling what would have happened to the Clinton Avenues at Westfield Saturday afternoon. Jack choked the enemy off at a critical period, and his fellow-hero brought in all the Plainfield runs. The score: Clinton Avenue 3, Westfield 0.

O'Loughlin started things in the second with a single. He stole second, and dusted in on a wild chuck by the catcher. In the sixth, Bill came to the bat with two on base and two down. He picked a shoot that was just to his fancy and spoiled it for another safety. The runners pounded the pan before the pellet came back. At his post back of the plate that inning, Bill was forced out of his position by an injury to his index finger. The digit was badly split. H. Giles took his place, and he finished in right field.

In the fifth inning the Westfields had three men perched on the corners, with two out. The batter slashed a hot drive on a line that looked good for a hit, two runs, and the unguessable damage that comes from a batting rally. Jack Martin smothered the Westfield hope with a scorching one-hand stab.

Clinton Avenue has two other games with Westfield, one Labor Day morning and the other on September 14. Both will be played here.

Score by innings:

Clinton Ave.	0	1	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	—3

Sun Makes Engine Go.

Philadelphia, Aug. 26.—By using the principle of the common hot-bed, by which farmers grow fresh vegetables in the dead of winter, Frank Shuman, chemist, thinks he has solved the old proble mof converting the sun's heat into power. He now hat an engine running that gets its power from the sun. Shuman, who is the inventor of the concrete file used in skyscraper construction and of the wire glass, says his machine will revolutionize the motive power of the world. On the Shuman property in Tacony there is a wooden box 60 bq 80 feet sunk into the ground. Is covered with a double top of ordinary hot-house glass with a one-inch air space between the layers. Instead of being filled with greens it is filled with coiled iron pipes, painted black. These pipes, filled with ether, connect with a small upright engine. The ether is converted to vapor in the bib box, passes through the engine, developing three and a half horse-power, thence into a condenser and back again to the hot-box. No fuel is used, the heat of the sun convert the liquid into vapor.

Was the text from which Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, of Scranton, Pa., drew very strong lessons at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. Dr. Pierce has a very pleasing voice and an excellent enunciation, and all who listened to his sermon carried away with them something well worth remembering.

PIERCE VERSUS PERKINS

Cranford Man Announces His Candidacy to Succeed Westfielder in Assembly.

PERKINS SEES KEAN

Leader of Republicans in Lower House Serves Notice On Organization That He Will Fight for Renomination.

FOR ASSEMBLY
John R. Moxon, of Elizabeth,
———, of Rahway,
Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford.

Such is the regular Republican slate to date, with Rahway yet to be heard from. The new figure in the campaign, Mr. Pierce, a New York lawyer, who has resided in Cranford for nearly a quarter of a century, made his appearance on Saturday when he formally announced his candidacy to succeed Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who is making the fight of his life to be returned to Trenton. There are several men in the field from Rahway since Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of that place, as exclusively told in this paper, decided not to seek a renomination. Among the number are Charles Angleman, G. M. Howard and T. H. Roberts, but it is not believed that any candidate will be agreed upon for some days.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who is opposed by the organization on the ground that he has already had three terms, one more than is generally alloted by the party, was on the scene here early today and got down to work to push his candidacy with renewed ardor. When informed that Mr. Pierce had announced himself a rival candidate, Mr. Perkins said the announcement was no news to him. He said he had never heard of Mr. Pierce but did not doubt that he was a very fine man.

"I had a talk with former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean one day last week," said Mr. Perkins. He told me in the course of our conversation that the real reason that he opposes me on is that I have had three terms. I impressed upon him the fact that others were in the same boat and that I propose to leave it to the people of Union county to say whether I can go to Trenton again for them. I asked him the direct question whether the organization was not satisfied with my record and he replied point blank that there was no protest against me on that ground, adding that my record was all right. I gave him to understand that not two or three people should sit in judgment on my fate; that Union county contained more than that number of voters and I would wait until I heard from them at the county convention."

"You will recall, continued Mr. Perkins, " that two years ago I fathered the bill to divide the State into assembly districts so that there could be more "home rule" in the way of electing our representatives. That act was declared unconstitutional by the courts and last winter I gave my support to the proposed constitutional amendment permitting of a return to the old method of selecting the assemblymen. This I pointed out to Mr. Kean, and likewise other matters which I shall not dwell upon." My record is open to the people and I challenge any man to show that I have not worked hard and conscientiously for the best interests of the people. And now I make my appeal to them. They are the ones to judge me and I feel confident that they will send me back to Trenton once more."

Carlton Brownell Pierce has resided in Cranford since 1885, when he removed to that place from Coopertown, N. Y., where he had practiced law after being graduated from the Albany Law School in 1879. He was valedictorian in the class at the law school, going to that institution after being graduated with first honors at Rutgers College, in 1876. Among his classmates at Rutgers was former Governor Foster Voorhees. Mr. Pierce won his election to the Phi Beta Kappa at the New Brunswick seat of learning.

His father, Henry B. Pierce, was professor of mathematics at the State Normal School in 1857, when the Cranford man was born. Later he was city superintendent of schools of New Brunswick where Carlton Pierce received his rudimentary education. Mr. Pierce is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity and of the New York Bar Association. He has a large practice in law and is considered wealthy. He has never figured in politics, but has long desired to represent Union county in the Legislature.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARDS ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED

BADLY HURT IN A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT IN RHODE ISLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. Maze Edwards, of this city, who have been spending the summer at the Highland House, Block Island, were both seriously injured in an accident at that resort on Saturday last. At present they are confined to their rooms in the hotel with two doctors and a nurse in constant attendance.

According to word sent to local friends today, Mr. Edwards and his wife went out for a drive and while proceeding along one of the reins broke. It caused the horse to get beyond control, and it ran away, overturning the carriage. Both occupants were thrown out and were picked unconscious.

When taken to the Highland House it was found that Mrs. Edwards had sustained a fracture of the right arm naar the shoulder and general bruises about the body. Mr. Edwards received a contused hip and thigh beside other rather serious complications, the result of which cannot be fully determined. Inquiry today revealed the fact that both patients were resting easily.

EVANGELISTIC TALK AT NETHERWOOD CAMP

Two speakers, together with special singing by a male quartette from Elizabeth, made the weekly meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp yesterday an especially valuable one, and in the estimation of many, one of the strongest meetings of the season. The speakers were S. H. Atkinson, a New Yorker, who has been at the camp for the past week, and Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Baptist church at Scranton, Pa.

Mr. Atkinson was the first speaker. His remarks were of an evangelical nature, and he spoke at some length of his conversion by Evangelist F. H. Jacobs. His address was more for the grown people of the audience. Nominally a Christian for many years, Mr. Atkinson, whose father is a Baptist minister, really became a convert after hearing an evangelical address by Mr. Jacobs He spoke yesterday upon God's willingness to receive all penitent sinners. Speaking from the theme "Dost Thou Believe?" he made a strong evangelical appeal. He said that sinners turn to Christ in the darkest hour of their sin, the dawn of their better life. He concluded with an exposition on Faith, its value and its true meaning.

The address of Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce was especially for the children at the camp. Dr. Pierce is well known throughout the country because of his work in connection with the Illustrated International Sunday-school Quarterly, for which he has drawn all the illustrated lesson pages for many years. His address yesterday was in the form of a chalk talk, and was of an evangelical nature. He spoke of Christians as eminently cheerful, and pointed out the reasons why this should be. His remarks throughout were illustrated with sketches on the blackboard, which were forcibly drawn. He held the attention of the children powerfully through the entire address.

FINE PRODUCTION ASSURED.

Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, received word from Charles Dillingham today that the production of "The Red Mill," booked for Wednesday night, in this city, would have the entire Knickerbocker theatre cast with the exception of Montgomery and Stone. These artists left the company for the purpose of filling a six months engagement in Chicago but their places have been taken by two of the cleverest comedians under Mr. Dillingham's management. Besides the company of seventy people, a special orchestra comes with the production to Plainfield and two sixty-foot baggage cars are required to carry the scenery and electrical effects.

"The Red Mill" will be one of the banner attraction of the local season and patrons of the theatre have been quick to recognize the fact. The seat sale has been very brisk and indications point to a crowded house. The company is playing only one week of one-night stands after which it goes to Philadelphia for a long run.

Ten Killed; 25 Injured.

Coutras, France, Aug. 26.—Ten persons were killed and twenty-five injured in a head-on collision yesterday between an express train bound from Bordeaux for Paris and a freight train. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch. None of those killed or wounded were Americans.

MYSTERY IN TWO THEFTS

Thief Got in One Place Without Breaking and Plunder.

HE HAD PLENTY OF TIME

Yet Passed Over Much of Value, After a Thorough Search—Police at Sea Over the Case.

Two Arlington avenue houses were entered by sneak thieves yesterday afternoon. The places raided are those of Charles L. Parker, 1045 and D. M. Runyon, cashier of the First National Bank, No. 1,052. Both families are out of town, and the police have been unable to learn how much plunder the thieves secured.

The Parker house is in the care of a maid. She went out yesterday afternoon, shortly after 12 o'clock, with a woman friend. They returned to the house at 6 o'clock. Everything seemed all right from the outside, but indoors they were confronted by evidences of intrusion on every hand. The maid telephoned police headquarters, and Chief Kiely investigated the case at once.

It looked puzzling. The rooms on the lower floor and a front bedroom were upset, as if the thief or thieves had made a thorough search for valuables, yet a lot of valuable plunder, easy enough to carry, had been left. Not a door or a window had been forced. As far as signs went, the thief went in through a keyhole. The maid went out by the kitchen door and left the key in an ice box that stands in the areaway. Although this key was found where the maid put it, the police believe the thief, having learned where it was to be found, made use of it. If he took time to replace the key, he was not frightened away, and his lack of interest in the loot under his hand is hard to understand.

Nobody was seen to enter the house by neighbors. The police were told that the maid and her friend met a man as they left the house, but the maid told Chief Kiely she met no one.

When William P. Spangenberg, brother-in-law of Mr. Runyon, heard of the Parker house robbery this morning, he decided that it might be well to look over the Runyon place. Nobody had been left on guard there. It took him only about a minute after he reached the scene to discover that the thieves had been there.

A parlor window had been forced, and the interior of the house was in disorder. As in the Parker house, the thieves had rummaged through the place where valuables might be found, but left valuables usually considered worth taking. The discovery was made at 11 o'clock, and the police were notified shortly after. Lawyer H. C. Runyon, brother of D. M. Runyon, telegraphed to the latter at the seashore.

The police have no clues to the identity or the trail of the thieves.

St. Faith's Guild Sale.

The St. Faith's Guild of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, Netherwood, conducted a successful ice cream and cake sale at the parish house Saturday afternoon, netting a neat sum for the maintenance of the expenses of the parish house. These sales have been held weekly during the month of August by the various guilds of the church, and it has been decided to continue them Saturday afternoons during the first two weeks of September. About $50 has been charged for the expenses thus far.

Negress Turns White.

York, Pa., Aug 26.—Mrs. Elizabeth Boyer, wife of a negro farm hand, has undergone a change in color from an inky black to white. The metamorphosis has been taking place during the last five years. She is the mother of five small children, and all are black. Doctors say she is suffering with a disease, but she insists she has never been ill in her life.

Everett Kennedy Sherwin.

Everett Kennedy Sherwin, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Everett Sherwin, died yesterday at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Sherwin, of Washington street. He was eight months and sixteen days old. The funeral will be private.

Edward C. Searing, of Park avenue, is spending a weeks' vacation with relatives in Orange.

Mrs. Joseph Green, of West Third street, is spending two weeks with Mrs. Green's mother at York, Pa.

Miss Clyde MacDonald, of Watchung avenue, returned home yesterday from Lake Hopatcong, where she has been for the past three weeks.

Cornelius and Howard Schenck, sons of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, returned home Saturday evening from Lake Hopatcong, where they have been camping for the last two weeks. They report having "the time of their lives."

MR. MELLICK DECLINES ANOTHER NOMINATION

CITY WILL LOSE AN EFFICIENT COUNCILMAN.

After mature consideration of the subject, Councilman-at-large George P. Mellick, of the Second ward, announces through this paper today that it will be impossible for him to accept a renomination. Notwithstanding that he has been urged by prominent men throughout the city, and particularly by Mayor C. J. Fisk and his colleagues in the Common Council to continue his valuable services to the city, Mr. Mellick has not changed his attitude announced exclusively in this paper some days ago that his busines will not permit him to give the necessary time to the office after his present term expires. The regular organization and the New Idea men of the ward too were unanimously in favor of him for a renomination, but now it is likely that rival candidates will be named for the nomination.

Mr. Mellick' letter follows:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Will you kindly announce that after careful deliberation I have decided not to be a candidate as councilman for another term. I am very appreciative of the confidence shown me by the voters of Plainfield and regret that I find it impossible to continue to give the time necessary to the work of the Common Council.

Yours truly,
GEORGE P. MELLICK.

"MARTY" SMASHES RECORDS ON NEW BRUNSWICK LINKS

PLAINFIELD "PRO" MAKES THE COURSE IN 66.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the Country Club "pro," did things to the records at the New Brunswick Golf Club, yesterday, when he went over the eighteen holes in 66, establishing a new course record over the 72 held by Tracy Smith, of the club, for the past few years. "Marty" went to New Brunswick with Frank O. Reinhart and played a match with Tracy Smith and "Buck" Wilson, of the New Brunswick club. The Plainfielders, with "Marty's" good golf, had an easy thing of it, trimming the home pair 4 up and 3 to play in the eighteen holes.

"Marty" played the top notch golf of the day. Out in 32, he slipped up two strokes on the last few holes, coming in and finished in a 34 back. Bogey for the nine hole course is 36, by holes as follows: 4 4 4 5 3 4 4 4 4—36. "Marty's" card for the eighteen holes was:

Out	3	3	3	6	3	4	3	3	4	—32
In	3	3	3	5	3	5	4	4	4	—34

Frank Reinhart had an 81, with a 41 out and a 40 in.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of the County Club, also did things to the course record at New Brunswick in a mixed foursome there Saturday afternoon. Her net score of 85 was fifteen strokes better than the women's record of the course, 100, held by Mrs. James Fitz-Patrick. Mrs. Rogers was playing foursome with E. D. Williams, against Miss Williams and "Nick" Williams, of the club. Seeing that she was going to make a good score, a big gallery followed Mrs. Rogers in. The weather conditions on the course Saturday were anything but favorable for smashing records, and Mrs. Rogers believes she can lower her 85 by several strokes on a good day.

MATINEE RACES.

Two of Them Saturday Afternoon—Dead Heat In One.

Two races were held at the matinee meet at the Gentleman's Driving Park Saturday afternoon. There were three horses in the first and four in the second. The track was slow.

The summary:

Class B.

Albert D.	1	2	0
Maud	2	1	0
Aloysia	3	3	3

Class C.

Bobs	2	1	2
Lucy	1	2	4
Florence D.	4	4	2
Daisy	3	3	3

Horsemen present commented on the number of complaints made to the judges, after the heats, as to starts. "The kicking drivers are acting foolishly," said one of the most prominent.

Mrs. Frederick Pearce and daughter, Miss Helen Pearce, have returned from a weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

Miss Georgiana Galloway, of Netherwood, spent yesterday with Miss Harriet Smith, of Sunnyside, Bound Brook.

TEN-YEAR-OLD RUNAWAY

Found at Asbury Park and Restored to His Worried Parents in this City.

LOST HIS COMPANIONS

Small Charles Callahan Discovered in Rude Burrow Under the Seaside Boardwalk.

After three days of anxious waiting, fear for the safety of their ten-year-old son, Charles, was ended for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Callahan, of 746 East Second street, yesterday. The boy was found at Asbury Park, by the police of that place, yesterday morning.

Charles went away in company with a boy named Richter, who has figured in several runaway trips, and another small boy with the wanderlust. All three boys live close together. Charles had never been off with the Richter boy before, and when his parents learned that he had gone away they were frantic with fear that some harm would befall the little traveller.

Nothing was heard of the trio until yesterday morning, when the Asbury Park police telephoned the local authorities that Charles was in their custody. He was found burrowed in the sand under the boardwalk, where he had crept for shelter.

He told the Asbury Park police that Richter and the other boy had become separated from him, and he had no idea of their whereabouts. It is supposed the other two are wandering about the seaside city, and the police there will hunt for them.

Charles was washed and fed, and the message announcing his recovery was sent, without delay. The police here notified Mr. Callahan at once, and the overjoyed father took the first train to the shore.

NETHERWOOD CAMP CLOSES NEXT MONDAY.

Children Will Be Returned to New York In Time for School Opening.

Next Sunday will be the last regular service of the year at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, and on Labor Day, the New Yorkers will pack up and move back to the city, after two months' vacation at their invigorating quarters. There were nearly 350 at the camp for the service yesterday, and another delegation of about twenty-five will be brought to this city from New York this afternoon. None of the children now at the camp will return until Labor Day, when the camp will formally break up for the winter. The New York schools open next week, and Miss Curry, the matron at the camp, is anxious to let as many children as possible get at least a few days' vacation.

This evening members of the Westminster Hope Chapel, of Elizabeth, will be at the camp, and will present the three act farce, "The Obstinate Family." The play will be given in the camp auditorium, and will begin at 8:30. Tomorrow evenin, there will be a song service at the camp, conducted by the church societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Thursday evening, Percy Cannon and Clarence B. LaRue are to be at the camp. The blind man has taken great interest in the life at Netherwood during this summer, and has been present regularly at the meetings. He will play the accordian for the children, and Mr. LaRue will be the speaker of the evening. Friday evening, Clarence A. Titus will be at the camp again, with a delegation from the St. James' Methodist church, of Elizabeth.

Celebrated Silver Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Slater, of Somerville, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding at their home Friday. It was attended by seventy friends in all from Somerville, Easton, High Bridge, Newark, Elizabeth, Plainfield and White Plains, N. Y. Those from this city were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dunavan, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Dunavan, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Apgar, Miss Lillian Chandler, Miss Fanny Chandler, Miss Mary Clayton and Miss Dunham.

Home With New Car.

Dr. George W. Endicott, of Park avenue, returned home yesterday from Atlantic City, where he has been sojourning for the past two weeks. Dr. Endicott drove his new Stoddard-Dayton automobile home, and made the trip in good time, without accident.

Mrs. Matthews Brought Home.

Mrs. Charles Matthews, of Grove street, arrived home from Mt. Pocono at noon today in a special car attached to the "Harrisburg Flier." She is entirely paralyzed, but her mind remains clear. She is still in a very critical condition.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The social life at Glenside Park was enlivened Saturday night by a barn dance, arranged by the guests at the Miltner House, in honor of Miss Anna Miltner's sixteenth birthday. The affair was a success in every way notwithstanding the storm. The floor of the large barn had been cleared and well waxed, while the walls and eaves were hidden begind greens and bunting, making a very pretty effect. Dancing, of course, was the feature of the evening and was continued until the midnight hour, after which refreshments were served in the large dining room of the house. Miss Anna, in whose honor the affair was arranged, was the recipient of a number of pleasant reminders of the day. Besides the guests of the house there were a number from Plainfield, the Oranges, Newark and New York present.

Through some misunderstanding the regular league game between the Y. M. C. A. and local team was called off Saturday. The Y. M. C. A. claim they received a 'phone message from this place early in the morning announcing that the local team would not be able to play. Investigation failed to find anyone with authority having sent the message. Manager Frentz took his team down in the early afternoon. Capt. Craig said that owing to the message his team had become scattered and that he would be unable to put his regular team in the field. It was finally agreed to play on exhibition game. This the locals won by the score of 6 to 1.

Many of the local fans blame Manager Frentz for not demanding that the game scheduled for Saturday afternoon be forfeited to the local team. This could have been done, however, but he chose the fairer way and agreed to play the game at a later date. Forfeited games count in the percentage column, but there is no sport in taking advantage of every little technical point in amateur baseball.

Rev. James S. Broker, of Lynn, Mass., who with his family are spending a week with the Misses Hayes, of the borough, preached to his old parishioners at the Baptist church yesterday mornin. Mr. Broker's visit was unannounced and came as a surprise to his former people. At the close of the service an informal reception was tendered him.

Little Miss Annie Muff tendered a party to a number of her playmates Saturday afternoon, the event marking her tenth birthday. The afternoon was devoted to playing games, after which refreshments were served. Eeryone had a good time and the young hostess acquitted herself creditably.

The rain Saturday night kept the dust down in the roads yesterday so that the local residents were not obliged to eat their usual peck of dirt, as is customary after every automobile passes throught town.

Edward Hand and Philip Jahn spent Saturday crabbing at Sewaren. The result of the day's outing netted seventy-five crabs.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith begins his vacation this week. During his absence his pulpit will be filled by supply pastors.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Miss Jennie Marsh led the weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. held in the parlors of the church last night.

Miss Marion Goodwin entertained friends from New York over Sunday.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of Jan. 12, 1871:

DISASTROUS FIRE IN THIS CITY.

Total Loss $200,000; Insurance $88,500.

"Since the last issue of The Constitutionalist, a public misfortune has befallen our city. On Saturday morning, Jan. 7th, about 3 o'clock, occurred the most destructive fire that ever visited Plainfield. The new four-story brick building of Elston Marsh, Esq., on the corner of Main and Grove streets (erected about a year since) was totally destroyed with all its valuable contents. The first floor of the building was divided into two stores, with handsome fronts. The store on the north-east side was occupied by E. D. Eaton, who had a full line of assorted dry goods and was busy with an active local trade. We learn that he shortly contemplated renting the other store to accommodate his increasing business. All the rest of the building was used by Messrs. Baldwin & Schepflin, extensive wholesale manufacturers in clothing. They had an unusually large supply of ready made goods on the second floor, and the third and fourth stories were heavily stocked with cases of cloths, cassimeres, trimmings, etc. This firm employed some forty cutters, and gave employment to about 500 persons in different parts of the country. It employed hands in the building to do the cutting, after which the clothing was sent out into the country in wagons to be made up, returned to Plainfield, and reshipped for the market. The principal trade of this firm was with the South.

"The origin of the fire is unknown. It has been the custom for some time past, of Mr. R. W. Billett, a clerk in the employ of Mr. Eaton, to sleep in the store nights. On this particular night in question, he had persuaded a friend and fellow clerk, Mr. J. W. Bellis, to sleep with him. The first intimation of the fire they had, was the awakening of Mr. Bellis, who found the room full of suffocating smoke, and the bright reflection of flames in the basement beneath. He immediately roused Mr. Billett, and had considerable difficulty in doing so, that gentleman having been up late the night previous, and slept soundly, and was doubtless affected by the dense smoke which pervaded the room. After succeeding in awakening him, they both groped their way to the front door, and breaking it in, made their escape, with scarcely any clothing to cover themselves, leaving their clothes, watches and valuable behind them, and started toward Somerset street, crying fire. Officer Clark, who was on duty on Front street, stopped Mr. Bellis and asked him what he meant by giving such an alarm, but becoming satisfied that there was a fire, immediately gave the alarm by ringing the station-house bell. The M. E. church bell was also rung, after awhile, for a short time.

"The fire department was promptly on hand. 'Plainfield steamer, No. 1,' which laid two doors from the fire, was the first to arrive, followed by 'Zephyr Hook and Ladder Co., No. 1,' 'Gazelle steamer, No. 1,' 'Alert Hose Co., No. 1,5 and 'Warren Hand Engine Co., No. 3.' The engines took water from the brook which runs in the rear of the building. 'No. 2' succeeded in getting first water through her hose, but on account of the same not being properly connected, had to stop, and 'No. 3' then got first water on the flames. The Truck Company put their ladders up on the Grove street side of the building, while 'Alert' stretched their hose for 'Gazelle' to the front of the building, and in less than ten minutes after the arrival of the apparatus, five solid streams of water were pouring into the building, but such quick headway had the flames made that it was impossible to save the structure; it was doomed.

"The flames run rampant among the heaps of clothing with which the second story was packed, and leaped for fresh fuel through the pine ceilings and yellow pine floors to the upper stories, found there the supply large and very inflammable. The fire had full sweep through the wide space, as there was no brick partition above the first floor, iron columns forming the division support. The flames and smoke soon filled these upper stories, heating the air within and gathering increased strength. The elements, thus confined and narrowly compressed, no longer able to hold back this smothered and expansive power, exploded with a loud report, bursting out the front French roof, yet unscathed by the fire, and landed it on the pavement below. In a space of time almost incredibly short, the top floor caved in, crushing down the floors and pressing out the north side of the wall, the other walls soon following and the whole building was literally a heap of ruins.

Incidents of the Fire.

"When the front wall fell there were several members of 'Gazelle' close to the building, delivering a stream into the same, and had barely time to fly for their lives when the wall came rattling down, portions of which fell tumbling about their heads, bruising one or two of them slightly. The pipe, which was knocked from the pipemen's hands, was quickly picked up and the boys went at it again. A few moments later, a portion of the cornice falling struck Mr. N. C. Dunn, a member of 'Gazelle' on the arm, severely lameing and bruising him. Shortly after, one of the side walls falling threw a ladder on 'Zephyr' down, and in its descent struck a young lad named Foster, severely injuring him. Mr. I. E. Parker, the expressman, in endeavoring to escape the falling wall, fell and severely cut his hands. After the walls fell in, the sparks and cinders floated in a cloud toward Second street, and it required the unmost exertion of firemen and citizens to keep several buildings from taking fire from falling sparks. At one time the Baptist church, corner of Second and Centre streets, took fire, but was promptly extinguished with a few pails of water by 'Zephyr.'

"It is marvelous, considering the short time which elapsed after the fire had got started and the falling of the walls, that some of the firemen were not fatally njured. The flames had not yet burst from the third story, when the front well fell. To the immense weight of goods on the top floor, pressing the walls outward, must be attributed one cause, while the fact that the walls were put up in freezing weather, the mortar consequently not adhering tightly to the bricks, was, we think, the greatest cause.

"Chief Engineer Van Winkle and assistants were early on the ground and directed the movements of the firemen with coolness and judgment. The location of the safe of Messrs. Baldwin & Schepflin being ascertained, a stream was kept upon the locality, and when the debris was removed, the safe was found to have fallen face upward, and the contents, books, papers, money, etc., was found all right. The safe is a Herring. The fire breaking out afresh among the ruins in the evenin, 'Gazelle, No. 1' was again ordered out and kept a steady stream on the same for some two hours. Monday morning a large gang of men were employed in removing the debris, and overhauling the remnants of clothing which fell into the basement, hoping thereby to find a few boxes of goods not entirely worthless. A mountain of half burnt clothing is now piled up on the Grove street side.

"Owing to the combustible nature of the goods contained in the building, it necessitated the keeping of the firemen at work on the debris until about 1 o'clock p. m., and to say it was not very pleasant work was testified by the icy condition of the hose and engines. Mr. Elston Marsh kindly furnished a substantial lunch to the weary firemen at Laing's Hoter, Mr. Schepflin also furnished refreshments.

"The losses are estimated as follows: Baldwin & Schepflin, on stock, $175,000. Elston Marsh, on building, $16,000. E. A. Eaton, on stock, $10,000.

"The insurances are as follows: Baldwin & Schepflin, on stock and fixtures, 171,500. A. E. Eaton, on stock, $5,000. Elston Marsh, on building, $12,000."

The Heroine.

From Gen. Chas. King:

"Mr. Parrish knows well how to make a story go, and with such a heroine and two such manly fellows as Hampton and young Brant, he has a strong one here. I envy him his power. I rejoice in his descriptions, and I thank him for the spirited picture he draws of the young officer checking that mad lynching bee just in the nick of time. With all my heart I hope the story may be widely read.

"CHARLES KING."

You will want to read this, our next and best serial, the story of

Bob Hampton of Placer

Hero of Custer's Famous Fighting Seventh.

By RANDALL PARRISH,

Author of "A Sword of the Old Frontier," "My Lady of the North," etc.

¶ From the incidents leading up to and culminating in the battle of the Little Big Horn, in which General Custer and his command were massacred by the Sioux under Sitting Bull, Mr. Parrish has developed a story of dramatic power and action that will stir the blood of every lover of a keen, exciting story.

¶ The reader who delights in the ring of the horse's hoofs on the rocky trail of the wilderness, and who would see a dramatic picture of the West in that period of large and spectacular situations, will find in "Bob Hampton of Placer," a story that will hold the attention, fixedly, to the very end.

¶ The charming romance skilfully woven into the narrative will appeal to every reader who enjoys a well-told love story, with a brisk movement and a lively human interest.

IT WILL BE RUN SERIALLY IN THIS PAPER, AND YOU WILL APPRECIATE IT. WATCH FOR THE OPENING CHAPTERS

TRAIN AND TRACK.

All over the world there are 562,436 miles of railway now open. America has 285,781 miles, and Europe is a poor second with 193,133 miles.

A German article describes a locomotive equipped with feed water heaters which has recently been put into service on the Egyptian state railways, and effects a saving in coal of 21.4 per cent, or over $1,000 a year to each engine.

New York city is to have the largest passenger car yards in the world in ong Island city, where the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has begun work preparing ground from one-quarter t otwo-thirds of a mile wide and three miles long, on which will be laid eighty miles of railway track.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Discarded dimity skirts make very attractive bureau scarfs. They may be bleached white, if necessary, and then conventional designs worked on them with floss or cut out cretonne designs appliqued on.

When ants are troublesome sprinkle sugar through a small piece of sponge and leave these about the pantry shelves. In a short time the ants will be holding a high carnival. Plunge the sponges in boiling water and set again.

A good remedy for keeping moths out of furs and woolen pieces is to wrap the fur tightly in a piece of newspaper that has been soaked in turpentine. Place in an old pillowcase or bog. There is absolutely no danger that the moths will disturb any piece so treated.

MR. MELLICK'S DECLINATION.

It is with much regret that The Daily Press announces for George P. Mellick that he will be unable to serve the city as a member of the Common Council after the expiration of his present term. We do not mean to make any reflection on others when we say that few men have been as valuable to the municipality in like capacity, although the city has always been blessed with having an abundance of able men in its councilmanic chamber.

Only when Mr. Mellick refused absolutely to become a candidate for mayor last fall, did the Republican organization consider another for that nomination and the choice fortunately fell to the lot of a citizen of the same type. Now when his term in Council is expiring the regulars and New Idea men alike have rallied to his support, despite the fact that he was outspoken in his opposition to the local campaign waged by the Colbyites recently.

Mr. Mellick's reason for declining to continue his services as a councilman is a purely business one. He cannot spare the time from his large private interests to devote the necessary attention to the city's work. All we can hope for is that at some future day, he will re-enlist as a public servant and in the meanwhile we know that he will keep up his deep interest in the public affairs.

John A. O'Keefe, formerly of this city, but now of Buffalo, was the guest over Saturday and yesterday of Charles J. Ward, of Clinton avenue.

The Jersey political editor of the New York Tribune unconsciously pays a great tribute to James E. Martine when he says that he would not suit the Democratic bosses and that he would be "as bad as Colby or Sommer." "At bottom," that paper says today, "the leaders are really for Katzenbach." The Tribune is right, "Jim" is too good a man to suit the Republican annex.

Local Young Couple Wedded.

Miss Elizabeth R. VanWinkle, of Central avenue, and George B. Cratsley, of West Third street, were quietly married in the Park Avenue Baptist church, Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. E. Finn and was witnessed only by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cratsley, parents of the groom and Jeremiah and Frank VanWinkle, brothers of the bride. The young couple afterward left for Philadelphia on a wedding trip and on returning will make their home on Elmwood place.

Elizabeth Pasch.

Elizabeth Pasch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pasch, of Harrison street, died this morning from a pulmonary trouble. She was twenty-one years of age, and had been sick for a long time. Funeral services will be held from her late residence Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The interment will be in the Methodist cemetery.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The New York Knickerbocker theatre musical success, "The Red Mill," is one of the early attractions booked for this city. The complete production including the escape from the mill, with the company of sixty, including the six little Dutch Kiddies, are a few of the features in this worthy well-known success. The production complete and a special orchestra will be at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night.

Golden voiced siged Al. H. (Metz) Wilson, who will appear at the New Plainfield theatre, Thursday night, in his new play, "Metz in the Alps," has the promise of the usual large audience that has been the rule in practically every playhouse in which he has appeared of later years. His wonderful voice, the rich endowment of nature, has been so constantly and so rapidly adding to his fame that he now occupies foremost position on the American stage and enjoys the attention of an increasing set of admirers distinctly his own. This in addition to a magnetic personality, an acting ability that is really to be envied and a stage presence that is as pleasing as it is unique, has served to mark him as the real ambassador of German dialect, and crowded houses dot his seasons' tours as naturally and abundantly as flowers in spring. Were there nothing more than to hear him sing such beautiful songs as the "Fairest Flower of All," "Snitzlebank," "Wilson's Lullaby," "Switzer Le Boy" and "Songs of Old Fatherland," many an audience would feel well repaid for time and expenditure in going to hear him.

A midget entertainer who bids fair to rival in popularity the great Tom Thumb is to be found in Major Casper Nowak, who is appearing this season in support of Tom Waters in "The Mayor of Laughland." This attraction will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. The major is 28 inches high and weighs forty pounds. In Mr. Waters' new starring vehicle he appears as Jimmy Short, the bell hop of the Laughland Hotel. Although in very fast company the major is well able to hold up his end. Not only in figure by in voice, which is far too big for his wee body. This merry Lilliputian finds a decided advantage over his full grown associates, and never fails to win a laugh in just the right place and with the right means. He is more than a clown, he is an artist with a fine sense of the ridiculous and unerring judgment in his comedy methods. "The Mayor of Laughland" is under the direction of Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman, who have equipped the show in lavish fashion and given Mr. Waters a large and capable supporting company, of whom Major Nowak is but one of the many principals.

With an exceptional support of clever players, and a superb production, Mabel Montgomery, the talented young emotional actress, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, Labor Day, matinee and night, in "Zira." This piece is being presented for the first time outside of New York city and is the joint work of Henry Miller, the brilliant actor-producer, and J. Hartley Manners, a prominent playwright. The play is based on incidents in Wilkie Collins' famous and thrilling novel, "The New Magdalen." It had a remarkable run in New York, attaining such a distinct success that it ran for over 300 nights at the Princess theatre. It was in this play that Margaret Anglin at a single bound became one of the foremost artists on the American stage. It has also, it is said, been a decided successful vehicle for Miss Montgomery's second starring tour, and to represent the greatest artistic achievement in her career, owing to the wonderful opportunities the piece affords for emotional acting of an unusual type. Miss Montgomery, who was leading lady at the old Fifth Avenue theatre for a number of seasons, and who was starred last season in "Zaza," has scored one continuous record of successes, but it is said in "Zira" has been provided with a role that of Hester Trent which enables her to display her artistic talents, propossessing stage presence and great beauty to the best advantage.

FEW PLAYERS ON LOCAL GOLF LINKS SATURDAY

W. D. RIGGS WON FIRST HONORS IN COUNTRY CLUB COMPETITION.

The links at the Country Club were heavy and soggy Saturday afternoon, as a result of the heavy rain, and there were few players out to compete for points in the contest for the various cups. Though the greens were slow, there was but little standing water on the course and those who went around played under fair conditions.

The week's honors for the Golf Committee cup were taken by W. D. Riggs, whose card showed a 77 net. G. F. Schoonmaker, with a 5, made a net score of 78, winning two points for the cup; Will Glenney, with a handicap of 2, got a point with his 79. W. D. Riggs also won a leg on the Scratch cup with his 84.

These cards were posted for the Golf Committee Cup:

W. D. Riggs, 84, 7—77; G. F. Schoonmaker, 83, 5—78; Will Glenney, 81, 2—79; J. E. Erickson, 92, 10—82.

Among the Class B players in the contest for the Green Committee cup, H. F. Fox won the points for the week with an 80; C. C. Burke had an 82 for second honors, and the point for third best score went to G. E. Cathcart, with an 83. These scores were posted for the Class B cup:

H. F. Fox, 94, 14—80; C. C. Burke, 92, 10—82; G. E. Cathcart, 87, 4—83; J. P. Murray, 98, 12—86; W. F. Merrill, 109, 20—89; H. Williams, 113, 26—87.

There were no cards turned in at the Park Golf Club in the season's competition for cups. The course was in poor shape after the heavy rains and though there were several players at the club in the afternoon, but few played the eighteen holes. No scores were posted for the trophies.

SIXTY YEARS ON THE CANAL.

Plane Keeper on the Morris Waterway to Be Pensioned.

Netcong, Aug. 26.—If he lives until Oct. 3 Woodhull C. Bird will be 83 years old. He is probably the oldest canal boatman in the country, and on Christmas Eve next will have spent sixty years on the Morris canal. His employers are planning on his birthday to give him a pension that will enable him to live comfortably without working for the rest of his life.

"Capt." Bird, as all his friends call him, has been keeper at the Port Morris plane, where the canal boats are lowered by tracks from the canal bed at Port Morris down a hill into Musconetcong Lake, ever since May 15, 1858. The old man is known to about every one in Netcong, Stanhope and Port Morris. He entered the employ of the company in 1847, and was promoted to the plane station in 1858, where he has been ever since.

Bird tells of the old days of the canal and of its business in the last sixty years. In the height of the iron mining industry in Morris county, and when the bulk of the coal was shipped from Phillipsburg to Jersey City by boat, before the Lehigh Valley railroad became a factor in railroad shipping of coal from the mines, he said the number of boats that went through the canal averaged 125, while today there are about five or six a week.

HIS USEFUL STRONG HEAD.

Negro Proved Himself Just the Right Man in the Right Place.

"Ever take notice how much strength a negro has in his head?" said a man who is always looking out for unusual things. "Well, I had ample opportunity to test a certain negro's head carrying capacity while I was in charge of a large printing establishment in Texas. We had received a large shipment of paper of extra heavy weight, and none of the men employed by the firm seemed able to handle the bundles. Of course we should have had a freight elevator, but we had none. Well, about the time I had given up hopes of getting the paper up to the third floor a negro came shuffling down the street playing a harmonica. He inquired if I wanted any one to do a day's work, and said he was a hodcarrier, but was willing to do anything for a dollar. I thought of the paper and the third floor proposition and engaged him. Well, sir, he took to it like children to candy. Maybe he didn't shame the rest of the negroes around the plant! In less than no time he had the paper stored away, and the work didn't seem to affect him in the least. The result was he got a steady place and was dubbed the Heavyweight Nigger. The fellow toted every ounce of it on his head."

NO SENTIMENT IN BUSINESS.

Some Old-Fashioned Ideas of Trading Have Passed On.

"Times have changed," said an old grocer on Kansas avenue, the West side. "Buyers get their groceries, meats and merchandise where they believe they can get the most for their money. Of course, quality as well as quantity is considered. Twenty years ago it was different. Merchants often were patronized because they were of a particular nationality or creed. Sometimes it was on account of their political belief. Then there were those who had the notion that a store they had patronized several years gave the most for the money. I remember a man who had just moved into the neighborhood came into my place of business several years ago. He asked me about my nationality. I told him. He walked out of the store and never returned. But it's different now. Religion, nationality and politics are forgotten. Honest bargains and honest methods are sought. And it is better for the buyer and merchant.—Kansas City Star.

His Finger Imprints.

Of Count Julius Andrassy, whose monument was recently unveiled at Buda-Pesth, the Neue Presse gives the following incident: Count Andrassy had a habit of smoothing with his hand his richly oiled hair. One day an important document had passed the Austrian council of ministers, in the contents of which Count Andrassy was interested. Shortly afterward the Austrian president of the ministry said to one of the ministers: "Count Andrassy has read the latest document." "How do you know?" "I find on it the imprint of Count Andrassy's fingers," responded the president with a laugh.

"Sensible to the Last."

An old Scotch lady used to be attended by a doctor to whom she invariably gave a guinea when he went to see her. He had told the friends with whom she lived that her death would probably be sudden, and one day he was hurriedly sent for, as she appeared to have become unconscious. On his arrival he saw at once that the old lady was dead, and, taking hold of her right hand, which was closed, but not rigid, he calmly extracted from it the fee which she had provided for him, and as he did so he murmured: "Sensible to the last."

The Ideal Eve.

Not one man in 500 pictures his future wife in the surroundings of the ordinary girl. Where is the Adam who dreams of meeting his Eve, short of skirt and strong of arm, in the hockey field; or striding over the turf with a golf ball; or plunging madly after a tennis ball? Au contraire, he pictures her clad in "something soft and clinging," a being more angel than woman, who, as a daily companion, would undoubtedly prove the most withering bore a man could be cursed with.—The Throne.

South American Oil-Birds.

One of the animal curiosities of South America is the "oil-bird," or guacharo. It breeds in rocky caves on the mainland, and one of its favorite haunts is the island of Trinidad. It lays its eggs in a nest of mud, and the young birds are prodigiously fat. The natives melt the fat down in clay pots and produce from it a kind of butter. The caves inhabited by the birds are usually accessible only from the sea, and the hunting of them is sometimes an exciting sport.

Wealth and Generosity.

Great wealth is a misfortune, because it makes generosity impossible. There can be no generosity where there is no sacrifice; and a man who is worth a million of dollars, though he gives half of it away, no more makes a sacrifice than (if I may make such a supposition) a dropsical man, whose skin holds a hogshead of water, makes a sacrifice when he is tapped for a barrel. He is in a healthier condition after the operation than before.—Horace Mann.

FUN WITH THE PROFESSOR.

Erudite Teacher Deceived by Conscienceless Student.

A well-known professor remarks that the passion for any science may make a man hopelessly narrow, in a way. As an example he cites the case of an elderly professor in Middletown, Conn., whose love for philology was so excesive that it frequently led him to disregard the broader principles of language in his minute searches for the particles binding an ordinary English word to its Ayran or Sanskrit ancestor.

Once a student thought to have a bit of fun at the learned professor's expense. Assuming an air of great modesty, he rose.

"Doctor, I've been thinking a great deal of late about the derivation of the word 'Middletown.' What is your idea of it?"

The professor was a bit taken back. "Really," he stammered, "I—er—really, young man, that is a subject that will require much reflection. May I ask whether you have chanced upon anything that would throw any light on the question?"

"It is my firm belief, sir," responded the student, with great gravity, "that Middletown is derived from Moses!"

"Dear me, dear me!" exclaimed the guileless professor. "And pray, sir, how do you derive Middletown from Moses?"

"Very easily, doctor," replied the joker; "by dropping 'oses' and adding 'iddletown.'"—Lippincott's Magazine.

WARNINGS OF NO AVAIL.

Sinner Went on Evil Way Despite the Manifestations.

This curious tale of old-time spiritism is taken by Defoe from Baxter's (1615-1691) "Historical Discourse on Apparitions:" "There is now in London an understanding, sober, pious man, oft one of my hearers, who has an elder brother, a gentleman of considerable rank, who having formerly seemed pious, of late years does often fall into the sin of drunkenness. He often lodges long together here in his mother's house, and whensoever he is drunk and has slept himself sober, something knocks at his bedhead, as if one rapped on the wainscot. When they remove his bed it follows him. Besides other loud noices on other parts where he is, that all the house hears, they have often watched him and tied his hands lest he should do it himself. But his mother declared that she had seen his shoes under the bed taken up and 'nothing visible to touch them.' The drunken sinner refused, in spite of these solemn warnings, to abandon his evil ways."

Lindy's Select Patronage.

It was during the time of the Spanish-American war. An officer of a Massachusetts regiment, carrying under his arm a bundle of soiled linen, called at the home of a colored woman living on the outskirts of Jacksonville, who had made quite a reputation for good laundry work among the soldiers.

'Does yo' belong t' de Fif' Mah'land?" Lindy was asked.

"No."

To de Hund'ed-an-fifty-fif' Indeeany?"

"No."

"Th'd Pennsellvany?"

"No."

"Twen'y-second Ohio?"

"No!"

"Wale, yo' all clar outen here; I'se kep' private wash-lady by dose fo' regiments!"

Caught Mother, Too.

A little girl went with her mother to see a baptizing which was being conducted at a lake a short distance from her home. She watched with great interest while the men cut a long hole in the ice, it being winter, and when the preacher took one of the candidates for baptism by the arm and led him down into the water and immersed him, the little watcher, thinking, no doubt, that they were all to be treated in like manner, turned and fled to the house. A short time after that her mother, who had been baptized, came up to the house dripping wet and was astonished by the following from the little one:

"Well, mamma, they caught you, didn't they?"—Judge.

How to Light a Fire.

Most people when setting a fire lay the wood flat, criss-cross over the paper in the bottom of the grate, but let them try placing the wood sloping from the sides of the grate to the center. This forms a funnel for a free passage of air, and as the flame travels up the stick more quickly than it does across the result is that fewer pieces are required, and the fire burns up more brightly and in half the time that it usually takes, says Woman's Life. Then when placing a lump of coal on the fire if you wish it to last a long time lay it with the grain of the coal running across, as the flame travels more slowly across than upward.

Removal of the Stomach.

The entire stomach was first successfully removed by Schlatter, of Zurich, in 1897. B. Vasallo, a surgeon of Argentina, reports having now performed 17 pylorectomies, and considers the gravity of these operations more apparent than real. Four months after the last complete removal of this organ, the patient was in excellent health, with no inconvenience except the necessity of eating often and but little at a time.

WE MAKE IT CLEAR TO YOU.

no matter how dimly you may have seen it before. You can read the smallest type with the greatest ease after we have fitted you with Spectacles or Eye-Glasses. MADE USE OF HER LEGACY.

Aunt's Bequest of Use to Ease Niece's Feeling.

When people asked Miss Amanda Green what she received from her aunt in the city as a legacy, Miss Green always smiled grimly and stepped toward her fireplace.

"Aunt always said she should remember me in her will," Miss Green would say, "and although I knew the family traits, I did calculate on a few hundred dollars, she being worth somewhere up in the hundred thousands. But what she didn't leave to her son all went to the college where he got his education.

"It was stated in the will that I was to choose any remembrance from among the household furnishings that I wished.

"I chose this pair o' bellows," and Miss Green would lift a well-worn article from the peg where it hung. "Some folks wouldn't sense the fun I've got out o' these old things. Aunt Rebecca wouldn't ever let 'em be used for fear they'd start the fire up too much. I've sat over a dying blaze in her fore-room with my eyes on this pair o' bellows till it seemed as if my gaze would fetch 'em right off their hook.'

"Now I take 'em down, even when 'tisn't necessary, and I work 'em back and forth hard as I can, and it eases my feelings so that by the time I hang 'em up I'm ready to say: 'Poor old Aunt Rebecca!' instead of—well, something quite different."—Youth's Companion.

TEACHER WAS ALL RIGHT.

Had Answered All Questions in a Satisfactory Manner.

I was staying over night with a farmer, says a writer in the Chicago Daily News, and after supper we were talking about educational matters, when I mentioned the fact that I had passed a schoolhouse about two miles west of his farm that afternoon and that the female teacher, who was standing in the door, was an intelligent-looking girl.

"Yes, I got her the place," he replied.

"Then you are what is called the moderator? You had to ask her various questions to see if she was fitted for the place?"

"Well, not so very many. I asked her about the Rocky mountains and the Atlantic ocean and who Shakespeare was, and she answered right off. Then I said something about Turkey and how many times 10 went into 80 and her answers showed me she was right up to the mark. Then I asked her in case my old woman died during the summer if she'd marry me in the fall, and she said she'd be durned glad to, and I told her to bring along her duds and take the job."

Haggard Tells a Story.

In a letter to the London Times concerning a statement recently made that he was responsible for the land policy of the British government, H. Rider Haggard, the well-known novelist, tells the following story:

"I am reminded of a story of a certain Daniel Lambert of a Boer who, being caught napping by savages, rushed to his horse exclaiming, 'O, Lord, help me mount!' So abundant and vigorous was the heavenly aid vouchsafed that he not only reached the saddle, but flew right over it to the veldt beyond, and as the Zulus came up and speared him was heard to declare reproachfully, 'O, Lord, thou has helped too much!' In like fashion I may say, 'O government, thou has helped too much' for I have always aimed, not at revolution, but reform."

Intoxicated Insects.

Citizens of Pasadena, Cal., have made complaint to the authorities that bees and flies, intoxicated on fermented orange juice, have become a nuisance that should be abolished. They say that the proprietors of a nursery near the town have a large force of Japanese employed extracting seeds from partly decayed oranges, and in the process of squeezing the seeds from the oranges a small stream of orange juice flows from the place, which attracts millions of flies and bees, which become intemperate. The nursery uses the seeds for planting.

Be Singular.

Are we growing too much alike? Some one has asked this disturbing question, and some one else—evidently in a panic—has been rushing about "taking stock" of the appearance of people in general. They may be prejudiced when they record that we have no higher ambition than to be mistaken for our neighbors; still, it cannot be denied that few of us are content to rest in a condition which marks us as singular among the many, even though it may be singularly beautiful, healthy, happy, or wise.—Lady's Pictorial.

Churchyard Under the Sea.

When the coast erosion commissioners visited Walton on the Naze yesterday they were shown a spot north of the pier, and about a mile from the shore, which was formerly a churchyard, says the London Daily News. A quarter of a century ago the tombstones could be seen under water at ebb tide, but since then the sea has further encroached, and even when the tide is extraordinarily low and the sea clear the old burying ground is scarcely discernible from the sea [illegible]

'WARE THE FOUR-EYED JUNK.

Only to Be Seen at Night—Death and Pestilence in Her Wake.

If the ghostly proa is the South sea version of the "Swimmer," the following story might be considered as the Chinese or Japanese version of the Flying Dutchman, save that it lacks a motive for the course. It comes from out of the Yellow sea, where the water fairly sizzles with romance and deviltment, says the New York Herald. The story of the Four-Eyed Junk is known in the islands of Japan, in the Philippines, down through the Malacca straits to India and even to Mauritas. Ah Foo, the three-eyed commands her.

A Chinese junk, she was originally manned by the ghosts of a rebellious mandarin and his bodyguard, who keep watch and ward over the pearl fisheries they guarded during their lives. Since the advent of the white man in those waters the crew was changed, and now she is freighted with a crew of Malays, "Chinks," Lascars and what not. All the offscourings of the seven seas have, in course of time, been added to her original complement. She is only to be seen at night, when she floats from moon-splashed wave to moon-splashed wave, all silently, save for the rattle of primitive block and tackle or the eerie flap of the great mat sail. Death and pestilence are in her path, so if you run across her in those seas beware.

TEMPTATIONS OF A MINISTER.

Questions of the Day Thrust Upon Him in the Pulpit.

The temptation to be other than a mere preacher comes to a minister, not only from within his own mind, from reading and observation, but the people of his parish and his neighborhood thrust other suggestions upon him. One parishioner wants his opinion on the Sunday closing law, another wants a book reviewed, another likes to see his clergyman quoted in the local newspapers, the local papers like to get the ministers to discuss public questions.

In this way, as well as by original thought, a minister has the questions of the day thrust upon him. Not only that, but there are many ministers of great success and great influence who have always faced the questions of the day, discussed them and fought for their interpretation of them.

So the minister who believes in preaching gospel and nothing but gospel is opposing some accepted facts as well as proposing a worthy theory. —Seattle Times.

The Shortest Hour.

"What is your shortest hour in the day?" asked a business man of an acquaintance. "Don't say you have none. You have, although you may not know it. Everybody has. Of course, reckoned by actual measurements, each hour is composed of 60 minutes, yet, notwithstanding that chronological exactness, the hours vary in length. My shortest hour is from two to three o'clock in the afternoon. I find upon inquiry that that is the shortest period for many people. In my case, so swiftly do those 60 minutes hurry by that I try to crowd into them as many of the disgreeable yet inevitable things of life as I possibly can. If I have to interview a bore I see him then; if I have to visit the dentist I do it then. That hour is bound to slip away quickly, no matter what happens, therefore the agony of disagreeable scenes seems of shorter duration."

Q. E. D.

At a dinner given by a high official at Washington a distinguished Frenchman, who was visiting this country as a delegate to a certain industrial conference, gave expression to extravagant praise of his beloved France. His neighbor at table, on the right, would smile and bow in polite acquiescence every time the visitor would mention an instance of France's superiority above every other nation.

"The French," exclaimed he, "are the politest people on earth."

The neighbor at table again smiled and bowed.

A little piqued by the other's silence, the Frenchman asked: "Americans admit, do they not, the superiority of the French in politeness?"

"O, yes," came the reply; that's our politeness."—Lippincott's Magazine.

"Strong Even in Death."

There is a characteristic story of an American woman—formerly well known in London—that will bear repeating, says a writer in London Truth. The lady is said to have written the following letter to a royal personage:

"Sir—My medicinal attendants have just informed me that I am in a hopeless condition. I should dis happy did I know that you would be represented at my funeral. I inclose a check for £1,000 to cover all expenses."

Searchlights at Niagara.

Effective use has been made from time to time of searchlights at Niagara for illuminating the gorge, etc. Citizens of Niagara Falls now propose to make a regular installation for the purpose, and an illuminating expert is giving his attention to the subject. At night Niagara is not seen except under moonlight, and it is believed that some very beautiful effects can be obtained by throwing artificial daylight on the scene, with color transitions.

AMUSEMENT FOR THE BOYS.

Scientific Playthings Which Are Not Hard to Make.

"It is a great wonder to me," said an old chemist to a Philadelphia Record man, "why more boys do not take up chemical experiments as an amusement. Why, I can do things with the common materials of everyday life which really seem to be more magical to the uninitiated than any of the wonders that are ordinarily performed by magicians on the public stage. Some of them are so simple that by carrying them out at a parlor entertainment a bright boy could achieve the reputation of a magician. Now, there are those curious little bubbles of glass known variously as 'Prince Rupert's drops' and as 'Dutch tears.' Apparently they are little globules of glass with elongated tails made by heating a small glass rod in a flame and allowing the molten drops to fall into water. After they have cooled you may pound the thick part with a hammer or mallet, yet you cannot break them. On the other hand, if you break a little piece off their tails, or touch any part of them with a quartz crystal, they will disappear into the surrounding atmosphere quicker than snow will melt on a hot fire. To the person who does not know how this has happened the performance is so astonishing as to seem uncanny."

"THE WEARING OF THE GREEN."

Good Joke on Official Who Had Prohibited the Song.

"The Wearing of the Green," which Dion Boucicault used to sing in one of his Irish dramas at the old Adelphi theater, was sung for the first time in the house of commons last week on the occasion of the dinner given to the colonial premiers by the Irish nationalist party, says the Pall Mall Gazette. It reminds one of the joke practiced by the late Sir William Wilde (father of Oscar Wilde) on the then attorney general for Ireland, who had prohibited Boucicault from singing this same song when performing in Dublin with his company. It must be remembered that there is no licenser of plays in Ireland, but the "Castle" has often put its foot down in the case of songs with a seditious reputation. Shortly afterward Sir William invited Boucicault to dinner to meet "a friend." The dramatist came, and sang the terrible tune to the friend, who that morning had officially prohibited it at the old Theater Royal, being none other than the attorney general himself.

Size of Central-American States.

Very few people have a correct impression of the size of Central America as a whole, or of its states, taken separately, says a writter in the Review of Reviews. California seems like a large state. It extends 770 miles along the Pacific and has an extreme width of 375 miles. If California were laid end for end on Central America it would cover it with the exception of Salvador, which is just the size of New Jersey and occupies a little over 7,000 square miles. Stated in another way, if Central America were lifted bodily and laid down on our Atlantic coast it would just hide all New England, New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. In short, it has a combined area of approximately 167,000 square miles. Individually, aside from Salvador, already mentioned, the states could be compared as follows: Honduras to Pennsylvania, 45,000 square miles; Gautemala to Mississippi, 47,000; Nicaragua to New York, 49,000; Costa Rica to Vermont and New Hampshire, 18,000.

Smoke From the Sea.

One of the peculiar phenomena of the arctic regions is "sea smoke." the boiling kettle which rises from the water when the temperature is 15 degrees below zero.

At 40 degrees the snow and human bodies emit this vapor; which changes into tiny icicle particles which fill the air and make a light noise like the rustle of silk.

At 40 degrees tree trunks burst with a loud report, rocks break up and streams of smoking water flow from great cracks in the earth's surface, knives break in cutting butter and lighted cigars go out by contact with the ice upon the beard.—Philadelphia Record.

Love's Magic Power.

George had been away on business for a whole long week, and during that time he had sent Clara ten letters, six postal cards and 42 picture postcards.

Why, then, was there a touch of coldness in her greeting when he flew to her arms on his return?

"Dearest," he whispered, "what is the matter?"

"Oh, George," she said, "you didn't send me a kiss in your ninth letter!"

"My precious," he replied, "that night I had steak and onions for dinner, and you wouldn't have liked a kiss aftter onions, would you?"—Stray Stories.

Be Not Afraid.

He has not learned the lesson of his life who does not every day surmount a fear. If you have no faith in a beneficent power above you, but see only an adamantine fate coiling its folds about nature and man, then reflect that the best use of fate is to teach us courage. If you have no confidence in any foreign mind then be brave because there is always one good opinion which must always be of importance to you—namely, your own.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

REGISTRY AND ELECTION NOTICE!

PRIMARY ELECTION, SEPT. 10th, 1907.
CHARTER, MUNICIPAL AND GENERAL ELECTION, NOVEMBER 5th, 1907.
COUNTY OF UNION.

Pursuant to an act entitled, "An Act to regulate Elections" (Revision of 1898), approved April 4th, 1898, with the amendments thereof, and other acts, concerning elections, and the constitutional provisions concerning the right of suffrage, notice is hereby given that the District Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in the City of Elizabeth, will meet on the second Tuesday in September, 1907, (10th) at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the places in their respective Election Districts where the City Clerk shall designate, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

The District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for purposes of registration at their respective places, on October 8th and 22nd, 1907, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

And the Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in said County of Union, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will meet on Tuesday, September 3rd, 1907, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in their respective Election Districts where the next election will be held, and having first organized, shall proceed to ascertain and truly and accurately enter in canvassing books, to be provided for that purpose, the names and residences and street numbers, if any, of all legal voters within their respective election districts entitled to vote therein, by making actual inquiry at every dwelling house, etc., in the manner prescribed by law, and shall continue such enumeration until the same is completed; provided, that such enumeration shall terminate on or before the Friday next succeeding.

The District Boards of Registry and Election, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for the purpose of registration, at their respective places, on Tuesday, September 10th, 1907, and Tuesday, October 29th, 1907, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

Notice is further given that a Primary Election will be held on Tuesday, September 10th, 1907, between the hours of 1 o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m., in the various election districts, wards, boroughs and townships in the County of Union, for the election of delegates to conventions of political parties, or for making nominations or for both, as the case may be.

Ballots to be used at said Primary to be furnished to District Boards of Registry and Election by the different city, borough and township clerks in the County of Union.

LONELINESS OF GREAT CITY.

No Interested Friends to Enter Into Joys and Sorrows.

If you live in a large city you are lost. You are swallowed up by the ocean of people around you. You go down into the deep and that's the last of you, except perhaps an occasional bubble that may come to the surface near where you were last seen, says the Fremont (O.) Post. There are so many people who can't escape drowning. You can't make friendships as you do in a smaller place, where the individual isn't entirely effaced by the mass. Society is not what it is in the smaller place, where the human element enters in altogether. In the larger place your comings and goings are not noted by your friends even, and never by the newspapers, unless you are one of the high financiers or packing-house bunch. The births and weddings in your family are of no more interest outside your own flat than are the wreaths of smoke curling up into the empyrean; no merry crowd of interested neighbors with their warm congratulations. The deaths bring little sympathy from the rumbling, rattling world outside; no sorrowing acquaintances who have stood by you through the long sickness; there is little or none of that evidence of loving kindness that comes from neighbors and real friends in a small city or town, where the dollar mark is not written so large and so indelibly on everything. It is paradoxical law that where there are so many people there are fewer friends, and when you diminish the number to a frontier community where neighbors are miles apart your friends are ready to take their lives in their hands for you.

THE ONE THING HE WANTED.

Three Different Kinds of Soup Were Brought to the Guest.

After waiting the usual five or ten minutes the new arrival was served with the first dinner course of soup, runs a story in Judge's Library. Hesitating a moment as he glanced at his plate, the guest said to the waiter: "I can't eat this soup." "I'll bring you another kind, sir," said the waiter as he took it away. "Neither can I eat this soup!" said the guest, a trifle more emphatically, when the second plate was served. The waiter, angrily but silently, for a third time brought a plate of soup. "I simply can't eat this soup!" once more said the guest in a low, emphatic tone. By this time the waiter was furious and called the hotel proprietor, while the guests at the near-by table looked over that way with curious glances. "Really, sir, this is unusual. May I ask why you can't eat any of our soups?" demanded the proprietor. "Because I have no spoon," replied the guest, quietly.

Ghosts at Sheepshead Bay.

Bayer's cottage, celebrated in name and story, is said to be haunted. It fronts the Slough of Despond at Sheepshead Bay, and for several years was occupied by a coterie of Ammonites. One of the fossil mollusks suddenly disappeared, and his room was taken by an ambitious novitiate of the name of Reggie Carell, in every way worthy and well qualified. Reggie was assigned to the room of the departed member, who is a noted aquatic athlete, stripping like a Muldoon of the marines, a man of manly beauty who used to swim the Hellespont between Coney island and Rockaway Point to flirt with the mermaids on inlet reefs. The ghosts got after Reggie the first night. He declares they toted him upstairs and made strange noises as the cottage reeled in the last stage of seismic torment. The Bay folk are much perturbed.—N. Y. Press.

Chamois for New Zealand.

An Austrian warship visited New Zealand last year. Its officers were handsomely entertained and presented with a variety of local products and curios. In recognition of this hospitality the Emperor Francis Joseph has made a gift of eight chamois to the colony. The transportation of the animals to the other side of the globe was a risky undertaking, but it has been successfully accomplished. The passage between the tropics was the crucial stage of the voyage, but the chamois were carefully shielded from the heat and emerged without any loss save a temporary one of appetite. New Zealand has snow-clad Alpine heights, where they will soon feel perfectly at home.

Mutual Recognition.

An orator and lawyer who lives at Galesburg, Ill., wrote a book which his publishers, in order to give the author an exact idea of how it would look, made up into a dummy with the regular cover, but with blank pages. The proud author went to Chicago and called on one of his friends. "George," said the author, putting the book open on the table, "so far as my acquaintance with literature goes, this book is best suited of any for your mentality." The other turned over the blank pages gravely. Finally he said: "Carr, after a somewhat careful examination of this work, I am forced to the conclusion, without looking at the title page, that you are the author."

For Her Sake.

"So you quit smoking because she asked you to?" said the youth with the clam-shell cap. "Yes," answered the lad with the turned-up trousers. "And then?" "Then she went walking with a man who smoked a pipe because she said it kept away mosquitoes."

WORK OF MAHOGANY HUNTER.

Practiced Eye Needed to Locate the Valuable Timber.

Mahogany trees do not grow in clusters, but are scattered throughout the forest and hidden in a dense growth of underbrush, vines and creepers and require a skillful and experienced woodsman to find them. He seeks the highest ground in a forest, climbs to the top of the tallest tree and surveys the surrounding country. The mahogany has a peculiar foliage and his practiced eye soon detects the trees within sight. The axmen follow the hunter and then come the sawyers and hewers, a large mahogany taking two men a full day to fell it. The tree has large spurs, which project from the trunk at its base, and scaffolds must be erected so that the tree can be cut off above the spurs. This leaves a stump ten to fifteen feet high, which is sheer waste, as the stump really contains the best lumber. The hunter has nothing to do with the work of cutting or removing the tree, his duty being simply to locate it. If he is clever and energetic his remuneration may amount to $500 or $1,000 a month, but he may travel weeks at a time without detecting a tree, and as he is generally paid by results his earnings are rather precarious.

PLEA FOR SELF-RELIANCE.

Charles G. Dawes' Good Advice to Young Men in Business.

This is a hard world in business. It always has been and always will be. There are many good and generous men in it. There are many who will lend a helping hand to you in your adversity, but in the time of need you will not find them among the men who tried to get you to embark in speculation with your little surplus, and to sell you something which would help you to "easy money." Be self-reliant. Make your own investigation into investments. When you cannot, put your money in a good savings bank. Distrust the financial demagogues as you distrust the political demagogue. Keep your hand on your pocketbook as you travel life—first, to give always in proportion to your means to those who are poorer; second, to hold from those who would take through force or fraud what you need for yourself and yours. You will then, writes Mr. Dawes in the Saturday Evening Post, have your hand where most of the other fellows have only their eyes. In this alone you will have the advantage of them.

Ingenuity in Stealing.

"What's all the row about?" the hungry man queried as the manager of the city restaurant was seen to rush excitedly to the cashier's desk and detain a departing individual. The waiter explained. For a month past some of the numbered checks had been missing, and it had been discovered that certain patrons were economizing at the expense of the management. A man would order 15 cents' worth and receive a check for the amount. Then he would secrete the check when the waiter wasn't looking and order a quarter's worth more of eatables. The waiter would then give a check for 40 cents, but when it came time to pay the customer would use the 15-cent ticket to get by the door. "H'm," muttered the hungry man; "fine scheme," and in the excitement he passed a Canadian dime on the cashier.

A Dog's Opinion of Boston Dialect.

"An intelligent looking dog," said the visitor from Boston. "Oh, he is," exclaimed Fido's owner. "He knows every word you say." Then said the visitor from Boston: "My canine friend, I am exceedingly interested in the hypothesis that has been presented to me to the effect that your understanding of human speech is perfect, and in order to test this matter I wish that you would be good enough to bark three times in rapid succession as an indication that your comprehension of my request is in all ways clear and lucid." "And did he bark?" said I to Teagarden, who was telling me the story. "No," said Teagarden, "but he growled like —."

Citron Tree and the Bible.

Was the citron tree the tree of knowledge of good and evil in the garden of Eden? Some persons think it was. In any event, it appears that "citron" would often be the right rendering in passages where the authorized version of the Bible gives "apple." For instance, in the Proverbs, "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver." And in the Song of Solomon, "As the apple tree among the trees of the wood, so is my beloved among the sons." And again, "Stay me with flagons, comfort me with apples, for I am sick of love."

His Discovery.

Cholly—You remember I told you yesterday that Miss Perkyns told me the night before that she would marry me. Jack—Yes, Cholly—Well, I happened to think this morning that she said that she would marry me on the thirty-first of September, so I looked up the calendar to see what day of the week it would be, and, do you know, September has only 30 days!

Forgetting an Injury.

Church—I like to see a man who can forget an injury. Gotham—Well, there's that neighbor of mine; he's suing the railroad company for an injured leg, and every once and a while he forgets to limp.

Visited Former Plainfielders.

R. W. Barnes, of Mountain avenue, who has been on an extended vacation tour through the middle west for the past seven weeks with his wife, returned to this city yesterday. During their absence, they saw W. W. St. John, formerly editor of another local paper, and Peter L. Conde, who also lived in this city until a few years ago. Mr. Conde has a fine place at Denver, Colorado, and goes in for farming, keeping cows and chickens. Mr. St. John's health has improved to a marked degree since he left this city last February.

Auto Ran Into Tree.

A big touring car driven by E. L. Anderson, who lives in East Orange, got in trouble on Mountain avenue yesterday afternoon, near the Scotch Plains bridge. Something went wrong with the steering gear and the machine, which was bowling along at a good rate, dashed into a tree at the side of the road. The hub of one wheel was broken and the steering gear badly strained.

Malcolm Krewson, of Summit avenue, returned home Saturday from Belvidere, where he has been for the past month.

Miss Helen Meyers, of East Sixth street, left Saturday for a two weeks' visit with relatives at Kenilworth and Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Wamsley, of East Third street, have gone to Stonington, Conn., for a week's stay with relatives.

Mrs. E. O. Clark and children, of West Fourth street, are spending two weeks on a farm near South Branch, Somerset county.

Mrs. Thomas Eganey and son, Kenneth, of West Fourth street, returned Saturday after a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Searing and daughter, Ethel, of Park avenue, are visiting Mr. Searing's father and sisters, at East Orange.

The Misses Catherine and Ruth Day, of Grove street, who have been ill with an attack of ptomaine poisoning, are much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brokaw and daughter, of Central avenue, returned home yesterday for a three weeks' outing at Lake Hopatcong.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

A friend of Mr. Randolph Perkins recently stated that local option is a "blind" to arouse the antagonism of the church people against the Union county assemblyman. He seemed to think that the temperance movement is but a local and temporary excitement, instigated for the purpose of defeating a single political candidate. The fact is that Mr. Perkins' threatened political downfall is merely an incident in the great temperance reform that is sweeping the country. If anyone doubts the magnitude and strength of local option sentiment, let him read the following:

Over thirty millions of people are now living in territory from which the saloon has been banished by majority vote under local option law. Under this fair home-rule measure, territory in which over two and one-half millions dwell, was freed from the grog-shop last year. Under this same kind of law the increase of population enjoying freedom from the liquor curse is out-stripping the increase of population two and one-half to one. In those states which have this law distillery and brewery stock is decreasing in price because of the elimination of the liquor traffic.

Under local option Ohio has driven the saloon from over 1,100 towns out of 1,376, from 478 municipalities out of 693, and has driven it from territory in the larger cities of Columbus, Cleveland, and Toledo, aggregating in population nearly 500,000.

Tennessee, under this law, has but four cities remaining in which licenses can be obtained to sell liquor. Missouri voted the saloons out of twenty-six counties last year. Texas is rapidly excluding the saloon under the operation of this law, 165 counties now being without a solitary legalized bar. There are only five states in the United States in which the people are denied the power to vote on or veto the issuance of licenses.

In Ohio, a few years ago, Governor Herrick, a Republican, was elected by a plurality of 113,000, and was renominated upon the expiration of his term of office. The Anti-Saloon League asked him to endorse the local option bill. He refused and bade defiance to the Christian people of Ohio. His Democratic opponent espoused local option, received a plurality of 42,000 and was the only man elected on the Democratic ticket.

Under local option, Georgia banished the saloon from 125 out of 146 counties. This paved the way for a state prohibition law, which has recently been enacted through the efforts of the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U. According to a newspaper of recent date "North Carolina is not far behind Georgia and strong forces are at work for the abolishment of the liquor traffic in every town and county. The prohibitionists are acting through the two old parties. North Carolina is likely to be the next state in the Union to go dry."

In view of the foregoing facts, why should the people of New Jersey be denied the privilege of home rule on the question of license or no license? Our best citizens will answer that question at the polls in no uncertain tones in the near future.

Yours truly,
CLARENCE B. LA RUE,
Secretary of the Local Option League of New Jersey.

Cat Fastened to Him.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 26.—As Edward Everett accosted a strange cat near his home here yesterday the animal sprang at him and sank her teeth till they met in the bac kof his left leg. She could not be pulled off until choked to death. Everett had the would cauterized. The cat showed no sign of rabies. It is thought that she had a family of kittens near and feared harm was intended them.

VARIOUS KINDS OF COINAGE.

Twenty-Six Different Monetary Units Are in Use.

Twenty-six different monetary units are used by the 48 principal countries of the world. Thus, Great Britain uses the sovereign or pound sterling; France and six other countries of Europe use a unit equal to the franc; and Canada and the United States use the dollar. In value these different units range from 4.4 to 494.33 cents of money of the United States. They are represented in their turn by coins the values of which are either multiples or are fractional parts of the value of their own chief units, and there are no doubt at least 200 such different coins, not one of which seems to have a value equal to that of any commonly known unit of weight, as the gram, for example, or the ounce of gold, although 43 of these 48 countries have accepted gold as their standard measure of values. In the coinage of the world there seems, indeed, to be little that is logical or reasonable. Adoption of a single monetary unit or base, if not of an universal system of coinage to be used in all commerce between the nations, suggests E. W. Perry in Moody's Magazine, would be a long step in that evolution through the centuries, because there has been no concerted, well planned and persistent effort to remove the evils of the existing disorder.

SPLENDID RACE OF MEN.

Natives of the Friendly Islands of Magnificent Physique.

"The natives of the Tonga, or Friendly islands, off the east coast of New Zealand, are the finest in physique of any on earth," said E. A. Powell, of Cleveland. Mr. Powell is returning from a business trip to Australia, where he visited several groups of the Pacific islands. "The average height of the males is five feet ten inches. Many of them are over six feet. They weigh from 160 to 300 pounds and are very straight, being built in proportion. The women average a greater height than the women of America. They have fine, strong figures and average from 130 to 160 pounds in weight. They are of a copper color, straight haired and with features which made the Greeks famous. I firmly believe they are the original Maoris, while the natives of New Zealand are a smaller race—apparently a mixture with the Mongolian race. The islands are crescent shaped and mostly coral. There is neither wealth nor poverty on the islands. Peace and contentment are in evidence and the tribe is exceeding virtuous. The main article of food is the cocoanut, and the only drink used is the milk of this nut."

Hot or Cold Water.

It is a debatable question whether it is a wise practice to drink a cupful of hot water immediately upon rising every morning. The hot-water fiends fancy that they cannot live without their morning drink, but there are reliable physicians who claim that this practice is debilitating to the stomach and that it cannot fail to do injury. The habitual use of cold water is an excellent habit to form. It is natural to drink cold water. Cold water is a tonic to the stomach, as it is to the skin. It gives tonicity to the mucous walls of the stomach. The practice of taking five or six glasses of cold water a day is a good one. It will help to clear the complexion, brighten the eyes, and is said to be almost a certain remedy for puffness under the eyes.

WOMAN AND HER WORRIES.

Fair Sex Criticized by a Writer in English Magazine.

It may fairly be said that women have only themselves to blame for a very considerable proportion of domestic worry, with its consequences of irritability and bad temper, leading to worse things, says a writer in Cassell's Magazine. Even after fully recognizing that the ordinary housewife is specially subject, at any rate, at times, to unavoidable worry, we must surely grant that the common practice of living up to the very limit of one's means, if not beyond it, is responsible for a great deal of woman's worry that might be avoided. One says, especially, woman's worry, because it would appear that the wife, rather than the husband, is more often responsible for the neglect of that margin of income which, as Mr. Micawber knew, spells happiness. Hence it is worth while yet again to point out the commonplace facts—that the happiness attained by keeping three servants when you can afford two is most lamentably outweighed, not merely by the worry involved in the incessant effort to make both ends meet, but also by the consequences of that worry on sleep, health, digestion and temper—these, again, injuring every member of the family and possibly leading to its utter destruction.

MUSIC IN THE TYROL.

Peculiar Charm of Concerts as Given by the Peasants.

There is a slow rising scale from the simplest summer music to the splendor of the Ring Bayreuth, or still higher, to an occasional Mozart fest at Salzburg, writes a musician on his European holiday jaunt. Somewhere near the humblest beginnings, and yet with a real interest all their own, are the small village concerts in the Bavarian Tyrol. Taking a supper at the rough tables in the open air, in the midst of peasant gayety and the pretty colors of the costumes, we look, admiring, at the group of performers, sitting at a raised table, adorned in the full glory of the national dress—feathers in the cap, brilliant waistcoat, trousers that leave a gap below the knee. One of the men plays the zither to the other's singing in a certain narrow round of harmonies that seem to fit all the songs. For these vary really only in rhythm. Or the singers will produce hidden violins and a trumpet and have suddenly changed into a band. However simple the music, there is always the old charm of the Tyrolese intervals and folksong.

Hugo's Beautiful Faith.

Victor Hugo's confession of faith is going the rounds of the magazines and papers and is as follows: "Just as the rays of the moon lose the figure of the sun and bring to us, instead of its image, a certain aspect of the medium through which they pass, so the idea of God, reflected by religions and proceeding from them, loses, so to speak, the form of God and takes on the more or less miserable configurations of the human brain. . . . In religion, I put God above dogma. If I were sure that this grave statement would be heard and understood seriously, I would say that I am of all religions. I believe in the God of all men, I believe in the love of all hearts, I believe in the truth of all souls."

A Spider Factory.

In the forests of New Guinea there are factories whose workmen are spiders. These hideous spiders, with bodies as big as saucers, make fish nets for the cannibal natives. The natives set up in the forest long poles, with wooden rings at the upper end—net frames. The spiders, seeing these contrivances, run to them joyfully. Here, they think, is a fine net ready started. The outermost circle is already made. And they weave their coarse, strong webs within the wooden rings, and, when the nets are quite finished, the natives come, drive away the insect workmen, and, taking up their spider-made nets, set off gravely on a fishing excursion.

Modesty of True Greatness.

Abou Ben Adhem had just found out that his name led all the rest. "Still," he observed, with a modesty as rare as it was charming, "the season is young yet. I've made a few lucky hits, it's true, but just as likely as not I shall be at the bottom of the percentage column in batting before the season ends." Smilingly accepting the bouquet of cut flowers sent to him by an admirer in the grandstand, he steepped up to the plate, struck out, dodged a lemon thrown at him by a disgusted bleacherite, and went and took his seat on the bench.

What's In a Name.

You can't help the name you're born with save by a cumbrous legal process. A correspondent cycling in eastern England has happened on a name which, for oddity, is hard to beat. From a shop window it was blazoned forth, in naked ugliness—Hogsflesh! How Dickens would have delighted in it! The owner is more heavily burdened even than the bearers of Ebenezer—on whose hard lot the window had recently something to say; more to be sympathized with than those Norfolk Howards who were once Buggs.—London Chronicle.

No Field for Him.

"Saw the preacher yesterday, and he says he's going to run the devil out of town." "He's too late," said the woman of the house. "John left yesterday!"—Atlanta Constitution.

ENDORSE MR. TOWNSEND

Boroughites of Both Parties Would Be Staunch in His Support Should He Run.

WANT ROBERT CLARK

Strong Feeling That Former Councilman Would Work Well With J. O. Osgood Supporting Campaign Issues.

The endorsement given Samuel Townsend by Charles W. McCutchen and William L. Saunders in letters published exclusively in The Daily Press Saturday is being enthusiastically received by borough Republicans. There are several prominent boroughites who have referred to Mr. Townsend's candidacy with the statement that should he run he would be heartily supported, and would be the strongest possible nominee for the mayoralty.

In reference to the statement made in Mr. Saunders' letter that J. O. Osgood could be prevailed upon to accept a nomination for councilman, and join that body in the interests of sewers and consolidation, supporting Mr. Townsend, other boroughites take a similar stand, endorsing Mr. Osgood for council. In speaking to a Daily Press reporter today, an influential Republican borough property owner and business man spoke enthusiastically of ex-Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., to run with Mr. Osgood for council. Should Mr. Clark consent to re-enter the political field, he would undoubtedly receive hearty support from the party at the polls, for his work while a member of the borough council for two terms several years ago, showed him to be a man whose influence with the present party issues at stake would be invaluable.

Since he refused to be a nominee for mayor of the borough at the conclusion of his councilmanic service to North Plainfield, Mr. Clark has not been active in politics, but has still remained a staunch supporter of his party and that party's principles at the polls. His views of the consolidation and sewer questions, the principal issues in the campaign this fall, are in accordance with those of Mr. Osgood and stated in Mr. Saunders' letter. Boroughites would call upon him for his support as a member of the council, and the issues of the campaign would be strengthened by the influence which could be exerted by Mr. Osgood and him in the council.

As far as the support of Mr. Townsend by others than members of his party is concerned, there is a feeling that he would be by all odds the strongest candidate in the field. No definite statement has yet been received from Mr. Townsend regarding his acceptance of the candidacy, but he has announced that he has the matter under his careful consideration, and will issue a statement within a few days. Word of his acceptance, it is reported, will cause several borough Democrats to go over to his support at the coming election.

STOLE FROM HIS UNCLE.

For Which 17-Year-Old Carl Javlonskey Is Jailed.

On complaint of his uncle, Paul Nachtwey, who accuses him of petty thefts, Carl Javlonskey, 17 years old, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning on a disorderly conduct charge. The boy acknowledged his guilt, and was sent to jail for two months.

Nachtwey keeps a delicatessen store. His nephew has been in the habit of tapping the till whenever moved by a desire for pocket money, and Nachtwey grew tired of the practise. He didn't want to make a charge of theft, and the magistrate accepted one of disorderly conduct. Javlonskey's thefts are said to have amounted to $32.

Fined $3 Apiece.

At their hearing before Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough court last night, Harry Smith and John Diltz, boroughites, arrested Friday night by Marshals Pope and Kiernan were fined $3 apiece for being drunk and disorderly on Somerset street. Both men paid the fine. Saturday morning they had furnished $10 bail apiece to secure their freedom until the hearing.

Funeral of Infant Son.

The funeral of Harold J. VanHorn, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. VanHorn, of Duer street, was held at the parents' home Saturday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. Lewis Bond, of Kensington avenue, and burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Lodge Women's Fete.

Under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, a lawn festival and sale will be held on the lawn at the corner of West Fourth street and Stelle avenue tomorrow morning.

DEMOCRATS NOT DORMANT

Plenty of Material for County Nominations Brought to the Fore.

J. P. OWENS MENTIONED

Considered Splendid Man For the Assembly—LeRoy S. Gibby, of Summit, Boomed for Surrogate.

While the Republicans and New Idea men in the county have been advancing candidates for nomination next month, the Democrats have not been slow and are coming forward with lots of material. The Assembly seems to be the objective point for more than one adherent of the party and names have been cropping up with unceasing regularity.

From the county seat came the news today that the men lost prominently mentioned for nomination are Harry Coulter, of Rahway, who was on the ticket last year; William S. Tuttle, of Cranford; John P. Owens, of Plainfield; William Mayo Atkinson, of Elizabeth, and William S. Brower, of Summit. All these men have been identified with Democratic movements for a long time. Tuttle is engaged in the practice of law and has a large following, as has also Atkinson, who stands high with the Elizabeth people.

The Plainfield man mentioned for a place on a ticket is also well known throughout the county as well as in his home town. Like many other Assembly aspirants he is a member of the legal profession and has been a faithful worker for the party since casting his first vote. Though he has not held office previously, he is considered competent in every way and is regarded as one of the best men yet named.

For the surrogate nomination, the Democrats have advanced but one man, LeRoy S. Gibby, of Summit. He has announced himself in the field and there is but little doubt that he will be the party choice. He has been prominent in Union politics for years and is popular in his home town. The wise ones say that in the event of his being on the ticket he will give his Republican opponent a "run for his money" and that no one need be surprised if he finished ahead.

NOMINATIONS IN ELIZABETH.

Republicans Select Candidates to Run at Primaries.

The Republicans of the First and Fourth Wards in Elizabeth last night took initial steps in preparation for the coming campaign. Well attended meetings were held and candidates nominated to be voted for at the primaries. The First Ward Republicans, with Sidney M. Williams acting as chairman, made the following nominations:

Delegates to the State convention, Richard Burke, Dennis F. Murphy, and William Haller; members of the city central committee, James Grimes of the First District, and William Roehner, of the Third District; member of the City Council, William Sterritt; member of the Board of Education, William Wagner.

In the Fourth Ward the following nominations were made:

Delegates to the State convention, Charles Ernest and Dr. P. DuBois Bunting; member of the city central committee from the Second District, Robert J. Kirkland. Two candidates for City Council are yet to be named.

News From Camp Ram's Horn.

Eugene McLaughlin, James Kenney, Clinton Firstbrook, and Joseph Blatz, Jr., of this city, and Bernard Graham, of Tottenville, S. I., returned home yesterday after a week's stay at Jack Hall's Ram's Horn camp, Lake Hopatcong. Francis J. Blatz and Thomas Hanna will be at the camp for the coming week. "Jack" will continue to conduct the camp until the middle of September, after which he and Thomas DeMeza will go to Easton for a short stay before returning home.

Dissolve Partnership.

The firm of VanCamp & Franklin, dealers in furniture, at Front and Somerset streets, has dissolved partnership. The dissolution will go into effect September 1. L. R. Van Camp bought out his partner and will continue the business. The latter, John R. Franklin, it is understood, will engage in the upholstering business.

Frees Suspicious Character.

Charles Lewis, colored, who claims Orange as his home, was arrested last night by Policeman Cornelius McCarthy, as a suspicious character. He convinced Judge Runyon this morning that he was honest enough to be permitted to go on, and the magistrate suspended sentence.

The Misses Shreve, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Shreve, of Grove street, are stopping for the week at the Lake Mohawk Mountain House, New York.

MAYOR FURBER COMES OUT FOR MR. PERKINS

RAHWAY MAN EXPLAINS WHY HE SHOULD BE SENT BACK.

Mayor James B. Furber, of Rahway, is working for the renomination of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, and it is said that Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of that place, will become an inspector of denatured alcohol, is fighting as hard the other way.

Mayor Furber has sent the following letter to Mr. Perkins:

"I take the earliest opportunity to congratulate you upon the courage you have shown in opposition to the so-called 'bosses.' I can conceive of no justification the voters of Union county can have for failing to give you their loyal and hearty support.

"If to aid the cause of the people in opposition to the railroad and other corporations, and to oppose the election of a U. S. Senator who represents the corporations instead of the people, is to be the cause of your defeat, then defeat becomes more creditable than a victory won by deserting your constituents.

"Is it the bosses who have established the precedent that just at the time when our assemblyman has 'learned the hopes,' and has become valuable as a representative he shall be turned down for a third or fourth term? If they are responsible for that precedent, then the agitation against the bosses has another justification.

"If the rule is applicable in the choice of an assemblyman, then why not in the choice of a Congressman? The absurdity of the proposition is self-evident and in this case it does not require the usual amount of courage to break the precedent and establish a new one which shall be founded entirely upon the quality of the service rendered by the candidate for re-election.

"The resulting benefit of your services in behalf of the public schools alone should ensure your election by a largely increased majority. Any service I can render you may count upon so long as your legislative record is in behalf of the people of Union county, and therefore of the State at large."

SNEAKTHIEVES' LOOT.

D. M. Runyon Suffered $200 Loss; C. L. Parker Still Figuring.

David M. Runyon, cashier of the First National Bank, whose house was one of the two on Arlington avenue entered by sneakthieves Sunday afternoon, came home yesterday from Lebanon, where he has been staying, to take stock of his possessions. He reported to the police that silverware and money, to the value of about $200, had been stolen. The thief took only those pieces of silver that struck his fancy.

Charles L. Parker, whose house was entered by the same thieves, has not completed his inventory. The police expect to get his list this afternoon.

Knights to Attend Field Day.

Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., has made arrangements to attend the annual field day exercises to be held at Scheutzen Park, Union Hill, Labor Day. The members will assemble at the East bound station at 8:30 in the morning and proceed to the park. The details of the trip will be decided upon at a meeting in Perseverance lodge rooms Friday night.

Stokes Denies It.

Governor Stokes yesterday gave emphatic denial to a story circulated in New York Sunday to the effect that he was in a political combination to send anti-Roosevelt delegates from New Jersey to the national Republican convention. He says he is entirely friendly to the President and has made no move of any kind relative to the national convention.

After Mayor Reyburn.

J. B. R. Smith, State commissioner of motor vehicles, has written to Mayor Reyburn, of Philadelphia, threatening to revoke the latter's New Jersey automobile license for exceeding the speed limit. The Mayor, according to newspaper reports, broke the record between Atlantic City and Camden, traversing the sixty miles in 57 minutes.

New Cop Quits.

After nine days of service, Harry Berlowitz, a special policeman on duty as a probationer, has resigned. He decided he couldn't stand the peculiarities of the service. His beat was in the West End.

Lawn Festival.

Marth Washington Council, D. of A., will hold a lawn festival at Fourth street and Stebbins place tonight.

—Neuman Brothers are now receiving large consignments of fine Jersey peaches every day. Tomorrow they will have seventy-five baskets of those delicious Mountain Rose and Reeves' Favorite varieties.

"MRS. WHEELER" AGAIN?

Woman Who Swindled Local Tradesmen Bled Bay Shore Merchants.

NOW "MRS. GRENELL"

Changed Her Name When She Left Here and Has Been Working Same Game On Long Island.

Residents in the neighborhood of Ninth street and Madison avenue, and especially certain local tradesmen who still have accounts open on their books with "Mrs. Wheeler, wife of Colonel Wheeler, of Alabama," or any of the six members of her family, will be interested to learn that "Colonel Wheeler" has died, and the woman, now known as "Mrs. E. M. Grenell," has just left the tradesmen of Bay Shore, L. I., with about $3,000 coming to them, and gone away to swindle the shops in some other city. The woman, who came to this city with her family about six months ago, is now being sought by Long Island police, who have a bunch of warrants for her arrests from Bay Shore tradesmen, who have been defrauded out of amounts up to $800 because they extended credit to "Mrs. Grenell" until a mythical remittance should arrive.

The "Wheelers," or the "Grenells," or the "Fitz-Murrays," for that may be the name under which they are charging goods today, came to this city about last February. The family consisted of "Mrs. Wheeler," her four daughters, and her little son. "The Colonel" was "in Paris," and his trip abroad had made them leave their home in Alabama until his return. The woman rented a house on Madison avenue, near Ninth street, and ran accounts with a score of local tradesmen on the strength of the expected remittance from Paris. When credit failed because of the non-appearance of the legal tender, the "Wheelers" left town suddenly, and have just recently been identified as the "Grenells" at Bay Shore, where one of the daughters went by the name of "Mrs. Lillie Wheeler," a widow. No mention was made at Bay Shore of "the Colonel."

At Bay Shore, the family rented one of the handsomest houses some five weeks ago, and have been living on their credit, "awaiting remittance" until their sudden disappearance, late at night, in a new, unpaid for, automobile. Two of the Bay Shoe tradesmen, warned by Sam, the negro butler, succeeded in collecting their bills. Then it was that the "pressure" became too great, and surmising that her method of proceedure had escaped, "Mrs. Grenell" and her family left town and changed their name.

MISSING SCHOOLTEACHER DROWNED IN THE LAKE

HER BODY TAKEN FROM HOPATCONG'S WATERS THIS MORNING.

The body of Miss Agnes Maguire, the Brooklyn schoolteacher, who disappeared at Nalon's Point on Saturday night, was found in the lake at 10 o'clock this morning.

The body was found close to the shore near the spot where the young woman had stepped out of her cousin's buggy in the storm.

There were no marks of violence on the body, and the only theory of those who have been conducting the search is that Miss Maguire, terrified by the lightning, clambered out of the buggy when her cousin, Charles Maguire, left her alone in the vehicle, and was seeking in the darkness for shelter from the storm when she accidentally stumbled into the water.

RUSHMORE WORKS CRIPPLED.

Engine Breaks Down On Account of a Hot Bearing.

The Rushmore Dynamore Works, South avenue, was crippled by a breakdown of an engine this morning. One of the bearings became hot, and jammed. There wasn't time to repair it, and thirty of the men were laid off for the day.

It was reported on the street, as in the case of another accident at the shop last week, that an engine had blown up.

"I'll let you know when we have an explosion," said Mr. Rushmore in a miffed tone, when asked about it.

Weekly Prayer Meeting.

Although there were no services in Trinity Reformed church last Sunday, the mid-week prayer meeting will be held as usual tomorrow evening. George L. VanEmburgh will be in charge of the meeting, which will be held in the lecture room of the church.

SEWER COMMISSION ORGANIZE AT WESTFIELD

FIRST MEETING HELD TO ASSESS BENEFITS AND DAMAGES.

The commission recently appointed by Judge Swayze to assess benefits and danages through the building of the Westfield trunk sewer, met in the Westfield town hall yesterday afternoon. Organization was perfected by the election of Judge William Crane as chairman and former County Clerk William Howard as secretary, James E. Martine being the remaining member.

A large number of the property owners interested were in attendance and were represented by former Judge William A. Coddington, of this city. Paul O. Oliver appeared for Westfield at large and the assessments were discussed at some lenght. Afterward all parties concerned adjourned to the line of the sewer and viewed the premises affected. Further statements from the people were heard and it was then decided to have the town prepare suitable maps and blue prints before proceeding further. Accordingly, adjournment was taken for one month in order that this might be done.

The amount of money involved in the assessment is placed at about $30,000.

NEW THEATRE OPENING.

Manager Counihan's Perth Amboy House Will be Ready Oct. 1.

Accompanied by several local friends, Manager W. J. Counihan, of the local theatre, made an inspection yesterday of the progress on the New Majestic theatre which he is having built at Perth Amboy. He found the work to be progressing favorably and there is every assurance that the house will be ready for opening on October 1. The roof is now being put on and the interior work started.

For the initial performance at the house, Mr. Counihan has secured last season's big musical success, "The Belle of Mayfair" and it will be presented with a cast and chorus of seventy-five people. Five of the six boxes have been subscribed for by residents of the city, the other being reserved by the management for out-of-town friends in the profession who will attend. Among those who have signified their intention of being present are Charles Osgood, of Klaw & Erlanger's staff; Gus. Hill, A. H. Woods, Aubrey Mittenthal, and Dan Considine. A large number of Plainfielders will also be on hand.

WOMAN BADLY HURT.

Dragged in Runaway Caused by Small Dog's Bark.

A horse attached to a small surrey driven by James A. Fine, a coal dealer, of 123 Franklin street, Elizabeth, took fright at the barking of a small dog on Rahway avenue, near Chestnut street, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, and, dashing off, threw the driver into the road. The other occupant, Mr. Fine's wife, was thrown out, caught between the shaft and dashboard and dragged for nearly half a mile, until the vehicle crashed into a tree and was completely demolished.

Mrs. Fine was seriously hurt about the head and body and is in a dangerous condition. She was carried into Sauer's Hotel and attended to by Dr. Pierce, of Roselle. She is now under the care of Dr. Whitehead, of Elizabeth.

Runaway Heard From.

William McCarthy, a mason, father of one of the two boys who took 10-year-old Charles Callahan with them on a runaway trip, and lost him in Asbury Park, where the police found him on Sunday, has heard from his son. The boy wrote a postal saying he was at work at Asbury Park. Nothing has been heard of William Richter, the third boy. He is an experienced traveller, and knows how to take care of himself on the road.

Fourth Ward's Slate.

Harry B. Suydam, a New York broker, will be the choice of the Fourth ward's regular organization for councilman-at-large and Herbert Buxton, the present councilman-at-large, will be run as a ward candidate for Council. Suydam was an ardent New Idea man in the last campaign.

Babbitt Gets Nine Dogs.

Dog Catcher Babbitt put in a day's work in the borough yesterday with his trusty assistant, and as a result roped nine stray dogs for the borough pound. The vagrants will be held four days awaiting redemption by owners, after which time Chief George Weiss, of the borough force, will shoot them.

ELIZABETH CHURCH PEOPLE GIVE FARCE AT CAMP.

Amateurs Make a Big Hit in "The Obstinate Family," Given for Camp Children.

The children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home and a number of Plainfielders who visited the camp last evening were entertained by members of the Westminster Hope Chapel, of Elizabeth, who were at the camp and presented a three act farce, "The Obstinate Family." The play was given in the out-door auditorium at the camp and was a very successful amateur reproduction.

The incidents hinge on the sentence "Thank goodness, the table is spread," and there are quarrels beteween newly affianced butler and maid, their employer and his wife, and their parents as a result of this simple statement. These conditions run through the first two acts, but in the end all comes out well. Those who took part did especially well, even the minor parts being made the most of by the amateurs.

WANDERER RETURNS.

New Brunswick Man, Long Given Up for Dead, Visits Sister.

After being away for twenty-eight years and being mourned as dead by his relatives, Eugene Stout returned to New Brunswick yesterday and hunted up his sister, Mrs. Henry B. Stanley, of Easton avenue. She did not know him and he did not know her at first.

When Mr. Stout, who is now 52 years old, disappeared from that city twenty-eight years ago, his family made every effort to locate him, but to no avail, and after several years they gave him up for dead. He says that he went West and made good. He is now foreman of the Big Four Railroad's locomotive shops at Kklahoma City, and has a wife and three children. He decedid to use his vacation in looking up his sisters in New Brunswick.

Finger Crushed at Scott's.

While at work in Scott's Press Works at about 9 o'clock this morning, John Hoffman, a machinist living on East Front street, caught his right hand in the gear of some machinery, crushing and lacerating the little finger. The injured man was removed to the hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the end of the finger. He is still at the hospital.

Reception in Honor of Relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett, of Jackson avenue, Netherwood, entertained about fifty friends at their home Saturday night in honor of a party of relatives who arrived last week on the Lucania. Vocal and instrumental selections were given by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Young, Job Lee, Thomas Hargreaves and Mr. Chippendale. Supper was served at a late hour.

Funeral of Mrs. Boice.

The funeral of Mrs. Rachel Boice, whose death occurred Friday afternoon, was held at her late home yesterday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and was extremely simple. The attendance was large and the floral tributes were numerous. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery.

Barbers Close Labor Day.

The barber shops in the city and borough will be closed all day Labor day, as a result of an agreement recently entered into by the local barbers.

Judge Runyon and Howard Tracy Commend Him; Fourth Ward Endorses.

NOMINATE CITY TICKET

Chairman Expresses Keen Regret Over Circumstance That Prevents the Endorsement of George P. Mellick—Judge Runyon Renamed Enthusiastically.

Marked friendliness toward Randolph Perkins, who is seeking a fourth term in the assembly against the wishes of the Republican county organization, was manifested by the Colbyites at their primary nomination meeting in Reform Hall last night. Chairman H. C. Tracy and City Judge William N. Runyon commended him for his independence, in the only two speeches made, and characterized the announced reasons for refusing him another term as weak. The Fourth ward branch endorsed Mr. Perkins outright.

The meeting was well attended. It was not public, and there was no expectation of filling the hall. Prominent workers in the independent ranks from all the wards were present. Howard C. Tracy, of the Second ward, was in the chair.

The nominations for councilman-at-large were made by acclamation. The nominees are R. Henry Depew, of the Second ward; Duncan W. Taylor, of the Third ward; and Juan A. Babcock, of the Fourth ward. The ward councilmen were named as follows: First, J. B. Hill; Second, Robert E. Hall; Third, Frederick E. Mygatt; Fourth, Henry Liefke. Judge Runyon referred to the latter's candidacy, in his speech, in terms of eulogy that evoked applause.

Amid the heartiest burst of handclapping of the evening, Judge Runyon was nominated to succeed himself. Vice President L. N. Lovell, of the Board of Education, was also endorsed to succeed himself. The meeting was marked by enthusiasm all the way through.

In opening it, Chairman Tracy said, in part:

"This meeting has been called to carry out one of our pendamental principles—that in direct opposition to the practise of the machine up to last year, of naming candidates by a small coterie of the inner circle. The general situation which confronts us I will touch on but briefly. In the State convention the interest centers on the nomination for Governor. Senator Colby has so repeatedly declined to consider the nomination I believe he should be taken at his word. The situation is such, however, that the executive committee does not believe the delegates should be instructed.

"In the county situation the renomination of Randolph Perkins is prominent. We opposed Mr. Perkins, but after his election he manifested commendable independence, in spite of the threats we know were made against him. He has shown his willingness to act on his own initiative. For these reasons it may be said he has earned his respect. The newspapers say we oppose him, but I know of no official opposition to him. The regulars oppose him on the ground, that he antagonized the liquor dealers, the local option people, and that he has had three terms. We can support him on the Bishops' law, and I have it from his own lips that he is in favor of local option. So far as the three terms go, I think the argument is a weak one. A good man becomes more valuable the longer he serves.

"As to the situation in this city, it is one desire and intention to name men deserving of general and hearty support. I have one announcement to make in this convention. Mr. George P. Mellick, who it would have been our pleasure to name for councilman-at-large, has declined to serve. Mr. Mellick made some bitter attacks on our organization last year, but we recognized his worth as a municipal servant, and we would have taken pleasure in naming him."

Judge Runyon spoke after the general nominations had been made. He said, in part:

"I said last year, and I wish to re-

Forget Your Money Troubles—We Can Show You How

Start life afresh. Borrow from us to pay the several you owe and make payments in keeping with your income. By so doing you keep your credit good. Ease up the pressure on yourself and have a chance to "turn around" in other things needed for the family.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

Bob Hampton of Placer

By RANDALL PARRISH,

Author of "When Wilderness Was King," "A Sword of the Old Frontier," etc.

This remarkable story will be run serially in this paper. Read what the critics say of it:

St. Paul Dispatch—A compelling interest biases the reader in favor of this tale, which, with a wealth of dramatic power, reaches its climax in a description of the Custer massacre. Injustice makes men restless, and Bob Hampton was no mean specimen, but the love he bears his old commander, General Custer, like a magnet draws him with unfailing fatality, so that, with his old company, he, reinstated, falls with that gallant leader.

Houston Chronicle—The story is decidedly the best Mr. Parrish has written, and the popularity of his former volumes in connection with the excellence of this latest will make it one of the widely read novels of the day. In this story he has, perhaps, reached the summit of his art.

The Little Rock Gazette—This is one of the strongest, most virile stories of the year. The author has had several successes. This latest should eclipse them all.

The Portland Oregonian—Mr. Parrish can rest assured that in writing this military tale he has created a true American novel on rational lines.

Chicago Daily News—The best and strongest story in the line of succession from Mr. Parrish's pen. The story in complication and characterization is wonderfully clever, the elements of suspense remarkably sustained, while its atmosphere of mystery is as strong and its purpose as deep as any that ever entered the most subtle, calculating mood of Sherlock Holmes.

Philadelphia Press—"Bob Hampton of Placer" is another thrilling American novel by Randall Parrish. Like its predecessors, it commands attention from the start and holds the interest absorbed by its continuous action. Furthermore it is a notably well written story, exhibiting the author's rare sense of dramatic values.

Grand Rapids Herald—The surpassing power of this new novel, "Bob Hampton of Placer," marks it not only as the best by Mr. Parrish but as probably the strongest in human interest of the season. Seldom has any novel exceeded it in virile strength and the quality that arouses the emotions.

RARITAN.

The Misses Irene Corcoran and Madelyn McWilliams have returned from Plainfield, after visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flynn.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Curiosity often hides behind the mask of sympathy.

Don't give up just because you happen to be down.

Be sure of your ground before you start to build upon it.

Many a many who demands justice would mhine for mercy if he got it.

One way to side track popularity is to insist on having your own way at all times.

There seems to be a yellow streak in human nature that makes it always want to shift the responsibility. —Chicago News.

Cotton Bandages.

Cotton serves as a better bandage than linen for the reason that the linen more readily absorbs the albuminous serum in burns and skin diseases of a moist character, thus keeping the surface dry and causing pain. It also absorbs the fatty substances used in dressing, and thus prevents their action on the skin.

Your Doctor Will Tell You That You Need A Natural Tonic

The majority of so-called "Spring" tonics supply a false stimulation to the body—but this is not the natural and most beneficial way of helping the system to overcome lassitude.

DR. D. JAYNE'S TONIC VERMIFUGE

tones and builds up the body in the natural way—through the stomach. A run-down condition of health is almost invariably due to a disordered stomach and digestive organs. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge tones the stomach and restores it to its normal healthy condition. Then the restored stomach does the building up and brings the body back to a state of perfect health. This is the natural way.

Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is sold by all druggists.

Jayne's Expectorant is the oldest and most reliable Cough Cure known.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

The machine which cuts up wood to make matches turns out 40,000 "sylints," as they are called, in a single minute.

The Japanese government intends to give $5,000,000 for the international exposition to be held at Tokyo in 1912, beginning April 1 and ending October 31.

In the Smuggler Mine at Telluride, Colo., the rock is crushed underround. This is done to effect an economy in the cost of the ore handling. There are two crushers, and they are driven by motors.

The government of Colombia has issued a decree granting a premium or bonus on all exports of coffee, cotton, rubber and tobacco raised in that country. Over 50 per cent of these products come to the United States.

Rhymeless.

You cannot find a word to rhyme with "echo" or "month."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

When "The Red Mill" is presented at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night it will thoroughly demonstrate that its chorus has not only been selected for its beauty, but voices as well and in the modern French gowns with fresh young voices forms a picture of such rare beauty as to have an indelible impression. The cast is one of the best ever sent in the road by Manager Dillingham and the scenic equipment calls for two baggage cars in transportation.

Golden voiced Al. H. (Metz) Wilson is to be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night in Sidney R. Ellis' romantic German dialect comedy drama, "Metz in the Alps."

Mr. Wilson will undoubtedly be welcomed by a crowded house during this engagement. A bright young man of undoubted talents is Mr. Wilson, gifted with the unusual quality of being able to extract a tear or convulse his auditors with merriment with as much ease and grace as any of our most noted players. He is also the possessor of a singing voice that for sweetness and purity of tone is second to none, so rich and true is it in quality that the subrequet, "Golden voiced singer" has been most aptly applied to his. As one musical expert expresses it: "When Mr. Wilson sings, it is like pulling the love strings of the heart." "Metz in the Alps" is by Sidney R. Ellis, who has written a number of successes, and it is claimed that this is his best. It tells a heart story with a straightforwardness that is convincing, and holds one spell bound with its intensity and interest.

Tom Waters will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night in his new musical comedy, "The Mayor of Laughland." Judging from the interest already being displayed this show will be greeted by one of the banner houses of the season. The company includes thirty-five people, is equipped with special scenery and has a wealth of rich costumes. Mr. Waters appears in his favorite role of an Irish politician whose ability to get himself into trouble forms the basis of an excellent plot.

"Brown of Harvard" with Henry Woodruff in the stellar role and a supporting company of America's most capable young actors and actresses will hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. In view of the fact that this college play fro mthe pen of Rida Johnson Young, who also wrote "Glorious Betsy" and "The Boys of Company B," is being offered by Henry Miller, the eminent actor-manager, it should prove the theatrical event of the local season. Mr. Miller first produced this play at the Princess theatre, New York, early in 1906 and so great did it's popularity prove that it ran without interruption for seventy-three weeks, thereby smashing all records previously established by plays of this class. "Brown of Harvard" will be presented here with the same star cast and production that was seen during it's long New York and Chicago engagements.

THE ROYAL BOX.

Crown Prince Gustavus of Sweden recently cut off his private stables to correct a deficit of $125,000 in his budget.

Queen Amelie of Portugal, the only royal lady doctor in the world, smokes quite a number of cigarettes a day, as do also Carmen Sylva, the poet-queen of Roumania, and Queen Christina of Spain.

Prince Eugene, fourth son of the king of Sweden, follows art not as a hobby, but as a profession. For four years he studied in Paris, leading the life of the ordinary art student and known to his brothers of the brush as M. Eugene.

The king of Siam is a practical exemplar of nepotism. His one brother and twenty half brothers fill all the important administrative and executive posts in the government. But he draws the line in the distaff side of his family. His sisters and daughters are not allowed to marry for fear of possible rivals to the throne.

LAW POINTS.

Requiring labor for the working of highways is held, in State versus Wheeler (N. C.), 5 L. R. A. (N. S.), 1139, not to e taxation.

That an administrator may be made garnishee for the amount owing him for fees, in proceeding to collect a debt against him individually, is held, in Sanders versus Herndon (Ky.), 5 L. R. A. (N. S.), 1072.

Recovery by a merchant of damages for delivery of a consignment of merchandise of a quality inferior to that contracted for is held, in Ellison versus Johnson (S. C.), 5 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1151, not to be prevented by the fact that, because of an advance in the market price, it is disposed of at a profit.

The Honey Record.

The average amount of honey taken from an English hive is fifty pounds, double the American average. The record "take" from any hive was 1,000 pounds from a stock of Cyprians.

Nightmare.

A very small dose of bicarbonate of soda taken after supper acts as an almost certain preventive of nightmare.

NEW IDEAITES NOMINATE

iterate the statement that I never worked with a more invigorating body of men than those with whom I labored in our last campaign. I believe the need to look carefully over our candidates is as urgent this year as last. It seems to me the Republican party needs a house-cleaning. (Applause). If the party is not big enough and brave enough to purge itself, the people will arise and clean it out. (Applause). The present investigation is partisan, but it has been shown that the party has been negligent. In a decade since the Democrats were thrown out, the Republican party has not lived up to its principles.

"We must see, as a party, that our standard bearers and our officers should be clean and worthy. (Applause). It seems to me the officers at Trenton have not voted squarely and bravely. For instance, I think the little governor temporized and saddled the State with a Dickinson. But the party is not beyond recall. I think it has been proved that the star chamber methods are not to be borne longer.

"The situation in Union county shows that the coterie system is still in the ascendency. I have liked Randolph Perkins' attitude. I think Perkins has a little too much ability and independence to please the coterie system. I don't stand here to indorse Mr. Perkins, but it seems to me the reasons advanced against him by the organization are weak. I think his record should be investigated. If his record is good, send him back. I think a good man may be a power in his third and fourth term that he could never be in his first and second terms. An Assemblyman is more valuable in his third term than a surrogate can be in his fourth and fifth terms.

"I think the organization is choosing better men as assembly candidates. I think Mr. Pierce, of Cranford, who is endorsed for the assembly nomination by the organization, is a good and able man.

"Last year we did not gain so far as office was concerned, but the people were aroused. They gave notice that they proposed to stay awake and see that the proper men were named. I do not believe we want to sink back into lethargy; I believe we are bringing back the good old days when the biggest men thought it an honor to represent constituents in the council. We do not want anything like the typical board of alderman.

"Gentlemen, I bid you in the fight, 'Godspeed.' I believe you are all in it for the right and the right only, with no axes to grind or ulterior motives to further. That being the case, I feel the right must triumph. God grant it will."

Two of the wards, the Third and the Second, completed their ticket; the First and Fourth will finish their nominations at a meeting to be held before the end of the week. The Second ward nominations are as follows: Delegates to State convention, Chas. B. Morse, F. L. Holt, W. L. Lockwood; delegates to county convention, Philip S. Suffern, L. R. Hopton, Arthur Lovell, C. B. Morse, R. H. McCready, John G. Bicknell. Delegates to city convention, L. M. Booth, Clarence Goss, H. C. Tracy, Harold Nomer, Herbert Henry, Charles Kirckner. Member of county committee, Frank L. Holt, Joseph D. Phillips; member of city committee, H. C. Tracy, Frederick W. Butler, R. H. McCready.

The Third ward nominations were as follows: Delegates to State convention, C. J. Fisk, G. W. V. Moy, Robert Rushmore; delegates to county convention, A. F. Van Horn, S. C. Baker, N. W. Currie, Gilbert Fletcher, C. J. Fisk, John W. Kirkner; city convention, E. V. Cox, Spencer Conway (colored), Jacob Kirkner, George Ring, Andrew Muir, Robert L. Lee; member city committee, J. S. Higham, G. W. V. Moy, D. W. Taylor; member of county committee, C. J. Fisk, D. W. Taylor.

In reporting on the Fourth ward, Secretary N. Mansfield Smith announced that Carlson B. Pierce, of Cranford, the organization's candidate, as well as Mr. Perkins, had been endorsed for the assembly by the West End branch. Their delegates were instructed to support the nominees for councilmen-at-large, Board of Education and city judge.

When the nominations had been disposed of, F. L. Holt offered a resolution on the water question. It called for a full investigation of the present condition of the water supply, and of the organization, powers and duties of the corporation furnishing it; for a public announcement of the result of the investigation; for prompt measures to bring the matter before the people; and instructed the candidate for council to take a firm stand on the question. The resolution was passed unanimously.

The Fourth ward organized with Elmer D. Cutting as chairman. Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr., as vice chairman, and N. Mansfield Smith, secretary.

FAGAN WOULD INSURE A FIVE CENT FARE

NO JERSEY CITY CONSESSION TO M'DOO HE SAYS.

President William G. McAdoo of the Manhattan and Hudson Tunnel Company had a conference yesterday with Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, at the latter's office. Commissioners Knox and Berry, the Republican members of the Street and Water Board, also attended.

President McAdoo sought the vacation of a part of the sidewalk at Grove street to enable the company to put in a substantial station, and offered either to buy the strip of land at the price to be fixed by a commission or lease the property at an annual rental of 4 per cent of the assessed valuation.

Mayor Fagan said that before the city would make any concession to the company the latter would have to agree to a five-cent fare from Jersey City to the nearest station in Manhattan. President McAdoo replied that he would consult the men at work arranging the fare schedules and ascertain if the plan was feasible.

TO PROTECT FESTETICS.

Perth Amboy Folk to Urge Stokes Not to Honor Requisition.

A petition is being circulated in Perth Amboy, asking Gov. Stokes not to honor the requisition papers from New York in the case of Cyula de Festetics, arrested there recently charged by his wife with kidnapping their son, Arthur. The people there are taking a deep interest in the case, and their sympathy is all with the father, who, for the past fey months, has been seen daily on the streets pulling the boy about in a buckboard wagon. The child is a cripple and the mother, being a Christian Scientist, is accused by the father of not giving him proper medical attention. The boy has improved greatly since coming to Perth Amboy, and it is considered an outrage by the count's friends to take the child away.

The petition is being signed by all the leading citizens, and is headed by several prominent clergymen. A committee of three will take it to Governor Stokes.

EX-JUDGE STRONG BURIED.

Middlesex County Court House to be Draped for 30 Days.

The funeral of former Judge Woodbridge Strong was held yesterday afternoon at New Brunswick, the Rev. Charles E. Corwin conducting the service. Mr. Corwin was formerly pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in that city, and when it was decided to close the church he went to North Branch. Judge Ctrong had been a meber of the Second church for many years.

The Middlesex Bar Association met yesterday morning, adopted suitable resolutions of respect and listened to eulogies by Judge Boorame, former Judge Rice, Captain James Parker, former Senator James H. Van Cleef, John W. Beekman, Judge Edward W. Hicks and Surrogate Peter F. Daly. The Court House and county buildings have been draped and will remain so for thirty days.

THE CITY PHARMACY

143 WEST FRONT ST.

Miss Mae Pruden and Miss Josephine Todd, of East Third street, left this morning for Asbury Park, where they will spend the week at the Windsor.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of Jan. 19, 1871:

"Our efficient Fire Commissioners have promptly taken into consideration the practicability of procuring a suitable Fire Alarm, and have made arrangements with two churches, the M. E. and First Presbyterian churches, to allow the police to carry a key of each, the bells of the churches to be rung by them as soon as an alarm is given. A suitable tower with an Alarm Bell therein would cost considerable money, and as the Board has not got the means to build it with, we must rest contented with the plan above proposed, at present. We trust the day is not far distant however when we shall have that Fire Alarm. Our Commissioners are energetic enough, but can do nothing without money."

"Thursday evening last, the following gentlemen were installed as officers of 'Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M.,' of this city: L. L. Compton, M. E. H. P.; E. P. Thorn, E. K.; T. A. Rogers, E. S.; J. H. Smith, C. of H.; E. Parker, P. S.; I. D. Ten Eyck, R. A. C.; J. C. Sutphen, C. M., 2d V.; A. L. Mundy, G. M., 1st V.; J. M. Steiner, treasurer; Henry Southard, sentinel."

From the issue of Feb. 9, 1871:

"At a parish meeting, held on Thursday, evening, at the First Presbyterian church, of this city, for the election of a pastor, a unanimous vote was given for a call to the Rev. Samuel Carlisle, formerly of the First Presbyterian church, of Brooklyn, E. D. Mr. Carlisle has preached for the second time to the above congregation and is a young man of more than ordinary ability, and eminently social and cordial in his temperament. Providence permitting he will preach in this place next Sabbath morning and afternoon."

"The reception at the Public School last Friday afternoon was one of the finest that have been given. It opened as usual, with singing by the academic class. A marked improvement in this highly important and pleasing branch of education, was evident. The trio by the Misses Smith and Mr. Meigs was the least successful, principally because of the voices not seeming to be well attuned, and the accompaniment being decidedly too strong.

"The declamation by Master Frazee Marsh was well rendered, being spoken in a loud, distinct and natural voice. We are glad to see our boys trained in elocution. It will be valuable to them in whatever occupation they may choose for their life work, but particularly to those (and doubtless there are many of them) who take their stand as statesmen, lawyers and ministers. The examination in geography was creditable to the class and teacher. Almost without exception the answers were given unhesitatingly and in a loud tone. The recitation by Miss Orestilla Briant was beautiful. This little lady is a bud of fair promise—whatever she does is well and thoroughly done.

"The examination in mental arithmetic was not as good as the other class. The answers were not given as loudly, or perfectly, but it was perhaps due to embarassment, as the scholars are older.

"Now comes the novel feature of the entertainment. The pianist began a march for the class on the stage to march down by, where a young girl on the back seat in the hall, arose and spoke to a schoolmate as tho' she had just recognized her presence there. She was answered by one who sat about in the centre of the room, who was in turn followed by some one in another direction. Fourteen girls took part in this conversation. Their remarks and opinions on Women's Rights, rules for life and other subjects, were piquant and characteristic, and given as tho' occurring to them just at the moment, rendering the whole thing natural, lively and exciting. We accord great credit to Miss Parker, who took such pains to perfect this exercise, and say that it was a perfect success. The Roll of Honor (full and creditable) was then read, as follows:

"Miss A. Parker and Mr. C. Davenport, teachers.

Deserters.

Tears for the exiled everywhere!
Condemned to pine
In martyred solitudes far from their native shore,
Yearning incessant toward one lost horizon line—
Yet all such haunted exiles in their dreams once more
Walk the beloved ways of home; feel their blood leap
To country and to kin, and patriotism keep
A hearth alight within their souls.
But tears for none
As for the willful aliens, 'neath a foreign sky—
Deserters vain who leave their work undone.
Their cross unborne, to cheat the fires of destiny!
Exiles of idle pleasure whose golden chains they drag—
Within their dreams no country; within their hearts no flag!
—Martha G. D. Bianchi, in Everybody's.

Kicking.

'Tis useless to kick at the wealth of your neighbor;
It will never fatten your purse;
'Tis idle to kick at the state of the weather,
It makes it no better nor worse.

'Tis empty to kick at the scheme of creation,
It does not affect it a bit;
And vain is the kick at the age that you live in,
Its march is not halted a whit.

'Tis useless to kick at the failings of people,
There's nothing to show for the work;
'Tis vain to condemn the society wrinkles,
It never will alter a quirk.

There's nothing accomplished by sitting and railing,
Improvement more effort demands;
Success is the need of a different person—
The fellow who kicks with his hands.
—McLandburgh Wilson, in N. Y. Sun.

"God Bless You."

It was only a brief "God bless you!"
As hand lay in hand, a word
By pilgrim spoken to pilgrim,
But its hidden promise they heard.

And so close in that benediction
Drew heart unto kindred heart,
Though their feet took opposite pathways,
They knew that they should not part.

By the truth that they loved and lived for,
By the work they meant to share,
They knew they were friends forever;
They had met, soul with soul, in a prayer.

They said in that low "God bless you!"
Whatever one spirit could say
To another, as each departed
On a separate, untried way.

But because the way is eternal,
And because no spirit in vain
Can breathe on another God's blessing,
Those pilgrims will meet again.
—Lucy Larcom.

Youth Redivivus.

It's funny how a man, grown old,
Will frisk upon the green,
Exactly as he used to do
At five or at fifteen.
He's skittish and amazing spry,
As in the days of long ago.
He's young again, but—oh me! oh my!
It makes him awful sore.

It's funny how a man, grown old,
Will shed his coat and vest
And pirouette as if he were
Of lasting youth possessed.
He runs and frolics all about,
And opens every pore,
Defying age to put him out—
But it makes him awful sore.

It's funny how a man, grown old,
Endeavors to retain
His youthful nimbleness, and be
A little boy again.
Away down in his heart he knows
The time to frisk is o'er;
But when a body tells him so,
It makes him awful sore.

The Hard-Won Glory.

She that bestows her smiles ere you have sighed
And languished in dark doubt or bitter fear,
Imparts no joy nor gives you added pride—
It is the long-sought favor that is dear.

She that bestows her smiles unsought may be
More graceful than the maid to whom you kneel,
May claim a beauty that you fail to see,
Because you need not woo, nor must appeal.

The everyday successes you may claim
Along wide ways from all obstructions clear
Will bring you little pride and little fame;
It is the hard-won glory that is dear.
—S. E. Kiser.

Afterwards.

O to think that the world will go on
After we are dead!
Lovers will go on loving,
The old, old words will be said.

New buds will bloom in April,
And white be the apple bough;
June will return, the birds troop back,
The earth be as glad as now.

The long, green pageant of summer
Will march its accustomed way,
And year after year the autumn pomp
Will crimson the pallid day.

Lovers will go on loving,
The words that we said will be said,
When you and I are forgotten,
When you and I are dead!
—Charles Hanson Towne, in Smart Set.

Life's Triumph.

I count the greatest gain to be
Not merely in the victory.
Men triumph round us day by day
As all men triumph, in a way;
But what I get of what I seek
Makes me the more content and meek
To do my task and go my road
And serve my time and bear my load.
And love my loved and keep my creed
Of faith in love's inviolate deed—
With this one grace of triumph more
Than aught of all that went before,
That up and over all the rest
The victory we should count the best,
And treasure most, and boast about,
Is learning to have done without!
—Baltimore Sun.

My Child and I.

My child and I, my child and I,
In gray or sunny weather,
Shall find a glory 'neath the sky
When hand in hand together.
My child and I, my child and I,
The tender day shall follow,
With care away we'll fare away
Across the hill and hollow.
My child and I in land of play,
With love around us streaming,
Ah, me, how sweet, with little feet
To tread the dales of dreaming!
—Baltimore Sun.

WITH THE SAGES.

It is every man's duty to make himself profitable to mankind.—Seneca.

Wouldst thou excel? Let purpose run a thread of gold from sun to sun!—James Buckham.

Make such a habit of well doing in you, that you shall not know how to do evil.—Sir Philip Sidney.

As fruit and flowers draw their ripeness down from Heaven, so men themselves may crown.—Gerald Massey.

If we look down, then our shoulders stoop. If our thoughts look down, our character bends.—Alexander McKenzie.

I have seldom known anyone who deserted truth in trifles that could be trusted in matters of importance.—Paley.

In actual life, as a general rule, it is the common, not the uncommon, person who does noble things.—Lafcadio Hearn.

For as a ship without rudder is tossed to and fro with the waves, so the man that is negligent is many ways tempted.—Thomas a Kempis.

Opportunity is the flower of time, and as the stalk may remain when the flower is cut off, so time may remain with us when opportunity is gone.—Bond.

Aspire to be great, but only if allied to, and accompanied by goodness; so that if the greatness comes not, your mind is content with being good.—James Platt.

To be a strong hand in the dark to another in time of need, to be a cup of strength to a human soul in a crisis of weakness, is to know the glory of life.—Black.

The great question of life is the suffering we cause, and the utmost ingenuity of metaphysics cannot justify the man who has pierced the heart that loved him.—Benjamin Constant.

PHILOSOPHY OF A POLITICIAN.

A policeman an' car conductor oughn't t' have no trouble startin' a s'loon.

A man's vote is priceless—it's far too valuable t' be given away fer nawthin'.

Lemme run me ward an' I don't care what Congress makes th' nation's laws.

Many a statesman who calls himself self-made is nawthin' else but machine-made.

My epplaff? Put these touchin' words on th' tombstun above me name: "I got mine."

When th' reformers start t' puttin' graft-givers inter th' pen there won't be any bribe-takers.

Th' lad who is caught with th' goods on him soon finds himself wit' another kind o' goods on—striped.

Naw; th' originators of a big graft never git nabbed. It's th' slowpokes who start to imitate them just about th' time th' peepul are wakin' up.—Judge.

LEADING EDITORIALS.

Better laugh in your heart than in your sleeve.

Sudden wealth and fame are dangerous partners.

Those who lighten their meals lengthen their lives.

Discontent is generally the fag end of too much enjoyment.

The true statesman never barters his conscience for office.

Self-belief, self-respect and self-help are bracers for victory.

Reformation without equity is like a household without virtue.

In the long run the fraud and thief get the hot end of the poker.

Men and nations win by love and virtue and lose by hate and vice.

Honest praise for honest work will generate more and better work.

You will never know some men even if you eat a ton of salt with them.—Baltimore American.

PROVERBS AND PHRASES.

Happy counsels flow from sober feasts.—Homer.

A gallant man needs no drums to rouse him.—Spanish.

It costs the devil little trouble to catch a lazy man.—Tamil.

Where there are too many cooks the soup will be salt.—Italian.

Those who are rash and precipitate seldom enjoy the favor of the gods.—Herodotus.

CAUGHT THE FAIR CULPRIT.

How the Naval Officer Recovered His Lost Buttons.

It happened on one of the United States cruisers now at Hampton roads, says the Washington Herald. A lieutenant, having met two very charming ladies while ashore, invited them on board for luncheon. They came and were shown over the ship. They lingered long in the lieutenant's room, which was daintily furnished, and they admired his photographs of home. When he was summoned on deck he left them there. Returning, he took them to luncheon and, having to go on duty in the afternoon, he excused himself so as to get into uniform. Alas! he found that every button on his best coat had been cut off and then he remembered that one of his fair guests has been rather importunate on the souvenir question. He got her alone after luncheon and accused her of the theft and after some prevarication she confessed that the buttons were in her corsage. With some firmness the lieutenant led the culprit to his cabin, pointed silently to the denuded coat on the bunk, produced needle and thread and, going out, locked the door on the outside. In half an hour he returned, unlocked the door, found that his coat was once more in excellent order and then, with great gallantry, bowed the lady over the side. She has not been invited to luncheon on the same ship since.

A FASHION FROM WAR.

How Flat Watches Took Place of the Old-Time "Turnips."

When the neat man takes unto himself a watch as thin as parchment he little thinks that that thin watch results from army regulations. Up to the time of the Allies taking Paris the ordinary watch was convex in shape and called from its outline a "turnip." The officers of the Russian and other armies objected to this because its bulbous form made the uniform of a man on parade look untidy, whether it were carried in the coat or the fob. Here in Paris, however, they found that the watchmakers of the Palais Royal had contrived a chronometer which got over the difficulty. Flat watches were the fashion in Paris. The English when they appeared in the streets of the French capital marched in not in gala dress such as the others wore, but in the raiment which they had worn on campaign. Great was the impression which their habiliments created. But they at once adopted the smart flat watch and brought it back to England for our own manufacturers to copy.—London Standard.

Paddy and Taxes.

A voice from the jungle of Burma is heard in the following letter from a missionary correspondent to the Christian Herald: "The Lord has sent me $10 from a friend in New York, which will buy thatch for the three native houses and an addition to this one I live in and pay for its transport here besides. Another gift also came and with it I have paid this new man's wages for one week, bought a small supply of dried fish, paid for a fresh supply of stamps and left a little for daily needs. Our store of rice is fast melting away and daily the prayer is offered at morning and evening worship, before the children and heathen visitors, that the Lord will send money for more rice, for paddy and for the taxes, which are now due."

Creatures of the Wild.

"Wild animals and birds are no more angelic than human beings. In every family, in every herd and in every cage, from tigers to doves, the strong bully and oppress the weak and drive them to the wall. Of all quadrupeds, deer are the greatest fools, wolves are the meanest, apes the most cunning, bears the most consistent and open-minded, and elephants the most intellectual. Of birds, the parrots and cockatoos are the most philosophic, the cranes are the most domineering, the darters are the most treacherous, the gallinaceous birds have the least common sense, and the swimming birds are by far the quickest to recognize protection and accept it."—N. Y. Sun.

Photographing the Mirage.

The photograph represented a palm grove, a lake and a caravan of laden camels and white-robed Arabs moving in stately wise across the pale desert. "That is a picture of a mirage, or fata morgana," said the traveler. "I took it in the Sahara, not far from Tombouktoo. There was really nothing there but sand—wastes on wastes of sand, but my dazzled eyes saw that mirage and my camera saw it, too. This is the only mirage picture I have ever got. I have tried in Ceylon, in Egypt and in Morocco to photograph various mirages, but always in vain. There are scarcely six mirage photos in existence."

Words and Deeds.

"There never was a time in my life, fellow citizens," exclaimed the candidate, "when I hadn't the courage to call a spade a spade!" "Yes," spoke up an old farmer in the audience; "and there never was a time in your life when you had the courage to take one in your hand!"

A Misunderstanding.

In his bathing suit the little fellow was digging in the sand. "Why, Jimmy," said a lady, "how tanned you are!" He continued to dig sullenly. "Did you hear me yell?" he asked, without looking up.

A REWARD OF FAITH.

Conclusion Drawn from the Destruction of an Ohio Church.

A congregation in a hilly district in Ohio bought a small tract of land and erected a church building upon it, says the Youth's Companion. Then the question of insurance came up. Mr. Sipes, the wealthiest member, who had contributed more than half the money needed for the new structure, declared that he did not believe in insurance. "This is the Lord's building: He'll take care of it," he said. His view prevailed and there was no insurance. In a few weeks the building was struck by lightning and almost totally consumed by fire. Another one was erected, Mr. Sipes contributing the greater portion of the fund as before. This time the demand was almost unanimous that it be insured, but Mr. Sipes again objected on the same ground. "If it burns down again, brethren," he said, "I'll agree to rebuild it myself." Again he carried his point. In less than a month the new church was struck by lightning again, and although strenuous efforts were made to save it, the loss was almost total. "There must be some reason for this, brethren," said Brother Sipes. "I am going to find out what it is." Thereupon he employed a force of men to sink a shaft on the site of the twice destroyed church. Within a few days a rich vein of iron ore was found and the church property was sold for many times the amount needed to buy land in another locality and build again. "I tell you, brethren," said Brother Sipes, "it pays to trust the Lord. He's a great deal better business manager than anybody in this congregation."

CURE FOR MORBID WOMEN.

Work and Laughter Will Exorcise Demon of Discontent.

When people have real trouble to contend with they do not sit down and analyze their emotions and remember whether this person or that person looked to the right or to the left when they spoke to them, and exactly what the tones of their voice and the elevation of their eyebrows meant, as the morbid woman does. Morbidness should be accounted a wicked demon that can be driven out. Healthy companionship, laughter, long walks in the sunshine and plenty of work will exorcise the wicked little imp Discontent and make its victim the happy, healthful, hopeful woman she should be. Form a resolve not to be constantly thinking of self, and you will be surprised to discover how much less complicated is your outlook upon existence.—Exchange.

Old Church in Alaska.

In Sitka, Alaska, is one of the most ancient and historic churches in the dominion of the United States. It was built many years ago when Russia ruled there, and the site of a Grecian spire overshadowing the simple shrine in the wilderness was dear to homesick Russian hearts. Solid silver candlesticks, six feet high, guard the altar and a massive chandelier of rich silver hangs from the dome. On the walls hang paintings from masters of the old world, the altar vestments are encrusted with priceless jewels, and the robes of the priests, displayed to interested tourists, are richly embroidered in precious stones. The church has no pews, the worshippers standing in groups about the church while the two hours' service is in progress.

Driving Into Nets.

In the old days every southern gentleman had his net for quail. The drive was an event in the county. Our youth of to-day may never enjoy such sport. In the proper season the neighbors were invited. All came on horseback, for while quail will rise from the approach of a dog or man, they will run along the ground ahead of a gentle horse. Much skill was required to drive a covey into the net. As many as 30 horsemen would form a semicircle and slowly, patiently, silently make the round-up, all driving toward the common center, yet from one general direction only, and that always against the wind. The net had been set facing the wind. An impatient man on a fractious horse might destroy the work of half a day by flushing entire coveys.

Fortune Teller's Blunder.

"That fortune-teller got all mixed up on my husbands," said she, as they left the tent. "He said I had had two; then he wouldn't say I would have three. I thought that was mean of him. Instead, he kept on saying what a nice husband I had now, what a fine man he was and all that idiocy. Why, my husband is the meanest little brute that ever lived. I haven't laid eyes on him for two years. Now, why do you suppose the fortune teller kept on saying he was such a nice husband?" she demanded. "That's easy," said he. "He thought I was your husband and he'd get to tell my fortune when he had finished with yours."

One Use for Catalogues.

The American consul at Nankin utters a caution to his fellow countrymen, who spend lavishly on illustrated catalogues on thick paper, handsomely bound, which appear to be highly prized by the Chinese at Nankin, where the supply is at times unequal to the demand. As the English language is not yet a general accomplishment among the citizens, the consul made inquiries and discovered that the leaves of the catalogues were being used as inside soles for shoes.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, NO. 1.

BE IT RESOLVED (the House of Assembly concurring), That the following amendment to the constitution of this State be and the same is hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendment shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays thereon, and referred to the Legislature next to be chosen, and published for three months prior to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next in at least one newspaper of each county, to be designated by the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Assembly and the Secretary of State:

Strike out the proviso in section three of article four, and insert in place thereof the following:

The Legislature shall, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine, and at its first session after each United States decennial census thereafter, and not oftener, divide and arrange the counties of this State into districts for the election therein of members of the General Assembly. Each assembly district so constituted shall contain, as nearly as practicable, an equal number of inhabitants, and shall consist of convenient and contiguous territory, in a compact form; provided, that each county shall, at all times, be entitled to at least one member, and the whole number of members to be chosen shall never exceed sixty.

The Court of Errors and Appeals is hereby invested with exclusive original jurisdiction and with full power under such procedure as it may by rules prescribe to review any division and arrangement made by the Legislature into assembly districts of the counties of this State, for the purpose of determining whether such arrangement and division or any part thereof is in accordance or in conflict with this section, and if in conflict herewith, to adjudge the same, or such part thereof as may be in conflict herewith, null and void. In case said court shall determine such arrangement and division or any part thereof to be null and void, the Legislature shall proceed to make a new arrangement and division, entire or partial, as the action of the court may require.

LITTLE THINGS OF LIFE.

Quarrelsome Individual Asserts Man Has Much to Learn.

"It's queer how little most people know about little things," said a quarrelsome man not long since. "Some day I am going to start a school where only the minutiae of life will be taught—how to button the coat when you put it on, how to brush a hat, and so on. Not one in a hundred persons knows it is a mistake to button the bottom of a coat first. The top button should be the first one, otherwise the shape of the coat, even if it is carefully tailored, is seriously affected. This little pointer alone would save many persons a lot of money. A hat should always be brushed in the direction opposite to the hands of a clock. Otherwise the pile of the felt is taken out and the hat given a cheap, poor appearance. Of course, with straw this does not apply. In the care of paste, too, it is odd how little is known by most people. The best way to buy paste nowadays is in the water-well jars put up by all large manufacturers. Then when such a jar is gotten keep the well always half full of water. If paste becomes hard, too, from lack of use stir it with a stick until it has proper consistency. If obdurate add a little water. If still obdurate after this add a little glycerin and water. This will put it in good condition. Altogether, if people only knew more about the little things of life and less of the pretentious and immaterial ones, it would be a far happier place to live in—this world we have down here."

LOOKED LIKE CLEAR CASE.

Appearances Very Much Against Innocent Man.

"It's an imposition for a woman to ask her husband to do errands for her in the stores," said the subdued looking man. "I never fail to get in wrong, somehow, whenever I get something for my wife. The other day I had a bad five minutes on her account. She had given a teaspoon to me, one of our wedding presents it was, to get engraved. I shoved it into my side pocket and thought I would wait till I went out to lunch and turn it over to a jeweler friend of mine down near where I eat. I had my luncheon first, and forgot about the spoon. While the lady cashier was getting my change I pulled a handkerchief out of my side pocket and that infernal spoon fell to the floor with a big rattle. I could hear people near me saying, 'Funny a decent duck like that would try to get away with a spoon.' Of course I squared it with the cashier all right by simply showing her the spoon, but I've always been ashamed to go back and take a chance on meeting some of the same crowd there again."

Entertaining in an Insane Asylum.

Did you ever entertain an audience at an insane asylum? Those who have usually are able to tell experiences quite out of the ordinary. The Litchfield trio have had several amusing experiences at such places. In one case Mr. Litchfield spoke to a patient at the asylum—"nice day; rather muddy underfoot, but nice overhead."

"Yes," answered the patient, "but nobody gets up there." In the course of the entertainment Mrs. Litchfield gives on the violin an imitation of the church organ. That it was well done was evident, for as she finished there came through the stillness in clear, ministerial tones the voice of an inmate of the asylum: "Now let the collection be taken up."—The Lyceumite and Talent.

Loss of a Good Thing.

Formerly a telephone had stood on the bracket in the corner. The bracket had been made expressly for the 'phone. It had been so exceedingly convenient to call up her friends that the woman immediately noticed the change; for on the bracket in place of the telephone stood a statuette that she didn't much care for. "What have you done with it?" she asked of them. "The company tried to collect the bill," they said. "I am sorry," the woman sighed, because at that moment she thought of about a dozen to whom she would have liked to telephone. "So are all our friends," said they pointedly.

What He Missed.

One of the officials of the Indian office at Washington was visiting a reservation in Montana on government business when a certain chief, who had taken a fancy to Uncle Sam's agent, invited him to attend the wedding of the Indian's daughter. The Indian office man was, to his regret, unable to be present at the festivities, but the Indian laconically described the function subsequently, in order to indicate what the agent had missed. "Five dogs," said the chief, "and plenty pie."—Harper's Weekly.

Maximilian and "La Paloma."

The memory of Maximilian of Mexico should still be preserved wherever that haunting air "La Paloma" is played. It is still to be heard in the London restaurants where music is thrown in with dinner. And Maximilian's final request was that "La Paloma" should be played while he stood up to meet his doom. He died with the tune in his ears—the courage in his face—and his wife went mad with the shock nearly 40 years ago.

Undoubtedly.

"Come on down town, Grace." "But I have no money." "What's the diff? Two can shop as cheaply as one."—Pittsburg Post.

WHAT CHARLES DICKENS SAID.

Great Writer's Remark to Small Boy Lingered Long in Memory.

Mr. Henry C. Robinson, a witty lawyer who used to live in Hartford, Conn., once told the following anecdote one evening when he was introducing an English author to a Hartford audience. "The first famous Englishman whom I ever saw was Charles Dickens, who lectured here in Hartford when I was a young boy. I had read some of the stories of this great writer, and I was most anxious to catch a glimpse of the man himself. So on the afternoon when he was expected to arrive I walked up and down the street in front of the hotel where I knew he was to stay. The hotel was built close to the sidewalk, and the long windows of the parlor were so low that the passerby could easily see into the room. I soon realized that a gentleman was sitting within, reading a paper. I stepped close up under the window and pressed my face against the glass, eager to get a good look at the stranger. Yes, it was he! It really was! I had seen his picture often, and couldn't be mistaken. I stared and stared, anxious to impress every feature upon my memory. After a few moments he turned and saw me there, the little, eager Yankee boy, gazing up at his face, and then the famous man, laying aside his paper, actually spoke, so that I really heard the voice of the great Charles Dickens himself, and he was really talking to me!" Here Mr. Robinson paused impressively, and some one on the platform inquired, "What did he say, Mr. Robinson?" "He said,' replied Mr. Robinson, in subdued tones, "Go away, little boy! go away!'"

PAPA'S IDEA OF ECONOMY.

All Right When It Only Affected Pleasures of Others.

Not long ago we heard a man's little daughter say to him: "Papa, can't I have a nickel to buy some gum?" He was a good, kind man, and he didn't refuse her roughly. He patted her on the head and said: "Daughter, your old dad can't afford such things. It takes all our money to buy bread and meat and keep you and mamma in shoes." She looked disappointed and walked away. Presently he started home. He felt as if a hot one would help his appetite and put him in a more cheerful frame of mind in which to greet his family, so he walked in and put his right shoe upon the foot-rail. "What'll you have, boys?" he asked. Some of them took 'er straight; some took it diluted with seltzer. Nobody condescended to take beer. Our friend planked down a dollar. When the barkeeper rang up the register it showed 65 cents.—Lamar Democrat.

Haydn's Grave.

The city council of Vienna has made formal overtures to the authorities of Eisenstadt looking toward the removal of the bones of Josef Haydn to Vienna, "where," the city fathers say, "a fitting resting place will be provided by the city." This will be near the graves of Beethoven and Schubert. Haydn was 77 years old when he died in Vienna in 1809. He was buried in a little cemetery near the Hundsturm line, and at the head of the grave was placed a small stone, at the expense of his pupil, Sigmund Knight of Neukomm. The stone bore only the name "Haydn," and the inscription "Non omnis moriar." In 1820 Prince Esterhazy had the body removed to Eisenstadt, where Haydn had been music director from 1760 to 1790, and there an elaborate monument with ample inscription was erected.

Hard Water.

A farm woman in Pennsylvania once said: "I never hear anyone sing 'The Old Oaken Bucket' without a shudder." For 15 years she had done the cooking and washing for a family of six with no other water supply than what she had hauled out of a well nearly 30 feet deep by means of a bucket. Baths in winter were almost out of the question, and even in the summer they were regarded as an occasion of more than ordinary importance, for which preparations had to be made hours ahead of the great event. A cubic foot of water weighs 62½ pounds, and in all these years the number of tons this woman had lifted had made poetic allusions to "ironbound" and "moss-covered" buckets a good deal like saying "rope" to a man about to be hanged.—Farming.

Man's Walk Shows Age.

"You can tell a man's age by his hands," said one of the girls. "They get knotty and veined and terrible. They get old sooner than his face." "You can tell it most of all, I think," said the woman, "by his walk. I know a man who has been one of the brightest minds of his time, who is still the best company I know; but the other day when I saw him come toward me at his home along the hall it made me awfully sad to see the heavy, old, old way in which he walked."

Honeymoon Literature.

The young couple drove to the railway after the wedding, accompanied by the best man, who had once been in love with the bride. Just before the train started he handed a book to the bride, saying: "You will find that a capital book to read on your honeymoon." After the train had started the young husband said: "What book is that Tom has given you?" Together they looked at it. It was Stevenson's "Travels with a Donkey."

Potter Takes Defeat Hard.

The Potter A. C., of this city, journeyed to East Millstone Saturday and were defeated by the score of 6 to 5. The manager of the East Millstone team was the only person available to do the umpiring and the Potter boys say he was instrumental in giving the East Millstone team the victory. The score was 4 to 0 in favor of the Potter A. C. until the seventh inning, when a batting rally and some very shady decisions by the umpire gave the East Millstone the lead, which they held until the game was ended. The Potter boys declare when they meet again there will be a different story to tell.

WON'T MAKE LITTLE SUPT. OF SCHOOLS

GRAVE CHARGES BAR HIM FROM UNION COUNTY OFFICE.

It was announced yesterday that the State Board of Education would not appoint William S. Little, Superintendent of Schools of Union county. Mr. Little recently passed the examination, which was held at Jersey City, and the examining board forwarded his name to the State board as the best fitted applicant.

Through the announcement it became known that formal charges had been preferred before the committee on teachers of the Elizabeth Board of Education involving Mr. Little. The text of the charges is refused at the present time, but members of the board say that they are of immorality and general inefficiency.

The appointment of a county superintendent has to be made at once. The State board felt that it could not appoint Mr. Little while he was under charges, and that while he may be able to refute the allegiations it was best that some one else be appointed. The Elizabeth Board of Education will hold a meeting shortly, and the teachers' committee will then report the charges made and they will become public.

FREEMAN TO FOLLOW UP BITTER ATTACK

NOT DETERRED BY COUNSEL'S REFUSAL TO ACT.

Alden Freeman, the civic reformer and chairman of the county committee of the Independent Citizens' party at East Orange, gave out a formal statement yesterday in which he defined his position in regard to the sensational attacks he has made on ex-County Prosecutor Chandler W. Riker and Justice William S. Gummere and John Franklin Fort of the Supreme Court. Mr. Freeman declared that he was in no wise daunted by the refusal of Thomas A. Davis, of Orange, his counsel, to proceed with the search of the Supreme Court records for the affidavits in the disbarment proceedings against Justice Fort in 1886, but on the contrary would try to get all the evidence he could to substantiate his assertions.

"I intend," said Mr. Freeman, "to proceed as far as is in my power to substantiate my assertions. What I have been doing is perhaps a novel proceeding, but if a citizen has reasons which he believes valid for objecting to the candidacy of various appointive officials when they enter the field in quest of elective office, it seems to me that the time to raise those objections is before the candidate receives the indorsement of either political party at the primary."

Priest Held For Murder.

Pittsburg, Aug. 27.—Ludwig Ewewygiel, the Polish priest from Chicago, who killed Andrew and Stephen Starzynski at their Carson street hotel on Aug. 8, was held by a Coroner's jury yesterday on a charge of murder. The jury also recommended that Francesca Sprow, the priest's housekeeper, who accompanied him from Chicago, be held as an accessory. Andrew Starzynski in his dying statement, produced yesterday, declared the priest had robbed him and his brother of $150 after shooting them. Other witnesses testified that the priest had more than $150 when arrested.

TOWNSEND THE CHOICE

Republicans and Democrats to Fix Up Local Slates Tomorrow Night.

A MAYORALTY FIGHT

Arnold Does Not Want to Be Mayor Smalley's Success- or — Other Booms.

A mass meeting of Borough Republicans, to be held tomorrow evening in Sangerbund Hall, has been called by Mayor Smalley, of the party executive committee. The meeting will be a public one, and North Plainfielders will at this time prepare a slate of candidates for the coming election. The Democrats will caucus at the same time at the Somerset street school house. The main interest in making up the ticket in this fall's campaign will lie in the naming of a candidate for mayor. A slate was made up, it is said, at a caucus held by Republican leaders last night.

The terms of Councilman Frank C. Krewson and John H. VanWinkle Jr., expire January 1, 1908, and the party this fall is to name successors to their positions when the ticket is made up tomorrow night. The men have served three years, in a single term, for their office was extended by the adoption of the new law controlling the dates of office of these officials. Boroughites are not talking much about successors for these men, for mayoralty booms have been coming in too thick and fast to allow time for councilmanic discussions. It is the opinion of many prominent Republicans, that the two will be renominated. Van Winkle's record in the council is an especially commendable one and his work has clearly been conscientious effort for the best interests of the borough.

Of the other borough officials to be named on the slate, George F. Brown is the leading candidate for renomination as Tax Collector. Mr. Brown is now spending his vacation at Mt. Pocono, and Mayor Smalley telegraphed him today to return home so that he could sign his acceptance for renomination. This is in accordance with the primary law that the acceptances of candidates must be signed and filed ten days before primary day. Assessor Justus H. Cooley's term also expires, as does that of Freeholder John Emmons. Both are spoken of as candidates for renomination. Cooley is also mentioned for County Surrogate. Other vacancies to be filled when the party slate is made up include a justice of the peace and a constable.

"It's a wonder you newspapers wouldn't come and see a man before you put his name in the paper," said James K. Arnold, when asked whether he was after the Republican nomination for the mayor this year. "Why no, I'm not a candidate," he added.

Jeppe Sorensen's Funeral.

The funeral of Jeppe Sorensen, whose death occurred last Friday nigt, at Saranac Lake, was held at the home of his father, Christian Sorensen, of Webster place, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. A. S. Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. During the service two selections, "Abide With Me" and "Lead Kindly Light," were rendered by E. E. Runyon. The floral tributes were numerous and included several set pieces Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall-bearers being Charles M. Suhr, James Conway, James Erickson and Charles Kirchner.

Dirt Piles Troublesome.

The Daily Press has been requested by a West Front street resident to call the attention of the Public Service Corporation to four piles of earth left in the gutters of that thoroughfare between the Baptist church and Plainfield avenue. They were put there by Public Service workmen in setting new poles, the holes being filled with crushed stone. The dirt is directly in the way when vehicles meet a passing trolley and they are compelled to go over the top of them

Funeral of Infant Son.

The funeral of Everett Kennedy Sherwin, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Everett Sherwin, was held at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Sherwin, of Washington street, yesterday afternoon. Rev. George H. Whitney officiated and burial was in Hillside.

Frances Coffey.

Frances Coffey, the infant daughter of John and Mary Coffey, of West Front street, died yesterday. The funeral was held at the house this afternoon and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Edna Swain, of Craig place, is the guest of Miss Lavinia Hand at her summer home at Monticello, N. Y.

SAYS HIS JAW BONE WAS BROKEN BY KICK

ALLEGED KICKER DENIES CHARGE; ONLY USED FIST, HE SAYS.

On complaint of Patrick Joseph Martin, employed at the riding academy, Hugh Gormerly another attache of the academy, was arrested this morning by Chief Kiely, charged with assault.

Martin says Gormerly broke his jaw with a kick. The men quarreled yesterday afternoon, and started pounding one another. Martin says Gormerly knocked him down and kicked a fracture in his jawbone. Gormerly acknowleded fighting, but denies the kicking.

He said Martin's jaw was damaged by a blow from his fist, if any damae was done. Martin's jaw is fractured right enough. The injury was attended to by Dr. Hedges.

The police say that Gormerly's contention that Martin started the fight is borne out by their investigations so far. Gormerly was released by Judge Runyon a short time after his arrest, on his own recognizance. He will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

GOLDEN EAGLES HONOR HORACE J. MARTIN, SR.

DISTRICT NAMES HIM FOR STATE OFFICER—A SURPRISE SUPPER.

By unanimous vote, Horace J. Martin, Sr., was named last night as the choice of the lodges of this district for Grand Sir Herald of the Knights of the Golden Eagle. The vote was cast at a meeting of the Past Chiefs' Association held at the castle hall of Freedom Castle, No. 42.

The district comprises Orange, New Brunswick, Somerville and this city. Past chiefs of all the cities in the district attended the session to the number of twenty-nine. Mr. Martin's name will be presented at the meeting of the Grand Lodge, which opens at Trenton Labor Day. The district is enthusiastic in support of him, and his election is extremely probable. He is one of the most prominent members of the local castle, having been actively associated in its work since the first year of its organization.

The past chiefs met after the regular meeting. Following the session a "surprise" supper was served in the banquet hall. It was called a surprise because the good and welfare committee had given no hint of its nature beforehand, and none of the rank and file knew what to expect.

The supper proved to be a Heinz affair of delectable character. All the dishes were of the fifty-seven varieties. The menu included tomato soup, baked beans and boiled ham, sauces, preserves, coffee and cigars.

Mr. Martin and visiting past chiefs spoke. At the lodge meeting Whitney Frazee played a cornet solo.

The good and welfare committee, which had charge of the supper, is made up of John G. Bicknell, chairman; Joseph O. Randall, John Gaub, Whitney Frazee and Frank Neidig. Noble Chief Peter C. Bennett assisted them.

Miss Hooley's Horses Win Honors.

In the summaries of awards at the end of the horse show that closed on Monday after three days' successful exhibition at Narragansett Pier, Miss Mabel B. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, carried off a number of honors. In pairs of harness horses, her Quaker Maid and Dorothea won fourth place. Her Delight won third place in the class of ladies' saddle horses. In harness horses shown before a runabout, Miss Hooley's Free Quaker was assigned third place and in the class of harness horses to be shown before a lady's appropriate vehicle, lady driving, Miss Hooley's Quaker Maid came in for second honor and Dorothea third.

Disorderly Women Fined.

Charged with using the dressing room and the refreshment booth at Crescent Oval as a hangout, Maud Parsons, 26 years old, Mary Willis, same age, Edward Britton and Harry Molleson, were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the City Court this morning, as disorderly persons. They admitted the offense and Judge Runyon fined each of them $20 or forty days in jail.

Postponed Lawn Festival.

Martha Washington Council, D. of A., will hold a lawn festival at Fourth street and Stebbins place tonight, postponed from last night on account of rain.

—Lovers of fine Jersey peaches are reminded that the biggest assortment in the city is always to be found at Neuman Brothers. They will have an unusually large lot of Reeves' Favorite and Mountain Rose varieties tomorrow.

STATE CONVENTION DATE

New Jersey Democrats Postpone Gubernatorial Nomination Until Sept. 23.

STATE COMMITTEE ACTS

Change Due to Jewish Holiday—Convention Will Be Held at Trenton.

The executive committee of the Democratic State committee met at the summer home of Mayor Katzenbach, in Spring Lake, last night, and changed the date for the meeting of the State convention of the party from September 18 to 23. The change would have been made to an earlier date, it is said, but none is available. The primaries will be held September 10 and September 11 or 12. September 13 is a hoodoo. The fourteenth is on Saturday on which the Trenton opera house could not be secured, and Monday, September 16, the local conventions are to be held.

The reason assigned for the change is that September 18, the day fixed at the last meeting of the committee, is the Jewish feast of Yom Kippur, and many probable delegates would be unable to attend on that occasion. Tuesday, September 17, was the date for which Taylor's Opera House was first engaged, and the special committee in charge, of which City Counsel James R. Nugent, of Newark, is chairman, immediately arranged to change the date to September 18.

Since then it was learned that Yom Kippur observance actually begins at sunset on September 17 and continues until sunset on September 18, making the latter the more important day of the two so far as the duration of observance of the feast is concerned.

At first the committee did not feel inclined to make a further change in the date, but when informed that even the local United States civil service examiners had decided to abandon September 18, originally fixed for the examination of applicants for government positions, on account of the feast day, the committee decided to do likewise.

CASE THROWN OUT.

Judge Newcorn Directs Verdict In Lee's Suit Against P. S. C.

The only contested case in the District Court today was taken from the jury by Judge Newcorn, after counsel had battled for a verdict for over two hours. The action was instituted by William Lee, a Scotch Plains hotel keeper, against the Public Service Corporation for $300 damages.

Lee sued to recover for the loss of one horse and a deprecation in value of another that resulted from a smashup between a car and one of his wagons, about a year ago, in which the driver of the rig lost his life.

When S. S. Swackhamer, counsel for Lee, had presented his case, John A. Bernhard, of Elizabeth, lawyer for the company, moved for a nonsuit on the ground that the facts submitted were not sufficient to raise a question on the company's contention that there was no blame attacked to it. A precedent was submitted and Judge Newcorn granted the motion. Mr. Swackhamer took the usual exception.

Vagrant Sent to New Brunswick.

Bernhard Gabriel, who hales from Morristown, was found by Marshal Keller, of the borough police force, wandering about back yards at Park place and Grove street late last night. The officer gathered him in and he was arraigned before Mayor Smalley at the session of borough court this morning. He said he was a baker by trade and was on his way to New Brunswick, where he had a job waiting for him. His capital consisted of forty cents. The Mayor directed that he be put on a trolley car for New Brunswick. "And don't ever come to North Plainfield again," he said, as the prisoner was led away, "there are enough Angel Gabriels fluttering 'round here now."

Song Service at Netherwood.

A delegation from the societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church was at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, last night, where a song service was conducted in which the 300 children at the camp took part. There were recitation and songs by the camp children, after which candy was distributed by George E. Hall, who was in charge of the meeting. Arthur S. Mosher rendered several selections on the violin.

To Go On Davis Outing.

James E. Martine has accepted the invitation of the Robert Davis Association, of Hudson county, to attend its annual outing and games on September 4. The outing will be held at College Point. A big crowd is expected to be there.

RECOVERED STOLEN RIG

Police Looking for Michael Spillane Accused of Stealing It.

SALES AGENT BUNCOED

William Perrine's Hasty Shift From Spillane's Side and Its Result —The Rig Bought For $35.

A horse and wagon stolen from John Maloney, of Cranford, a peddler, was recovered yesterday in this city by Chief of Police Kiely. The police are looking for Michael Spillane, a whilom resident of Plainfield, who is accused of stealing the rig.

Spillane was in Maloney's employ. He was hired to peddle vegetables in this city, and made several trips over Malone's route here with the horse and wagon that was stolen. He took the rig out as usual Friday morning. He failed to return with it that night, and Maloney had a search for him instituted. Chief Kiely, who had been asked to look for him and the missing outfit, struck the trail yesterday. He found the horse and wagon in the possession of Nicholas Cody, of East Seventh street, who bought it, the police say, of Spillane on Friday night, paying $35. Cody made the purchase in good faith, the seller being vouched for by a neighbor.

Spillane, it is alleged, disposed of all the vegetables, pocketed the money and set out early Friday evening to find a purchaser for the rig. William Perrine, of Westfield, the police say, was asked by Spillane to help him find a buyer, $10 commission being promised. An unsuccessful effort was made to sell the rig in Scotch Plains, and then Perrine learned that Cody might be induced to buy.

Perrine says that after the sale was concluded he started with Spillane for Bound Brook on a trolley car. He asked about the $10 and Spillane said he'd get it right enough. A while after Spillane told Perrine that he had better move away from him. He said he had a lot of close companions with nippers all about him, and they might creep over onto Perrine. The latter moved hastily to the other end of the seat. Spillane seized the first chance after that to jump from the car and run off in the darkness.

Spillane's whereabouts at this juncture are unknown. Maloney got his horse and wagon back yesterday afternoon.

One feature of the case has disgusted Chief Kiely. A policeman saw the sale of the rig and it never struck him that the transaction might bear a little investigation.

BROKE HIS LEG.

Jeremiah TenEyck Fell Through Opening in Basement Floor.

While walking in the basement of J. F. MacDonald's residence on East Front street, shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, Jeremiah TenEyck, the South Plainfield coal dealer, fell through an opening in the floor and sustained a broken leg. He was taken upstairs to the office of Dr. Cornwall and the injured mem was set by Drs. Pittis and Endicott, Dr. Cornwall being away on his vacation. He was then removed by ambulance to his home in South Plainfield.

Mr. Ten Eyck was preparing to have his workmen place some coal in the MacDonald bins when the accident occurred. The light in the basement was poor and he failed to notice the opening as he was walking about. He was resting easily this afternoon and beyond the break is suffering from no other injury.

RIKER QUITS THE RACE.

Will Not Run For Governor in Jersey —Either Colby or Fort Now.

Chandler W. Riker, of Newark, called his political friends together yesterday and told them to cease all efforts to name him as the regular Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

All through the campaign so far Mr. Riker has steadfastly refused to declare himself a candidate. The Colby people seem to be stronger now with Riker out of the way, and Sheriff Frank Sommer of Essex, as their gubernatorial candidate, will probably be regarded as a much more formidable candidate than heretofore.

There were many here today, however, who said that no one could win the Republican nomination and be elected except Justice J. Franklin Fort or Senator Colby.

Attended Reception to Prince.

Miss Mildred Caleen, of Orchard place, who is visiting relatives in Providence, R. I., attended a reception tendered to Prince William, of Sweden, who is visiting this country as the representative of Sweden, by the Swedish churches of Providence, Monday night. Miss Caleen visited the Swedish warship on Sunday.

NEW IDEA MASS MEETNGS

Colby, Sommer, Runyon and Perkins to Address Plainfield Voters.

START THE CAMPAIGN

Perkins the Attraction at Reform Hall Friday Night and Colby Some Night Next Week.

Following up its attack on the regular county organization which appears to have selected C. B. Pierce as a candidate to succeed Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, whose third term expires this year, the New Idea people in the Fourth ward have invited the Republican leader of the lower house at Trenton, who seeks a renomination, to speak at Reform Hall under their auspices on Friday night. City Judge William N. Runyon, the New Idea candidate for re-election to his present office, will also deliver a pilitical sermonette.

Some night next week it is expected that State Senator Colby will address the local voters, on the invitation of the Central Committee of the Plainfield Republican League for Equal Taxation. That meeting also will be held in Reform Hall and among the other speakers promised are Sheriff Frank Sommer, of Newark, a candidate for governor, and Judge Runyon. These two meetings are the first of a series to be held here under the direction of the Colbyites who declare that they will sweep the city when their case is properly laid before the voters.

From the Perkins camp today came a story that the turn-down of the Westfielder as they call it, is the first step in an effort to capture Union county for United States Senator John Kean in 1911. The next step they say will be an effort of the Kean following to defeat State Senator E. R. Ackerman for re-election. The story is branded by the Kean people as being without the slightest foundation.

TRUELL HALL EVENTS.

Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyon, Brooklyn; D. H. Champlin, Chicago.

EXHUME CHILD'S BODY.

No Clue to Those Who Desecrated Little Girl's Grave.

Prosecutor Roger had the body of eight-year-old Margaret Kuhlwind disinterred at Bernardsville this morning, under County Physician William Long's direction, in order to determine the exact nature of the mutilations, and, if possible, to obtain some clue to those who desecrated the grave.

The Prosecutor has detectives at work, but they have not been able to learn anything of value.

F. B. Clark's Boat Wins Prize.

In a regatta held on Upper Chateugay Lake, New York, last week, the motor boat "Bene," belonging to Clerk Frank B. Clark, of the city Board of Education, and Hugh G. Baldwin, won second prize. The boat was awarded a set of silk colors for finishing second. The "Bene" is one of the speediest boats on the lake. Mr. Clark, with his wife, have been at the lake in the Adirondacks where Mr. Clark has a cottage, all summer. They will return to this city September 4.

Lawn Festival Postponed.

The lawn festival of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., which was to have been held last night, was postponed to this afternoon and evening, weather proving favorable. It will be at West Fourth street and Stebbins place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Matthews and family, of Somerset street, are spending a month at the Ocean House, Ocean Grove.

CHILDREN CAUGHT RAIDING BUTTFIELD FRUIT TREES

THREE CULPRITS PROMISE "NOT TO DO IT AGAIN."

Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police department, received a hurry-up telephone call this morning from the caretaker of W. J. Buttfield's premises on Rockview avenue to the effect that a crowd of small boys and girls was playing havoc with the fruit trees on the place. The informant declared appearances indicated that the trespassers had come prepared to take everything in sight and unless the police interfered there would be nothing left for Mr. Buttfield on his return home.

The chief swooped down on the youngsters and caught Joseph Miner, of Prescott place; Annie Reenan, of South Second street, and Elsie Green, of Pond place. They were taken to police headquarters, amid pleadings and tears, and were arraigned before Mayor Smalley. They "crossed their hearts" they'd never steal fruit again and the official finally let them go after a severe lecturing.

Residents throughout the West End section of the borough have been bothered in a similar way and Chief Weiss stated after the three culprits were released that he would take steps to put an end to the trouble.

GUBERNATORIAL FIGHT AS SEEN IN TRENTON

ESSEX WOULD DIVIDE DELEGATES TWIXT FORT AND SOMMER.

There was every evidence about the State house at Trenton yesterday that the campaign for the Gubernatorial nomination is on in earnest. It was almost the sole topic of political discussion among the Governor's visitors, who included Sheriff Frank H. Summer, of Essex county; Senator Bradley, of Camden; former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, of Union; Chairman Alfred N. Dalrymple, of the Essex County Republican Committee; Robert Carey, of Hudson; Supreme Court Clerk William Riker, Chancery Clerk Vivian M. Lewis, Quartermaster-General Murray, and a score of lesser political leaders, who gave the corridors the appearance of an old-time Governors' day.

Sheriff Sommer had a brief talk with the Governor, assuring him that he was in the fight for the nomination to stay, and had not even the first thought of retiring.

Chairman Dalrymple told everybody that Essex County would divide its delegates between Justice Fort and Sheriff Sommer, and predicted that Fort would win out handily in the end. This view was apparently shared by Mr. Carey, who told the Governor that the situation in Hudson was clarifying, and looked better for the Republicans than it had for some time.

This would have been good news for the Republican managers had it been confirmed, but unfortunately they could not view the subject in just that light.

The name of Gilbert Collins was spoken of more prominently in connection with the nomination than it ever has been here, and a considerable undercurrent of sentiment seemed to prevail for him.

Plainfielders at Asbury.

Among the Plainfielders registered at the various hotels and cottages of Asbury Park and Ocean Grove this week are Mr. and Mrs. Morris C. Van Arsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong Mulford, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. E. Vanherhoef, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gow, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Van Winkle and son, John, Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, Miss Bertha Wilcox, Harry McDonald and John Naylor.

In a game Monday, Taylor hit the ball safely four times, one of the swats being good for a circle of the bags.

Funeral of Miss Pasch.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth Pasch, whose death occurred at the home of her parents on Harrison avenue, was held at the residence this afternoon. Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, was the officiating clergyman and burial was in the family plot in the Methodist cemetery.

John Deves Entertains.

John Dever, of 513 West Sixth street, entertained a number of his friends last evening. A very pleasant time was spent in dancing and music.

"MARATHON" WEISS WINS

Chief of Borough Police Captures His Man After a Chase to Smalley's Quarry.

HIS WEARING RACE

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough police force, showed that he was no "molly-coddle" on his job, when he pursued Henry Swody, an athletic young boroughite for a racking mile and more across field and brook till he finally overtook him at Smalley's stone crusher, where he passed out a warrant for his arrest as Swody lay panting on the ground. The chase, which took place early this morning, was the result of an attempt made by Chief Weiss to arrest Swody on warrant issued through Justice of the Peace Snape's court. William Jeroloman, of the borough, has brought action in tort against the man for $40 damages.

The action arises because of an unpaid bill at a local garage for damages to Jeroloman's automobile which Swody borrowed for a spin to Bound Brook with his brother some weeks ago. Swody had an accident near Bound Brook and broke the springs and the motor. He telephoned a garage in this city and had the machine towed in and repaired. Then came the hitch about the bill. When Jeroloman came to see about collection, Swody claimed he had no money. The auto owner waited a while, but finally issued a warrant against Swody.

The chase started at Park place and Rockview avenue, when the Chief first caught sight of his man. Swody recognized the officer and surmising that he was wanted, started off on a run. The Chief, abandoning his wheel, immediately started in pursuit. Pursued by the officer, Swody ran at top speed to his home, on Greenbrook road, near Grove street. He dashed in the back door and out again at the front, closing doors in the Chief's face so as to gain time. Once on the street again, he started at top speed for a distance run toward the mountain.

The Chief lost time in the house, and when he finally emerged from the front door, his man was some three blocks to the good, and streaking along like a Longboat. Despite the fact that he was encumbered by the weight of his official badge, the Chief started to do the Marathon act, and the two ran through meadows, vaulted fences and dashed through streams in a wild chase toward the mountain. Swody lost ground all the time, after the Chief got his third gear on the everything running free. The capture was made near Smalley's stone quarry, where Swody, "all in" after the long run, gave himself up.

They panted their way to the borough lock-up together, making the return trip more slowly. Once installed in a steel cell, Swody complimented the Chief on his running. "I ain't no runner," he said, "I kept stumbling all the time. You're a good one, Chief, and you deserved to get me."

And the Chief replied, with a modest shrug: "Well, I used to be considered a pretty good runner when I was a kid."

Swody will be turned over to Sheriff Cooper this afternoon, and one of the borough cops will take him to Somerville for that officer this afternoon. His term will probably be fifty days.

A Lighting Improvement.

The lights recently put in place on Park avenue from Avon Park to Rev. J. T. Lansdale's residence at the South Plainfield road, were turned on for the first time last night. Tonight the remainder of the new lights put up from Avon Park to the Plainfield line will be in use, making a continuous illumination from this city to beyond Metuchen. The improvement was brought about through the complaints of automobilists and drivers who found the darkness a menace to traffic.

Borough Council Meets September 6.

The North Plainfield Common Council will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday evening, September 6. All bills against the borough must be in the hands of Borough Clerk Frank Rowley by Friday night.

Fireman Resigns.

Felix Chargois, a recently appointed firemen, tendered his resignation to Chief Doane this morning. He found the twenty-four hour stretch too much for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Huff, of Codington avenue, are entertaining friends from Philadelphia.

Negroes Punished for Rioting.

Somerville, Aug. 28.—Six negroes, who started a race riot here a week ago, which was quickly suppressed by the police, were tried before Justice Sutphen Monday night in the Somerset County courthouse and sentenced to twenty days each in the county jail. The prisoners are Samuel Lane, Calvin Sharp, Wilford Dorman, Zach Vandervoort, Douglas Hayes and Van Jackson. The negroes attempted to mob a number of Italian musicians connected with Frank A. Robbins' circus, while they were walking on the street with Miss Caroline Hall, a mulatto widow of this place.

Diamonds.

The diamond, notwithstanding the fact that it is the hardest substance known, is exceedingly brittle and therefore easily broken. Diamonds are not "cut" in the truse sense of the word. They are first cleft along the line of cleavage and then "cut" by rubbing two diamonds together—"diamond cut diamond"—until they are of the desired form.

Ancient Astronomers.

The first astronomical observatory was established at Alexandria 300 years B. C.

BEAUING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Plainfield People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Plainfield residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. 'Tis emphatic and convincing. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. David Arthur, of 111 Grandview avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used for several years in our family with the best of results. My husband, my two daughters and myself, each having had occasion to use the remedy have found in it just the relief we sought from the backaches and headaches that come from kidney troubles. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to several people, and shall continue to do so."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of Feb. 23, 1871:

"One of the most useful inventions that has ever been received in the Patent Office is for an improved Dumping Cart recently invented by William and Henry Hand, brickmakers, of this city. These gents, being practical mechanics and seeing much need of an improved cart after losing much time in removing dump sticks and tail-boards and very nearly losing a valuable horse (that ran away while the driver was replacing the tail-board after dumping a load of clay) set to work and succeeded in making a dump cart that could be dumped by a singlemotion of the hand without dropping the reins and when the load is dumped the motion of the horse brings the cart to its proper position, hooks it down and puts the tail-board in place at once, without any help from the driver whatever. These carts were found to be so light and handy, at the same time so cheap and easily made, that they have applied for a patent and have fitted up a large shop in connection with their brick works expressly for the manufacture of them."

"Church of the Holy Cross, Washington avenue. This church was well filled on Sunday afternoon last on the occasion of the Bishop's first visitation to the parish. The Rev. Mr. Embury opened the services, taking to the Creed, the Rev. Mr. Goldsborough concluding with the prayers. After the singing of the Psalm, the Bishop preached a very able and eloquent sermon from Ephesians, V Chap., 1st verse—"Be ye therefore followers of God as dear children, and walk in Love.' After a short exegesis of the text, he suggested the question—"How can we be followers of God?' In the unfolding of his subject he proceeded to show that the dignity of man's nature and his capability of reaching divine excellence, did not consist in his intellectual power as exhibited in scientific achievements, nor in hpysical power as displayed in the grandeur of material structures, but in his spiritual faculties, which enable him to rise to the highest point of excellence and the utmost dignity of his nature in the acquisition of divine love, ending with an exhortation to strive to attain all Christian graces and virtues in imitating the example of our blessed Saviour, Christ. After the singing of the hymn, the candidates for Confirmation were presented. At the close of the administration of the Holy Rite, the Bishop addressed the Confirmed in a very impressive manner. He also expressed great pleasure in being present on that occasion in this new and beautiful church; so beautiful and churchly in all its arrangements and not surpassed in these respects by any in the State. He was happy in his remarks upon the good work so auspiciously begun, and did not fail to express his feeling of gratification and prospects of this new Parish. The music was excellent and in good taste, though no unusual preparations had been made. The organ is a very fine one, the gift of a member of the Church."

"The Fire Department having recently purchased 500 feet of new leather hose, the same was tested by 'No. 2' last week and we believe the test was satisfactory, the hose standing sufficient pressure."

"The top of the eastern side of the City Hotel is now adorned with a handsome sign, made of lattice work, in the center of which are the words 'City Hotel' in large gilt letters. In the centre of the building has been erected a handsome flag staff from which the Stars and Stripes were thrown to the breeze on Washington's Birthday."

"Our contemporary exhibited a rare bit of enterprise by publishing an account of the Twelfth Annual Supper of 'Gazelle' Engine Co., No. 1,' some hours before the affair came off, thereby creating much amusement among the participants of the same, and also evincing his determination to be ahead in local matters. Our account of the Supper will be found in another column."

MORRIS PLAINS NEXT.

Hahn Probers Will Turn Guns on Dr. Evans Shortly.

Having struck such a gold mine of mismanagement and inefficiency at the State Hospital for the Insane, members of the Assembly Investigating Committee have resolved to investigate also the affairs of the Morris Plains Asylum as soon as they get through at the Rahway Reformatory, now under fire.

Dr. Britton Evans, famous as an expert alienist in the Thaw trial, is the superintendent of the Morris Plains Asylum, and it is expected that the committee will endeavor to find out by what right he absented himself from his post for days at a time to attend the Thaw trial while the State continued to pay his salary.

ATTACKING THE COMMUTER.

Less than three years ago, just before Mr. Buckle was elected mayor, the Courier-News raved because a news dispatch made some reference to an alleged sentiment for a townsman in preference to a commuter for that office. It denounced the statement as false and damaging and defended the commuter at great length.

On Monday the Courier-News recanted in an editorial attack on Hamilton F. Kean, making this disparaging reference to the candidacy of Carlton B. Pierce:

"We know little about Mr. Pierce so far beyond the fact that, according to Mr. Smith, his interests are all centered in New York. Therefore the question naturally arises as to just what claim he has upon the State, beyond the fact that he first saw the light of day within its confines and here procured his education."

Mr. Pierce will have to plead guilty if he is going to be charged with the terrible offense of being a commuter, but the assertion of the Courier-News is a gross misrepresentation of facts. True it is that the Cranford man earns his livelihood in New York, but surely no one will find fault with him on that score so long as he spends his earnings in Union county, New Jersey. He is in the same class, in this respect, with our honored mayor, Mr. Fisk, and with such other excellent officials as Councilmen Daniel, Mellick and Tyler. Would the Courier-News dare to condemn them on the same ground?

Another gross misrepresentation is the fling it makes that the candidate "sleeps in Cranford." Mr. Pierce not only sleeps there but is seldom absent except when attending to business in New York. What is more, he is a property-owner in Cranford and is a desirable resident in every sense of the word. On the other hand, Mr. Perkins has made his actual residence in Bergen county for a long time. His house in Westfield has been leased to another party and he, himself, retains his legal residence in Union county by hiring a suite of rooms in the town in question. We have no fault to find with Mr. Perkins for this, because he finds it more convenient to live nearer his place of business. But surely he is not on as good a footing at the present time as Mr. Pierce. Another thing: Mr. Pierce is in no sense a carpet-bagger. He has been a resident of Cranford for twenty-three consecutive years and it is not expected that he will remove to any other quarter of the State if elected to the Assembly.

If Mr. Pierce is to be defeated, on this ground, what is going to happen to Plainfield. From time immemorial this city has had the good fortune of obtaining the invaluable services of countless commuters. Look over the list of office-holders and then recall their records. The commuter-candidate is a precious article; so precious that it will be a sorry day for Plainfield at least when he is banished from the lists. Is the war to be begun by thus assailing Mr. Pierce, whom Judge Runyon has declared in a political meeting "a good and able man?"

The assertion of the Plainfield Courier-News, that the candidate for the Assembly who has been put forward by the Republican executive committee at Cranford is the candidate of Mr. Kean has been found to be a deliberate misrepresentation. Mr. Kean, when asked today about the candidacy, said:

"I do not know Mr. Pierce. I have never seen him even, or had any communication with him. Until he was put forward by the Republican executive committee at Cranford I had not heard of him. He is in no sense my candidate. Anyone, in fact, who is satisfactory to the people of the district is satisfactory to me.

"The truth of the matter is that the candidacy of Mr. Pierce was suggested by the chairman of the Republican executive committee at Cranford, and when it was found that a strong man had been found the other members of the committee decided to urge the candidacy of the Cranford man.—Elizabeth Journal.

JOHN I. BLAIR REILEY, COUNSEL

Wants Warren Prosecutor to Serve in Hudson Inquisition.

Following a conference at Trenton yesterday between Governor Stokes, Chairman Bradley of the Senate Investigating Committee and Prosecutor John I. Blair, of Warren county, it was announced that Mr. Reiley had been asked to act as counsel for the committee. He will probably accept. He will give his final decision tomorrow.

Senator Bradley said that the committee had decided to devote its first sessions to investigating the charges which have been made against the Board of Freeholders of Hudson county, which is alleged to have been guilty of grossmismanagement and extravagance in handling the affairs of the county.

Nelson Morris Dead.

Nelson Morris, the dean of the packing industry in Chicago, died yesterday at his home, No. 2453 Indiana avenue, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Morris had been in a precarious condition for more than a week from heart disease, complicated with other troubles, but seemed so much better yesterday as to lend hopes for his recovery. Monday night, however, he suffered a relapse, and sank rapidly, death coming at 7.40 yesterday morning.

NORTH BRANCH MAN SHOT BY ANGRY SON

NOW DYING IN HOSPITAL FROM WOUND IN ABDOMEN.

Somerville, Aug. 28.—John C. Stryker, a wealthy farmer, aged sixty years, is dying in the Somerville Hospital here as the result of being shot in the abdomen by his son, Richard, Monday night at his home, near North Branch.

There was a quarrel between the father and son over money matters. The father was a prosperous farmer, highly esteemed in the community, and had a number of sons who helped him on the farm.

Richard was regarded as the black sheep of the family, and left home some years ago and lived in the West. He returned a year ago and was welcomed by his family.

Instead of helping his father on the farm he spent much of his time after his return at the village hotel, and his dissipated habits, it is claimed, were the cause of much remonstrance on the part of his aged father.

Monday night young Stryker came home intoxicated and demanded money from his father. The old man, who had given the son $25 only a few days before, quietly told him he would give him no more.

Richard, it is claimed, became enraged and cursed his father, who submitted to the abuse, and his son departed. Later in the evening the young man walked up to the old man without saying a word, it is charged, and placing a revolver against his abdomen, fired.

The bullet entered Stryker's body and he grabbed his son by the wrist and attempted to wrest the revolver from him. The pair struggled about the room until the old man became exhausted and dropped to the floor. Then the son ran out of the house and disappeared in the dark.

Stryker's family failed to inform the authorities of the shooting until yesterday morning. Young Stryker is still at large, and Prosecutor Reger's men are making every effort to capture him.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The costumes in "The Red Mill," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, are considered the prettiest that have adorned the comic opera stage in many seasons. The designs having been prepared by Wilhelm of Paris and executed by New York's best costumers.

That Ambassador of German dialect, golden voiced singer, Al. H. (Metz) Wilson, will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, in a new play of picturesque Switzerland, "Metz in the Alps." This new play of Wilson's is from the pen of Sidney R. Ellis, who is the author of many successful plays, and who provided Mr. Wilson with "The Prince of Tatters," "The Watch on the Rhine," and "The German Gipsy"—three plays that assisted greatly in securing for Mr. Wilson the title of "the most clever of all German comedians." Mr. Ellis has placed the locale of "Metz in the Alps" in Southern Switzerland and the Swiss Alps, and the scenes of the play depict some of the grandest scenery in that far famed country of snow and ice. Al. H. or rather "Metz," as he is better known to the public, has rapidly forged to the front, as an actor of delightful German methods, and is now considered pre-eminent in his line. He has a rich, high baritone voice that for purity and sweetness is unexcelled. During the action of the play he will render the following beautiful songs and yodels: "Fairest Flower of All," "Wilson's Lullaby," "Songs of Old Fatherland" and "Snitzlebank."

Al. H. Wilson, Who Appears at the New Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Night.

Coming to the New Plainfield theatre Friday night is popular Tom Waters, now at the head of a big company in a merry three act musical farce entitled "The Mayor of Laughland." The comedian's tour is being directed by Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman, who have equipped the organization in lavish style, and whose reputation for first class entertainment is a sufficient guarantee in this case that "Laughland" is all that is claimed for it. The numerous musical numbers written by Mr. Waters h imself are said to be a strong feature of the show.

Bubbling over with the spirit of youth, "Brown of Harvard" with Henry Woodruff in the stellar role, and with a supporting cast of over thirty people, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday, matinee and night. This play of college life which more than duplicated the success of the "College Widow" and "Strongheart" will be seen here with the same star, cast and production that appeared at the Princess theatre in New York and at the Garrick theatre in Chicago for over three hundred nights. The offering bears the Henry Miller trademark which should be proof enough that everything concerned is first class and worthy of unqualified praise.

To Visit Water Pound Site.

The New Jersey Water Supply Commission, of which ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees is chairman, arranged to meet with the State Flood Commission and the State Geologist for the purpose of considering the plans proposed for the construction of a vast lake in the northern section of the State to impound waters in time of freshets. The commission will visit the various North Jersey watersheds for the purpose of ascertaining what are the conditions.

FAMOUS BRIDGES.

The Zambesi bridge in Africa is 450 feet in height.

The famous Niagara suspension bridge was begun in 1852 and completed in 1855. It is 245 feet above the water and 821 feet long.

The highest bridge in the world, the trolley bridge across the famous Rayol gorge in Colorado, is 2,627 feet, half a mile, above the river below.

The Fourth bridge, over the Firth of Forth, near Edinburgh, has two cantalever spans, each 1,710 feet in length, the longest in the world. The total length of this structure is ane and four-sevenths miles.

One of the most peculiar bridges in the world is the tubular suspension bridge across Menai strait. This bridge consists of two lines of immense tubing, each 1,500 feet long, supported by three granite towers, besides the shore abutments. This strange bridge is 100 feet above the sea and weighs 11,000 tons.

The steel bridge the Portland and Seattle railroad is building across the Columbia at Vancouver will be a mile and a half long, the longest steelbridge in the world. It will be finished next January. Twenty thousand tons of steel will be used in it, not including the weight of the double track. The drawbridge is 464 feet long.

SPORTING NOTES.

There is an own sister to Sonoma Girl in Indianapolis, and they say she can trot in 2:10 very handily.

They say that Glenwood M., 2:7¼, will not stand the preparation for his race in Austria and has been retired to the stud.

In three months' time, Bill Squires says, he will try to redeem himself in the ring, so the promoters have stopped considering him for the present.

Pitcher Waldon Henley farmed out by the Brooklyn club to the Rochester team, holds the strike out record in the Eastern league so far this season. He fanned twelve men in a recent game.

The fastest four-year-old colt so far this year is Boro Jolly, 2:15¼, by Boreal, 2:15¾. The fastest five-year-old is Athasham, 2:13, by Athadon, 2:28. The fastest new performer is Jaquar, 2:12½, by Highwood, 2:21½.

It is reported that Mayor Busse of Chicago has decided to allow boxing in that city next fall. Permits will be granted to the Illinois A. A., the Chicago A. A., the Wabash A. C. and two other lubs yet to be named. The bouts are limited to six rounds, and there must be no clashing of dates.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

The Rev. Mendola de Sola has just completed twenty-five years of service as minister of the Spanish and Portugese synagogue of Montreal.

Rev. Casper Brunner, who in 1868 organized the German Reformed church of Bridgeport, Conn., is still its pastor and one of the oldest in the State in point of service.

Rev. Joseph A. Johnson, pastor of the Abyssinian church, who is the only minister in Portland, Maine, with a union card, works as a painter during the week and preaches on Sunday

It strikes Americans as odd to learn that the sermons of Phillips Brooks, which have lately been translated into German, are pronounced "too high" for the German church-going public.

A sign of the times in England is a movement for a stricter Sabbath, which has the support of the archbishop of Canterbury, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Westminster and the Rev. John S. Lidgett, representing the nonconformist churches.

COMMERCIAL PROVERBS.

The earning power of a dollar depends on the brains of the man back of it.

Feed your mind. The fellow who feeds his body only keeps on shoveling coal.

The greatest combination in the world is ability, ambition and initiative, seasoned with honesty.

A thousand men do a thing so-so and exist only to one who does it well and commands his own price.

When a lily stops growing, its beauty begins to fade, and when a man quits studying his brain begins to shrivel.

If you want to succeed, either work at the thing in which you are interested or cultivate an interest in the thing at which you work.—Cent Per Cent.

Shark Livers.

The livers of sharks produce a splendid clear oil that is very valuable and in great demand for the lubrication of the works of watches, clocks and of fine guns. The oil is held in almost as great estimation as is the oil obtained from the porpoise and dogfish liver, generally conceded to be the finest oil there is.

Grewsome Cards.

In Peking, China, so runneth the tale, a mandarin of wealth and taste presented a luminary of the stage with a pack of cards made of human skin 400 years old and originally captured from a pirate of the most blood curdling sort.

Devils in Petticoats.

The Russians are reported to have said when they first saw the highland regiments, "We thought we had come to fight with men, but find devils in petticoats."

LAWYERS THEN AND NOW.

Old-Timers Had Little Difficulty In Entering Profession.

The young man who wants to be a lawyer nowadays has a much harder road to travel than he who wished to adopt the honorable profession in days gone by. As a rule, he has to take a several years' course in one of the law schools of the state, then pass the state bar examination, which is not planned to fill the profession with blockheads. "Formerly," said Mr. John P. Poe, now the oldest instructor—in point of service—at the University of Maryland Law School, and former attorney general, "all a young man had to do was to read law in some lawyer's office. Then he went before the examining committee, which asked him a few questions, after he had been vouched for by the lawyer under whose guidance his 'studies' had been pursued. These questions, as a rule, were kept in the pigeonhole of the judge's desk, and if the aspirant for professional honors was very ambitious he could go and see them beforehand and prepare himself for them. When my father went up for examination he was asked two questions, 'How many volumes is Blackstone bound in?' which he answered satisfactorily, and 'Can you tell the difference between whisky and brandy?' He professed ability to discriminate and was passed. The men who became great lawyers in those days did so because they were naturally lawyers, not because of the training they received."

OBEYING THE NEW ORDERS.

Conductor Tried to Soften the Blow to the Poor Senator.

Shortly after the railway companies abolished the pass privilege a certain United States senator who had held his office many years and had carried a pass all that time boarded a train for Washington. He had forgotten to provide himself with the necessary ticket. Presently the conductor came along. He was one of the oldest men on the line, and the senator, who had made many a trip with him before, cordially extended his hand. "How are you, Gregory?" he said. "First rate, senator," answered the conductor. "Glad to see you looking so well." "Thank you, Greg. But why are you offering me your left hand?" "Because I don't want my left hand to know what my right hand is doing." "What is your right hand doing?" "It's reaching for your fare, senator," said the conductor, with a grim smile. —Youth's Companion.

French Working Women.

Of the 37,730,000 population of France, statistics record a working population of 19,750,075, of whom 6,805,510 are women and girls. The number engaged in agricultural pursuits is 8,176,569, of whom 2,658,952 are women. Of the 1,882,620 people engaged in commerce, 689,999 are women, and of the 1,015,039 people employed in domestic pursuits 791,176 are females. Those engaged in industrial pursuits furnish employment to 5,819,855 people, of whom 2,124,642 are women. The percentage of females employed in four branches of labor is: Agriculture, 28; commerce, 35; domestic pursuits, 77, and learned professions, 33.

O'Donagan's Tact.

A story Earl Stirling, of the Players' company, repeats frequently is of an Irishman who prided himself upon his delicacy and tact. One day when a boy was killed in the quarry where the Irishman worked, he told the men to leave everything in his hands; he would break the news to the boy's mother as it should be done. He went home, put on a black suit and tie, and started for the mother's shanty. "Good mornin', ma'am," he said. "'Tis the sad accident yer boy's gold watch has met wid." "Why," said the mother, "Tom never had a gold watch." "Sure, an' that's lucky," said the diplomat, "fur twinty tons uv rock just fell on him."

Charcoal an Antidote.

Japanese physicians declare it is impossible for internal poisoning to occur if powdered charcoal be swallowed as soon as the gastro-intestinal disturbance is felt. French physicians have tested the power of charcoal, and proved that it is the most active of all known antidotes. The charcoal must be taken as soon as the poison taken begins to show its effect, and the doses must be large. Charcoal is in no way injurious, and as much as a soupspoonful may be taken in divided doses mixed in water.

Glued Clothes.

"In Korea," said a tailor, "needle and thread are unknown to tailoring. Their place is taken by glue." "Glue?" "Glue. A peculiarly fine, strong glue made of fish. Making Korean clothes the tailor does not bring two edges of cloth together and then slowly and painfully unite them with fine stitches of the needle. No; he overlaps the edges slightly, brushes on a little glue, presses the seam together and sets the garment away to dry. I wore glued clothes in Korea and found that they lasted almost as well as sewed ones."

The Real Grip.

Pat had been very ill all winter. An old friend meeting him on the street one day asked what had been the matter with him. "I've had the grip," answered Pat in a weak voice. "The grip? Begorry, and phwat's that?" asked his friend. "It's a disease that makes you sick six months after you've got well," explained Pat.

TIMBER HAS MANY USES.

Value of Standing Wood That Has Been Through Flames.

The traveler who has wondered why some use is not made of the timber that has been fire-killed all over the country will be interested to learn that the United States forest service at the University of Washington, Seattle, has discovered a means of utilizing this timber, which in the past has largely gone to waste. In testing fire-killed timber—that is, timber which had its bark destroyed by a fire not severe enough to entirely consume the tree, and which left it standing—it was found to be thoroughly sound and, to all intents and purposes, thoroughly seasoned lumber. It was determined that if such lumber is cut within the first year after it is injured it can be used for any purpose for which the original wood is satisfactory, but if allowed to stand the timber checks so badly that it cannot be worked up to advantage. It has also been disclosed by investigations undertaken that good railroad ties have been made from timber that in some instances was killed 50 years ago.—Philadelphia Record.

THE BANDAGE SLIPPED OF.

Thereby Exposing a Ruse to Save the Family Pride.

A Kansas City professional man, who is prominently identified with Missouri politics, tells the following story on himself: "My folks moved from Indiana to Johnson county, Missouri, when I was six years of age. We settled on a farm near Holden. The first Sunday we were there, and while the family was preparing for Sunday school, it was discovered that I did not have any shoes. My mother, realizing that 'folks would talk' if one of her children made his first public appearance barefooted, suggested that I have a cloth tied around one foot to create the impression that I was unable to wear shoes because of a sore foot. So the rag was tied on me. Everything went along smoothly and I learned all about what's-his-name's bears eating the bad children up, when I heard a snicker from a boy I afterwards licked. He was pointing to my right foot. I glanced downward. The rag had slipped off and my mother's ruse was exposed."

Out of Work.

One of the senators from Georgia tells of a darky in that state who sought work at the hands of a white man. The latter inquired whether the negro had a boat. Upon being answered in the affirmative, he said: "You see that driftwood down the stream?" "Yassah." "Then," continued the other, "row out into the river and catch it. I'll give you half of what you bring in." The darky immediately proceeded to do as instructed and for awhile worked hard. Then, of a sudden, he ceased to labor and pulled for the shore. "What's the trouble?" asked the employer. "Look hyar, boss," said the darky indignantly, "dat wood is jes' as much mine as yours. I ain't gwine to give yo' any. So I'se outer work again!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Rebel Yell.

To know truly what the "rebel yell" was, one must have heard it with the din and the roar of the rifles and the thunder of the artillery; with the shrieks of the wounded and the groans of the dying; must have seen mother earth being discolored with the rich blood of valorous men. "When Greeks joined Greeks, then was the tug of war;" when Americans met Americans it was then the "rebel yell" was given birth. It was a thing to inspire brave men to action, to give resolution strength, to the coward it was a consuming terror. The man who could stand unbalanced in the face of the real "rebel yell" in the days of its strength may justly lay claim to a courage that knows no faltering.—Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal and Tribune.

A Lively Squirrel.

An old negro who lives in the country came into town and saw an electric fan for the first time in his life. The whirling object at once attracted his attention, and, after intently gazing at it for several minutes, showing all the while the greatest astonishment and curiosity, he turned to the proprietor of the shop and said: "Say, boss, dat suttenly is a lively squirrel you got in dis yeah cage. But he's shorely goin' to bus' his heart ef he keep on makin' dem resolutions so fas'."—Harper's.

Be Kind.

"The greatest thing," says some one, "a man can do for his Heavenly Father is to be kind to some of His other children." I wonder how it is that we are not all kinder than we are. How much the world needs it! How easily it is done! How instantaneously it acts! How infallibly it is remembered! How superabundantly it pays itself back—for there is no debtor in the world so honorable, so superbly honorable, as love.—Henry Drummond.

On the Wrong Track.

A ticket-collector on a Scotch railway got leave to go and get married, and was given a pass over the line. On the way back he showed to the new collector his marriage certificate by mistake for his pass. He studied it carefully, and then said: "Eh, mon, you've got a ticket for a lang, wearisome journey, but no' on the Caledonian."

CHAPTER I.

Hampton, of Placer.

It was not an uncommon tragedy of the west. If slightest chronicle of it survive, it must be discovered among the musty and nearly forgotten records of the Eighteenth regiment of infantry.

Yet the tale is worth telling now, when such days are past and gone. There were 16 of them when, like so many hunted rabbits, they were first securely trapped among the frowning rocks, and forced relentlessly backward from off the narrow trail until the precipitous canyon walls finally halted their disorganized flight, and from sheer necessity compelled a rally in hopeless battle. Sixteen,—ten infantrymen from old Fort Bethune, under command of Syd. Wyman, a gray-headed sergeant of 30 years' continuous service in the regulars, two cowpunchers from the "XL" ranch, a stranger who had joined them uninvited at the ford over the Bear Water, together with old Gillis, the post-trader, and his silent chit of a girl.

Sixteen—but that was three days before, and in the meanwhile not a few of those speeding Sioux bullets had found softer billet than the limestone rocks. Six of the soldiers, four already dead, two dying, lay outstretched in ghastly silence where they fell.

Then the taciturn Gillis gave sudden utterance to a sobbing cry, and a burst of red spurted across his white beard as he reeled backward, knocking the girl prostrate when he fell. Eight remained, one helpless, one a mere lass of 15. It was the morning of the third day.

The beginning of the affair had burst upon them so suddenly that no two in that stricken company would have told the same tale. None among them had anticipated trouble.

In all the fancied security of unquestioned peace these chance travelers had slowly toiled along the steep trail leading toward the foothills. Gillis and the girl, as well as the two cattleherders, were on horseback; the remainder soberly trudged forward on foot, with guns slung to their shoulders. Wyman was somewhat in advance, walking beside the stranger, the latter a man of uncertain age, smoothly shaven, quietly dressed in garments bespeaking an eastern tailor, a bit grizzled of hair along the temples, and possessing a pair of cool, gray eyes. He had introduced himself by the name of Hampton, but had volunteered no further information, nor was it customary in that country to question impertinently.

Hampton, through the medium of easy conversation, early discovered in the sergeant an intelligent mind, possessing some knowledge of literature. They had been discussing books with rare enthusiasm, and the former had drawn from the concealment of an inner pocket a diminutive copy of "The Merchant of Venice," from which he was reading aloud a disputed passage, when the faint trail they followed suddenly dipped into the yawning mouth of a black canyon. It was a narrow, gloomy, contracted gorge, a mere gash between those towering hills shadowing its depths on either hand. A swift mountain stream, noisy and clear as crystal, dashed from rock to rock close beside the more northern wall, while the ill-defined pathway, strewn with bowlders and guarded by underbrush, clung to the opposite side, where low scrub trees partially obscured the view.

All was silent as death when they entered, yet they had barely advanced a short hundred paces when those apparently bare rocks in front flamed red, the narrow defile echoed to wild screeches and became instantly crowded with weird, leaping figures. It was like a plunge from heaven into hell. Blaine and Endicott sank at the first fire, while Wyman's stricken arm dripped blood. Indeed, under that sudden shock, he fell, and was barely rescued by the prompt action of the man beside him. Dropping the opened book, and firing madly to left and right with a revolver which appeared to spring into his hand as by magic, the latter coolly dragged the fainting soldier across the more exposed space, until the two found partial security among a mass of loosened rocks littering the base of the precipice. The others who survived that first scorching discharge also raced toward this same shelter, impelled thereto by the unerring instinct of border fighting, and flinging themselves flat behind protecting bowlders, began responding to the hot fire rained upon them.

Scattered and hurried as these first volleys were, they proved sufficient to check the howling demons in the open. It has never been Indian nature to face unprotected the aim of the white men, and those dark figures, which only a moment before thronged the narrow gorge, leaping crazily in the riot of apparent victory, suddenly melted from sight, slinking down into leafy coverts beside the stream or into holes among the rocks, like so many vanishing prairie dogs. Now and then a sinewy [illegible] like lightning ly project across the gleaming surface of a rock, or a mop of coarse, black hair appear above the edge of a gully, either incident resulting in a quick interchange of fire. That was all; yet the experienced frontiersmen knew that eyes as keen as those of any wild animal of the jungle were watching murderously their slightest movement.

Wyman, now reclining in agony against the base of the overhanging cliff, directed the movements of his little command calmly and with sober military judgment. Little by little, under protection of the rifles of the three civilians, the uninjured infantrymen crept cautiously about, rolling loosened bowlders forward into position, until they finally succeeded in thus erecting a rude barricade between them and the enemy. The wounded who could be reached were laboriously drawn back within this improvised shelter, and when the black shadows of the night finally shut down, all remaining alive were once more clustered together, the injured lying moaning and ghastly beneath the overhanging shelf of rock, and the girl, who possessed all the patient stoicism of frontier training, resting in silence, her widely opened eyes on those far-off stars peeping above the brink of the chasm, her head pillowed on old Gillis' knee.

lines of savage watchers. A long, wailing cry of agony from out the thick darkness told the fate of their first messenger, while Casey, of the "XL," crept slowly, painfully back, with an Indian bullet embedded deep in his shoulder. Just before the coming of dawn, Hampton, without uttering a word, calmly turned up the collar of his tightly buttoned coat, so as better to conceal the white collar he wore, gripped his revolver between his teeth, and crept like some wriggling snake among the black rocks and through the dense underbrush in search after water. By some miracle of divine mercy he was permitted to pass unscathed, and came crawling back, a dozen hastily filled canteens dangling across his shoulders. It was like nectar to those parched, feverish throats; but of food barely a mouthful a piece remained in the haversacks.

The second day dragged onward, its hours bringing no change for the better, no relief, no slightest ray of hope. The hot sun scorched them pitilessly, and two of the wounded died delirious. From dawn to dark there came no slackening of the savage watchfulness which held the survivors helpless behind their coverts. The merest uplifting of a head, the slightest movement of a hand, was sufficient to demonstrate how sharp were those savage eyes.

Another long, black night followed, during which, for an hour or so in turn, the weary defenders slept, tossing uneasily, and disturbed by fearful dreams. Then gray and solemn, amid the lingering shadows of darkness, dawned the third dread day of unequal conflict. All understood that it was destined to be their last on this earth unless help came.

For two days Wyman had scarcely stirred from where he lay bolstered against the rock. Sometimes he became delirious from fever, uttering incoherent phrases, or swearing in pitiful weakness. Again he would partially arouse to his old sense of soldierly duty, and assume intelligent command. Now he twisted painfully about upon his side, and, with clouded eyes, sought to discern what man was lying next him. The face was hidden so that all he could clearly distinguish was the fact that this man was not clothed as a soldier.

"Is that you, Hampton?" he questioned, his voice barely audible.

The person thus addressed, who was lying flat upon his back, gazing silently upward at the rocky front of the cliff, turned cautiously over upon his elbow before venturing reply.

"Yes; what is it, sergeant? It looks to be a beauty of a morning way up yonder."

There was a hearty, cheery ring to his clear voice which left the pain-racked old soldier envious.

"My God!" he growled savagely. "'Tis likely to be the last any of us will ever see. Wasn't it you I heard whistling just now? One might imagine this was to be a wedding, rather than a funeral."

"And why not, Wyman? Didn't you know they employed music at both functions nowadays? Besides, it is not every man who is permitted to assist at his own obsequies—the very uniqueness of such a situation rather appeals to my sense of humor."

The sergeant, his teeth clinched tightly to repress the pain racking him, stifled his resentment with an evident effort. "You may be less light-hearted when you learn that the last of our ammunition is already in the guns," he remarked, stiffly.

"I suspected as much." And the speaker lifted himself on one elbow to peer down the line of recumbent figures. "To be perfectly frank with you, sergeant, the stuff has held out considerably longer than I believed it would, judging from the way those 'dough boys' of yours kept popping at every shadow in front of them. It's a marvel to me, the mutton-heads they take into the army. Oh, now, you needn't scowl at me like that, Wyman; I've worn the blue, and seen some service where a fellow needed to be a man to sport the uniform. Besides, I'm not indifferent, old chap, and just so long as there remained any work worth attending to in this skirmishing affair, I did it, didn't I? But I tell you, man there is mighty little good trying to buck against Fate, and when Luck once finally lets go of a victim, he's bound to drop straight to the bottom before he stops. That's the sum and substance of all my philosophy, old fellow, consequently I never kick simply because things happen to go wrong. What's the use? They'll go wrong just the same. Consequently, upheld by my acquired philosophy, I'm merely holding back one shot for myself, as a sort of grand finale to this fandango, and another for that little girl out yonder."

These words were uttered slowly, the least touch of a lazy drawl apparent in the low voice, yet there was an earnest simplicity pervading the speech which somehow gave it impressiveness. The man meant exactly what he said, beyond the possibility of a doubt. The old soldier, accustomed to every form of border eccentricity, gazed at him with disapproval.

"Either you're the coolest devil I've met during 30 years of soldiering," he commented, doubtfully, "or else the craziest. Who are you, anyhow? I half believe you might be Bob Hampton, of Placer."

The other smiled grimly. "You have the name tolerably correct, old fellow; likewise that delightful spot so lately honored by my residence. In brief, you have succeeded in calling the turn perfectly, so far as your limited information extends. In strict confidence I propose now to impart to you what has hitherto remained a profound secret. Upon special request of a number of influential citizens of Placer, including the city marshal and other officials, expressed in mass-meeting, I have decided upon deserting that sagebrush metropolis to its just fate, and plan to add the influence of my presence to the future development of Glencaid. I learn that the climate there is more salubrious, more conducive to long living, the citizens of Placer being peculiarly excitable and careless with their fire-arms."

The sergeant had been listening with open mouth. "The hell you say!" he finally ejaculated.

"The undefiled truth, every word of it. No wonder you are shocked. A fine state of affairs, isn't it, when a plain-spoken, pleasant-mannered gentleman, such as I surely am,—a university graduate, by all the gods, the nephew of a United States senator, and acknowledged to be the greatest exponent of scientific poker in this territory,—should be obliged to hastily change his chosen place of abode because of the threat of an ignorant and depraved mob. Ever have a rope dangled in front of your eyes, sergeant, and a gun-barrel biting into your cheek at the same time? Accept my word for it, the experience is trying on the nerves. Ran a perfectly square game, too, and those ducks knew it; but there's no true sporting spirit left in this territory any more. However, spilled milk is never worth sobbing over, and Fate always contrives to play the final hand in any game, and stocks the cards to win."

"A breath of good, honest prayer would serve better than anything else," groaned the sergeant, soberly.

The gray eyes resting thoughtfully on the old soldier's haggard face became instantly grave and earnest.

"Sincerely I wish I might aid you with one," the man admitted, "but I fear, old fellow, any prayer coming from my lips would never ascend very far. However, I might try the comfort of a hymn, and you will remember this one, which, no doubt, you have helped to sing back in God's country."

There was a moment's hushed pause, during which a rifle cracked sharply out in the ravine; then the reckless fellow, his head partially supported against the protecting bowlder, lifted up a full, rich barytone in rendition of that hymn of Christian faith—

"Nearer, my God, to Thee!
Nearer to Thee!
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me,
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to Thee!
Nearer to Thee."

Glazed and wearied eyes glanced cautiously toward the singer around the edges of protecting rocks; fingers loosened their grasp upon the rifle barrels; smoke-begrimed cheeks became moist; while lips, a moment before profaned by oaths, grew silent and trembling. Out in front a revengeful brave sent his bullet swirling just above the singer's head, the sharp fragments of rock dislodged falling in a shower upon his upturned face; but the fearless rascal sang serenely on to the end, without a quaver.

"Mistake it for a death song likely," he remarked dryly, while the last clear, lingering note, reechoed by the cliff, died reluctantly away in softened cadence. "Beautiful old song, sergeant, and I trust hearing it again has done you good. Sang it once in a church way back in New England. But what is the trouble? Did you call me for some special reason?"

"Yes," came the almost gruff response; for Wyman, the fever stealing back upon him, felt half ashamed of his unshed tears. "That is, provided you retain sufficient sense to listen. Old Gillis was shot over an hour ago, yonder behind that big bowlder, and his girl sits there still holding his head in her lap. She'll get hit also unless somebody pulls her out of there, and she's doing no good to Gillis—he's dead."

Hampton's clear-cut, expressive face became graver, all trace of recklessness gone from it. He lifted his head cautiously, peering over his rock cover toward where he remembered earlier in the fight Gillis had sought refuge.

CHAPTER II.

Old Gillis' Girl.

Guided by the unerring instinct of an old Indian fighter, Gillis, during that first mad retreat, had discovered temporary shelter behind one of the largest bowlders. It was a trifle in advance of those later rolled into position by the soldiers, but was of a size and shape which should have afforded ample protection for two, and doubtless would have done so had it not been for the firing from the cliff opposite. Even then it was a deflected bullet, glancing from off the polished surface of the rock, which found lodgment in the sturdy old fighter's brain. The girl had caught him as he fell, had wasted all her treasured store of water in a vain effort to cleanse the blood from his features, and now sat there, pillowing his head upon her knee, although the old man was stone dead with the first touch of the ball. That had occurred fully an hour before, but she continued in the same posture, a grave, pathetic figure, her face sobered and careworn beyond her years, her eyes dry and staring, one brown hand grasping unconsciously the old man's useless rifle. She would scarcely have been esteemed attractive even under much happier circumstances and assisted by dress, yet there was something in the independent poise of her head, the steady fixedness of her posture, which served to interest Hampton as he now watched her curiously.

"Fighting blood," he muttered admiringly to himself. "Might fail to develop into very much of a society belle, but likely to prove valuable out here."

She was rather a slender slip of a thing, a trifle too tall for her years, perhaps, yet with no lack of development apparent in the slim, rounded figure. Her coarse home-made dress of dark calico fitted her sadly, while her rumpled hair, from which the broad-brimmed hat had fallen, possessed a reddish copper tinge where it was touched by the sun. Mr. Hampton's survey did not increase his desire for more intimate acquaintance-ship, yet he recognized anew her undoubted claim upon him.

"If I Select Your Bullet Rather Than the Rocks, What Then?"

"CENTRAL PARK"
Was — Is — Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

Lots selling rapidly—Prices very low—Great investment or speculative opportunities.

MARTIN TO INVESTIGATE.

Officials of Reformatory Promise to Clear Their Skirts.

It was given out by members of the families of the high officials at the New Jersey Reformatory yesterday that as soon as the Hahn committee finishes its investigation at the institution the officials will commence an investigation on their own account. They promise to prove that all those who had given adverse evidence are perjurers and that the reformatory has been run in a humane manner.

Superintendent Martin has two sons, J. Lewis Martin and William S. Martin, who are engaged in the tobacco business in New York, both of whom reside in Rahway. One of the rules broken by another son, Harry Stone Martin, the organist, and acknowledged by him, was the furnishing of tobacco to inmates.

FREEMAN AFTER RIKER.

Jersey Reformer Seeks Evidence to Impeach Ex-Prosecutor.

In a formal letter addressed yesterday to Prosecutor Henry Riker of Essex county, Alden Freeman, the Colby reformer, asked permission to inspect the records of evidence given before the Grand Jury in 1902, of which Mr. Freeman was a member.

What he particularly seeks is proceeding in the case of the State against the officers of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, in order that he may substantiate his charges that former Prosecutor Chandler W. Riker, did not use due diligence in prosecuting the case against the company following the Clifton Avenue, Newark, horror, in February of the same year. Mr. Freeman's letter says the public aspect of the question is of the utmost importance to the whole State.

PLAINFIELDERS WIN IN EAST JERSEY TENNIS

REYNOLDS AND FOSTER WIN IN PRELIMINARY ROUND.

Of the four Plainfielders entered in the play at the Elizabeth Town and Country Club for the East Jersey title, E. T. Reynolds and H. H. Foster, of the local Country Club, won their matches in the preliminary round, and are playing in the opening round of the big tourney continuing there today. J. L. Righter, of the Country Club, went down before Kenneth Easton, of New York, in straight sets, 6-3 and 8-6, and L. S. Kineon, of New York, defeated W. L. Righter, the Country Club player, 6-1, 6-2.

When the drawings for the play in the preliminary round were made by the seventy players entered for the title, H. H. Foster and J. Reynolds, two Country Club players, were matched against each other. The play resulted in a victory for Foster, who took the match after three sets, 6-3, 6-8, 6-2. E. T. Reynolds, of the Country Club, the other Plainfielder to win, had an easy time with J. C. Bowden, of Harvard, winning easily in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1.

Owing to the big field of entries, there was little progress made with the play, and there are still matches to be played in the preliminary round. The present holder of the cup is the international player, Karl H. Behr, who won in 1905 and 1906, and if he wins this year he will become permanent owner of the trophy. Frederick G. Anderson, who was the victor in 1904, is the only other player who has a leg on the cup.

PERSONAL.

John H. Doane, of East Seventh street, is spending some time at Moscow, Pa.

Miss Mash and nephew, Sherwood Armour, of Chicago, are the guests of Mayor and Mrs. N. B. Smalley.

Thomas Buckley, of Orchard place, left last night for Bay City, Mich., in the interest of the Potter Press Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Christy, of East Third street, have gone to Caledonia, N. Y., to spend a week with relatives.

Charles Von Velson, of New York, a former Plainfielder, attended a meeting of Freedom Castle, K. G. E., last night.

Miss Clara King and Miss Jennie Everitt are spending their vacation at Asbury Park. They are registered at the "Lilligore."

Charles A. Lee and eldest daughter, Miss Marguerite Lee, of Grove street, left last evening for Racquet Lake, in the Adirondacks.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman was registered at the Herald Bureau in Paris on Sunday. He will sail for home on the S. S. Lusitania September 8.

Mrs. Frank Stillwell, of Clinton avenue, is spending two weeks at Asbury Park. She will visit in Freehold for a week after leaving the shore.

Mrs. Corra Ryno and daughter, of Codington avenue, left this afternoon for Ocean Grove for two weeks. They will be registered at the Ocean House.

Mrs. L. L. Fairchild, of West Front street, underwent a difficult operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, at the hands of Drs. Endicott and Herring. It is thought to have been entirely successful and this morning she was resting easily.

Swimmer Dies, Floats On.

Worcester, Mass. Aug. 28—Eugene M. Moriarty, editor and publisher of the Worcester Post, formerly a member of the Legislature and a leading Democrat in Central Massachusetts, died while swimming in Lake Quinsigamond, off the Wachuset Boat Club landing, late yesterday. Moriarty had been enjoying an outing with friends at the Wachuset Club, and swam to the middle of the lake twice. He started out a third time, but when about twenty-five feet from the shore he turned over on his back and floated. His friends, thinking he was simply enjoying the water, paid no attention to him for about twenty minutes. They became alarmed when they saw he had made no motion, and one of them swam to his side. There was no sign of life, and Dr. Baker, medical examiner, said death was due to heart failure, caused by over-exertion. Moriarty was sixty years years old.

Hail Hughes President.

Glens Falls, N. Y., Aug. 28.—A big crowd gave Gov. Hughes a warm welcome yesterday afternoon at the Washington County Fair, between Sandy Hill and Fort Edward. The Governor came up from Albany at noon and was escorted from Fort Edward to Sandy Hill by a committee He was guest at lunch at the home of Marcus C. Allen, a friend of his college days. Afterward he had a reception at the Hotel Cunningham. At the Fair Grounds the Governor was introduced as "The next President of the United States." The crowd took up the cry and became very demonstrative.

MARTINE NOW STRONGER

Friends of Farmer-orator Candidate for Governor Get Encouraging Reports.

MAKING BIG CLAIMS

Expect to Receive Support from Hudson and Essex As Well As Atlantic, Burlington and Monmouth.

The elimination of John F. Hardin and the failure of the Essex county Democrats to endorse Judge Child for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, is given much significance by the James E. Martine boomers in Union county for they declare that they see the handwriting on the wall for not only Child but Katzenbach as well. The farmer orator's friends have persistently claimed that James Smith, Jr., would not raise a finger against his candidacy and that when the times comes he will repay the Plainfielder for saving him from an unenviable position when he could not alone make good his promise to bring Bryan to Newark about a year ago. Although Robert Davis is away, some of his chief lieutenants, The Daily Press man is reliably informed, have given Martine's managers to understand that he will be given some if not all the delegates from Hudson. Senator William H. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon, is looking after Martine's interests in that county and a solid delegation is promised. William H. Hammon and others in Atlantic are working up Martine sentiment in that county which is expected to be for the Plainfielder. After a complimentary vote for former Senator Childs, Somerset, it is said on the vest of information will swing into line, and after a complimentary vote for Senator Jack Hinchliffe, Passaic is also counted upon.

The Martine boomers are making use of the statement made by former United States Senator Rufus Blodgett, of Long Branch, last winter to the effect that he hoped to see the day when Martine would be governor and that he would do all in his power to that end. Blodgett, Geisenheimer, Conover and others in Monmouth are out for the farmer-orator, it is declared, and after a complimentary vote for Terhune, it will vote for him. On the first ballot, Burlington will be in his column according to recent reports received from the leaders there. Former Senator Johnston Cornish and Assemblyman Joseph Firth are managing Martine's interests in Warren. After Camden gets through voting for Judge Carrow, its support is expected.

Despite the ugly attacks made on Martine in its effort to advance Katzenbach's claim, a Trenton paper declares that the Democrats must name a man who will poll Republican voters for the minority party alone cannot win without help. As Martine came within 170 votes of defeating Congressman Charles N. Fowler in a Republican district only last fall, where the normal Republican majority is over 5,000, it is argued by his friends that if such a position is to be taken he is the best Republican vote drawer that could be named.

The Democratic leaders of Passaic county have agreed upon Senator John Hinchliffe, of Paterson, as the candidate for Governor at the State Democratic convention. Congressman Hughes, who has been mentioned for the nomination, said yesterday: "I am not a candidate for Governor under any circumstances."

ATKINSON DECLINES.

Announces That He is Not Candidate For Assembly Nomination.

William Mayo Atkinson, of Elizabeth, who has been mentioned for one of the three Democratic Assembly nominations from Union county in the next Legislature gave out this morning to the following declination of nomination: "The mention of my candidacy by my party associates and friends generally as a Democratic Assembly nominee this Fall is very kind and flattering. But that this office has great responsibilities as well as much honor attached to it, was again and again impressed on me last winter when I was in attendance on the Legislature working for Assemblyman Wright's Railway Commission Bill. My law practice will not permit me to devote sufficient attention to the next Legislature as a member should give to this exacting office. It is therefore only fair to the party that I should promptly now state this inability to serve, if nominated and elected this coming November. I thank the party, my friends irrespective of party and to gentlemen of the press for their confidence and courtesy."

The Misses Burke, of West Third street, Miss Mary Carty, of Orchard place, and Miss Annie Kelly, of New street, are staying at Atlantic City.

WOMAN SENT TO JAIL THROUGH LEGAL ERROR

AGNES BUSHMAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE WHICH WAS NOLLE PROSSED.

Agnes Bushman, who more than a month ago pleaded non vult to an indictment charging her with robbing Rudolph Brunner, a jeweler, of Westfield, of several valuable rings last January, and for which Judge Atwater sentenced her to thirty days in jail, it has developed was the victim of a legal error. She was discharged from the county jail Tuesday, her second arrest at the expiration of her first sentence having been a mistake and the charge nolle prossed by the court.

Agnes Bushman's sentence expired on Sunday, August 18, but before she could leave the jail she was rearrested by Detective John Galatian on two complaints made before Justice Toucey, of Westfield, by Brunner, charging her with breaking, entering and stealing the jewelry, on which charge she had already been punished. When the woman was arrested her counsel, A. A. Stein, was out of town, and it was not until Saturday last that he had any idea as to what had happened during his absence. Tuesday morning he received a note from the Bushman woman asking him to see her at once.

On his arrival at the jail he found Detective Galatian there to take the woman to the courthouse, where Justice Toucey was waiting to give her a hearing, although she had not demanded it. Mr. Stein at once objected to the woman being taken over, at the same time informing the detective that the woman was in jail illegally, because when she pleaded non vult to the particular offense for which she had already been once tried, the Prosecutor of the Pleas had, on Mr. Stein's request, moved that the other counts against his client be nolle prossed, which motion the court granted.

The Prosecutor soon granted the woman's discharge. Agnes, while pleased to find herself at liberty to leave the jail, declined to do so until the warden paid over to her a sum of money in his possession and which a New York lawyer had ordered him not to give her until a civil suit, commenced by Brunner, is settled.

THE "DUTCH KIDDIES" WERE THE BIG NOISE

THEY CARRIED OFF THE HONORS IN "THE RED MILL."

There were lots of good things in "The Red Mill," which revolved through two very interesting acts at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, but if you ask anyone about it they will tell you there was nothing better than the "Dutch kiddies." There were six of them—three Gretchens and three Heinies, flaxen-haired and wooden-shoed, and they were about as cute as anything that ever walked behind the footlights. They didn't do anything in particular and they didn't have to. Their first entrance to the accompaniment of a song sung by somebody else was the signal for a burst of applause and the audience kept it up until it seemed as if the "kiddies" would walk themselves to death. None of the six appeared to be over eight years old but they took nearly all the honors from their elders.

Ooakley and McBride, hitherto prominent in vaudeville, were in the roles created by Montgomery and Stone during the Knickerbocker production's long run, and they worked hard to overcome the reputation of the men made famous by the "Wizard of Oz." Their comedy was good and they danced frequently but even at that everyone wanted more of it. Milton Dawson as "Willem," the keeper of the Red Mill; John B. Simpson, as the burgomaster; Miss Marguerite Fry, as "Gretchen," and Catherine Cooper as "Tina," carried their respective parts with credit."

Scenically, the production was all that could be asked and the handsome settings brought nods of approval from the capacity attendance.

But long after everything else in "The Red Mill" is forgotten you'll hear about those "kiddies."

Labor Day at Wanamassa.

Among the Plainfielders who will spend Labor Day at Camp Wanamassa, Deal Lake, are R. F. Randolph, Percy Phillips, Fred Martin, Jerry Manning, John McCullough, Edwin Templin, Arthur Aalholm, Lester Spear and Chauncey M. Koons. Most of these will go to the camp Saturday, spending Sunday and Monday at the Lake.

ALL ARE FOR TOWNSEND

School Commissioner Likely to be Named for Borough Mayor Tonight.

BY THE RIVAL PARTIES

C. L. Nichols to Be G. O. P. Nominee For Council — J. O. Osgood Likely to Be His Opponent.

As told exclusively in The Daily Press, Samuel Townsend is the probable choice of the Democrats and also of the Republicans to succeed Mayor N. B. Smalley in North Plainfield. According to the wise ones, it is planned at the caucuses in the borough tonight to place his name at the head of both tickets.

The Republicans claim him for their own on the ground that he voted for both McKinley and Roosevelt for President, while the Democrats count him in their ranks because he has voted the party ticket in State and county elections for years. Mr. Townsend wired The Daily Press yesterday that he is considering the offer. He has since accepted the Democratic nomination.

Since Charles W. McCutchen declined to run and started a boom for Mr. Townsend no other name has been discussed by the Republicans. In like manner the declination of former Mayor William L. Saunders to accept and his boom for the same man has had great weight with the Democrats. Many Republicans favor the nomination of an independent voter for the mayoralty and this has led them to unite on Mr. Townsend.

Former Councilman Charles L. Nichols will be one of two men to be named by the Republicans for councilman. Councilman John H. VanWinkle, Jr., may be the other but the subject is still under consideration. It has been reported that Joseph O. Osgood, president of the Board of Health, might be named by the Democrats as a candidate for Council, but as he is classed as a Republican much credence is not given the story. Another report has it that Councilman Frank O. Krewson will also be named by the Democrats.

The Republicans will renominate Collector George F. Brown and Assessor J. H. Cooley.

WATCHUNG DEMOCRATS HOLD THEIR CAUCUS

JOHN MOBUS AND ROY SMITH GET TOWNSHIP NOMINATION.

The Democrats of Watchung held their caucus at that place last night. Nominations and appropriations were speedily agreed upon. The meeting was harmonious, and got down to business speedily.

Highway surveyors were the only township officers to be named. The candidates are John Mobus and Roy Smith.

Francis E. Bodin was named as delegate to the State convention and George Mobus as delegate to the county convention. Theodore Leuerrsen was named for committeeman.

Two appropriations were fixed. The sum of $2,00 is asked for roads, and $600 for the poor fund.

Stone Carters Fined.

Because of complaints made by residents of the borough about the carelessness of stone carters in strewing the streets with macadam, George Stalter and George Carter, two drivers of stone wagons who had been warned to be more careful about spilling stone, were arrested yesterday afternoon by Marshal Keller. Each were fined $1 by Mayor Smalley at the session of the borough court last evening.

Local Couple Wedded.

Niels Jacob Hendrickson and Miss Elizabeth Braden, both of this city, were married by Rev. Theodore Englund, pastor of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, on Tuesday evening, at the home of the groom's brother, Hans Jorgensen, of Kensington avenue. Near relatives and friends only were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson will reside in this city.

Fight Hearing Adjourned.

The hearing of Hugh Gormerly, charged with having broken Joseph Patrick Martin's jaw in a fight at the Riding Academy, was laid over by Judge Runyon this morning. On a motion by William G. DeMeza, lawyer for the plaintiff, the case was adjourned to Tuesday.

"Marty" to Play at Cranford.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the Country Club "pro," is matched with Joe Sherman, the Westfield Club champion, to meet Edward Wild and Joe Ianson, the "pro," in a golf match at the Cranford Club Sunday afternoon.

FRIGHTENED BY TROLLEY, HORSE TAKES WILD RUN

WALTER LUCAS' THRONW OUT, CUT AND BRUISED—HORSE HURT.

A frisky, partly-broken horse belonging to Dr. O'M. Knott became unmanageable at Front and Somerset streets this morning, upset the high two-wheeled cart to which it was attached, and started on a wild run up Somerset street, throwing Walter Lucas, who was driving, from the rig, and eluding capture by one of the employees. Lucas, who was thrown out at the corner, sustained a deep cut on the head and was scratched and bruised. The horse was badly cut about the legs by the shattered wagon.

Lucas, who is riding instructor, started out with the animal about 9 o'clock. At Somerset street, the horse became frightened at a trolley car, which started suddenly, and shied to the curb, where one wheel went up on the sidewalk. The tipping of the rig threw Lucas from the high seat, and he struck in the roadway on his head. The horse, frightened at the tipping of the rig, started on a wild run up Somerset street, dragging the upturned cart. Before it had gone far, the rig struck an obstacle, and the wheels were wrenched off. With the wreck of the cart swinging along behind, the horse, entangled in the broken harness, galloped up Somerset street till caught. It was badly cut about the back legs by the stepping stone. The wagon was badly damaged and was taken to a nearby carriage shop for repair.

ROBERT WALKER DEAD.

Was the First Janitor of the Irving Public School.

Robert Walker, for many years a well-known resident of the city, died this morning at his home on New street. He had been ailing for the past several years and for a long time had been unable to leave the house

Mr. Walker was about seventy-five years old and was a veteran of the Civil War having served with distinction in the conflict. He was a carpenter by trade but when the Irving school was opened, he was its first janitor and served for ten years. Since retiring, he has lived quietly but was about the streets until his health failed him. He is survived by a widow, his only son, Fred Walker, having died some years ago. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

TO SEEK JURY DATA HIMSELF.

Alden Freeman Asks for Privileges of Copying Records.

In a formal letter addressed yesterday afternoon to Henry Young Prosecutor of the Pleas of Essex county, Alden Freeman, the civic worker, asked permission to inspect and copy the records of evidence given before the December grand jury in 1902, of which Mr. Freeman was a member.

He also wants a copy of the proceedings in the case of the State against the officers and executive committee of the North Jersey Street Railway Company. He is desirous of obtaining data to substantiate his charges that Chandler W. Riker, former prosecutor, did not use due diligence in prosecuting the case against the company following the Clifton avenue accident in February of the same year.

Stone Square Lodge Reception.

Stone Square Lodge, No. 38, F. and A. M., will hold its nineteenth annual reception and dance in Saengerbund Hall, Thursday night, September 12. Delegations from lodges at Newark, Jersey City and Elizabeth have been invited and will attend in full regalia. Charles Stelton is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Viewing Niagara's Beauties.

Joseph Sweeney, of Liberty street; Bud Strader, of the New Madison, and Ben Schuck, of Vine street, are viewing the sights at Niagara Falls and vicinity. They will return home after Labor Day in company with T. Ashley Weaver, of Grove street, who will join them Saturday.

Physical Department Plans.

The physical work committee of the Y. M. C. A. will hold an important meeting on September 3. Repairs and plans for the new year's work will be discussed. Physical Director Listman, who has been on his vacation, will be back in time to attend the session.

Sent to New Hampshire for Burial.

The remains of Leonard F. Cressy, who died at Fanwood about a year ago, were removed this morning from the receiving vault at Hillside cemetery and sent to West Derry, N. H., for burial.

Mrs. Walter Foster and son, of West Sixth street, have gone to Newport, R. I., for a two or three weeks' stay.

FUGITIVE SON SURRENDERS

Man Who Escaped Searchers, Found in the Barn at Parent's Home.

HIS FATHER WILL DIE

The Prisoner Remorseful—Hid After Shooting His Parent While Drunk.

Driven by remorse from his hiding place in the Somerset hills, Richard Stryker, who fatally shot his aged father after a quarrel Monday night, returned yesterday to his home near North Branch, and surrendered himself to the Somerset county authorities.

Stryker is a nervous wreck and appears to realize the enormity of his crime. The authorities had been scouring the country for Stryker since the shooting without getting a clue of him.

Charles Horner, Stryker's brother-in-law, drove from his home in Neshanic this morning to the Stryker homestead. He saw the fugitive looking from a window in the loft of a barn. Stryker came down as Horner drove up to the barn and said:

"Hello, Charlie! how is the old man?"

"He is in very bad shape, Dick. Horner replied, "I advise you to give yourself up to the authorities."

"That is what I came home for, Charlie," the accused responded. "Take me over to jail."

Horner drove Stryker to the office of Justice Sutphen in Somerville, where he war arraigned and committed to the county jail without bail to await the result of his father's injuries.

The old man is still in a critical condition in the Somerset Hospital, at Somerville. The doctors say he will die.

Stryker, who is thirty-five years old, was a rough-rider in the Spanish-American war and spent most of his life on the plains in the west. He returned to his old home a year ago to help his father on the farm. He shot his father in a drunken frenzy after being on a spree for a week because the old man refused to give him money to continue his debauch.

YEAR'S WORK STILL TO BE DONE ON CONVENT

BUILDING WILL HAVE OWN WATER SUPPLY AND FIRE PROTECTION.

Work on Mt. St. Mary's Convent on the slope of Watchung Mountain between the east end of the city and Scotch Plains, is being steadily pushed. The structure was commenced a year ago, and another year will probably pass before it is completed. It is to be entirely of stone, the interior bein finished in concrete. It will be a markedly handsome building, and much of the effect of the big pile may now be obtained.

The water for use in the building and for fire safety appliances will be pumped into a reservoir, 150 feet above the building, near the crest of the mountain, from the Watchung Springs. No finer water exists in the country.

It will have its own electric, fire and other plants. Lying as it does two-thirds up the mountain, there will be much grading to be done, and a new road has been built, extending to Terrill road. Other roads leading to the top of the mountain to connect with the Johnson Parkway, will also be liad out.

The building is 150 feet above the sea level and the views from it are magnificent. It may be seen from the main line trolley cars as they go by Terrill road.

Wanted to Sleep In Hay Mow.

Thomas Wilson, a cook for various tramp steamers, came to Plainfield yesterday on shore leave. He lapped up considerable borough booze early in the day, and then went to Dr. Zeglio's barn for a sleep in the hay. All efforts to make him go away were futile, and Chief Marshal Weiss was summoned by telephone. Wilson was fined $3 at the session of the borough court last night by Mayor Smalley, who urged him to leave town.

Harding is Now Thornton.

William Harding, of New Market, was authorized by Judge Booraem this week to change his name to William Thornton. Mr. Harding's mother's name is now Thornton, she having remarried, and he desired to assume this name. His petition was presented by Peter F. Daly.

BIG AUTO VAN BREAKS DOWN GARAGE FLOOR

VACUUM CLEANER CO. WAGON ALMOST GOES THROUGH TO CELLAR.

Under the weight of a big commercial automobile, a section of the floor of the F. L. C. Martin garage, Park avenue, collapsed late yesterday afternoon. Comparatively little damage was done, but the occurrence threw a scare into the garage force and made a lot of talk.

The car that carried the floor down is the huge machine of the Vacuum Cleaner Company. Its insides are mostly engines, pipes and other iron things, with 900 pounds of rubber hose on the top to lend the finishing touches to the load. The whole outfit weighs something over 9,000 pounds.

William Banks, the engineer in charge of the car, drove it into the garage shortly after 6 o'clock, to lay it up for the night. At the right of the entrance is a section of the garage that was formerly used as a waiting and shopping room, designed for the use of women patrons of the garage. The flooring there was not especially designed for bearing all kinds of automobile monsters, as was the section that lay on the other side of the old partition. Banks didn't know anything about that, and backed his car into the weak area.

There was a cracking of timbers and boards, and the car sank down. Banks made a flying leap, and turned to look at his car with bulging eyes. Floor and car stopped going down after a three-and-a-half-foot drop. The front wheels remained on the strong driveway section and the top of the car's pack jammed against the side wall, holding the car up. If the car had cleared the wall it would have gone down a five-and-a-half-foot drop with a great thump. Banks figures that he had something of a narrow escape, because he creeps in under the car every night right after backing it into its berth to turn off a "thingamajig" or two, and he felt a bit shakey every time he thought of what would have happened to him if the collapse had held off until he was stretched under the 9,000 pounds.

The section of floor borne down measured about fifteen by twenty feet. Car and floor were shored up from the cellar to prevent further sinking.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER MARRIED IN THE WEST

CHESTER A. MATHEWSON WEDS MISS JENNY IN CINCINNATI.

The wedding of Chester Arthur Mathewson, of the city High School faculty, and Miss Nan Olivia Jenny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Jenny, of Cincinnati, Ohio, took place at Bond Hill, the home of the bride, last evening. Mr. Mathewson, who for the past year has been athletic director and coach of the High School teams, did not announce his engagement until school closed in June. He was an instructor in the biology department at the High School and taught classes in second year German. He will not return to the High School as teacher in the fall, but will reside at least temporarily in the West.

Though Mr. Mathewson had done considerable research work in biology, and prepared a monograph on a biological subject during his course last year, he will be especially remembered for the interest he took in the advancement of athletics in the local school. Acting as coach as well as being an athletic director of the school, Mr. Mathewson was popular with the players of the various teams because of the personal interest he took in working with the individual players. He was a college ball player in undergraduate days and is the "prof" who scored the winning run for the High School faculty in the baseball game with the school nine at the end of the school year.

"Longboat" Swody Settles.

Henry Swody, the boroughite whom Chief Weiss, of the North Plainfield police, chased to Smalley's quarry yesterday morning to give a warrant, has adjusted his suit in tort with William Jeroloman, who claimed damages to his automobile at Bound Brook several months ago. Swody was to have been taken to Somerville to serve a term yesterday, but he told Chief Weiss that if he could have a day of grace he might be able to make a settlement. Reimbursements from various friends during the day made it possible for an amicable adjustment to be reached with Jeroloman this morning.

Notes from Lake Hopatcong state that Miss M. A. White and Miss Isabel Gavett, of this city, will spend Labor Day with Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Grant, who have a cottage there.

NOT PROVED ASSAILANT

Edward Palmer, Arrested As Man Who Attacked 12-year-old Edna Lee, Released.

LITTLE GIRL IN DOUBT

Could Not Identify Prisoner, So Mayor Smalley Released Him—Said He Had Never Seen Girl.

Haled before Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, after his arrest by Chief Marshal George Weiss on warrant at his home on West avenue, last evening, Edward Palmer was confronted with the serious charge of attempting an assault on twelve-year-old, Edna Lee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Lee, of Catalpa avenue, whose was attacked while on her way home Saturday, August 17, and whose screams drove off her assailant. Palmer was arrested on a warrant issued by Mrs. Lee, the girl's mother, because her daughter had said that he looked like the man who attacked her.

At the prisoner's appearance before the Mayor, Mrs. Lee was called upon to make an identification. Her daughter Edna had brought a little playmate, who was with her when she wat attacked, to court with her, and the two children carefully surveyed Palmer before they spoke. Finally Edna said:

"This man looks very much like the one that scared me so, but it seems to me that his whiskers aren't as long."

She could not be sure of the man, though she made a careful study of him in the court room. Her little companion would not make any committing statements, either, though she said that he "looked like the man who grabbed Edna."

When given a chance to speak for himself, Palmer said he had never seen either of the children before, and vehemently denied the accusation. With such little positive evidence, the Mayor dismissed Palmer. In concluding the case, he said:

"The charge has been brought against this man is a very serious one and I cannot feel justified in holding him for a higher court unless I can secure more conclusive evidence. These little girls are not positive that the prisoner here was the assailant, and it would not be justice to hold him on such vague identification as this."

The police have no other clues as to the girl's assailant, but every effort will continue to be made to trace the man and bring him to justice.

TILLMAN GETS JOB IN NEWARK REVENUE OFFICE.

To Be Inspector of Denatured Alcohol—Recommended By Kean, Dr. Herold Says.

Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway, is slated by Internal Revenue Collector Herman C. H. Herold, of Newark, for appointment as inspector of denatured alcohol, at a salary of $1,200 a year. The position is a new one and Tillman will be the first appointee in this collection district.

While, according to Dr. Herold, the appointment has not been actually made as yet, Tillman will start in upon his duties September 3, when the law under which he will act goes into effect. It is said Mr. Tillman offered to resign as Assemblyman shortly after his illness last winter, and agreed not to try for a renomination if he could get some other position that would insure him a livelihood. The story was current that he was promised the position of inspector of denatured alcohol if he would agree not to join forces with his Union county colleague, Assemblyman Randolph Perkins.

Dr. Herold said yesterday that Tillman had been recommended for the place by United States Senator Kean.

"We needed a man," Dr. Herold went on to explain, "and it was up to me to make the appointment. I understood that Mr. Tillman has been ill and that he was desirous of obtaining outdoor work. He was recommended to me as a man thoroughly qualified for the place and I shall appoint him."

Mr. Tillman has been informed that he would have to resign as Assemblyman to take the office of inspector, and he expressed his intention yesterday of so doing.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Golden voiced singer, A. H. Wilson, the clever German dialect comedian, in Sidney R. Ellis' new play, of picturesque Switzerland, Metz in the Alps" will be at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. Mr. Wilson is a born actor of undeniable ability. He is favored with a fine stage presence, a magnetic manner and an intelligent and expressive face that can at one moment depict touching pathos and at the next convulse his audience with heartiest laughter. He also possesses the heaven sent gift of a singing voice of remarkable power and sweetness, which so well is described by Mr. George P. Goodale, the celebrated dramatic critic of the Detroit Free Press. Mr. Goodale writes, "He sings ballads with rare feeling, and his voice has that sympathetic quality that is above, beyond and wholly out of the reach of art." Following are the titles of the songs that Mr. Wilson is singing this season: "Fairest Flower of All," "Wilson's Lullaby," "Song of Old Fatherland," "Snitzlebank" and "Switzer Le Boy."

One of the most important bookings of the season at the New Plainfield theatre is Tom Waters' big fun show, "The Mayor of Laughland," which will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. This season Mr. Waters is under the management of Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman, who have given him a large supporting company and a costly production. The piece is for laughing purposes only, and as such is a whole success. Numerous catchy musical numbers are introduced. There is a large and highly efficient chorus of pretty, nimble-footed girls who display a wealth of attractive costumes. The specialties introduced are said to be of the highest order.

Henry Miller, the well-known actor-manager, is the producing manager of "Brown of Harvard" in which Henry Woodruff will appear at the New Plainfield Saturday matinee and night. This interesting play of college life at the great institution of learning at Cambridge has been proclaimed by the critics of both New York and Chicago as one of Mr. Miller's very best offerings, and has been pronounced a vehicle most suited to the talents of Henry Woodruff, the star. This great success ran for three hundred nights in New York and Chicago and played without interruption for seventy-three weeks subsequent to its opening at the Princess theatre in New York. The same cast and production that was used at the Princess theatre will be seen here, and in view of the fact that the offering is under the direction of Henry Miller, it should prove one of the notable dramatic events of the season.

"Bandana Land," the new Williams and Walker production, which will be at the New Plainfield theatre, Tuesday night, promises to be the best thing these two real coons have ever attempted. Williams, is still the same awkward, human giraffe, with his stoicism and lack of belief that there is anything good in the world. Walker, is still optimistic, and clever enough to live by his wits. He works his poor easy tool, Williams, with the same regularity; and the only difference in their new production is, that this year, Williams has all the money.

Sowing Fine Seed.

An excellent method of sowing fine seed is to mix it with either coarse sand or cornmeal. In this way the seed becomes well scattered upon the soil, and when the plants spring up they are nicely separated and, if transplanted, more easily removed.

PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS OF BUGS.

The Beetle—Steady-going, conservative. Lacking in acutness and sensibility. In religion, a hard-shell Baptist.

The Hornet—Sharp and aggressive. Deficient in courtesy and politeness. Never stands on ceremony or anything else; sits down hard. Is nervous, and affects other people the same way.

The Fly—Honest, and affectionate in disposition. A great humorist; tickles some people immensely. Slow to take offense, but quick to dodge a hand.

The Bumblebee—Full to the mandibles of common-sense and industry. Inclined to be loud in conversation, and is something of a bully. Has a warm heart and a red-hot business end.

The Flea—Mercurial and flighty. Cannot be depended on. A great traveler, but stops frequently to take a bite.

The Mosquito—The embodiment of perseverance. Has a longer bill than the plumber, and presents it oftener. Works day and night. Is meek and cheerful under abuse, and sticketh closer than a brother. Never sings when it is full.

The Ant—A hard worker, and cross, as most hard workers are. Very inquisitive, especially as to the texture of trousers and pies. Is fond of picnics when they come in the regular line of business. Enjoys a good fight, and can carry off more boodle at a lift than an alderman.

Not for Him.

"You didn't seem to be particularly interested in Miss Perkleson," said the inveterate matchmaker. "I had hoped you would like her."

"I liked her pretty well," replied the widower, "and she was very entertaining and all that, but I noticed that she had a projecting chin. My first wife had that kind. It's a pity that so pretty a woman should be disfigured in that way."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Keeping Them Under.

Friend—One of your clerks tells me you raised his salary and told him to get married, under penalty of discharge.

Business Man—Yes; I do that to all my clerks when they get old enough to marry. I don't want any of your independent, conceited men about my place.

His Fatal Mistake.

Fred—So she turned you down, eh?

Joe—Yes. I made the mistake of confessing that my heart was in my mouth when I proposed.

Fred—What had that to do with it?

Joe—Oh, she said she couldn't think of marrying a man whose heart wasn't in the right place.—Chicago Daily News.

The Other Side of the Question.

"Do you regard the railroads with disfavor?"

"My friend," answered Senator Sorghum, "I cannot yet bring myself to feel that my opinion in such a matter is important. My comfort still depends very largely on whether or not the railways regard me with disfavor."—Washington Star.

THEIR MOTTOES.

Merchant—Mine is somewhat different; it's "Be sure you get ahead, then you can make it right."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Point of View.

Young Mother—I don't believe in letting everybody kiss my baby. It's unwholesome.

Bachelor Brother—O, I don't know that it's unwholesome, but if the baby has been eating molasses candy it's unpleasant.—Chicago Tribune.

Maybe.

Bacon—They say some people find it cheaper to live in Paris than in New York.

Egbert—Do you refer to the insurance people.—Yonkers Statesman.

Trifle Too Late.

"Is he a man who uses good judgment?"

"Excellent. But he always puts it to use about a day too late."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Married for Love.

"You say she married for love; but I happen to know that the man she married is worth a million!'

"Of course; the million is what she loves!"

Slightly Mixed.

RUGS

There is not another Rug Stock equaling this in all New Jersey. Not only do we have the only collection of Oriental Rugs worthy of the name, but we have a tremendous stock of Domestic Rugs, the beauty of which it would be difficult to describe.

American manufacturers have been clever enough to so closely imitate the Oriental patterns and colorings that one could easily be deceived into believing them of Oriental manufacture were it not for the perfection of weave. These rugs, of course, are much cheaper than the Oriental and the effect to the eye just as good, and they will wear a very long while, giving you big value for your money and pleasing you in every respect. For certain uses the Domestic Rugs are best, especially for dining rooms where chairs have to be moved about frequently.

The prices we name on rugs to day are such as will please the thrifty. Let us show you what we can do for you.

9x12 feet	$25.00
11¼x15 feet	$39.95

FRENCH WILTON RUGS.

Made rugs are becoming more popular every day because of their convenience and utility. These French Wiltons are by odds the most popular domestic rugs on the market, and no wonder, for the patterns and colorings are simply exquisite, the variety of designs covering every taste and the quality beyond compare. All sizes are here priced like this:

27x54 inches	$3....

"Aunt Sally" Dead.

"Aunt Sally" Herring, known as the oldest woman in Northern New Jersey, died Monday night at her home in Hackensack, in her ninety-seventh year. She was taken ill two weeks ago. "Aunt Sally" was the daughter of Solomon and Hannah Vanderbeck and a granddaughter of Paulus I. Vanderbeck, who built the Vanderbeck homestead in Hackensack, in 1717. It was in this homestead that "Aunt Sally" was born, lived and died. When eighteen years old she married Abraham Herring, but at twenty-five years old she was a widow. For the past twenty-five years the aged woman has been cared for by her nieces, Mrs. Stadtlander and Miss Combes, of whom she was particularly fond. "Aunt Sally" never was so happy as when surrounded by young children.

FINE RACING PROMISED

Great Program Prepared For Labor Day by Fair Acres Club.

STEEPLECHASE ON CARD

Some Well Known Jumpers Will Try For Honors—Last Race Is For Runners On the Flat.

One of the most attractive programs ever presented to horse and race lovers of this city has been prepared by the Fair Acres Driving and Driving Club for Labor Day afternoon. Five classes are on the card, two of them of special nature.

The fourth race will be a steeplechase, in which well known horses and riders will take part. The fifth race will be for runners on the flat. Two of Lewis E. Waring's horses are entered, and James Gethin's has "The Tramp" in.

The course and the grandstand have been brought to first class shape. The grounds were never more attractive. Stages will meet the trolley cars and trains.

The entries are as follows:

NUGGETS.

Genius is inspiration. Talent is perspiration.

Do not measure your enjoyment by the amount of money spent in producing it.

Education turns the wild sweetbrier into the queenly rose.

Be sure that the honors you are striving for are not really dishonors.

What men get and do not earn is often a curse instead of a blessing.

You can purchase a man's labor, but you've got to cultivate his goodwill.

Ignorace itself is a disease, the deepest, most treacherous and damning malady of the soul.

Worry poisons the mind just as much as a deadly drug would poison the body and just as surely.

While you stand deliberating which book your son shall read first, another boy has read both.—Success Magazine.

Lincoln and Stanton.

There was a marked contrast between Lincoln's manner, which was always pleasant and even genial, and that of Stanton. The latter's stern, spectacled visage commanded instant respect and in many cases inspired fear. In receiving visitors, and they were legion, Stanton seldom or never sat down, but stood before a high desk as the crowd passed before him and one by one presented their requests or complaints, which were rapidly disposed of. He was haughty, severe, domineering and often rude. When I think of him in the daily routine of his public audiences the characterizations of Napoleon by Charles Phillips, the Irish orator, comes to mind, "Grand, gloomy and peculiar."—David Homer Bates in Century.

Army Rifles.

The rifle was introduced into the British service about the beginning of the last century. It was of such primitive make that mallets were served out with each rifle to ram the bullets home.

Gunpowder.

There is no standard gunpowder. Every nation seems to have its own formula.

IS THIS A VILLAGE?

When the Board of Trade, in cooperation with Elias H. Bird, takes up the subject of poor postoffice service in Plainfield, which is probably due to lack of necessary appropriation and inefficiency on the part of some of his assistants, some action should be taken to better the primative methods in other matters here. There is no sense in spending money to draw people to this city so long as the general service afforded in various lines is deplorable. One thing that comes to mind that needs attention as early as possible is the utter absence of any drug service at night time in either the city or the borough. It is a fact that there is not a single place in Plainfield where drugs can be obtained after about 10 or 11 o'clock, for not one of the pharmacists has a night clerk. No matter how urgent the demand may be, the only hope that a Plainfielder has to get medicine during such hours is to succeed in routing some drug clerk out of bed. This is a serious reflection on the drug trade in the city and is one that calls for a prompt correction. Another instance of our primative methods is shown in a notice posted by the boss barbers that their shops will be closed on Monday, Labor Day. For all the barbers care, a Plainfielder must go unshaven from next Saturday night until Tuesday morning. Such matters as these should be given attention by the Board of Trade before anything is done to try to boom Plainfield as a desirable place of residence.

MR. PERKINS' CLAIMS.

Hardly a paper in the State has failed to discuss the effort of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins for a fourth term and as might be expected there is a wide division of opinion regarding the merits of his case. That the Westfielder has made a creditable record is undeniable. The real reason for opposition to him appears to be a settled policy of the Republican party in Union to send a successful nominee to Trenton for two terms. Then it is understood that he must give way to some other man who is anxious to play the role. Referring to this phase of the fight, the Trenton State Gazette says today: "As a member of the house Mr. Perkins was active, and his work was effective, but other men have a right to ask the people of Union county to send them to the Legislature as their representative. Mr. Perkins talks as if he thought that any opposition to his renomination would be presumptive, and the fact that other men have been mentioned as candidates for the office has set him going with all the spectacular display of a twenty-four-inch pin-wheel. There seems to be little warrant for his claim that the leaders of the Republican party are determined to discipline him for his attitude towards John F. Dryden during the contest over the United States Senatorship. Mr. Dryden is no longer a political factor, and he has nothing at stake that might be affected either one way or another by the vote of Mr. Perkins."

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Annotated List of Elementary Books in the Public Library on Drawing.

Course in mechanical drawing, by J. S. Reid. Illustrated.

Contains in the author's judgment a complete and concise statement, accompanied by examples, of the essential principles of mechanical drawing.

Elements of mechanical drawing, by G. C. Anthony. Illustrated.

Takes up the use of instruments, geometrical problems and projection. Has good clear illustrations. Not adapted to the beginner.

Introductory course in mechanical drawing, by J. C. Tracy. Fully illustrated.

Intended for beginners. Its aim is to prepare the student for a more extended course in any one of the special lines of drafting. It assumes a working knowledge of the elements in geometry.

Learning to draw, by E. E. Viollet-Le-Duc. Illustrated.

Linear drawing, the application of practical geometry to trade and manufacture, by E. A. Davidson. Illustrated.

Assumes ignorance of geometry on part of pupils. The subject is not treated as a mathematical, but as a theoretically practical one.

Linear perspective and model drawing, by L. Ahberson. Illustrated.

Intended for class use, and claims to contain all that is necessary to give the student a comprehensive view of the application of perspective law to the drawing on a vertical plane of an object in any given position. Gives lessons with drawing, and questions and answers.

An elementary work on machine drawing. The author confines his attention mainly to the actual drawing of elementary pieces of machinery.

Practical course in mechanical drawing, by W. Fox, and C. W. Thomas. Illustrated.

The author's object is to provide a simple practical course of progressive lessons in mechanical drawing. All instructions are given, with a special concrete exercise.

CHILD'S BODY AGAIN TAKEN FROM GRAVE.

Examination Conducted By County Physician Long at Bernardsville, Yesterday.

For the second time the body of Margaret Kuhlewind, eight years old, was exhumed yesterday at the Episcopal cemetery, at Bernardsville, and an autopsy performed by County Physician William H. Long, assisted by several physicians.

The child was killed in an automobile accident last Aug. 14 and three days later the body was buried. Many floral tributes were laid on and about the little grave and the day after the burial the superintendent of the cemetery noticed that these had been disturbed.

An examination showed the grave had also been tampered with and subsequently the body was disinterred and an examination made. This showed that the body had been mutilated. There was no physician present when the body was exhumed the day after the burial and it was determined afterward to take it up again and make a more thorough examination.

When the child's body had been disinterred yesterday, it was taken to the rooms of Isaiah B. Bowers, an undertaker, where the autopsy was performed. County Prosecutor William H. Reger was present.

The examination showed that part of the body had been carried off by the ghouls, and the physicians present agreed that the mutilation had not been done for scientific purposes.

Two persons are under suspicion and are being carefully watched. The case has been placed in charge of County Detective Totten, who will take action if he should find evidence to warrant an arrest.

The child was killed when an automobile belonging to Grant B. Schley and driven by Thomas Clark, smashed into a telephone pole and was wrecked.

Clark was also killed and Ralph Hazleton, of Far Hills, died the next day in a Morristown hospital. Miss Adelaide Pepper, of Brooklyn, and Miss Bertha Engeleke, of New York, were severely injured, and Anna Kuhlewind, a sister of the child killed, was slightly hurt.

Nine Killed By Railroads.

According to a statement prepared by James Maybury, acting secretary of the State Railroad Commission, there were nine persons killed and six injured on the several railroads of the State during the week ending last Aug. 25. One person was killed on the Pennsylvania Railroad, one killed and one injured on the Philadelphia and Reading, four killed and two injured on the Lehigh Valley and two killed and three injured on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

FOUR DROWNED WITH LEGS TIED TO A PIER.

Man Supposed to Be Victim of Fight By Excursionists at Staten Island.

The body of Thomas H. Cahill, a Brooklyn sheet metal worker, was taken to Mitchell's morgue at Elizabethport yesterday. It was found tied to Bradley's pier at Cartaret by two boys, who notified the police.

The legs of the man had been tied with ropes to the pier. He was identified by a card of the Amalgated Sheet Metal Workers' Union of New York city, to which he belonged. There was a fight Sunday at Chelsea, Staten Island, among a number of excursionists from New York city, and it was reported that after the battle a man was missing. It is believed that Cahill was the victim of the scrimmage.

How he came to be fastened to the pier is a mystery. The coroner of Middlesex county in which Cartaret is, it being a part of the borough of Roosevelt, has begun an investigation.

On Horse, Saves Boy In Sea.

New York, Aug. 29.—Riding his horse out into the water until they had gone beyond the animal's depth, Policeman John Noonan yesterday saved nine-year-old Frederick Boyle, of No. 93 Bay Thirteenth street, Brooklyn, from drowning. While the child was bathing at the foot of Bay Eighth street, his mother, who was watchung him from the beach, saw him disappear. A moment later Noonan heard the woman's cries and galloped from the foot of Cropsey avenue to the boy's aid. He rode his mount into the water, staying in the saddle while the animal swam out toward the boys. Approaching the child, he left the horse, grasped the youngster and brought him ashore, while the horse followed the pair to land. Frank McMahon, a member of the neighboring life saving crew, resuscitated the lad.

Primal Instinct In Finance.

New York, Aug. 29.—After a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Illinois Central Railroad had broken up in confusion yesterday, Stuyvesant Fish, former president of the company, and J. T. Harahan, his successor, engaged in a heated altercation, which terminated in a violent personal encounter between them. Wall street reports circulated late in the afternoon were to the effect that Mr. Fish struck Mr. Harahan with his fist and that the two men clutched each other, stumbled over a chair and fell to the floor together before they could be separated by their colleagues of the Board, who were horrified at the sensational conclusion of the meeting.

Hunterdon is Loyal.

We were honored on Wednesday by a call from the two Democratic candidates for Governor, James E. Martine and Frank S. Katzenbach. We enjoyed both calls and hope to place one or the other of their names at the head of our columns after the State Convention. Both are earnest in their interest for the welfare of the State and either would make an ideal Governor. We feel, as we have stated heretofore, that the Democrats of Hunterdon county have a warm spot for Mr. Martine. He is personally known to many here and if he should be the choice of the convention he would receive more votes in Hunterdon county than any man who has been named for the nomination.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

Martine Solid There.

Frank S. Katzenback, the Trenton Democratic candidate for Governor, has a good deal of self-confidence or he would not be going to agricultural pienics throughout the State and shaking hands with the people in competition with Farmer Orator Martine. Neither one of them has thought of coming up to Passaic county and looking for its seventy to eighty votes in the State convention. There is talk about the "Farmer" wandering over in this direction next week, but nothing definite has been given out by the chairman of the Democratic county committee. Mr. Martine has many friends in Paterson.—Paterson Evening News.

Shark Bites Off Man's Leg.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.—A shark bit off the leg of John Johnson, a member of the crew of the United States gunboat Scorpion, on the trip from the West Indies to Boston, and the next day the monster, nearly twelve feet long, was captured after a terrific struggle and killed upon the ship's deck. Johnson was taken to the Marine Hospital in Chelsea.

Mr. Morris Left $20,000,000.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 29.—Persons conversant with the affairs of Nelson Morris, who died Tuesday, estimate that he left an estate valued at approximately $20,000,000. It is believed by Mr. Morris' business and other associates that a large part of this wealth will be devoted to charitable endowments.

Killed in a Horse Race.

Glens Falls, N. Y., Aug. 29.—At the races at the Washington County Fair Ned Hudson, a horse, caught its foot in a quarter boot and turned two somersaults. Nelson Percey, the driver, was thrown, his neck broken and his head crushed.

Mrs. Thomas Williams, of Peekskill, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. Mary C. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue.

PAINTERS HAD A GOOD TIME.

Local Union Entertained by New Brunswick Union.

The members of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers' Union of America, of New Brunswick, entertained the members of the Plainfield Union, No. 189, Tuesday evening. The visitors reached New Brunswick on the 8.05 o'clock trolley and were received by the reception committee of the local union, and upon arriving at their rooms they were warmly welcomed by Jonathan Jones, the president, after which an excellent program was rendered.

Harold Clickner entertained with piano selections, and an address was made by J. E. McAllister. Musical selections were then rendered by Professor Luckens. John Vardon, of Plainfield, rendered a vocal selection, which was followed by an address by John Mathews, also of this city.

The second part of the program, which was carefully arranged by the committee in charge, then ensued, with a selection by William Fletcher, of New Brunswick. Prof. Luckens entertained with some trick piano playing. James Sutton, of this city, entertained with a vocal selection, as did N. Mulligan, of New Brunswick. Theo. Bennett entertained with his wonderful magic. Addresses were made by J. Anderson and W. Greves, of this city, and selections were rendered by L. Brown, of New Brunswick, and William Spaulding, of this city.

Peacemakers at Work.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt and President Diaz, of Mexico, yesterday, informed the Presidents of the five respective Central American republics that the United States and Mexico were ready to act as mediators in any present or future difficulties which may arise between them. This means that unless some of the Central American republics reject the idea the United States and Mexico will act as joint sponsors to a peace pact to be signed by delegates of the five republics at a conference to be held in Washington early next year. Replies from the Central American Presidents are expected at the State Department tomorrow.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of March 9, 1871:

"A masquerade surprise party was held last week in the residence of Alfred D. Cook, of this city. Though the host was unavoidably absent, Mrs. Cook rendered every hospitality, aided by Messrs. Bogert and Freeman and Mr. M. H. Bergen, as floor managers. The affair passed off in a very successful manner. The characters sustained were Mrs. William Flagg, in Domino, Mrs. Mundy as a flower girl, Mrs. Dickson as a genuine heathen Chinese, Miss Maggie Freeman as a Scotch lassie, Dr. and Mrs. Voorhees as an Irish couple, Miss Bruce as an Irish woman, Mrs. William Runyon was dressed in an exceedingly unique costume, made of Herald newspapers, and having the headings visible on all the borders. Mrs. William Freeman sustained well the character of an old dame, Mrs. George Clark in domino, Mrs. Peter Bogert as Topsy, Miss Katie Smith as a rag picker, Miss Laura Smith as a French maid, Miss Clyne wore a most elaborate dress of Queen Elizabeth style, another Miss Clyne was dressed in domino, Miss Sarah Young in black domino, Miss Dubois in domino, Mrs. Goddard as a hunch-back, Mr. Edward Nelson and Mr. William Young were in comic costumes, Mr. Cory as the Daughter of the Regiment, Mr. Charles Hugg as a clown, Mr. Goddard as Brother Jonathan, Mr. James Bergen as father of his country, Mr. Peter Bogert was a success as the girl of the period, Mr. Thrall in easy dress, Mr. George Clark as Jack Tar, Mr. William Freeman as Hamlet's ghost, Mr. William Runyon in court dress, Mr. Philpitt as an Irishman, Mr. Dickson as the heathen Chinese, Mr. Mundy as an old lady, Mr. William Flagg as an old man, and many others in fantastic costumes, were present. A sumptuous supper was spread before the guests and under the influence of good music the dancing was kept up until late in the night."

From the issue of March 16, 1871:

"The following facts about population and buildings of our beautiful city are taken from the Plainfield Herald, published by Isaac Coles, in 1835, and will doubtless prove of interest to our readers:

"'We have taken some pains to procure such facts and items of information respecting our village in regard to its rise, progress and prosperity, as we deemed interesting and useful to our readers. The first house built in Plainfield was put up in 1735 and the population at that time was but ten.

"'The following table will show the progressive increase of houses and inhabitants for a number of years from 1735 down to the present year:

Year.	No. Houses Built.	No. Inhabitants.
1735	1	10
1755	1	14
1765	3	36
1770	1	47
1775	1	55
1780	3	75
1785	1	90
1790	5	126
1795	3	159
1800	1	155
1905	7	215
1810	18	275
1815	12	359
1820	11	430
1825	8	490
1826	3	520
1827	5	669
1828	5	600
1829	9	630
1830	4	700
1831	6	743
1832	3	789
1833	12	860
1834	9	900
1835	5	1030

"'And about 30 will be finished during the year. . . . There are in the village 3 physicians and 1 lawyer. . . . The total number of buildings is estimated at 300.

"'A school-house was first built about 1760 and about 1783 the Friends' old meeting house was erected. This was the first place of public worship in Plainfield.'"

"We anticipated laying before our readers with this article the number of inhabitants and houses now constituting our city, but have been unable to find out the same accurately, as the census taken in 1870 has not yet been laid before the public. From the most reliable information we can gather, we have now a population of between 9 and 10 thousand souls, (taking in North Plainfield) and some 1,500 houses now constitute Plainfield. For the past two years houses have been built in the city at the rate of from 150 to 200 a year."

"The handsomest residence in Plainfield, we think, is that of Mr. Joseph B. Coward, recently erected next to the 1st Presbyterian church. It is a model of architectural skill both in exterior and in interior."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Tyfeldt, of East Sixth street, are entertaining relatives from Ogdensburg, N. Y.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 1.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—"I can" and "I can't."—Isa. xxxv, 3, 4; xxx, 15, 18; Heb. iii, 14.

"Can" and "can't" are two small words, and yet their influence upon the lives of men is tremendous, affecting even their eternal destinies. The man who possesses the "can" spirit is usually able to accomplish the work which he desires to perform, while the one who lacks confidence in himself and folds his arms and says "I can't" seldom accomplishes anything. When Napoleon spoke of leading his army to Italy, the difficulty of the Alps was mentioned. He declared, "There shall be no Alps," and in such a spirit he was successful in his campaign. On another occasion he said, "There is no such word as 'can't' in my dictionary." Would that all men possessed this spirit of determination, not for the selfish purposes of Napoleon, but for the purpose of serving God in Jesus Christ and living for the benefit of humanity.

Never say "I can't." Any Christian Endeavorer should be ashamed to use such an expression. Even if we have not sufficient confidence in ourselves or the grace and power of God to say "I can," yet let us at least be willing to say "I'll try," and if we try persistently we shall succeed. How dare any one say "I can't," especially to God's commands? Before we try how can we know that we cannot do that which is required of us? How do you know you cannot pray in public if you have never tried? How do you know that you cannot speak to an unsaved person about his soul's salvation if you have never tried? How do you know that you cannot help the weak and strengthen those who seem to be helpless if you have never made any effort to do so? We may little dream of the possibilities of our lives, the latent talents. Make the effort, and God may wonderfully use you in His kingdom.

Try always to say "I can." Paul said it concerning all things. "I can do all things through Christ." Self conceit should have no part in our opinions of what we can do. "Through Christ I can" should be our motto.

Ask the Saviour to help you;
He will carry you through.

BIBLE READINGS.

Num. xiii, 26-30, 31-33; I Sam. xvii, 1-11, 28-32; II Cor. xii, 7-10; Matt. xxviii, 20; John xiv, 10-14.

Progressive State President.

North Dakota has an aggressive and a progressive state president in the person of Rev. E. P. Lawrence of Minot. In a recent letter speaking of the needs of North Dakota he said, "The young people have a mighty work to be done here, and there is no better agency to direct the activities of our young people of today and for the future years than the Christian Endeavor movement."

REV. E. P. LAWRENCE.

Japan to Geneva.

This message was cabled to the Geneva convention:

The Switzerland of Asia to the Switzerland of Europe—Greeting:

Kyoto, the old capital of Japan, the home of Neesima and his Doshisha, city of this year's convention, sends a message to Geneva, the metropolis of Switzerland, the city of John Calvin and the valiant defender of civil and religious liberty.

Higher than your Alps or our Fuji are the ideals of Christian Endeavor, loyalty to Jesus Christ and His universal church.

We join with you in pledging ourselves to still more earnest endeavor toward hastening the triumphant reign of peace among the nations, Brotherhood between the races and spiritual fellowship in Christ Jesus among all God's children on earth.

TAMURA, SAWAYA,
PETTEE.

For the Japan Union of Christian Endeavor.

The Profits of Missions.

The Epworth Herald thus outlines a good plan for a missionary meeting: "A most striking exhibit of the gain of missions may be made, dividing the subject into these parts: The commercial gains, the geographical gains, the scientific gains, the gains of civilization in general, the spiritual gains. The missionary libraries have abundance of material which will illustrate the power of prayer and remarkable answers to prayer in the mission field. Every missionary who has won success will testify that the use of prayer in his work has been the chief secret of its progress."

A New Invasion of Russia.

A note from Rev. Frederick Blecher, secretary of the German Christian Endeavor union, says: "We have now two Christian Endeavor societies in Russia and hope for more soon. One of our leading evangelists will visit the Baltic provinces, Petersburg and southern Russia in September and October. We intend also to support a field secretary for German and Lettish speaking Russia, Rev. Mr. Baltz of Riga, in conjunction with our English brethren, who will contribute an 'Endeavor penny' on next Christian Endeavor birthday."

Its Chief Work Ahead.

"The Christian Endeavor movement," wrote the Rev. F. B. Meyer recently, "has achieved marvels in the twenty-five years which have now passed over it; but its greatest work lies ahead."

Corporation Notice.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice that a certified copy of the Assessment of Robert A. Meeker, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald, the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessment to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled 'An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," approved February 8th, 1905, as subsequently ratified and confirmed by the Common Council, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections), under and by virtue of said Act of the Legislature, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in Cities of this State," approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said Act of the Legislature, said report and assessments covering the whole of said system of sewerage and appurtenances already completed, (not covered by assessments heretofore made) and particularly in and through the following described streets and parts of streets, to wit:

Darrow Avenue; North Front Street; Park Lane; Park Terrace; Irving Place; Essex Street, between Spooner Avenue and Darrow Avenue;

Midway Avenue, between East Third Street and Berckman Street;

East Sixth Street, between Richmond Street and Central Street;

Columbia Avenue, between Frederick Street and Leland Avenue;

East Seventh Street, between Leland Avenue and Belvidere Avenue;

Berckman Street, between East Front Street and North Avenue;

East Fourth Street, from Richmond Street to 750 Feet West;

East Second Street, from Berckman Street to Netherwood Avenue;

including house connections and including appurtenances of said sewerage system in connection therewith; the said streets and parts of streets in which the same were so made and constructed and the location and dimensions of the several lots, tracts and parcels of land and real estate so assessed being delineated on a certain set of maps numbered "1," "2," and "3," and each map marked "Sewer Construction Map, June, 1907," and attested by the signatures of the said Commissioners and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes July 1, 1907, which said report and assessment were originally filed in the City Clerk's office July 1st, 1907, and ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said city on the fifth day of August, A. D. 1907, has been furnished and delivered to the subscriber by the Common Council of said City and a certified copy of such assessment has been duly entered in the book kept for that purpose in the office of the subscriber, and payment of the sums assessed as aforesaid, is hereby required to be made within sixty days from and after the eighth day of August, 1907, being the date of the first publication of this notice.

Said assessments are required to be paid at the office of the subscriber, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J. The law provides that in case said assessments shal remain unpaid at the expiration of sixty days from and after such first publication, the said assessments shall draw interest thereon from that time at the rate of one per centum per month; and it shall be the duty of the Collector to proceed forthwith in the collection of said assessments by a sale of the land in respect of which said assessments may have been made.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sept. 1: "The divine call." "Ye did not choose Me, but I chose you and appointed you that ye should go and bear fruit and that your fruit should abide."—John xv, 16.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference: Matt. iv, 18-22; Luke v, 1-11, 27-28; ix, 57-62; xviii, 18-23; Acts xxvi, 13-20; II Tim. i, 9; iv, 6-8.

(Epworth League Rally Day.)

In a very true sense Jesus Christ calls men now, as He did in the days of His earthly lifetime, to follow Him. And those who heed His call and obey it are sent out into the world to do His service. Those called are from all occupations and all grades in society now, as they were then.

We do not always realize that there were many whom Jesus called who did not respond to His summons. Some were too much engrossed in business affairs, while others thought too much of the position they occupied in society and which they would forfeit in becoming His followers. It is the same today and ever has been.

Those who obey the call find themselves thrust out into active work and plenty of it. They are called to bring things to pass. They are first of all to understood that they are called to obey and live the obedient life. He is Master, and as He commands so they are to do. They are to follow Him. That does not always mean to do just as He did. We are not to be imitators of Jesus, but followers, which is a far different thing. We are to know the divine life within us as He knew it, and then it is to bring forth in us fruit, as it brought forth fruit in Him. But to every one is given his own individual task. Peter cannot do as John, nor James as Paul must do. Neither one can be a Christ. So the question for each to ask is not what does some one else do, not even what would Jesus do, but "What wilt thou have me to do, Lord?"

This is the essential lesson for all Leaguers to learn at the outset. Our one work is to do the Master's will. Before we can do it we must know what it is. This He reveals to us, and to us only. No one else can tell you what duty for you is. This is a very solemn fact and not always a pleasant one, for it means much personal responsibility and perhaps not a little of personal loneliness.

This is great work the Lord has in hand, and to those who join Him in the work there comes an enlargement of nature, a growth of soul, until greatness like His own begins to be theirs.

This is rally day. Vacations are passed, and now the real work of busy life begins again in earnest. The outings have brought many and varied experiences to all. Are we better than when the summer began? We ought to be. Have we received any uplift, any higher impulse, from the past few weeks? If we have, now is the time to let it become apparent in better work for the Lord. If we are not in as good shape as when the warm weather began, but have lost ground, now is the time to make improvement.

This season ought to mean much for every one of us. The King's work requires haste. This business is urgent and cannot be deferred. Let there be earnest and whole souled consecration to the service, with the firm determination to live for Christ more devotedly than ever before. The work demands it; we need it, and, above all, the Master desires it.

Whatever hindrances there may be in the way, it is better to face them and settle the matter once for all that, as for me, I will follow Christ at all times and wholly.

Severing the Line to a Divine Message

When we turn away from some duty or some fellow creature, saying that our hearts are too sick and sore with some great yearning of our own, we may often sever the line on which a divine message was coming to us. We shut out the man, and we shut out the angel who had sent him on to open the door.—Edward Garrett.

Things to Think About.

Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.—Goldsmith.

If a man is to be a pillar in the temple of his God by and by, he must be some kind of a prop in God's house today.—M. D. Babcock.

I would that all party names and party creeds were forgotten and that all would sit at the feet of Jesus.—John Wesley.

Nothing can bring you peace but yourself. Nothing can bring you peace but the triumph of principles.—Ralph W. Emerson.

The very first condition of lasting happiness is that a life should be full of purpose, aiming at something outside of self.—Black.

Love of God and love of country are the two noblest passions in a human heart. And these two unite in home missions.—Henry Van Dyke.

God hides some idea in every human soul, and life finds its noblest spring of excellence in this hidden impulse to do our best.—Robert Collyer.

While the cup of blessing may and often does run over, I doubt if the cup of suffering is ever more than filled to the brim.—George MacDonald.

Look not mournfully into the past—it comes not back again; wisely improve the present—it is thine; go forth to meet the shadowy future without fear and with a manly heart.—Longfellow.

Never meet trouble halfway; it will come soon enough, and then you will meet it where God meant you should meet it and where He will help you to bear it.—Spurgeon.

When a man does a noble act, do him from that; forget his faults; let his noble act be the standpoint from which you regard him. There is no man that is good in the worst of men.—Henry W. Bellows, D. D.

BOB HAMPTON of PLACER

By RANDALL PARRISH AUTHOR OF "WHEN WILDERNESS WAS KING" "MY LADY OF THE NORTH" "HISTORIC ILLINOIS," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1906 BY A. C. McCLURG & CO.

"I suppose I might just as well drop out that way as any other," he reflected, thoughtfully. "It's all in the game."

Lying flat upon his stomach, both arms extended, he slowly forced himself beyond his bowlder into the open. There was no great distance to be traversed, and a considerable portion of the way was somewhat protected by low bushes. Hampton took few chances of those spying eyes above, never uplifting his head the smallest fraction of an inch, but reaching forward with blindly groping hands, caught hold upon any projecting root or stone which enabled him to drag his body an inch farther. Twice they fired directly down at him from the opposite summit, and once a fleck of sharp rock, chipped by a glancing bullet, embedded itself in his cheek, dyeing the whole side of his face crimson. But not once did he pause or glance aside; nor did the girl look up from the imploring face of her dead. As he crept silently in, sheltering himself next to the body of the dead man, she perceived his presence for the first time, and shrank back as if in dread.

"What are you doing? Why—why did you come here?" she questioned, a falter in her voice; and he noticed that her eyes were dark and large, yielding a marked impress of beauty to her face.

"I was unwilling to leave you here alone," he answered, quietly, "and hope to discover some means for getting you safely back beside the others."

"But I didn't want you," and there was a look of positive dislike in her widely opened eyes.

"Didn't want me?" He echoed these unexpected words in a tone of complete surprise. "Surely you could not desire to be left here alone? Why didn't you want me?"

"Because I know who you are!" Her voice seemed to catch in her throat. "He told me. You're the man who shot Jim Eberly."

Mr. Hampton was never of a pronounced emotional nature, nor was he a person easily disconcerted, yet he flushed at the sound of these impulsive words, and the confident smile deserted his lips. For a moment they sat thus, the dead body lying between, and looked at each other. When the man finally broke the constrained silence a deeper intonation had crept into his voice.

"My girl," he said gravely, and not without a suspicion of pleading, "this is no place for me to attempt any defense of a shooting affray in a gambling house, although I might plead with some justice that Eberly enjoyed the honor of shooting first. I was not aware of your personal feeling in the matter, or I might have permitted some one else to come here in my stead. Now it is too late. I have never spoken to you before, and do so at this time merely from a sincere desire to be of some assistance."

There was that in his manner of grave courtesy which served to steady the girl. Probably never before in all her rough frontier experience had she been addressed thus formally. Her closely compressed lips twitched nervously, but her questioning eyes remained unlowered.

"You may stay," she asserted, soberly. "Only don't touch me."

No one could ever realize how much those words hurt him. Not until he had completely conquered his first unwise impulse to retort angrily, did he venture again to speak.

"I hope to aid you in getting back beside the others, where you will be less exposed."

"Will you take him?"

"He is dead," Hampton said, soberly, "and I can do nothing to aid him. But there remains a chance for you to escape."

"Then I won't go," she declared, positively.

Hampton's gray eyes looked for a long moment fixedly into her darker ones, while the two took mental stock of each other. He realized the utter futility of any further argument, while she felt instinctively the cool, dominating strength of the man. Neither was composed of that poor fiber which bends.

"Very well, my young lady," he said, easily, stretching himself out more comfortably in the rock shadow. "Then I will remain here with you; it makes small odds."

Excepting for one hasty, puzzled glance, she did not deign to look again toward him, and the man rested motionless upon his back, staring up at the sky. Finally, curiosity overmastered the actor in him, and he turned partially upon one side, so as to bring her profile within his range of vision. Her dark, glowing eyes were lowered upon the white face of the dead man, yet Hampton noted how clear, in spite of sun-tan, were those tints of health upon the rounded cheek, and how soft and glossy shone her wealth of rumpled hair. Even the tinge of color, so distasteful in the full glare of the sun, appeared to have darkened under the shadow, its shade framing the downcast face into a pensive fairness. Then he observed how dry and parched her lips were.

"Take a drink of this," he insisted heartily, holding out toward her as he spoke his partially filled canteen.

She started at the unexpected sound of his voice, yet uplifted the welcome water to her mouth, while Hampton, observing it all closely, could but remark the delicate shapeliness of her hand.

"If that old fellow was her father," he reflected soberly, "I should like to have seen her mother."

"Thank you," she said simply, handing back the canteen, but without lifting her eyes again to his face. "I was so thirsty." Her low tone, endeavoring to be polite enough, contained no note of encouragement.

"Was Gillis your father?" the man questioned, determined to make her recognize his presence.

"I suppose so; I don't know."

"You don't know? Am I to understand you are actually uncertain whether this man was your father or not?"

"That is about what I said, wasn't it? Not that it is any of your business, so far as I know, Mr. Bob Hampton, but I answered you all right. He brought me up, and I called him 'dad' about as far back as I can remember, but I don't reckon as he ever told me he was my father. So you can understand just what you please."

"His name was Gillis, wasn't it?"

The girl nodded wearily.

"Post-trader at Fort Bethune?"

Again the rumpled head silently acquiesced.

"What is your name?"

"He always called me 'kid,'" she admitted unwillingly, "but I reckon if you have any further occasion for addressing me, you'd better say 'Miss Gillis.'"

"Heaven preserve me!" he exclaimed good naturedly, "but you are certainly laying it on thick, young lady! However, I believe we might become good friends if we ever have sufficient luck to get out from this hole alive. Darn if I don't sort of cotton to you, little girl—you've got some sand."

For a brief space her truthful, angry eyes rested scornfully upon his face, her lips parted as though trembling with a sharp retort. Then she deliberately turned her back upon him without uttering a word.

For what may have been the first and only occasion in Mr. Hampton's audacious career, he realized his utter helplessness. This mere slip of a red-headed girl, this little nameless waif of the frontier, condemned him so completely, and without waste of words, as to leave him weaponless.

Mr. Hampton was a thorough-going sport, and no quality was quite so apt to appeal to him as dead gameness. He glanced surreptitiously aside at her once more, but there was no sign of relenting in the averted face. He rested lower against the rock, his face upturned toward the sky, and thought.

It was no spirit of bravado that gave rise to his reckless speech of an hour previous. It was simply a spontaneous outpouring of his real nature, an unpremeditated expression of that supreme carelessness with which he regarded the future, the small value he set on life. He truly felt as utterly indifferent toward fate as his words signified. Deeply conscious of a life long ago irretrievably wrecked, everything behind a chaos, everything before worthless,—for years he had been actually seeking death; a hundred times he had gladly marked its apparent approach, a smile of welcome upon his lips. Yet it had never quite succeeded in reaching him; and nothing had been gained beyond a reputation for cool, reckless daring, which he did not in the least covet. But now, miracle of all miracles, just as the end seemed actually attained, seemed beyond any possibility of being turned aside, he began to experience a desire to live—he wanted to save this girl.

"I Can't Help Him, But There Remains a Chance for Your Escape."

His keenly observant eyes, trained by the exigencies of his trade to take note of small things, and rendered eager by this newly awakened ambition, scanned the cliff towering above them. He perceived the extreme irregularity of its front, and numerous peculiarities of formation which had escaped him hitherto. Suddenly his puzzled face brightened to the birth of an idea. By heavens! it might be done! Surely it might be done! Inch by inch he traced the obscure passage seeking to impress each faint detail upon his memory—that narrow ledge within easy reach of an upstretched arm, the sharp outcropping of rock-edges here and there, the deep gash as though some giant ax had cleaved the stone, those sturdy cedars growing straight out over the chasm like the bowsprits of ships, while all along the way, irregular and ragged, varied rifts not entirely unlike the steps of a crazy staircase.

The very conception of such an exploit caused his flesh to creep. But he was not of that class of men who fall back dazed before the face of danger. Again and again, led by an impulse he was unable to resist, he studied that precipitous rock, every nerve tingling to the newborn hope. God helping them, even so desperate a deed might be accomplished, although it would test the foot and nerve of a Swiss mountaineer. He glanced again uneasily toward his companion, and saw the same motionless figure, the same somber face turned deliberately away. Hampton did not smile, but his square jaw set, and he clinched his hands. He had no fear that she might fail him, but for the first time in all his life he questioned his own courage.

CHAPTER III.

Between Life and Death.

The remainder of that day, as well as much of the gloomy night following, composed a silent lingering horror. The fierce pangs of hunger no longer gnawed, but a dull apathy now held the helpless defenders. One of the wounded died, a mere lad, sobbing pitifully for his mother, an infantryman, peering forth from his covert, had been shot in the face, and his scream echoed among the rocks in multiplied accents of agony, while Wyman lay tossing and moaning, mercifully unconscious. The others rested in their places, scarcely venturing to stir a limb, their roving, wolfish eyes the only visible evidence of remaining life, every hope vanished, yet each man clinging to his assigned post of duty in desperation. There was but little firing—the defenders nursing their slender stock, the savages biding their time. When night shut down the latter became bolder, and taunted cruelly those destined to become so soon their hapless victims. Twice the maddened men fired recklessly at those dancing devils, and one pitched forward, emitting a howl of pain that caused his comrades to cower once again behind their covers. One and all these frontiersmen recognized the inevitable—before dawn the end must come. No useless words were spoken; the men merely clinched their teeth and waited.

Hampton crept closer in beside the girl while the shadows deepened, and ventured to touch her hand. Perhaps the severe strain of their situation, the intense loneliness of that Indian-haunted twilight, had somewhat softened her resentment, for she made no effort now to repulse him.

"Kid," he said at last, "are you game for a try at getting out of this?"

She appeared to hesitate over her answer, and he could feel her tumultuous breathing. Some portion of her aversion had vanished.

"Come, Kid," he ventured finally, yet with new assurance vibrating in his low voice; "this is surely a poor time and place for any indulgence in tantrums, and you've got more sense. I'm going to try to climb up the face of that cliff yonder,—it's the only possible way out from here,—and I propose to take you along with me."

She snatched her hand roughly away, yet remained facing him. "Who gave you any right to decide what I should do?"

The man clasped his fingers tightly about her slender arm, advancing his face until he could look squarely into hers. She read in the lines of that determined countenance a inflexible resolve which overmastered her.

"The right given by Almighty God to protect any one of your sex in peril," he replied. "Before dawn those savage fiends will be upon us. We are utterly helpless. There remains only one possible path for escape, and I believe I have discovered it. Now, my girl, you either climb those rocks with me, or I shall kill you where you are. It is that, or the Sioux torture. I have two shots left in this gun,—one for you, the other for myself. The time has come for deciding which of these alternatives you prefer."

Never Once Did the Man Loosen His Grasping Grip of His Companion.

"If I select your bullet rather than the rocks, what then?"

"You will get it, but in that case you will die like a fool."

"You have believed me to be one, all this afternoon."

"Possibly," he admitted; "your words and actions certainly justified some such conclusion, but the opportunity has arrived for causing me to revise that suspicion."

"I don't care to have you revise it, Mr. Bob Hampton. If I go, I shall hate you just the same."

Hampton's teeth clicked like those of an angry dog. "Hate and be damned," he exclaimed roughly. "All I care about now is to drag you out of here alive."

"Well, if you put it that way," she said, "I'll go."

"Come on, then," he whispered, his fingers grasping her sleeve.

She shook off the restraining touch of his hand as if it were contamination and sank down upon her knees beside the inert body. He could barely perceive the dim outlines of her bowed figure, yet never moved, his breath perceptibly quickening, while he watched and waited. Without word or moan she bent yet lower and pressed her lips upon the cold, white face. The man caught no more than the faintest echo of a murmured "Good-by, old dad; I wish I could take you with me." Then she stood stiffly upright, facing him. "I'm ready now," she announced calmly. "You can go on ahead."

They crept among low shrubs and around the bowlders, carefully guarding every slightest movement lest some rustle of disturbed foliage, or sound of loosened stone, might draw the fire of those keen watchers. Every inch of their progress was attained through tedious groping, yet the distance to be traversed was short, and Hampton soon found himself pressing against the uprising precipice. Against that background of dark cliff they might venture to stand erect, the faint glimmer of reflected light barely sufficient to reveal to each the shadowy outline of the other.

"Don't move an inch from this spot," he whispered. "It wouldn't be a square deal, Kid, to leave those poor fellows to their death without even telling them there's a chance to get out."

She attempted no reply, as he glided noiselessly away, but her face, could he have seen it, was not devoid of expression. This was an act of generosity and deliberate courage of the very kind most apt to appeal to her nature, and within her secret heart there was rapidly developing a respect for this man, who with such calm assurance won his own way. Then, suddenly, that black curtain was rent by jagged spurts of red and yellow flame. Dazed for an instant, her heart throbbing wildly to the sharp reports of the rifles, she shrank cowering back, her fascinated gaze fixed on those imp-like figures leaping forward from rock to rock. Almost with the flash and sound Hampton sprang hastily back and gathered her in his arms.

She retained no longer any memory of Hampton; her brain was completely terrorized. Inch by inch, foot by foot, clinging to a fragment of rock here, grasping a slippery branch there, occasionally helped by encountering a deeper gash in the face of the precipice, her movements concealed by the scattered cedars, she toiled feverishly up. The first time she became aware that Hampton was closely following was when her feet slipped along a naked root, and she would have plunged headlong into unknown depths had she not come in sudden contact with his supporting shoulder. Faint and dizzy, and trembling like a leaf of an aspen, she crept forward onto a somewhat wider ledge of thin rock, and lay there quivering painfully from head to foot. A moment of suspense, and he was outstretched beside her, resting at full length along the very outer edge, his hand closing tightly over her own.

"Remain perfectly quiet," he whispered, panting heavily. "We can be no safer anywhere else."

Shots and yells, the dull crash of blows, the shouts of men engaged in a death grapple, the sharp crackling of innumerable rifles, the inarticulate moans of pain, the piercing scream of sudden torture, were borne upward to them from out the blackness. All at once the hideous uproar ceased with a final yelping of triumph, seemingly reechoed the entire length of the chasm, in the midst of which one single voice pleaded pitifully,—only to die away in a shriek. The two agonized fugitives lay listening, their ears strained to catch the slightest sound from below. Hampton's ears could discern evidences of movement, and he heard guttural voices calling at a distance, but to the vision all was black.

REGISTRY AND ELECTION NOTICE!

PRIMARY ELECTION, SEPT. 10th, 1907.
CHARTER, MUNICIPAL AND GENERAL ELECTION, NOVEMBER 5th, 1907.
COUNTY OF UNION.

Pursuant to an act entitled, "An Act to regulate Elections" (Revision of 1898), approved April 4th, 1898, with the amendments thereof, and other acts, concerning elections, and the constitutional provisions concerning the right of suffrage, notice is hereby given that the District Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in the City of Elizabeth, will meet on the second Tuesday in September, 1907, (10th) at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the places in their respective Election Districts where the City Clerk shall designate, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

The District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for purposes of registration at their respective places, on October 8th and 22nd, 1907, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

And the Boards of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in said County of Union, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will meet on Tuesday, September 3rd, 1907, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in their respective Election Districts where the next election will be held, and having first organized, shall proceed to ascertain and truly and accurately enter in canvassing books, to be provided for that purpose, the names and residences and street numbers, if any, of all legal voters within their respective election districts entitled to vote therein, by making actual inquiry at every dwelling house, etc., in the manner prescribed by law, and shall continue such enumeration until the same is completed, provided, that such enumeration shall terminate on or before the Friday next succeeding.

The District Boards of Registry and Election, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for the purpose of registration, at their respective places, on Tuesday, September 10th, 1907, and Tuesday, October 29th, 1907, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

Notice is further given that a Primary Election will be held on Tuesday, September 10th, 1907, between the hours of 1 o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m., in the various election districts, wards, boroughs and townships in the County of Union, for the election of delegates to conventions of political parties, or for making nominations or for both, as the case may be.

Ballots to be used at said Primary to be furnished to District Boards of Registry and Election by the different city, borough and township clerks in the County of Union.

Canfield's Hard Year.

Saratoga, Aug. 29.—Richard Canfield has decided to shake the dust of Saratoga, from his feet, and this watering place will know him no more. Hundreds who drove by his beautiful grounds yesterday were confronted by huge signs, which ran as follows: "This plot of ground, and all the buildings thereon, for sale." Mr. Canfield was seen last night in his club house, which for a week has been practically deserted because there are no spenders here now. He said: "This place is for sale because as it is seen now, it is a dead loss to me. I usually run the restaurant in the month of August at a loss of about $10,000. This year the loss will be about $20,000, and I intend to sell for whatever I can get for the place. I have no price. The place cost about $800,000 and I intend to sell it."

OBITUARY.

Sophia Thankful Emerson.

Sophia Thankful Emerson, widow of Jesse M. Emerson, died last night at her home, "Inter-Haven" cottage on Prospect avenue, just back of Brookside sanitarium. She was eighty-seven years old but had been enjoying comparatively good health until a short time ago. The funeral will be held at the late residence, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

Quietly Married Monday.

Miss Norah Shay, of the borough, became the wife of Herman Lister, Monday evening, when Father Miller, of St. Joseph's church, performed the ceremony at the rectory. Mr. and Mrs. Kinderbeck acted as witnesses. After the ceremony, A. G. Perry, Jr., of Harrison avenue, entertained the couple at a supper.

Country Club Tennis.

The ladies tennis championship in singles of the Plainfield Country Club will begin on Saturday, September 14th at 10 a. m. The championship cup will be presented by George P. Mellick. The men's championship tournament in singles will be begun on the same day at 2.30. The cup will be presented by the tennis committee. Runners up cups will be awarded in both events. Entries will close for both events on Friday evening, September 13th, at 8 o'clock with T. M. Day, 740 Carlton avenue.

Truell Hall Musicale.

A musicale was held at Truell Hall, last night. It was enjoyed by over two hundred of the guests and their friends.

Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, of East Second street, has returned home from Williamsport, Pa.

PLAY FOR SCRATCH CUP AT P. C. C. SATURDAY

LOCAL GOLFERS WILL COMPETE FOR HOLIDAY CUP LABOR DAY.

Country Club golfers who have won a leg on the Scratch Cup offered by the club for the lowest net score each week, will meet Saturday afternoon in the preliminary round of play for the possession of the trophy. There are just a dozen members of the club who have won the right to compete for the cup, and these are the best men of Class A. The conditions call for eighteen holes match play, and the winners Saturday will go into the first round matches to be played Labor Day morning. The semi-finals will be played in the afternoon, and the final round will be decided Saturday afternoon, September 7.

Drawings for this match in the preliminary round to be played this Saturday have resulted in the following pairings. W. D. Riggs vs. Robert Abbott, F. O. Reinhart drew bye. H. D. Hibbard vs. Dudley H. Barrows, C. B. Morgan drew bye, R. S. Rowland vs. W. L. Glenney, G. F. Schoonmaker vs. George E. Cathcart, W. T. Glenney and C. A. Stover drew byes. This bunch includes the best players of the club, with "Bob" Abbott, the recent winner at Deal, Dudley H. Barrows, who played first class golf there, and C. B. Morgan and W. L. Glenney, whose work on the local links has been of high class. The closing rounds of this match play should be golf worthy of a big gallery.

Labor Day at the club will have two other golf events. There will be two special events for two cups, open to members of Class A and Class B, a cup to be awarded to the winner in each class. The trophies are known as the Labor Day cups, and will be competed for in thirty-six hole matches, with handicaps.

State Convention.

BOWLERS GET READY FOR ANOTHER SEASON

ALLEY CRACKS WILL RESUME ACTIVITY NEXT MONDAY—CLUB PLANS.

With the advent of cool evenings interest in bowling is beginning to make itself evident. The ardent followers of the game last season are beginning to talk form and new records, and more than one plan for contests has been shaped.

The academy alleys on East Second street will open Monday morning, and the cracks are beginning to oil their arms in anticipation of the new season's opening. Most of them have rolled a bit at shore or city alleys that are available in summer, and all of them are sure their gait will be fast and faster than last season.

Judge Runyon, Chief of Police Kiely, George Firstbrook and others of the regulars at the alleys are planning the organization of a club. The membership will be limited, and the members will roll for prizes. The contestants will be handicapped.

The alleys have been thoroughly renovated. They are right up to the truest, fastest alleys in the State.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. J. Alphonsa Le Chia will speak tonight and Sunday night at the Ebenezer Baptist church.

At the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight Mrs. Brown, of the Cninatown Mission, New York, will speak.

Rev. Dr. Griesemer, of Baltimore, will preach next Sunday in the First Baptist church, both morning and evening.

Rev. E. P. Johnson, D. D., will occupy Dr. Schenck's pulpit at Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning. There will be no service in the evening.

Services will be resumed in the Congregational church next Sunday with the morning service and Sunday-school. By arrangement of the official board, Rev. Mr. Wright, of the Anti-Saloon League, will speak at the morning service. The Sunday-school will meet at 11:05. There will be no evening service.

The Congregational and Trinity Reformed churches have been thoroughly cleaned by the Vacuum Cleaner Company, of which B. A. Mumford, of Rose street, is the agent. The Church of the Plymouth Brethren, on West Second street, has also been cleaned by the Vacuum Company. The work was done with almost incredible swiftness. The officers of the churches are greatly pleased with the work done by the company.

GOVERNOR EAGER FOR LEGISLATURE TO MEET.

Senate Committee Completes Public Utilities Act for Lawmakers' Scrutiny.

The State Senate Committee, appointed some time ago to prepare a public utilities bill for enactment by the Legislature, has completed that work and is ready to report. A bill somewhat similar to the Hughes bill, of New York, has been prepared.

It is expected that the Senate will meet again on September 17, when the Democratic House is scheduled to come here to finish the session.

There is a possibility, however, that the Governor will sooner call the runaway Legislature and demand that it finish up the business of the session and quit the game of politics now on.

Lock Wheels Under Bridge.

An express wagon of the United States Express Company, driven by William Todd, collided with an undertaker's wagon driven by William N. Todd, of Cranford, under the Park avenue railroad bridge at noon today. The front wheel of the lighter wagon was wrecked when the wheel of the express wagon struck it. The undertaker was able to drive the rig home. No damage was done to the express wagon.

His Arm Paralyzed.

"Uncle" John Tingley, of Dunellen, who travels for many years over this part of the country as a saw sharpener, has made him well known in all corners of this section, is recovering from an attack of paralysis that affected his right arm. He will recover the use of the arm. Dr. P. H. Brakeley, of Dunellen, is attending him.

Capt. Martin Off Rifle Team.

Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, former captain of Company K, has withdrawn from the Jersey Rifle team competing in the national match at Camp Perry, Fort Clinton, O. His action was due to his being called home. A rearrangement of the team followed and it is thought Jersey still have a good chance.

Hand Mashed at Scott's.

While at work in Scott's Press Works this morning, James Lindsley, an engineer, who lives on East Sixth street, caught his right hand in some machinery, mashing it and severely cutting one of the fingers. He went to Muhlenberg Hospital, where the case was treated, and he was able to go home.

—Fifty baskets of fine Jersey peaches, Mountain Rose and Reeves Favorites, will be on sale at Neuman Brothers' tomorrow. The prices will be much lower than usual.

Caving Sand Kills Two.

Holderness, N. H., Aug. 29.—Two boys, Robert Williams, of Boston and Getchell Oleghorn, of Montreal, were killed, and a third, Daniel Denny, of West Newton, Mass., is in a dangerous condition through the caving in of a sand bank at Squam Lake yesterday.

"Of course," said Henpeck, "I don't always do what my wife tells me"—

"What!" exclaimed Meeker, in surprise.

"No; you see, if she's in a sarcastic mood when she orders me to do anything I know she wants me to do just the opposite."

A Famous Old Church.

The Pilgrim Congregational church, near London, founded in 1616, is the oldest of the denomination in the empire, and it was from it that the London contingent of the men of the Mayflower was recruited.

—R. Giddes and family moved into this city today from Millington, Somerset county. They have taken up their residence at 13 Lee place.

REFORMATORY A PRISON

Criminals Sent to Rahway Made More Wicked Boys Imprisoned Only to Reform.

STRANGE STATEMENTS

Attempt "to Get" Young Martin, Who Himself Gives Some Remarkable Testimony to Committee.

Some surprising admissions were extracted from reluctant witnesses when the Hahn Commission continued yesterday their investigation into the official conduct of the reformatory at Rahway.

Capt. Harry S. Martin, superintendent of the reformatory, testified, in answer to searching questions by Mr. Backes, counsel to the committee, that while the reformatory was based on the theory that first offenders only should be sent there, hardened criminals were sent to him to debauch his boys. He had been advised that he could not refuse to take the hardened criminals. The fault lay with the judges who sent him criminals instead of committing them to the State prison.

Regarding this wrong to the institution, Capt. Martin said the superintendent should be given the power to refuse to take those criminals. Boys were sent there from fifteen years old to men of thirty years. Gov. Murphy had advised the reformatory commission that the institution must receive all men or boys sent there.

Capt. Martin said the reformatory really had been made a penal institution—a State prison. Nor are the boys taught trades.

Edward H. Swartz, of Newark, formerly assistant superintendent of the reformatory, who now conducts the Bertillon system of identification at Rahway, swore he received in the mail a mysterious letter containing photographs of Harry S. Martin. The letter was addressed to him at Police Headquarters, Newark.

Swartz said that the letter advised "wait until I land him at this end." He took "him" to mean "Harry S. Martin, who was gossiped about at the institution as accused of immoral practices."

When he was told that Martin was suspected of immoral practices in Newark, Swartz determined "to get him." He applied to the late Chief of Police, John H. Adams, and Adams detailed Policemen Higgins and Clark in plain clothes on the case.

Referring to the fire of January 14, 1905, when $2,601.98 was the loss, Counsel Backes showed witness a detailed statement of loss filed with the Home Insurance Company in New York, witness was asked "Did Capt. Martin tell you to put in a claim for a typewriter that was not destroyed?"

"I spoke to him about a typewriter which was not destroyed and he said he did not care to know anything about it," was the reply.

"Did you put it in the detailed statement?" asked Mr. Backes.

"The list is all right," answered the witness.

"How about a camera 3x10 inches which was not destroyed?" continued counsel.

"There is such a camera in the proofs of loss," was the reply.

Turning to another matter, Swartz swore he saw Manton Martin steam and open a letter addressed to Capt. Martin, the letter being from a subordinate in the institution. There was an investigation on about trouble at the laundry at the time, and the letter was marked not to be opened until the investigation had concluded. This matter was dropped there, without further comment.

David A. Carley, chief engineer of the reformatory, was next called. He denied that he had seen officers of the institution tipsy. To further questioning he denied that he had any knowledge of debased women visiting the institution. At this point the committee adjourned until next Wednesday morning. Former Gov. Voorhees will be a witness then, it is expected.

The Firemen Were Mad.

A reflection in the sky toward the West at 1:20 this morning led Patrolman Dan McDonald to believe a fire was in progress somewhere down around Pond's and he turned in an alarm from box 45. The city department responded but when the men learned it was out of limits they said some "turrible" things about short-sighted cops and turned back home. The blaze was at South Bound Brook and destroyed a barn.

Strike Rumor Denied.

Reports of a strike at the Manganese Steel Safe Company's plant were current on the street this morning. When an attempt was made to corroborate the story by a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, an official of the company stated that the rumors were unfounded, for all the men were at work at the plant as usual.

NAMED FOR MAYOR BY DUNELLEN REPUBLICANS

CENTRAL RAILROAD ENGINEER HEADS TICKET OF SUBURBAN ORGANIZATION.

Frank R. Wynkoop, a Central Railroad engineer, was named for mayor by the Republicans of Dunellen, last night. Lewis Churchill and Albert Giddes were named for Council.

The caucus was held in the Borough Hall. It was harmonious, and the business was transacted swiftly. The attendance was not large. Dr. P. W. Brakeley was chairman, and Wilson S. Frederick secretary.

Wilson S. Frederick and Abner S. Coriell were named as delegates to the county convention, and Henry S. Garretson as delegate to the State convention. C. Wesley Blaine was named as constable. The committee on vacancies is made up of Albert N. Randolph, Charles A. Coriell, Jr., and Arthur J. Hamley.

Before adjournment, a resolution was adopted that the tax rate should not exceed two per cent., and the borough appropriation not to exceed $3,500.

REPUBLICANS MAKE SLATE AT SCOTCH PLAINS CAUCUS

GEORGE BALL SUPPORTED—KICK AT $800 POLICE APPROPIATION.

Republican of Fanwood township made their party slate at a meeting held at Excelsion Hall, Scotch Plains, last night. About thirty-five members of the G. O. P. were present, and nominations were talked over by the meeting before the ticket was made. George H. Johnson, of the county committee, called the meeting to order, and William D. Johnson was elected to the chair. W. B. Noble was chosen as recording secretary.

The slate was made up with but little opposition. The only opposition of the meeting was in the matter of police appropriation. The party leaders recommended the $800 appropriation asked for, but this met with strong opposition when mentioned in the meeting. The previous appropriations have never exceeded $100, but the plan to have the borough patrolled by an officer at night, with the appointment of more officers, will account for the extra expense asked for in the appropriation. When the question was put to vote in the meeting, the $800 appropriation was carried by a single vote. An appropriation of $2,250 was ratified in the making up of the ticket and $300 was voted for a sidewalk appropriation. Both these appropriations were voted through after opposition.

The meeting was solid in the support of George Ball for the delegate to the State Convention, and he was the unanimous candidate for the ticket. There were three candidates named for delegates to the county convention, E. L. Hand, James Johnson and Freeholder Robison. The first two were ratified for the ticket by the vote of the meeting. George H. Johnson was nominated as member of the county committee, to succeed himself. Henry C. Meyer was put on the slate as member of the township committee, in place of Theodore Bruchmann, a Democrat, now serving. There was a local boom for William D. Johnson.

Constable Robert Walpole was renominated for a three year term and H. Clifford Smith was put on the ticket for the two year term. Overseer of the Poor Hull was renominated to succeed himself and was also named with Andrew Schaefer as surveyors of the highways.

Piscataway Delegates.

The Republicans of Piscataway have named J. M. Dayton and R. P. F. Von Minden as delegates to the county convention and Henry Hummer as delegate to the State convention. No township candidates are to be named. The appropriations voted were $6,000 for roads and $1,200 for the poor fund.

Debele Family Picnic.

Relatives of Charles F. Debele will be entertained tomorrow by Charles F. Debele, at Pine Grove farm, near Dunellen. Members of the family from this city, New York and nearby towns will attend an informal reunion and dinner will be served out of doors.

DUNELLEN JAIL DELIVERY

Five Prisoners, Charged With Stealing, Succeed in Making their Escape.

CAPTURED AT HANGOUT

Arrested As Members of a Gang that Has Been Committing Thefts Along the Central Railroad.

Forcing open two cells, five prisoners escaped last night from the Dunellen jail. The delivery was clean and complete, the quintet working without interruption and getting away without leaving a trail for the authorities to follow.

The prisoners were captured yesterday afternoon by Chief Marhal Owen Mohan, of Dunellen, at the Greenbrook tanks. They are said to be members of a gang that has been committing thefts along the Central Railroad for some time. Mohan, who works on the road, was asked to run them down, and he had been on the watch for them for a week or more. The Dunellen authorities, as well as the railroad, were interested in the chase, because the hobo hangout at the Greenbrook tanks, where the gang and kindred characters made their headquarters, had begun to be the scene of almost daily fights and carouses. There was a row among the hoboes there on Tuesday night, in which revolvers figured, that determined Mohan to end matters speedily.

He kept close watch on the hangout, and yesterday afternoon, when he learned that members of the gang for which the Central Railroad officers were looking were at the camp he acted without delay. He took five prisoners from the hangout, at the point of his revolver.

Mohan put two of the prisoners in one cell, and three in another. The third cell in the jail Mohan left vacant, because he expected to round up more of the hoboes.

The two cells were vacant this morning. From the signs left it appeared that the delivery started in the cell where three of the prisoners were confined. Using their combined strength, with their feet braced against the steel door, they forced a cross bar at the top of the door sufficiently to enable the slenderest of them to get out. He helped the others to break their way from the cell, and the three of them forced open the door of the cell where their two companions were. Their work was unheard, and the five forced their way unmolested to the yard. It is supposed they completed their escape on a freight train.

The prisoners all come from Elizabethport. They range in years from eighteen to twenty-five. They are said to be part of the Dutch Ides gang, and one of them is wanted in Elizabeth for a robbery. A reward is offered for his capture. The Central railroad police were appraised of the escape and are helping in the search for the quintet.

LOST HIS CHILDREN; GOT JAIL SENTENCE

ANOTHER LIAR LEARNS THAT ANANIAS ISN'T HONORED IN POLICE COURT.

Patrick Cahill, 48 years old, of South Plainfield, lost five children within a minute this morning. The destruction of his family occurred in the police court.

Cahill was arrested last night for drunkenness and disorder. He told Judge Runyon he had a family of five small children, and begged for clemency for their sake. He trembled to think of the plight of his youngest if he was sent away.

"Cahill," said Judge Runyon, "I don't want to deprive the children of your care, but I am not exactly sure they exist."

"I'll send an officer with him and we'll find out, volunteered Chief Kiely.

"Good suggestion," said the Judge. "Cahill, if I find you've been lying to me it will go hard wit hyou."

Cahill gasped.

"Judge, I'll tell the truth. I have no children. I was lying all the time. For God's sake be easy with me."

"You're a nice one to call on God," said the magistrate. Thirty days in jail. Tell the truth the next time you get into court."

Panhandler Caught.

John Riley, a vagrant panhandler, was arrested yesterday by Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough police force for operating without a license on Myrtle avenue. He said he was on his way to Brooklyn and Mayor N. B. Smalley, at the session of court last night, urged him to hurry along toward that metropolis. He left town early today.

BREAKS HIS LEG AS HE ALIGHTS FROM TROLLEY CAR

W. W. ROWLEY INJURED ON WEST ST., NEW YORK CITY, YESTERDAY.

Alighting from a belt line car on West street, New York city, yesterday morning, W. W. Rowley, of Linden avenue, in some way caught his foot in an umbrella belonging to another passenger and stumbled to the street. He felt a painful twinge in his left leg, but thinking it just a strain, paid no attention to the injury until his return to this city. He was in such pain then that Dr. B. VanD. Hedges was summoned and found that the leg bone had been broken.

The accident happened at Desbrosses street. Mr. Rowley was with his niece, Miss Cora Rowley, of Rochester, N. Y. Miss Rowley has been visiting her uncle in this city and was on her way to the West Shore Railroad terminal to go home. Mr. Rowley was on his vacation and was to resume his business in New York Tuesday. The injury will detain him from business for at least a fortnight, till the bone can knit again.

PERKINS TO SPEAK AT MEETING TONIGHT

JUDGE RUNYON WILL ALSO ADDRESS THE LOCAL VOTERS.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, will address a mass meeting at Reform Hall tonight at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Fourth Ward Branch of the Plainfield League for Equal Taxation. City Judge Runyon, the leader of the Colbyites in Union county, will also have something to say regarding present political conditions. The chairman of the meeting will be Elmer D. Cutting, chairman of the New Idea forces in that ward. The voters are urged to be present.

It is said that Mr. Perkins will rehearse his career at Trenton and will tell how and why he acted on every measure under consideration which he has been a representative from Union county. He will also have something to say about bossism and it is not unlikely that he will pay his respects to the Republican leaders in Union county. Judge Runyon will dwell on the local situation and will give one of his ginger talks. All the local candidates of the Colbyites have been invited to be present and sit on the platform.

WILL SHOW PERKINS' RECORD TO VOTERS

BURKE WILL TELL TOMORROW NIGHT WHAT WESTFIELDER'S DOING.

J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, sent a communication to the Daily Press today giving notice that he will prove to the local public that Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who wants to go to Trenton for the fourth successive time, represented "the worst bosses in the State" while under oathe to represent the best interests of the people. Mr. Burke, it is said, promises some hot shot and those who attend the mass meeting at Reform Hall tonight, when Mr. Perkins is scheduled to speak, should in fairness give the anti-saloon man a hearing.

Mr. Burke's letter follows:

"Through your valued columns, I desire to state that I will be in Plainfield tomorrow night, Saturday, August 31, to show in a public address that Mr. Perkins, although elected to represent the people of Union county, really did represent the worst bosses of the State."

"I note by the press dispatches that you either have, or are about to come out, in the role of the peoples' candidate."

Labor Day Dance.

The New Plainfield Social Club will hold a reception and dance on Labor Day evening at Sangerbund Hall. A large number have promised to participate in the affair. Mr. Reeves' New York orchestra will furnish the latest music. Gus. Baldwin, president of the association, with the members assistance, have left nothing undone to make this one of the best sociables of the season so a good time is assured to all.

Robert Walker's Funeral.

The funeral of Robert Walker, who died at his home on New street, yesterday morning, will be held at the residence Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. A delegation from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of which he was a member, will be in attendance.

QUESTIONS FOR PERKINS

State Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League Shows Up the Westfielder.

BURKE EXPOSES HIM

Declares Office-Seeker Cannot Play Role of People's Candidate In This County Successfully.

In an open letter to Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, says:

"As the representative of the church people of New Jersey in this work, which includes Union county, may I venture to suggest that you can hardly play this role on the stage in Union county, or elsewhere, with any marked degree of success.

"Were you representing the people when you voted one year ago last winter in such a manner on the Local Option Bill as to say to the people that saloons should continue to be thrust upon the people of every community against the communities' consent and against the communities' protests; or, were you representing the brewers, distillers and saloonkeepers, the moneyed interests engaged in the liquor business?

"Were you representing the people, when as a member of the Judiciary Committee of the last Assembly you got possession of a measure proposing to grant to the people the power to veto the issuance of licenses on their community and you held it and declared that you would not allow it to come to a vote on the floor of the Assembly—were you, I say, representing the people, or were you again representing the brewers and distillers and saloonkeepers, and the moneyed interests engaged in the liquor business entirely?

"Again, when the measure came to a vote in the last General Assembly, and on one side was the moneyed liquor interest demanding that the saloons should be continued to be forced on every community and the people have no power to repudiate it; and on the other side the church people and the rank and file of the citizens of the State stood urging that no obnoxious institution, regardless of the money back of it, should be forced upon any locality without that locality's consent, and you took your stand with the distillers and brewers and saloonkeepers against the church people, were you representing the people then?

"Again, did it evidence that you were representing the people of Union county, when after declaring to the representative of the church that he did not dare face you with these statements, and the friends of this movement rented a hall in your own home town and invited you to appear; did it evidence, we ask you, your right to represent the people when you avoided that meeting?

"Again, we ask you, did you represent the people or were you willing to give an account to them when fifty-five men of your own party at Roselle signed a statement requesting you to appear and give an account of your record to them as a part of your constituents, that you should refuse and give as your excuse the fact that the Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League had been invited to the same meeting?

"Again, did it evidence that you are a representative of the people and willing to have them direct and suggest, when at the very meeting at which you failed to appear in Roselle and the Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League was there, they passed a unanimous vote to take you at your word and request you to come to a meeting and give an account of your record, a proposition which you, yourself, proposed and said you would accept. I say, were you representing the people at that time when they had gone to the trouble of making arrangements for a hall at your suggestion, and when you saw that you had to meet the citizens, you disappeared?

"Mr. Perkins, we ask why this metamorphosis? Wherefore this change? You point to some good things in your record. It is difficult for a man to stay very long in public life, or very long in any position, without doing some commendable acts. We do not deny them, but the question is, did you stand by the people and the peoples' rule? Or, did you stand by the rule of the brewers and distillers and saloonkeepers in New Jersey? You certainly have a perfect right to return if you represented them. The reason I write you in this manner is to clear up any false impressions that you might be holding by your urging that you were the peoples' representative.

"Now, Mr. Perkins, may I give you a word of suggestion. It will be unprofitable for you to simply call names, we accept them all, and wear them as a badge of honor coming from certain sources; but the point at issue is your record, the position you assumed on a measure demanded by

TOWNSEND WILL SUCCEED SMALLEY AS MAYOR

His Votes for McKinley and Roosevelt Make a Democrat the Unanimous Choice of the Republican Caucus in North Plainfield; the Democrats Filing Nomination Papers Previously.

PARTY LINES WIPED OUT AFTER YEARS OF STRIFE

Nichols and Woolston, Republicans, and Krewson and Ludlow, Democrats, Named for Council—Brown and Tapscott Rival Candidates for Collector—Lutkins Versus Emmons for Freeholder —Cooley Renamed for Assessor.

Accepting his own party nomination for mayor in a communication to County Committeeman Walter Linbarger, Samuel Townsend, who was later named by the Republicans as their candidate for the mayoralty at a mass meeting last night, now heads both tickets as the single nominee of the two parties in North Plainfield. Because of his support of the party ticket on State and county elections, the Democrats claim the school commissioner as their own.

Despite the fact that a mass meeting of the borough Democrats was talked up on the street yesterday, the borough school, where "all good Democrats" were to meet to make up the party slate, was dark last night, and the handful of Democrats found it locked with barred doors when they appeared at 8 o'clock. And there was no need of a mass meeting. Once again in the history of borough politics, the Linbarger faction stole the march on the party and the borough Democratic slate, with signed acceptances of the candidates, was filed with Borough Clerk Frank W. Rowley yesterday afternoon, by Linbarger himself.

Contrary to the general expectation, J. O. Osgood's name does not appear on the slate as nominee for councilman. Heartily endorsed by Mr. Townsend and Mr. Saunders, he is not mentioned on the ticket. Instead William H. Ludlow, of Duer street, a First district man, is nominated, and Councilman Frank Krewson, from the Second district, is renominated for office. Howard R. Tapscott, of the First district, is the party candidate for tax collector, and John Emmons is named for freeholder. David B. Smalley is renominated for justice of the peace.

William L. Saunders, of the First district, and Samuel S. Swackhamer, of the Second district, are the party's candidates for delegates to the State convention; John T. Case and William F. Kiely, from the First district, and Frank Mobus and David Bodine, from the Second district, are to be on the party ticket as delegates to the county convention. Robert Trewin is the First district candidate for county executive committee, and Walter C. Linbarger's name appears as the candidate from the Second district.

There was considerable excitement among the other faction of the borough Democrats on Somerset street when the school was found locked and dark by those who came out to make the slate. When seen by a Daily Press reporter, Walter C. Linbarger said that as a member of the committee he had heard of no call being issued for a mass meeting. "If such a call was issued," he said, "it was unofficial, for the slate is already made and, in accordance with law, the candidates' signatures have been secured and the complete ticket filed with the borough clerk in the afternoon."

"WE NEED LIGHT," SAID MAYOR AT BOROUGH PRIMARY.

Voters Tought So, Too, But Public Service Tried to Keep Them in the Dark.

While the borough Republicans were holding their primary in Saengerbund Hall, last night, the electric lights suddenly went out and left the place in total darkness. It remained so until gas jets could be lighted and in about twenty minutes the electricity came back. The janitor put out the gas and just as he finished the complete darkness came again.

The janitor made a rush for the gas once more and as he was going around, Mayor Smalley exlaimed:

"We need a lot of light on the subject before us so leave them burning whether the electric department of the Public Service stays with us or not."

The full illumination returned a little later and for the rest of the meeting the Public Service was on its good behavior and didn't try to keep the boroughites in the dark.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Morse and Miss Minnie Morse, of Franklin place, have returned from a pleasant sojourn in Central New York.

Responding to a formal call issued by Mayor Smalley, borough Republicans met in Saengerbund Hall, last night, and named their ticket for the coming election. Samuel Townsend, who has also been picked by the Democrats, was nominated for mayor without a dissenting voice and the remainder of the slate was fixed up as follows: Councilmen—First district, Charles L. Nichols; Second district, L. B. Woolston; tax collector, George F. Brown; assessor, Dr. Justus H. Cooley; freeholder, Captain William C. Smith; constable, Lemuel Pope; delegates to county convention—First district, Thomas Doud, I. P. Runyon, B. A. Hegeman, N. B. Smalley; Second district, James K. Arnold, B. R. Waldron, W. F. Williams, Captain W. C. Smith; delegates to State convention, J. J. Stahl, Charles A. Reed, L. B. Woolston and Edmund Rushmore.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Smalley and he was made chairman and James K. Arnold secretary. The attendance was small in comparison to that of previous years and the fact was commented upon by the chairman in the course of his remarks. In his preliminary address the mayor stated that the Republicans should get together, name a candidate and elect him, but that he himself was not in line to return to the office.

"I regret the fact," he said, "that I do not know, of a man to present and if there is anyone here who has a likely candidate, place his name before the meeting and we'll talk him over. There is a man, however, who has been affiliated more or less with the Republicans in the past although he is looked upon as a Democrat and I am going to mention his name—Samuel Townsend. I understand he's voted the Republican ticket frequently but he wont harm us if he turns out to be a Democrat. I am simply presenting his name and it remains for this gathering to act as it sees fit."

The Mayor then dwelt upon the other offices to be filled and the importance of selecting good men, stating the sewer and other problems confronting the borough would call for the services of competent officials. He mentioned Mr. Nichols and Mr. Woolston for the Council, Mr. Brown to succeed himself and Dr. Cooley as assessor. He declared those now in office had been rendering valuable service and it was no more than proper that they should be retained.

Referring to the freeholder nomination, the Mayor stated that North Plainfield is not represented on the Board by a Republican at present, the incumbent being a Democrat elected on the Citizens' ticket. The place, he said, should be taken by a Republican.

When the Mayor had concluded, the mayoralty question was taken up and several present spoke in favor of Mr. Townsend. L. B. Woolston remarked that he did not know what his politics are but it was a pretty hard matter to tell anyone's in the borough as so much free-lancing had been done. W. F. Williams and Dr. Cooley spoke for Mr. Townsend and the mayor stated he had received a petition from Charles W. McCutchen, Henry McGee and W. J. Buttfield endorsing his name. Mr. Townsend was then placed in nomination by W. F. Williams and he was the unanimous choice.

"With six good Republicans surrounding him at the end of his term," the Mayor remarked, "we'll come pretty near owning him. I'll say now that it affords me great satisfaction to know that after eight years of scrapping both parties have united on one man.

In referring to the selection of delegates to the county convention, the Mayor announced that candidates for sheriff, surrogate and assemblyman would be named. He spoke in favor of naming the present assemblyman, W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, and asserted that the office of surrogate should come to the borough.

"It is due North Plainfield this year," he said, "and when we name

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

WESTFIELD.

Only part of the Westfield business men have so far agreed to keep their places of business closed all day Labor Day. Those who have agreed to do so have posted signs in their windows to that effect.

The marriage of Miss Helen Roth of Mountainside, and Frank Young, of Westfield, will take place at the bride's home, Mountainside, today.

Rev. R. H. Middleditch has been nominated by the Republicans of the Third ward for councilman, to succeed A. L. Russell.

Pipe for the Westfield outlet sewer is being hauled from Picton Depot to the sewer farm.

ROSELLE—ROSELLE PARK.

The Board of Education of the Park Borough will meet Labor Day for a tour of inspection of the public schools. The visitation will be on the invitation of the building committee. During the vacation the schools were all renovated and many improvements and repairs made.

Mrs. William Bodine and children, of Westfield avenue, returned Wednesday from a two weeks' visit at Stockton and Philadelphia.

Mrs. S. A. Dilks and daughter, Miss La Blanche, of Third avenue, have gone to Silver Hill Farm in Hunterdon county.

Howard E. Hoag, who has been visiting relatives in the borough, has returned to his home in Philadelphia.

George Vaughan and family, of Fifth avenue, left yesterday for a few weeks' sojourn at North Asbury.

James W. Bogart, of Walnut street, is at Corogas Lake, Fulton county, N. Y., enjoying a vacation.

Miss Edith Bond, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Miss Gladys Williams, of North Chestnut street.

BASKING RIDGE.

The summer residents in the vicinity of Mrs. A. Irving's, on the Bernardsville road, will hold a tennis tournament on the tennis grounds on Monday morning. A number of invitations have been issued.

A large number of people will attend the dance given by Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Henry and Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich Eberhardt, in the latter's coach barn, on Saturday evening, at Bernardsville.

Mrs. J. T. Earle, of Elizabeth, is visiting at the home of her father, David Lewis, on the Millington road.

There will be preparatory services this evening in the Presbyterian church at 7:45 o'clock.

CRANFORD.

Edwin G. Woodling, township committeeman, has declined to run for the office again. Winfield S. Stephenson will be the Democratic nominee for township committeeman.

The Township Committee met Wednesday night and fixed the budget for taxation for the year at $48,029.61.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Dunellen nine will play the fast Riverside nine, of Rahway, tomorrow, on the home grounds. The Potter A. C., of Plainfield, will play the Dunellens here Labor Day morning.

Prospects for a game between the girls' nine and the New Market team on Labor Day grow brighter. The girls are anxious to play.

Mrs. Walter Dunn has returned from Alfred, N. Y., where she attended the Seventh-Day Baptist Conference.

George Schenck and family have returned from a visit to friends in Jersey City.

The New Market A. C. will play the Netherwood A. C. tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Janet Lake has returned from her visit to New York State relatives.

Harry Swackhamer has returned to work after a two weeks' vacation.

William T. Piddington is reported to be improving from his illness.

John Tingley is steadily improving from his paralytic attack.

W. A. Craig has been spending the week at Atlantic City.

George Fagley is enjoying a short vacation.

The schools will reopen next Tuesday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Frentz and Allen will probably be the battery used by Manager Frentz in tomorrow's game. The balance of the team will line up as usual: Flannery, cf; G. Frentz, 2b; Alberts, 1b; Schreinbeck, 3b; Baldwin, ss; Reich, lf; Eller, rf. Game will be called at 3:30.

The locals and All-Stars, of Newark, meet again on the local diamond tomorrow. The visitors play a fast game and as both teams have won a game in the series the fans can be assured of a good game.

The weekly prayer and praise meeting tonight at the Baptist church will be led by A. D. Beekon, Rev. T. Moore-Smith being on his vacation.

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Braker, who have been spending a week with the Misses Hayes, in the borough, have returned to their home at Lynn, Mass.

Samuel Parsells, of New Brunswick, has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bartels at Glenside Park.

W. R. Buckley left yesterday for a week's stay with his family who are spending August at Brimfield, Mass.

Miss Annie Ryno has returned from a visit of several days with friends in Plainfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Good Government Club is making rapid progress in the preparations for their grand celebration to take place Labor Day. There will be a fancy parade headed by the Hungarian Band, bicycle races, high jumping and aquatic sports. The proceeds are to be used to defray the expenses the club incurred while fighting for the borough bills, which subject they expect to take up again when the fall rolls 'round. Automobiles will run every fifteen minutes from Somerset and Front streets to carry Plainfielders to the scene.

Mrs. Valentine and her sister, Miss Valentine, who lived here for many years, visited friends in town yesterday.

Mrs. Peter Johnson's guests who have been summering here left for their homes yesterday.

BUSY NIGHT FOR POLICE

Elizabeth Offenders Get Into the Law's Clutches Charged With Various Derelictions.

Elizabeth, Aug. 30.—Otto Fedde was arrested on Bayway Wednesday night charged with disorderly conduct and fighting. He was arraigned yesterday morning in police court and committed to the county jail for ten days.

George Janse was a prisoner in police court yesterday morning charged with failure to support his wife and two children. The complaint against him was made by the overseer of the poor. He was held in $500 bonds to provide for their maintenance.

Nicholas Van Talley, a sixteen-year-old youth from Brooklyn, who is visiting relatives in Elizabeth, was arrested Wednesday night for annoying the proprietor of a merry-go-round located at Spring street and Elizabeth avenue. A gang of boys have been persistently tormenting the man. When the police appeared the gang fled. They were chased for some distance, but all escaped except the Brooklynite. He was fined $1.85.

John Porkomosky and Walter Ezenosky were arrested Wednesday night on suspicion. When searched by the policeman a revolver was found in one of the prisoners' pocket. Both men were held for a further examination.

Word was received Wednesday night by the police that Michael Bedling, who lives on Bayway, had brutally beat his wife. When a couple of policemen reached the scene they found that Bedling had fled. His wife was so badly injured that she will have to go to the hospital.

FEATURES OF FALL COAT-SUITS.

The skirts are trimmed.

They are, too, plain plaited skirts.

Stripes are by no means out of favor.

Two-tone stripes (in one color) are very good.

Braid is a smart and very Parisian finish.

Coats are either single or double-breasted.

They are mostly in the finger-tip length, which means the tips reach the edge when hanging down.

Fatal Lamp Explosion.

New York, Aug. 30.—With her burning clothing winding about her Nellie Kelleher ran down twelve flights of stairs, in the Prince George Hotel last night and fell unconscious in the main hall, just a few feet away from the entrance to the dining room, whre a host of men and women were dining. The young woman, who is twenty-nine years old, was hurried to the New Yor Hospital with her body severely burned and her hair entirely consumed. She will die. Miss Kelleher has been employed as a maid at the Prince George, No. 17 East Twenty-seventh street, for almost a year. She quit work last night and went to her room on the thirteenth floor of the hotel. Her sister, Mary Kelleher, was visiting her. Chatting gaily with her sister and another maid the young woman turned to light an alcohol lamp. The small lamp exploded, scattering burning alcohol on the young woman's flimsy dress.

Ninety-Two Workmen Drown.

Quebec, Que., Aug. 30.—Ninety-two workmen were drowned at half-past five o'clock yesterday afternoon, when they fell into the St. Lawrence River as the result of a section of the gigantic bridge between Quebec and Levis collapsing. One hundred and two men went down with the great steel wreckage, but ten were rescued. Of these six will die. The men were employed by the Phoenix Iron Works, of Phoenixville, Pa., and were all Americans. Up to midnight only sixteen bodies had been recovered, and none had been identified. The cause of the disaster is given as faulty construction. There had been fears among the workmen that something might happen to the bridge section, as there had been rumors that some of the rivets had started. As a result many of the regular workmen refused to go to work yesterday morning.

One Gleam of Sunshine.

His play is a rank failure.

It is a frost and a fizzle, and he knows it.

The dramatist bows his head upon his hands and refuses to be comforted, for it is his first flunk.

One by one his friends try to say something that will console him, but to no avail.

Finally his trusting wife finds one sunny gleam in the clouds.

"Anyway," she said, "you didn't have to go through the ordeal of making a speech before the curtain and you know you always said you would be thankful beyond words if you could escape that."—Success Magazine.

Fatal Play With Candle.

Elizabeth, Aug. 30.—Oscar McAvoy, Jr., aged five years, the oldest son of Oscar and Catherine McAvoy, of 163 Second street, Elizabethport, was fatally burned Tuesday evening while playing in the cellar with a lighted candle. The boy's dress, in some way, ignited and his mother hearing the child's screams, ran to his assistance and smothered the flames, getting her hands severely burned in pulling the blazing garments from the boy's body. He died Wednesday night from the effects of his injuries. His father is a machinist and formerly lived in Newark.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Honeyman, of the borough, returned yesterday from a five weeks' stay at Succusunna, during which they visited at Dover, Chester and other nearby places.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Mayor of Laughland," which is Nixon & Zimmerman's latest musical comedy venture with Tom Waters in the title part, is to be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. Mr. Waters will be remembered for his excellent character work and brilliant piano specialty which never fails to arouse the most lethargic theatre-goers. Mr. Waters' support is spoken of in the highest terms, and there is of course a chorus of ample proportions and more than the usual talent for clever work.

Fresh from its New York and Chicago triumphs, "Brown of Harvard," the new college play by Rida Johnson Young, will hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. Mr. Henry Woodruff is the star and is supported by a company of thirty people, the majority of whom are college graduates, thereby being ably fitted to inject the proper atmosphere into the play. All the scenes are laid at Harvard and truly reflect the life of the great institution of learning. While appealing particularly to the college man, "Brown of Harvard" should be none the less interesting to the theatre-goer who does not boast of an alma mater, for it has a strong love story running undercurrent and a plot that grips the attention of the audience at the outset and does not release it until the drop of the final curtain. Henry Miller, who is well known as America's greatest stage manager, is the producing manager and he has supplied "Brown of Harvard" with a scenic production that has evoked praise from the critics of New York, Chicago and the few other cities where "Brown of Harvard" has appeared.

Williams and Walker, the versatile colored comedians, who appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, have a vehicle this year that promises to outclipse all their previous efforts, if advance reports are to be believed. It tells the story of an old colored man, who has learned the secret of the transmutation of base metals into gold. With the result of this knowledge, he buys a Southern state, (with a fictitious name), and calls it "Bandana Land." The supposed characteristics of the colored man in Dixie, are preserved, however, and there is much singing, dancing, cake walking and scenic effects in it.

So popular have become the Cohan musical plays with the American public, that any announcement of their coming conveys with it much pleasant anticipation to our local theatre-goers. On next Thursday, afternoon and night, at the New Plainfield theatre, the Cohan & Harris comedians will present for the first time in this city, "George Washington, Jr.," considered by a great many the most remarkable musical play success of recent years. This is the original production and most of the original cast will be seen here. It is the only company presenting this piece and therefore cannot be classed as an inferior No. 2 organization. Carter De Haven, a young comedian who has won much success as a headliner in vaudeville, will be seen in the title role, other members of an exceptionally strong cast are Willis P. Sweatham, Jack Rafael, John A. Boone, Frank McNish, Jr., Edward Lester, John Kaufman, Lee Myers, Jos. Leslie, Flora Parker, Leona Anderson, Lulu Hoffman, and a singing and dancing chorus of thirty-five.

Late Already.

Five minutes after the tardy gong had struck the principal of the school was walking through the lower hall when he saw a pudgy little fellow scampering toward the first grade room as fast as his fat legs could carry him. "See here, young man, I want to talk to you," called the principal to the late comer. "I hain't got time to talk to you; I'm late already," replied the breathless beginner as the door of his class-room closed.—Circle.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of March 30, 1871:

Washington Monument.

"A meeting of the Washington Monument and Historical Association was held in the room of Gazelle Engine Co., No. 1, Thursday evening. The president, Nathan Harper, occupied the chair, and the following members were present: Messrs. Horton, Berry, E. W. Runyon, O. Runyon, Vanderbeek, Kellogg, Sutphen, Pope, Jackson, Hubbard, A. Titsworth, Case and Gillies.

"On motion of Mr. O. Runyon, the committee was authorized to accept title deed for a plot of ground adjacent to Washington Rock, forty feet square, with the stipulation that the rocks shall remain unobstructed.

"Mr. Jackson made some interesting remarks relative to the erection of a monument; and handsomely drawn plans were submitted by Mr. Hubbard.

"Mr. Sutphen offered as follows. Resolved, That J. S. Harberger, J. E. Martine, H. A. H. Martin, N. Carmon Dunn and Stephen O. Staats be and they are hereby elected members of this association, which was unanimously adopted.

"On motion of Mr. Pope the next meeting of the association was fixed for Thursday evening, April 20, and that the special business then be the plans and dimensions of a monument.

"Tomorrow, Thursday, will be a gala day among the colored population, it being the second anniversary of the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment."

"At a meeting of the 'Central Baseball Club,' of this city, held on Tuesday evening at the club room, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President A. Collier; vice president, D. Leeson; secretary, E. M. Laing; treasurer, W. H. Young; directors, Messrs. Rodgers, Dunham and Dailey."

From the issue of April 27, 1871:

"The Centrals, of this city, played their first match game of the season with the Rutgers College nine, of New Brunswick, on Friday afternoon last, and were beaten by a score of 25-5. The New Brunswickers arrived here, with a large party of friends, about half-past 1 p. m. The game was to have been called at 2 o'clock, but owing to the detention of two of the Central nine in New York playing was delayed until the arrival of the 3:17 p. m. train. Just as the club had fairly got to work a severe thunder shower, which had been threatening for sometime, burst upon them, causing a general stampede of players and spectators. However, after the shower the game was again commenced, although the playing was made difficult in consequence of the slippery condition of the ground. From the first it was evident that the force that the Centrals had brought against their opponents was not strong enough and defeat awaited them, as their full nine was not out, and they were compelled to play with three substitutes, but notwithstanding the odds against them, they manfully contested every inch of the game. All did well, but the wild pitching of their opponents could not be overcome. Some fine catches were made on both sides. The Rutger nine are a fine looking set of boys and good players but we think they would find their match if the Centrals were playing up to their standard of last year. Our boys need more practise. They cannot expect to win if they play with substitutes in place of their regular nine. Let them make up their minds to win the name of 'champion,' the present season and they can do it.

"The behaviour of some of the outsiders who accompanied the Rutgers was disgraceful in the extreme. Several fights occurred among them while on the ground, and French-roofed heads and bloody noses were quite prevalent. They, however, had the field all to themselves, and after 'fighting it out,' agreed to settle the matter at some future time.

RETURN STAMP LATEST INNOVATION OF P. O.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT MADE REGARDING RETURN POSTAGE.

A new postage stamp, or rather the equivalent of a postage stamp—a reply coupon, as it is officially called— has been designed and will be put into circulation October 1 next by the international bureau of the Universal Postal Union, at Berne.

The new postal token is in the form of a ticket, entitles the holder to exchange it for a postage stamp of the value of twenty-five centimes, or the equivalent of that sum, in those countries that have adopted the arrangement concluded last year by the delegates of most of the civilized nations assembled at the Postal Congress in Rome.

The arrangement was to the effect that a coupon should be devised to enable a person to write to a correspondent in a foreign land, inclosing the value of a stamp for a reply. Incidentally, also, the coupon will enable persons to pay small accounts in foreign lands without going to the trouble of procuring a money order.

For instance, a resident of the United States may write to a correspondent in Denmark or Germany and desire to prepay the stamp required for the answer. All he has to do is to spend six cents for a reply coupon at any American postoffice and enclose it in his letter. The Danish or German addressee will exchane the coupon at his own postoffice for a Danish or German stamp which will prepay his reply.

It was the British postoffice that proposed the innovation. The adoption of the coupon scheme was not made compulsory for all the nations comprised in the Universal Postal Union, but the following have signified their acceptance of it: The United States; Great Britain and most of her colonies, including Canada; Japan; Germany and her protectorates; France and her colonies; Austria, Holland, Sweden, Norway, Belgium, Spain; Denmark and her possessions; Switzerland, Greece, Chila, Hayti, Hungary, Corea, Luxemburg, Roumania and Siam.

The coupons are supplied to the postal administration of the above countries at cost price and are interchangeable between them at the price of twenty-five centimes or its equivalent. So far 5,000,000 have been printed, of which 3,793,000 have already been taken up by the various postal administrations. Upon the international bureau at Berne will fall all the administrative work, which bids fair to be of considerable magnitude, as every single token must ultimately find its way back again to that central office.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS.

The Check Letter Test on United States Currency.

The United States Government prints its currency and numbers its bills in a series of four, so that every piece of paper money turned out bears one of the check letters—A, B, C, D. One of these letters is always found in two places on a United States bills, in the upper left hand corner and in the lower right-hand corner. The placing of the letter on the bill is not determined by the number of the bill. The rule is to divide the last two figures on the note by four. Should the remainder be one, the check letter must be A; should it be two, the check letter is B; three, the check letter is C, and nothing, the letter D.

For example, I have before me a five dollar certificate. Its number is 81489730. The terminal number is 30. Divide by four. The result is seven with two over. The check letter is B.

Here is a yellow back and gold certificate with twenty-three as its terminal number. Divide this by four, and we have five with three over. C is the check letter.

Should this rule of four fail to work on any United States currency note you may bet all you have that the money is bad. Some counterfeited bills are right to their check letters, but a great many are not so if the rule of four works, the bill may be still bad, but if it doesn't it is surely bad. This rule applies only to United States currency and not to national bank notes.—Minneapolis Journal.

Spain's Buried Wealth.

The Carthaginians and the Tyrians regarded Spain as El Dorado. It is but a poor country today, but potential wealth lies in its rock bound hills, just as in the days of the ancients. When those acquisitive mariners, the Phoenicians, first set foot in the country they exchanged their commodities, says Aristotle, "for such immense quantities of silver that their ships could neither contain nor sustain the load, though they used it for ballast and made their anchors and other implements of silver." So rich in silver was the country then that the people are said to have made their commonest domestic utensils of the metal and even their mangers. The Romans found that their greedy forerunners had sadly diminished the precious store, yet enough was left to satisfy not a few proconsuls.

—On account of Monday being Labor Day the Primary Union will meet in the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

WHY THE YELLOW ONE RAVES.

Declaring that it is not its purpose to indulge in mud-slinging, the Courier-News, whose policy under the new management has earned for it the unfortunate reputation of a common scold, yesterday proceeded in its characteristic venomous and flamboyant manner to make its editorial mud dredger work overtime, on this occasion attempting to unload its filth on The Daily Press. Our reply to that paper's contemptible attack on the commuter element in holding C. R. Pierce unworthy of support as a candidate because he "sleeps in Cranford," was responsible for its stooping farther than ever beneath the level of respectable journalistic methods to wreck its vengeance on us.

In this effort as in all others, we are sanguine, to quote the words of the Elizabeth Journal a day or two ago, that "Courier-News, lately the organ of the 'New Idea' forces, yesterday strong with the 'regulars,' today the personal organ of Assemblyman Perkins, will have little weight with the thoughtful people of the county." We are not at all offended because of its yellow tactics; no more so than many upright and worthy citizens, who have received its abuse in the past. In fact we only know of one instance where the Courier's attacks have been taken seriously and in that case it is now a defendant in the courts to answer for a most pernicious and we believe most malicious attack on a member of this community.

Consequently, when the Courier gives vent to its envy by saying that "when patronage is to be dispensed, it does not surprise us to see The Press flutter down from its perch on the fence to pick up the few crumbs of sop the bosses may let fall," we believe that the people of this community are able to see behind its thinly veiled bluff. Though pretending to be a Republican party organ, its assassination policy has long since lost it due recognition on the part of the party leaders in State, county and city. And much to the Courier-News' mortification, The Daily Press, which has ever disclaimed representing any political organization at all, has been receiving the patronage of the Republican party. For instance, when the Republican Governor last selected the papers throughout New Jersey for the publication of an annual official statement, at the request of the Republican State Senator of Union county, he declined to recognize the claims of the Courier, which begged for the work, and ordered that it be inserted in this paper. So also when the Union County Board of Registry and Elections last named the official papers of the county, the Plainfield member of that body had this paper substituted for the Courier, which had enjoyed the patronage for a long time while pretending to be a Republican sheet. These are but two instances; others can be named. Furthermore we can show to what lengths the Courier has gone in attempting to get some patronage, which being denied it, has caused that paper to become such a hypocrite.

In the course of its abuse, the Courier also refers to this paper as representing all parties, whereas as a matter of fact it has never represented any. As stated in every issue, it is independent in every sense of the word. But that fact does not prevent us from praising the good and condemning the bad in any single party or in commending a worthy candidate or in denouncing an unworthy one. We have taken an independent stand at all times and in this position have earned the respect in which this paper is held in the community in which it is published. As for the Courier's policy in being for one thing today and for another tomorrow, that has never been our practise.

Our contemporary declares that it has a sincere purpose to serve in endorsing Mr. Perkins. We have no grievance against that politician, and have taken occasion time and again to refer to his excellent record, but as to the Courier being sincere and guided by high motives that is another question. For ourselves, we do not believe that it is, but, be as it may, with such support the Westfielder can well exclaim in the words of Channing, "Defend me from my friends." As we say, there is no cause to find fault with the Courier on that ground but when it persists in manufacturing capital for its friend, justice demands that the truth be told. We pointed out some of its malicious misstatements in this connection two days ago. Yesterday it furnished a fresh edition of these tactics by reiterating how much better known Mr. Perkins is than Mr. Pierce. We challenge that paper to show that with the average run of citizens, the Westfielder was one whit better known at the outset of his political career than the Cranford man despite the fact that Perkins is a native of Dunellen. The same question that the Courier, which is always relied upon to show ignorance of local conditions, asks now about Pierce was asked when Perkins was first named. But if the Courier is so anxious to learn something about the Westfielder we respectfully refer it to Judge Runyon, the leader of the New Idea forces, who declared at a public meeting a few nights ago, that he is "a good and able man." Probably it would hurt the Courier's "cause" were it to investigate into the real standing of Mr. Pierce, and for that reason it dismisses him as a New York lawyer who sleeps in Cranford.

Just one more word about our yellow contemporary. That paper is not after the "pap" so long as it can possibly be of any aid in attempting to assassinate the Republican party, but later on it will be just as energetic as it was after the last election in begging for some "crumbs" as is hinted in the following extract from its columns yesterday:

"Should the delegates to the county convention determine that they do not wish Mr. Perkins to return to the General Assembly and choose Mr. Pierce in his stead, then the Courier-News will do all in its power to aid in his election."

The Daily Press ventures the prediction that unless Assemblyman Perkins is speedily rescued from his mercenary friends, he will go down in defeat at the party convention. Furthermore, if the Courier will continue to help Mr. Pierce by abusing him until that time, the Cranford man will be chosen by the same body. If the Westfielder is wise as we believe him to be he will plead with the paper around the corner to attack him as bitterly as it did until it became his mouthpiece.

MR. TOWNSEND.

Samuel Townsend, as exclusively predicted in The Daily Press some day ago, has been made candidate of both parties in North Plainfield for the office of Mayor. It is hardly necessary, in view of his well-known record as a public spirited citizen, to add a word of commendation beyond the fact that in him, it is safe to say, the borough will have as its chief executive an able, conscientious and progressive chief executive. His election will mark one step in advance in the movement for the consolidation of the two municipalities.

"CONJUNCTION" WARMLY WELCOMED BY SCOTTS.

Bed Slat and a Beer Bottle Figure Largely In His Reception.

The natural law that declares "Conjunction" Jones, colored, shall figure in a police court case every little while worked yesterday afternoon. "Conjunction" got in a row with Mrs. Sarah Scott, colored, of West Third street, and promptly landed in the station house.

The row was a picturesque affair. It started either because (Conjunction's version) he wouldn't buy Mrs. Scott a pail of beer, or (Mrs. Scott's version) he made love to Mrs. Scott's young daughter. When it was in full swing Mrs. Scott and "Conjunction" were pulling, hauling and pounding each other, and Janey and Howard Scott were slipping in a dig for their mother whenever opportunity offered. A bed slat and a beer bottle figured in the ruction. The bottle was broken over somebody's head, but nobody could tell from the testimony in court this morning whether it was "Conjunction's" or Mrs. Scott's.

The hearing was lively. "Conjunction" and Mrs. Scott had several tilts and Mrs. Jones, who came down to see what happened to "Conjnction," had something to say to Mrs. Scott. Judge Runyon let them talk themselves out, and then gently suggested arbitration. Mrs. Scott and "Conjunction" were weary enough to consent, and Judge Runyon sent them away under a flag of truce.

Richard Mansfield Dead.

Richard Mansfield, the actor, died at his home at New London, Conn., at 6.30 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for many months and only three weeks ago returned from Saranac after a fruitless stay there in his search for health. The end came suddenly and unexpectedly. Death was caused by liver trouble and complications.

Miss Ida May Furman, of Craig place, left Wednesday on a two weeks' vacation to be spent with relatives at Newburg, N. Y., and Englewood.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARDS ARE RAPIDLY RECOVERING

INJURED COUPLE EXPECT TO BE ABLE TO RETURN MONDAY.

Details of the accident which befell Mr. and Mrs. Maze Edwards, of this city, at Block Island, last Friday, were given in a letter received by a local friend today. Both patients are resting easily at present and will of a necessity start for home next Monday, the season at Block Island closing on that date. They will be accompanied by a nurse and an attendant in order to insure them comfortable accommodations on the way.

The accident occurred just at the entrance to the grounds of the Highland House, where Mr. and Mrs. Edwards have been stopping. They were in a three-seated canopy top wagon, the only other occupant being the driver. The horse became frightened at something and the rig was overturned, throwing all three to the road. Their injuries were so severe that at first two doctors and two nurses were in constant attendance. Their recovery has been rapid and the start will be made Monday unless the doctor changes his mind in the meantime.

In writing of the affair, Mr. Edwards had to be propped up to handle a pen but despite the discomfort, he facetiously added at the end:

"The accident took place on Friday, twenty-third, at that—skidoo."

TOWNSEND FOR MAYOR

the man Somerset county should elect him. We pay the most of the taxes and are entitled to recognition. We have a town full of men who are capable of filling the office and I take this opportunity of mentioning Charles M. Dolliver for the place. He ran for it once before and is fully qualified."

Before adjournment was taken, the Mayor spoke for a short time on the need of the Republicans getting out and working for the election of the entire ticket. Mr. Townsend wouldn't hurt it, he said, and the opposite party could be beaten easily if everybody went to work. He also remarked that the holding of caucuses at such an early date is a mistake as many men interested are unable to attend because of being away on vacations.

Captain Smith, who was named last night with Andrew Lutkins as candidate for Freeholder, refused to accept the nomination to the ticket. Charles B. Pope, of Summit avenue, has been put up as candidate with Mr. Lutkins.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE FRESH AIR HOME

CAMP'S SEASON WILL COME TO AN END ON LABOR DAY.

The work of the past year and plans for the future were discussed at the annual meeting of the executive committee of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, held at the home of David Hand, on Berkeley avenue, last evening. It was unanimously decided to close the camp Labor Day, and the last of the summer's outdoor meeting is to be held in the auditorium Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of Monroe Avenue church, will lead the meeting, and there will be addresses by S. H. Atkinson and Alfred Sutro, of New York, who is especially interested in Miss Curry's work at the camp.

The committee decided that it would be advisable to have the outdoor auditorium enclosed on the sides for next year, and John D. Loizeaux, of the building and grounds committee, was apointed to look after the matter. Venetian blinds or rolling slat partition walls will probably be used, so that they may be lowered in case of rain. The finances of the Home were reviewed by George H. Chapman, chairman of the finance committee. The report through the month of July shows a balance, which will be sufficient to meet the expenses of the past month. Discussion of a possible occupant for the main camp building during the winter was terminated by a decision that this matter be left to the supervision of Mr. Morgan, donor of the building. It is possible that Miss Curry's brother, with his family, will be the occupants this winter as last.

The annual meeting of the representatives of all church societies connected with the Netherwood Home will be held Thursday evening, September 26, in this city. At this meeting reports of the summer's work will be made by delegates from the forty-five church societies and officers will be elected for the coming year. A committee composed of George A. Chapman, as chairman, Miss Sara Curry, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, George E. Hall and John D. Loizeaux, was appointed at last night's meeting to arrange for an annual meeting, and this committee will act as nominating committee at the elections.

EARLY REVIEW OF THE NEW TAX ACT

LAWYERS FOR RAILROADS TO FILE WRITS OF ERROR SOON.

It is expected that at its November term the Court of Errors and Appeals will review the recent decision of the Supreme Court, handed down by Justice Pitney and Fort, upholding the constitutionality of the Perkins railroad tax act.

Railroad attorneys have already prepared writs of error, and are said to be about to file them, in order that the Court of Errors and Appeals at the November term may review the decision.

Although none of the legal representatives of the railroads concerned were willing to discuss the plan of action for publication, before the filing of the writs, it was learned yesterday that it will be claimed that the decision of Justices Fort and Pitney is contrary to the equal taxation clause of the New Jersey State constitution, which provides that taxes shall be assessed by general laws and at uniform rates, and also to the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States, which forbids the taking of property without the due process of law, and prohibits legislation which shall "deny to any citizen or corporation the equal protection of the laws."

In case of an adverse decision in the highest court of the State it is said the suits will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Whether the Democratic party has so faithful an adherent in any State in this broad land as James E. Martine, of Plainfield, may be a matter of dispute. Certainly it has not his equal in New Jersey. Mr. Martine has carried his party's banner through thick and thin, when hopes were high, and when none other could be induced to be a candidate. For thirty years, off and on, he has run for office. He's known in every farm house in Union, Morris and Warren Counties. Yet in all of these years he has never held so much of a public trust as pound keeper.

Mr. Martine started on his career as Democracy's perpetual candidate the year he attained his majority. He had begun his part in the political drama three years before, when, as the "boy orator," he was chosen as spokesman for a Union county delegation in a convention of young Democrats in Trenton. He took to politics like the duck does to water, and he has thrown himself heart and soul into every campaign since.

Three times he has run for Assembly from Union county, three times for State Senator, twice for Congress and once for Mayor of Plainfield.

The True American has been unable to locate the election returns for all the years when Mr. Martine was an Assembly candidate, but the legislative manuals for 1878, 1893, 1902, 1904 and 1906 tell of five of his defeats, while the Hoboken Observer, of February 9, 1907, tells the story of his defeat for Mayor of Plainfield in 1906 by plurality of 600.

In 1878, 1893 and 1902 Mr. Martine ran for State Senator. Here are the figures:

1878—Martine, Dem., 4304; Vail, Rep., 4,758: 1893—Martine, Dem., 3,539; Voorhees, Rep., 3,563. 1902—Martine, Dem., 9,561; Cross, Rep., 10,717.

In 1904 and 1906 Mr. Martine was the congressional candidate of Fifth district Democrats, both times against Congressman Charles N. Fowler. In 1904 Fowler polled 24,488 votes to Martine's 19,254. That was the year of the Roosevelt sweep. Last fall Mr. Martine was beaten by 552 plurality, Fowler polling 19,670 votes to Martine's 19,208.

Mr. Martine isn't building air castles because of the mention of his name in connection with the gubernatorial nomination. Of course, he would like to be nominated, but he wants the convention to be guided by its best judgment. He recognizes that his string of honorable defeats isn't a high recommendation in a year when victory is within reach, and when he and former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of this city, met at a gathering of Union county Democrats last week, he graciously recounted Mr. Katzenbach's strong points, and was, in turn, quite as graciously commended by his Trenton rival, who bids fair to be his successful rival.

Mr. Martine has sought the governorship before. He received a heavy vote at the convention which nominated Seymour, but his hard luck, which had followed him through all his battles, stuck right by him, and Martine "lost by the skin of his teeth."

Mr. Martine is not a professional politician. He is rather a professor of politics. He believes in his political principles as he does in his religion, and is willing at all times to make whatever sacrifices the cause he holds dear may demand of him. He aspires to office never with a view to the emoluments thereof, but solely in the hope that victory may enable him to do something for the advancement of his creed.

Such then is the man that the Union County Democratic Committee would have the Democratic State Convention name for Governor. Faithful in defeat, ever hopeful, never grasping, he stands unique in political annals.

But Mr. Martine will not be the Democratic gubernatorial nominee this fall. The record of his sacrifices stirs a kindly sentiment in every Democratic heart. Could he be considered on his merits as a man, could the gloom of his political past be dissipated, his self-immolation would give him in this promising year a reward. But the Democrats alone cannot elect a Governor this fall, and with the hard, matter-of-fact voters, who will decide the issue, sentiment will have little influence.

The Democratic candidate for Governor will be one whose battles have terminated victoriously, whose horescope is more auspicious than that of the "Farmer Orator."—Trenton True American.

These uncertain sounds ceased, the strained ears of the fugitives heard the crashing of bodies through the thick shrubbery, and then even this noise died away in the distance. Yet neither ventured to stir or speak. It may be that the girl slept fitfully, worn out by long vigil and intense strain; but the man proved less fortunate, his eyes staring out continually into the black void, his thoughts upon other days. His features were drawn and haggard when the first gray dawn found ghastly reflection along the opposite rock summit, and with blurred eyes he watched the faint tinge of returning light steal downward into the canyon. At last it swept aside those lower clinging mists, as though some invisible hand had drawn back the night curtains, and he peered over the edge of his narrow resting place, gazing directly down upon the scene of massacre. With a quick gasp of unspeakable horror he shrank so sharply back as to cause the suddenly awakened girl to start and glance into his face.

"What is it?" she questioned, with quick catching of breath, reading that which she could not clearly interpret in his shocked expression.

"Nothing of consequence," and he faintly endeavored to smile. "I suppose I must have been dreaming also, and most unpleasantly. No; please do not look down; it would only cause your head to reel, and our upward climb is not yet completed. Do you feel strong enough now to make another attempt to reach the top?"

"Can we?" she questioned helplessly.

"We can, simply because we must," and his white teeth shut together firmly. "There is no possibility of retracing our steps downward, but with the help of this daylight we surely ought to be able to discover some path leading up."

He rose cautiously to his feet, pressing her more closely against the face of the cliff, thus holding her in comparative safety while preventing her from glancing back into the dizzy chasm. The most difficult portion of their journey was apparently just before them. More than once they tottered on the very brink, held to safety merely by desperate clutchings at rock or shrub, yet never once did the man loosen his guarding grasp of his companion. Pressed tightly against the smooth rock, feeling for every crevice, every slightest irregularity of surface, making use of creeping tendril or dead branch, daring death along every inch of the way, these two creepers at last attained the opening to a little gulley, and sank down, faint and trembling. The girl glanced furtively at him, the long lashes shadowing the expression of her lowered eyes. In spite of deep prejudice she felt impelled to like this man; he accomplished things, and he didn't talk.

It was nothing more serious than a hard and toilsome climb after that, a continuous struggle testing every muscle, straining every sinew, causing both to sink down again and again, panting and exhausted, no longer stimulated by imminent peril. The narrow cleft they followed led somewhere away from the exposed front of the precipice, yet arose steep and jagged before them. It was bridged finally by a cedar trunk, which Hampton wrenched from out its rocky foothold, and the two crept cautiously forward, to emerge where the sunlight rested golden at the summit. They sank face downward in the short grass, barely conscious that they had finally won their desperate passage.

Slowly Hampton succeeded in uplifting his tired body and his reeling head, until he could sit partially upright and gaze unsteadily about. The girl yet remained motionless at his feet, her thick hair, a mass of red gold in the sunshine, completely concealing her face, her slender figure quivering to sobs of utter exhaustion. Before them stretched the barren plain, brown, desolate, drear, offering in all its wide expanse no hopeful promise of rescue. With hand partially shading his aching eyes from the blinding glare, the man studied its every exposed feature, his face hardening again into lines of stern determination. The girl stirred from her position, flinging back her heavy hair with one hand, and looking up into his face with eyes that read at once his disappointment.

"Have—have you any water left?" she asked at last, her lips parched and burning as if from fever.

He shook the canteen dangling forgotten at his side. "There may be a few drops," he said, handing it to her, although scarcely removing his fixed gaze from off that dreary plain. "We shall be obliged to make those trees yonder; there ought to be water there in plenty, and possibly we may strike a trail."

There was nothing more said between them. Like two automatons, they started off across the parched grass, the heat waves rising and falling as they stumbled forward. Neither realized until then how thoroughly that hard climb up the rocks, the strain of continued peril and the long abstinence from food had sapped their strength, yet to remain where they were meant certain death; all hope found its center amid those distant beckoning trees.

No one can explain later how such deeds are ever accomplished; how the tortured soul controls physical weakness, and compels strained sinews to perform the miracle of action when all ambition has died. Hampton surely must have both seen and known, for he kept his direction, yet never afterwards did he regain any clear memory of it.

CHAPTER IV.
On the Naked Plain.

It was 218 miles, as the crow flies, between old Fort Bethune and the rock ford crossing the Bear Water, every foot of that dreary, treeless distance Indian-haunted, the favorite skulking place and hunting ground of the restless Sioux. Winter and summer this wide expanse had to be suspiciously patroled by numerous military scouting parties, anxious to learn more regarding the uncertain whereabouts of wandering bands and the purposes of malcontents.

One such company, composed of a dozen mounted infantrymen, accompanied by three Cree trailers, rode slowly and wearily across the brown exposed uplands down into the longer, greener grass of the wide valley bottom, until they emerged upon a barely perceptible trail which wound away in snake-like twistings, toward those high, barren hills whose blue masses were darkly silhouetted against the western sky. The animals moved steadily forward, reluctant and weary, their heads drooping dejectedly, their distended nostrils red and quivering, the oily perspiration streaking their dusted sides. The tired men, half blinded by the glare, lolled heavily in their deep cavalry saddles, with encrusted eyes staring moodily ahead.

Riding alone, and slightly in advance of the main body, his mount a rangy, broad-chested roan, streaked with alkali dust, the drooping head telling plainly of wearied muscles, was the officer in command. He was a pleasant-faced, stalwart young fellow, with the trim figure of a trained athlete, possessing a square chin smoothly shaven, his intelligent blue eyes half concealed beneath his hat brim, which had been drawn low to shade them from the glare, one hand pressing upon his saddle holster as he leaned over to rest. No insigna of rank served to distinguish him from those equally dusty fellows plodding gloomily behind, but a broad stripe of yellow running down the seams of his trousers, together with his high boots, bespoke the cavalry service, while the front of his battered campaign hat bore the decorations of two crossed sabers, with a gilded "7" prominent between. His attire was completed by a coarse blue shirt, unbottoned at the throat, about which had been loosely knotted a darker colored silk handkerchief, and across the back of the saddle was fastened a uniform jacket, the single shoulder strap revealed presenting the plain yellow of a second lieutenant.

Attaining to the summit of a slight knoll, whence a somewhat wider vista lay outspread, he partially turned his face toward the men straggling along in the rear, while his hand swept across the dreary scene.

"If that line of trees over yonder indicates the course of the Bear Water, Carson," he questioned quietly, "where are we expected to hit the trail leading down to the ford?"

The sergeant, thus addressed, a little stocky fellow wearing a closely clipped gray moustache, spurred his exhausted horse into a brief trot, and drew up short by the officer's side, his heavy eyes scanning the vague distance, even while his right hand was uplifted in perfunctory salute.

"There's no trail I know about along this bank, sir," he replied respectfully, "but the big cottonwood with the dead branch forking out at the top is the ford guide."

They rode down in moody silence into the next depression, and began wearily climbing the long hill opposite, apparently the last before coming directly down the banks of the stream. As his barely moving horse topped the uneven summit, the lieutenant suddenly drew in his rein, and uttering an exclamation of surprise, bent forward, staring intently down in his immediate front. For a single instant he appeared to doubt the evidence of his own eyes; then he swung hastily from out the saddle, all weariness forgotten.

"My God!" he cried, sharply, his eyes suspiciously sweeping the bare slope. "There are two bodies lying here—white people!"

They lay all doubled up in the coarse grass, exactly as they had fallen, the man resting face downward, the slender figure of the girl clasped vice-like in his arms, with her tightly closed eyes upturned toward the glaring sun. Never once questioning but that he was confronting the closing scene of a grewsome tragedy, the thoroughly aroused lieutenant dropped upon his knees beside them, his eyes already moist with sympathy, his anxious fingers feeling for a possible heart-beat. A moment of hushed, breathless suspense followed, and then he began flinging terse, eager commands across his shoulder to where his men were clustered.

"Here! Carson, Perry, Ronk, lay hold quick, and break this fellow's clasp," he cried, briefly. "The girl retains a spark of life yet, but the man's arms fairly crush her."

With all the rigidity of actual death those clutching hands held their tenacious grip, but the aroused soldiers wrenched the interlaced fingers apart with every tenderness possible in such emergency, shocked at noting the expression of intense agony stamped upon the man's face when thus exposed to view. The whole terrible story was engraven there—how he had toiled, agonized, suffered, before finally yielding to the inevitable and plunging forward in unconsciousness, written as legibly as though by a pen. Carson, who in his long service had witnessed much of death and suffering, bent tenderly above him, seeking for some faint evidence of lingering life. The anxious lieutenant, bareheaded under the hot sun-glare, strode hastily across from beside the unconscious but breathing girl, and stood gazing doubtfully down upon them.

"Any life, sergeant?" he demanded, his voice rendered husky by sympathy.

"He doesn't seem entirely gone, sir," and Carson glanced up into the officer's face, his own eyes filled with feeling. "I can distinguish just a wee bit of breathing, but it's so weak the pulse hardly stirs."

"What do you make of it?"

"Starving at the bottom, sir. The only thing I see now is to get them down to water and food."

The young officer glanced swiftly about him across that dreary picture of sun-burnt, desolate prairie stretching in every direction, his eyes pausing slightly as they surveyed the tops of the distant cottonwoods.

"Sling blankets between your horses," he commanded, decisively. "Move quickly, lads, and we may save one of these lives yet."

As if by some magic discipline the rude, effective litters were rapidly made ready, and the two seemingly lifeless bodies gently lifted from off the ground and deposited carefully within. Down the long, brown slope they advanced slowly, a soldier grasping the rein and walking at each horse's head, the supporting blankets, securely fastened about the saddle pommels, swaying gently to the measured tread of the trained animals. Beneath the protecting shadows of the first group of cottonwoods, almost on the banks of the muddy Bear Water, the little party let down their senseless burdens, and began once more their seemingly hopeless efforts at resuscitation. A fire was hastily kindled from dried and broken branches, and broth was made, which was forced through teeth that had to be pried open. Water was used unsparingly, the soldiers working with feverish eagerness, inspired by the constant admonitions of their officer, as well as their own curiosity to learn the facts hidden behind this tragedy.

It was the dark eyes of the girl which opened first, instantly closing again as the glaring light swept into them. Then slowly, and with wonder-ment, she gazed up into those strange, rough faces surrounding her, pausing in her first survey to rest her glance on the sympathetic countenance of the young lieutenant, who held her half reclining upon his arm.

"Now Miss, Just Take a Sip of This."

"Here," he exclaimed, kindly, interpreting her glance as one of fear, "you are all right and perfectly safe now, with friends to care for you. Peters, bring another cup of that broth. Now, miss, just take a sup or two of this, and your strength will come back in a jiffy. What was the trouble? Starving?"

OBITUARY.

Charles Maguire.

Charles Maguire, the three months old son of Mrs. Josephine Maguire, of 223 West Third street, died this morning after a short illness. Funeral services will be held in the Salvation Army Hall on East Second street Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mitchell-Taylor.

At the home of his aunt, Mrs. Jacob Bergen, of Grove street, Hance Mitchell and Miss Adelia Taylor were married last night at 9 o'clock by Rev. G. W. Bailey. The couple will live in this city.

Jag on the Water Wagon.

John Rempies, driver of a water wagon, was arrested this morning, for drunkenness. He was taken from his seat on the sprinkler.

WOMAN HURT IN COLLISION.

Mrs. Schwab Tossed From Carriage Hit By Trolley Car.

Mrs. F. A. Schwab, of Roselle, was badly hurt in a collision between a South Broad street car and a small runabout which she was driving at Washington avenue, Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon. The car was going at moderat speed and chashed into the light vehicle just as it rounded into Broad street, throwing Mrs. Schwab, the only occupant, to the sidewalk. The horse was unhurt, but the carriage was demolished.

Mrs. Schwab was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital, where it was found that she had sustained a fractured leg and abrasions of the arms and scalp. Her wounds were dressed by Dr. Victor Mravlag, who witnessed the accident.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. H. J. Harold, of East Fifth street, has returned home from Lebanon, N. J.

Miss Margaret Rafferty and Miss Annie Bader, of this city, are at Atlantic City.

Charles B. Hellyer, of East Seventh street, will spend Sunday and Monday at Asbury Park.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, are stopping at Orr's Island, Maine, for a few weeks.

Frank W. Morse, of Central avenue, who has been on a fishing trip to Barnegat, returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Sheppard and son, Malcolm, of Westervelt avenue, who have been spending two weeks at Grahamsville, N. Y., will return home tomorrow. Mr. Sheppard is the private secretary of Senator Ackerman.

FEAR FOR THEIR DEAD.

Bernardsville Residents Alarmed Lest Other Bodies Have Been Mutilated by Ghouls.

Bernardsville, Aug. 30.—There is much speculation as to the motive that prompted the deed committed on the body of eight-year-old Margaret E. Kuhlewind at St. Bernard's Episcopal Cemetery on Saturday night, August 17.

A feeling of apprehension is rapidly giving ground that other bodies have already been subjected to similar treatment, and the residents of this locality are fearful that unless the offenders can be apprehended other graves may be violated. County Detective George L. Totten has been working on the case, but so far there has been no evidence found sufficient to warrant an arrest.

The nature of the mutilations, together with the rough manner in which the body was handled, having been thrown back into the grave on top of the casket, and protected from the earth only by the lid of the outer box, leads many to the belief that it was the work of a degenerate member of this community.

Twenty crates of those delicious Rocky Ford melons will be a special offering at Neuman Brothers tomorrow. They will also have fifty baskets of Maryland melons. Make selections early.

The lamp at the mouth of Salem Creek has been condemned by Captain J. Neal, of the United States engineers' department, and a new one will soon be erected.

Baseball and General Sports

DIAMOND DUST.

The Y. M. C. A. nine will play the Bound Brook team here tomorrow afternoon.

WILL PLAY THE BOYS.

New Market School Girls to Engage In Ball Game.

For the benefit of the school piano fund, girls and boys of the upper grades of the New Market school will play a game of ball at the village Labor Day morning. The girls nine will be composed of misses who have practised the national game for several weeks and are not unfamfliar with its technical points.

To even up matters and add interest to the game, the boys will be required to play in skirts, and to use only their left hands. A. G. Nelson, president of the Board of Education, is arranging the contest.

Double Header Labor Day.

The Clinton Avenue nine will meet Bound Brook in the next game of the inter-city league to be played on Crescent Avenue Labor Day afternoon. The game is called at 3.45. In the morning, the local boys play the second game in the series with Westfield. The team from down the road is coming up for victory and will put up a hard fight to win. Cliff Randolph and Will O'Loughlin will be the points for the Clinton Avenues.

Clinton Avenue Vs. High Bridge.

Manager Dorflinger, of the Clinton Avenue nine, has arranged for a game with the High Bridge team Saturday afternoon at High Bridge. The team will leave town on the 2:08, and will be heeled by a big bunch of local fans. The High Bridge nine has made a good showing this year, recent scalps being the West Ends, of Somerville, and the Flemingtons.

"Bob" Abbott Qualifies.

Robert Abbott, winner of the big amateur golf tournament at Deal, last week, was one of the forty players to qualify in the annual tournament of the Misquamicut Golf Club at Watch Hill, R. I. The Yale player got an 83 Tuesday and 83 yesterday, totalling 166 for the thirty-six holes qualifying round. Honors of the links were won by E. M. Byers, last year's champion, who led the field with a 78, 77 —155. A big field of New England amateurs are entered in the match play, which will begin today.

Wins in East Jersey Tourney.

In the play in the first round of the women's tennis tournament for the East Jersey title, begun at the Elizabeth Town and Country Club yesterday, Miss Barbara Fleming won her match against Miss J. D. Eglesston, of the Elizabeth club, 7-5, 6-2. Miss Fleming is well known among the women tennis players at the Country Club.

"Eddie L" Not In Races.

WIFE, 16, WINS SUIT OVER HUSBAND, 55

EVIDENCE IN DIVORCE SUIT OF REPEATED CRUEL TREATMENT.

Vice Chancellor Howell filed yesterday a decision granting a limited divorce to Florence Boyle, sixteen years old, wife of John Boyle, who is fifty-five years old. In her suit the wife alleges cruel treatment. Boyle has a saloon in Newark and his wife lives with her mother in Hoboken. The case was tried last month.

The wife's appearance on the witness stand created a sensation, as she seemed to be a mere school girl. She is comely, but very slight and delicate and afforded a startling contrast to her husband, who is heavy in build. He testified that he married the complainant while intoxicated and that he did not want her as a wife.

Mrs. Boyle and her witnesses testified that she married the defendant July 25, 1906, when she was hardly fifteen years old. She declared that the ceremony was performed after an ardent courtship, that her husband was perfectly sober when the marriage was performed and conducted himself decently for some time after.

Three months later, or early last October, she testified, the defendant began to drink heavily and to submit her to all kinds of abuse and cruelty. Several of her women witnesses testified to having seen her body covered with black and blue marks, received, the wife asserted, from kicks administered by her husband.

The wife testified that on the occasion of her sixteenth birthday, last April, her husband celebrated the event by heavy drinking, forcing her to sleep on the floor, where he repeatedly trampled on her, knocking her down each time she attempted to arise.

In his decision the Vice Chancellor says that although the husband's witnesses denied the charges of brutality, he was forced to believe the evidence was conclusive of deliberate and unnatural cruelty. Continuing, the Vice Chancellor says:

"I have not thought it necessary to recite the whole of the evidence of cruelty. There were times, apparently, when the wife was treated well enough, perhaps; but I don't think that this weak, nervous, anaemic child (see evidence of Dr. Crane) should be compelled to undergo, at the peril of her life, the kind of treatment that she has already received, and would be likely to receive in the future if she continued to live with her husband."

The Vice Chancellor directs that pending a hearing to determine the extent of the husband's resources, he be compelled to continue the payment of $8 a week for his wife's support.

Was—Is—Will Be

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

Central Park is that beautifully situated tract bounded by Park, Prospect, Hillside and Thornton Avenues.

PERKINS TELLS NEW IDEA MEN WHY HE STANDS

Assemblyman Seeking Fourth Term Invades Plainfield to State his Position, and Accuses Leaders of Attempting to Overide People's Will.

HE PITCHES INTO KEAN, SMITH AND TILLMAN

Reiterates That He Is No Sorehead and Will Be Loyal to Ticket If Defeated—Judge William N. Runyon Praises the Westfield Man.

Speaking under the auspices of the Fourth Ward branch of the Colbyite organization, Assemblyman Randolph Perkins told his reasons, at a meeting in Reform Hall, last night, for making his campaign for a fourth term in the Assembly, and some of the things that led up to it. His speech included a charge that his fellow-assemblyman, Peter Tillman, of Rahway, had entered into a deal to deliver the Rahway delegation against him in return for an appointment as inspector of denatured alcohol. He said the action of his associate, with whom he had worked, side by side, in the Assembly, rankled deeply, and had a good bit to do with his fight to defeat those who sought his political annihilation. He had some things to say of the alleged disciplinary activities of County Chairman Frank H. Smith.

The meeting was attended by something over 100 men, and two women. E. D. Cutting was chairman. There was enthusiasm enough, and Mr. Perkins was warmly welcomed. His telling shafts won spirited applause. There is no doubt that he had his audience with him, and that practically every man in the hall left it a Perkins boomer.

Judge Runyon was the only speaker besides Mr. Perkins. He spoke before the latter, and his speech was practically a declaration in favor of Mr. Perkins' renomination. In part, he said:

"I hardly supposed twelve months ago that I should be appearing on the same platform with Mr. Perkins, and doing what I could to bring him to your favorable notice. Viewing things from the standpoint of 1907 I don't think Union county suffered from the election of Mr. Perkins. He has shown great independence in his course. He has acted according to his honest convictions as a legislator. He did not try to evade or dodge an issue to gain votes.

"He has been before the people three times. The first time he was chosen he had no opportunity to make himself known. The second year he was practically a new man, and his success in making himself known as he did speaks for his ability. I believe he acted well as a legislator. He was threatened with the vengeance of the organization when he asserted his independence in the Senatorial battle, and he stood fast.

"I take it that he has had practically but one term in which to show of what he is made. He has an honorable ambition to return to the Assembly. We have seen in other states the spectacle of national legislators being returned term after term, and the value of that policy has been recognized by New Jersey in the cases of congressmen and senators. I feel the good of that policy will be operative as strongly in our State Legislature. If Mr. Perkins is returned to the Assembly, we will gain a legislator of great credit to Union county and the State; Union county will have a strong and useful representative. It is said he is a weak candidate. How can that be said with any force? It seems to be the aim of the organization to choose candidates for the people and to force them on the electorate. The organization cannot say Mr. Perkins is a weak candidate if it doesn't give the people a chance to speak on him. I feel that if the delegates were left to the people's choice Mr. Perkins would be selected.

"To involve the primary in political tactics tends to defeat the people. I feel we are being forced to accept one man and to regard another one as a weak candidate. I do not think there is right or justice in the cry that Mr. Perkins is a weak candidate. He has been in the thick of the battle. His record is largely the record of the Republican party. Can you see, voters of Plainfield, why, if he acted according to the dictates of his conscience, he should be denied another term?

"We are not trying to fight the Republican party. We are simply trying to keep the party straight, and give every citizen a right to vote as his conscience dictates. If the party cannot bear that it has gone far from its original position. We seek to do away with the planning things behind closed doors.

"Do not be prejudiced. Give Mr. Perkins a fair hearing, and if he meets with your approval step out boldly and give him your support."

Mr. Perkins was received with sustained applause. He said, in part:

"Political opposition founded in personal interest or on private affairs is likely to be determined and lasting, but opposition that is based on political expediency is apt to be swept away in an exchange of ideas. That is why I come before you to explain. Last year you voted for delegates opposed to me and I tried to elect delegates in my favor. How comes it now that our political ideas are not as far apart as then? I will say that the political ideas I had a year ago were not so far from yours at that time.

"I am a regular. I went about last year saying there were no such things as bosses in Union county. I may tell you different later, but when I told you that I believed it. I am proud of the Republican party, and have served it as well as I knew how, and I intend to go on fighting in its ranks, fighting its battle and the battle of the people.

"A party cannot win on mere promises. It must come before the people with performances. If a man comes before his constituents and makes promises he must keep them if he fails it is the constituency's duty to retire him.

"I stand only on the printed record on the minutes. I do not seek to make compromise and take the position of a coward. How comes it that I am meeting those with friendly feeling whom I fought a year ago? Aside from our little or major differences, there is something of the utmost importance. What we should want to do is to send men to Trenton who are honest and sincere.

"I have committed a political sin in the eyes of some people. I said I would be free from bossism. Have I or have I not? Can anyone come forward and say I took orders from anybody but the people at large? (Applause.) I dare say there are those who charge that as my chief sin. If you want honest men at Trenton, it is your duty to examine the records of candidates, and if they do not show that the candidates have kept faith with the people they should be sent back to private life. If they have kept faith, you should see to it that some boss does not relegate them.

"Gentlemen, I said I am an organization man. I am. The things that are being done against me represent disorganization. I purpose staying in the ranks. If I am defeated, and they will let me I'll stump the county for the ticket. I am no sorehead.

"This campaign has a deeper purpose than to make Randolph Perkins assemblyman a fourth time. When the assemblyman of this county learned that the people of the county did not desire Senator Dryden's re-election what was his duty? Was it not to protest against a nomination the people didn't want? If my record is to be investigated what is the verdict as to my independence.

"Now I have told you my greatest sin. When I voted against Senator Dryden it was said by the leader of the party that I had committed political suicide. That was a threat. I am now about to say something unpleasant for me to say, but it is true. What I will say I said to the gentlemen involved, face to face, for I hate a coward.

"Less than four weeks after your Senator and myself helped defeat Senator Dryden, your county chairman went to Mr. Tillman and said the organization was against Mr. Tillman and Mr. Perkins and secured his resignation from the House in consideration of his appointment as inspector of denatured alcohol and in consideration of his delivery of the Rahway delegates against Perkins. I told that to Mr. Tillman and your county chairman. From the day I learned that I became a candidate for renomination.

"The thing that hurts me is that the man with whom you have been associated makes a deal whereby I am to be relegated to the ranks. Gentlemen, I have given you the reason, why I am a candidate, and I will be a candidate right up to convention day. If I am wiped off the face of the political map, I will be there.

THEY WANT "FARMER JIM"

North Jersey Voters Enthusiastic Over His Boom for Gubernatorial Nomination.

LEADERS FAVOR HIM

In Morris, Sussex and Warren Counties the Plainfielder Is As Popular As Roosevelt, a Local Man Declares.

State Democratic politicians who have been laboring under a delusion that James E. Martine's Gubernatorial boom is on the wane, should take a trip to northern New Jersey where a strong sentiment is developing daily for the candidacy of the Farmer Orator. As a general rule, in the rural districts, politics fail to assume any definite proportions until a few weeks previous to election, but this year proves to be an exception to the custom. Instead, the voters appear to be more interested than ever which is probably due to the legislative probe which was inaugurated last May and which is creating an unusual amount of interest among the rural voters.

A Plainfielder who returned to town today after a three week's visit to towns in Morris, Sussex and Warren counties informed a Daily Press reporter that Martine is a universal favorite among voters of all classes in these three counties. The feeling in favor of Martine is not confined to Democrats alone, but also to voters in the Republican ranks. "In these counties," said the Daily Press informant, "Martine is just as popular as President Roosevelt. He is close to the hearts of the people and his name is a byword in the county inns, taverns and stores, where the farmers gather from day to day to discuss current events. If he receives the Democratic nomination there is no reason not to believe that he will carry the State by a substantial majority."

Prominent Republicans in Dover, Hackettstown, Stanhope, Newton, and other towns are not backward in stating openly that they will vote for the Farmer Orator should he receive the nomination. The Democratic leaders, to a unit, in these sections favor his candidacy and delegates are being elected to support him in the convention.

Firemen's Day at Hackettstown on Thursday proved a sort of a political bee for the politicians of Warren and Susex counties. In the special excursion from Newton which attended the festivities all of the leaders from the Sussex county seat were emphatic in their declarations of support for the "Farmer Orator." The sentiment was not confined to the Newton excursions but the same spirit prevailed all along the line.

Captain Woodhull Bird, of Port Morris, who has been a staunch Democrat all his life and who has cast his ballot for all the Democratic presidential candidates in a row since President Polk's time, said last week that there are two men he hoped Providence would spare his life to vote for. They are William J. Bryan for the presidency and James E. Martine for governor.

In extolling the good qualities of Martine, Captain Bird said, "I like him very much for his frankness and honesty. I have met him several times campaigning up here during the last forty years and I thing he is just the right sort of a man to have in the governor's chair at Trenton, and I think his time has come to win out, b'gosh. Anyhow he'll get my vote and hundreds of others up around here."

Canoeists' Novel Trip.

Charles S. Edgcumbe and Harold C. Chapman, of Jersey City, members of the Palisade Canoe Club, are camping at Sebring's Mills for a few days after a canoeing trip from Jersey City. They left home Thursday, going down Newark bay, through the Kill von Kull to New York bay, thence through "The Narrows" to the ocean, along the south shore of Staten Island to Ward's Point, where they camped for the night. They resumed the trip yesterday, paddling across Raritan bay to the Raritan river, proceeding up the stream to Bound Brook and then along Green brook to Sebring's Mills. The trip is an unusual one for canoeists and the young men will return home by almost the same route.

Their Marriage Announced.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Dudley L. Ferguson, son of Rev. John D. Ferguson, of Sherman avenue, and Miss Julia Quentin Fitz-Gerald, of this city. The ceremony was performed on July 6 last, by Rev. Dr. Houghton at the Church of the Transfiguration, New York.

Farmers' Picnic at Gillette.

A farmers' picnic is to be held this afternoon and evening at Gillette. It will be attended by people from all about that section and many from this city. A dance will be held in Shott's Hall both afternoon and evening in connection with the affair.

PRIZE SHOOT LABOR DAY

Independent Gun Club Members Will Spend the Day at the Range.

THE SEASON'S PRIZES

Winners of Point Shoots at Rifle Range and Trap Will Receive Their Medals at the Grove Monday.

Members of the Independent Gun Club and their friends will have an opportunity to shoot for special prizes at the Maple avenue range Labor Day. Several special events have been arranged, among which are special prize events for friends of the club members. The shooting will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning, and the card of events will keep the members who wish to enter at the park all day.

The feature of the day's shooting will be the "King Shoot," at the rifle traps. This is open to members, and the one scoring the shot nearest to the centre of the bulls eye will be crowned king, and will be awarded a $25 gold medal, the highest honor of the day for the club members. Other match shooting at rifle range and traps will take up the interest of the members, and twenty handsome prizes, consisting of gold and silver medals, hunting coat, gun case, shell case, cartridge loading outfit, cleaning rods and ammunition. The members will be handicapped in the shooting.

Part of the Labor Day program at the park will consist in the award of prizes for last season's shooting, concluded in the meet at the ranges July 4. B. F. Leonard, with 271 out of a possible 300 points at the rifle range will receive a gold medal as first prize. The second prize, another gold medal, is to go to C. W. Leonard, with 265 points. S. F. Subacher, who got 258 points in the shooting, will get a silver medal. In the trap shooting for the season, B. F. Leonard also won the event, with 62 points out of a possible 90. He will receive a gold medal as first prize. C. W. Krausse, who got a 60, will receive a gold medal as second prize. W. S. Terry and C. W. Leonard tied for third honors with scores of 58. Terry will receive a silver medal and Leonard will be awarded a club badge.

Local members of the club will be at the ranges in force morning and afternoon, and refreshments will be served there during the day. Several of the members will bring guests from Newark and New York, who will compete for the special prizes open to them.

WATCHUNG REPUBLICANS' CANDIDATES ARE PICKED

MEETING ENDORSES DR. MOLDENKE AS DELEGATE TO STATE CONVENTION.

The Republicans of Watchung have announced their ticket, made at a party caucus held Thursday as follows: Delegate to State convention Dr. Richard Moldenke; delegate to county convention, A. P. Voorhees, town committeeman (three years' term), William H. Titus; surveyors of highways, Hippolyte Texier and Frederick H. Herkstroter; pound keepers, Emil Clementz and Soren Sorensen. There was a fair representation of the party present, and names were mentioned for discussion by the voters before they were put on the slate.

It was voted to support an appropriation of $2,000 for repairing and building roads for the year, and decided by the meeting to request the repair of the sidewalk from Watchung to Johnston's Drive. An appropriation of $600 for the poor as supported and it was the sentiment of the meeting that the salary of the committeeman be $75.

Water Wagon Jag Cost $5.

John Rempies, the driver of one of the city water wagons, who disregarded the fitness of things by displaying a jag on the symbol of total abstinence, to the scandal of North and Park avenues yesterday morning, was fined $5 by City Judge Runyon this morning. The magistrate said he deserved punishment for allowing himself to get drunk while in charge of city property.

Letter-Carrier Stops Runaway.

A horse attached to one of Debele & Stahl's delivery wagons ran away from in front of the Trust Company's building this morning. It was stopped at Second street by Letter-carrier Daniel Shea, who seized the bridle. No damage was done.

Buys Fourth Street House.

Mrs. Agnes Delaney, of East Newark, has purchased a house on West Fourth street, from Frank Kramer. She will conduct a boarding house.

MARRIED HALF CENTURY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schermerhorn Will Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary.

LIVED HERE 23 YEARS

Local Western Union Manager Married In Jersey City September 2, 1857.

Residents of this city since 1870, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill Schermerhorn will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home, 116 Madison avenue, Monday, Labor Day. On September 2, 1857 the couple were married in Jersey City, and have been residents of Plainfield since thirteen years after their marriage. Mr. Schermerhorn, a telegraph operator from the age of seventeen years, has been employed in the local office of the the Western Union Company since he came to this city.

"Uncle Charlie" and "Aunt Sapie," as they are known to so many of the old residents of this city, made no plans for a celebration of their fiftieth anniversary as man and wife, and will entertain their friends informally at their home on that day. The two have many fast friends among the older residents of the city and are well-known locally.

A Daily Press reporter, calling at the Schermerhorn home yesterday found Mrs. Schermerhorn ready to talk about her long married life and about Plainfield as it was in the years gone by. "I have taken so much interest in reading the articles now being printed in the Press," she said, "So many of those events I can remember, and I find I remember so many of the people." In speaking of her residence in this city, Mrs. Schermerhorn said that the first impressions of the place were unfavorable, based on a view she got of the old Plainfield depot as she passed through the town on her wedding trip to Philadelphia in 1857. "Such a looking place! I never thought I would live here," she said, "for I judged the town by the appearance of that ramshackle wooden building with the bell in the tower on top." But the couple did come here, however, from Burlington, N. J., when Mr. Schermerhorn was transferred to the Plainfield office. "Our first home in Plainfield was the "Octagon House" on East Fifth street, near Park avenue. Only it was on Fourth street then, where L. A. Rheaume's coal yard is now." We lived in other houses, too, I can't tell you how many, but we did live in the same house for eight years in two cases before we came to this house."

There is but ten months difference in the ages of the two, Mr. Schermerhorn having been born in 1833 and his wife in 1834. Mrs. Schermerhorn, nee Sarah Payne Allen, is the daughter of John C. Allen, a merchant tailor who lived in Schenectady, N. Y., where she was born. She was one of three children, a brother, John, and a sister, Mrs. Charles H. Winfield. Neither brother nor sister survive, the latter being buried in the Schermerhorn plot at Hillside cemetery. In speaking about her early years, Mrs. Schermerhorn said: "I've always had a weakness for telegraph operators. My first beau, before I was sent to school at Schoharie, N. Y., was a telegrapher, and Mr. Schermerhorn I first met when he came to our house in Jersey City as a boarder. He was then telegraph operator at the Western Union station in the Irving House, New York. Yes," she concluded, with a laugh, "if I ever marry again, it will be a telegrapher, only he must be more nearly my own age."

Mr. Schermerhorn is the son of the late Abraham S. Schermerhorn, a shoemaker, and was born a Hatboro, Pa., the old home of Dr. Yerkes. His father wanted him to be a shoemaker, but he never made but one shoe in his life. At the age of seventeen, he became an operator in one of the first telegraph offices in this country, a test office established at New Hope, Pa. James Worl, now living in Westfield, was the first operator there, and at his resignation, Mr. Schermerhorn took his position. From New Hope, he went to Princeton, then to the Irving House, New York city, at which time he made the acquaintance of Mrs. Schermerhorn. Later he was transferred to Brooklyn, where he was in charge of the first Western Union telegraph office in that city.

After his marriage, he went to take charge of the office at Burlington. At the opening of the Civil War, he went to Beverly, some four miles south of Burlington, where he was in charge of the army office. This was the headquarters of General Sewell, and a large recruiting station. His wife was with him, helping in the hospital, writing letters for the sick soldiers and knitting socks for those at the front. At the time of Lee's surrender, Mr.

SWODY IN TOILS AGAIN, BUT DOESN'T RACE CHIEF

"LONGBOAT", OF MARATHON FAME, RECEIVES WARRANT WITH A SMILE.

Henry "Longboat" Swody, the boroughite who gave Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police force, such a chase for his capture Thursday morning, is again in the toils of the North Plainfield court. This time the hearing of the case will tend to show that Swody has an athletic tongue as well as an athletic pair of legs. James Fillmore, a next door neighbor of the runner, on Greenbrook road, got a warrant from Justice of the Peace Smalley for Swody's arrest, charging him with the use of abusive language and profanity in an inter-neighbor argument which took place between the two Thursday night.

"Longboat" saw Chief Weiss afar off when he came with the warrant today, but contrary to tactics of Thursday, did not crank up and start off on a wild run again. He stood still and took the warrant with a smile. The Chief was so pleased with his action that he did not take Swody around to the lock-up, but merely bound him over to appear before Mayor Smalley at the session of borough court tonight.

CAN'T MAKE CITIZENS FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES.

Demonstrated in Somerset Court Yesterday That It Can No Longer Be Done.

Somerset county at Somerville yesterday experienced the first salutary effects of the enforcement of the new naturalization law. Special Assistant United States Attorney William S. Gregg, of Philadelphia, demonstrated before a large audience in the Somerset court yesterday morning that the practise of naturalizing foreign subjects with a limited knowledge of the English language and the Constitution of the United States is a thing of the past.

Heretofore it has been the practise to naturalize foreigners of the "undesirable citizen" class in bunches, just before the fall elections. Two applicants of the more intelligent class of Italians were put forward yesterday morning as a feeler under the new law. Attorney Gregg subjected both of them to a rigid examination.

John Cieri, a tailor, who qualified in all other respects, was rejected because he had no knowledge of the constitution, and declared that Somerville was the capital of New Jersey. Cieri will be given an opportunity to study up before he is again examined on October 6.

Davino Corsi, an educated Italian, of Rocky Hill, who claims to have lived in the United States for twenty-five years and has a shoemaker shop, had a hard time to obtain his naturalization papers, because he was shy of witnesses who had known him for five years continuously. Attorney Gregg made a strong point of discovering whether the Italians were members of secret societies or had Anarchistis tendencies.

SAFE GRINDERS 'STRIKE.

Refusal of Company to Remove Unpopular Foreman Causes Twenty-five Employes to Strike.

The statement made by one of the officials of the Manganese Safe Works, yesterday, to the effect that none of its men were on strike, was declared false by an employe today. To a Daily Press reporter he asserted that twenty-five of the grinders went out yesterday morning because the management refused to give them another foreman. The man holding the place, it was said, is very unpopular and his removal is all they want.

The Daily Press' informant asserted that the entire department would remain out until the grievance was recognized.

"We are not asking an increase in wages or a decrease in hours," he said, "but we do want another foreman."

ANTI-PERKINS MEETING OFF.

J. Frank Burke Finds He Can't Speak Here Tonight.

Those who hoped to hear J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, say something as to Assemblyman Randolph Perkins' record at a meeting last night, will be disappointed. The meeting, which was announced yesterday, has been called off.

Mr. Burke had made an engagement to speak in Camden when he arranged for tonight's meeting, but he expected there would be no trouble in getting excused. He learned later that he could not cancel in Camden, and regretfully notified the leaguers here that he could not come as announced. A meeting will be arranged probably next week.

DEMOCRATS' CANDIDATES

Walter L. Hetfield Sr., Likely Oppose W. N. Runyon for the City Judgeship.

OWENS FOR ASSEMBLY

Heavy Array of Candidates for Common Council—Ticket Will Be Completed Tonight.

Although local Democratic leaders announced at noon today that their slate had hardly been completed, a full list of nominations for city and county officers will be filed with City Clerk James T. MacMurray before midnight, as required by law. While the Democrats have refrained from shooting off any spectacular verbal firerockets the local Jeffersonians have been unusually active during the preliminary campaign and indications point to a strong array of candidates to oppose the G. O. P. nominations. Despite the fact that the city is overwhelmingly Republican the Democrats are hopeful of polling a much larger vote than usual owing to the discontent and dissensions in the Republican ranks.

In the list of councilmanic nominees Dr. C. M. Luckey appears to be the choice of the First ward voters and as he has no opposition he will undoubtedly receive the honor. In the Second ward no definite selection up to noon had been made. In this district nobody appears to be seeking the office, although several possibilities have been mentioned in the names of Joseph M. Harrigan, J. V. D. Dilts and D. W. Martine, the latter a brother of the "Farmer Orator," who is a gubernatorial possibility. The latter has never taken an active part in politics and as he has not yet been consulted in the matter it is not known whether he will permit himself to be a candidate for Council. In the Third ward James T. Bolton, of West Fifth street, is reported to be the nominee, while in the Fourth ward William H. Brokaw, a local contractor, is mentioned. Then there is some talk of nominating a strong labor union man whose name could not be ascertained up to time of going to press.

It is practically certain that Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., will be the opponent of City Judge Runyon. The local Democratic leader was somewhat reluctant to accept the nomination but overtures of friends and local business men have compelled him, it is said, to withdraw his opposition and accept the candidacy. Attorney John P. Owens, as has been generally supposed, will be a candidate on the assembly ticket.

MISS BARBARA FLEMING WINS AND LOSES IN TENNIS.

Victorious in the Singles, Country Club Woman Lost Doubles at Elizabeth.

Miss Barbara Fleming, of the Country Club, playing with Mrs. S. F. Weaver at the tennis tournament for East Jersey honors at the courts of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club yesterday, won her match in the second round, but was defeated when she and her partner met Miss Marie Wagner and Miss W. H. Pouch, who won their place in the finales by defeating the local player.

The match against Mrs. B. C. Edgar and Miss Robinson, in the second round, was only captured after three sets of hart tennis. Miss Fleming and her partner won the first set, 6-3, lost the second by the same score and then got together and took the third, 6-1. After this hard tennis, they played Mrs. W. H. Pouch and Miss Marie Wagner, and lost in straight sets, 6-4, 6-0.

Miss Fleming is still in the singles tournament, having won her match in the first round against Miss J. D. Egleston, of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2. Play in the second round will be completed today, and Miss Fleming is scheduled to play this afternoon.

Now In Business Here.

J. Neustadt, of New York city, has opened a tailor shop at 430 Watchung avenue, this week, entering business in this city. He was formerly with R. A. Rieley, Fifth avenue, New York, as tailor. Through the agency of John P. Emmons, of North avenue, he has rented a house here.

An Illustration

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

CHATHAM.

The petitions of both parties for candidates for borough offices were filed with the borough clerk yesterday. The Republican ticket will be as follows: For Mayor, Frank L. Kelley; for councilmen (three years), Thomas W. Dawson and Alfred M. Trowbridge; (one year), James H. MacIntyre; justice of the peace, Ezra F. Ferris; delegate to State convention, Charles M. Lunn; delegates to county convention, J. Thomas Scott and August Molitor. The Democrats practically named their ticket at a primary held at their headquarters in the Wolfe building Thursday evening as follows: For Mayor, Dr. W. J. Wolfe; for councilmen (three years), Julius T. Wagner and Chas. J. Miller. The candidate for the one year term is to be named later; for justice of the peace, Ezra F. Ferris. The delegate to the State convention is Walter S. Terrell, with William Schildknecht as alternate; the delegate to the county convention is Bernard Murphy, with A. P. Konkle as alternate.

Victor Council, No. 179, Jr. O. U. A. M., will attend the evening service in the Presbyterian church on Sunday.

Mrs. Stephen McMullen is spending some time again in the Memorial hospital at Morristown.

His Qualification.

A certain aldermen was asked, when it first became known that he had political ambitions, what qualifications he had for that office. The aspirant for public honors proceeded to name a number of his accomplishments. Finally he wound up by saying:

"But what counts for more than all else is that I can marry mutes in their own language. And that, let me tell you, is no mean qualification. Of all persons who wish to enter the state of matrimony none are so restricted in their choice of officiating clergyman or magistrate as the deaf and dumb. There are a few preachers in town capable of performing a marriage ceremony in that language, but a couple of mutes who wished a civil marriage alone would be hard put to it to find a competent person among the city's officials. I learned the sign language a few years ago, when I was laid up in a hospital, and I think it would be a good thing to give me the place for the benefit of mutes who wish to be wed."

The man was elected, and in recognition of his one shining talent he really has been called upon to officiate at a number of these "quiet" weddings.

The Truthful Woman.

It is no exaggeration to say that a more or less truthful woman is looked upon with grave suspicion. What is more, nobody believes her. If she quite truthfully pronounces her age to be twenty-nine everybody at once says then she must be at least thirty-five, while if she should ever be cajoled into admitting the number of proposals she had had in her youth it will only confirm the popular impression that she had been very lucky to catch a husband at all.—London Ladies' Field.

SNODGRASS TO PRESIDE AT S. S. CONVENTION

INTERESTING MEETING, WITH GOOD SPEAKING, AT PLAINSBORO SEPT. 12.

An interesting program has been arranged for the forty-third annual convention of the Middlesex County Sunday School Association to be held in the First Presbyterian church at Plainsboro on Thursday, September 12. The delegates can go by the Trenton "Fast Line" trolley or the Pennsylvania Railroad, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

The morning session will be opened at 10 o'clock with a devotional service by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, president of the county association, and the program continued as follows:

10.15—Home Department Conference, led by Mrs. David Sutphin, home department superintendent of Mercer County Sunday-school Association.

10.35—Cradle Roll Conference, led by Miss Rose Scott, State elementary superintendent.

10.45—Work of the year reviewed. Reports will be made by the County Executive Committee, township and district secretaries, the county secretary and department superintendents.

2.55 P. M. Singing; nomination and election of officers; place of next meeting; announcement of delegates to the State convention, Freehold, November 19-21; offering.

3.15 P. M.—Annual address, "Organized Classes in the Sunday-school," Rev. Dr. James Parker, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, of Jersey City.

3.45 P. M.—Singing, the elementary address, "What Next?" by Miss Rose Scott, State elementary superintendent.

4.10 P. M.—"What I Will Take Home," closing conference.

4.40 P. M.—Recess.

7.15 P. M.—Service of song, led by Mr. W. A. Crowell, of Metuchen, new features helpful to all Sunday-school workers.

7.50 P. M.—Reports, thanks, enrollment; offering.

Address by Rev. Albert B. Sears, pastor of Livingston Avenue Baptist church, New Brunswick.

8.40 P. M.—Benediction.

Fifty-first Annual Scottish Games.

One of the best attended athletic events of the year is usually the Scottish games of the New York Caledonian Club, 54th street and Seventh avenue, Manhattan. The games this year will be held (the same as last) at Washington Park and Casino, Grand street, between Maspeth and Newton, L. I., on Labor Day, Monday, September 2. The sports of the day will commence with an old-fashioned Scotch reel at 11.30 a. m. Dancing in two large pavilions, from 3 to 12 p. m. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Lovell's Bands, Pipe and Drum Band of the New York Scottish Highlanders, and the pipers of the club. There will be thirty-three events and the list of cash prizes aggregates $761. The following events are "open to the world": Throwing light hammer, 100 yards dash, Highland fling, hop, step and jump, hitch and kick Highland fling (boys and girls under fifteen years), one mile race, vaulting with pole, broadsword dance (boys and girls under fifteen years), running high leap, three miles race, broadsword dance, hurdle race, running broad jump, quarter mile race, putting heavy shot, best dressed Highlander, Highland dress competition (boys and girls under fifteen years), tossing the caber, one mile relay race (teams of 4 men from Scottish Organizations), sack race, five mile race, bagpipe competition, bowling competition, and quoits (played on the natural sod, clay ends). The following events are confined to members: Highland dress competition, 100 yards dash, half mile race, boys' race (members' sons under twelve years), running broad jump, running high leap, boys' race (members' sons under fifteen years). Competitors can hand in their entries during the preceding game.

Force of Habit.

RETURNS MUST BE IN ON RIGHT TIME

OR UNION COUNTY BOARD WILL PROSECUTE ELECTION OFFICERS.

The Union County Board of Elections has determined to do away, if possible, with the delay that has always accompanied the filing of election and registry returns after elections, and declares that it will prosecute to the full extent of the law these election officers who are derelict in the performance of their duties. According to the election laws of this year, an officer who fails to make the proper return may be fined $100 for failure to return either registry or election returns. In some instances in past years officers have been so careless as to throw away registry lists after the election, thinking them useless—a direct defiance of the law that would greatly embarrass the board in case of a contest.

To awaken the officers to the necessity of making prompt returns after election the board has prepared the following circular to be mailed to each officer in the county:

"The attention of all members of the district boards of registry and election is called to section 96, 97 and 98 of the election laws, year 1907, which sections refer to the filing of returns after elections.

"In the past few years many election officers have been very careless and dilatory causing a great deal of trouble to those whose duty it is to tabulate and canvass the returns and also caused the county considerable expense.

"The County Board of Elections now gives notice to all election officers who may be derelict in the performance of their duty as provided for in the sections mentioned, that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

"Attention is also called to sections 22 and 24 of the election laws of 1907, which provide for the filing of copies of registry lists with the County Board of Elections."

With less than a dozen exceptions all election officers in Union county have filed answers to the questions put by the board as required by law, displaying a promptness often lacking in past years. There are ten officers who have as yet failed to file answers and if these are delayed much longer the board threatens to make other appointments. The law sets a date before which answers should have been filed, but it has never been enforced and the matter of making other appointments is left to the discretion of the board.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Brown of Harvard," the successful college play in which Henry Woodruff will appear at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight, is full of the sunshine of youth and its clean wholesome story is bright in the extreme. Its dainty love interest is of just the kind to prove entirely pleasing. There is no 'problem' attached to it and yet it is not of the milk-and-water variety. It is dainty with varile, pretty but true to the ideals of manhood. Henry Woodruff is a typical college man and is supported by a company beyond reproach.

Williams and Walker, who appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, promise to give the public a few surprises in their new production, "Bandana Land."

Those who have followed the career of these two colored men may be interested to know that their present venture is a wide departure from the "Abyssinia" idea of taking the Ethiopian back to his native heath; and has changed to their previous ideas of showing the negro on his transplanted home in Dixie.

"Bandana Land" is truly Southern in theme, music and plot.

An old colored man named Skunkton desires an heir, as he is wealthy, but childless. He adopts Leander Sassafras, who is none other than the delectible Williams. A friend of Leander, named Rastus Swellclothes (Walker) plans a magical country where the colored man may have anything that he desires for the asking. It is a study in black socialism, and his idea is that Leander should finance the scheme upon the demise of old man Skunkton. Privately, he is merely ringing in on the money, but the wealth is so tremendous that he does create his ideal country, and calls it "Bandana Land."

It is a realm of laughter, music and fun, which, of course provides for some excellent wit, singing, dancing, business and scenic effects.

Geo. M. Cohan's national show, "George Washington, Jr.," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday afternoon and night. It will be presented by The Cohan & Harris Comedians and promises, from the interest thus far displayed in the engagement, to be one of the largest attended events of the theatrical year. For the past two seasons it has only been presented in a dozen cities, its success having been so pronounced that long runs of several months duration were scored in New York, Chicago and Boston. It will be presented here by a cast of prominence and with all the splendid scenic effects that have caused comment everywhere.

A wife who, to save her husband's life, poses in the nude for a painting, and who is grievously misunderstood therefore, is the central figure in "A Modern Lady Codiva." The drama with which Amelia Bingham comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. Lady Cordova of Coventry is a figure famous in song and story, and this new Lady Cordiva promises to achieve little less celebrity in the American stage. The character is easily the most fascinating ever assumed by clever and popular Miss Bingham, and the play is pronounced strong in story, rich in wit, and opulent in action. The supporting company is highly capable and the production is handsome.

Hinchliffe Declines to Run.

State Senator John Hinchliffe stated positively yesterday that he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor this fall. He has just recovered from a serious attack of typhoid fever, and says that all his spare time in the near future will be devoted to recovering perfect health. It is understood, however, that the Passaic county delegates to the Democratic State convention will name Hinchliffe as their first choice.

THE PERFECT WAY.

Scores of Plainfield Citizens Have Learned It.

If you suffer from backache,
There is only one way to cure it.
The perfect way is to cure the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are made for kidneys only.
Are endorsed by Plainfield people.

Mrs. Martha Snedeker, of 244 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Some six weeks ago I began using Doan's Kidney Pills for an attack of kidney trouble that had been annoying me for a long time, procuring the remedy at Randolph's drug store. My main symptoms were severe backaches and pains in the top and back of my head, a stiffness in the limbs, especially my arms, and a sediment in the urine that looked like brickdust. I had a languid feeling of weakness and depression and physicians did not help me. Doan's Kidney Pills reached the cause of my trouble, however, and that very quickly and now all those aches and pains I have described have disappeared and the kidney secretions are perfectly normal, all of which is due to the healing virtues of Doan's Kidney Pills and their direct action on the kidneys."

WANTS TO SEE HIS WIFE'S SLAYERS DIE

FARMER HORNER HOPES TO SURVIVE TO WITNESS DOUBLE ELECTROCUTION.

Edward Horner, whose wife and servant were murdered, has expressed a desire to see Gibson and Dorsey, the negroes charged with the crime, put to death in the electric chair. The aged farmer has been very ill since the double murder on his farm near Collingswood, but says he hopes to live to see the guilty men punished.

Prosecutor Scovel and his assistant, Mr. Wolverton, are determined that the accused men shall be tried on the earliest possible day. They declare the evidence is of such a nature that there can be no question as to the guilt of the accused men.

They will conduct the trial so as to avoid technical errors, on which an appeal may be filed, and thus delay the execution of the law. If Justice Garretson is not prevented from sitting on September 12 by other engagements, it is likely that the trial will begin then. The case will be sent to the Grand Jury on the 10th.

It is quite likely that Dorsey and Gibson, if convicted, will be the first to pay the penalty of their crimes on the electric chair under the new law. There are two other condemned murderers in the State, but a long legal fight has been begun in their behalf.

CATERING TO THE CONGREGATION.

On the Sunday after Senator Pettus died a stranger in New York who attended service at a west side church was surprised to hear a sermon that was little short of a funeral oration in honor of the dead statesman.

"That is the custom in this church," a regular parishioner explained. "It is visited by more out-of-town people than any other church in New York. Every State in the Union is represented every Sunday in the year, therefore whenever a prominent man in any other part of the country dies the pastor turns his talk for the following Sunday into a kind of funeral sermon for the benefit of the worshippers from that particular State."

STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

The hay crop in South Jersey is the greatest in years.

While talking to his daughter at his home, 214 North Thirty-seventh street, Camden, Wednesday night, Henry Eggles, eighty-two years old, dropped dead from heart disease.

Stubbing his toe on a low step, William H. Riker plunged head first through a large plate glass window at a millinery store in High street, Burlington, and escaped with a few cuts.

Raymond Chamberlain, 7 years old, 711 Royden street, Camden, is in the Cooper hospital suffering from lockjaw. He recently stepped on a rusty nail and neglected to treat the injury.

An unidentified man entered the house of Mrs. Catherine Hittle, in Trenton, Wednesday, and stole two canaries from their cages. The policeman to whom the case was reported said it was "a bird of a theft."

Over 100 property owners at Riverside have petitioned the Township Committee to sewer the town, and a special election will be held September 3 to vote on a proposed $80,000 bond issue for the improvement.

Pasquale Rosino, of 132 Third avenue, while employed at the Dundee Lake Dye Works, yesterday, was hit on the side by a lever of a whizzer machine and knocked back against the brick walls of the dye shop. He will recover.

While sitting upon his front door step, Joseph Capraro, ten years old, of 329 Cherry street, Camden, was attacked by a strange dog, which badly lacerated one of his arms. His wounds were cauterized at the Homeopathic hospital.

Robert Crawford, of 139 North Fifth street, Paterson, was taken to his home in the General hospital ambulance, Wednesday. He had his hand smashed in some machinery at the Cooke shops of the American Locomotive Works.

Benjamin and Henry Moore, colored, were committed without bail yesterday in Camden Police Court to await the result of the injuries of Simeon Stevenson, also colored, of Woodbury, who was badly beaten in South Camden early last Sunday.

A marriage will be solemnized at Trenton today when Miss Anna Schaaf, of Berlin, Germany, will become the bride of George Heilmeir, of Philadelphia, the bride having crossed the ocean alone to meet her boyhood sweetheart, who has been in this country for ten years.

Joseph Whittaker, of Trenton, a breeder of fancy chickens, found yesterday that twenty-four of his finest fowls had been picked of their feathers alive, after which the legs of a number had been broken. Investigation points to a number of boys as guilty of the cruelty. They will be arrested.

Miss Florence Haines, who lives in Kansas City, and had been spending the summer at the cottage of her brther-in-law, Rev. W. C. Stiver, of Kansas City, in Ocean City, died Tuesday after a short illness. Miss Haines and Herbert D. Williams, of Fox Chase, Pa., were to have been married next month.

Former Freeholder James Keys, of 69 Mary street, Paterson, was thrown from a carriage yesterday afternoon in a runaway accident. Mr. Keys sustained a severe shaking up and a couple of lacerations about the head and shoulders. He declined medical attendance and insisted on looking after the runaway animal, which was located later on on Crooks avenue.

Harry Howell, employed in a Lambertville rubber mill, where a strike and lock-out have been interfering with business for some time, was caught in a belt yesterday and dragged into a revolving pulley. One side of his lower jaw was torn and ground away, and he was otherwise badly injured. He was taken to a Trenton hospital, where his recovery is regarded as doubtful.

PERKINS STRONG SPEAK

"At whose request has your county chairman been working to accomplish my defeat? Who has 'tipped' former political friends to be against me. The county chairman has been up and down the county twice to secure pledged delegates against me. He acknowledged it to me this morning. Did he do it at the request of the people? At whose request? Can you guess?" (Voices: "Ham Kean.") "Oh, but you're wise guys," said Mr. Perkins.

Mr. Perkins rehearsed the reasons advanced by the leaders for refusing him another term. The fourth term plea, he said, had not applied to the surrogate's office, and the so-called opposition of the liquor men he regarded as a rehash of a fight that was settled last year. Speaking on local option opposition, he said:

"I have no quarrel with the principle of local option. Personally I like it, if it is real local option. When it goes on the statute books through me, their must be more people behind it than the man who introduces it—and it must be a real local option bill. As to the bill of last year, I felt that it did not permit local option in cities or such municipal bodies—the county vote was able to override the separate community. That, to my mind, was not a real local option bill."

In closing Mr. Perkins said he had spoken plainly, without trying for rhetorical effect, because he had a message to deliver. He said one or two men in the party wanted it run so that hidebound oaths, such as were part of feudal days, be taken, but he did not intend to fall in with that idea. He would never take an oath in effect like that. He hoped he had not been unduly harsh in his personal reference. He had no personal feeling in the compaign.

At the close of his address Mr. Perkins offered to answer any questions. Before the meeting C. B. LaRue, an anti-saloon league worker, told the reporters that he intended to ask some. He did not respond to the invitation. He said later that he didn't think any questions were necessary.

"It was a pretty poor speech," said Rev. John Wright, of Newark, assistant superintendent of the league, who was with La Rue.

HERE IS THE REAL CHAMELEON FOR YOU

Assembly Perkins' efforts to gag the members of the lower house of the legislature who are demanding an insurance investigation smack entirely too much of servility to the gang to meet with the approval of the Voters of Union county who elected him to his present duties, a not inconsiderable number of whom live in Plainfield.—Courier-News, Feb. 28, 1906.

There are, we believe, many vulnerable spots in Mr. Perkins' work as a member of the legislature—sins of commission and omission which were they otherwise would dedound to his personal credit and certainly be of great benefit to a just and equitable government of the State of New Jersey. * * * It is not Randolph Perkins, the private citizen that we criticize. It is not Randolph Perkins, the legislator, the majority leader, that encounters our censure. It is in this latter guise that we pillory him for public inspection.—Courier-News, Sept. 6, 1906.

Compare his (Mr. Perkins') record with that of a great many of his confreres in House and Senate and Union's voters will learn that it will be difficult to select a man better fitted, to represent them.—Courier-News, Aug. 2, 1907.

Mr. Perkins' claim to re-election is based mainly upon his past record, and this will compare most favorably with that of any man in that body * * *.—Courier-News, August 12, 1907.

Has not Mr. Perkins every right to expect the support of Plainfield if he determines to again run for re-election? Has Union county ever had an Assemblyman who strove harder to do the bidding of the people than he? * * * Rather than create a breach in the ranks of the party it is hoped that Mr. Perkins will retire, yet at the same time all fair-minded citizens must admit that he has been a faithful servant and one thoroughly deserving of the support of voters and party leaders alike.—Courier-News, August 15, 1907.

For the enlightenment of the paper around the corner, the past master of mud-slinging, which cried out against C. B. Pierce because it never heard of him, we publish the following the Cranford Citizen bearing on its townsman's standing:

"As we stated last week, Mr. Perkins would prove a dangerously weak candidate, while Mr. Pierce has all the elements of strength at the polls, and this year the Republicans will need all the strength they can muster. Mr. Pierce combines all the essentials of an ideal candidate for the office. A lifelong Republican, but not identified with any faction of the party, clean, able and of highest character, a native New Jerseyman and long a resident and property-owner here; absolutely nothing can be found against him. Lying statements against Mr. Pierce made by Plainfield supporters of Mr. Perkins will fall of their own weight—and we believe will react to that candidate's injury. Cranford should enthusiastically support Mr. Pierce at the primaries."

Though his ambition to go to Trenton be an honorable one, Mr. C. B. Pierce, of Cranford, who Judge Runyon says is "a good and able man," must remove himself from the political battlefield. The Courier-News has decreed that the Cranford man is not to its liking and of course what the common-scold says goes. Thus saith the yellow one: "It will do Mr. Pierce, to quote the words of a machine organ, no harm to bide his time. In another year people of Union county" (meaning itself, no doubt), "may know more about him." Of course that kills any hope for Pierce.

Displaying its usual ignorance of local affairs, the Courier-News in commenting on the selection of Samuel Townsend, says: "It is something of a coincidence, too, and without hardily a parallel, that the outgoing incumbent was the one to suggest his successor, although the latter is of the other party."

Carted Ashes In Auto.

Employes at the city disposal plant rubbed their eyes in astonishment when a load of ashes was brought there yesterday in an automobile. When the machine was seen approaching, somebody shouted, "Here comes the Mayor," and everybody tried to look busy. The machine was driven by Allen B. Laing, who brought the ashes up in fine style. In the excitement of the strange apparition, one of the employes lost his fork, and reports that nobody has brought it to him as yet.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Perhaps dandruff troubles you a little, too.

We recommend you to try "Randolph's Hair Tonic" (Quinine and Glycerine).

It is pure—it relieves the scalp of all itchings - removes and prevents dandruff.

SIMPLICITY IN INTERIOR DECORATION.

A very marked change in the general character of interior decoration has occurred during the past few years in Germany. The present school of architects, painters, decorators, and designers is aiming at artistic effects in which simplicity is the dominant note. The current Jugenstil seeks its results through symmetry and grace of outline, and broad, even surfaces, with effective chromatic harmonies, but discards the mass of minor accessories and the elaborate detail, which have hitherto characterized the treatment of a German interior and the art of the upholsterer.

This change was strongly pronounced last year in the exhibits of furniture and decorative designs at the industrial expositions held at Nuremberg, Zwickau, and other points, and especially at the Exposition of German Industrial Art in Dresden. At the latter there were exhibits of over 100 completely furnished rooms. Nowhere were fringes, tassels, galloons, or the like visible. Woodwork was almost invariably smooth and but rarely touched by the carver's tools.

DYSPEPTIC PHILOSOPHY.

The girl who says she would marry nothing less than a foreign nobleman really couldn't.

Sometimes a man loves himself for the enemies he has made.

The people who believe most in luck are those who have never had any.

Some men are so anxious to wake up and find themselves famous that they actually contract insomnia.

There are people who seem to spend all their lives trying to get even.

It is just as easy to break a promise as to make one.

A man may be level-headed and still have no difficulty in getting a hat to fit him.

Some fellows have a lot of good in them, but the trouble is they keep it there.

Some men go to a lot of bother to save themselves a little work.

Some men can't pass a saloon any more than a woman can pass a bargain counter.

It is as great an error to think that every bachelor has been disappointed in love as to think that every married man hasn't been.

Many a man who merely passes the hat gets a reputation for philanthropy.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE ABROAD.

In New Zealand and Australia women have had the full ballot for many years, but are rarely chosen to municipal office.

In Iceland women have had municipal suffrage for twenty-five years and were made eligible to municipal office five years ago.

Women were given the municipal vote in England in 1869, in Scotland in 1881 and in Ireland in 1898, but they are not eligible to municipal office.

The Swedish parliament has just voted to make women eligible to municipal office. The women of Sweden have had municipal suffrage for many years, but until now they have not been permitted to hold office.

Several years ago the house of commons voted by the large majority of 172 to 72 to make women eligible as councilors and aldermen, but the bill did not get through the house of lords. King Edward in his speech opening the present parliament mentioned this as one of the measures that ought to pass.

PEN AND BRUSH.

David Graham Phillips, the author, is touring Europe. He will return to America in the autumn after a visit to Paris.

For more than forty years Goldwin Smith, Charles Eliot Norton and Daniel Colt have been contributors to the New York Nation.

The biography of Herbert Spencer which Dr. Duncan is preparing moves slowly. It is not expected that it will be ready before next spring.

Paradiss, the painter of Triest, has found two hitherto unknown pictures by Titian in a church in the village of Traci, Dalmatia. One represents the Magdalene and the other the descent from the cross.

Sir Frank Burnand, the former editor of London Punch, has just been proclaimed a pensioner under a law passed in England half a dozen years ago for the relief of needy persons distinguished in literature, science and art.

TO UTILIZE TISSUE PAPER.

For packing glass, china and ornaments a roll of tissue paper is invaluable.

When packing hats, a wisp of tissue paper should be twisted round all upstanding ends of ribbon and wings to prevent crushing.

Dress and blouse sleeves should be stuffed with soft paper, and a sheet of it placed between the folds.

Silk handkerchiefs, ribbons and lace should be ironed between a layer of tissue paper, and the latter is a fine polisher of steel buckles and hairpins.

The tissue paper in which parcels are wrapped should never be thrown away, but smoother out and laid away in a drawer for future use.

The pad of tissue paper is excellent for burnishing steel, rubbing grease spots off furniture, polishing silver and polishing windows.

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

BY CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL.

STORY No. 5

The MISSOURI LAND LEAGUERS

Being an Account of the Operations and Conviction of the Band of Land Thieves Operating in Missouri in the Early Seventies.

By CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL

(Copyright, 1905, by Marion G. Scheitlin.)

Two men sat in the back room of the well-appointed offices of the Real Estate Loan and Trust company, of St. Louis, one night in the fall of 1872. One was young, under 30, slender and somewhat stooped. His eyes were dark and shifting and he wore a black beard and mustache. The other was slightly older and bore the appearance of a prosperous business man. Save for them the offices were deserted, but nevertheless they talked in undertones.

"The plan has been tested in all its questionable points and found absolutely safe," said the younger man, the owner of the offices and at all times the leader in the dialogue. "The only weak point remaining is the limited market we now have in the sale of these lands. This market must be extended, and the east is the place the extension must be made. It is my intention to establish English and European agencies and to place safe agents in some of the eastern centers of population. The opportunity is the greatest that will ever come to you."

There was no dissent from this statement on the part of the other. His manner suggested an evident desire to learn more of the plan under discussion. The point in the negotiations between the two where there might be any danger in freedom of speech had already been passed. There was no exhibition on either side of troublesome qualms over the moral phase of the business in hand, and the conversation turned on nothing but the prospects of carrying out the scheme with safety and profit.

"You must bear in mind," said the master spirit of the conference, "that this is nothing new. A smart chap conceived the possibilities of the plan when he was with Gen. Price's raiding army in southwest Missouri during the war. This chap was one that happened to be turned loose in the land office at Ironton and grabbed 300 patents, each to 320 acres of land. He would probably have taken more, but that was all he could carry. He planted them at the time and resurrected them after the war—in 1868. While he had a general idea of their value he had little ingenuity in realizing on them.

"Finally he met a friend with a quicker brain, and this friend suggested securing the services of a notary to take the acknowledgements necessary to securing land under the patents. They came to St. Louis and found the man they wanted—a notary who liked his liquor a bit too well to ask too many questions. The deeds based on the patents were made and a good business was done in the sale of the lands until the stock of patents ran out. This pair discontinued operations, but they opened a great field. I saw that thousands of these patents were available—never mind how—and am ready to carry on business on a big scale."

"But how can a deed be made in 1872 or later so that it will look like it was made a dozen years before, when the patents were issued?" cautiously asked the other.

"Take my word for it, the deeds issued from these patents are as good as wheat for commercial purposes. I have a process that gives them a semblance of age that no one has ever questioned. In short, it's a market we want—nothing else."

"Might not the signatures to these deeds be construed as forgeries?"

"Possibly, although no one has questioned them so far. But in order to prevent any complication from that source we can provide for the signing of the documents in another state. They can't force witnesses across the state line."

Numerous other objections, designed to test the security of the scheme rather than to discourage the execution of it, were offered by the visitor. Each was met with a comprehensive and plausible answer, indicating that in all its details the plot had been subjected to the scrutiny of a bright mind trained to the consideration of legal technicalities. Before the men left the office they had entered into a hard and fast agreement to carry out the plan proposed by the Missourian.

Robert L. Lindsay, the president of the Real Estate Loan and Trust company, of St. Louis, and the leader of the conversation in his private office on the night in question, was a man of increasing prominence in his state. He was the son of James Lindsay, who had located in St. Louis in 1834.

Lindsay Sr. became the editor of the first "free soil" paper published in Missouri, and was later sent to the legislature as a "Benton democrat." During the early days of the war, while Ulysses S. Grant was recruiting the regiment at the head of which he made his first leaps toward military greatness, he went to Iron county, Mo., in the southeast part of the state, and became acquainted with James Lindsay, making the latter's log house his headquarters in the county.

Because I am held to the dead level of history in these narratives and not permitted to indulge in the temptations to flights of romance that constantly present themselves, I am here forced to call attention to a trait in the character of Grant that was in a great measure responsible for the Missouri land thefts.

In his sojournings at the Lindsay home Grant conceived a strong personal liking for his host, and after he was elected president he appointed his friend Lindsay pension agent at St. Louis. To this trust Lindsay proved recreant and was soon found $22,000 short in his accounts. This brought about his removal from that office, but it did not deter Grant from appointing him registrar of the Ironton land office in 1877, just before his second term expired, thereby indicating the bulldog constancy with which the great military genius clung to his old friendships whether the objects of them were worthy or not.

Robert L. Lindsay, the son, inherited many of the traits of his father, the keenness of mind, geniality of manner and, unfortunately, the shifty standard of morals. The younger Lindsay was educated in the law and had he centered his energies on the practice of that profession along honorable lines he would have attained a place of prominence among lawyers. Instead he turned from the law to real estate, and early in his career began the development of the most gigantic steal of the century. It is around this swindle, with Robert L. Lindsay as the pivotal character, that this bit of history turns.

This steal has passed into criminal history under the title of the Missouri Land League. The 22 men who were convicted for this crime were the pioneers in the science of government land stealing on a wholesale basis.

In my dealings with criminals I have always been disposed to throw a heavier mantle of charity around the evil-doer who, by birth, environment and lack of opportunity for better things, has followed criminal paths, than around the well-bred, luxuriously nurtured thief whose wrong-doing is contrary to, and not because of, early training or necessity. Such crimes as these gigantic land grabs, therefore, appeal to me as being of a peculiarly vicious kind, and the prosecution of the culprits I believe to call for efforts of extraordinary earnestness on the part of the government. Land grabbing, as exemplified in the Missouri case, was a composite crime, of which forgery, perjury, larceny, arson and murder were the components. Incalculable wrong was done to the owners of millions of acres of land, to say nothing of the moral wrong of the crime itself, by the unsettling of titles to the farms of southeast Missouri.

Naturally one of the richest spots in the country—the valleys fertile and the mountains of solid mineral of inestimable value—the work of the land grafters of the '70s was a blight on the land for a generation.

If there ever was a spot in nature unfitted for a theater of crime, it is the Arcadia valley in southeast Missouri. Its soil is rich, its streams clear as crystal, its air hazy blue, and its people peaceful. Yet here was the scene of a score of crimes of violence growing out of the one big plot to steal land from the government and sell it by irregular titles to people who could ill afford to lose their savings.

To this day in Arcadia valley there is pointed out to the traveler a tree from whose gaunt limbs 17 men have been hanged between the civil war and the time I entered the valley in the hunt for land grafters. These tragedies were all the grewsome fruit of the one big crime. The victims were men whose crime was knowing too much about the operations of the land thieves—knowing too much sometimes by accident and sometimes through their own misguided efforts. In the land of "moonshine" stills knowing too much has been a capital offense punishable by deatth at the hands of self-constituted judges and executioners. So it was in Arcadia valley and throughout southwestern Missouri following the civil war, the tabooed subject being land frauds instead of the making of white corn whisky.

From this readers must not infer that Robert L. Lindsay and the other principal thieves were in a conspiracy to commit murder; but they were in a conspiracy that led to murder as an incident. Young Lindsay was supreme in the district and his word was law, even when it meant the commission of crimes of violence to protect the land conspirators in their nefarious plans.

A large number of supernumeraries were necessary, men who little by little were dragged into the crime vortex for meager pay, and, once involved, were driven to desperate crimes to protect themselves. Innumerable county officials and other men—prominent within the county lines, but the merest cogs in the big machine of fraud—were drawn into the common cause of land stealing. Such men composed strong secret, oath-bound rings in the counties of Shannon, Dent, Butler, Wayne, Reynolds, Iron, Carter, Oregon, Madison, Stoddard and Ripley.

Do not understand me to say that all officials in these counties were corrupt, for some were honest men who dared not move against the thieves. There were enough of the dishonest ones, however, to control largely in public affairs of the district, and to succeed in fostering a general belief that no man's life was safe who became informer.

Thus matters stood in the fall of 1875; Carl Schurz was secretary of the interior and James J. Brooks was chief of the secret service. Elmer Washburn having been deposed by President Grant because he had been so vigorous toward some of Grant's friends in the whisky ring scandals. I had been chasing the ever-active but elusive counterfeiter through the central west when my chief called my attention to a communication from a resident of Missouri to the department of the interior. This letter pointed out the fact that wholesale frauds were being perpetrated in Missouri in land matters, and roughly indicated the method by which the stealing was being done. Secretary Schurz had turned the communication over to Chief Brooks, and it soon reached me.

The preliminary investigations were made by me in my capacity of secret service operative, and in making them it became necessary to incur what at that time was an unusually heavy item of expense in having abstracts of title made. At that time the total government appropriation for the secret division was only $60,000 a year, an amount but $10,000 greater than was recently allowed for the search for the plate from which a $100 counterfeit bill was being made. For this reason arrangements were made ostensibly severing my connection with the secret and making me a special agent of the interior department for the purpose of the land fraud investigation.

It will be necessary for me, at the hazard of lapsing into technicalities, to set forth briefly the law governing the acquisition of the class of lands dealt in by the thieves. This particular law went into effect in August, 1854, and was generally known as the "graduation act." In Missouri it came to be known as the "bit acre" act, this title springing from the fact that the price to be paid per acre under the act was 12½ cents, or a "bit," in Missouri parlance. The act provided that any citizen of the United States over 21 could make application for 320 acres of land in the prescribed district, and must actually settle on the land applied for within six months of application. In one year from the end of this six months' period the settler was required to appear at the land office of the district and make affidavit that he had settled on the land and had improved and cultivated it according to description filed with the registrar at the same time. To the fact of settlement and improvement there had to be two witnesses, neighbors, who were required to swear to the facts as set forth by the applicant.

When the original application was made it was customary to forward it to Washington, where a patent was made out and sent back to the land office of the district, where it was held until the applicant appeared with proofs of settlement and improvement.

The graduation act was the outgrowth of a peculiar physical condition. All early settlements of new territory are made along its principal waterways. In Missouri the first settlements were made along the Mississippi river in Cape Girardeau, New Madrid and Ste. Genevieve counties, the land titles in this district going back to the original Spanish grants. The United States surveys of the territory lying west of this were made in 1820-21, but the lands back from the river had not proved tempting to the pioneer. For a quarter of a century they lay in their virgin condition.

Congress at that time reflected the general desire for rapid settlement, and as an inducement the "bit acre" act was passed. As far back as the passage of this act there were men who saw the possibilities for land grafting under it. Greer W. Davis, a prominent resident of Missouri, signed thousands of applications contrary to law before the war, and his operations, with those of many others, covered vast areas—so vast, in fact, that a large part of several counties was covered. The patents corresponding to these applications were sent on from Washington to the land office then located at Jackson. In 1861 the land office was moved to Ironton, and with it thousands of patents issued on fraudulent applications.

Then came the civil war. In addition to the fraudulent applications thousands of others had been made by bona-fide settlers. Large numbers of these applicants went to the war and either were killed or settled elsewhere when peace was declared. Their patents were still pigeonholed in the Ironton land office. It is undoubtedly true that some of these patents had been stolen by Gen. Price's raiders about the time of the battle of Pilot Knob, but thousands of them remained unclaimed in the office. Such were the physical and legal conditions in which the greatest conspiracy of the generation had its roots.

In the early part of 1880 I registered at the primitive tavern at Ironton as James Hall, of Chicago. Inquiry before my arrival had convinced me that there was one man in the district whom I could trust implicitly, and he was Bernard Zwart, United States commissioner for the district, and as "square-toed" a government official as it ever has been my good fortune to meet. To him I revealed my true identity; to others I was the representative of a Chicago land syndicate.

"You have a prodigious task before you," was Zwart's introductory remark. "Not only that, but you are dealing with a clique of men who are deep in the mire of fraud and who will not submit tamely to being hauled into the daylight by the government."

I realized this fully. I asked Zwart for such information as he could give.

"I first became convinced that wholesale fraud was being committed," he replied "when several years ago Robert Lindsay offered to sell me all the patents to 320 acres each I wanted at ten dollars apiece. I bought none of them, but have kept half an eye on matters since. Recently Mrs Salsbury, of Ironton, told me that she had been hired by Robert Lindsay in the writing of deeds in his office in that city. As nearly as I can learn, Lindsay has six or seven clerks employed in making out deeds in his Ironton office and I am convinced that these deeds are not straight."

A survey of the situation showed me that when Grant in 1869 appointed James Lindsay pension agent at St. Louis he made Carroll R. Peck chief clerk. The relationship between Lindsay and Peck was unusual in that Lindsay's second wife was Peck's sister, and Peck's wife was Lindsay's daughter, Peck, therefore, being James Lindsay's brother-in-law and son-in-law, and Robert Lindsay's brother-in-law.

Tracing the careers of these men, I found that in 1877 President Grant not only made his friend James Lindsay registrar of the Ironton land office, but made Carroll R. Peck receiver at the same office. This arrangement lasted two years.

At the time I went to Ironton I found Carroll R. Peck installed as postmaster and his brother-in-law, another son of James Lindsay, a mail clerk on the Iron Mountain railroad. This was a combination, I feared, that would render it impossible for me to send reports out of Ironton in the usual way, and I immediately arranged to forward reports from another point. Subsequently it developed that Ironton letters were frequently tampered with and lost.

Robert L. Lindsay maintained three offices—one in Olive street, St. Louis, another in Market street, in the same city, and one at Ironton. At the latter office he had in his employ seven or eight persons, most of whom, I learned from cautious inquiry, were employed steadily in making out deeds to lands in the district. I could find no evidence to show that these employes had anything like a complete conception of the character of the work in which they were engaged. The four that did most of this work were George Lopez, De Burns Casteel, Harvey Miller and Mrs. Salsbury. The latter was a widow, and had evidently gleaned enough to convince her that all was not right, although she did not know just what the wrong consisted in nor the extent of the fraud to which she had been an innocent party. Casteel and Miller were afterward of considerable service to the government.

It will be recalled that the grist of deeds being ground out at the Lindsay mill in Ironton were based on patents issued by the government many years before, and never claimed. I could not understand, therefore, how such a game could successfully be played with deeds that showed their recent manufacture on their face. A casual examination of instruments obtained by me showed them to bear the appearance of proper age. More careful examination, however, showed them to lack some of the unmistakable characteristics impressed on such papers by age.

It became apparent, both from examination and investigation, that the Lindsay deeds had been treated with coffee. This treatment, many years ago, was one of the improved methods used by counterfeiters and forgers when they wished to impart to spurious documents the yellowness and other indications of age. It consisted merely in subjecting the paper to be aged to a bath in coffee water of the proper strength. In the hands of an experienced person the effect desired could be obtained so accurately that more than a superficial examination was required to reveal the fraud. These deeds came to be generally known as "smoked" deeds.

As I have said, land stealing from the government is a composite crime. The thieves, I found, had left no means neglected, not only to confuse the records, but to destroy those through which their crimes might be traced. In this method they had adopted wholesale methods—the burning of county courthouses in which the records were kept. Lindsay had preserved abstracts of title to such lands as he was dealing in. It was to his interest to have the official records destroyed. This became true, and Lindsay having brought the majority of the county officials under his corrupt influence, the work of destruction was accomplished.

At Eminence, the capital of Shannon county, the courthouse had been burned three times. The leaguers had stolen practically all of Shannon county. The destruction of the courthouse occurred each time under exactly similar circumstances, the fires starting at night between 11 p. m. and three a. m., a time during which the building and the grounds around it were deserted. The origin of the fire in each case was mysterious, and no one ever was punished, owing to the great influence of the leaguers in preing an investigation.

In each of the other counties in which the ring had operated the courthouses had been destroyed in the same manner and at the same hour of the night as the Shannon county building. In some cases they had been burned twice. Courthouse burning came to be such a common occurrence it excited little comment, but throughout the section there was a very distinct but well suppressed notion that the fires were of incendiary origin, and that the fire-bugs were working in the interests of the land league. When the government investigation started these crimes were too old to be available in punishing the criminals, even had it been possible to establish their identity, but they served to show the length to which the land leaguers would go. This wholesale destruction of records rendered it practically impossible to trace titles accurately in these counties.

About this time I learned of a scheme, fathered by Robert Lindsay, to build a narrow-gauge railroad from Salem, Dent county, through Shannon, Carter and Ripley counties, to intersect the Iron Mountain road at the Arkansas line. Elaborately engraved stock certificates were issued, and some of them sold. The road, as projected on paper, was to traverse a section in which the land was practically all controlled by the Lindsay ring. In connecting this railroad promotion plan with the land thefts I reasoned two ways: First, with so much of the land along the line of survey in his control and available through crooked methods, Lindsay calculated on developing the district by building the railroad; and, second, to advertise the construction of the road in the near future would greatly enhance the market price of the lands he was unloading on the "suckers."

This price had ranged from 50 cents to five dollars an acre. It was clear that the lands along the proposed road would immediately jump to a much higher figure if the gullible public could be convinced such a road was to be built, and I formed the opinion that the "Missouri & Arkansas" railroad would never go beyond the paper stage of construction. To the stock certificates of the company, however, were signed two names, those of Robert L. Lindsay, president, and Orlando Van Hise, secretary.

While there remained much detail work to be done, I believed we had a pretty good line on the activities of Lindsay. In addition to the points I have mentioned, I had learned from a Col. Grayson, a banker, that James Lindsay had a large number of old land patents concealed in the safe of an Ironton lawyer. There was no doubt of the elder Lindsay's having connived at the removal from the land office of thousands of patents by his son while Lindsay, Sr., was registrar, and it is still a question in my mind whether the father had not been the actual originator of the steal and turned the execution of it over to his son. But even had this been true, the statute of limitations had run against his offense, and there was no use in wasting time securing evidence against the father, except such as might be of benefit in convicting the son.

But, clear as these conditions were, there remained two important facts confronting us. One of these was that while Robert Lindsay was the head and front of the great conspiracy, there were conspirators almost as important. The other was that sound legal cases against all of them were yet to be made. I had abstracts of title made to 24 parcels of land, and by following these and others through the records of the Washington land office had clearly established the forgeries of signatures to applications and deeds. This record searching was tedious and surrounded with many technicalities—so many in fact that at one stage of the investigation I suggested that another man more familiar with them be assigned to the work, but Secretary Schurz declined to relieve me.

From the appearance of the name of Orlando Van Hise as secretary of the "Missouri & Arkansas" railroad it was naturally to be inferred that this person either stood nigh in the confidence and operations of Lindsay, or was a dummy who was allowing himself to be used. The former was found to be the correct theory, and here I wish to introduce in his real identity the visitor who had gone over Lindsay's scheme with him in the St. Louis office in 1872, Orlando Van Hise, a Cleveland real estate dealer of good standing. After having had the beauties of the plot expounded to him by Lindsay, Van Hise had become one of the chief eastern agents for the Lindsay syndicate, and the member of the ring second in importance only to the Missourian. I found Van Hise had made frequent trips to southwestern Missouri and thoroughly familiarized himself with the "lay of the land." The base of his operations was Cleveland, where there were associated with him George Linn; John K. Corwin, a notary public, and John F. Gardiner, a banker.

During the investigation there had fallen into my hands the letterheads and advertising matter of the ring. The Real Estate Loan and Trust company, of St. Louis, was operated from the Olive street offices of Lindsay; while the International Land Agency was directed from Lindsay's private office in Market street. The letterhead of the latter concern named George W. Nelson as the eastern agent at Pittsburg and Baltimore; Robert L. Lindsay, the western agent; W. A. Brown, the selling representative in London, and John Gensler, the agent at Kissingen, Germany.

After some work had been done at Ironton and St. Louis I went east. In Pittsburg I found the four principal members of the ring to be Addison F. Burns, his father, William Burns; George W. Nelson, and H. R. McClellan, a notary. A large and profitable business in the sale of these lands had been carried on there for years. Nelson had been a particularly active sales agent. He was partially paralyzed, and went among his friends representing himself as "land poor," the owner of vast, unproductive tracts, part of which he had to dispose of in order to support himself in his failing physical condition. There was an element of sympathy in some of Nelson's sales, but he was cheerfully disregardful of the sympathetic feelings for him in unloading worthless titles to thousands of acres on his friends.

Addison Burns lived in Pennsylvania avenue Pittsburg, and in addition to handling Missouri lands, was a dealer in oil properties. He and his father made frequent trips of inspection to Missouri. They were both church members in good standing. Like Van Hise, they had learned the profession of land grafting to a nicety, but, unlike Van Hise, they had done some business in the line of actually making fraudulent deeds on their own hook. McClellan was a notary doing the same kind of work in Pittsburg as Corwin did in Cleveland.

The activity of Addison and William Burns in using their own chirography in the manufacturing of deeds rendered it comparatively easy to establish a case against them, it being necessary only to prove the forgery. Some of this work was done so cleverly that at the trial of these men persons whose signatures had been forged claimed the forgeries as their own writing. The case against the Pittsburg contingent was established principally by comparisons in the government land office. These members of the ring we therefore made a secondary issue of, pending the execution of a plan to catch Lindsay and Van Hise in such a way they could find no loophole for escape.

Schermerhorn got the news unofficially over the wire on a message he was transmitting. He told his wife, and to this day cites it as the only instance he knows of a woman keeping a secret. When asked how long she kept this news as a secret by the reporter yesterday, Mrs. Schermerhorn said: "Till the newspapers came out with the report—almost twenty-four hours."

Mr. and Mrs. Schermerhorn have no children living. Ida, their little daughter died when three months old and Charles Hill Schermerhorn, Jr., their son, who was brought to this city when six months of age, died at the age of twenty-four in 1894. He was well-know in this city, and worked as base level surveyor in the employ of the government in the south, surveying the Red river, the Yazoo river and the Mississippi as far as Alexandria. Surviving relatives are few. Mrs. Schermerhorn has a niece, the wife of Frank S. Neal, of West Front street, and a nephew, Harry W. Winfield, of Jersey City. Another niece is Mrs. Alfred Harvey, of Lansingburg, N. Y.

Residents of this city for thirty-eight years last June, the couple are active in a quiet way in various church and relief works. Mr. Schermerhorn is a master mason in the F. and A. M. lodge. He joined as a member of the Burlington lodge, and has never affiliated himself with the local lodges. He has been a member of the Old Timers' Telegraph Association, of which Andrew Carnegie is a member, since 1873. He is no believer in strikes, and has always been a faithful worker for the company. On this point of strikes, Mrs. Schermerhorn is not of the same opinion. She is a woman of exceedingly strong purpose, and of an independent nature. Her motto of life is Abraham Lincoln's motto: "Hew to the line, let the chips fall where they will." In her life philosophy, she claims that the first impulse, provided the object be a worthy one, is the right impulse, and with her principle comes first, policy second.

Though in their seventy-third year both Mr. and Mrs. Schermerhorn are healthy and active. Last Sunday they took a long walk together on the Watchung Mountains, going over Johnston's Drive to St. Mary's Convent, in course of construction on the mountain opposite Scotch Plains. Though they will not receive extensively on their anniversary day, they will be at home to their friends afternoons of this week.

Formal Opening Tuesday Night.

A formal "house warming" for the new Waldorf Annex to Henry Windham's East Front street cafe, will be held Tuesday evening in the new dining room. The new part will at that time be thrown open for inspection and there will be special music by the dinner orchestra. The new addition will be open for business, beginning Wednesday morning.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming, of Park avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Fleming, to Frederick Lindsey Curtis, of New York.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The First Presbyterian church will be closed tomorrow on account of repairs.

Rev. Dr. Griesemer, of Baltimore, Md., will occupy the First Baptist pulpit tomorrow morning and evening.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, has completed his vacation and will occupy his pulpit tomorrow morning.

Rev. E. P. Johnson, D. D., of New Brunswick, will preach in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow morning. There will be no evening service.

The Sunday afternoon meetings of the W. C. T. U. will be resumed tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the rooms of the union at 100 Madison avenue. Mrs. Tomlinson will be the leader.

The evening service will be resumed tomorrow at the Crescent Avenue church. Rev. Henry A. Stimson, of the Manhattan Congregational church, of New York city, preaching at both services.

Rev. Dr. Alexander, pastor of the Siloam Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, will occupy the pulpit of Mt. Olive Baptist church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. He is a brother of Pastor Alexander, of the church.

Rev. John Wright, of the Anti-Saloon League, will speak at the Congregational church tomorrow morning. Sunday-school will be held at 12 o'clock and there will be no Christian Endeavor service in the evening. The regular prayer meeting will be held Friday night in place of Wednesday and will be preparatory service. Communion will be celebrated next Sunday.

Dr. C. W. Parsons, of Park place, returned yesterday from his vacation at Fairfield, N. Y., and will occupy his pulpit at Grace M. E. church tomorrow. While away, Dr. Parsons preached the first Sunday morning in August at the First Methodist church at Rochester, N. Y. while Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of this city, was occupying the pulpit in the First Baptist church directly across the street.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, of New street, have been entertaining friends from Newark.

Hugh G. Baldwin, of West Seventh street, will spend the coming month in the Berkshires.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Williams and family, of West Front street, returned home today fro Ocean Grove.

Mrs. S. Mantz, who has been spending some time at Watchung, has returned to her home on Craig place.

Mr. and Mrs. "Bobby" Leach, of the Hotel, Iroquois, have returned from a trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and nearby places.

—P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will sell the household furniture at 735 Carlton avenue, on Tuesday afternoon, at 1:30 sharp.

Mrs. Jane Williams, of near Denver, Colo., is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Mary C. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue. Mrs. Williams is a native of Dover, but has not been East before in thirty-one years.

Fire Chief Killed.

Patrick Fitzpatrick, chief of the fire department of West Chester, Pa., died yesterday in Cooper Hospital, Camden, from injuries he received some time Thursday night. The Chief had been to Mount Holly visiting friends and started Thursday night to return to his home in Pennsylvania. He was found yesterday morning lying by the side of the trolley tracks at West Moorestown, with both legs cut off. He was hurried to the hospital. Fitzpatrick formerly lived in Mount Holly. It is supposed he was walking to the railroad station, along the trolley track, when he was struck by a car.

Physical Director Back.

Physical Director George L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., who was operated upon for appendicitis two months ago and went on a trip to recuperate, is expected home today. He has fully recovered, and will start the physical department on its new season with increased vigor next week.

He Had Two Bundles.

Robert Crawford, carrying two bundles, one inside and the other out, was arrested last night for drunkenness. He told Judge Runyon this morning that his home was in Mt. Carmel, Pa., and he would travel for it as fast as he could if he get the chance. Judge Runyon gave it to him.

Took Railroad Lumber.

Nicolai Gratzia, arrested for attempting to steal wood from along the Central Railroad tracks, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. He was released with a warning.

"Major Domo" at Allentown Fair.

Wm. Schorb, Plainfield's pioneer showman, has formed a partnership with Jack Benner and secured a concession at the Allentown Fair for the exhibition of their midget horse, "Major Domo." The animal is five years old but is only twenty-six inches high and can be carried about by a chaild. Benner will do the explaining inside a tent to the curious Pennsylvanians while Schorb is giving the ballyhoo outside. They secured the horse from Tom Cooper, the well-known gypsy.

Woodruff a Former Local Man.

Henry Woodruff, who is the star of "Brown of Harvard," appearing at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and evening, was a resident of this city at one time. His father was one of the early proprietors of the Netherwood Hotel, now Truell Hall, and the family had a wide local acquaintance.
